

COPS' NEW CONTRACT FORBIDS SMOKING — EVEN AT HOME

By MARY BROWNFIELD

LIGHTING UP will get a police officer fired, according to the three-year labor contract approved by the Carmel City Council at its last meeting. Retroactive to July 1, the agreement, OK'd alongside similar contracts for the city's general and management employees, also includes pay raises.

Sgt. John Nyunt said city administrator Rich Guillen requested the no-smoking provision. The final version of the contract reads, "Persons who are ... employed as of July 1, 2007, or persons hired on and after July 1, 2007, to fill positions represented by the association shall be nonsmokers. Any such employee who subsequently smokes tobacco substances is subject to dismissal. All such persons hired shall certify at the time of entry physical examination to be nonsmokers. The city administrator may direct additional verification of nonsmoking status from time to time."

None of the department's employees smoke, according to Judge refuses to toss Carmel Valley incorporation suit

By KELLY NIX

A COUNTY agency's demand for $140,000 from the Carmel Valley group pushing incorporation is not an attempt to stifle public participation in the political process, a Monterey County judge ruled last week.

On July 14, Superior Court Judge Robert O'Farrell denied a motion by the Carmel Valley Forum to avoid paying legal and staff costs related to turning Carmel Valley into a town. CVF claimed the demand for expenses amounted to a "Strategic Lawsuit Against Public Participation," or SLAPP, which is against the law in California.

According to incorporation proponent Glenn Robinson, LAFCO is demanding a total of $625,000 for processing the incorporation application, "which would make C.V. incorporation by far the most expensive in California history. We are already the longest in terms of time to process the applica-

Cunningham quits city council with only nine months to go

By MARY BROWNFIELD

CITING PERSONAL reasons, Carmel City Councilman Mike Cunningham resigned this week, leaving Mayor Sue McCloud and the three remaining council members to select a replacement in August who will serve until next April's election.

"As you know from our recent conversations, this decision has been reached only after wrestling with significant misgivings. Overall, however, I conclude that it is the right thing to do, given my current situation," Cunningham wrote in his July 16 letter to McCloud. "Several personal priorities require considerable time and attention, making it difficult for me to fulfill the duties of a member of council."

Cunningham's resignation, which took effect Thursday, came eight months after that of former councilman Erik Bethel, who was elected to a four-year term alongside Cunningham in 2004. Bethel left to take a job with a merchant bank in Shanghai.

Cunningham was circumspect regarding the reasons for his departure.

"It's not any show-stopper, catastrophic sort of thing, but a number of issues my wife, Judy, and I want to focus on, and it was hard to do that and be on the city council at the same time," he told The Pine Cone. Cunningham said he felt the return on his investment of time will be greater if he focuses on his family, including adult children in Marin and Santa Barbara, and grandchildren.

He debated remaining on the council for the remaining nine months of his term, but said, "We felt we needed to get cracking."

The scrutinizer

Known for his careful deliberation and thorough discussion of the issues, and his scrutiny of spending items and contracts in hopes of obtaining more bangs for fewer bucks, Cunningham regularly found himself on the losing side of a vote.

"It weighed in [the decision to resign] but was not a heavy factor," he said. "It was frustrating, but that's the nature of decision making: Participants speak their minds."

Most recently, Cunningham repeatedly stated his concerns about McCloud's request for $100,000 for the community housing trust, considering the council had earlier voted not to help fund the effort. That decision was reversed following adoption of the current budget.

He also voted this month against hiring advertising executive Jeff Burghardt as Carmel's economic development coordinator. (Burghardt's firm already holds the $125,000 marketing contract, and Cunningham preferred having another mind working on economic development, possibly for less than the proposed $60,000 annually.)

Homecrafters Marketplace stays put, jury to consider new artists

By MARY BROWNFIELD

THE HOMECRAFTERS Marketplace, held in downtown Carmel the Saturday before Thanksgiving for the past 36 years, will again occupy much of Ocean Avenue Nov. 17. A three-person panel is preparing to decide which artisans should be allowed to sell their wares in the marketplace's 100 booths.

The judges will select vendors from Monterey, Santa Cruz and San Benito counties. All interested artists must reside in one of those counties and make the items they sell.

Community services director Christie Miller said the judges — community services assistant Cindi Lopez, former community activities and cultural commissioner Phyllis Gambill and Carmel Plaza concierge Beth Culbertson, have all participated in the Homecrafters selection process.

"I like to have some consistency on the panel," Miller said. "They evaluate a third of the show every year."

The judges strive to find artisans offering high quality, diverse products, so as not to have too many people selling the same sorts of items. While an invitation to participate is valid for three years, Miller has a few people help assess the offerings on sale day.

"If there's a vendor we don't feel meets the quality or expectations, then we ask them to be juried again," she said. "I have a couple of people who do that for me. I won't tell you who they are."

