P.B. reservoir almost ready for reclaimed water

■ Crews turn lake into giant plastic-lined tub

By KELLY NIX

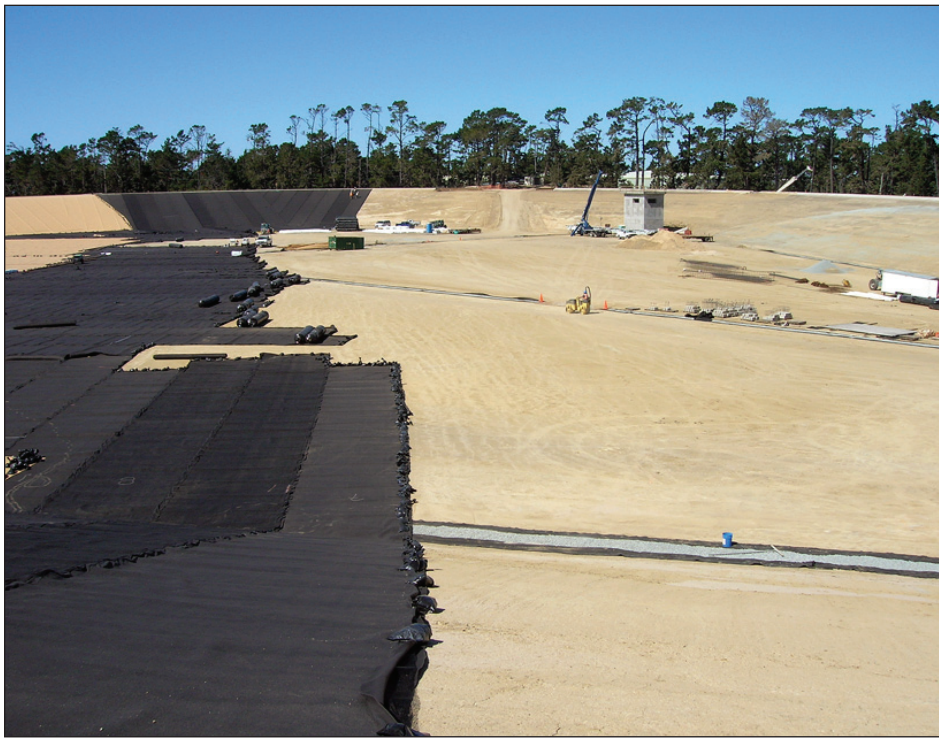

IMAGINE A 980,000-square-foot bathtub that can hold 100 million gallons of water.

That's what the 100-year-old Forest Lake Reservoir is being turned into by crews from the Pebble Beach Community Services District.

Once the principal reservoir for Cal Am Water, Forest Lake has sat dry and unused for the last 15 years.

After it is finished being upgraded in December, the reservoir will store reclaimed water from the Carmel sewage treatment plant for use on golf courses, athletic fields and other open spaces in Del Monte Forest.

"On some summer days, the golf courses require up to 3 million gallons of water," said Mike Niccum, district engineer with the Pebble Beach Community Services District.

The Forest Lake Reservoir is about one-third lined with black plastic. When the job is finished, it will be ready to store reclaimed water for use on local golf courses and athletic fields.

Council bans smoking on beach, walkway

By MARY BROWNFIELD

LIGHTING UP a smoke on Carmel Beach or puffing on a stogie while strolling the Scenic Road pathway should join the city's long list of banned behaviors, the council decided Tuesday.

"It's time to send a message: 'Keep your butts off our beach,'" councilman Gerard Rose said shortly before the vote.

"Cigarette," Mayor Sue McCloud clarified.

But the proposed ordinance was not popular with councilman Erik Bethel, who saw it as further erosion of personal freedom.

"I don't want to live in a totalitarian city where we ban so much it's no longer fun to live here," he said. "If we think cigarette butts are a problem on the beach, let's fine people."

Throwing trash on the ground is already punishable by a $25 fine, but "cigarette butts are the most common form of litter on

CFD TO BE MANAGED BY P.G.'S CHIEF

By MARY BROWNFIELD

WITH ONE dissenter wanting to spend more money and the other hoping to spend less, a split Carmel City Council voted to pay the Pacific Grove Fire Department $90,000 to help oversee day-to-day operations and administration at the Carmel firehouse.

Without a fire chief or an assistant fire chief, Carmel Fire has been overseen by police chief George Rawson.

Last November, P.G. Fire Chief Andrew Miller was hired for $20,000 to advise Rawson. But CFD needs more help, including making sure that professional standards are followed, that training schedules are maintained, and that employee attitudes are monitored "to determine what, when and how solutions can be implemented to solve conflicts before they escalate to major problems," according to a report Rawson submitted to the council.

The $90,000 P.G. contract leaves Rawson in charge of the police and fire departments but brings Miller, assistant chief David Brown, P.G. Ocean Rescue and other staff into the mix.

"You're basically getting an administrative function, training and daily operations, but your front-line Carmel firefighters remain the same," Miller said. "We're able to provide the systems behind Carmel Fire Department that they need to be efficient and safe."

Agencies agree on new plan to breach sandbar — but won't say what it is

By CHRIS COUNTS

BEHIND CLOSED doors, representatives of nine government agencies met Oct. 4 to determine a strategy for this winter's annual breaching of the Carmel River Lagoon sandbar, and a top U.S. wildlife official says the mistakes of last year won't be repeated.

In December 2004, county bulldozers, at the direction of the National Marines Fisheries Service, sent the river in a northerly direction, nearly undermining Scenic Road.

But this week, an agreement was reached on how to protect the river's population of steelhead trout without endangering public safety, reported Pam Armas, Monterey sector superintendent for California State Parks, although the specifics won't be made public until Nov. 1.

"We were given a huge task," explained Armas. "It's almost historic that nine government agencies could come together on something which in the past has been done on an emergency basis."

Participating on the "team" were representatives of California State

Parks, Monterey County Public Works, the National Marine Fisheries Service, the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers, the California Coastal Commission, the California

County work crews have almost finished repairing Scenic Road, which has been closed by a minor slide since early August. Federal officials say they've come up with a plan to protect the road from being undermined this winter by the Carmel River.

Library celebrates a century of feeding knowledge-hungry patrons

By MARY BROWNFIELD

‘WE’RE ENCOURAGING everyone, in honor of the library’s birthday, to stop and check out the latest books,’ Carol Nordahl, executive director of the Carmel Public Library Foundation, said on the eve of Harrison Memorial Library’s birthday Oct. 5. “Honor the efforts of those who started the library 100 years ago today by showing it’s still a vital and useful place.”

Located at Ocean and Lincoln in a building designed by Bernard Maybeck with funds donated by Ella Reid, wife of Ralph Chandler Harrison, the library contains more than 76,000 books and serves 13,500 cardholders living in Monterey, San Benito and Santa Cruz counties. The city council last month adopted a proclamation declaring October Harrison Memorial Library Month in honor of the institution it called “the heart of Carmel,” and Governor Arnold Schwarzenegger, U.S. Congressman Sam Farr, state Assemblyman John Laird and state Senator Abel Maldonado forwarded their congratulations to the institution from which people have borrowed books for free for a century.

On Oct. 5, 1905, Carmel-by-the-Sea founding father Frank Powers and a handful of volunteers first threw wide the doors of the donated cottage that had been moved to Ocean and Lincoln for that very purpose, according to the CPLF. Two years later, the 70-member Carmel Free Library Association hired its first paid librarian for $15 per month. The small building held 800 donated titles, and new releases from its inaugural year included Edith Wharton’s “The House of Mirth” and “The Scarlet Pimpernel” by Baroness Orczy.

“It started with a group of volunteers who wanted a library, so they donated the books, the building and the land,” Nordahl said. “And to this day, we still rely heavily on donations from private citizens.”

Hurting the children most

The City of Carmel — incorporated 11 years after the library opened — pays the staff and operating expenses, but individuals and two organizations, CPLF and the Friends of Harrison Memorial Library, raise money to provide the books, reference materials, videos and DVDs, magazines and almost everything else within its walls.

“And the board of trustees has been around for a long time, making sure the library is the best that it can be,” Nordahl said.

Board president and author Bob Irvine said he became involved and continues to serve because “a librarian changed my life.”

“I was in the third grade, and all the kids were taken to the library,” said Irvine, who was reappointed to the board by the mayor and city council last month. “She gave me a book, and I read it.”

It was Jack London’s “White Fang” — also released in 1905 and popular with Carmel library patrons ever since. Irvine went on to become a newspaper reporter and then an author, having his first book published in 1974.

Stormy economies occasionally battered the library over the years but did not end its mission of providing free service. But last year, the children’s branch began closing a few more days each week following citywide layoffs that included several part-time library workers. The main branch is closed Sundays.

“Those hurt the most by the reduced hours are the children, because we had to reduce by half the number of story-time programs,” Nordahl said. “Those programs have been the key in introducing early readers to the library to teach them the love of reading.”

They hope the city will again have the money to add hours and programs back to the children’s library and are confident the intentions of Powers and the small Carmel Free Library Association will continue to be met.

“It’s always going to be free,” Irvine said.

“We hope there will be another group of people here celebrating the 200th anniversary,” Nordahl said, “and that ‘White Fang’ is still on the shelf.”

Memorial gathering planned for longtime Big Sur resident

A MEMORIAL gathering for longtime Big Sur resident Helmuth Morgenrath will be held Sunday, Oct. 9, at the home of Peter and Peggy Harding located at Buck Creek and Highway 1.

A pillar in the local business community, Morgenrath died May 30 after a brief battle with cancer. A lifelong Big Sur resident, he was 54. Morgenrath left behind his wife, Marty; three daughters, Caitlin, Kendra and Skye; a son-in-law, Gregory Garman; a grandson, Klein Garman; his mother, Helen; two sisters, Celia Sanborn and Tara Evans; and a brother, Jali.

The event will be a potluck. Due to parking limitations, guests are encouraged to car-pool. Buck Creek is located about 38 miles south of Carmel.

Searching for illegal drugs, cops pursue teen smokers, loiterers

By MARY BROWNFIELD

FINDING DRUG use increasingly common among teenagers in town, Carmel police are cracking down on youthful offenders for any violation that could lead to the discovery of narcotics.

Carmel P.D. sergeants decided to go that route after police busted three teen smokers Sept. 30 and discovered one of them possessed "the most coke I've ever seen," arresting officer Chris Johnson said.

Police arrived at Torres and 11th around 2:15 p.m. Friday after a resident reported a group of teenagers standing around smoking cigarettes.

"When we got down there, one kid threw his cigarette down in the dry grass — he tried to hide it as we pulled up," Johnson said. "There were cigarette butts everywhere on the ground."

The smoldering butt didn't start a grass fire, but Johnson cited the 17-year-old Carmel High School student and his 16-year-old schoolmate for being minors in possession of tobacco.

"You talk to these kids, and half of them have family members who have died from smoking," commented Johnson.

He reportedly found the cocaine when he asked a third student, whose Nissan Xterra was nearby, if the car contained anything of interest to police. The teen said, "No," but offered to let police search it, according to Johnson.

