Cabaret fundraiser will launch 70th Bach fest

By PAUL MILLER

WHEN YOU'RE watching an orchestra somberly performing one of the great pieces by Bach, Mozart or Beethoven, did you ever wonder what the musicians do when they let their hair down?

This year's Bach Festival will give you a chance to find out with a special pre-festival fundraiser, "70th Anniversary Cabaret Celebration," according to the festival's managing director, Jesse Read.

"Years ago, we would have cast parties at the end of the festival, where musicians would play Broadway show tunes, cabaret music and the like, and they were always a big hit," Read recalled. "People clamored to get seats at the parties

LAWSUIT AGAINST PRIEST IS HIS SECOND FOR ALLEGED DEFAMATION

By KELLY NIX

AN EPISCOPALIAN rector accused of defaming a former church member was sued by another parishioner in 2005 for the same thing, according to court records.

St. John's Chapel priest William Martin, facing allegations he defamed Rayn Random, was sued by former parishioner Donald Howard — an attorney — for "slanderous" comments the priest allegedly made about him.

In 2004, Martin told people Howard and his wife had "stolen meat from the church" while they prepared meals at St. John's, and that Howard had a "large legal malpractice judgment entered against him" because he and his wife "had betrayed client confidences by relating client information to improper third parties," according to the lawsuit.

"These false and untrue statements directly impeach me in my profession as a lawyer and charged me with a criminal act," according to a statement made by Howard for the May 9, 2005, lawsuit, which was never pursued beyond being filed.

Howard, who now lives in North Carolina, told The Pine Cone Thursday he hasn't decided if or when he'll rekindle the suit.

"No further action has been taken," Howard said of the lawsuit. "As to whether I will or not, I haven't made a lot of decisions about it."

Howard said he and his wife had a four-year association

Asks judge to overturn voters' rejection of Measure D

By KELLY NIX

THE DEVELOPER of the Butterfly Village housing subdivision north of Salinas has filed a lawsuit against Monterey County to invalidate Measure D, which voters rejected in a June 5 special election.

On June 14, property owner Moe Nobari filed the lawsuit arguing the referendum violates a 2001 court order directing the county to adopt a growth plan for the property, which has long been designated for high intensity residential and commercial development in the county general plan. In November 2005, after being advised by former county administrator Sally Reed that failure to abide by Silver's ruling could cost taxpayers as much as $100 million, the board of supervisors approved a proposal for the property that included more than 1,000 homes.

After a dispute about whether petitions challenging the approval of Butterfly Village had to be circulated in Spanish, United States District Court Judge James Ware ordered the county to put the issue to voters June 5. The results were overwhelming: Butterfly Village was rejected by 63 percent of the county electorate, according to the latest tally.

But Nobari's attorney, Mark Blum, said voters have no more authority than supervisors to change Silver's order.

"It all rests on the principle of separation of powers," Blum said Tuesday. "Since the elected county government is unable to defy a court order, neither can the voters. The county is bound by it and can't undo its compliance."

Silver's decision was made after a 1999 lawsuit Nobari filed against the county seeking to have supervisors prepare and adopt a "specific plan" for the project, in accordance with the general plan in effect at the time Nobari brought his plan to the county.

According to Nobari's petition, Silver's decision is still binding, another judge "should declare Measure D to be

Ambitious Carmel film festival planned

By KELLY NIX

THE CONCEPT was forged over breakfast at a diner in Seaside: Organize a world-renowned film festival in Carmel.

One year later after that memorable talk over toast, organizers Scott Brown and Hollywood producer Joey Rappa have planned the five-day festival, which is set to kick off Oct. 8-12, 2008.

"Carmel is known for having a pretty strong filter of what comes in," Brown said. "But the city embraced the idea and was just great from the very start."

The Film Festival at Carmel will focus on American independent films, but will also show documentaries, foreign, short and student films and larger studio movies, Brown said.

"Our goal for our first year is to receive between 800 to 1,000 [films], from which we'll choose 120," Brown said.

Movies galore

But even before the five-day festival in 2008, film buffs who join the nonprofit Carmel Film Society can watch monthly movies at various locations on the Peninsula, beginning this August.

Members, who can join from $100 to $25,000, will have access to once-a-month film-related events such as sneak previews and screenings, Brown said.

"We wanted something that was year-round," he said.

And filmgoers will see movies in some unique venues. Sunset Center will be the festival's home base.

"We want Carmel to be front and center," he said. "Movies at the beach, at Carmel Mission. Maybe even drive-in movies at a vineyard."

Man dies after cliff-diving at 'The Gorge' in Big Sur

By CHRIS COUNTS

A 23-YEAR-OLD man died Monday at the Santa Clara Medical Center from injuries sustained when he dove into a shallow swimming hole in the Big Sur River the day before.

According to eyewitness accounts, Brian John McLaren dove headfirst off rocks "10-15 feet high" Sunday at about 3:35 p.m. Apparently, he thought he was diving into a deep pool, but state parks public safety superintendent Lorin Rex said he hit a submerged rock "just below the surface." The accident occurred at a popular spot known locally as "The Gorge."

"Diving off those rocks is super-dangerous," Rex said. "We only have about half the water in the river this year that we normally would have."

After McLaren was injured, his fiancée reportedly raced

USED GOODS AT YELLOW BRICK ROAD BRING IN A LOT OF GREEN

By KELLY NIX

THE CARMEL-based nonprofit Yellow Brick Road Benefit Shop, which donates its proceeds to numerous local charities, has announced it's reached the $3 million mark in fundraising after 17 years of being in business.

The nonprofit, a mission outreach program of Carmel Presbyterian Church, raises money by selling "gently used" donated merchandise at its 1,800 square-foot store at 26388 Carmel Rancho Lane.

"There are 301 local nonprofits who have received grants," from Yellow Brick Road, said Susan Lukowski, director of publicity for the nonprofit, "and 56 high school students going on to college have received scholarships of $2,000 to $3,000."

One of the organization's recipients, the Prostate Cancer Self-Help Group of the Central Coast, benefited early from the nonprofit organization.

"Yellow Brick Road helped us get started with seed money 13 years ago," said Paul Soifer, the group's founder. "Now we have 585 members."

It took Yellow Brick Road a decade to reach the $1 million milestone in grants. By 2003, the shop had given away its second million before reaching $3 million this month.

"The bottom line is our volunteers," said Annette Alcocer, the benefit shop's manager. "Without them, none of this would have been possible. Donations and customers keep increasing at a wonderful pace, but volunteers are our greatest need now."

The shop has about 65 volunteers.

On May 27, seven local high school graduates were awarded college scholarships, including Carmel High student Kasie Marie Clark, one of only two students awarded $3,000. Five others were awarded $2,000. On June 23, the organization will give grants to local nonprofits on the Monterey Peninsula.

Although Yellow Brick Road is affiliated with Carmel

Presbyterian, not all of its volunteers or staff members are members of the church. And none of the shop's proceeds go to the church, according to Linda Mauck, the shop's personnel director.

The nonprofit has six paid staff members and owns a van for picking up donated items.

"There's a distinct spirit to Carmel and the Peninsula, which Yellow Brick Road embodies," said Carmel Mayor Sue McCloud said. "It's one of community orientation, excellence and flair."

According to the nonprofit, among the more memorable donations have been a 200-year old family Bible, six signed Salvador Dali lithographs, bronze sculptures by a former Walt Disney artist and a stuffed piranha.

In 2006, clothing netted $250,000, art $18,500, general merchandise $170,000, books and jewelry tied at $53,000 each and furniture brought in $28,500.

The Yellow Brick Road Benefit Shop was started in 1988 by Shirin Snyder, wife of the minister of the Carmel Presbyterian Church at the time, according to the church's website.

Independence day fete

THE CITY of Carmel is hosting an "old-fashioned, family-style" July 4 celebration at Devendorf Park. The festivities begin at 12:30 p.m. with the Carmel Bach Festival Brass Ensemble, then Cheeky Spanks at 1 p.m.

Mayor Sue McCloud will welcome the crowd at 1:30 p.m. and there will be food and entertainment provided by local service clubs and groups such as Carmel Heritage, Carmel Host Lions, Carmel Kiwanis, Magician Richard Myer, and Pacific Repertory Theater. The free event lasts until 4 p.m.

Stanford University connects deeply to the Monterey Peninsula. The most significant link is Hopkins Marine Station in Pacific Grove, a world-renowned site for marine biology research and instruction, founded by the university in 1892. Another Stanford/Peninsula connection is "Professors' Row" in Carmel, inaugurated by David Starr Jordan, the school's first president, who built a summer home here in the early 1900s. (One good source says he arrived in 1905; Jordan's memoir, not always reliable about dates, says 1909.) He and his wife Jessie built their cottage at Camino Real and Seventh - an "exquisite spot," he said, where the family spent "many delightful days." A number of Stanford faculty families followed Jordan to the village.

Arson could be cause of two Pebble Beach fires, officials say

By KELLY NIX

Two recent fires in Del Monte Forest may have been intentionally set, while two others may have started from illegal campfires, according to officials.

A May 3 fire near Congress Road that burned a quarter acre, and a June 10 blaze at Poppy Hills are being investigated by Calfire.

"They are suspicious," said Mark Kendall, Calfire battalion chief for San Benito and Monterey counties, "but they aren't being called arson at this time."

Kendall declined to comment whether the May 3 and June 10 fires appeared to have been set the same way.

"Over the last year, there have been some fires that have been set," said Craig Anthony, general manager of Pebble Beach Community Services District.

Although officials have not completed their investigation, a fire May 25 next to a fire road and a June 11 blaze at Congress and SFB Morse Drive appear to have been caused by illegal campfires.

"There are a lot of kids who party in the area," Kendall said.

Still, Kendall said, investigators are looking at all possible causes. "We conduct followup on every fire that is unexplained," he said.

The Poppy Hills fire was put out with the help of the 100-million-gallon Forest Lake Reservoir, which crews used to draw water and dump on the flames.

None of the fires caused any injuries or damage to personal property. But the 1987 Huckleberry Hill fire that destroyed 31 homes also began at an illegal campsite.

