La Playa owner Newton Cope dies at 83

A preservationist and a prankster, Newton Cope earned praise for his business sense and his sense of humor.

of five cottages now known as Cottages-by-the-Sea, died Nov. 23 following a long battle with cancer. He was 83.

"La Playa is a special place because of the man," said general manager Tom Glidden, who came to work for Mr. Cope in 1988, six years after Cope's company, Nob Hill Properties, Inc., purchased the hotel. "Because of his attitude about preservation, we maintained the character the community appreciated, the sense of history."

Recognizing Mr. Cope's efforts, the National Trust for Historic Preservation asked La Playa to become a charter member of Historic Hotels of America in 1989, Glidden said. "They hand selected properties throughout the country that paid special attention to historic preservation."

High standards of hospitality

The owner of The Huntington Hotel and other San Francisco properties, Mr. Cope's family company set high standards, according to Glidden. A healthy budget kept La Playa clean, fresh and appealing.

"He understood that the definition of hospitality is good service," Glidden said. He paid and treated the hotel's 90 employees well, engendering dedication and longevity among them. On staff for 17 years, Glidden is one of 20 employees who have worked at La Playa for at least

LandWatch general plan would halt Rancho Cañada project

By KELLY NIX

WHILE LANDWATCH Monterey County is using affordable housing as a selling point for its proposed general plan, the initiative would kill Rancho Cañada Village, the Peninsula's only promising affordable housing development.

The LandWatch general plan, now being circulated on petitions which aim to qualify it for the June ballot, is the group's alternative to an updated general plan being considered by the board of supervisors.

The very first rule for Carmel Valley in the LandWatch document states that development would be limited to "existing lots," which would kill the 280-home project proposed by Nick Lombardo before he died last May.

Half of the houses at Rancho Cañada would be priced from $150,000 to $370,000 for families with low and moderate income levels — providing what Lombardo said was badly needed housing for people who already work in Carmel Valley.

At his funeral May 7 at the Carmel Mission, Lombardo's son, land-use attorney Tony Lombardo, promised to see his father's vision come true.

"We owe it to my father for all he gave to this community to finish this work. And we will finish it," Nick Lombardo said.

But the LandWatch initiative would stand in the way.

"It would require us to have another public vote," said Keith McCoy, project manager for Rancho Cañada Village.

If the LandWatch initiative is enacted, all general plan amendments — typically handled by the board of supervisors — would require public approval, with the proponents of any amendment forced to bear the costs of the election.

In the case of Rancho Cañada, going back to the voters would cost $1 million and delay the project for years, something McCoy said would raise the ire of families seeking affordable housing.

"I get calls every week from people who work on the Peninsula and in Carmel Valley who want to know when we are going to start building," he said. "I say it could be a year or two years or five years. That's the sad truth."

LandWatch executive director Chris Fitz and county supervisor Dave Potter, who is one of the initiative's principal backers, haven't publicly opposed Rancho Cañada, saying the project deserves a "serious look" and is "interesting." But both agreed the development would be a casualty of the initiative.

"We have a representative government that is broken," Fitz said. "So faced with that, we have to make the tough decisions."

McCoy, who maintains that only "a vocal

Rescue of stranded sea otter fails

By MARY BROWNFIELD

A SICK and injured sea otter stranded on Carmel Beach Nov. 25 died at the Monterey Bay Aquarium that night. Laboratory technicians with the state department of fish and game are conducting a necropsy to determine what might have factored into the female otter's death, according to Emily Loufek, an animal care specialist at the aquarium.

"The call first came in on Thursday regarding an otter with a nose wound stranded on the rocks on Carmel Point, but she was spooked back into the water before we could get a look at her," Loufek said.

The following day, the ailing otter, an adult, beached herself again. Passersby who spied her lying in a pile of seaweed in evident distress and with an injury on her nose notified the Marine Mammal Center and the aquarium, which handled the call.

"She was in pretty bad shape by the time we

JELLYFISH SEASON CREATES FASCINATION FOR MOST, PROBLEMS FOR POWER PLANT

By KELLY NIX

LARGE SWARMS of jellies responsible for a partial shutdown of the Moss Landing power plant are part of a natural proliferation of the animal this time of year, experts say.

In mid-October, Duke Energy had to shut down two turbines at the plant after jellies clogged the intake that draws cooling water from Monterey Bay.

"We will start to see more of them in this kind of weather," said George Matsumoto, education and research specialist with the Monterey Bay Aquarium Research Institute.

The jellies responsible for the intake blockage were likely sea nettles or Chrysaora fuscescens, which inhabit Monterey Bay year-round. But abundant sunlight and still waters in October and November stimulate growth of phytoplankton, which jellies eat.

The swarms of jellies that obstructed the plant's intake didn't do any damage, but two of the plants four turbines had to be shut down Oct. 19 until the next afternoon, said David Hicks, spokesman for Duke Energy. "The intake screen got clogged up with jellyfish, and they had to clean it," Hicks said.

The Moss Landing power plant is where California American Water Co. wants to establish a desalination plant that would provide a drought-proof water source for the Monterey Peninsula. The desal plant would use the power plant's intake and outfall system.

October's blockage wasn't the first time jellies impeded the intake, but it is not common, Hicks said.

'Tis the season to be jelly

In the spirit of jelly season, there are two new types of rare jellies on display at the Monterey Bay Aquarium, where jellies are not a nuisance but a popular attraction.

Just eight seniors have not passed exit exam as high school raises academic standards

By MARY BROWNFIELD

TECHNOLOGY, NEW teaching methods and course requirements, outreach to at-risk students and freshmen, and drug testing should help Carmel High School students perform better, the Carmel Unified School District board of education was told Nov. 14.

At the meeting, principal Karl Pallastrini said faculty and staff are working to fulfill the goals developed by superintendent Marvin Biasotti.

To boost standardized test scores to the top 10 percent when compared with similar schools, the district plans to impose new course requirements based on the state university system's admissions standards, according to Pallastrini

Fifty-four percent of the CHS class of 2005 met the standards imposed by the UC and CSU systems, but administrators want that number to be closer to 90 percent. "If we were doing what we could be doing, every kid could walk out of here and could go to college," Pallastrini opined.

Changes in curriculum to meet the state standards would include additional study in lab sciences, foreign languages and electives. The state also recommends more math.

Mary Bull, assistant superintendent of curriculum, said the change in course load would not only prepare students for college, but for the workplace that increasingly requires such skills. "Employers want reading comprehension, writing and research, and higher math," she said.

Some educators worry more demanding courses would increase the dropout rate, but Bull said students perform better in a more challenging environment.

"Students don't drop out of school because it's hard," she said. "They drop out because they're bored and uninterested in their coursework."

CHS students are not

Mayor McCloud to seek a fourth term

CARMEL MAYOR Sue McCloud announced Thursday she will seek another term. She hopes to see progress on a city museum and to present a united front in the court fight over the pending sale of Flanders Mansion. Elected mayor in 2000, 2002 and 2004, McCloud said she and the council focused on mandatory tasks, such as the Local Coastal Program. "I see this next term and working on the museum as something fun." The filing period for April 11, 2006, election, which includes council seats held by Gerard Rose and Paula Hazdovac, opens Dec. 19. The incumbents will run, but no challengers have stepped forward.

Trees trimmed to keep the power on

By MARY BROWNFIELD

TOWERING EUCALYPTUS along north San Antonio Avenue lost some limbs this week to the saws of crews hired by PG&E.

Eucalyptus branches break easily, and the pruning will help prevent power failures this winter, said Carmel City Forester Mike Branson. "They are cutting the longer, heavy limbs that extend over the high-voltage power lines."

The utility contracts with a vegetation management company to oversee tree trimming every few years, according to Branson.

But he frequently finds fault with the work.

"Sometimes the contract might call for X feet of clearance, so they will stop there, but maybe one more foot would have been a nicer cut," he said.

Branson said he worked with the contractor and believe his concerns have been addressed.

"We can't follow them around and tell them how to trim trees," he said.

Just up the street on Fourth Avenue, residents are still waiting for a plan to landscape the neighborhood where 32 eucalyptus were felled three years ago. The Carmel City Council recently voted to move ahead with the project, which includes revegetation, a new drainage channel and a pedestrian path along the narrow street, and a town hall meeting on the plan is set for 4 p.m. Friday, Dec. 9, in Carmel City Hall. Drawings depicting landscape architect Scott Hall's plans will be presented, and Branson, Hall and grant writer Carole

THE REMARKABLY FLEXIBLE HELOC

A HELOC, of course, is not some strange creature like, say, a prehistoric winged dinosaur. It's a home equity line of credit, and it is so extremely relevant to many of today's financing needs that we doubt it will ever become extinct.

HELOC programs vary in nature, but the first thing you should know about these loans is that they work very flexibly to allow you to achieve your financial goals. Let's say you want to draw some money from your equity to pay part of the college expenses of one of your children. Not only can you take out the HELOC now and not make any loan payments (except, possibly, certain origination fees) until you've actually drawn out some money, you can often also make your own choices about how large your monthly payments will be. Generally, you must cover the interest amount, but you will usually be able to decide for yourself how much of the loan balance you wish to pay down.