"I found a bag containing different items of paraphernalia for ingesting cocaine and a plastic baggy with approximately 2 grams of cocaine," he said. "That was the most coke I've ever seen — I couldn't believe it."

Enforce laws targeting minors

The 17 year old was arrested and taken to the station for booking on charges of possession of cocaine, drug paraphernalia and tobacco.

The teen was released to his parents and ordered to report to juvenile probation within five days.

Police searched the three other teens and found nothing, according to Johnson. Because they are all under the age of 18, he could not identify them by name but said all attend Carmel High School.

Back at the station, Johnson and other officers decided the best way to curb illegal drug use among teenagers is to better enforce laws targeting minors, including the 10 p.m. curfew, smoking, drinking alcohol or possessing any type of illegal drug.

"The sergeants agreed we need to start a more zero-tolerance program with the juveniles," he said, warning that police officers will be "arresting and citing everybody."

Police & Sheriff's Log

Dinner's cooking, but no one's home

HERE'S A look at some of the significant calls logged by the Carmel-by-the-Sea Police Department, the Carmel Fire Department and the Monterey County Sheriff's Office last week. This week's log was compiled by Mary Brownfield.

THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 22

Carmel-by-the-Sea: Casanova Street resident reported a number of items missing from his residence. He stated that he suffers from Alzheimer's but knows that the items are missing. The resident added that he was showing the items to a number of friends just last night. There were no signs of forced entry or foul play. The person also advised that he replaced all of the locks on the residence recently, and no one else has the keys to his residence. Information only.

Carmel-by-the-Sea: Traffic collision on Dolores Street on private property. Vehicle was drivable.

Carmel-by-the-Sea: Traffic collision on public property on Santa Lucia. Property damage only.

Carmel-by-the-Sea: Mission Street resident reported a suspicious person walking with a rock and yelling obscenities. Resident stated the subject was threatening to break windows where she lived. Subject was contacted and stated he did not yell or threaten anyone. Subject stated he was mad that something of his cracked. He then threw a rock at it and broke it into pieces. Subject was yelling because he was upset about his broken property. Subject was warned not to yell obscenities and/or threaten surrounding neighbors.

FRIDAY, SEPTEMBER 23

Carmel-by-the-Sea: Unknown suspect(s) keyed the victim's vehicle while it was parked at Sixth and Dolores. Damage estimated more than $400.

Carmel-by-the-Sea: Subject cited for registration fraud, and his vehicle was towed from Lincoln Street with registration expired as of Nov. 30, 2002.

Carmel-by-the-Sea: A female suspect, age 36, was arrested on Lincoln Street and booked for obstructing a public officer.

Carmel-by-the-Sea: Fire engine and ambulance responded to a message on the Carmel Fire Department voicemail to the west side of Perry Newberry. Emergency personnel detected various levels of the smell of natural gas in the area, but there did not appear to be any leaks on the block. It was then decided to check several construction sites in the area, and a leak was discovered at a job site on Carpenter Street near Sixth. The gas meter was shut off, but there was a strong concentration of gas, so PG&E was dispatched. Upon arrival of a rep, it was discovered that a metal stake that was used to secure the portable toilet had penetrated the gas line and caused a small but steady leak. A repair crew was dispatched, and at this point the utility rep stated that emergency services were no longer needed.

Carmel-by-the-Sea: At 2005 hours, a woman entered the fire station to notify on-duty personnel that a man was sitting on the sidewalk on the corner of Mission and Sixth. The woman stated he was refusing medical attention and was advised to try to convince him to walk over to the station for a basic exam. The elderly male agreed to come into the station and allowed the paramedic to examine him. He stated he had numbness in his legs but only agreed to a basic exam, with no transport to the hospital. He was advised to see a doctor ASAP and, based on his medical history, to go to the hospital. He refused. A considerable amount of time was spent explaining the risks of not seeing a doctor immediately, but the patient denied further treatment and transport by an ambulance. He reluctantly agreed to go to the hospital in a private vehicle with his family. He signed a medical release form and was left in the care of his daughter. A followup call

Break-ins at homes, jewelry store have police perplexed

By MARY BROWNFIELD

BURGLARS HIT homes and stores in Carmel-by-the-Sea during the past few weeks, making off with jewelry, paintings, vases, tools, electronics and other valuables but leaving behind few clues.

Police officers found a shattered window and an alarm sounding at Wolf's Camera at 10:45 p.m. Oct. 5, according to Sgt. Mike Calhoun, but it wasn't until the following morning that a store employee realized a tripod and video camera worth $100 were missing.

A housekeeper telephoned police Sunday after she realized something was amiss in the Santa Fe Street home of one of her clients, Carmel Police Sgt. Mel Mukai reported.

"There was no forced entry, so she didn't notice anything peculiar until she walked into the house and noticed some furnishings were out of place," Mukai said. "That's what made her focus on the interior property."

She discovered the thieves took an oil painting of a landscape, three vases, silverware and jewelry belonging to William and Jane Sieberts sometime between last Sunday and Oct. 2, according to Mukai. The losses totaled $31,750.

"When they entered the house, the suspects went through the victims' dresser drawers," he said.

The couple was traveling in Europe when the burglary occurred.

An open window

Two days earlier, someone ripped the screen from an open bathroom window and crawled into a Forest Road house, resident Douglas Miller told police. He noticed the ripped screen and black scuff marks on the bathroom wall in the early afternoon after he returned from taking his wife, Nancy Hirst, to work, according to Mukai.

"He checked the interior and discovered that someone had rifled through dresser drawers and that his wife's jewelry had been stolen," Mukai said. Miller called police around 8:45 that night to report the break-in, and officers dusted for fingerprints but found nothing useful.

A music box, a jewelry box, a yellow handbag and a pair of emerald earrings were taken, though Mukai had no estimate of their value and did not know if the handbag contained anything.

Door kicked in

An alarm sounded at Victoria Ward Fine Jewelry Design in Su Vecino Court early Sept. 28, but by the time the monitoring company notified the alarm company, which then reported the activation to Carmel police at 3:27 a.m., the person who kicked in the dead-bolted door and smashed two display cases had already disappeared with a load of earrings, rings and other pieces, according to Mukai. Whatever the burglar used to smash the cases, he didn't leave it behind.

"There were some latent prints lifted, and those will be submitted to the Department of Justice for analysis," Mukai said. "But they could belong to the victim, so we will have to do some elimination prints."

Fairy tale ends

While it involved a less substantial financial loss, the theft of $183 worth of figurines from a locked display case and the garden outside the Fairy Tales shop in the Court of the Golden Bough Sept. 24 was a painful parting shot for its owner of two-and-a-half years, Saskia Kilpatrick.

"They didn't break anything. They just unlocked the case somehow and took everything," she said. "I don't know if it was kids or what, because it was fairy stuff — kids' stuff, mostly." Pewter gargoyles, the figure of a unicorn with a fairy on its back, fantasy-inspired clocks and diminutive figurines of leprechauns bathing in mushroom caps were among the items taken.

Kilpatrick opened her shop almost three years ago with $6,000 to follow a dream inspired by her love of children and storytelling, but a sluggish economy and disappointing summer sales forced her to close.

"Nobody thought I would last three months," said Kilpatrick, who was born and raised in Pacific Grove. "I had a lot of fun and met a lot of people."

As for the thieves, she said, "I'm hoping they aren't drug addicts selling them on eBay. I hope they're some poor family that came in from out of town and said, 'Oh, the kids would love these for Christmas.'"

Tools common target

Construction sites are often popular with burglars, and on Sept. 21, they struck a home being built at Dolores and Santa Lucia, according to CPD Detective Jesse Juarez.

Though he would provide no details of the break-in, Juarez said the victim, David Kettle of Kettle Construction, "did a whole lot of stuff to try to prevent being ripped off. And the suspects went to all this trouble to get inside."

They broke into a detached garage on the building site and stole several construction tools with a total value $3,000.

Police are still hunting for leads in the rash of burglaries, and Mukai suggested residents take care when they are away to lock doors and windows and ask a trustworthy neighbor or friend to keep an eye out for suspicious activity.

"Secure your valuables, and if you have a lot of heirlooms and jewelry, it's wise to invest in a quality safe," he said. He also noted that people who have alarm systems often don't use them.

Few clues left behind by thieves who ransacked dressers and raided a construction site

SPCA goes wild at Stonepine Estate

PINE CONE STAFF REPORT

When this owl was released in Big Sur two years ago, it gave the crowd watching, and the person handling the young raptor, quite a thrill. The experience will be repeated this year at an SPCA fundraising auction Oct. 16 at Stonepine in Carmel Valley.

ORPHANED GREAT horned owls rehabilitated by the staff at the SPCA Wildlife Center will return to the wild Oct. 16, but not until supporters of the nonprofit humane society have won the chance to set the majestic birds free.

A live auction allowing people the right to bid on an owl release — and the owl releases itself — will mark the grand finale of Wild Celebration, when SPCA supporters eat, sip shop and ogle raptors in the name of a worthy cause.

Entering its 12th year, Wild Celebration will be held at Stonepine Estate, just east of Carmel Valley Village off Carmel Valley Road.

Longtime participant Karina Rusk of KGO-TV will once again MC the event, which will cost $50 per person in advance and $60 per person at the door.

All ticket proceeds, as well as cash generated during the live and silent auctions, will benefit the SPCA Wildlife Rescue and Rehabilitation Center, which is responsible for rescuing and caring for wild creatures found abandoned or injured anywhere in Monterey County.

Under the oversight of the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service and the California State Department of Fish and Game, the center's paid staff and flock of volunteers care for more than 2,000 orphaned and injured animals every year.

Wild Celebration will run 2 to 5:30 p.m. For tickets or more information, call (831) 373-2631 ext. 203 or visit www.SPCCamc.org.

Meg's Health Notes

Presented by
Meg Parker Connors, R.N.

CONVENIENT HOME CARE PRODUCTS

To help increase an ill or aging patient's independence and decrease the workload on caregivers, the home health care industry offers many products designed to maximize convenience. A caregiver apron has several pockets to hold medical devices, medications, and other supplies. Bedside bags and bed rail bags for hospital-style beds keep all necessities within a patient's reach. To cut down on laundry and cleaning, consider disposable items such as adult clothing protectors, chair protection pads, bed protection pads, and bed pads with handles. Many items for cleaning and odor elimination are available, including incontinent cleanser, deodorizing barrier creams, germicidal deodorizers, and hand sanitizers. Your home health care workers or physician's office can help you locate these products.

P.S. Products that help with mobility and positioning are also great tools for patients and caregivers.

Boat Smart class in Moss Landing

EVERYTHING ANY boater needs to know about safety will be presented in a free weekend class at the Elkhorn Yacht Club in Moss Landing harbor this weekend.

Presented by the non-profit U.S. Power Squadron of Monterey Bay, the course will serve boaters of all abilities who pilot all types of vessels and will cover "subject matter essential to understanding maritime rules of the road, seamanship, boat handling, piloting, navigation, weather, legal requirements and more," according to Bob Aurner, public affairs officer for the Monterey Bay squadron.

The two-day class is free, but the textbook costs $45.

Insurance companies often discount policies for clients who have completed the U.S. Coast Guard-approved course, according to Aurner.