Kendall urged residents and passersby to call his office at (831) 333-2620 if they suspect someone of arson.

"Take a license plate number," he said. "A lot of times the fire is put out and witnesses leave before an investigator gets there."

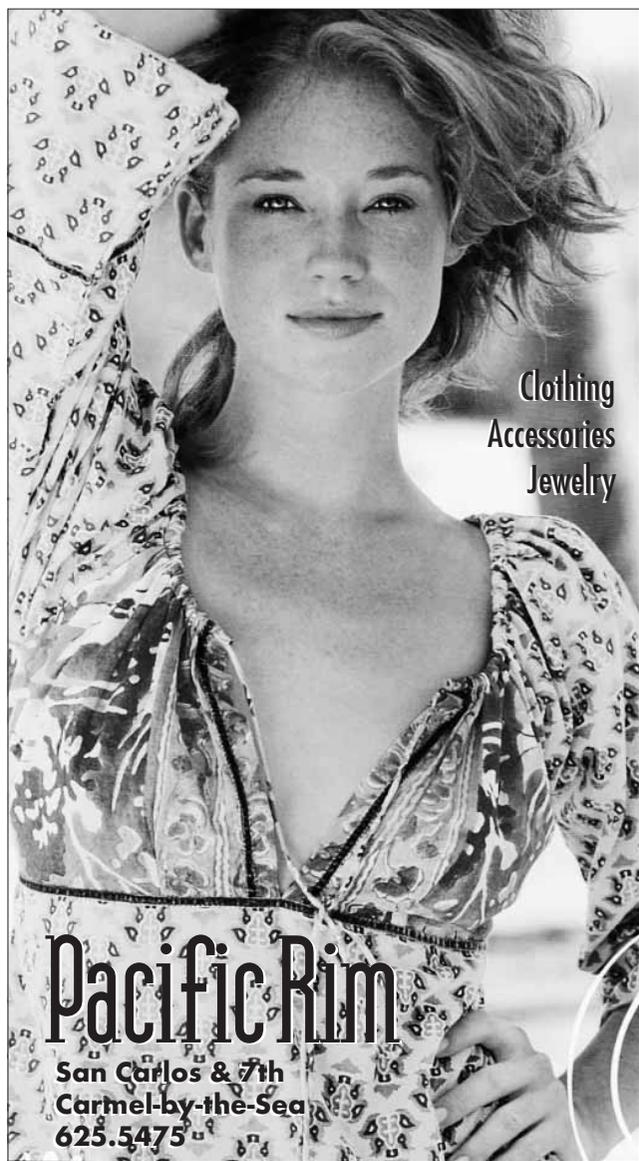

City council to review Mandurrago project EIR

LAST WEEK the Carmel Planning Commission approved an environmental impact report for the demolition of an old bank building downtown and its replacement with condos and retail stores. According to city attorney Don Freeman, no citizen appealed the approval. But two members of the city council decided they wanted to review the project. Mayor Sue McCloud and councilman Gerard Rose has "called up" the Mandurrago EIR and put it on the council's July 3 agenda.

"According to the California Environmental Quality Act, you're supposed to look at a project as a whole," before certifying an EIR, Freeman said. "But the planning commission only had a general description." The council could decertify it if it feels the planning commission made its decision without enough information to justify the decision, he added.

Since 2001, Mandurrago has been seeking permission to build a 17,980-foot commercial complex and underground parking at the corner of Dolores and 7th. Opponents of the project say the bank building, designed by Walter Burde, is historic.

THE NEW MILLENNIUM SCHOLAR 2007

Rachael Martinez, a senior at Carmel High, has been awarded our $4,000.00 New Millennium Scholarship for the year 2007. She was chosen for her willingness to overcome significant hardships to achieve her educational goals, and her constant striving for personal and academic excellence. Though Martinez has faced many difficult challenges in her young life, she has maintained an excellent GPA while working after school throughout her high school career. Martinez has worked as a volunteer at Cachagua Community Park for holiday events and helped with the Angel Project during Christmas. Rachael will be the first in her family to attend college. She plans to major in Forestry and Business and has applied at several California Universities. She says, "I know without my mother by my side I would never be where I am."

Congratulations!

'Little Miss Terrified' brings crop of famous players to Big Sur

By CHRIS COUNTS

AFTER THIRTY-THREE years of being married to a rock 'n' roll icon, Pegi

Young steps out on her own Friday, June 22 when she performs her first-ever live concert at the Henry Miller Library in Big Sur.

At the library, the aspiring singer-songwriter will be accompanied by a group of musicians who played with her famous husband, Neil, on his chart-topping "Harvest" and "Harvest Moon" albums.

In an interview this week with The Pine Cone, Young admitted the thought of being the center of attention gives her the jitters.

"Yes, I'm nervous," she said. "My husband is calling this the 'Little Miss Terrified Tour.' But we've had rehearsals, and I'll be backed by a group of world class musicians. If I hold up my end, we'll be fine."

Music was a big part of Young's life long before she met her husband.

"I can't remember not being into music," said Young, who has lived in San Mateo County most of her life. "My mother was a big fan of musicals, so I listened to old Broadway show tunes. Then came Elvis and Bill Haley and the Comets. I started playing piano in the 4th or 5th grade. I moved from classical to ragtime. Then came folk and the early Beatles. Later, I was very much influenced by Joan Baez and Joni Mitchell."

Her mother bought her a nylon string acoustic guitar, and in high school, Young wrote music and poetry. But after she left home at 17, music took a back seat to other pursuits. She describes this part of her life

Pegi Young, wife of Neil, will play in Big Sur Friday.

Forty years ago, these pristine coastal highlands captivated Clint Eastwood. Today, his vision has inspired a community that only a few kindred spirits will share.

It took years of thoughtful planning to ensure that 85 percent of Tehama would remain untouched – wildlife corridors preserved, the natural beauty unblemished, your privacy ensured. While just 90 secluded homesites will grace these 2,000 acres, fewer than half remain available. For those in search of privacy amid natural splendor, a treasured legacy awaits.

Police & Sheriff's Log

Contents of diaper bag reported missing

HERE'S A look at some of the significant calls logged by the Carmel-by-the-Sea Police Department, the Carmel Fire Department and the Monterey County Sheriff's Office last week. This week's log was compiled by Mary Brownfield.

Monday, June 11

Carmel-by-the-Sea: On San Antonio Avenue, a man requested a civil standby to retrieve personal belongings. However, he was asked to advise when the other party was home. He was advised not to go in the house without the homeowner being present or without her permission.

Carmel-by-the-Sea: Loose dog found at large on the beach. Officer brought the dog to the police station for safekeeping. Message left at phone number listed on tag. Owner located and warned, city pamphlet given, fees paid, dog returned.

Carmel-by-the-Sea: On Junipero Street, subject was observed driving after dark with no headlights. Subject was found to be DUI and subsequently arrested.

Carmel-by-the-Sea: At Junipero and Ocean, reporting party reported a walkaway. Upon officer's arrival, subject had already returned. A welfare check was conducted and subject was fine.

Carmel-by-the-Sea: On Camino Real, a citizen reported finding a loose dachshund and obtained some of the owner information off of the collar before the dog escaped. Officer found and secured the dog at Camino Real and 13th. Contacted owner by telephone and transported dog to the residence nearby. The dog escaped under the fence and repairs were discussed. A warning was given.

Carmel Valley: Woman reported that an unknown suspect entered her vehicle and took her purse.

in the roadway. Wallet contained owner's ID, credit cards and cash. Turned in to Carmel P.D. for safekeeping.

Carmel-by-the-Sea: On Monte Verde Street, a theft of a purse was reported at a business.

Pebble Beach: On Bird Rock Road, a resident reported a woman, a child and a large poodle going through mail boxes. The child turned out to be 3 years old. No crime being committed.

Carmel Valley: On Aliso Road, reporting party said a handmade wooden box was taken from his residence by a worker who was helping him move out. Box contained pass-with the St. John's Chapel in Monterey, according to his court statement.

"While I do not know when these statements were made by [Martin]," Howard wrote, "I learned that [they] had been made on May 6, 2004."

Sordid accusations

This week, Martin was facing a jury trial over a lawsuit filed in August 2006 by Random, a 73-year-old former parishioner of St. John's.

Random testified Wednesday that Martin told parishioners and others that she "tried to lure him into the hot tub, that he had to get a restraining order against me, that I was a man, not a woman, and that my breasts were false."

Although Random said she and Martin would go to dinner once in awhile, he would stop communicating with her at times.

"It was because he would feel our friendship was too close and people speculated, so he backed away," Random said. "Then he would come forward and we would just resume our friendship."

Random's suit also claims Martin told others Random made inappropriate sexual advances towards him, that she stalked him and that she made numerous harassing telephone calls that required Martin to change his number.

On Wednesday, defense attorney Andy Swartz painted a different picture. Swartz said Random tried to seduce Martin and two Ukrainian friends at a February 2003 party at the woman's house.

"She emerged without her blouse," and asked the men to join her in her hot tub, Swartz said.

Swartz also said Random hired a private investigator in the Bahamas, where Martin had previously worked, to contact about a dozen of Martin's friends in an effort to "dig up dirt" on the priest.

"The evidence will show this claim is not about slander at all," Swartz said. "I think this is a case about revenge."

Martin, in a Nov. 16, 2006, deposition, denied making many of the statements about Random and said others in the church had made the comments. His attorneys Wednesday said the priest tried to stop the rumors.

The suit also alleges Martin refused her communion as she knelt at the communion rail.

Random is seeking unspecified punitive damages, an amount that could be determined by the jury. She said Wednesday she filed the suit to vindicate her reputation.

In March 2005, at the advice of attorneys as a way of resolving the dispute, Random and Martin agreed to sign a "mutual release," a legal document preventing either party from suing.

According to Random's attorney, Neil Shapiro, Martin broke the legal agreement when he allegedly told parishioners he only signed the release so he wouldn't be sued.

St. John's Chapel in Monterey is known by local Episcopalians because it uses the more conservative 1928 Book of Common Prayer, a book not widely used by most Episcopal churches, which use a version updated in 1979.

The trial, at the Monterey courthouse, is expected to last until the middle of next week.

and we thought, 'Why couldn't we recreate these?'"