Most HELOC programs, at some point, automatically convert the remaining loan balance to a lump sum that must be repaid and cannot be added to. But there are no surprises here. You can map out your monetary needs, send your child to college, and pay down the loan as you are able to. In effect, it is a customizable loan program which you can adapt specifically to your needs and wishes.

As we have noted elsewhere, a HELOC is often a great device to use when you want to secure the purchase of a home before the sale of your prior home has been completed. Indeed, there are more potential beneficial uses of the HELOC program than can be imagined. And they all rely on one crucial fact: Your home is increasingly at the center of your financial life. Preserving redwood lands since 1900

While residents wait for bulldozers, bulldozers wait for rain

By CHRIS COUNTS

AFTER LEADING the drive to convince public officials to abandon a repeat of last year's ill-fated northerly breach of the Carmel River Lagoon sandbar, Scenic Road resident Paul John is anxiously awaiting the return of bulldozers to the beach. He wants the sandy bluffs holding up the road fortified before winter storms hit.

Residents breathed a collective sigh of relief Nov. 1 when an ad-hoc group representing eight government regulatory agencies — the Carmel River Lagoon Management Technical Advisory Committee — revealed a plan to open a channel in the sandbar in a southerly direction this winter.

While John applauded the decision, he would like to see Monterey County Public Works take action now to minimize damage later this winter. He also wants the public to have easy access to the beach.

Currently, the parking lot is marooned by an encroaching lagoon. The only access to the beach off of Scenic Road is a stairway near Deadman's Curve that is badly in need of repair.

"The county has the ability to restore the beach and restore access to the beach. They have all the time in the world to do it. For God's sake, fix it," John said.

He estimates because of damage to the beach and its accessibility, usage at the park was down by 75 percent to 80 percent this summer.

According to interim public works maintenance manager Vic Lewis, the timing for the rehabilitation work just isn't right. For one thing, he said it is much easier for a bulldozer operator to work with wet sand.

"When sand is wet, you can move it better," Lewis explained. "Sand falls off a dozer blade when it's dry."

Lewis said his agency's plan is to wait until winter rains swell the lagoon, then declare an emergency before cutting a channel in the sandbar and buttressing the eroding banks that support Scenic Road.

Fifth District Supervisor Dave Potter said the delay also makes good economic sense.

"It's more of a cost-saving issue than anything," Potter said. "If [public works] did the work now, it might erode away when the storm season arrives."

Prior to last winter, Monterey County Public Works had traditionally cut a channel in the southern section of the sandbar to help drain the lagoon and prevent flooding of nearby homes. Last winter, the agency tried a different strategy and cut to the north to accommodate a request by the National Marine Fisheries Service, which was concerned that cuts to the south were draining the lagoon too quickly, sweeping young steelhead out to sea.

John and other residents argued the northerly opening of the sandbar was the cause of erosion that washed away a portion of Carmel River Beach, threatening Scenic Road and a landmark cypress tree.

Most of Carmel River State Beach is inaccessible from the parking lot, due to encroachment of the adjacent lagoon in a channel leftover from last winter's river flow.

Forest service, Big Sur locals closer to agreement on Brazil Ranch

By CHRIS COUNTS

A PROPOSAL by the U.S. Forest Service to host commercial activities at the 1,255-acre Brazil Ranch stirred up a hornet's nest of controversy in Big Sur and is slowly undergoing a transformation at a series of meetings between representatives of the federal agency and the local community.

This week, a U.S. Forest Service official said his agency is willing to abandon plans to host weddings on the ranch.

Since purchasing the former Allen Funt Ranch in 2002 for $23 million, the federal agency has rented out its facilities for weddings, business meetings and other events in an effort to raise the $150,000 needed annually to maintain the property. The forest service also hopes to use buildings on the ranch to host an environmental education center.

Those activities — particularly the plan to promote the ranch as a wedding destination — has served as a rallying point for Big Sur residents who believe the federal agency has been ignoring land use rules. Specifically, locals have contended commercial activities at the ranch are prohibited by the Big Sur Coast Land Use Plan and represent unfair competition to businesses.

But Rich Tobin, director of conservation partnerships for Los Padres National Forest, told The Pine Cone his agency realizes the importance of the local land use plan.

"It's not about the Brazil Ranch," Tobin insisted. "It's about the integrity of the Big Sur Coast Land Use Plan. It is not our intention to ignore the plan. It's our intention to respect it."

That's good news for locals who worried that the federal agency was being held to a different standard than local business owners.

"As long as they are willing to adhere to the same basic rules and regulations that an ordinary citizen goes through, then I am very optimistic," said Alan Perlmutter, a longtime Big Sur resident and business owner who has attended the discussions.

The California Coastal Commission was scheduled to consider the issue in San Francisco Dec. 14-16. But the state agency delayed its hearing so talks could continue. According to county supervisor Dave Potter, the agency will weigh in early next year.

Until then, representatives of the forest service and county government will continue to meet with Big Sur residents in an attempt to work out a compromise. Potter said he is encouraged by the progress the two sides have made.

"I'm pleased to see the forest service is recognizing the community's concerns," he said. "And I'm pleased to see the community isn't beating up on the forest service."

Police blame booze for busy night of stealing and window breaking

By MARY BROWNFIELD

ALCOHOL LIKELY clouded the judgment of the 60-year-old man arrested on suspicion of burglarizing several Carmel restaurants, the 24 year old who allegedly slapped a stranger and then ran from police, and his younger sister, who reportedly broke a store window because she was upset over his arrest.

"Alcohol doesn't make people make good decisions," said officer Chris Johnson, who was on patrol with several other cops late Nov. 23 and early Nov. 24. The Wednesday before Thanksgiving is one of busiest nights of the year for Carmel restaurants and bars. "I guarantee these people wouldn't have done what they did if they had been sober."

Searching for tills

Around 1 a.m. Nov. 24, an alarm summoned police to Merlot Bistro on Ocean Avenue, where they found a smashed window and several bottles of wine that had broken as a result, according to Johnson.

"It looked like someone had attempted to get in, and while we were there, someone called to report a burglary in progress at Em Le's," he said, but the suspect fled about a minute before the cops arrived.

"The witnesses provided a really good vehicle description and suspect description, and they even knew his nickname, because they had been in town earlier having a drink together," Johnson said, adding that they had just met the man that night. "If it weren't for the witnesses, we wouldn't have had anything to go by."

Armed with a license plate number, officers teamed up in groups of two to search alleys, walkways and alcoves.

Carmel Valley

Reward upped to $6,500

THE VANDALS who shattered windows throughout Pebble Beach and Carmel during the past few months have apparently gone underground, and no one has provided any tips to lead to their capture, but the Monterey County Sheriff hopes a big boost in reward money will attract some witnesses bearing useful clues.

The agency is offering $6,500 — including the initial $1,500 offered by Del Monte Forest Property Owners and the Carmel Police Department — for information leading to the arrest and conviction of the culprits who fired ball bearings and BBs through the windows of dozens of vehicles and several homes on the Peninsula.

According to the sheriff's office, the suspect(s) likely: are juveniles or young adults, have access to vehicle(s) or friends who do, own a BB gun or "wrist rocket" slingshot, possess Marksman 3/8-inch steel hunting shot (9.5 mm) and are frequently out at night, particularly on weekends.

Anyone with information should contact deputy Frank Duenas at (831) 647-7702 or the MCSO Crime Tip Line at (888) 833-4847.

Give the gift of life

CARMEL'S FINAL blood drive of 2005 is set for Wednesday, Dec. 7, from 10 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. at the Red Cross chapter house. Organizers hope potential donors — enticed by promises of lunch (including the signature tasty carrot cake) and assisted by phlebotomists from Community Hospital of the Monterey Peninsula — will give "one of the most valuable gifts of the holiday season."

Also this month, Red Cross instructors will offer adult CPR and use of the automated external defibrillator from 9 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. Dec. 10, and community first aid and safety, including adult and child/infant CPR, Dec. 12, from 6 to 10 p.m., and Dec. 13 and 14, from 6 to 9 p.m. Finally, a class on standard first aid and adult CPR is set for 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. Dec. 17.

Students must pre-register for the courses by calling Mary Hill at (831) 624-6921. The Carmel chapter of the American Red Cross is located at Dolores and Eighth.

Wrap up a disaster kit

Pitching an unconventional gift that could save lives during a disaster, the Carmel chapter is selling backpacks filled with items to keep two people safe for 72 hours, the period of time it generally takes emergency workers to arrive and provide care for those who are not critically injured. Each red backpack includes one flashlight, two D batteries, two emergency blankets, a 52-piece first aid kit, two pairs of heavy-duty work gloves, two ponchos, two whistles, two 12-packs of emergency rations, water, 10 Aqua Tabs, two personal hygiene packs, and body wash and shampoo. They cost $55 each. To order, call (831) 624-6921.