The sessions will run 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. Oct. 8-9 in the dining room at the yacht club located on Highway 1 north of the Duke Energy plant. Follow the "yacht club" and "kayak" facility signs, or call (831) 236-7695 the day of the class for more detailed directions.

For more information on the course or the squadron, call (831) 624-3333.

Public safety, crime surveys sent to Pebble Beach residents

By KELLY NIX

SURVEYS WERE mailed this week to 3,500 Pebble Beach residents and property owners to field public safety concerns, from property crime to speeding.

"We wanted a survey to determine what residents think should be done," said Rick Verbanec, a director the Del Monte Forest Property Owners association and the Pebble Beach Community Services District. The PBCSD asked the homeowners association's board to conduct the survey because of an increase in the reporting of some crimes.

The 23-question survey includes questions about traffic enforcement, noise, vandalism, theft, burglary and assault. The questionnaire is to be returned by Oct. 15.

While Monterey County Sheriff's Office statistics show crime in Pebble Beach has actually declined, there has been a "perceived increase" in vandalism and traffic problems by some residents, the DMFPO said. The survey is anonymous, but residents are asked to include the name of the street where they live and relate personal experiences they have had with crime.

Verbanec said the survey was developed after a DMFPO neighborhood committee meeting in March when 50 residents voiced their concerns about public safety. (Normally, about a dozen people attend the meeting, Verbanec said.)

While the testimony of 50 people would, by itself, be enough to warrant attention, "the PBCSD board felt that a more complete and non-anecdotal assessment of the feelings of all of the district's constituents was necessary to determine the suitability of various possible courses of action," Verbanec said.

The survey, which cost less than $10,000, was developed by the Pacific Grove-based Justice Research Center, which also conducted a similar survey for the City of Pacific Grove. The center conducts research and evaluation in criminal justice areas, including community policing and crime prevention.

About 25 percent of surveys sent to Pacific Grove residents were returned, but Jan Roehl, president of the Justice Research Center, said she's hoping even more of the Pebble Beach surveys will be mailed back.

The surveys will be collected and the results analyzed by the end of October, and they should be reviewed and discussed at the DMFPO's semiannual membership meeting Nov. 13. In January, the DMFPO will make its recommendations to PBCSD, which will hold public meetings to gather feedback as to what should be done.

Currently, the California Highway Patrol is primarily responsible for traffic control and enforcement in the Forest, while the Monterey County Sheriff's Office handles crime investigation and enforcement. Verbanec said residents have expressed widely varied opinions about how to deal with crime.

"Some people think that we should have our own police department while others think we don't have a problem," Verbanec said.

Some residents think there's no crime problem, while others want their own police force

Richard Kreitman for Carmel School Board

My name is Richard Kreitman and I live in Carmel with my wife Barbara and our two sons, Nicholas in 7th grade at Carmel Middle School and Aaron in 2nd grade at Carmel River School. I need your vote for Carmel School Board on Election Day, November 8th.

- We have good schools in Carmel. We should have great schools. All of them.
- We have beautiful school campuses with wonderful enrichment programs. But while Tularcitos and Carmel River Schools are among the top-performing elementary schools in California, Carmel Middle School and Carmel High School – both good schools with some excellent programs – rank near the bottom of their peers in academic performance.
- The good news is that the School District began last year to seriously address this issue and we have seen some terrific progress in just one year. I am proud to have helped the District gain a full year's head start on academic improvement through my active involvement as a volunteer, observer, and participant.
- This is not about test scores. It's about education, learning, and how well our children are prepared for college and the increasingly competitive world beyond.
- Improving our schools is going to take hard work, but with our resources, talented children and strong leadership we can make this the best school district in California.

When elected to the Carmel Unified School District Board, I promise I will provide strong leadership and be our children's greatest advocate for academic excellence.

Thank you

Cypress Inn will be first to offer live music

■ Venue hosts jazz pianist, strings players under new law

By MARY BROWNFIELD

A TUNER carefully adjusted Karen LeVett's baby grand Steinway at the Cypress Inn Wednesday in anticipation of a jazz pianist's arrival Thursday evening to tickle the ivories while hotel guests and others sip cocktails in the bar and lounge. Inn owner Dennis LeVett was the first to apply for a permit to offer live music under the new city ordinance that took effect Oct. 6.

"We really wanted to be the first ones to usher in the music, because we've always wanted it and think we have such a perfect venue for it," said bar and restaurant manager Bobby Richards. "And, of course, we don't want to be loud since we have an entire inn of guests we want to keep happy."

LeVett filed his application and paid the $740 fee Sept. 21, two weeks after the city council approved the new law.

Tasked with the legwork, Richards said he had to canvas nearby buildings.

"There are so many little nooks and crannies, and you don't know if somebody's living there, or if it's an office or what, so that took some time," he said. The ordinance requires the identification of "noise-sensitive uses," such as homes and libraries.

Richards explained how the inn would address a noise complaint, showed the layout of the hotel and where the musicians would play, and indicated their hours. Dick Whittington's Thursday evening piano performance is providing the data for the required acoustical study, and

Highway 1 wreck kills Carmel woman

A 52-YEAR-OLD Carmel woman died in a car accident Saturday evening when the 1997 Ford Explorer she was driving collided with Soquel resident Joseph Navarez' Audi on Highway 1 near Moss Landing.

"She was driving southbound on State Route 1 approaching Potrero Road and veered off the right side of the road for some reason," said California Highway Patrol Officer Richard Richards. "She immediately overcorrected to the left to try to get back into the lane and lost control" — a cause and effect Richards described as "typical." In this case, Marilyn Murphy's sudden pull on the steering wheel caused her black SUV to roll onto its right side and slide into oncoming traffic.

The silver 2000 Audi driven by Navarez, 36, crashed into the roof of the Ford.

The impact killed Murphy, who was pronounced dead at the scene, and wounded Navarez. Though details of his moderate injuries were not available, Richards said the victim was airlifted to San Jose Medical Center for treatment.

Alcohol was not suspected to be a factor.

Carmel Foundation housing grant

THE ONLY major provider of low-income senior housing in Carmel-by-the-Sea received a $20,000 grant from the Community Foundation of Monterey County, Linda Lee of the Carmel Foundation announced this week.

Money from the Margaret L. Musser Field of Interest Fund will help the foundation provide housing for some of its 4,000 members. Currently, 46 seniors occupy foundation housing throughout the city, and the nonprofit uses income limits developed by the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development to determine eligibility. Seniors interested in foundation housing must have been members for at least a year.

Founded 55 years ago and dependent upon donations to operate, the Carmel Foundation provides classes, support, social opportunities, meals and other resources.

City's b-day party, Halloween parade

THE CITY of Carmel will mark its 89th birthday Saturday, Oct. 29, with its traditional party and Halloween parade. The irresistible procession of cute costumed kids and equally outfitted canines, as well as city dignitaries and elected officials riding in vintage automobiles, is set to begin at San Carlos and Ninth near Sunset Center at 11 a.m. and will meander through the commercial district via Ocean Avenue. Staging begins at 10:45 a.m. at the parade's starting point, and free ice cream will be given to participants at its conclusion.

After the parade, the party returns to the courtyard at Sunset Center at noon for a barbecue and entertainment. Tickets to the party are available at Nielsen Bros. Market at San Carlos and Seventh and city hall, located on Monte Verde between Ocean and Seventh avenues. Adult tickets are $12 in advance or $15 the day of the event, with a children's hot-dog lunch available for $3. For more information, call (831) 620-2000, e-mail cmiller@ci.carmel.ca.us or visit www.carmelcalifornia.com/calendar.

First aid classes for people and pets

COMMUNITY FIRST aid and safety — the most comprehensive class offered by the American Red Cross — will run Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday evenings, October 11, 12 and 13, at the chapter house at Dolores and Eighth. The course will cover CPR for adults, infants and children, as well as teach participants how to identify and care for life-threatening bleeding, sudden illness and injuries.

Successful completion of the course requirements will net students certificates for adult CPR (valid one year) infant/child CPR (valid one year) and first aid (valid three years).

With so many furry friends in people's care, the popular pet first aid class is scheduled for Oct. 15 from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. Students will learn to provide immediate and temporary first aid for wounds, burns, fractures, shock and sudden illness. Participants will be asked to bring a picture of their pets and will leave with a reference book for everything they've learned.

Preregistration is required for all classes and is available by calling (831) 624-6921.

'World-class' hotel, homes, garden win Heritage Society awards

■ New walking tour unveiled

By MARY BROWNFIELD

A HOTEL, a restored historic home and a pair of well-known Scenic Road cottages received this year's Spirit of Carmel Awards and will be honored at a celebration hosted by the Carmel Heritage Society Oct. 13. Honorable mentions included two other homes and a garden.

Conceived by Carmel Heritage board member Alice Englander five years ago, the Spirit awards aim to "recognize outstanding examples of recently completed restorations, renovations, new construction or other projects that enhance the ambiance of Carmel-by-the-Sea and honor its traditions" — be they residential or commercial, buildings or gardens, gates, walls or public artwork.

A four-person committee chaired by Englander voted on the roughly two dozen nominations received this summer.

"It's fairly subjective," she said. "We like to keep it open to all kinds of projects. Each of us has different personal views."

She favors buildings in scale with diminutive Carmel — projects that gently beckon to passersby rather than scream for attention — and those that set themselves apart from their neighbors.

"A lot of the newer projects are were very similar to each other, as if they were going for something safe," she said.

Gardens often capture the committee's attention.

"Some people can take a very small space and make very wonderful things happen," she said. "And that adds to the feeling you have when you're walking down the street."

She praised one of this year's winners, L'Auberge Carmel, for achieving a beautiful interior remodel of the former Sundial Inn while maintaining the best attributes of the old building's exterior.

"What they've done is preserve something wonderful," she said. "And they made it a world-class place."

Doug and Gillian Clendon's renovation of Love in a Mist, their home at Casanova and 10th, won the committee's favor, as did William and Mary Shellooe's Sea Urchin and Periwinkle, the Scenic Road cottages that were renovated and connected to form a single house following a years-long battle in city hall and before the coastal commission. The Shellooes had wanted to demolish the cottages and build a new home, a plan OK'd by the city but vetoed by the California Coastal Commission.

Honorable mentions include former Carmel Mayor Charlotte Townsend's home at San Carlos and 13th, the Sea Castle garden at Lincoln and 12th, and the house on the southwest corner of Santa Lucia and Monte Verde.

Englander said the prize-winning garden proves the difference landscaping can make.

"When the house next to the garden was built, it just seemed to be so in-your-face, but the garden has made all the difference in softening that," she said. "You wouldn't believe what it looked like two years ago."

To honor the award winners, Carmel Heritage will host a public reception at its headquarters in the First Murphy House, Lincoln and Sixth, from 5 to 7 p.m. Thursday, Oct. 13. Refreshments will be served, and anyone interested should RSVP by Oct. 7 to (831) 624-4447.

Honoring houses that are 'in scale' with the town and don't scream for attention

Take a walk

With dust gathering on its old do-it-yourself tour — and a recent ban on guided tours in residential neighborhoods — Carmel Heritage Society recently revamped its self-guided walk with a four-color brochure highlighting various areas of the city.