Most of the Bach Fest stars will be performing at the fundraisers.

"David Gordon plays wonderful guitar and banjo, and he'll do something by Cole Porter," Read said. "Susan Consoli will be performing a song from Wicked."

Also performing will be:

■ Alan Bennett, performing renaissance lute songs popularized by Sting.

■ Read, who will "add some soprano saxophone obligation" to a performance of "Georgia on My Mind."

■ Elizabeth Wallfisch, who will convert her concertmaster's violin into a fiddle.

■ Kendra Colton and Sally-Anne Russell, performing Rossini's Cat Duet.

In addition, Bruno Weil will "tell some humorous German stories," according to Read, several pieces from PDQ Bach will be performed, and the chorale will sing the "Police Log" that was a big hit at the Best of the Fest in 1999.

The event will take place on the Sunset Center stage, Read said, preceded by a champagne reception in the center's lobby and followed by a party and auction.

Tickets for the event are $250. They can be purchased by calling the Bach Festival office at (831) 624-1521.

The festival runs from July 14- Aug. 4. Highlights include the St. Matthew Passion, an a capella chorale program at the Carmel Mission, and a program of works by Handel, Bach and Scarlatti composed when they were very young.

Big Sur poet brings back solstice poetry celebration

AFTER A 20-year run at the former Thunderbird Bookstore, Ric Masten and his family are reviving the Summer Solstice Poetry Reading Saturday, June 23 at the Ol'

Factory Cafe in Sand City. "It's going to be a lot fun," said Masten, who will be joined by his wife, Billie Barbara, and his daughter, Jerraldine. "[former Thunderbird owner] May Waldroup will be there to hand me over to [Ol' Factory Cafe owner] Morgan Christopher." The event was last hosted by the Carmel Bookstore in 2005. The Ol' Factory Cafe is located at 1725 Contra Costa St. For more information, call (831) 394-7336.

Historic cabin, Esalen garden highlight fundraising tour

By CHRIS COUNTS

AS THEY zip along Highway 1 in Big Sur, motorists are often asking themselves, "What's at the end of that gated driveway?"

This Saturday's 9th annual Big Sur Hidden Garden Tour provides the public with glimpses of what lies beyond some of the anonymous gates that adorn the scenic highway. The self-guided tour visits nine private homes and gardens in Big Sur, offering the curious a wonderful opportunity to see the coast from a local's perspective.

"It's going to be a great tour this year," said Erin Gafill, who founded the event in 1999 with her husband, Tom Birmingham. "We're going to visit four new gardens this year, and the trip to the Esalen Institute alone is worth the price of admission."

Esalen, the world famous workshop center and hot springs retreat, is also home to a colorful 5-acre garden that provides hundreds of varieties of vegetables for the institute's residents and visitors. Unfortunately, a soak in Esalen's famed sulfur springs is not part of the tour.

This year's event offers an added bonus — a tour of the Nepenthe restaurant's historic log cabin. Perhaps Big Sur's most recognizable landmark, Nepenthe was built on the site of a one-time equestrian center, and the restaurant itself was literally built around an old cabin that was once owned by Orson Welles and Rita Hayworth. Big Sur's best known literary figure, Henry Miller, lived in the cabin when he moved to Big Sur during WWII. Later, Nepenthe founders Bill and Lolly Fassett raised their children in the cabin. On Saturday, the Fassett's daughter, Holly, and their granddaughter, Erin Gafill, will be on hand to talk about the cabin's lore.

Even the gardens previously featured on the tour have something new to offer tour participants. "Every year, the gardens change," Gafill said.

This year's tour also covers a smaller portion of the Big Sur, which is good news for weary drivers.

"There will be less driving and more walking," Gafill predicted.

The tour raises approximately $20,000 each year, which helps to support children's programs in Big Sur, including the Children's Garden at Captain Cooper School, the Teen Team, StageKids! summer theater program, and other in-school and after-school programs.

The event is hosted by the Big Sur Arts Initiative, a local nonprofit group that coordinates arts programs, educational opportunities, and cultural events for The Big Sur children and their families.

The tour begins at 10 a.m. and continues to 4 p.m. Admission is $60. For more information, call (831) 667-1530 or visit www.bigsurarts.org. Volunteer docents and parking attendants are needed for the tour. If you're interested, email jill@bigsurarts.org.

back to Pfeiffer Big Sur State Park, where she called 911 on her cell phone. The swimming hole is located inside the park's boundaries and is just a short boulder-hop upstream from the park's campground.

Meanwhile, an Oakland firefighter who was nearby when the accident happened, tried to revive McLaren, who reportedly had stopped breathing. When state parks ranger Andrea Mapes arrived, she joined the firefighter in transporting the injured man across the swimming hole and back to the park. They were assisted by several of McLaren's friends.

"It was a pretty horrific deal," Rex said. "He was a full-sized man. Moving him was very challenging."

Rex said State Parks received help from its maintenance staff, the Big Sur Volunteer Fire Brigade, U.S. Forest Service employees and several campers in the vicinity.

"It was a huge team effort," he said. "I know there were a lot of families camping in Big Sur that helped out extricating Brian from 'The Gorge' and the experience has been one that has touched [them]."

While Mapes and others hauled McLaren downstream, State Parks maintenance staff hosed down the park's dusty softball field to prepare it for a helicopter landing. A Westmed ambulance transported McLaren a short distance to the softball field, then a helicopter transported him to the Santa Clara Medical Center.

According to message posted by his fiancée on McLaren's MySpace page, the accident "broke his neck, which caused spinal shock, which gave him a massive stroke and he died of brain death."

The MySpace page, which is located at: www.myspace.com/bmclaren, has served as a rallying point for McLaren's grieving friends and family.

"For those who don't know Brian, he was an adventurer and he lived for the moment and had no fear," writes his fiancée, who is listed only by her first name, Ashika. "He loved life and he loved his family and friends. He was forever the protector. He was my love and he taught me so much, and now he's my guardian angel looking out for those he loved."

McLaren reportedly was currently serving in the military. According to his MySpace page, he studied Russian at the Defense Language Institute in Monterey in 2002 and 2003, and studied Arabic at the school in 2005 and 2006. He graduated from Blanchester High School, in Blanchester, Ohio, in 1998.

A heartbreaking reminder

While injuries are fairly common near "The Gorge," fatalities are much more infrequent, Rex said.

"I talked to a ranger who has been here for 10 years," he said. "She said we get 6 or 7 broken arms or ankles a year, but we get a fatality about once every five years."

Rex said the incident serves as a reminder that visitors to wild rivers need to be wary.

"There's a warning sign at the trailhead," he explained. "It says, 'Danger. Loose rocks. Steep cliffs. Keep off.'"

Beauty school wants former movie theater

By KELLY NIX

A BEAUTY school is the latest business seeking to occupy the former Lighthouse Cinema building, which also attracted interest from liquor retail giant BevMo.

The Beaute Institute, Inc. has applied for a conditional use permit to occupy the building at 525 Lighthouse Avenue, which was a movie theater until September 2006 when it closed.

"Because of the overwhelming negative feedback we received from the community, we decided not to pursue the BevMo deal," building owner Robert Enea said.

Liquor superstore BevMo had discussed leasing the 13,000 square-foot building from Enea, but no proposal was ever brought before the Pacific Grove City Council.

Besides a use permit, the beauty school would require

"architectural approval for any exterior change, sign permit approval, and a building permit" to move into the Lighthouse Avenue building, according to Jon Biggs, the city's community development director.

"A review of the plans may reveal the need for additional approvals or permits," Biggs added.

Enea said the beauty school would occupy the entire building.

The project could go before the city's planning commission at the July 19 meeting, Biggs said.

The city council also must approve the business, since it would be occupying a space that is more than 3,500 square feet.

Enea, a Danville developer, has also proposed leasing the troublesome Old Bath House Restaurant at Lovers Point from the city, which owns the historic building.

According to paperwork submitted to the planning department, Beaute Institute is a Paul Mitchell Partner School, an independently owned school that incorporates hair techniques developed by the renowned hair stylist and his company. The school's owner is based in Fresno.

On May 2, the city council reviewed plans by Enea to transform the former theater into a mixed-use building with commercial and residential units.

The council decided to revisit the issue within 60 days so Enea could negotiate with potential tenants and return with a more specific use permit request.

That date could be pushed back further because of the July planning commission hearing on the beauty school.

Got Clogs?

Do you have frequent sewer line backups?

Do you call a plumber more than twice a month?

Do roots grow in your sewer line?

If so, you could be a victim of "The Clog"

Tips for preventing clogs:

1. Keep cooking fats, oils and grease out of the drain.
2. Don't use toxic copper roots killers or caustic drain cleaners.
3. Inspect, maintain and repair your sewer lateral on a regular basis.

Plans for a discount liquor store in the Lighthouse Cinema building have been dropped because of public opposition, the owner said. A beauty school may take over the vacant space.

Meg's Health Notes

Meg Parker Connors, R.N.

LONG-LIVED PARENTS PASS ON HEART HEALTH

Recent research bolsters the folksy bit of wisdom that says it pays to choose your parents well. It seems that if your parents lived 85 years or more, your risk for heart disease in middle age is significantly lower than children of long-lived parents tended to have lower blood pressure and lower cholesterol levels. They also had lower Framingham Risk Scores, which is a ten-year estimate of coronary disease risk. It must be pointed out, though, that managing cardiac disease risk factors such as not smoking, exercising, and eating a healthy diet is more important than genes in determining how long you will live.

Medical researchers are increasingly finding that significant health benefits result from exercising and eating a balanced diet. A balanced diet is one in which you eat a varied enough intake of foods to furnish your body with the vitamins and minerals it needs to avoid deficiencies, as well as prevent certain chronic diseases like adult onset diabetes and heart disease. Dietary needs vary according to life stage and your lifestyle. This column has been brought to you by VICTORIAN HOME CARE/RESIDENTIAL CARE HOMES. We provide the best in home care and geriatric care management for seniors or adults with physical and/or mental challenges in and around Monterey and Santa Cruz Counties.

P.S. To get some reading of your overall heart health, get an annual physical that includes a blood-cholesterol test.