And to raise money for the Measles Initiative, a collaborative effort by the American Red Cross, UNICEF and the World Health Organization to vaccinate some 200 million children in Africa, Carmel High and Robert Louis Stevenson students are wrapping gifts in a storefront behind Pacific Tweed at The Crossroads. Their services are available

Saturdays, from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m., and Sundays, from noon to 5 p.m., through Dec. 24.

minority oppose Rancho Cañada Village," said he has a waiting list of 500 people interested in owning a home at Rancho Cañada Village. "We are talking about firemen, policemen, teachers, not to mention all of the people who work in hotels," he said. "You need to have places for them to live."

The development's market-rate homes would subsidize the affordable units, McCoy said.

The LandWatch initiative, which three county supervisors have condemned and agricultural leaders have said would harm the county's economy, would limit growth to existing cities and five community areas: Boronda, Chualar, Castroville, Fort Ord and Pajaro.

"They [LandWatch] are telling people their plan is all about affordable housing, and sure, they promote that," McCoy said. "But you can't push all of the affordable housing into the cities. There's not enough room. And cities don't want all the affordable housing in their area."

In their draft general plan, supervisors have designated the area from Highway 1 to the end of the four-lane portion of Carmel Valley Road as a "rural center" which would be "allowed to develop in a semi-rural character."

Fitz said petitioners, some of whom are paid to collect signatures, are still gathering the required 9,000 names to place the LandWatch measure on the June ballot.

CHIPS ZOLA, about 11, is a Tibetan terrier who was chosen by Mom Marion Zola and Dad Sam Urcis from Perfect Pet Rescue of Los Angeles when he was about-and-a-half years old.

When they first saw Chips, his ribs protruded and his hair was shaved into the equivalent of a canine crew cut.

Under the protective and loving care of Mom Marion, a screenplay writer, novelist and poet, and Dad Sam, a retired venture capitalist, Chips fattened up. When his hair grew, he turned out to be a Tibetan terrier, much to the surprise of all.

He's had surgeries for four herniated disks and a shattered neck disk. Although the surgeries helped a great deal, Chips can't run comfortably on the soft sand of Carmel Beach, so he trots on the walking path overlooking the ocean, and when he tires, Dad and Mom place him in a stroller and continue the walk.

He has a prestigious Southern California zip code, 90210, which is shared by his Tibetan terrier/poodle girlfriend, Koko. Although he loves Beverly Hills, he enjoys frequent visits to the family's second home in Carmel-by-the-Sea.

Generally speaking, Chips doesn't play with toys, but he has been known to select a particularly appealing stuffed animal at Diggidy Dog when the family is in Carmel.

Recently he took a teddy bear off a display shelf there, so Mom and Dad treated him to it. At home, he ignored it completely.

Chips' comprehension of English is so prodigious, Mom and Dad have to spell out words in conversations they don't want him to understand. Fortunately, his spelling isn't all that great.

When back home in Beverly Hills, Chips holds court at Il Fornaio where he enjoys breakfasting, being seen and greeting friends – in true Hollywood style.

Uncrowded. Unspoiled. Undiscovered. McCALL, IDAHO

Sunset Magazine, The Wall Street Journal and USA Today all agree: McCall, Idaho is an undiscovered gem where the skiing is uncrowded, the people are friendly and the prices are affordable. Situated on the shores of pristine Payette Lake and encircled by mountains, McCall is an all-season resort destination offering two ski areas, four golf courses, snowmobiling, fly fishing, whitewater rafting, hiking — and some of the most beautiful scenery this side of Big Sur.

If you are looking for a

Dawson will provide information and answer questions. State tax dollars will cover $373,000 of the work, with the city pitching in an estimated $143,315.

Dead trees disappearing

Meanwhile, Iverson Tree Service, hired by the city in October to remove 37 trees and 22 stumps around town, is slowly finishing the work, according to Branson.

"They asked for an extension on the contract, because they had emergency work to do in Big Sur, but we just want to make sure they finish up here," Branson said. "They just have a handful of trees left," including a large dead pine near the parking lot at the post office and a skinnier tree behind the Carmel Youth Center.

On a Saturday morning a few weeks ago, the company closed one lane of Ocean Avenue for four hours to remove a large pine, prompting complaints from two businesses in the area.

"It's really hard to do something downtown, particularly on Ocean Avenue, no matter when you do it," Branson said.

He said grinding the stumps not only hastens their decomposition and removes them from public view, it might make parking in Carmel a bit easier.

"People drive into them or hit them while parking," he said. "We want to avoid that."

Arbor afternoon

The town where dogs come first, trees come second and people come third is campaigning to regain its Tree City USA status, and Branson will host an informational booth in Devendorf Park prior to Friday's Christmas tree lighting ceremony.

From 1 to 4 p.m. Dec. 2, Branson will answer questions, distribute information on trees, and hand out fliers and city publications. He also hopes to have some trees to give away.

"We're trying to become recognized as a Tree City USA, which we haven't been for a number of years," he said.

The National Arbor Day Foundation, which has distributes the designation to thousands of towns and cities across the nation, requires each to host an arbor event each year, and time was running out for Carmel.

PG&E trims eucalyptus along San Antonio Avenue to prevent limbs from falling on power lines this winter

"The forest and beach commission decided we would have a booth set up because there will be people around for the tree lighting," he said. "And next year, we'll look for something bigger — a day long or a half day that's a little more productive."

got her back to the aquarium," Loufek said.

An examination showed the otter, whose teeth indicated she was fairly old, was suffering from starvation.

"We were able to get a small amount of food into her," Loufek said. But the otter couldn't handle anything more than a "slurry" of chopped-up clams.

Despite their efforts to restore her vigor, the otter's condition worsened. "She was very lethargic throughout the day, turned comatose in the evening and died later that night," Loufek said.

California sea otters, thought to be extinct until a small group was spotted from the Bixby Creek Bridge in 1938, are an endangered species. Their total population is only about 2,200, according to the Friends of the Sea Otter.

graduating with credentials acceptable to state universities because they are either not taking the right courses or are not getting the right grades, according to Bull. "A rigorous high school program is the single most important factor in college completion and levels the playing field for students with diverse backgrounds," she said.

A host of new programs

Another program aimed at raising academic standards at Carmel High, entitled "Literacy across the Curriculum," makes improving in students' reading and writing skills a goal of every class. "It's crucial they have advanced reading skills, no matter what their career goals are," English teacher

Barbara McBride said.

Teachers use scores on standardized tests to identify students reading below their grade level and will establish an afternoon or evening writing lab to help them catch up. "We want to see writing assignments increase in length," she said.

Even extracurricular activities are taking a scholastic bent, with development of a mock trial team, science fairs, a robotics program and greater emphasis on the annual mathematics competition. It also held its first attendance-required academic rally Nov. 18.

Also, to ease the transition from middle school to high school, the district implemented Freshman Focus this year. Teacher Therese Strutner said freshmen had their own orientation and were matched with mentors from upper grades. The program required all 180 freshmen to attend last month's college night.

"Every single one wants to go to a four-year college,"

Strutner said.

Freshman Focus also got kids involved in social activities, exposing them to Associated Student Body events and clubs, and advised them about extracurricular activities, rules and other aspects of high school life. They have a website specifically designed for them.

And to curb drug and alcohol use among students, Pallastrini said the high school would implement a voluntary drug testing program in the 2006/2007 school year.

Just eight CHS seniors have yet to pass the state-mandated high school exit exam. If they don't pass by June, they won't get a diploma.

"The stumbling block for those kids is algebra," Pallastrini said. Mandatory teacher office hours, special algebra classes and a math review course aim to help all students pass. "I want the number to be zero by the time June comes around," Biasotti commented.

Small art will play a big role Christmas morning

By CHRIS COUNTS

THIS HOLIDAY season, small is really big. From candy canes to iPods, the range of gifts that end up in Christmas stockings, instead of under the tree, seems to grow every year. And now, thanks to an innovative alliance between art and commerce, you can add fine art to that list.

In Big Sur, Carmel and Monterey, holiday art shows are celebrating the popularity of miniatures — paintings on canvases as small as 2 by 3 inches, where artists create what is literally a budget line of their work.

“Original art can be really expensive,” explained Tom Birmingham, a photographer and co-director of the nonprofit Big Sur Arts Initiative. “Miniatures give people a chance to own an original without it costing an arm and a leg.” There appears to be no shortage of holiday shoppers and art lovers thinking small.

“After we hang our miniatures, there is usually a line of people waiting to get in the next morning,” said Susan Klusmire, director of the Carmel Art Association. She described the annual event as “wildly successful.”

Starting small

The CAA had its first miniature art show in 1927, the year the organization was founded.

More than a quarter century later, an 11-year-old Dick Crispo displayed his first painting in a Carmel art gallery. Before long, he was producing minia-

Exec Chef Toby Jensen does it all at The Grill on Ocean Avenue

By MARGOT PETIT NICHOLS

‘YOU EAT with your eyes first,’ said Executive Chef Toby Jensen, stressing the importance of how restaurant food is plated. ‘Presentation is the key. It’s not everything, by any means, but it’s so important because it shows the chef cares about what he’s producing.’

Chef Jensen has been caringly holding forth in the kitchen of The Grill on Ocean

Avenue for a year and two months after relocating from Lincoln, Neb., where he worked as sous chef at Wilderness Ridge Lodge.