"We haven't offered the leaflets for a long time," said Carmel Heritage board president Pam Klaumann. "The old version was in a scrapbook, and a docent happened to see it, said she liked the idea and said, 'Let's try it again.'"

Department of Fish and Game, the Monterey Peninsula Water Management District, the Monterey County Water Resources Agency and the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service.

The agencies are part of an ad-hoc group called the Carmel Lagoon Management Technical Team. Their aim is to find a solution that satisfies two opposing watchdog groups.

The Carmel River Steelhead Association, supported by numerous government agencies, has argued that cutting the sandbar where it is narrowest threatens the survival of Carmel River's steelhead population by letting the lagoon drain too quickly, sweeping young fish out to sea. The group contends a breach at a northerly angle is not only the best strategy, but also the natural course of the river. Steelhead are a federally designated "threatened" species and subject to protection by the Endangered Species Act.

The Carmel Point and Lagoon Preservation Society disagrees, claiming a northerly breach is not only an unnatural course for the flow of the river, but a major threat to Scenic Road and its adjacent residential neighborhood.

As a result of heavy rain and large waves last winter and spring, Carmel River Beach and its adjacent sandy bluffs suffered considerable erosion, threatening to undermine Scenic Road and alarming neighbors.

Dick Butler — area office supervisor for the National Marine Fisheries Service — believes it is possible to satisfy both concerns. "We would not at this time recommend a northerly breaching, at least until the bluffs are stabilized — if and when that happens," Butler said. "We do not want to jeopardize Scenic Road."

At the same time, Butler does not recommend a direct breach "because we think that would have a negative effect on the steelhead."

So what happens when the rains come and the lagoon begins to swell? Is there another alternative to relieve the threat of potential flooding of nearby homes?

"Yes there is," maintained Butler. But like Armas, he wouldn't say what it was. And he added the latest agreement would only be temporary.

"It's a band-aid fix as far as our agency is concerned," he said. "I made it clear to the [technical team] that the only way we would be comfortable with the decision is that we keep working toward a permanent solution. It's unfortunate that we're having to manage the lagoon for flood control, but that's the nature of the situation."

Governor vetoes double-fine zone on C.V. Road

By MARY BROWNFIELD

YET ANOTHER assembly bill proposing increased fines for speeders, reckless drivers and illegal passers on Carmel Valley Road received a fatal blow from Governor Arnold Schwarzenegger last month, while a comparable bill from the other side of the state capitol languishes on a back burner.

The governor vetoed Assemblyman John Laird's AB 1384 and asked Senator Abel Maldonado to delay his SB 283.

Laird's bill — which was similar to two bills he saw fail in the Senate Public Safety Committee last year — would have reestablished the Carmel Valley Road double-fine zone that expired Jan. 1, 2004. It would have also renewed increased fines on Highway 101 between Arcata and Eureka and established zones on Highway 101 through Prunedale, and on Highway 1 in Santa Cruz and Malibu.

Maldonado's bill would achieve the same goal on Carmel Valley Road, as well as along Highway 101 in north Monterey County.

"The governor asked for a delay to work with Senator Maldonado, because the administration had concerns with it," Maldonado's new chief of staff, Chris Mowrer, said Tuesday. "It may have just been general concerns with the rash of double-fine-zone bills in the Legislature over the past five, six, seven years."

Mowrer did not know what specific problems the governor might have with the bill and said it will be a few weeks before he finds out.

According to Bill Maxfield in Laird's office, "The governor recently vetoed two other double-fine-zone measures and stated in his veto message that double-fine zones should [only] be implemented 'concurrently with enhanced enforcement, public awareness campaigns, and other traffic safety measures.'"

Maxfield pointed out that Laird's bill called for other safety improvements and a public information campaign in conjunction with the increased fines, as does Maldonado's bill.

Working Together

The water system California American Water operates has been serving the Monterey Peninsula for more than a century.

From the first days serving Monterey, as cities incorporated in Pacific Grove, Carmel, Del Rey Oaks, Seaside and Sand City, our system has met the needs of newly-arriving families.

Today, our greatest opportunity is to ensure a sustainable and reliable water source. Not just for those who live and work here, but also to protect and preserve habitat for wildlife on the Carmel River.

We're working hard to build a permanent water supply. The Coastal Water Project will provide us with protection from droughts for the first time in history. Until then, we're also diligently locating leaks in the water system and helping our customers use water wisely.

California American Water is here to help our customers with tips on drought-tolerant plants, free low-flow hose nozzles or showerheads, and even rebates for high-efficiency washing machines or toilets. For additional water-saving information, please give us a call at (888) 237-1333 or send us an email at monterey@amwater.com.

Sand castle theme: Historic Haunts

HISTORIC HAUNTS will rise from the white sands of Carmel Beach during the 44th Annual Great Sandcastle Contest Sunday, Oct. 23. Presented by the City of Carmel-by-the-Sea and the American Institute of Architects — Monterey Bay Chapter, the contest is free to anyone who wants to participate, and bribing the judges is not only common, but encouraged.

Registration will be available on the beach that morning, and sandcastle builders can begin construction of their Historic Haunt-themed masterpieces at 8 a.m. along the shore between 10th and 12th avenues. Judging will begin at 1 p.m. For more information, call (831) 620-2020.

— Racing into darkness —

Race cars so sleek they look almost sinister will scream around Mazda Raceway Laguna Seca into evening darkness next Saturday during the main event of the Monterey Sports Car Championships being held Oct. 14-16. The American Le Mans Series, featuring prototypes and grand touring cars, continues to capture more fans in the United States and includes racers who compete in the world-famous 24 Hours of Le Mans in France. The weekend will also include the SPEED World Challenge GT and Touring Car championships, the Star Mazda Series for up-and-coming racers, and the always popular Miata Challenge. For tickets and information, call (800) 327-SECA or visit www.laguna-seca.com.

LEWIS A. LEADER

for CARMEL SCHOOL BOARD

Let's Make a Good School District Great!

Lewis Leader, his wife, Sandy, and their daughter, Samara, a 2005 Carmel High graduate.

It's time for a fresh perspective. Here are some reasons why:

- Just over half the Carmel High graduates take the necessary courses even to be considered for freshman admission by a California State or University of California campus. That number has hardly changed in years. We can do better.
- State test scores for Carmel High and Carmel Middle School still rank far below those of schools in similar socio-economic areas in the state. We can do better.
- Too many problems have lingered for too many years, such as the limited Carmel High School Library hours, the length of time students must wait on food lines at Carmel High during lunch and break, and the lack of enough tutors and mentors for our students. We can do better.
- Let's re-examine the district policy that advances middle school students to the next grade, even if they fail every course.
- Let's make certain our fine teaching staff is given the encouragement and allowed the time to be creative.

I strongly believe that school board members should entrust their own children to the schools they administer.

Experience in the school district and the community:

- Resident of Carmel Valley for 17 years and of the Peninsula for 25 years
- Substitute teacher in the CUSD • Assistant JV Baseball Coach, Carmel High
- Consultant on the current CUSD bond campaign • Volunteer on efforts in 2003 that prevented our district's basic aid finances from being raided by the state • AFS Host Family for Norwegian student at Carmel High (2002-2003) • Summer school teacher, Monterey High in 2003 and Soledad High in 2002 • Religious school teacher, Congregation Beth Israel, Carmel Valley • Youth baseball umpire (Mustang, Bronco and Pony), Carmel and Carmel Valley • Member, Carmel Valley Rotary Club
- Bachelor's degree in history from University of California at Berkeley, plus 21 units in graduate education at the Monterey campus of Chapman University

I am a public relations and media consultant and a free-lance writer. I was a journalist for 27 years, including 18 at The Herald (1972-1980, 1984-1994), where I was a sportswriter, a news reporter, the city editor and the associate editor. I was later the managing editor of the Toledo Blade in Ohio, and a regional edition editor at the Los Angeles Times. I developed and oversaw multi-million dollar budgets, and I helped to negotiate four multi-year labor contracts — two from each side of the table. My wife, Sandy, and I have been married for 25 years.

For a weekend each year, jade buffs gather in Big Sur's Pacific Valley

By CHRIS COUNTS

AS FAR as destinations go, Big Sur's Pacific Valley is more of a place than a town. Its commercial center burned down a decade ago, leaving a ranger station and an adjacent public school with an enrollment of about 25 students as its social hub. But for one weekend each year, "P.V.," as locals call it, becomes the Jade Capital of the World.

The Pacific Valley School will host the 14th annual Big Sur Jade Festival Oct. 7-9, providing a marketplace for rock hounds and a stage for an eclectic collection of musicians.

"It's a one-of-a-kind show," explained Kirk Brock, a jade vendor and Carmel Valley resident. "It's the only jade festival that I know of in the world. The atmosphere, the location, the music — you get a feeling there you can't get anywhere else."

The eye-catching blue-green nephrite jade, which can be found along the beaches of Big Sur's South Coast, remains a focus of the festival, but music now shares top billing. Past lineups have been a melting pot of musical genres, and this year is no exception.

Friday's schedule will feature an acoustic rock group, Sweet Rock; folksinger Jamie Faust; a blues band, Free Gone Morgan; and rockers Garth Wiland and the Big Sur Band. Saturday's performances will include a bluegrass band, Over The Phone; a folk rock group, the Slippin' Micekeys; a traditional Russian folk group, the Big Rock Balalaikas; a rockabilly group, the Keen Cousins; a jazz-rock fusion group, the Guy Budd Band; the Loose Gravel Blues Band, and acoustic rocker Dave Helwig.

Saturday's schedule will also feature lectures by Pacific Grove's Don Wobber, a renown jade diver and author; and Fred Ward, whose feature story on Big Sur jade was published in National Geographic magazine.

On Sunday, Billy Foppiano will add a touch of swing; Dubwise will play reggae; Eric Williams will perform modern rock; the Murray Brothers will blend jazz and rock;

Karen Tyler will pay tribute to Texas blues and the Central Coast Divas will wrap things up with a four-part harmony vocal performance. Longtime South Coast resident and jade jeweler Dick Horan will start things off each day with a drum circle.

Millions of visitors have driven past Pacific Valley. But few notice it, not only because it's the kind of place where you blink and it's gone, but also because it just happens to be located on the inland side of one of the most spectacular stretches of Highway 1. Most don't see the tiny seaside hamlet

Big Sur's South Coast is famous for its Nephrite jade deposits. Jade Cove, which is located just south of picturesque Sand Dollar Beach, is a popular destination for jade collectors.

Making wishes come true

At Tehama Saturday night, more than 300 people enjoyed the fantastic evening scenery, a magnificent gourmet meal and a late night of dancing to the jazz tunes of the Bill Hopkins Orchestra — all to raise money for the Greater Bay Area Make-A-Wish Foundation. And raise money they did! According to organizers, the evening's proceeds totalled almost $400,000 from ticket sales and from silent and live auctions.