Fair to stay put

And though some downtown retailers petitioned city officials to have the fair moved from the main downtown shopping street or presented some other time of year, decision makers said the tradition will continue for the foreseeable future.

"We will continue to have discussions and see what we can do to make it more palatable to some of the businesses," Miller said. "There's a definite group that doesn't like the event, and a definite group that does like the event."

During coming years, organizers will "continue to work on the show to morph it into something probably a little bit different," she added.

Miller did not say exactly how that might occur, but she hopes to develop ideas by visiting craft shows in nearby cities. "Some have wine tasting, some have music — all those kinds of things that make it more festive," she said.

The 37th annual Homecrafters Marketplace will be held Saturday, Nov. 17, from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. on Ocean Avenue in downtown Carmel.

Interested vendors must create their own pieces, bring examples of their work and a drawing or photograph of their booth setups, and pay a nonrefundable $10 fee. The judging will occur Wednesday, Sept. 5, from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m., in the city-owned Vista Lobos building on Torres Street between Third and Fourth avenues. No appointment is necessary.

Did you know...

The Del Monte was a wonderful passenger train linking the Monterey Peninsula and San Francisco from 1889 to 1971, operated by Southern Pacific. In the train's early years, its main job was to bring summer tourists south from the city to the peninsula. After World War II, many Del Monte passengers were shoppers headed north for Union Square. In 1957 you could depart Monterey at 6:45 a.m., order breakfast (the orange juice was freshly squeezed), and arrive in the city at 9:55 a.m. Departure for home was at 4:50 p.m. Northbound trains often carried iced boxes of fresh fish bound for San Francisco restaurants. The Del Monte was powered by steam locomotives until 1955, when diesels took over. Perhaps one day we will have rail transportation again on the Monterey Peninsula.

C.V. MAN ARRESTED IN SECOND ASSAULT

By MARY BROWNFIELD

THE 21-YEAR-OLD Carmel Valley resident arrested in May for assaulting his teenage ex-girlfriend at a house on Flanders Drive landed in Monterey County Jail again this week after he allegedly forced entry into a Rancho San Carlos home and attacked the occupants with a metal broom handle.

At 12:26 a.m. July 12, Colby Grewell broke into the house looking for his ex-girlfriend, who has a restraining order against him, according to Monterey County Sheriff's Sgt. Joe Moses. He could not say whether the two incidents involved the same person.

Unable to find her, Grewell "ended up getting in a fight with her father and another person in the house, and hit him [the father] a couple of times with a metal broom handle," Moses said. The homeowner, who was not named, also has a restraining order filed against Grewell.

"Then he fled the house," Moses said.

Deputies exhaustively searched the area and were unable to find their suspect, though they discovered the stolen SUV he had driven, according to the sheriff's office. He also took a pack of cigarettes from the Rancho San Carlos house.

Summoned to treat the battery victim, a Carmel Regional Fire Ambulance crew arrived at 12:40 a.m. and was cleared to enter the home just after 1 a.m., when deputies declared it safe. The crew took the girl's father to Community Hospital of the Monterey Peninsula, where he received care for minor injuries.

The following day, officers found Grewell at his grandmother's Seaside residence and arrested him without incident, according to Moses.

"The deputies got a tip that he was there," he explained, adding that Grewell remains in custody at Monterey County Jail and is facing charges of violation of the restraining order, vehicle theft and assault. He is being held on $60,000 bail and is scheduled to appear in court July 20.

The incident occurred one month after his arrest for a similar assault in Carmel, when he allegedly shoved his teenage ex-girlfriend after he forced entry to her house and she ordered him to leave.

In that case, he also fled before deputies arrived, but they were familiar with Grewell, who reportedly attempted suicide in Carmel Highlands with a shotgun several years ago and severely damaged his face, and lives on Upper Circle in Carmel Valley Village. They found him on Los Laureles Grade and took him into custody after threatening him with Tasers. That case, a misdemeanor, is still being adjudicated.

Kids' play takes on myth

BIG SUR'S Grange Hall will host a performance of "The Golden Lyre" by Stage Kids Friday, July 20.

Based loosely on the Greek myth of Orpheus (who played a golden lyre), the play is the culmination of the annual Stage Kids performing arts camp, which is sponsored by the non-profit Big Sur Arts Initiative.

For the past two weeks, students ranging in age from 7 to 17 have been practicing for the performance while they learn about the theatrical arts.

The show starts at 7 p.m. For more information, call (831) 667-1530 or visit www.bigsurarts.org.

WHY PAY A COMMISSION?

It has generally been true that many people wonder, especially when home prices have skyrocketed, why they should pay a commission to a real estate professional or work with a mortgage professional when there are cheaper ways to buy, sell or finance a home. The reader won't be surprised that this article argues for making the best possible use of your real estate and mortgage advisors. In fact, several such articles will be found in these pages as time goes by.