Having graduated from Western Culinary School in Portland, Ore., in 1995, and interned at Tribeca Restaurant there, Chef Jensen fell under the spell of Asian-influenced cuisine, which he prepared as sous chef at the Gordon Biersch restaurant in Las Vegas, Nev., and at Brooklyn Restaurant in Seattle, Wash.

Here in Carmel, he serves Japanese togarashi chili-crusted ahi tuna and prawns tempura as an appetizer on the dinner menu, and an entrée of seared rare ahi tuna with an said of restaurant cooking, ‘and my parents are proud of me for following my special interest.’ His career choice took them by surprise, however, as Chef Jensen is the first and only member of his family to follow a culinary calling.

His philosophy of cooking incorporates using the freshest ingredients obtainable, ‘and not manipulating them too extensively,’ he said.

Awed by the fresh, organic produce and fresh fish available practically on his doorstep, Chef Jensen is pleased he came to the Monterey Peninsula to accompany his girlfriend, a graduate student studying international environmental law at the Monterey Institute of International Studies.

The restaurant keeps him very busy cooking lunch and dinner at The Grill on Ocean Avenue, but he has the help of two line cooks in the day and three at night.

‘I like making soups and sauces,’ he said, ‘because the end result is all due to combinorange/balsamic reduction, wasabi mashed potatoes and spicy Chinese broccoli with Japanese daikon sprouts.

Back in the ‘90s, he did a year of study at the University of Nebraska near his hometown of Lyon but was lured away from academic studies when he became interested in cooking as his chosen field.

Greatly influenced by the television cooking shows of charismatic Graham Kerr, known as the Galloping Gourmet, and the grande dame of French cooking, Julia Child, he went on to get his culinary credentials in Oregon.

‘I can’t imagine doing anything else,’ he ing ingredients in an imaginative way." Currently on the menu are turkey chili and cream of mushroom soup — the latter made with cultivated button mushrooms and dried porcini. Twice a year he prepares a shrimp bisque, which he considers very special.

"I really like doing everything," he said. "I do all the baking here, too — all the desserts are in-house."

One of his favorite desserts is a warm chocolate cake made from a recipe he imported from the Midwest: A cola cake with a secret ingredient added to the flour, butter, sugar and rich cocoa powder — Pepsi Cola.

But cooking, rather than baking, is his preference, because cooking allows leeway for innovation and experimentation, whereas baking is more scientific.

If a person were to venture into The Grill on Ocean Avenue, never having dined there before, what would Chef Jensen recommend to allow the patron a sampling of the restaurant's style?

For lunch, he recommends the grilled salmon club sandwich: A thinly sliced salmon fillet, cooked on an oak-wood-fired grill and served on a hamburger bun with arugula, a slice of tomato and crisp bacon. A lime/cilantro aioli is the only condiment. Chef Jensen considers this a signature dish. "It signifies what I do," he said.

For dinner, Chef Jensen suggests oven-roasted duck breast, which is prepared medium rare to medium with a tamarind-hoisin glaze.

Accompanying the duck is a fennel/leek gratin. This subtly flavored vegetable side dish is prepared by sautéing in butter thinly

'Dandy Dick' a comedy for the entire family

UNICORN THEATER is presenting "Dandy Dick," by Arthur Wing Penuer, at the Carl Cherry Center for the Performing Arts. Directed by Carey Crockett, performances through Dec. 11 on Saturdays at 8 p.m. and Sundays at 2 p.m. Tickets $18, $15 for students and seniors. Call the box office at (831) 649-0259 or buy online at www.unicorntheatreinc.org.

P.G.'s Christmas at the Inns this week

PACIFIC GROVE'S annual Christmas at the Inns will take place Dec. 6 and 7.

The event, from 6 to 9 p.m., features a tour of 11 of the city's bed-and-breakfast inns. Live music and holiday treats will be available at every location.

Christmas at the Inns is $20 per person for both nights and is sponsored by the Pacific Grove Chamber of Commerce and the heritage society. Call (831) 373-3304 for information.

Gallery targets budget collectors with $99 sale

THERE ARE a lot of forgettable things in this world that cost $99. But an original piece of art generally isn't one of them.

What makes the $99 holiday art show at the Lisa Coscino Gallery remarkable, though, is the sheer volume and diversity of work that is packed into the friendly confines of the 1,600-square-foot gallery in Pacific Grove. Coscino estimated about 800 pieces representing the work of 80 mostly local artists will grace the gallery's walls.

"We don't discriminate and we don't curate," she said. "We just send out an e-mail to everybody and say, 'Tell your friends.'"

The show will feature artwork created in a wide array of media ranging from oils and watercolors, to photography, collages and monotype etchings. The size of canvases varies from 3-by-4 inches to 3-by-4 feet.

The gallery will host an opening reception Friday, Dec. 2, from 6 to 8 p.m. The exhibit will run until Dec. 22. The gallery, located at 216 Grand Ave., is open Tuesdays through Saturdays from 11 to 5 p.m.

under the broiler until browned.

A second side dish of fava bean and sweet corn risotto completes the presentation.

New York strip steak, filet mignon, rack of lamb, oak-grilled chicken and much more are featured on Chef Jensen's menus. Vegetarians are not neglected: The Grill's vegetarian plate includes oak-grilled portobella mushroom, red bell pepper, fresh mozzarella, sun-dried tomato and balsamic aioli as a luncheon entrée, and as a dinner appetizer, a wood-grilled portobella mushroom is offered with herb-marinated artichoke hearts, valley greens and sun-dried tomato in a vinaigrette sauce.

The 70-seat restaurant is attractively decorated with golfing photographs of Pebble Beach, and a fireplace keeps a cheery glow on the walls.

The Grill on Ocean Avenue — between Lincoln and Dolores — is owned by Tony Salameh and Ted Leidig and is open seven days a week and on all holidays.

Luncheon is served daily from 11:30 a.m. to 4 p.m., with dinner from 5 to 9 p.m. weekdays and until 10 p.m. on weekends. Reservations can be made by calling (831) 624-2569.

tures for what had become an annual CAA holiday exhibit. "I usually use oils, but sometimes I use watercolors or pastels," explained Crispo, who lives in Monterey. "I typically will do 12 at a time. I look forward to making a series of paintings with the same idea, but trying it out in different ways. I use miniatures to try out new ideas."

There is little doubt miniatures create a new dimension to art on a commercial level. But how does the downsizing of a piece affect its creative integrity?

"Whether your painting is 4-by-6 inches or 4-by-6 feet, the problem is still the same," Crispo insisted. "A painting still needs to strike the soul."

The CAA — the second oldest artists' co-op in the United States — will host its annual miniatures show from Dec. 8 through Jan. 3. A reception will start things off Friday, Dec. 9, from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. The CAA is located on Dolores Street between Fifth and Sixth and is open daily from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.

From trees to walls

The Monterey Museum of Art's annual holiday fundraiser began in 1968 as a Christmas tree sale at the Monterey County Fairgrounds. Local artisans created ornaments to decorate the trees, and before long, small paintings were hung from a tree's branches before it was auctioned off. By 1994, the tree sale had evolved into an art sale.

This year's MMA miniatures exhibit will feature the works of 330 different artists. Each piece will be raffled off individually Jan. 2. Raffle tickets are $5 each or six for $25. All proceeds from the raffle benefit the museum.

The museum will host an "official" opening reception Dec. 2 (the show has been up since Nov. 17) from 6 to 8 p.m. The exhibit will be on display until Dec. 31.

The museum, at 559 Pacific St. in Monterey, is open Wednesdays through Saturdays from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. and Sundays from 1 to 4 p.m. Admission is $5 for adults and $2.50 for students. There is no charge for children under 12.

Big Sur goes small

Studio One in Big Sur will present a miniatures exhibit from Nov. 25 through Dec. 31. The gallery will host an opening reception Saturday, Dec. 3, from 3 to 7 p.m.

According to Birmingham, the inspiration for the Big Sur show came from his wife, artist Erin Lee Gafill.

"Erin had submitted pieces to the Monterey show for years," recalled Birmingham. "Then she got on a roll and made about 50 small paintings. After that, she said, 'Wouldn't it be fun to get other artists to participate?'"

So Gafill and Birmingham chatted up the idea to a group of friends, neighbors and relatives, and the Big Sur miniatures show soon took on a life of its own. Sixteen artists — including photographer Kim Weston and painters Johnny Apodaca and Heidi Hybl — are participating in the inaugural event.

"It's breathtaking to see the wide range of voices in these pictures," said Birmingham. "There's a lot of real strong work here."

Studio One — which doubles as Gafill's open studio — is located in the Village Shops. Just south of the Big Sur River Inn.

Libraries waive fines, seek food bank donations instead

By CHARYN PFEUFFER

KEEPING A library book past its due date is not only embarrassing, but the fines can really add up.

Even worse is the feeling you get when you find a library book that you'd long forgotten. Sometimes, people don't return them because they feel sheepish about owning up and paying the fines.

Again this year, in honor of the holidays, the Monterey and Pacific Grove public libraries are offering an opportunity to return past-due library items and pay no penalties, thanks to an amnesty program called "Food for Fines." All you have to do is donate a food item instead.