POCKET CALCULATOR

The standardized screening test for gum disease, called "periodontal screening and recording" (PSR), involves the insertion of a thin, metal probe under the gumline around each tooth. When the calibrated tool meets resistance, the depth of the "pocket" is then measured using markings on the side of the probe and assigned a measurement number. These numbers are then recorded to give an overall reading of the periodontal health of each tooth. Scores range from zero (healthy) to four and above (periodontitis). This simple, quick, and easy exam provides dentists and patients with an efficient means of identifying gum disease in its early stages. By taking corrective measures at that point, more severe forms of disease can be averted.

Healthy habits and good oral hygiene are critical in preventing gum disease. Regular and effective tooth brushing and mouth washing, however, are effective only above and slightly below the gum line. Once periodontal disease develops, more intensive treatments will be needed. To schedule an appointment, please call our office. A trip to the dentist may be one of your most important appointments! We stress preventive dentistry by teaching patients good oral hygiene habits. Open by appointment, we accept most insurances and credit cards.

P.S. By quitting smoking, you can eliminate one of the major contributing factors of gum disease.

Dr. di Bari, is a dentist in private practice at 20 Dormody Ct. here in Monterey. He may be reached at 373-3703.

If you've seen these moths around your oaks, their progeny will consume foliage. How do your oaks look? If foliage was consumed by the last generation of worms, you need to know the facts about oak trees. Sandy Claws

By Margot Petit Nichols

SUKI CHAPMAN-Slautterback, 2 1/2, is a Carmel bichon/poodle mix with a lot of spunk and moxie. Last year, lost and bewildered, she survived the busy streets of Seaside until the SPCA rescued her and put her in a semiprivate cage with a terrified Chihuahua. They trembled together at the back, dirty, disheveled and wondering what fate would befall them.

Carol Chapman and Fred Slautterback came to the rescue: A husband and wife fine arts team, they arrived at the SPCA with the intention of adopting. Fred reached into the back of Suki's cage and gently pulled her out. When he attached a leash and put her on the ground, she was instantly a changed dog. She actually pranced, knowing intuitively she had been selected.

That was in December last year: Suki was their mutual Christmas gift to one another.

So pleased with her parents is she, at least once a day she has an attack of frenzied happiness, running flat out in circles, going so fast she leans into the curves. These attacks strike spontaneously indoors or out and on the white sands of Carmel Beach where we encountered her.

Both Mom and Dad sing her praises, saying she's loving, social, cuddles well, and is no trouble – except when it comes to mealtimes. A finicky eater, she prefers to be spoon fed, which is admittedly time-consuming but gets the job done.

Suki has lots of toys, but her favorite is a colorful plush goldfish with a squeaker inside that goes, "squishy, squishy," when Suki squeezes it.

At Mom's Carmel art studio, Suki loves to watch her paint landscapes and abstracts, but is a little jealous when Mom is painting a portrait of another dog. Suki sometimes goes over to Dad's Sand City art studio to watch him paint abstracts.

At night Suki sleeps with Mom and Dad either over or under the sheets at the foot of the bed near Mom's feet.

ELECTRICAL OUTAGE

The metallic rattling noise known as "knocking" that occurs in the engine under certain driving conditions is due to an abnormal form of combustion. If this problem is not corrected, it can lead to engine damage. In some cases, engine knock can be avoided by moving up to a gasoline with the next highest octane rating. Many engines experience an increased appetite for octane as they age, and a jump from 87-octane to 89-octane should not be viewed as too unusual as a vehicle ages. However, a jump in octane requirement from 87 to 92 is unacceptable and indicates an abnormal condition. In some cases, a check of the car's exhaust gas recirculation system will point out the solution.

from your engine. They can be a sign of serious problems, and usually require attention from an automotive expert. We recommend regular maintenance as to prevent problems from occurring, as well as preventing problems from becoming worse. Please don't wait until it needs to be towed to us. Let us perform preventative maintenance on a regular basis before that happens.

P.S. "Knock" is an unwanted explosion of the air/fuel mixture in the combustion chamber caused by excess heat/compression, advanced timing, or an overly lean mixture.

Despite reports of its demise, P.G. art walk lives

By CHRIS COUNTS

JUST TWO days after the Pacific Grove Chamber of Commerce pulled its support for the city's monthly art walk, seven local galleries agreed to independently host the event.

"We're going to keep it alive," said gallery owner Robert Lewis, who led the effort save the artwalk. "If we let it die, and then try to set it up again later, that's just one more obstacle we'll have to overcome."

In a letter dated June 12, chamber executive director Moe Ammar announced the art walk would be canceled for the remainder of the year. In addition to concerns about serving wine and the insurance it would require, he said the chamber "lost the city's support" for the event. He said the chamber would restart the art walk in 2008, ideally with the participation of the Pacific Grove Art Center.

Lewis said he met with Ammar, Pacific Grove Mayor Dan Cort and several gallery owners June 14, and everybody agreed local galleries could host the event independently. Lewis immediately set July 13 as the date of the next artwalk, when downtown galleries will stay open in the evening to encourage people to tour Pacific Grove on foot before or after dinner.

"As far as I'm concerned, we should be able to put this on once a month by throwing some money in a pot and doing some advertising," Lewis said.

While the lack of chamber and city funding for the event places a greater financial burden on the gallery owners, Lewis hopes the strain will be only temporary.

art roundup

"I think it will all work out," he said. "It's clear everybody wants to do it. We're all working together."

For now, Lewis is okay hosting the event without serving wine.

"Wine is a separate issue," he explained. "It can be worked out later."

Ultimately, Lewis said he would like to see some combination of public and private sponsorship for the event.

"It's one of the best marketing things we can do downtown," he said. Despite Ammar's June 12 letter, Cort insisted the art walk has the city's support. He called the cancellation of the artwalk "a misunderstanding."

'Miss Weatherspoon' just says no to reincarnation

By CHRIS COUNTS

IN PLAYWRIGHT Christopher Durang's version of heaven, reincarnation is a requirement, not an option. Unfortunately, a feisty and somewhat delusional old woman isn't cooperating.

"She just loves being dead," explained John Farmanesh-Bocca, who is directing PacRep's production of Durang's "Miss Weatherspoon." The play, which was nominated last year for a Pulitzer Prize in Drama, opens at the Golden Bough Playhouse, Thursday, June 27.

Miss Weatherspoon, it turns out, has an unnatural fear that the Skylab — the space station that orbited the Earth from 1973 to 1979 — is going to come crashing down upon her at any moment. Rather than confront this nerve-wracking premonition, Miss Weatherspoon opts to kill herself instead. And in Durang's take on the afterlife, that's where the fun begins.

"It's first and foremost a comedy," said Farmanesh-Bocca, who graduated from Monterey High School in 1989. "It is off-the-wall funny. There will be moments when the audience is doubled over with laughter."

Each time the powers-that-be in heaven send the reincarnated Miss Weatherspoon back to earth, she somehow manages to quickly end up dead. So in an effort to convince her to give life another try, an amazing cast of characters is enlisted to help, including Jesus Christ, Mahatma Gandhi and Gandalf, the White Wizard from the Lord of the Rings. Miss Weatherspoon, apparently, isn't easily convinced, and gives everyone an earful. Life sucks, she reasons, and she's perfectly contented in heaven.

"She speaks everything that's on her mind," explained Farmanesh-Bocca, who

See PACREP page 16A

Christopher Durang's sidesplitting play, "Miss Weatherspoon," with Rosemary Luke (right) in the title role, tells the story of a woman who refuses to be reincarnated. Each time the gods put her back on earth, she quickly figures out a way to become dead again.

Blues festival highlights Peninsula's rich music scene

By STEVE VAGNINI

THE MONTEREY Peninsula offers a wide variety of popular music — jazz, blues, folk, funk and rock 'n' roll can all be heard on a regular basis throughout the area. From intimate clubs and hotel lounges to the grand, historic Sunset Center and Golden State Theatre, our weekly musical offerings are impressive. During the last two weekends, pop icon Brian Wilson appeared at the refurbished Golden State, while at Sunset Center, legendary bluegrass artist Del McCoury performed, only to be overshadowed by young Hawaiian ukulele sensation Jake Simabukuro.

Plugged In

By Stephen L. Vagnini

And then, of course, we have our festivals. As we all know by now, there was only one Monterey Pop Festival — a one-time event that never could or will be duplicated. But, one of the groups that appeared at that legendary event, Canned Heat, will be performing this weekend during the 22nd edition of the Monterey Bay Blues Festival.

A boogie-woogie blues band, Canned Heat is still a popular group on the festival circuit and tours regularly throughout the world.

MBBF is one of the most prestigious blues festivals in the United States today, boasting continuous entertainment on three stages with more than 50 acts, performing on Friday evening and all day Saturday and Sunday. This year's lineup on the main stage

"If the chamber can't help, we will," Cort said. "We'll be there to raise some money, if we have to."

Cort said he appreciated Lewis taking the initiative and keeping the artwalk alive. "Robert is on the right track," he said.

The artwalk is big part of the city's long-term efforts to revitalize its downtown, Cort explained.

"I haven't spoken with anybody who doesn't want it to continue," he said. "Everybody loves the artwalk."

■ Big Sur gallery hosts plein aire contest

The homes and gardens of Big Sur will be the inspiration for 40 mostly local plein artists as they compete for prizes this weekend in the second annual Big Sur Plein Aire Painting Contest.

The competition coincides with Saturday's ninth annual Big Sur Hidden Gardens Tour, an event that offers the public rare glimpses of some of Big Sur's most spectacular private residences.

"It a great event," said Jill Crawford, Big Sur Arts Initiative executive director of the painting competition. "The spontaneous nature of the event leads to a lot of excitement. You don't know what to expect. The event is full of surprises."

The plein aire contest — which started on Thursday — concludes with a Wet Paint reception at Studio One Saturday, June 23, at 6 p.m. Participating artists will be on hand, and all work created during the competition will be for sale.

The guests attending the reception are invited to vote for their favorite pieces. A Peoples' Choice Award will net the winner $500. Participating artists will also vote on a piece for an Artists' Choice Award.