The first thing that needs to be said is: Good point. Real estate and finance advisors are generally paid quite well for their services and the size of the payment rises as the price of homes rise.

But there is much to say here and little space. The first point that needs to be made is simply that a large number of very reliable surveys have shown in recent years that the proceeds from the sale of a home are significantly larger when a real estate professional assists in that sale. And that's after paying the commission.

As real estate prices have risen, the complexity of the transaction has taken quantum leaps. Most home sellers and buyers have found that they save money, rather than paying more, by calling on the services of a trusted real estate and mortgage advisor. That's the bottom line. For more information call Maureen at 622-2565 and visit her website at www.maureenmason.com.

Cash prize offered for best Concours-inspired shop window

By MARY BROWNFIELD

TO COMPLEMENT the rare beauties that will be parked along Ocean Avenue during the inaugural Carmel-by-the-Sea Concours on the Avenue Tuesday, Aug. 14, event organizers Doug and Genie Freedman hope downtown business owners will dress up their windows in similar style during the days leading up to the free event. The best motor-related display — be it based on cars, airplanes, trains, go-karts, or even non-motorized modes of transportation like matchbox racers — will win its owner $2,500. The Carmel Foundation, the Concours on the Avenue's chosen charity, will receive an identical gift.

But at least 50 businesses have to participate in order to make the event official, Doug Freedman said, since having just a few dressed-up store windows might go unnoticed. The idea is to create continuity between the streets and the shops, with the show cars drawing people to town during Concours Week, and the lavish window displays wooing spectators into the shops.

"If my best dream came true, there wouldn't be a window anywhere in Carmel-by-the-Sea and everywhere related to Carmel that didn't have something about motors, planes, trains, go-karts, or even toys," he said, envisioning a car-shaped loaf of bread with donuts for wheels parked in a bakery window, or rough cuts of lace scraps specially arranged in a fabric shop.

"We're fired up about it," he said. But for the Concours in the Windows idea to take off, retailers, offices and restaurants have to get fired up about it, too.

"Bring the people from the streets — the spectators, entrants, judges — into your shop to look harder at your window and what else you've done to welcome the collector-car community," Freedman urged.

And word of the displays could bring even more people to town. "It should be about sending the message," he said. "If someone sees a whole bunch of windows that knock them out and then goes to the next community — say, Monterey or Pacific Grove — that person will tell people."

The Concours in the Windows would begin Friday, Aug. 10, when many car aficionados begin arriving on the Peninsula. Entries would be judged by a panel including Susan Klusmire of the Carmel Art Association, Artworks magazine publisher Tom Burns and local artist Janet Roberts.

Cal Poly grad returns to Big Sur, opens day camp for local kids

By CHRIS COUNTS

THE POST Ranch Inn's employee housing complex and the private, 500-acre Rancho Rico are located less than a quarter mile from each other, but for all practical purposes, are a world apart.

But thanks to the vision and hard work of a recent college graduate, Sequoia Chappellet-Volpini, the gap between Big Sur's largely Hispanic work force and one of its ridgetop neighbors just got a little smaller.

Chappellet-Volpini, whose family owns Rancho Rico, graduated from Cal Poly San Luis Obispo with a bachelor's degree in social science. Anticipating her graduation, she began looking for a job that incorporated her language skills (she speaks Spanish), her interest in working with kids, and her love of sports and art. Unable to find such a job, Chappellet-Volpini, 22, and her 19-year-old sister, Lukie, ended up creating one.

For the past two weeks, Chappellet-Volpini and her family hosted the second annual Campamento Rancho Rico, a day camp for local children from working families.

"Campamento Rancho Rico was developed last year to address a need for an accessible, affordable and bilingual summer program for children in the Big Sur community," explained Chappellet-Volpini, who grew up in Big Sur.

About 50 mostly Hispanic children from 5 to 18 attended this year's camp, where they were offered opportunities to learn about art, play soccer and interact with the ranch's many farm animals, which include cows, horses, donkeys and goats. The camp also featured an overnight "camp-out" for kids over 8. Camp volunteers (Chappellet-Volpini's family and friends) picked up the kids each day so their

DOES "IPO" SPELL INVESTMENT SUCCESS?

If you spend any time among investors, you're bound to hear someone say: "If only I had gotten in on the ground floor of such-and-such a company." In investment terms, "getting in on the ground floor" means buying a company's stock shares when they first go on sale - at an initial public offering, or IPO. But is that always a good move?

Initially, you might see a big spike in the stock price of a company that's just gone through an IPO. But, over time, these companies are subject to the same economic and market forces as all other businesses. Consequently, their stock prices will go up and down.

So, look at an IPO as a long-term investment. If a stock fits well into your overall portfolio, getting in on the ground floor may be a good point of entry.