Canned meats, fish, vegetables and fruits; pasta and rice, cereals and grains, dried beans and powdered milk are in especially great demand. The library forwards all donations to the Food Bank for Monterey County.

Monterey Public Library Special Services Coordinator Jeanne McCombs said the Food for Fines program gives patrons a chance to clear up the debt and get into the holiday giving spirit.

"Fines aren't really big revenue generators for the library; we really just want the books back so other people can enjoy them," said the 23-year library staffer. "Plus, it's a great excuse to rotate your earthquake foodstuff supplies," she added with a smile.

The Food for Fines program began just after the Thanksgiving holiday and extends into the New Year.

"It is a time when people are thinking about other people," McCombs added.

In its fifth year, Food for Fines has become a big success. "Last year, we gave approximately 800 pounds of food," McCombs said.

The Food Bank for Monterey County heavily depends upon the generosity of individuals, as well as grants and gifts from foundations, community organizations and businesses. Food and financial donations help low-income residents meet the ongoing challenge of providing food for themselves and their families.

These days, obesity is a much bigger health problem than hunger in the United States. Nevertheless, in 2002, UCLA's California Health Information Study estimated 20 percent of Monterey County and San Benito County residents are "food insecure" — which means they sometimes need help putting dinner on the table.

Between the Asian tsunami, hurricanes Katrina, Rita and Wilma, and the earthquake in Pakistan, people have been digging deep this year to help philanthropic organizations. The challenge to serve the basic needs of those in our local community is increasingly more difficult as a result.

Programs such as Food for Fines, as well as the work of the Food Bank for Monterey County, are hoping local residents won't forget the importance of keeping hunger and malnutrition out of their neighborhoods.

The libraries are offering the Food for Fines exchange through Jan. 2. Monterey will forgive any outstanding fines as well as fines for current overdue books. Pacific Grove's Food for Fines program includes only current overdue penalties. Contributions from those who have no fines will also be welcomed. For more information, call Jeanne McCombs at the Monterey Public Library at (831) 646-3949, the Pacific Grove Public Library at (831) 648-5760 or the Food Bank for Monterey County at (831) 758-1523.

Monterey Public Library volunteer Eric Rowe displays some of the food donated Wednesday in lieu of overdue book fines.

Christmas trees to sparkle Friday

PINE CONE STAFF REPORT

CARMEL AND its chamber of commerce will host the city's annual tree-lighting celebration Dec. 2 beginning at 4 p.m. with the arrival of Santa, escorted by the Carmel Fire Department, in front of Carmel Plaza. Community carolers will assemble on the steps of city hall, Monte Verde Street between Ocean and Seventh, at 4:30 to sing their way up the street to Devendorf Park. Revelers already in the park at Ocean and Junipero will rock to the tunes of Travis Poelle (PacRep Theatre's Buddy Holly) and the cast of the "Roots of Rock 'n' Roll Tribute Concert" as they sing their favorite carols, beginning at 4:30. Festivities will also include the Carmel Middle School Chorus led by Glenda Bernhardt, Myles Williams and Stephen Moorer, who will read the original 1939 story of Rudolf that inspired the song.

The chamber and the Carmel chapter of the American Red Cross will provide refreshments, and Mayor Sue McCloud will light the tree at 5:45 p.m., rain or shine.

And moments later, three prominent figures will flip the switch in Carmel Valley to light the 75-foot tree atop Saddle Mountain that has heralded the arrival of the holiday season in the valley since 1965. Max Drewien, and Owen and Bill Patrick — the three men who lit the massive Christmas tree for the first time four decades ago — will again have the honor.

Keeping with tradition, Mid Valley Volunteer firefighters and employees of the Carmel Valley Fire Protection District will host a celebration at the Mid Valley Station as community members gather to watch the mountaintop tree come to life.

Festivities will begin at 6 p.m. Dec. 2 with egg nog, punch, coffee, holiday treats and mingling at the firehouse, located at 8455 Carmel Valley Road. The tree will be lit at 6:30.

Meg's Health Notes

Presented by
Meg Parker Conners, R.N.

THE LITTLE THINGS MEAN A LOT

Many families mistakenly believe that home health care services are appropriate only if a family member requires medical assistance in the home. But today's home health care services encompass a wide variety of services that can alleviate the daily burden on family and friends who are caring for an ill or elderly person in the home. Companionship and homemaking service providers offer light housekeeping, grocery shopping, meal preparation, and other chores. They can break up the day with a visit or a shared meal, or provide incidental transportation to doctor's appointments, beauty salons, or shopping malls. Doing laundry is another helpful service. How about someone to come play cards, take a walk or see a movie?

Are you caring for a loved one at home and are you often overwhelmed? Do you need some quality time to yourself? For care-giver and housekeeper referrals, contact HELP-AT-HOME. Our home aides are able to provide a full range of services, from running errands and light housekeeping to bathing and dressing assistance. We can even provide a handyman and gardener. Call (831) 655-1966 or (831) 655-5014. You don't have to do it alone.

P.S. Many home health care providers will provide a daily TLC phone call to check in on their patients and families.

Meg Parker Conners is an RN and owner of Victorian Health Care Services, Victorian Residential Care Homes and Help-at-Home, a domestic referral service here in Monterey. For assistance, call 655-1935.

Festive inns welcome visitors during heritage society tour

By MARY BROWNFIELD

IN A city known the world over for its charm, 10 distinctive venues dressed to the holiday nines are sure to captivate participants in the Carmel Heritage Society's Inns of Distinction Tour set for Sunday, Dec. 4, from 2 to 5 p.m. Nibbling fine food provided by Carmel restaurants and imbibing libations served by Monterey County wineries, ticket holders are invited to explore rooms in Carmel's historic, luxurious, quaint and contemporary lodgings. They can also enter to win an overnight stay at one of the inns and dinner for two at a Carmel restaurant, with a prize awarded at each location.

■ The Colonial Terrace Inn, San Antonio and 13th, was built in 1925 and "is reminiscent of a European lodge, with stained-glass windows and stenciled beamed ceiling," according to the heritage society.

■ The Cypress Inn, Lincoln and Seventh, was constructed in 1929. Though recently expanded and remodeled, it retains the historic flavor and dog-friendly reputation furthered by co-owner Doris Day.

■ Happy Landing at Monte Verde and Sixth was designed by storybook-style builder Hugh Comstock and built in 1926. It's commonly considered "one of Carmel's most romantic places to stay," according to the heritage society.

■ La Playa Hotel at Camino Real and Eighth boasts stunning gardens, ocean views and Mediterranean style architecture. Built as an impressive private home in 1904, it became a hotel in 1912.

■ L'Auberge Carmel,

Monte Verde and Seventh, was built in 1929 but recently remodeled and upgraded. Visit the much-praised hotel to glimpse its interior courtyard and upscale restaurant, recently named among the world's top 10 by The Robb Report.

Also on the tour are the Lamp Lighter Inn at Ocean and Camino Real, the Sea View Inn at Camino Real and 11th, the Tally Ho Inn at Monte Verde and Sixth, the Tradewinds Inn at Mission and Third, and the Vagabond House Inn at Dolores and Fourth.

Tickets for the self-guided Inns of Distinction Tour may be purchased in advance for $25 by calling the Carmel Heritage Society at (831) 624-4447 or visiting the First Murphy House, Lincoln and Sixth, until 4 p.m. Saturday, Dec. 3. On the day of the tour, tickets will run $30 and will be for sale at the First Murphy House from noon to 3 p.m. or at any participating inn starting at 2 p.m.

Your personal residence at Carmel Valley Manor reflects your own attention to interior design, and your patio or balcony links you to the Manor's beautifully landscaped grounds. WHAT WE DO BEFORE PLACING EMPLOYEES IN YOUR HOME

Our employees work in our clients' homes, so we are very careful about screening for any past offenses. We also check driving records and test for substance abuse. In addition, we bond our employees for your protection.

We handle all the payroll-related details such as withholding of taxes, payment of workers compensation and compliance with all government regulations, which grow more complex each year. We train them upon employment and pay them to attend continuing education classes. And we reward them with the best benefit package of any local home care agency.

All this takes place behind the scenes. What you see is a friendly, professional Personal Attendant backed up by a supervising Home Care Coordinator and by every procedure we have established for your protection.

Chavira's Sept. 29 letter said a Sept. 21 investigation, requested by the city, revealed "grime and grease has accumulated along the grounds of the facility's garbage storage area," which "will result in the illegal dumping of polluted water into the city's storm drain system," in violation of California Uniform Retail Food Facilities and Regional Water Quality Control laws. It gave recipients two weeks to clean their garbage areas and develop a plan for compliance.

"We have two or three health department inspections a year," said Johnson, who has managed the restaurant for seven years. "We've never had an issue with grease here."

The restaurant has a gold seal from the health department, according to Johnson, and workers don't wash kitchen mats outside, they clean the grease trap daily, and a tallow company carts away the grease.

"We make very sure we don't make messes," he said. Johnson could not say what might have caused city building official Tim Meroney and county health to peg his restaurant as a possible violator.