The David Fox Quartet will play jazz at the reception.

The event is hosted by the BSAI, a non-profit that coordinates arts programs, educational opportunities, and cultural events for Big Sur children and their families.

Studio One is located in the Village Shops, just south of the Big Sur River Inn, about 24 miles south of Carmel. For more information about the contest and reception, call (831) 667-1530 or email: jill@big-surarts.org.

■ Art, wine and Cal Am a big hit at Carmel Valley festival

An estimated 800 people packed Carmel Valley Village last Saturday for the third annual Carmel Valley Art and Wine Celebration. As expected, there was plenty of art, wine and music to go around.

"The festival was a huge success," said Randi Andrews, a festival organizer. "It went way beyond our expectations. The Village was just transformed. It was a magical day out here."

Perhaps the biggest surprise for festival attendees was a fundraising dunk tank featuring employees from the Cal Am Water Co. Its recent efforts to repair a water main that parallels Carmel Valley Road have led to frustrating delays for local motorists. Not surprisingly, the dunk tank was a big hit.

"It was really great that Cal Am was able to have a sense of humor about this, especially with how angry people get about the road," Andrews added.

Local plein aire artist Johnny Apodaca paints the dramatic Big Sur coast from the Brazil Ranch.

splits his time between the epicenters of live theater: New York, Los Angeles and Carmel. "She is completely passionate about her opinions. Her views are very drastic, and she doesn't censor her thoughts."

"Miss Weatherspoon" wavers between the funny and the philosophic.

"It's an amazing examination of life," said Farmanesh-Bocca, who teaches at acting at New York University and serves a artistic director for Santa Monica Shakespeare Festival. "It's a celebration and an indictment of life. It looks at the big questions. It may sound heavy, but it's done beautifully."

The play also provides a showcase for the many talents of local actress and Carmel Valley resident Rosemary Luke.

"She's wonderful," Farmanesh-Bocca explained. "She's a great actress. She is so much fun to watch."

Be prepared for a wild ride when Luke and company hit the stage.

"The play is like a speeding train," he said. "It is so quick-witted."

Thursday's opening will start at 7:30 p.m. On Wednesday, June 26, the Golden Bough will host a preview of the play at 7:30 p.m. "Miss Weatherspoon" will continue through July 22.

should keep blues purists happy with a diverse lineup of artists including perennial Monterey favorite, Bobby "Blue" Bland; Chicago blues singer Shemeika Copeland; gospel singers Emmit Powell and Fiona Boyes; plus a steady stream of sizzling blues guitarists including Chris Cain, Tommy Castro, Kenny Neal, Joe Louis Walker and this year's guest of honor, the legendary Buddy Guy.

Shemeika Copeland

The Four Kings of R & B also return this year and, along with The Whispers, will provide the festival with some rhythm and blues, and on Sunday afternoon local musician and record producer Gary Souza will showcase his tribute to Ray Charles, For the Love of Ray, a masterful production that features 39 local musicians, including vocalists Lee Durlley, Charmaine Scott and Daniel Simpson.

Canned Heat will be performing on the main stage Friday night. Acts to catch on the secondary stages include E. G. Kight, Guitar Mac, Lil' Jimmy Reed and Nathan and the Cha Chas on the President's Stage; and Maria Muldaur, Lydia Pense, and Deanna Bogart on the Garden Stage.

For tickets call (831) 394-2654 or visit www.monterey-blues.com.

On Cannery Row, Sly McFly's celebrates the weekend with a Big Blues weekend of its own featuring blues guitarist Shane Dwight on Friday night, plus blues vocalist Kaye Bohler on Saturday and the traditional Sunday Blues Jam, featuring the J.C. Smith Blues Band. Music starts at 9 p.m. Call (831) 649-8050 for details.

Also performing this weekend, singer-songwriter Leon Russell appears June 23 at the Golden State Theatre on Alvarado Street. Russell began his music career during the early 1960s backing rock 'n' roll royalty Jerry Lee Lewis, and went on to play for Phil Spector, The Byrds, and Herb Alpert. As a songwriter, he penned numerous top hits including "Delta Lady" for Joe Cocker, and in 1970 he released his self-titled solo album, introducing the world to his funky, eclectic sound. He appeared with George Harrison in "The Concert for Bangladesh" in 1971 and then went on tour with the Rolling Stones. Russell has been busy ever since having released numerous solo albums, and he is currently touring in support of his latest album "Angel Disguise." Call (831) 372-3800 to purchase tickets.

On Friday, June 28, another legendary singer-songwriter returns to the Monterey Peninsula to perform at the intimate Monterey Live. Jesse Colin Young, who began his career in the 1960's performing in folk clubs on the East Coast, is today managed by local music maven David Bean and resides in Hawaii, where he has put out a steady stream of independent releases. Young, perhaps best known for his work with the Youngbloods and for his top forty hit "Get Together," will be accompanied by the Kona All Stars, a band composed of percussionist Louis Pinault, bassist Vito Truglio, guitarist Dylan Kai and his wife, Connie, on violin. The dinner concert, featuring a gourmet meal provided by Live Wired Café, will start at 7 p.m. Call (877) 548-3237 for tickets.

KPIG air personality and Pacific Grove resident Arden Eaton has been spinning music back since the days when public radio station KAZU featured more than just the news and most recently she has entertained us with her live performances on public television. Next Friday, June 29, Eaton's production company, Arden's Garden, will present Chris Webster in concert at the OI' Factory Café in Sand City.

Webster, (one of the two lead singers from Mumbo Gumbo) is touring to promote her new solo release, Something in the Water. Music starts at 7:30 p.m. Call (831) 372-6480 to reserve advance tickets.

And further down the coast, Neil Young's wife, Pegi Young, performs her original folk music June 22 at 7:30 p.m. at the Henry Miller Memorial Library. And on Saturday and Sunday, Bruce Foreman and Cowbop and Sweet Thursday play at the Big Sur River Inn. Music starts at noon. Call (831) 667-2700.

WHY SHOULD YOU INVEST? HERE ARE FIVE GOOD REASONS

You probably know that investing is important. But have you ever thought about why? Here are five good reasons:

- Number One: Investing can potentially help you enjoy a comfortable retirement.
- Number Two: Investing can potentially help keep you ahead of inflation.
- Number Three: Investing can help you prepare for financial emergencies.
- Number Four: Investing can help you work towards your dreams. If you want to someday travel the world, own a vacation home or even open your own business, you'll need sufficient financial resources - and that means you have to save and invest throughout your working life.
- Number Five: Investing can help you leave a legacy. To be able to leave a financial legacy when you're gone, you'll need to invest - while you're here.

So, there you have them - five very good reasons to be a lifetime investor.

NOTICE OF PETITION TO ADMINISTER ESTATE OF CHARLES E. MURPHY, JR.
Case Number MP 18631
To all heirs, beneficiaries, creditors, contingent creditors, and persons who may otherwise be interested in the will or estate, or both, of CHARLES E. MURPHY, JR.
A PETITION FOR PROBATE has been filed by CHARLES E. MURPHY III in the Superior Court of California, County of MONTEREY.
The Petition for Probate requests that CHARLES E. MURPHY III be appointed as personal representative to administer the estate of the decedent.
THE PETITION requests the decedent's will and codicils, if any, be admitted to probate. The will and any codicils are available for examination in the file kept by the court.
THE PETITION requests authority to administer the estate under the Independent Administration of Estates Act. (This authority will allow the personal representative to take many actions without obtaining court approval. Before taking certain very important actions, however, the personal representative will be required to give notice to interested persons unless they have waived notice or consented to the proposed action.) The independent administration authority will be granted unless an interested person files an objection to the petition and shows good cause why the court should not grant the authority.

A hearing on the petition will be held on in this court as follows:

Brown said over the past year he's had constant communication with city officials, chamber leaders, business owners and others about the idea.

But in a town some believe already hosts too many special events, at least one Carmel resident said there needs to be more public discussion about the festival's impacts on the city.

"The film festival might be the most wonderful thing to happen to Carmel," said former city councilwoman Barbara Livingston, who regularly attends council meetings. "But I have no clue because I don't know anything about it. To my knowledge, there hasn't been any discussion at the council level."

Mayor Sue McCloud said Brown has not submitted a formal proposal of the project but that she is open to events that benefit the city.

Young female filmmakers

The festival will benefit "The Emma Project," — named after Brown's daughter — which he formed to "encourage the advancement of women in film."

"Every summer we will bring young female filmmakers to camp," Brown said. "People from our advisory board will administer it."

Young women will take courses including media literacy, film appreciation, production and storytelling techniques. The filmmakers will be able to show their films at the festival and Emma alumni will come back to show their work.

Rappa, who produced the upcoming film "Talk to Me," with Don Cheadle, has brought some Hollywood heavyweights to the advisory board including Cheadle, Annette Benning, Robin Williams, Kevin Costner and Bernie Mac.

"While I anticipate there will be celebrity folk here," Brown said. "It's going to be very intimate. It won't be Sundance."

Wine and cheese

To set it apart from other film festivals, and in keeping with Carmel's upscale image, the festival will employ the concept of "cinema epicuria."

"We will have food tasting and wine tasting at every event," Brown said. "And a film sommelier will pair local wines with the films we are showing."

The food, wine and movie idea came from a meeting Brown and Rappa had with Marc and Brenda Lhomer, directors of the Sonoma Film Festival, who are helping organize the Carmel festival.

Although Brown said corporate sponsors will account for only 10 percent of the festival's income, he expects the event will bring as much as $15 million to the local economy in its first year.

The festival's budget is expected to be about $1 million. An initial $500,000 is needed to begin planning the event full time, Brown said.

"I think we have created what will be a really great cultural asset," he said. "It will be a great addition to our community."

Henry Albiol

July 29, 1917 – June 15, 2007

Longtime Peninsula resident Henry Albiol died shortly before his 90th birthday, on Friday, June 15th, 2007 after a brief illness. He was born Carlos Enrique Albiol Jordan in Abuna, Bolivia.