Landscaper arrested for attempted murder, threats

A SAND City landscaper investigated for making threats against his boss in Carmel Valley last week is also guilty of shooting a coworker in the leg six weeks ago, Monterey County Sheriff's Sgt. Joe Moses said Wednesday.

The shooting happened after the unnamed victim and the suspect, 40-year-old Costantino Lugo, got into an argument at Lugo's home, according to Moses. The fight escalated from pushing and shoving when Lugo reportedly brought a gun out of his room and shot at the other man twice. One bullet grazed his leg.

"They were fighting about who was the better man, or something like that," Moses said.

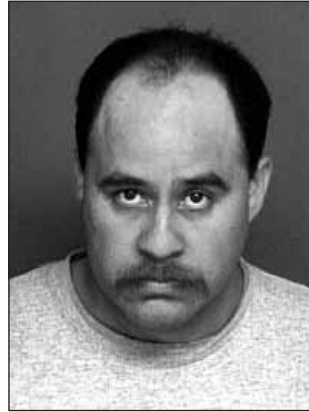

Fearing retaliation against his family in Mexico, the victim didn't report the incident until deputies came to a site where they had a landscaping job on Carmel Valley Road July 13 to question Lugo about threats made against the job foreman.

"These two guys' families live near each other in Mexico, so the victim was afraid the suspect would tell his family to do something to the other family," Moses explained.

The conflict between Lugo and his boss stemmed from a miscommunication the previous day, when nursery owner Kenneth Griggs fired him but a language barrier apparently made the message unclear, and Lugo showed up for work. He and a foreman exchanged words, Moses said, and Lugo threatened him.

"Underneath a pot, he had hidden a knife," Moses said. "He could have carried out the threat if he wanted to."

He remains in Monterey County Jail without bail due to an unrelated warrant.

Everybody Needs a Break Now and Then

Besides, the logistics — and the worry — involved in finding a qualified substitute or in taking their loved one to a care facility can be overwhelming.

We can help.

Our Home Care Coordinator will visit you to discuss your needs and wishes. Then, when the time comes, we will carefully select a Personal Attendant to be at home with your loved one while you are away, and to follow the routine that you have established. We'll do everything possible to make this temporary absence comfortable for your loved one and for you. It's worth a try, isn't it? Super Bowl of motorcycle racing at Laguna Seca this weekend

■ Rainey inducted into walk of fame

By MARY BROWNFIELD

THE DAY before the third Red Bull U.S. Grand Prix kicks off at Mazda Raceway Laguna Seca, motorcycle racer Wayne Rainey joined the track's new Legends of Laguna Seca Walk of Fame.

Near Turn 9 — long named Rainey Curve — Monterey Mayor Chuck Della Sala was set to read a proclamation welcoming Rainey, a Monterey resident, into the inaugural group of Laguna Legends. Dan Gurney, inducted in May, was the first to join the Walk of Fame created in celebration of the raceway's 50th anniversary, and others will follow throughout the 2007 season.

General manager Gill Campbell said Rainey, a three-time world champion who also reigned supreme the national series, was key in bringing MotoGP back to Mazda Raceway Laguna Seca in 2005 after a 10-year absence. The 2005 event sold out, and this year will probably attract about 50,000 people to the Monterey Peninsula.

Rainey also reportedly convinced Yamaha Motor Co., for which he raced with great success before sustaining a career-ending injury, to invest $2 million in work at Laguna. During the past three years, the track underwent more than $8 million in

YOUR AUTO COLUMN

Presented by Kevin & Sue Anne Donohoe

SAVING DRIVERS FROM THEMSELVES

Today's motor vehicles come with an unprecedented number of highly effective safety features that make automobiles safer than ever before. Many of these safety features, such as anti-lock brakes and electronic stability control, exert themselves without the driver ever having to intervene. However, there are drivers who are tempting fate by driving more aggressively than they otherwise would without the safety features. The so-called "offset hypothesis" holds that drivers "adapt" to safety innovations and allow themselves to be lulled into a false sense of security by becoming more relaxed and less vigilant about safety. Instead, drivers should hold themselves to the same high safety standards that automobile manufacturers expect of their own products.

From airbags to seatbelts there are a plethora of safety features implemented in today's vehicles. We take you, and your family's safety, very seriously. In fact we consider it our top priority, putting nothing else above it. We stress the importance of seatbelts, as well as proper automotive care to ensure the other safety features, such as the ABS enables brakes, work correctly. All of our work is done by ASE Certified technicians, and we are also AAA Approved. We are the oldest independent repair facility in Monterey going... and growing!

P.S. One safety feature, the seat belt, can only be effective if drivers and passengers buckle up.