And county health did not investigate the restaurant Sept. 21 or followup on the matter, he said. An inspector visited Oct. 3 but did not look into the issues raised in the letter.

"Our corporate standards are higher than the city's, and for someone to come out and say we're not complying, with no proof, is exasperating," Johnson said.

Sutton had similar complaints. The market uses dumpsters and also pays a tallow company to haul meat scraps and used oil away. Workers do so little rinsing of greasy products that the market received permission years ago to remove the costly and large trap installed in its basement parking garage.

"They obviously didn't inspect, because there's no way they would have found anything," Sutton said. "We've been 70 years in Carmel and have a pretty good reputation."

As soon as he received the letter, Sutton said he contacted city administrator Rich Guillen and asked him to correct the error with the health department.

He suspects the mistake occurred when Meroney saw greasy water in the gutter in front of the San Carlos Street market and assumed it was generated by Nielsen's. Sutton said night crews cleaning nearby restaurants were probably responsible for the mess and pointed out that the market's drain leads to Seventh Avenue, not San Carlos.

"The health department comes two or three times a year," Sutton said. "And I've never had any problem with grease."

ARRESTS

Johnson and reserve officer Tim Meroney spied Salinas resident Raymond "Uncle Ray" Vasquez' car parked on Dolores Street, and moments later they discovered a broken window at The Tuck Box restaurant.

"We could hear movement in the kitchen inside the business, so we set up a perimeter, and the sheriff's office responded as well," Johnson said. "We kept calling him and calling him."

Vasquez wouldn't come out, so police requested a K-9 from Salinas, but the man emerged five minutes later, before the dog arrived.

"He had some cash as well as a lot of change, which had been stolen from the register at Em Le's," Johnson said. Police charged Vasquez with two counts of burglary and may finger him in the attempted break-in at Merlot. Johnson said he might also be responsible for a similar incident in the sheriff's jurisdiction.

"The fact that he was intoxicated probably factored into it," Johnson said.

Just before midnight, Johnson and officer Jeff Watkins arrested Philip and Morgan Borup following a reported drunken altercation and foot pursuit that led into a crowded bar.

"We were driving down the street, and there were cars parked in the road," Johnson said. "When we got closer, we could hear people yelling, and it sounded like a fight."

A man told police Philip Borup had slapped him, and the suspect took off running from Dolores Street, through a walkway and into the crowded Hog's Breath Inn, according to Johnson. "By the time we caught up to him, he was grabbing patrons and pushing them in front of us," he said.

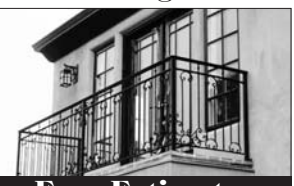

They arrested Borup for battery, fighting in public, resisting arrest and public intoxication, and while placing him in their squad car, Johnson said they heard a window break in a nearby alley.

"Witnesses said his sister smashed it, because she was so upset because we were arresting her brother," he said. "She said she threw her body against it." Morgan Borup, 22, was cited for vandalism and released. The Borups are from Carmel but have been away at school, according to Johnson.

"That night was busy," he said. Police also arrested transient William Small, 61, on suspicion of being drunk in public.

JELLIES

On Tuesday, the aquarium announced it has Australian spotted jellies, or Phyllorhiza punctata, and the rarely-seen Leucothea pulchra, a type of comb jelly found in Monterey Bay, in its "Jellies: Living Art" exhibit.

"It's one of the most beautiful things you will see on earth," aquarium spokesman Ken Peterson said of the jellies. "It looks like something you would see at Tiffany's."

The display marks just the second time anywhere in the world the Leucothea pulchra species has been shown outside the wild, Peterson said. They were first displayed by the aquarium in 2002.

The Leucothea pulchra, Latin for "beautiful white spectacle," is a shallow-water species found only during late fall and winter between Central California and the Sea of Cortez.

Australian spotted jellies are new to "Jellies: Living Art" exhibit at the Monterey Bay Aquarium

"They're incredibly beautiful, incredibly complex and incredibly fragile," said Matsumoto, who studied the species for his Ph.D. thesis.

The colorful jelly creates flashing patterns of rainbow light when white light is diffracted as it passes through its pulsing ctenes-rows, which help it move through water.

"It's the only ctenophore (comb jelly) to travel using jet propulsion, and the only one that can fly underwater," he said. "They can curl their oral lobes and squirt water between them at very high velocity."

The Australian spotted jellies have a striking pale sapphire bell patterned with tiny silvery-white dots, Peterson said.

The Australian jellies, unlike the comb jellies that were found in the wild, were raised by staff biologists from animals sent to the aquarium by Zoo-Aquarium Berlin.

The Monterey Bay Aquarium also has thousands of silvery anchovies in its three-story Kelp Forest exhibit, and in an above-head, 15,000-gallon oval exhibit at the entrance to the Outer Bay Galleries.

more than 20.

"That's testimony to how he conducted business," Glidden said. "We all knew him and respected him."

Mr. Cope visited Carmel every week. Staying at his Pebble Beach home on the 2nd Hole at Cypress Point, he would eat lunch at La Playa on Thursdays and bring family and friends to dine during the weekend.

"He wasn't checking on us but was proud enough to frequent the place," Glidden said.

Mr. Cope's fascination with history inspired him to decorate La Playa Hotel with maps, memorabilia and other Monterey Peninsula artifacts.

"The reason all those old gems are there is my father was really an Old West aficionado," said John Cope, who works in the family business. "He was very knowledgeable about it."

The Firehouse Restaurant, which Newton Cope opened 45 years ago in a circa-1853 Sacramento fire station and owned until 1999, had Wyatt Earp's gun and plenty of antique firefighting equipment in its collection. The Huntington Hotel showcases the history of San Francisco, and especially of the Big Four railroad barons (Leland Stanford, Mark Hopkins, Charles Crocker and Colis Huntington).

In 1967, Cope's Nob Hill Properties opened Tra Vigne restaurant in St. Helena. Later, it grew to include several San Francisco and Napa properties as well as the Carmel lodgings. He became president of the company in 1976 and was chairman of the board at the time of his death.

John Cope said family ties to Carmel motivated his father to buy La Playa in 1982 and Cottages-by-the-Sea, which other would-be purchasers wanted to demolish, in 1990. His first in-laws, J.J. and Marge Jacobs, lived on San Antonio Avenue. Mr. Cope married their daughter, Marilyn, in 1945; they divorced in 1967.

Crash landing

Born in Bakersfield in April 1922, Mr. Cope moved to Sacramento with his family shortly after the death of his father in 1932. He attended UC Berkeley and in 1942 entered the Army Air Force to become a pilot instructor. In 1950, as a captain in the Air Force Reserve, he was called up for the Korean War.

During a training exercise at McClellan Air Force Base in Sacramento in April 1951, an engine stalled, forcing him to crash land on the golf course at Del Paso Country Club.

Monterey Peninsula auto dealership owner Don Butts, who knew Mr. Cope 25 years, said he was a prankster who found himself on the receiving end of a practical joke following that accident.

"He landed it perfectly and walked away, and then some of his pals got hold of some stationery for the Air Force," Butts said. Citing a dollar amount "eight times his net worth at that point," Butts said, they sent a letter demanding Mr. Cope cover the damage to the airplane and the golf course.

Shortly after his crash landing, Mr. Cope went to work for J.J. Jacobs Cadillac and Buick Companies in Sacramento, purchasing the Buick agency in 1951. He sold it and began buying property in Old Sacramento in 1959.

A charmer

John Cope described his father as "a man's man, a guy who did it his way," and said he was adept at crossing social boundaries.

"He started out very poor, and as a younger man, he did a lot of hunting, fishing and camping," he said. "As he grew older, he added the social things. He had lots of friends, because he could do it all."

Butts often encountered him at the Old Capitol Club, where Mr. Cope would play dominoes before lunch, as well as at parties.

"I would always try to seek him out, because I knew if I could get near Newton, I was going to have a good time," he said. "I never met a more charming man."

Known for telling off-color tales with gusto, Mr. Cope was "the ultimate rascal" who liked to take controversial positions just to keep conversation lively, according to Butts.

"He liked action, and if they weren't happening, he would make things happen," said Butts, who last saw his friend about three weeks ago. "You could not be around Newton and not have fun."

Mr. Cope was predeceased by his second wife, Dorothy Fritz MacMasters. He is survived by his first wife and Marion Rumsey Moore, whom he married in 1989; his children, Catherine MacMillan, Newton A. Cope Jr., John J. Cope, Serena Fritz Cope and Callaghan Fritz Cope; his adopted children, Marguerite Fritz-Cope and Isabelle Fritz-Cope, and nine grandchildren. At his request, no services will be held.

Donations may be sent to the Cardiology Division, UCSF, in care of Dr. William Grossman, 505 Parnassus Ave., Box 0124, San Francisco, CA 94143-0124.