The event, which has become one of the biggest fundraisers on the Peninsula's annual social calendar, was organized this year by (from left) Valentia Piccinini, Ksenija Halamandaris, Cynthia House, Jamel Ehnisz and Dina Eastwood. Make-A-Wish will use the money from the event to grant the wishes of children with life-threatening medical conditions. One of the auction items was a poster and boxing gloves autographed by Clint Eastwood, Morgan Freeman and Hillary Swank — the director and stars of last year's Oscar-winning "Million Dollar Baby."

"I couldn't believe it when it went for $20,000," said House.

Sandy Claws

By Margot Petit Nichols

REBEL McELHENY, 15 months old, is a Rebel without a cause. He leads such a charmed life, he has absolutely nothing to rebel against.

A miniature Australian shepherd, Rebel lived on the Holman Ranch in Carmel Valley until July of this year with Cosmo the cat, with whom he played all day. When Mom Kathy moved to Carmel-by-the-Sea, Cosmo, a country kind of guy, opted to stay on the ranch because of Carmel's big city ways.

Although Rebel misses Cosmo and the ranch, he soon discovered the beach, which he had never seen before. It opened up a whole new world with its cooling sea breezes, playful surf and friendly dogs. He loves to race the Levett family trio of Italian miniature greyhounds when he encounters them on the beach and gives them a good run for their lire.

Rebel can thank his Labrador girlfriend, Lucky Lou "Tank" Roebel, for teaching him to swim in the Carmel River, a great precursor to dipping in the ocean at Carmel Beach. He visits Tank whenever Mom drives him to the valley, which is fairly frequently, because Rebel's currently taking an agility course at Sirius Dog Training in mid-valley, studying jumping and how to run an A-frame course and through a tube.

Another plus for moving to Carmel-by-the-Sea is that he shares his backyard with an upstairs dog named Murphy.

So amicable is their friendship, they even exchange play-things.

Toys and treats are two of Rebel's favorite things. He loves his stuffed toys so much, they wear out and are replaced before he has time to become attached to a favorite.

because they're too busy gawking at the coastline.

The Pacific Valley School is located across Highway 1 from Sand Dollar Beach and adjacent to Plaskett Campground, about 65 miles south of Carmel and 35 miles north of Hearst Castle. The event starts at noon Friday, and the gates open at 10 a.m. Saturday and Sunday. Admission is free.

Proceeds from the festival benefit the South Coast Community Land Trust, a group dedicated to providing summer and after-school programs for South Coast students.

P.B. Co., employees donate $100,000 for Red Cross relief work

By MARY BROWNFIELD

THE PEBBLE Beach Company, its employees and its foundation wrote a gigantic check to the Carmel chapter of the American Red Cross Wednesday. In a ceremony at the Lodge Oct. 5, company CEO Bill Perocchi delivered an oversized check for $101,234 to Donna Duvin, executive director of the local Red Cross chapter. The donation to the disaster relief fund for hurricane victims included $36,734 in employee donations matched by $60,000 from the company and the foundation. Another $4,500 was generated from greens fees during a fundraiser at Del Monte Golf Course.

In recognition of its ongoing support of the Red Cross, Duvin said the P.B. Co. recently received the Carmel chapter's Henri Dunant Award. In addition to its ongoing monetary contributions, the company encourages employee involvement, including serving on the board of directors and volunteering.

"Pebble Beach and their employees continue to overwhelm us with their compassion and generosity," Duvin said. "They deserve lots of credit for this unbelievable effort."

Two fundraisers and a Howloeven sale

The Monterey Bay Aquarium will host Community Feeds Our Nation at 7:30 p.m. Oct. 7, with more than 60 local chefs cooking appetizers, tapas and desserts. Dozens of area wineries and breweries will supply the libations. All proceeds of each $95 ticket will be donated to the disaster relief fund. Admission available at the door.

Carmel merchants have displayed their generosity by providing goods and services for auctions organized by House of Wonderful Things owner Lisa Kapsalis. All of the items, from a fur coat and a diamond bracelet to paintings and wood carvings, will be displayed in the former Gallery Americana building at Lincoln and Sixth beginning Oct. 10, with the silent auction open for bidding 11 a.m. to 6 p.m. daily until Oct. 16. The live auction will begin at 6 that evening.

For more information on either event, call the Carmel chapter at (831) 624-6921.

A downtown pet boutique, Mackie's Parlour, will donate 20 percent from the sale of Halloween merchandise to the Noah's Wish Katrina Relief Fund, a not-for-profit animal welfare organization dedicated to keeping animals alive during disasters. The sale will run Oct. 1-31 at the store, owned by Vince Anginoli and Tony Bolling, which is located at the corner of Ocean and Monte Verde.

All this could be yours. Lisa Kapsalis shows off a beaver and fox fur coat, a diamond bracelet and fine art – just a few of the items donated by Carmel merchants for live and silent auctions to benefit disaster relief.

Richards must mail and post notices of the inn's application.

Although the permit requires Carmel Planning Commission approval, which won't happen until a public hearing Oct. 20, city administrator Rich Guillen told Richards the inn could begin hosting musicians as soon as the ordinance took effect Oct. 6.

"As long as they follow the intended ordinance, meeting all the requirements, I would administratively allow them to do this trial run and see how it goes," Guillen said.

"The city has been really good as far as helping," said Richards, who speculated the inn is serving as a Guinea pig. In addition to Whittington's performance Oct. 6, Richards lined up a duo called Simple Pleasures to play stringed instruments at the inn Saturday and hopes to bring others in soon.

"It's really cool, and we're very excited about being the first ones on the block," he said. "I think we can make it a really class act, usher it in gently, and that's where we want to keep it — nice and mellow."

duced guided tours a decade ago and still leads visitors on informative Saturday morning strolls downtown, according to Klaumann.

"A lot of people who travel want to take something back, and this is one of those things," Klaumann said of the new brochure, which includes a map, photographs and descriptions. "It's a wonderful thing people can pick up for a donation at the First Murphy House."

The group recently honored Prine for her years of service at a Hats Off Celebration.

"It was to let her know how much she's offered to us — she's so generous, so knowledgeable and a wonderful historian," Klaumann said, calling Prine a "walking encyclopedia."

A longtime resident who attended high school in the 1930s, Prine assisted with the group's "Don't Pave Main Street," now available on DVD, which was produced while Clint Eastwood was mayor. Klaumann said the group will soon begin collecting oral histories, and Prine will be among the first to share her memories.

The Business of Wealth Management Just Got More Personal

Today, many investors choose local portfolio managers rather than choosing a global institution.

For nearly 50 years, Pacific Capital Wealth Management Services has shown that value for our clients is created by nationally recognized portfolio managers, trust administrators, private bankers, trust property managers and other expertise that are all locally accessible.

Clients bring current holdings with different cost basis and tax issues... they have family issues with unique individuals...they have businesses, real property and other valued assets...they have estate plans that should be updated.

We handle a breadth of financial opportunities and obstacles with personal attention you won't find with a long distance firm. We would welcome the opportunity to put all our minds to work for you.

Councilwoman wants revival of original Carnegie Public Library

By KELLY NIX

WHEN PACIFIC Grove City Councilwoman Susan Goldbeck was trying to come up with an alternative to the city's troubled library expansion project, she had an epiphany — "Why not bring back the Carnegie look to the library?"

The city's original Mission- and Spanish Colonial Revival-style library building, opened in 1908, was called the Carnegie Public Library. It was partially funded with a $10,000 grant from Pennsylvania steel magnate Andrew Carnegie.

But in 1978 to 1981, the library underwent a major remodel, leaving much of the building with little resemblance to its former design. Goldbeck said she would like to see the library restored to its Carnegie design. The original library had two wings that protruded at the library's entrance and several large, elaborate windows, including one on the Jewell Park side of the library that was removed when the building was remodeled.

As passionate as Goldbeck is about restoring the library to its former glory, she said, "It's just one idea," and others should be explored.

Andrew Carnegie and the Carnegie Corporation funded 1,681 public libraries in the United States between 1889 and 1923. The Carnegie Public Library in Pacific Grove was the first free library in Monterey County.

Plan to block street dropped

Goldbeck said she's spoken to a construction consultant who said the Carnegie facelift would cost about $800,000, far less than estimated $2 million for the current expansion plan. The idea would be of historic importance to Pacific Grove and would leave Grand Avenue open, she said.

"I think it's a project everyone could love and be proud of," she said. The Friends of the Library, a private group which has raised about $800,000 to expand the library — including a large new wing across what is now Grand Avenue — has said it is going to shelve the idea. The group's remodel plans have been fraught with problems, including rising construction costs, permit delays and the announcement in September by librarian Bobbie Morrison she was retiring. Morrison was strong supporter of the Friends of the Library proposal.

"Everybody loves our library, and we want to support it," Goldbeck said. "We think the Friends of the Library have been magnificent, but this current project isn't the right one." A Friends of the Library spokeswoman could not be reached for comment.

Goldbeck said the books from the children's library — which was slated to be converted into a community meeting room under the old plan — could be moved to the new wings of the Carnegie design, leaving as much space in the children's library for a meeting room as the Friends of the Library proposal calls for.

The idea to restore the library to its original design came in the spring as Goldbeck was looking at the 2005 Carnegie library calendar, which features many Carnegie-funded libraries in California. There is a painting of the original Carnegie library in the calendar, along with a photograph of the current design, which some have said resembles a Taco Bell restaurant.