Kevin and Sue Anne are the owners of Pacific Motor Service located at 550 E. Franklin St. here in Monterey. Phone: 375-9571 Green Business Program

The race logistics

The weekend's races, which begin July 20, offer an opportunity for defending world champion Nicky Hayden, from Owensboro, Ky., to regain his form. He hasn't won a race this year but finished first at Laguna Seca in 2005 and 2006. But he'll face stiff competition from from five-time world champion Italian Valentino Rossi and the leader this year, Casey Stoner, a young Australian. Riders compete on 800cc prototype machines that generate nearly 250 horsepower despite weighing only about 330 pounds. They can reach speeds of 210 mph.

Also happening at Laguna Seca this weekend, the American Motorcyclist Association superbike and supersport races will offer defending champion Ben Spies and other riders a chance to show off their skills in front of huge live and television audiences.

Hoping for near-record crowds again this year, track officials reported they have worked to solve some of the issues that plagued previous events, such as traffic snarls, long lines for shuttle buses and water shortages.

Most spectators will be bused in from parking areas on Fort Ord, with General Jim Moore Boulevard closed to through traffic from 1 p.m. to 11 p.m. Friday through Sunday. But fans who ride their own motorcycles can enter through Barloy Canyon Road, accessible from Reservation Road. Teams, officials, media and VIPs with proper credentials will use the main gate on Highway 68.

Another alternative through the main gate is also available: Monterey-Salinas Transit will provide free rides from Carmel, Monterey, Seaside and Salinas to the track for ticket holders.

For ticket information, call (800) 327-SECA or visit www.laguna-seca.com. MotoGP will also air live from 2 to 3 p.m. Sunday on Fox, and the AMA Superbike Championship will be shown on SPEED Channel at 8 p.m.

Today's Modern Dentistry

Presented by
Frank J. di Bari, DDS

GUMMING UP THE WORKS!

Poor oral hygiene can lead to problems that extend far beyond the teeth, gums, and mouth. In fact, bacteria in the mouth can lead to problems that reach throughout the body, including heart disease, diabetes, blood infection, and even low birth-weight babies. The usual culprit is gum disease. People with gum disease (periodontal disease) are suffering from a chronic low-grade infection. This problem, which affects four of every five Americans, can exacerbate a wide range of health problems. In fact, gum disease is thought to introduce bacteria into the bloodstream. As these bacteria flow from the mouth to other parts of the body, they spread inflammation. To avoid this potential problem, brush and floss regularly and get frequent dental exams.

Chances are that you or a family member has some stage of gum disease. While many adults do develop some degree of gum disease as part of the aging process, there are some steps you can take to prevent it. Some of these include thoroughly brushing and flossing every day, eating nutritious meals and avoiding sugary foods, and visiting your dentist twice a year for a thorough cleaning and examination. To schedule an appointment, please call our office. Our office hours are by appointment.

P.S. Blood infections from gum disease can cause joint replacements to fail by aiding the body's efforts to reject the artificial implant.

Dr. di Bari, is a dentist in private practice at 20 Dormody Ct. here in Monterey. He may be reached at 373-3703.

CENTENARIAN HIPSTERS

Just because a person is one hundred years old does not necessarily mean that he or she is out of touch. In fact, a recent survey indicates that centenarians may be more connected than you thought. According to the survey, nearly one-third of the respondents have watched a reality TV show, and 27 percent indicated that they have watched MTV or music videos. Six percent have spent time on the Internet, and 4 percent have said that they have listened to music on an iPod. People over the age of 100 are also likely to keep up with the latest health trends. Eighty-two percent indicated that their dietary habits have improved or stayed the same compared with 50 years ago.

If you have a loved one who needs home care, please consider VICTORIAN HOME CARE/RESIDENTIAL CARE HOMES. Our in-home care program assists older adults in maintaining their independence at home, or can ease the transition to a new setting if needed. We are affiliated with the National Association of Professional Geriatric Care Managers, American Society of Aging, and California Association for Health Services at Home, California Association of Residential Care Homes and The American Nurses Association

P.S. According to the U.S. Census Bureau, there are currently more than 80,000 Americans who are 100 years of age or older. That number is expected to rise to more than 580,000 by 2040.

Meg Parker Conners is an RN and owner of Victorian Health Care Services and Victorian Residential Care Homes. For assistance, call 655-1935.

Surfer spots blaze in Pebble Beach

By KELLY NIX

AN OFF-DUTY firefighter surfing at Spanish Bay spotted a quick-moving fire in Pebble Beach this week that burned about 1 acre. Mike Luce, fleet manager for Cal Fire, noticed a plume of smoke over Pebble Beach about 12:30 p.m. Tuesday while he was in the ocean.

"He was in the water and saw it," said David Jones, fire marshall with Pebble Beach Fire. "He saw the beginning of the plume and got out of the water" and used his cell phone to call the station.

Fire crews responded to the blaze, which bordered Spyglass Hill and Stevenson, and Bristol Curve and Stevenson, with eight engines, two hand crews and one helicopter.

It took firefighters about an hour to contain the fire, but Jones said crews spent a few more hours on scene mopping up, making sure most of the hot spots were extinguished.