Mr. Albiol attended schools in La Paz, Bolivia and in Santiago, Chile. As a young man, he traveled the Amazon jungle, trading staples and medicine with the Indians. He married the love of his life, Marcia Crouter, in 1947 in La Paz. In 1956, he became a citizen of the United States, of which he was always proud. During the 1960's, Henry and his family returned to Bolivia, where he founded a tire company. Later, the family moved to Mexico City where he worked on a similar project.

In 1969, Henry and his family moved to Southern California, where he worked as a real estate broker before retiring to Carmel in 1978. Henry enjoyed robust health, and even at the age of 89, worked out everyday at the Monterey Sports Center. He was also an avid gardener, and grew enough oranges and lemons to share with his neighbors.

His was an interesting and unusual life, but his greatest pride and pleasure was always his family. In addition to his beloved wife of nearly 60 years, Marcia, he is survived by a daughter, Virginia Connelly of Carmel, a son, David Albiol, also of Carmel, as well as sons Charles Henry Albiol of Ocala, Florida, Robert Mark Albiol, of Poolesville, Maryland, and Les Albiol of Palo Alto, California. Henry played an integral part in the lives of his grandchildren, Matthew, Carol and Marcy Connelly of Carmel. He enjoyed the frequent visits of his grandsons, Charles and Philip. He also received great joy from the arrival of his most recent grandchildren, Heather and Mark Henry.

Arrangements are under the direction of The Paul Mortuary. At his request, no services will be held, although the family plans a celebration of his life in the near future.

Bouchée re-do, sports bar at the Barnyard, advice for wine fest

By CHARYN PFEUFFER

LOVE THE new look. Two Fridays ago, I found myself at the newly re-concepted and renovated Bouchée. I'd been bitching forever about the lack of an honest-to-goodness, like-you'd-find-in-France wine bar on the Peninsula. For a nanosecond, I thought Bubbly Fish in Carmel would fit the bill, but the interior is far too stark for my tastes and, well, I'm not exactly a card-carrying member of the local theater throng. Mélange in Pacific Grove does an above par job, but the bar is tiny and tucked away in the bowels of the restaurant. Bouchée, however, seems to have nailed the authentic wine bistro concept.

Chef de cuisine Christopher Dettmer's French bistro-style fare shares equal billing with a lengthy list of reds, whites and rosés. Novel to the local wine scene, regularly changing wine flights such as "Little Pink Houses" (a three taste ode to rosé) inspire guests to come back frequently to explore new finds.

After chef Walter Manzke's departure, owner David Fink signed on Dettmer to revamp the former prix-fixe menu. Dettmer's no slacker — he's worked under the likes of Daniel Humm at Campton Place Hotel, Philippe Jeanty at Jeanty at Jack's, and the Jardinière Restaurant in San Francisco. The new menu shines on traditional bistro classics such as foie gras torchon, confit of duck leg with blueberry gastrique (the presentation is spectacular), steak frites and an onion soup that trumped my previous favorite version from Fifi's Café Bistro. Desserts are equally impressive.

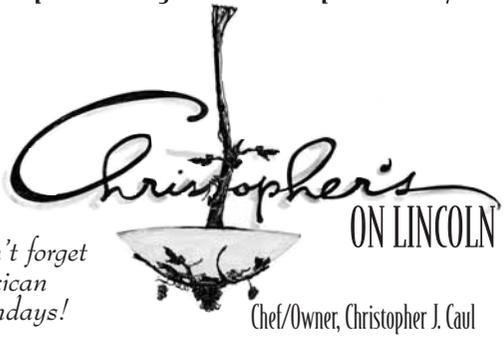

I'll often pass on post-meal sweets in favor of a liquid option, but the espresso-macadamia chocolate cake with coconut sorbet was a surprisingly light conclusion. Service is more accommodating, friendly and efficient than it's been in the past — request William, he's a doll.

A warm new jewel-tone décor feels less stodgy, more worldly and sophisticated. Exquisite tilework accents walls, while rich upholstered banquettes invite casual conversation. The space breathes new life with an open air kitchen, four front row bar seats à la Cantinetta Luca and a large rounded booth that could easily work as an intimate chef's table. Kathleen Fink has an impeccable knack for making a space beautiful without going overboard on the faux (a major culprit in tasetless restaurant and hotel décor, in my opinion) and David Fink is one of the few local restaurateurs who truly understands what it takes to run a successful business. Whatever this duo decides to do dining-wise, you can sign me up for Team Fink.

Also, right next door, you can grab a late-night bottle of wine at Bouchée Wine Merchants.

The Finks' spell must have been cast on me, because I found myself at their other restaurant, Cantinetta Luca, twice within the week. First, I was indulging on the salumi platter, buratta and chef Kevin Hinck's killer meaty lasagna (it's a Monday-night-only special) and later scooping up ooey-goey fried goat cheese between sips of Prosecco.

Bouchée Restaurant & Wine Bar, & Bouchée Wine Merchants, Mission St. (between Ocean & 7th), Carmel, (831) 626-7880, www.boucheecarmel.com. The wine bar opens at 4:30 p.m. Sunday through Thursday and at 4 p.m. on Friday and Saturday. Dinner is served from 5:30- 10 p.m. nightly.

Give me my sports plain and simple

Knuckle's at the Hyatt Regency Monterey has long been my sports bar of choice during football season due to the strong contingency of Steelers fans it attracts. I default to Edgar's at Quail Lodge in a pinch, but believe it suffers from a bit of an identity crisis about its intent to really be a sports bar. T.V. volumes are kept low, breakfast is served with linen napkins, and you'd be hard-pressed to ever see high-fives being exchanged. Maybe it's my East Coast upbringing, but sports, hushed tones and Miss-Manners-like behavior really don't mix. Luckily, Derek Larson and Arlin Tolbert give us "just a beer, game and a burger, please" fans another option. Larson — a Minnesota native by way of a decade pit-stop in Reno — and Tolbert — most recently from Las Vegas — have opened Big Dog Sports Restaurant in the Barnyard Shopping Center. Located on the second level above Allegro Gourmet Pizzeria (look for the neon Blue Moon beer light at night to guide the way), in the space formerly held by Sherlock Holmes, Larson and Tolbert have struck the perfect balance of creating a friendly neighborhood watering hole that doubles as a no-nonsense sports-viewing establishment. Right now, they have nearly ten televisions peppering both the indoor and heated outdoor patio spaces, and more are on the way, Larson assured me. Big Dog has season passes for baseball, hockey, basketball and football broadcasts covered.

Six beers were on draught during a recent visit, with twenty more available by the bottle. Happy hour starts at 2 p.m. and runs until 6 p.m. — a nice option for those who are lucky enough to cut their work day short and catch an early game — and $3 well cocktails. The lengthy menu features the usual sports bar suspects (burgers, hot dogs and nachos), but fresher, more delicious and reasonably priced versions than I'm accustomed to. Plus, there are options for the calorie-conscious, such as salads, wraps and sandwiches. It's casual, without compromising quality, as the tasty warm house-made potato chips (a side option with any sandwich) indicate. Larson and Tolbert are also bringing in live music on Friday and Saturday nights — another niche in Carmel that desperately needed to be filled. On Friday, June 22, The Real Esoteric will be performing live reggae at 9 p.m. The following night, classic rock starts at 5 p.m., with Bryan Diamond of Spanish Bay fame, and with a repeat performance of The Real Esoteric at 9 p.m. There are still plenty of baseball games left this season, and come September, it'll be the place to catch Steelers games — I promise.

Big Dog Sports Restaurant, 3772 The Barnyard, (831) 625-0340, open daily 11a.m.-midnight (or close).

Past its prime

I didn't hear a peep about the Monterey Wine Festival this year until the event was actually in full swing. Hello, public relations people and advertising geniuses? In retrospect, I shouldn't complain. A friend in the local food-know invited me to attend the Saturday night Red Wine Grand Tasting and, to tell you the truth, it was kind of lame. Not her fine company, just the event. There were maybe two dozen wineries pouring and, frankly, the line-up wasn't all that impressive. This certainly was no Wine Artisans of the Santa Lucia Highlands event, except for an appearance by Dan Lee, winemaker of Morgan who was pretty much top dog at the event, running out of wine well before the event closing time. When you're pouring Pinot Noir from Rosella's Vineyard, I suppose that's not exactly a shocking revelation. Trincherio was pouring its Chicken Ranch Merlot and Cabernet Sauvignon for trade members; both were well worth trying. Martin & Weyrich wowed with their commendably true to varietal Italian wines — Nebbiolo and Sangiovese. Surf City Coffee Company sent tipsy guests (read: wine tasting event amateurs) on their way with hang-over-busting one pound bags of beans — one of the only smart marketing moves to be found all evening. All in all, the event felt tired and by the time the overhead lighting was being furiously flickered on and off to rudely usher guests out at the exact stroke of 8:30 p.m. the event logo had already been scratched off my cheap wine glass.

It's such a shame and such a disappointing representation of our dynamic wine region and I hope that it can (a) be re-tooled into something worth attending (rumor has it seminar attendances were poor) or (b) put it to rest as to not detract from the other evolving local wine events.

invalid and issue a writ of mandate directing respondents to set aside, and refrain from implementing or enforcing any provision of Measure D.”

The suit also contends the referendum violates the California Constitution and the state’s Planning and Zoning Law.

Nobari’s Delaware-based H-Y-H Corporation, “is hardly closer to developing any project than it was two decades ago when it first proposed it,” according to the suit. If the suit is successful, damages could reach $200 million, according to Blum.

LandWatch Monterey County, which opposes Butterfly Village, insists the project will worsen traffic congestion and water problems and that the $16 million in traffic improvements the development calls for would do little to increase traffic capacity on Highway 101.

The Butterfly Village plan under Measure D scaled down the county general plan’s “area of development concentration” from 2,000 acres and 5,500 homes to 671 acres and 1,147 homes. The project also includes a golf course.

It would create more than 200 new jobs and is touted as a “green project,” which the county contends reduces existing water consumption, reclaims wastewater, fights saltwater intrusion and prevents downstream flooding problems.

Supervisors first adopted a plan for Butterfly Village in 2004, then significantly downsized it in 2005 when it became subject to a referendum.