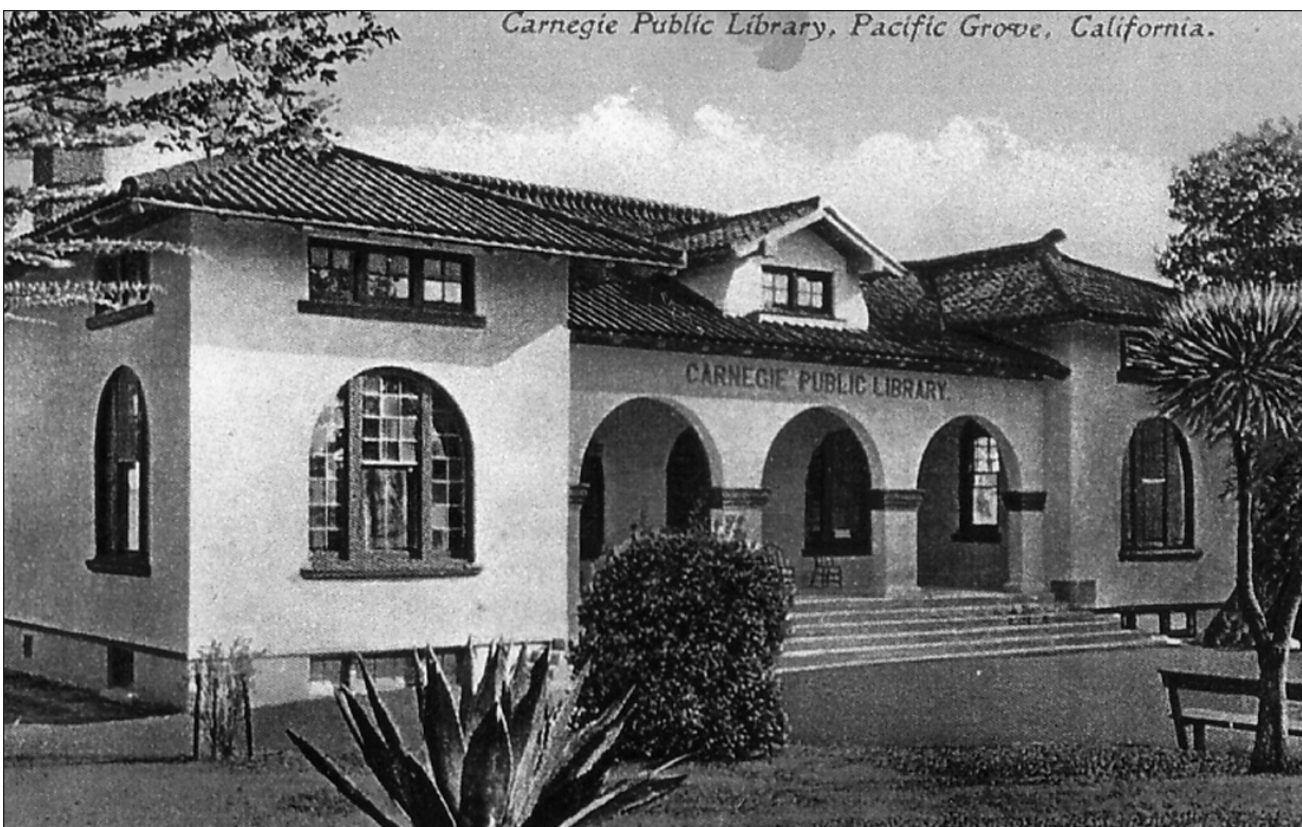

Goldbeck said it's worth looking into obtaining grants from the Carnegie Corporation if the city decides to pursue the project. Ideally, the restoration would include the original Carnegie Public Library moniker, she said.

While the Friends of the Library has been the fundraising arm of their proposed expansion, the city council has the authority to approve or reject any project.

City Manager Jim Colangelo said the library's expansion plans would be brought up at the Oct. 19 council meeting.

"I think there are a lot of things that are doable," Colangelo said. "The question is sitting down and figuring what the needs of the library are for the next 20 years. I think this is one of the alternatives, but I don't know if it's the alternative."

A fortune made from steel was used to build 1,681 public libraries across the U.S.

This is how the Pacific Grove Library looked until it was "improved" in the late 1970s. A city council member wants to revive the look, and the name, of the old library, which was built with money from the Carnegie Corporation.

FIRE CHIEF

Miller said he has developed strong working relationships with Rawson and the firefighters.

"They need an advocate — someone looking out for them," he said.

Standing in for Rawson, who was away due to a family emergency, city administrator Rich Guillen said Miller and his staff would also analyze the budget and develop policies, orders and procedures — "everything necessary to run an efficient fire department."

A full-time, in-house chief would run $155,000 to $165,000, according to Rawson's report.

"I think this arrangement is the best arrangement we could have," Guillen said.

But councilman Erik Bethel favored hiring a full-time fire chief — a job that has gone unfilled since Bill Hill retired from the position in 2001. When it adopted the 2004/2005 budget last year, the council OK'd staff cuts that included the chief and assistant-chief roles.

"What Hurricane Katrina brought to my awareness was the fact that you need someone to be in control and in charge of things," Bethel said. "By having a fire chief, we have autonomy."

Former city councilwoman Barbara Livingston agreed. She praised Miller's skills and experience but wondered how he would handle a massive disaster affecting both cities.

"Who will be in charge?" she asked.

Other residents asked who would run the emergency operations center in the basement of the police station and if the contract represents a trend toward regional fire protection by a consolidated department.

"Are we moving in the direction of never having our own fire chief and assistant chief?" asked Sherry Shollenbarger, president of the Carmel Residents Association.

Miller and Guillen said emergency response times and abilities would not change, and council member Paula Hazdovac said speculating about the department's future, which could be decided by a different city council, would be pointless.

Resident Linda Anderson said she found the long-running lack of management "absolutely terrifying" and worried how residents would be protected in a major disaster.

"I have great respect for the individual firefighters and know they are highly capable and dedicated, and I am glad for their sakes and for the citizens of Carmel that finally many existing problems are being solved," she said after the meeting. But she said Miller's and Guillen's comments about needing someone to oversee training requirements carried "the strong implication that these matters have not been addressed by the city for quite a long time."

$90K too high?

Councilman Mike Cunningham favored finding a cheaper option.

"It's a very important service you provide, but we can't just be throwing money at it," he said. "Is this good use of the taxpayers' money?"

McCloud advised against bargain hunting.

"Where public safety's involved, this isn't something where you look for the least expensive option," she said. "You look for what option will provide the type of service you need."

Shift commanders Mitch Kastros and Ian Watts, and part-time engineer/paramedic David Jedinak, encouraged the council to OK the contract.

A 30-year veteran, Kastros said he's learned a lot from Miller and Brown over the years and called contracting with them "a tremendous opportunity."

"This will mean better service for the citizens of Carmel, and that's what I care about," he said.

The Carmel Fire Department had enough money last spring to repair an old ladder truck that had been out of service, but the city doesn't have enough room in its budget to afford a full-time chief. The city council OK'd an agreement this week with the Pacific Grove Fire Department that will put that city's chief, Andrew Miller, in charge of operations at Carmel Fire.

CONSOLIDATING CREDIT CARD DEBT

Credit card levels can skyrocket for a wide variety of reasons. Anyone who has experienced high balances on credit cards knows how hard it is merely to run in place, keeping up with financing expenses, without even getting to the task of paying the debt off. What to do?

Our homes, especially after recent years of value appreciation, offer a great resource. We can do a cash-out refinancing or take out a home equity loan, paying off the credit cards with the proceeds. The upside is that we haven't really created new debt. We've transferred it from threatening plastic to home equity. As we pay it down—a task that is much more easily accomplished now—we are giving our home equity back to ourselves. And in most cases, we get to deduct the interest we pay in the process on our income tax return.

Any downsides? Many of us now view the equity we have in our homes as a substantial part of our savings—so we are borrowing against our savings here. It is not to be done lightly. Financial advisors suggest we guard against running up our credit cards again once we've refinanced or taken out a home equity loan.

That said, it's worth noticing that our homes have never served us as well or in as many ways as they do today. For more assistance, call Maureen at 622-2565 and visit her website at www.maureenmason.com.

Big Sur physician assistant recognized for her good works

By CHRIS COUNTS

SHE'S BEEN looking out for the health and welfare of the Big Sur community for almost 20 years, and last week Sharen Carey was recognized by the California Academy of Physicians Assistants for her outstanding service.

Carey, physician assistant and clinic administrator for the Big Sur Health Center since 1987, received a commendation from the CAPA Oct. 1 at a conference in Palm Springs. She was recognized "for her exemplary service and commitment to her community, and for providing quality, cost-effective health care to the under served."

The timing of Carey's award could not have been more perfect — Oct. 6 was National Physician Assistant's Day.

"Sharen is absolutely extraordinary," said Ann Ashley, a board member for the non-profit clinic. "She really takes care of people and she is truly a patient advocate. Sharen is a key reason the health center is the success it is today."

As an example of her character, Ashley recalled Carey's efforts during the 1998 El Niño storms that closed Highway 1 in Big Sur.

"When the road went out, Sharen was in town and she made sure that everyone in Big Sur got the medications they needed," said Ashley.

'More meticulous and more caring'

Ashley called Carey "an active member of the community who has volunteered countless hours in all areas where health is a factor. She is making a significant difference in the health of our community."

Dr. Deborah Biller of the Big Sur Health Center echoed Ashley's sentiments, praising her longtime co-worker.

"Having worked with her since 1987, it is my opinion that she is more meticulous in the health-care she provides, and certainly more caring of her patients, than many physicians," Biller said.

According to Ashley, physician assistants are rarely recognized with official commendations.

"The CAPA has largely stopped giving the awards, not because there isn't anybody worthy of receiving them, but because physician assistants are rarely recommended for awards," she explained.

Ashley said when Carey was nominated, officials at the CAPA "were thrilled because they knew her" and agreed her good work should be recognized.

On the administrative side, Carey has been the primary author of grants for the health center. Ashley said such efforts have played a critical role in the survival and growth of the clinic, because "there is only so much money in the community."

The Big Sur Health Center was founded in 1979. Its primary mission is to provide comprehensive healthcare services to all Big Sur residents, regardless of their ability to pay. The clinic is located about 25 miles south of Carmel at 46896 Highway 1.

Big Sur Marathon gives record grants

By MARY BROWNFIELD

THE 20TH running of the Big Sur International Marathon in April generated a record amount of grant money, and organizers distributed the gifts this week to a plethora of area charities. Hugo Ferlito, chairman of the marathon board, said the $180,000 in grant awards represented "the largest dollar and group distribution to date."

More than 90 organizations, from the American Red Cross to York School, were honored at a reception at Rocky Point Restaurant Tuesday night. Recipients of the largest grants — the Big Sur Health Center and the Big Sur Volunteer Fire Brigade — were awarded $25,750 each. Nearby Mid-Coast Fire Brigade, also volunteer run, received $15,000. Other recipients included numerous schools, service clubs, arts programs, conservation groups, athletic programs, Boy Scouts and Girl Scouts, and social service organizations.

The 21st running of the Big Sur International Marathon and accompanying events will take place April 30, 2006, and registration is open. The marathon is already 25 percent full and sure to sell out, as it does every year.

The 21-mile Powerwalk is 95 percent full, and the 10-mile Walk is 44 percent full. The Relay and 5K remain open.

And the Big Sur Half Marathon on Monterey Bay to be held along the Monterey and Pacific Grove coastline next month still has a few available spots.

Bill allocates $$ for nutritious snacks

GOVERNOR ARNOLD Schwarzenegger signed Senator Abel Maldonado's SB 281 into law Sept. 15, earmarking $18.2 million in tax dollars to buy fresh fruits, vegetables and other healthy foods for school children statewide. Citing obesity as his motivation for proposing the pilot program, Maldonado drafted the bill to provide healthy food for students in public and charter schools.

The bill requires the department of education, in consultation with the Department of Food and Agriculture and the State Department of Health Services, to develop regulations to implement the program and to establish guidelines for its administration and evaluation.

Trail work trips offered

WHILE TWO upcoming Big Sur weekend getaway opportunities hardly qualify as relaxing or luxurious, they certainly qualify as adventurous and affordable.

The Ventana Wilderness Alliance is seeking volunteers willing to do trail work for two upcoming three-day backpacking trips.

From Oct. 14-16, a crew of volunteers will hike into the Silver Peak Wilderness in Big Sur. The group will perform much-needed maintenance on lightly traveled trails south of Nacimiento-Ferguson Road. For details or to reserve a place on the trip, e-mail: dknapp1@gmail.com.

From Oct. 21-23, a second crew of volunteers will take a short backpacking trip on the recently reopened Black Cone Trail in the heart of the Ventana Wilderness. Hard work will be rewarded by spectacular mountain and ocean views. If you're interested in joining this trip, email: bmacgowan@hotmail.com

The Ventana Wilderness Alliance is a local nonprofit organization dedicated to protecting the wildlands of the northern Santa Lucia mountains and the Big Sur coast. For more information, visit: www.ventana-wild.org.