Cypress, Pebble Beach and Pacific Grove fire departments and Cal Fire responded to the blaze.

"The column of smoke it produced was visible from both sides of the Peninsula," Jones said.

Nobody was injured in the blaze, nor were homes immediately threatened, but it came within about 1,000 feet of the Pebble Beach Equestrian Classic that was taking place at the time.

With all the smoke and commotion, "I was surprised the horses were able to jump," Jones said.

injured animals for treatment and care. Currently, there are about 70 animals, including opossums, raccoons, songbirds and raptors, being tended to at the facility.

"We are getting a lot of babies right now," said SPCA spokeswoman Beth Brookhouser. "It's definitely the busiest time of year."

Volunteers are needed to help with feeding, she said. For instance, baby song birds need to be fed on average every 20 minutes from 7 a.m. to 7 p.m.

"You can imagine the cacophony of sound and the amount of volunteers it takes to make everybody happy," she said.

The wildlife center has four full-time wildlife rehabilitation technicians and dozens of volunteers who work directly with the rescue, rehabilitation and release of native animals. But it needs more help.

"We need volunteers for everything," Brookhouser said. "We train them to act side by side with our staff. It's a very powerful experience. They do everything, from laundry, to feeding baby birds, to making a plate of food for a crow that is learning to fly."

The center, essentially an emergency hospital, also treats mountain lions, bobcats, deer, hawks, owls and pelicans, and small animals, including squirrels, turtles, hummingbirds and swallows.

Brookhouser said the wildlife center has volunteers ranging from teenagers to senior citizens.

But Sue Campbell, the wildlife center's supervisor, said the fast-paced volunteer work is not for everyone

"It's hard work," Campbell said. "It's not glamorous. There are a lot of general house-keeping and chores. It is rewarding in that you get to see the animals grow up so quickly. And we try to include our volunteers in the releases."

Many of the animals at the center arrive because of human activity, such as birds falling from their nest as a result of tree trimming, according to the SPCA. And some of the animals at the wildlife center, which recently relocated to 2 Harris Ct. in Ryan Ranch, are brought there as a result of "unnecessary rescue."

"It's an old wives' tale that you can't put a bird back in its nest because its mom won't care for it because of human smell," Campbell said. "The small songbirds don't rely on sense of smell."

And oftentimes fledglings on the ground who appear helpless are actually just in the midst of the growing process.

"Many birds go through a period of time on the ground when they can't fly," she said. "Their flight feathers aren't out."

Saturday, July 28, the SPCA will be offering training to volunteers who would like to assist with the care and rehabilitation of animals at the wildlife center. The training is from 1 to 3 p.m. at the SPCA's education center, 1002 Highway 68, across from the raceway at Laguna Seca.

Birdhouse-building contest open for entries

THE HERITAGE Society of Pacific Grove is holding its annual birdhouse-building contest, which is now open for entries. The 3rd Annual Heritage House for the Birds fundraiser includes a new youth category for children 16 years or younger. Besides the youth entry fee of $10, the cost for adults to enter is $75, or a participant may "solicit a sponsorship of the entry fee from an area business." The youth birdhouses will be judged by the public for awards, alongside the adult entries, during the two official public showings. Youth builders may choose to keep their entries after the presentation of awards or allow them to be auctioned to the highest bidders alongside the adult entries to benefit the Heritage Society. A special Heritage Houses for the Birds Public Presentation and Silent Auction will be held at Elmarie Dyke Park next to Chautauqua Hall Sunday, Sept. 16, from noon to 4 p.m. Visitors will have an opportunity to vote for a favorite birdhouse and bid on it at the auction. In the weeks following the auction, bidding will continue at various locations throughout the City of Pacific Grove, with the final auction and sale taking place in Elmarie Dyke Park during the annual Historic Home Tour. Sunday, Oct. 7. For more information, contact Heritage Society members Craig and Rebecca Riddell at (831) 646-0351.

Memorial Mass for Countess of Kinnoull

THE CATHOLIC Church will honor the life of Claude Kinnoull, a countess who used her inherited tobacco fortune to found a seminary and support the church, the Monterey County SPCA, the Monterey Institute of International Studies and many other worthy charities. A member of the Third Order of Discalced Carmelites for more than 50 years, Lady Kinnoull had lived in Carmel for almost half a century by the time she died in July 1985 at the age of 80. She had also lived throughout Europe, visited more than 100 missions in Africa, raced cars, wrote books, acted in films and was active in many political, humanitarian and religious activities. According to Peninsula resident Yolanda Gurries, a parishioner decided to honor Lady Kinnoull every year. Last year, clergy participated in prayers and a Rosary at her grave site in the San Carlos Cemetery in Monterey. "This year, it's a Holy Mass," she said. "I'm one of the parishioners, and there are several of us wanting to do this." Gurries said the Mass, set for 11 a.m. Saturday, July 21, in the Santa Rosalia Chapel in Monterey, is open to the public. "She was Scottish, so there will be a bagpiper playing at her grave site," she said. "There are a lot of different groups she was affiliated with. Anybody can come."