Carmel foundation offers summer plant, book sale

GARDEN AND library volunteers are hosting a plant and book sale at The Carmel Foundation Thursday, June 28, from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. There will be an excellent selection of VHS videos which include movies, documentaries, travel and PBS series videos. All videos will be on sale for $1 each. Books will also be on sale; no book will cost more than $2.00! As summer swings into full bloom, there will be a great assortment of plants and flowers to choose from, as well. All proceeds from this sale will directly benefit The Carmel Foundation. YOUNG

In 1974, her life changed forever when she met her future husband at a rural San Mateo County watering hole.

“I met Neil in a bar called Alex’s,” she remembered. “He was eating dinner with some of my friends, and we ended up playing pool. They say bar relationships don’t take, but this one did.”

Four years later, Young gave birth to a son, Ben, who was diagnosed with severe cerebral palsy. Ben’s disabilities inspired Young to enter the first public phase of her life in 1986 as the co-founder of the Bridge School, a Bay Area-based nonprofit group that offers educational programs for children with severe speech and physical impairments. She still serves as president of the school’s board of directors.

Despite Young’s busy schedule, the idea of playing music was never far from her mind. Still, she didn’t wake up one morning and decide she was going to be a recording artist.

“It was more of a gradual thing,” she recalled. “I kind of resumed my love of singing and recording when I sang with Neil while he performed ‘Philadelphia’ at the Academy Awards [in 1992]. That was the first time I took the stage with him in public.”

Young finally went on tour with her husband in 2000 as a background singer. “The experience really helped my confidence.”

As time passed, the prospect of recording and performing her own songs began to make more sense, Young explained.

“I had all these songs, but I never dreamed of recording them,” she said. “But now I live five minutes from a great recording studio [at the couples’ rural San Mateo County ranch] and I have a great team of musicians backing me. It all kind of came together.”

Her husband ended up singing harmonies and playing acoustic guitar, electric guitar, electric sitar and harmonica on his wife’s self-titled and recently released debut recording.

The concert starts at 7 p.m. The library is located on Highway 1 about a quarter-mile south of Nepenthe.

For ticket info, call (831) 667-2574 or visit www.henrymiller.org.

THE UPSIDE-DOWN HOME

It happened in the 1990s. As we've all seen, it can happen again. Home values, usually temporarily, can dip below the balance of the mortgage or mortgages on the home. A home whose estimated value has fallen to $380,000 may conceivably be securing $390,000 in mortgages.

Should the homeowners run screaming into the night? Hardly. The first and perhaps most important thing to realize is that lenders almost invariably lose a lot of money if they foreclose. Foreclosure, therefore, is a last ditch effort to salvage at least a portion of the money owed to the lender.

Therefore, lenders are usually extremely ready to work out modified repayment programs with borrowers wherever necessary. In most cases, though it's just a matter of continuing to make the regular monthly payments, and over a relatively short period of time, the market value of the home will rise above the loan balance once again...and continue to rise.

It is particularly good, though, to check in with your lender if you face a time period in which it might be extremely difficult to meet your monthly payment obligation. Indeed, you should speak with your lender yourself before speaking to any services that promise to resolve these matters for you. If you do the communicating, you are most likely to end up with an agreement that works for you. For help call Maureen at 622-2565 and visit her website at www.maureenmason.com.

Maureen Mason is a Realtor® with Coldwell Banker Del Monte Realty.

A missed opportunity

THE DECISION was inexplicable, but that doesn't mean we can't try to explain it.

Last week, the California Coastal Commission was offered the chance to downzone hundreds of acres of Monterey pine forest from "residential" to "open space." The voters of Monterey County asked them to do it, the board of supervisors asked them to do it, and even the landowner — the Pebble Beach Co. — was 100 percent behind the downzoning. Yet the coastal commission refused.

The reasons offered by commissioners could only be describe as lame. Sarah Wan — the Sierra Club's favorite on the coastal commission — summed up their thinking when she said she feared that, if it approved the downzoning, the commission would somehow be obligated to approve the development the P.B. Co. is also proposing (but which has not come before the commission).

"We only get one bite of the apple," she said from the dais.

First of all, the coastal commission is famous for taking as many bites of as many apples as it likes.

For example, the present zoning in Del Monte Forest — for up to 800 homes — was approved by the coastal commission in the 1980s. Yet, today, the commission hardly acts as though they are bound by it. In fact, they act as though the present zoning doesn't exist. Why would the downzoning be any different?

Put another way: If the existing Del Monte Forest Land Use Plan didn't create an entitlement to 800 homes, why would the amendment to that plan proposed by the P.B. Co. and approved by voters create an entitlement to anything? If general plans don't mean anything, there was no reason for the commission to turn down the P.B. Co.'s zoning changes, because lower density zoning is always preferable (from an environmental protection point of view).

And, secondly, if general plans entitle property owners to a certain amount of development (which they do), there was also no reason for the commission to do what it did, because the entitlements under the new plan would be much less than the entitlements that already exist under the old one.

Whichever way you look at it, the decision made no sense.

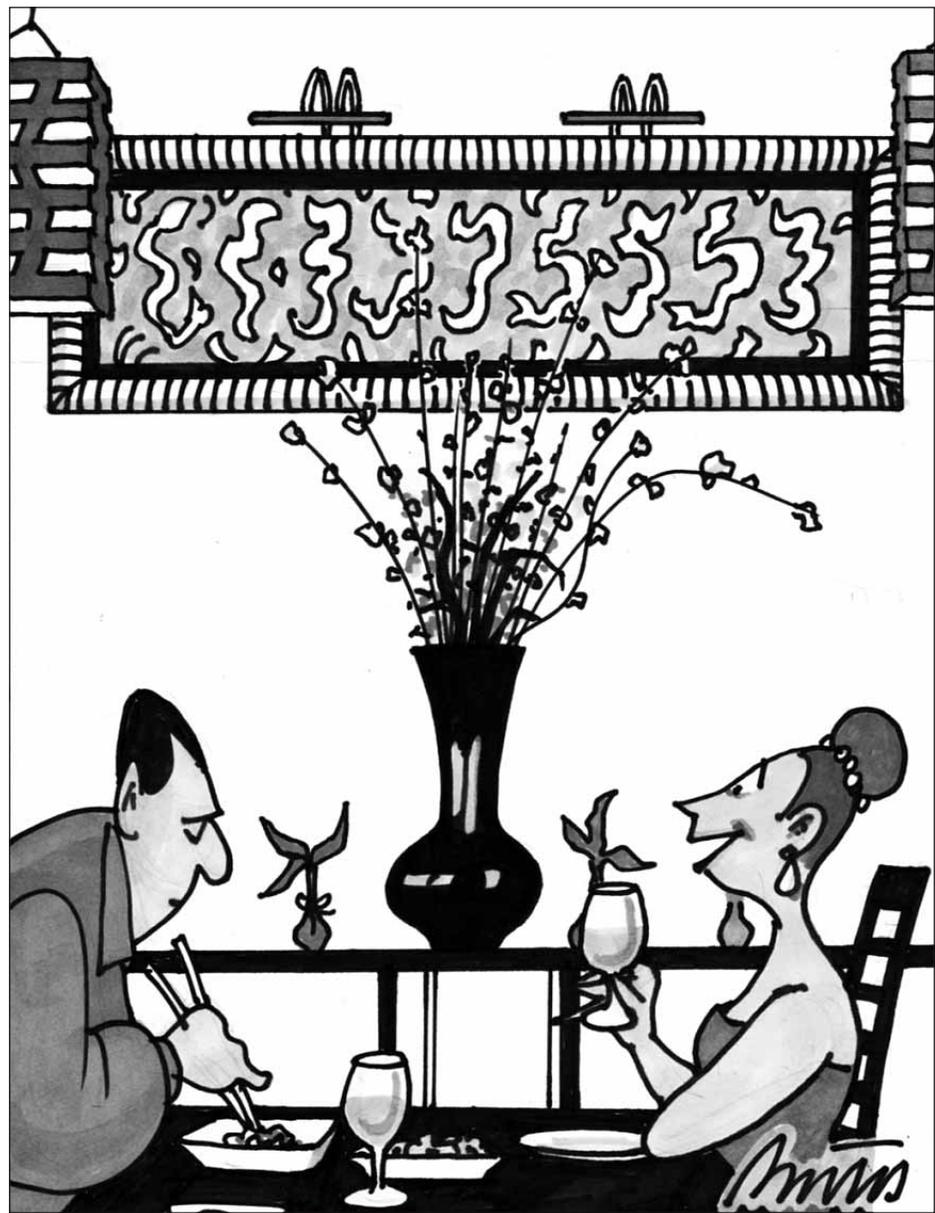

What really happened last week was that the coastal commission, guided by its uncompromising executive director, Peter Douglas, acted out of pique. Douglas, his staff, and the commission's bloc of hardliners can't abide what the P.B. Co. is up to. The idea of a new golf course (already allowed under the existing zoning) makes their skin crawl, and when something comes through the door with the P.B. Co.'s name on it, they are automatically inclined to reject it, no matter the consequences.

The only way for the folks at Pebble Beach to escape these no-win circumstances is to take the matter out of the coastal commission's hands. And that means going to court.

It may take awhile, but the result of a lawsuit to fulfill the provisions of the existing general plan — up to 800 homes, and recreational zoning at the proposed golf course site — will invariably be much more development than would have been allowed by the zoning changes rejected last week.

When that day comes, will Wan and Douglas admit they were wrong?

Letters to the Editor

The Pine Cone encourages submission of letters which address issues of public importance. Letters cannot exceed 350 words, and must include the author's name, telephone number and street address. Please do not send us letters which have been submitted to other newspapers. We reserve the right to determine which letters are suitable for publication and to edit for length and clarity.

The Pine Cone does not accept letters to the editor by fax. Please submit your letters by U.S. mail, e-mail, or in person (addresses are provided below).

'Whiney tirade'

Dear Editor,

Me thinks that The Pine Cone's petulant rant against David Dilworth on the heels of the defeat at the Coastal Commission of the Pebble Beach Company's development plans had the opposite effect than what was intended: Those that did not know of the significant role Mr. Dilworth played in the defeat of the plan know it now and at the same time your editorial made the editor's of your very fine paper look alot like they were killing the messenger.