PUBLIC NOTICE

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that the Design Review Board of the City of Carmel-by-the-Sea will conduct a public hearing in the City Hall Council Chambers, located on the east side of Monte Verde between Ocean and Seventh Avenues, on Wednesday, December 14, 2005. The public hearings will be opened at 4:30 p.m. or as soon thereafter as possible. Following a staff report on the project, the applicant and all interested members of the public will be allowed to speak or offer written testimony. Decisions to approve or deny the project may be appealed to the City Council by filing a written notice of appeal with the office of the City Clerk within ten (10) working days following the date of action by the Design Review Board and paying a $260.00 appeal fee as established by the City Council. For those projects listed as appealable to the California Coastal Commission, appeals may be filed directly with the Coastal Commission for no fee, by filing a written notice of appeal with the Coastal Commission's Central Coast office in Santa Cruz. Such appeals must be filed within ten working days of the Coastal Commission's receipt of the City's Final Local Action Notice.

If you challenge the nature of the proposed action in court, you may be limited to raising only those issues you or someone else raised at the public hearing described in this notice, or in written correspondence delivered to the Design Review Board or the City Council at, or prior to, the public hearing.

PUBLIC NOTICE

Carmel Area Wastewater District

P.O. Box 221428, Carmel, CA 93922
(831) 624-1248 • FAX (831) 624-0811

NOTICE OF AVAILABILITY OF AN INITIAL STUDY NOTICE OF INTENT TO ADOPT A NEGATIVE DECLARATION

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN THAT the Carmel Area Wastewater District (CAWD), State of California, has established a 30-day public review period, in accordance with Sections 15072 of the California Environmental Quality Act (CEQA), on a proposed Negative Declaration for their Salinity Management Project (hereafter, the "project").

PROJECT DESCRIPTION: The Project is intended to improve the quality and quantity of recycled water that is currently being supplied by CAWD's Wastewater Treatment Plant (WWTP) to seven golf courses within the Pebble Beach Community Services District (PBCSD) jurisdiction and other landscaped areas. The PBCSD serves users within the Del Monte Forest area (a local area plan component of the Monterey County General Plan).

The CAWD / PBCSD / Pebble Beach Company Recycled Water Project was constructed and began operation in 1994 and has resulted in reduced potable water use; however, the use of recycled water resulted in damage to the turf grass at the golf courses due to the high concentrations of sodium and other salts in the existing recycled water supply. To prevent that damage, the turf must be flushed with potable water to reduce the salt buildup. The primary purpose of the project is to meet the irrigation requirements of the golf courses and other open spaces in the Del Monte Forest by providing a high quality recycled water supply sufficient to eliminate the need for potable water use on the golf courses except in case of emergencies. The project would involve minor physical changes to the CAWD plant, including the following:

- installation of microfiltration and reverse osmosis systems within a new two story building with a footprint not to exceed 10,000 square feet, with the first floor enclosed by walls and second floor open with a canopy cover,
- trenching for and installation of new pipelines, and
- changes to the treatment processes inside the existing facility buildings.

PROJECT LOCATION: The Project site is located within the County of Monterey, California The approximately 8-acre CAWD WWTP site is located south of the Carmel River and the Carmel Mission, and west of Highway 1.

AVAILABILITY OF INFORMATION: Copies of the Initial Study and proposed Negative Declaration are available for review at the CAWD office (3945 Rio Road, Carmel, CA 93922). Written comments on the proposed Negative Declaration will be accepted up to the close of the public review period on Friday, December 30, 2005. Interested parties and individuals can contact Ray von Dohren or Sanford Veile at (831)624-1248 for more information or questions regarding the proposed development.

PUBLIC HEARING: The CAWD Board will consider this proposal at a public hearing during their regularly scheduled meeting on Thursday, January 19, 2005 at 7:00 PM in the Board Chambers at the CAWD office 3945 Rio Road, Carmel, CA 93923.

Editorial

ADA the way it should be

FEARING THEY'D be targeted by the big city newspapers, where shallow journalism is much more common than it should be, legislators in Sacramento and Washington chickened out when it came to reforming state and federal handicapped accessibility laws.

Fortunately, a handful of federal judges figured out a way to stop the worst abusers of the ADA lawsuit mill. Numerous suits have been tossed out of court, with the most hopeful sign of all being the effort waged by U.S. District Court judges Edward Rafeedie and Stephen Wilson.

Molski was a self-appointed ADA enforcement squad, traveling up and down the state, dropping in on businesses here and there, looking for the slightest violation of state or federal laws — something that's very easy to find, considering the complexity and ambiguity of the statutes in question.

We can only hope that an appeals court won't allow Molski to restart his corrupt venture. If the trial judges' rulings are allowed to stand, a bit of common sense will be restored to the question of handicapped accessibility by making it primarily a local issue.

And that's the way it should be.

How old?

UNLESS IT was the setting for an event of epic proportions, there is no way a building can be historic when it is just 34 years old. Fans of the former bank building at Dolores and Seventh may have perfectly good reasons to like the place.

"Isn't he cute?" "Not particularly."

Democracy thwarted indeed Dear Editor,

The editor is quite right to point out that we have a court system to ensure that our constitution is being upheld (Nov. 18). But courts do more than that. They also determine whether laws have been broken.

It appears that the city council was quite aware of this issue and concluded that it might not win a popular vote. It's likely that the council rightfully concluded that a majority of Carmelites might not want the heart of its largest park removed from public use.

also be of great interest to the judge. After all, the piece of land in question lies in the heart of the park and was zoned as parkland shortly after it was incorporated into the Mission Trail park in the '70's.

The courts now have to review whether the city has indeed broken the law. As residents, voters, and as the local watchdog newspaper, we should welcome that review.

The council could easily have prevented this lawsuit if it had followed its own land use laws and policies as well as state laws and simply gone to the voters to ask for approval of the sale.

Misses Bath House

Dear Editor,

I am saddened by the recent closing of the Old Bath House in Pacific Grove.

As a handicapped person, I resent the fact that restaurants, wineries, etc., are being made to comply with wheelchair accessibility at astronomical costs.

Is the woman who sued Pacific Grove really doing this to help other handicapped people? Is she donating the money she has received to charity? Is her attorney donating part of his proceeds to charity?

Wouldn't it be easier and more charitable to just choose another restaurant that is wheelchair accessible? Pacific Grove is full of wonderful restaurants that can accommodate wheel chairs. Why single out those that can't?

Breguet
Depuis 1775

Breguet now reveals over two centuries of watchmaking tradition

One of the most famous Breguet inventions is the pare-chute. When a watch falls or receives a blow, it is the balance pivots that are the most likely to suffer, because of their slenderness. As early as 1790, Breguet made them shorter and gave them a conical shape. They are held in place by a small coupelle of a suitable shape, which is mounted on a spring blade. When the watch receives a blow, the pivot, rather than breaking, is dislodged and then returns automatically to its correct position, sliding on the sides of the coupelle. Also called the “elastic” balance suspension, Breguet’s pare-chute is the ancestor of the modern Incabloc and all other shock-protection devices.

Inspired by a souscription watch, “La Tradition Breguet” salutes one of Breguet’s most important inventions, the pare-chute. Hand-wound mechanical movement, caliber 507DR, with straight-line lever escapement, monometallic balance and Breguet overcoil.

driver and the passenger, a male and female, had gotten out of the vehicle and were yelling at each other in the middle of the road.

MONDAY, NOVEMBER 21

Carmel-by-the-Sea: Person turned in a cellphone that was not found in the city. The phone was found in the Monterey County area on Ribera Road. The person wanted to leave the phone at Carmel P.D. Officer was able to contact the owner, and the phone was subsequently returned this date. This report was taken as an assist for the Monterey County Sheriff's Office.

Carmel-by-the-Sea: Citizen reported two dogs running at large in the area of Eighth Avenue. The owner located the dogs on Scenic and was contacted. Owner stated the gate was left open by the gardener. Warning given.

Carmel-by-the-Sea: Public works reported a dog loose in the roadway on Torres. The dog was located and captured in a door of an apartment. A note was left on the door, and the dog was transported to CPD. The dog was lodged in the department kennels until the owner was located. Dog owner warned and kennel fees paid.

Carmel-by-the-Sea: Report of a dog collapsed on the beach. Animal control officer and corporal responded and transported the dog to the veterinary office.

Carmel-by-the-Sea: A female subject called the police department to report that someone had damaged the wooden garage door at an Ocean Avenue residence. She had no idea if the owners had done the damage or if it was done by someone else. Upon looking at the damage, it appeared as though a vehicle had struck the door. The hinges were broken off of the right side, and there was a long straight indentation approximately 2 inches from the ground. This was possibly made with a bumper. Records at city hall indicated the property was held by a trust based in Menlo Park. A deputy was sent to that location to attempt contact with a representative of the trust.

Carmel-by-the-Sea: Fire engine responded to a fire alarm activation at Carmelo and 10th. Arrived on scene. Alarm activation was caused by burnt toast. Resident stated she turned off alarm and refused to give her name or other information.

Carmel-by-the-Sea: Traffic accident on public property on Seventh Avenue. Property damage only.

Carmel-by-the-Sea: Person reported a male adult subject in front of her Ocean Avenue business playing music. She asked him to leave because it was disturbing her customers, and he refused. Officers made contact with the subject as he was leaving. He was field-interviewed and given a warning.