West Coast Poetry Slam returns to Big Sur

THE HENRY Miller Library will host the 10th annual West Coast Poetry Slam Saturday, July 21, and Sunday, July 22. The premier West Coast event in the poetry slam world, the contest will pit teams from 10 different cities against each other. The event will also feature a performance by four-time national poetry slam champion Patricia Smith and a one-man show, "You Want a Piece of Me?" by poet Joe Hernandez-Kolski. The competition begins at noon each day. The library is located on Highway 1, a quarter-mile south of the landmark Nepenthe restaurant and about 30 miles south of Carmel. Summer concerts in full swing

By STEVE VAGNINI

THE LOCAL summer outdoor music scene is once again in full swing, with concert series in Seaside, Carmel and Monterey.

At Seaside's Sunday Blues in the Park, South Bay blues guitarist Chris Cain performs Sunday, July 22, and on the following Sunday blues diva Maria Muldaur plays with her Red Hot Bluesiana Band. The music starts at 1 p.m. with opening acts Free Sound and Dennis Murphy playing, respectively, on July 22 and July 29. The event is free and takes place at Laguna Grande Park on Canyon Del Rey

Photographer finds artistic inspiration under the sea

By CHRIS COUNTS

EVEN AT an early age, Pacific Grove photographer Chuck Davis was captivated by the images he found in the ocean. Only 14 when he first took his camera beneath the surface of the sea, Davis became so skilled in his craft that he landed the ultimate underwater photographer's dream job.

"Chuck spent several years as an expedition photographer and cinematographer for the Cousteau Society," explained Joan McCleary, director of the Pacific Grove Art Center. "He continues to do freelance work with Jean-Michel Cousteau, the son of the late Jacques Cousteau. His images are simply stunning."

Davis' photographs will be featured in "California Inner Spaces," one of five new exhibits opening Friday, July 20, at the Pacific Grove Art Center. Also presented at the art center will be shows by Kirk Kennedy, Claude Cirimele and Donna Catotti.

Kennedy, who lives in Salinas, specializes in creating large-scale panoramic images of local landscapes.

Rio Run names new beneficiary

AFTER A decade raising money for the Suicide Prevention Service of the Central Coast, the popular Rio Grill's Resolution Run — which gets thousands of runners and walkers outside and sweating for a good cause each New Year's Day — has a new beneficiary: Big Brothers Big Sisters, which pairs children with adult mentors.

"We looked for an underfunded, under-privileged nonprofit who could use help, and someone who brings a young, fresh volunteer base to the table," said Tony Tollner, who owns the Rio Grill and started the Resolution Run 17 years ago. "Big Brothers Big Sisters really does that."

Race organizer Julie Ann Lozano said, "BBBS is thrilled at the opportunity to raise their awareness, as they are in desperate needs of 'Bigs,' as opposed to the 'Littles.' They are especially in need of men to be Big Brothers."

Tollner and Lozano mulled over possible charities before settling on Big Brothers Big Sisters, which Tollner learned about from some patrons in his newest restaurant, Willy's Smokehouse. "They really fit our profile perfectly," he said. "They're a really dynamic, nice, young team, with lots of good folks and a lot of good energy."

Meanwhile, Suicide Prevention is planning its own fundraiser, the Coastal Trail Walk, to be held on the Recreation Trail Sept. 15 to coincide with National Suicide Prevention Awareness Week.

The 18th annual Rio Resolution Run will be held Tuesday, Jan. 1, 2008.

High fives for Monterey County wine and Boxer Brew's ale

By CHARYN PFEUFFER

CONGRATULATIONS TO Carmel Road Winery and Morgan Winery for landing two of the 18 spots on Food & Wine's "Best New California Chardonnays" list in the August 2007 issue. Carmel Road's 2005 Monterey Chardonnay ($14) and Morgan's 2006 Metallico Monterey Chardonnay ($22) took home the top honors.

■ You'll never look at rodents quite the same way

If you're a food lover, go check out summer hit flick, "Ratatouille." It's a charming G-rated tale of a rat named Remy who aspires to be a great French chef — all while portraying the restaurant business in a fairly accurate light. Anthony Bourdain was quoted last week on writer Michael Ruhlman's blog (www.ruhlman.com) saying, "I think it's quite simply the best food movie ever made." Monetarily, that may be true — it had a box office of more than $142 million in its first three weeks — but I think Bourdain's giving the Disney empire a wee bit too much credit. It's not exactly "Big Night" or "Babette's Feast," but it's a great date movie. You can see it at Del Monte Center in Monterey.