Of course all its readers know that the Pine Cone has never been known to have a harsh word to say about dear old Clint or the Pebble Beach Company. Let's see, you were complaining that Dilworth gets too much ink (ostensibly from other papers) while giving him plenty and putting his mug in right next to Eastwood. Lets call the wha-am-balance. Your whiney tirade was just that.

Susan Goldbeck, Pacific Grove

Who you calling old?

Dear Editor,

I am taking time to let you know how impoverished I feel your comments are on the political front. Having a newspaper is a privilege and you have an opportunity to have an ear to the ground and hear what your community is talking about and what they want read about, to have another opinion, a new idea, a bit of community news, etc. You could be an intelligent voice!. However, what you are feeding them is your own, unbending, prejudiced, impoverished thought process. You have become a mean-spirited, unkind, prejudiced old man. You take in monies for the advertising game from all who come to you — lots of money, and you serve the public poorly in return.

It is a pity that through your lack of leadership the Pine Cone — once a fine paper — has sunk to this new, bigoted little town paper. It's past history deserved better, as does Carmel.

May Waldroup, Carmel Valley

making contributions to conserving our quality of life.

Valuable and useful education can come from active participation and research. Curious, Clint's scholastic achievements weren't listed.

Perhaps, David brought forth an insight that The Pine Cone would prefer the public react to as ostriches in the sand.

Trying to bad mouth someone never serves.

A 'large chunk of the public'

Dear Editor,

This week's editorial writer needs to get off their high horse. Gadflies get quoted because they show up. The writer makes a good point about citing phony credentials. But as a discriminating reader, I was distracted by wondering what causes the writer to obsess on one quote from just one member of the public who probably does represent the perspective shared by a large chunk of the public — a perspective that I'll bet the writer disagrees with. Why not use the editorial space in The Pine Cone to delve into the nobler debate about Pebble Beach that the writer enshrines but doesn't ever come to address?

Roger Sideman, Carmel

'Emphasis on the 'active''

Dear Editor,

Since when does one need to possess a college degree in order to speak his mind and conscience. David Dilworth is an activist in this area — emphasis on the "active." Others may provide lip service and opinions while resting on their backsides, David "walks the walk," giving his time and efforts on the Peninsula's behalf.

I may not always agree with David's stand on every issue, but I respect his strong commitment to our area and environment. We need more people like David who are willing to act on their principles, rather than simply sitting by complaining about the state of things. He should be commended instead of castigated.

Dean Chapman, Pebble Beach

'Defend to the death'

Dear Editor:

I rise to defend freedom of speech and to chastise the Pine Cone's June 15 editorial, "The Dilworth Phenomenon." I do not know, personally, either Mr. Dilworth or Mr. Eastwood, but regardless of their qualifications to have an opinion, I would wager that both believe sincerely in the right of free speech.

Of course, I "know" Clint Eastwood by his celebrity and admire him for his contribution as a citizen of this Peninsula. Of course, I "know" David Dilworth by his persistent and sometimes annoying reputation. However, I defend to the death, as Voltaire said, their right to speak the truth as they see it!!!!

Efforts might better be spent in seeking better journalism from the nation's reporters.

Ann Sherman-Flint, Pacific Grove

Carmel Middle School's new all-weather track

Dear Editor,

If you have driven past Carmel Middle School on Carmel Valley Road for the past few weeks, you may have noticed the ongoing construction of a new all-weather track at the school.

This project, scheduled for completion this month, is the result of a collaboration of several individuals and community organizations I would like to thank.

The first is CUSD Superintendent Marvin Biassoti and CUSD Board of Trustees members Amy Funt, Howard Given Dan Hightower, Marcy Rustad and Annette Yee-Steck, for agreeing to pay for 50 percent of the project.

Dan Paul and the MOT staff from the CUSD and Stuart Ross from the City of Carmel, who all worked diligently on the critically important drainage system over the winter.

The track project received financial donations from FOCUS (Friends of Carmel Unified Schools), The Big Sur International Marathon, Community Foundation of the Monterey Peninsula, Carmel-by-the-Sea Rotary, Carmel Valley Rotary, Carmel Valley Kiwanis, Carmel Middle School Site Council, Carmel Sports Boosters and the Carmel Middle School PTA.

Finally, I would like to thank Carmel Middle School Principal Edmund Gross for his unwavering support in overcoming all objections and obstacles to build this important asset for Carmel Middle School's 500 students, and for our entire community.

Aquarium to debut three rare animals

THE MONTEREY Bay Aquarium will kick off summer with the debut of three rare animals – a Laysan albatross, a black sea nettle and spotted comb jellies.

A new daily program features “Makana,” a 16-month-old Laysan albatross – an oceanic seabird and the first of her kind at any U.S. aquarium or zoo.

The exhibit introduces this fascinating bird to visitors to raise public awareness about the global threats facing albatross and other Pacific seabirds from a vast blanket of plastics pollution floating on the ocean’s surface, according to aquarium officials.

“Makana is a wonderful ambassador for her species,” said curator Christina Slager, “and the program is a good way to remind people how important it is to recycle plastics. If we don’t, this is the kind of beautiful animal that is threatened.”

At four months, Makana suffered a wing injury and was unable to return to the wild. U.S. Department of Fish and Wildlife officials needed to find a permanent home, which became the Monterey Bay Aquarium.

Summer visitors to the aquarium will also find two exotic species of jellyfish in the Jellies: Living Art special exhibition – the largest black sea nettle on exhibit in the world and rare spotted comb jellies.

All exhibits and programs except “Aquarium Adventures” are included with 2007 aquarium admission of $24.95 for adults; $22.95 for seniors (65+) and students (full-time college, with I.D.), and $15.95 for children 3-12 and the disabled. Children under 3 are admitted free.

Discounted tickets for members of the military and their families can be purchased in advance at many California and Nevada military bases.

Located on Cannery Row, the aquarium is open in the summer from 9:30 a.m. to 6 p.m. Monday through Friday; and 9:30 a.m. to 8 p.m. on Saturdays and Sundays, through Labor Day.

Tim Allen
presents
Al Smith's
"Carmel Legends"

It would have been funny if it hadn't happened so often. Upon being introduced to somebody new, FRANK LLOYD would hear, "Oh, so you're Frank Lloyd, right?" "No," Frank would reply wearily. "Wrong! Mr. Wright makes building. I make words." And make words he did for more than 50 years, many of which have been preserved in the archives of Carmel. His father was Chairman of the Botany Department at McGill University in Montreal, and his first exposure to Carmel came at age four when the senior Lloyd accepted an assignment here for the Smithsonian Institution. Later Frank attended McGill and in 1933 became a sports reporter on the Monterey Gazette. During the next few years he alternated between Montreal and Carmel, finally settling here in '35. For a time he was a contractor, building 12 cottages in Carmel; then he bought a fishing boat and became a commercial fisherman. Next he was Editor of The Pine Cone for 5 years; then an electrician in the shipyards of Sausalito; sports editor of the Santa Cruz Sentinel; proprietor of an electrical business in Cannery row; and founder of a weekly paper in Watsonville. In the 70's he became an outstanding member of the City Council, where he stood for the traditions and ideals that made this little town famous. Today there's a quiet bench overlooking the sea at the corner of Scenic Drive and Santa Lucia, and on it is a small plaque that says this is the "FRANK LLOYD BENCH." Walk around Scenic some day soon, sit on that bench, look out across the Bay, and reflect on the career of this Renaissance Man. Less than 100 yards to the south is the only seaside house designed by Frank Lloyd Wright. The two are still inseparable.

vehicles. Investigation continues.

Carmel Valley: A maid reported her employer accused her of theft of jewelry. Owner of property did not want an investigation. Case closed.

Carmel area: Clerk of a store reported theft of a purse while she was at work and suspect's use of her credit card to withdraw money from her bank account and attempted use of her checks at Home Depot.

Carmel Valley: An anonymous person reported hearing loud voices, things being broken and dogs barking. Deputies contacted the residence and found a married couple had been arguing. No physical violence. Case closed.

Wednesday, June 13

Carmel-by-the-Sea: Reporting party notified police of a white female found lost near Dolores and Ocean. Subject was identified and returned home where officer waited with her until a family member could arrive. Family said they were taking steps to prevent a repeat happening.

Carmel-by-the-Sea: Personal property was taken from a locked vehicle on Scenic Road while the owner was surfing at Carmel Beach.

Carmel-by-the-Sea: On Torres Street, woman reported receiving personal threats from her landlord. When she questioned paying the utility bill for her residence as well as a detached unit on the property, the landlord became irate and began yelling. No credible threat of violence was made, but the reporting party was scared the landlord would enter her residence, turn off the utilities or change the locks without her knowledge. She was advised he could not legally do that and the reporting party wanted the incident documented. Information forwarded to the building official to inspect electrical/gas meters per the permit that was approved for the property. It appeared new meters have not been installed as the landlord stated.

Thursday, June 14

Carmel-by-the-Sea: Resident on Camino Real reported hearing someone walking about on his property. The yard and area was checked and officers were unable to locate anyone. The reporting party was also concerned that about midnight he received a call from someone and all they said was, "How are you?" The man felt it was a wrong number, but was scared when he heard the sound of someone walking about and what sounded like someone trying to open the front door.

Carmel-by-the-Sea: Theft of a camera reported from a gallery on Dolores Street.

Carmel-by-the-Sea: On San Carlos Street, a subject was stopped for a moving violation and was found to have a suspended or revoked license. The driver was cited and released; the vehicle was towed.

Carmel-by-the-Sea: On Dolores Street, possible sexual abuse of a child.

Carmel-by-the-Sea: On Monte Verde Street, juvenile arrested for parole violation.

Carmel-by-the-Sea: On Monte Verde Street, a sheriff's department deputy, a Monterey Police Department Detective and state parole officers arrested a man on an outstanding felony parole warrant. Subject lodged at county jail.

Carmel-by-the-Sea: Suspicious circumstances on Torres Street.

Carmel-by-the-Sea: Burglary of a storage shed on 8th Street reported. Further investigation revealed two juveniles skateboarding on the property. Juveniles admitted they entered the storage shed out of curiosity. Nothing was taken