Carmel-by-the-Sea: Fire engine responded to wires down on Monte Verde at Eighth. PG&E was already on scene on our arrival. There was a telephone wire down in the roadway. There was another telephone wire hanging down from the pole. Firefighters tied that to the pole with yellow marker tape. FireComm was advised to notify SBC.

Carmel Valley: A 72-year-old female reported losing about $275 in cash and checks in donations she collected while attending a memorial service at the community center on Ford Road.

Big Sur: A 35-year-old male reported that a bag containing his wallet and passport was stolen from a dressing room at the Esalen Institute on Sunday, Nov. 20, between 2100 and 2200 hours. Estimate of loss $252.

Carmel Valley: A male Poppy Road resident, age 50, reported receiving two unwanted annoying telephone calls on Oct. 18. He provided the name of the suspect and requested prosecution. Case continues.

TUESDAY, NOVEMBER 22

Carmel-by-the-Sea: Eight citations issued to drivers for California Vehicle Code violations on Junipero Street, Second Avenue, Lobos Street and San Antonio Avenue.

Carmel-by-the-Sea: Person called to say that a citizen had seen a truck back into his parked car on Ocean Avenue. The witness told him that it was a white 3/4-ton pickup that was last seen westbound on Ocean Avenue. The owner was told that the driver got out of the truck, looked at the front of the reporting party's car and then drove away. Observed minor damage to the grille area of the front of the RP's car. There were no paint transfers from the truck. Searched for the witness but was unable to locate him. Additional units searched for the vehicle but did not find it. Officer asked the RP if he wanted a collision report. He wasn't sure. He was then advised that the report would get routed through the DMV and his insurance company. He said he did not want a collision report. He was told the incident would be documented as an information-only case.

Carmel-by-the-Sea: Male reported losing his wallet in the business district.

Perfect Pairing

The beauty of Monterra with the finest luxury homes

The only thing missing is the moat.

High atop a verdant mountain overlooking a restless sea, there sits an enchanted neighborhood known as Paseo Vista at Monterra. A place whose silence is interrupted only by birdsong, whose serenity is inspired by the presence of a doe and her fawn. A place whose story is told in elderly oaks and wildflower meadows. A place of sunny days, starry nights and spectacular dreams.

Just beyond the guarded gate, a castle rises like a vision in the distance, its magnificent architecture a complement to the landscape. Nestled within the sun-drenched hills of Monterra is the extra-ordinary neighborhood of Paseo Vista.

Consisting of 15 luxurious homes of Spanish and European influences, custom design and exquisite craftsmanship. Starting price is $3 million. From there, it depends on your vision.

Your kingdom awaits.

Junipero.

Carmel-by-the-Sea: Male lost his front license plate in the vicinity of Dolores between Fifth and Sixth.

Carmel-by-the-Sea: Person reported loud music coming from the theater on Monte Verde Street at 2145 hours. Officers arrived and made contact with the band. The band was practicing for an upcoming show and was finished before 2200 hours.

Carmel-by-the-Sea: Fire engine responded to request for mutual aid to a structure fire on South Carmel Hills Drive. Upon arrival, the engine was canceled and returned to a previous detail. The fire had begun and was confined to the stove. Cypress Fire Protection District firefighters responded and handled the call.

Carmel Valley: Female reported her ex-husband stole her dog in Gonzales. She wanted help recovering the dog in Carmel Valley.

Carmel-by-the-Sea: Fire engine responded to a request for public assistance for a residential lockout on Dolores at Fifth in the Norton Court apartments. Firefighters opened the locked door with a key from the Knox Box for the resident of the unit. Neighbors confirmed that resident belonged in that unit.

Carmel-by-the-Sea: Fire engine and ambulance responded to a request for public assistance for a possible faulty light switch at a home on the southeast corner of Torres and Sixth. Emergency personnel shut off power to the switch that was concerning the resident and advised her to contact a licensed electrician first thing the next morning.

Carmel area: A 55-year-old female Aguajito Road resident reported theft of mail from her mailbox. No suspect information.

Pebble Beach: Female subject, age 24, reported losing her cellular phone at one of the golf courses (unknown which one) in the Pebble Beach area. Estimated loss value $200.

Carmel Valley: An employee of a shop on Chambers Lane reported that someone entered the business and stole the deposit bags containing money and a leather jacket.

WEDNESDAY, NOVEMBER 23

Carmel-by-the-Sea: Subject requested an area check of a Monte Verde Street residence. She was given permission to use the residence, since it is currently unoccupied, by a man she met. She was given the key to the residence and has used it on several occasions since Oct. 7. On Nov. 16, she entered the residence to find an unknown male sleeping in one of the bedrooms. Not knowing who he was, she left the residence. Stating that she is a writer and musician, she said she was planning on staying at the residence on Thanksgiving Day after 10 a.m. and wanted to make sure the subject from last week was no longer at the residence. She was advised to contact CPD prior to entering the residence on Nov. 24.

Carmel-by-the-Sea: Thirteen citations issued to drivers for California Vehicle Code violations on Junipero Street, San Carlos Street, 13th Avenue, Dolores Street, Rio Road, Ocean Avenue, Santa Lucia Avenue and Scenic Road.

Carmel-by-the-Sea: Vehicle was parked on Junipero Street displaying expired registration. The vehicle was towed per the authority of the CVC.

check, the suspect's vehicle was located at Dolores and Seventh. While on foot, units located a broken window at a Dolores Street restaurant. Officers located the suspect inside the business. The male, age 60, was taken into custody and charged with two counts of burglary.

Carmel-by-the-Sea: Person reported a broken tree limb in front of the post office on Fifth Avenue. Units responded and moved the tree off the sidewalk. The city forester was advised. Information only.

Carmel-by-the-Sea: Traffic collision, hit-and-run, on Seventh Avenue east of Monte Verde. Vehicle was drivable.

Carmel-by-the-Sea: Female Lincoln Street resident reported she heard what sounded like a raccoon outside her window at 2315 hours. The noise lasted for approximately 15 minutes. Her dog barked and the noise stopped. When she woke up today, she realized her window as ajar and there were pry marks on her window. The area around the window was undisturbed, and units could not determine if the pry marks were fresh. She was advised to secure her window. Units will close patrol the house. Information only.

Carmel-by-the-Sea: Female reported her mother's purse was lost while dining at a hotel restaurant on Camino Real. She checked with the hotel, and the purse was not found. She wanted to report the incident in case the purse was turned in.

Carmel-by-the-Sea: Units responded to a possible theft from a San Carlos Street liquor store. Suspect was found in the area and was in possession of one of the bottles of liquor that was reportedly stolen. Additionally, he was found to be intoxicated. The male suspect, age 61, was arrested on Mission Street north of Seventh for theft with priors.

Carmel-by-the-Sea: Fire engine and ambulance responded to a medical emergency on Junipero at Fourth at the Carmel Police Department. Firefighters assisted ambulance personnel with patient assessment, bleeding control with gauze and roller bandage, and gathering information on a male who sustained a laceration to his left wrist. The patient was intoxicated and in police custody in handcuffs and was uncooperative, verbally abusive and combative. Because of this, emergency personnel were unable to properly evaluate and examine the patient beyond controlling the bleeding. Once this was accomplished, the call was completed.

Carmel Valley: A 38-year-old female Paso Cresta Road resident reported she was having child custody issues with her ex-husband.

Carmel Valley: A 50-year-old female subject was stopped at Carmel Valley Road and Brookdale Road for vehicle code violations. California Highway Patrol was called for DUI investigation. She was subsequently arrested for DUI.

FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 25

Carmel-by-the-Sea: Traffic collision on public property on Santa Rita Street. Vehicle was drivable.

Carmel-by-the-Sea: Citation issued to a driver on Carmel Valley Road for a vehicle code violation.

Carmel-by-the-Sea: A female suspect, age 54, was arrested at Monte Verde and Sixth at 2354 hours for public intoxication.

Carmel Valley: A male subject, age 30, reported a broken window in a Loma del Rey house he was sent to exterminate. On examination it was determined the window was broken from the inside. No resident of the house was present. A note was left.

SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 26

Carmel-by-the-Sea: Three citations issued to drivers southbound on Junipero, eastbound on Ocean and on Fifth Avenue for vehicle code violations.

Carmel-by-the-Sea: Fire engine and ambulance responded to request for public assistance for a person stuck in an elevator in Norton Court at Dolores and Fifth. Firefighters found an elderly woman in the elevator stuck between the ground and second floors. An attempt to activate the elevator motor was not successful, so the elevator door was removed. She was assisted through the opening to the ground and then to her apartment on the second floor. Elevator door placed in a downstairs apartment and opening taped off with yellow emergency tape. Message left at the Carmel Foundation.

Carmel area: Carmel Police Department requested Monterey County Sheriff's deputy assistance with found property at Highway 1 and Rio Road.

Carmel area: Subject obtained hairstyle services from a 35-year-old female on Carmel Rancho Lane and did not pay the agreed-upon cost.

Carmel Valley: A 42-year-old female reported that while she was incarcerated at Monterey County Jail for eight months, several items may have been taken from her Cachagua Road residence.