But in the winter, much less irrigation water is needed. The sewer plant produces water year-round, and the reservoir will be used to store the seasonal surplus.

The Forest Lake Reservoir rehabilitation project, which is about half completed, Niccum said, cost about $12 million and is an effort between the Pebble Beach Company and the Carmel Area Wastewater District. It is part of Phase II of an effort to eliminate use of drinking water on Pebble Beach's golf courses while guaranteeing the courses, which are vital to the local economy, will have a drought-proof water supply.

The massive 22-acre Forest Lake Reservoir is located northeast of Lopez Road and west of Congress Road. It is barely noticeable from the well-traveled Forest Lake Road, however, because it's located on a hill surrounded by pine trees.

The reservoir is so immense it makes a football field look like a tennis court. Major excavation work of the reservoir, including grading of the surface and reconstruction of the north embankment, was completed in September.

"What we've tried to do is build it to withstand the maximum credible earthquake," Niccum said.

On Tuesday, the about a third of the material had been rolled and tacked down into the reservoir.

"This type of material has been used successfully at a reservoir in Los Angeles," Niccum said. "Landfills also use it."

The California Department of Water Resources, Division of Safety of Dams, which regulates reservoirs, required the reservoir be lined. Representatives from the state agency have regularly inspected the facility, he said.

The 5-foot-wide strips of rubbery, vinyl-like material come in various lengths of 500 to 900 feet each, Niccum said. The material, which is estimated to have a life span of at least 25 years, is bolted at the top of the reservoir and is cut to size. The seams are glued together.

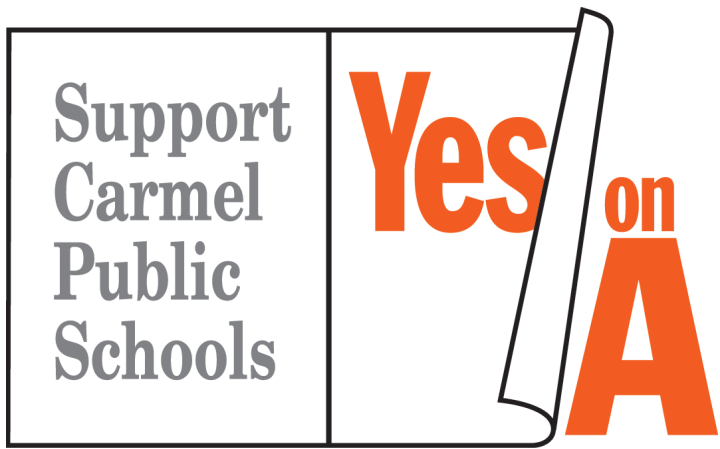

While the Hypalon will keep most of earth below the reservoir dry, it's inevitable some water will get through, he said.

That's where the leak detection and collection system comes in. Underneath the Hypalon, crews have installed another layer of material, which will carry any escaping water to a holding area underneath the reservoir that can be checked frequently for leakage.

"We are spending almost a $1 million dollars on construction management," Niccum said. "A full-time inspector

No leakage allowed

Another main concern with the reservoir is leakage into the surrounding soil, which could also exacerbate the effects of an earthquake.

To prevent that, construction crews from Anderson Pacific Engineering are painstakingly lining the entire surface of the 22-acre reservoir with Hypalon, a brand-name waterproof material, which will prevent most of the reservoir's water from seeping into the earth, Niccum said.

PBCSD engineer Mike Niccum holds a sample of the material being used to line the Forest Lake Reservoir. While the reservoir was used for more than 100 years to store drinking water without a lining, modern earthquake standards require that there be virtually no seepage into the soil below.

will check the seams of the liner after it's installed to make sure there are no leaks."

The lining should be installed by November, and the reservoir will begin accepting water in late December or January, Niccum said. The other aspect of Phase II includes building an advanced filtration system at the Carmel Area Wastewater District treatment plant using reverse osmosis to enhance the purity of the water.

When the project to use reclaimed water to irrigate golf courses began in 1994, it was discovered the mineral content was too high for the type of grass used on the golf courses. Since then, drinking water has also been used to rinse the greens to get rid of salt from the reclaimed water.

Cleaner water coming soon

Although the reservoir will be ready to accept recycled water from the Carmel Area Wastewater District treatment plant in December or January, higher-quality water will be produced when construction of CAWD's micro-filtration/reverse osmosis treatment facilities are completed in fall 2007.

Also included in the Forest Lake Reservoir upgrade in the next few months are:

- Construction of a new concrete intake/outlet structure and installation of new pipelines for connection between the new reservoir, the algae removal treatment facility and the existing distribution system and overflow line.
- Construction of a new treatment facility, including micro strainers, to remove algae, and installation of pumps to deliver 4.5 million gallons of water per day to the distribution system.
- Extension of the reservoir's existing outlet of the overflow line by 200 feet.

In the event of an emergency, the reservoir has the ability to pump its 100-million-gallon supply within seven days into Sawmill Gulch.

SMOKING

California beaches," according to city forester Mike Branson, who presented the proposed law to the council Oct. 4. Volunteers plucked more than 2,700 cigarette butts from the beach's white sands during Coastal Cleanup Day last year, and county health worker Michele House presented a box of those butts to the council in July when she asked the city to consider a smoking ban.

Carelessly discarded cigarette butts can also be ingested by animals and children, Branson said, and secondhand smoke is a well-identified health risk. He encouraged Carmel to join the cities of Santa Cruz, Santa Monica, Los Angeles, Carpinteria, Malibu and San Clemente in kicking smokers off the beach.

"We don't really anticipate a high level of antismoking patrols down there," Branson admitted, but public education and peer pressure would help discourage lighting up. The county's anti-tobacco program would help pay for signs and cigarette-butt receptacles nearby.

Former councilwoman Barbara Livingston asked the council to rid the bluff walkway of them as well, arguing that the receptacles are "foul looking and smelling," and that butts dropped on the path end up on the beach via birds and storm drains.

"Why not be consistent? Do the right thing and eliminate all smoking," she said.

McCloud agreed with Livingston and said cigars should also be forbidden.

"The worst offenders are cigar smokers," she said, because they leave the chewed ends behind.

Too many butts on the beach

Clayton Anderson, a mainstay at the Carmel Residents Association's monthly beach cleanups for the past 13 years, said newcomers are always surprised by the number of cigarette butts they find and said the law would show the city takes pride in its popular and scenic beach.

A CRA letter to the council acknowledged "the police department will not be standing on the beach 24 hours a day, seven days a week asking people to douse their cigarettes; however, signs will make people think twice before lighting up."

Councilwoman Paula Hazdovac said she'd like to ban smoking all over town but did not want more signs erected along the seashore. She suggested adding the new restriction to signs already posted there.

Smoking litterbugs are a problem, councilman Mike Cunningham agreed, but they are lower on the list of beach-related problems.

"Our beach has got to be one of our finest assets, and I think we ought to be doing everything we can to protect it," he said, but "eating, drinking and cooking" result in more damage.

"Fires left to smolder below half an inch of sand represent a real hazard," he said.

He also wondered if the city should wait until the state bans smoking on beaches.

"This has come forward at the state level and has died, but enough city voices set the example," Michele House responded. "The reason we have the smoke-free workplace is because we had cities that were willing to say they would not allow smoking in the workplace."

The council voted 4-1 in favor of the proposed law, with Bethel loudly dissenting. If adopted at its final reading next month, the new law would take effect in December.

William John Griffith

William John Griffith, 89, passed away in Boca Raton, Florida September 25th after a lengthy battle with cancer. He was surrounded by family and friends to the end.

Mr. Griffith was born in Philadelphia and raised in Boston. After retiring from the Boston Police force, he started Griffith Ladder Manufacturing with his brother, James, and was a real estate entrepreneur. Mr. Griffith was an avid golfer and was a member of Woodland Golf Club in Newton, Mass and the New Seabury Golf Club on Cape Cod. His passion was his art, and he was a highly renowned Portrait Artist and Watercolorist with numerous one-man shows in the Boston, Palm Beach and the San Francisco Bay areas.

He retired to Boca Raton, Florida to focus on his art and founded the Griffith Art Studio. Many artists attended his classes there, and his presence among them will be sorely missed.

Memorial Services will be held Nov.6 at the cross on Carmel Beach, which was originally erected by Don Gaspar de Portola in 1769. In 1984, Mr. Griffith led a group of people in replacing the cross that had been blown down.

His children, Will Griffith, of Menlo Park, Cassie Belmont of Salinas, and Alexandra O'Gorman of Cloverdale, were raised in Carmel and attended local schools. They are asking that in lieu of flowers, donations be made to Stevenson School in his name.

Editorial

Yes on A

FIVE YEARS ago, Carmel voters rallied around their dilapidated public schools, passing a $20 million bond measure by an amazing 82 to 18 percent.

The vote enabled the school system to bring 124 classrooms, libraries and other basic necessities into the 20th century with new wiring, plumbing, paint and things like that.

Unfortunately, the vote came when the 20th century was already over. In other words, it was long overdue. Perhaps that explains the 2000 ballot measure's overwhelming support.

Now, the school board is asking voters to support Measure A, which will help make local schools something the community can truly be proud of in the 21st century.

If passed by voters Nov. 8 (absentee ballots start going out this week), the measure will raise $21.5 million for an up-to-date library and computer center, theater and new 40-meter pool at Carmel High School, new classrooms at Tularcitos and River schools, repair of the access road at Captain Cooper School and numerous other badly needed improvements.

We have said it before: Public education is one of the foremost obligations of government. We wish at least 10,000 things they spend money on in Sacramento and Washington would be put on hold until the promise of a top-quality public education has been fulfilled for every young person. But that's not going to happen. So it's up to local voters to bear that burden. Vote yes on Measure A.

No on W

IN THE months since a member of the Monterey Peninsula Water Management District floated the idea of taking over Cal Am and turning it into a public utility, proponents of the idea have had ample opportunity to explain why their cause is just. Unfortunately, it isn't. That's why they rely on silly shibboleths ("Because it's our money and our water!"), baldly incorrect assertions about the competency and honesty of Cal Am executives ("Too many leaks!") and even xenophobia ("Foreign ownership!") to support their cause.

However, the fact that there is no good reason to take over Cal Am is not the most important reason why Measure W should be rejected.

This community is in dire peril because it does not have an adequate water supply. Taking over Cal Am — or even studying the idea of taking over Cal Am — will be a serious distraction from the very difficult task of getting a new water project on line. Voters should make their priorities clear by rejecting Measure W.

And once the Monterey Peninsula's immediate water problems have been solved, the people who want to take over Cal Am will have plenty of time to try to make that happen without causing a lot of collateral harm in the process.

Making an 'informed choice'

Dear Editor,
I urge voters to support Measure W in the next election. There is so much wrong with our water delivery system that a study to determine if someone beside Cal Am can do a better, cheaper job is essential. If Measure W does not pass, the status quo will mean we continue to have among the highest rates in California and that those rates will double. Actually, Cal Am would like to triple our rates.

In a time when every drop of water counts, Cal Am would most likely continue to allow significant amounts of water to be lost from leaks. Leaks that exist because our water delivery system is not properly maintained and upgraded. We will also continue to have the same inadequate customer service.

The list could go on, but it is enough to say that for an average cost of $14 a household, the Monterey Peninsula Water Management District will be able to investigate whether some other organization or agency could do a better job. Given Cal Am's record, it would be a surprise if that doesn't turn out to be the case. At the very least, for a pretty small amount of money per household we'll know who could do the best job for the ratepayers. Once we know that, we can decide what we want to do about it.

Again, we need to vote to support Measure W in November so we can make an informed choice in the future.

Richard Dalsemer,
Carmel

Lighthouse Cinemas latest theaters to close

A REPORT on KSBW-TV Wednesday that Lighthouse Cinema in Pacific Grove will soon close came as a surprise not only to local movie-goers, but to employees of the theater.

"It's kind of weird," commented an employee who asked not to be identified.

"We didn't know anything about it until the television station showed up."

Pacific Grove now joins Carmel as a Monterey Peninsula city without a movie theater. Just 15 years ago, downtown Carmel had two theaters, the Crossroads shopping center featured another, and even the Mid-can be made. Just as a first-time buyer would do. That is what Measure W is all about. Gather the facts first, then decide. Instead of throwing up your hands in surrender, let's get the facts. Vote YES on W.

Editors who 'encourage dereliction'

Dear Editor,

Congratulations to all involved with your Sept. 30 editorial about the sorry state of reporting of tragedies and assigning blame thereof. Your rebuke to those editors who encourage such dereliction is most appropriate; more is needed. I urge you to copy it to New York Times, Washington Post, L.A. Times, The Guardian, and, of course, BBC. Again, congratulations! We may just have a crusading newspaper after all.

to buying your first home. Your recent article (Sept. 16) addressed earlier efforts to have a public buy-out of the private water company. May I point out an analogy: Your grandfather tried in the 1930s, but could not find the right combination of finances and will to purchase. But the dream of home ownership was passed to the next generation.

In the 1960s, your father tried, knowing that ownership had more benefits than renting. Again it did not happen, but the goal did not die.

Now this generation has a chance. This community has never owned its water system. It is like a first-time home buyer. Everyone knows that ownership is better than renting. It is a matter of will and finances. But the first requirement is to gather all relevant facts so an intelligent decision

Perfect Pairing

The beauty of Monterra with the finest luxury homes

The only thing missing is the moat.

High atop a verdant mountain overlooking a restless sea, there sits an enchanted neighborhood known as Paseo Vista at Monterra. A place whose silence is interrupted only by birdsong, whose serenity is inspired by the presence of a doe and her fawn. A place whose story is told in elderly oaks and wildflower meadows. A place of sunny days, starry nights and spectacular dreams.

Just beyond the guarded gate, a castle rises like a vision in the distance, its magnificent architecture a complement to the landscape. Nestled within the sun-drenched hills of Monterra is the extra-ordinary neighborhood of Paseo Vista.

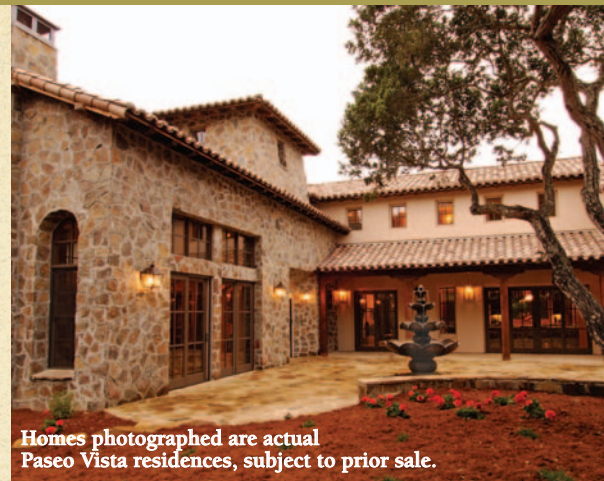

Consisting of 15 luxurious homes of Spanish and European influences, custom design and exquisite craftsmanship. Starting price is $3 million. From there, it depends on your vision.

Your kingdom awaits.

POLICE LOG

Carmel-by-the-Sea: Junipero Street resident reported an issue of excessive barking from a neighbor's dog. Initially upon officer's arrival, no barking was heard; however, a few barks were then heard from the animal in question. The owner of the dog returned home and was contacted. The owner stated that one of the dogs barks a little when they return home. The owner purchased a new training device that would hopefully regulate the barking. A warning was given.

Carmel-by-the-Sea: Fire engine received a walk-in report of an unattended fire on the beach near Scenic and 10th. Fire engine responded to the service call. At scene, firefighters found a smoking/smoldering past-tense fire, approximately 5 feet in diameter. Overhauled and mopped up the scene until extinguished.

Carmel-by-the-Sea: Fire engine and ambulance responded to a fire alarm activation at Lincoln and Fifth. Firefighters discovered nothing showing upon arrival. Units one through five were the indicated zone on the alarm, so each was checked, with Unit No. 5 showing light smoke from an unattended pot of food left on the lit range. The unit was unoccupied. The stove was shut off, and the pot removed from the hot burner. A kitchen window and the front door were left open to ventilate the unit as firefighters cleared the scene. A caretaker on scene in possession of a master key stood by to make sure the unit was secure.

Carmel-by-the-Sea: Ambulance responded to a medical emergency on Carpenter Street. Fire engine responded after completing another call. Firefighters assisted ambulance personnel with packaging and gathering information on an older female who was having difficulty breathing. The patient was transported to CHOMP by ambulance.

Carmel-by-the-Sea: Fire engine responded

SUNDAY, SEPTEMBER 25

Carmel-by-the-Sea: Subject reported a missing wallet.

Carmel-by-the-Sea: Person reported finding a golden retriever at large in her neighborhood. She put the dog in the yard of her San Carlos Street residence until an owner was possibly located. Dog had a Placerville County tag and rabies tag, but no names or phone numbers. She called back to say the owner had been located a few streets away. She did not get any information, other than that the owners of the dog were visiting from out of town. The dog was returned to owner. Case closed.

to a request for public assistance on First Avenue. Firefighters discovered a light amount of water coming through a drain field on the property, possibly from a source in the area of a nearby inn. Water was also present along the curb on Carpenter. Cal-Am Water Co. was notified.

Carmel-by-the-Sea: Fire engine and ambulance responded to a medical emergency on Guadalupe Street. Firefighters assisted ambulance personnel with patient assessment, monitor hookup, sugar-level reading, diagnostics and gathering information on a male who was experiencing extreme weakness due possibly to diabetic complications and a pinched nerve in his back. The patient refused transport to the hospital, even though he was advised by the paramedic to see a doctor as soon as possible. He signed a medical release.

Carmel Valley: An elderly male Carmel Valley Road resident died of apparent natural causes. Reported by an 80-year-old female.

Big Sur: A female motorcyclist, age 46, dropped her motorcycle on the roadway of Highway 1 at the 59-mile marker, causing minor damage to her 2005 Honda. The rider suffered minor injuries but refused medical attention.

Carmel area: After a minor traffic stop on Carmel Valley Road at Highway 1 for vehicle code violations, the 41-year-old male driver of the vehicle was determined to have been driving while intoxicated.

Carmel area: A 28-year-old female at Rio Road and Highway 1 reported that a male subject punched her and threatened to kill her with a knife. The male was taken into custody.

Carmel Valley: A 33-year-old female Nason Road resident reported that a juvenile may be breaking into her trailer and stealing food and other items. Case continues pending further investigation.

MONDAY, SEPTEMBER 26

Carmel-by-the-Sea: Male reported losing his California Driver License and a Visa card in the area of the Shell gas station on San Carlos Street.

Carmel-by-the-Sea: Vehicle parked on Lincoln Street with several outstanding citations on file. The vehicle was towed per the authority of the California Vehicle Code.

Carmel-by-the-Sea: Dog observed loose on Junipero Street in the area of the police department. Dog captured, and area check located the owners. The dog was returned to the owner working in the area. Information obtained and warning given.

Carmel-by-the-Sea: Fire engine and ambulance crews assisted with a walk-in report of difficulty breathing, possible asthma attack. Firefighters assisted the medics with the assessment and treatment in preparation for transport to CHOMP.

maintenance man who was at scene with an alarm company person changing the sprinkler head.

Carmel area: A 63-year-old male reported an unknown male adult, 20-25 years old, hair shaved close to scalp, clean-shaven, athletic build, black shirt/khaki pants, gained entry to his residence and stole a black IBM T42P Thinkpad laptop valued at $4,300.

Carmel area: A 39-year-old male reported a suspicious male adult who came into his jewelers located on Crossroads Boulevard. Suspect made unusual statements, displayed a knife and stated he could have robbed the business. He then left without further incident. Case continues.

Pebble Beach: Four unknown suspects vandalized a vehicle and broke a large window at Robert Louis Stevenson School on Forest Lake Road at 0327 hours. Case continues.

SATURDAY, OCTOBER 1

Carmel-by-the-Sea: Subject was found sleeping in a parked vehicle at Del mar. He was identified, interviewed and warned.

Carmel-by-the-Sea: Person reported a possible domestic disturbance at a residence at Santa Rita and Sixth. Upon arrival, it was discovered that two young juveniles accidentally locked themselves in their room, and the father was trying to get them to unlock the door. Unfounded.

Carmel-by-the-Sea: Female reported her camera was lost/stolen sometime between Aug. 21 and Sept. 22. She stated that the last time she saw the camera was during the Concours, and she believed the camera was taken when she failed to lock her car door while the vehicle was parked on Carpenter Street, since there was no evidence of any forced entry. The reporting party suspected the camera was stolen and not that she lost it. Information only.

Carmel-by-the-Sea: Carpenter Street resident reported possible prowlers in his neighbor's vacant home at 2047 hours. Arrived and contacted the homeowners, who were showing the house to their tenants. Identified and interviewed the subjects. Unfounded.

Carmel-by-the-Sea: Vehicle code violations cited on First Avenue, Junipero Street and Scenic Road.

Carmel-by-the-Sea: Fire engine and ambulance responded to a request for public assistance at Ocean and Carpenter. Crews assisted an elderly female back to her bed after slipping to the floor, uninjured.

Carmel Valley: A 74-year-old male reported a trespasser living on his Los Laureles Grade property. He had been asked to leave but refused. Subject was gone on arrival. Case continues.

Carmel Valley: Female Tassajara Road resident reported observing a younger male juvenile shoot her bull dog with a BB gun this morning. No injury to dog, and matter appears to be a juvenile problem with no criminal intent. Juveniles to be counseled. Case continues.

Carmel Valley: Unknown suspects forced entry into a hotel room on Valley Greens Drive. Suspects took several items and a purse and fled the scene. Victim reported as a 29-year-old male.

Carmel area: A 40-year-old female Hatton Road resident reported a 23-year-old male was at her residence and refused to leave. Subject did leave the residence. She requested the incident be documented only.

Carmel Valley: A 50-year-old male Upper Circle resident reported he received an anonymous letter in the mail telling him to get out of the fire department. He requested the incident be documented.