■ Montrio got a makeover

General manager Kathy Solley and the crew over at Montrio had a few setbacks but survived a speedy renovation. The bar has been buffed, new carpet laid, the sound-proofing clouds cleaned and fluffed, and the kitchen spiffed up. Chef Tony Baker is slowly rolling out a new menu, so look for dishes which reflect all of the good ingredients to be found locally during the summer. Maybe the slow-as-molasses construction crew renovating the kitchen at Sierra Mar could take a cue from Montrio and get it together to reopen, I don't know, maybe sometime before Labor Day? They've been in a makeshift facility since March. Montrio is at 414 Calle Principal in Monterey.

■ Wining in Greenfield

On Saturday, July 21, from 5 to 9:30 p.m., Scheid Vineyards is hosting its annual sellout event, Concert in the Vineyard. This year, Vintage, a renowned nine-piece band that blends jazz, R&B, funk and pop, will provide tunes, while Scheid will provide a delicious dinner paired with the vineyard's award-winning wines.

Scheid Vineyards is located at 1972 Hobson Ave. in Greenfield, just south of Soledad on Highway 101. For reservations, call (831) 386-0316 or visit www.scheidwines.com. Tickets are $45 for club members and $55 for non-members.

■ Hanging on the farm with Farmer Mark

Also this Saturday, June 21, join Earthbound Farm's Farmer Mark Marino from 11 a.m. to noon as he leads a guided tour of the company's beautiful Carmel Valley fields. Guests will harvest a basketful of farm-fresh seasonal organic produce — varieties depending on the condition of the fields and the produce — and take it home to enjoy.

"There's something so extraordinary about going out into a field, digging your hands into the soil, and harvesting your own food. That connection — from farm to table — is one we should all experience," says Farmer Mark. Stay afterward for a picnic lunch and enjoy Chef Sarah LaCasse's all-organic salad bar, toasted-to-order panini, made-to-order smoothies, fresh soups and sandwiches. Or pick up some stone fruit — peaches, nectarines, plums are all in season this time of year — or a bouquet of flowers (sunflowers, dahlias, saponaria, daisies, statice, cosmos, coreopsis and irises are all in season). And the crop that started it all, Earthbound Farm's famous raspberries, is in season, too.

An easy thing to make with stone fruit is cobbler:

- Stir together 1/2 cup of flour and 1/2 cup of sugar.
- Slice 1/2 cup of butter into 1 tablespoon pieces and cut that into the flour and sugar until you have a crumbly mixture.

- Slice fruit into a baking dish and sweeten it slightly (you can add a sprinkle of cinnamon, cloves or nutmeg if you wish).
- Scatter the crumb mixture over the top and bake at 350 degrees until the topping is crisp and brown and the fruit is juicy and fra-

friends complain about the shortage of men on the Peninsula again. They're here. I saw them in droves with my own eyes. And they all gather at the Monterey Beer Festival, where I whooped it up last weekend with my salsa-dancing friend, Stacy Hendricks. Despite running out of beer early (increased attendance is a good thing), festival organizer Jeff Moses does a bang-up job with this event, one of the many hop-fueled highlights was trying Moses' new label, Boxer Brew's Cruiserweight Ale. Look for it.

tographed me yesterday when I looked soignée and suave instead of frizzy?" A golden retriever, he's the "lover boy of the group," according to Andee. He loves people and approaches them gently on the beach, leaning against their legs in an affectionate manner.

CARMEL BEACH walkers all, this handsome and compatible gaggle of damp dogs had just come up from their daily romp down by the water when we waylaid them for a photo shoot and interview.

They arrived at the Scenic walking path together with their walker, Andee Burleigh, who has been training and walking dogs since she was 13.

Notably missing from the group is Zoe Burleigh, a delightful mix of Chihuahua and pug, who passed away at the grand age of 19 in May. Although Zoe was small, she was the undisputed leader of whatever group Andee was overseeing that day. She is missed and lovingly remembered by all who knew her.

Next in line to be leader is Fanny Seaborn (second from right) who at 7 is a dignified Carmel Highlands resident, as is her nephew, Bobo Seaborn, 5, (extreme right). Both are Rhodesian Ridgebacks.

Bobo is very serious, as one can see. He adores and looks up to Aunt Fanny and plays almost exclusively with her when they are on the beach together.

Atticus Brooks (second from left) has naturally curly hair, and as it was drizzling on Wednesday when we encountered him, he was having a bad hair day. His expression says it all: "Why couldn't you have pho-

Lexi Burleigh (far left), 11 months, is a Doberman who didn't have an ear job. Mom Andee had to fly all the way to Las Vegas to get her in this becoming natural state. She is all about fun and makes friends with all dogs. When a new client of her Mom gets in their car, she smothers the newcomer with kisses by way of welcome.

Forty years ago, these pristine coastal highlands captivated Clint Eastwood. Today, his vision has inspired a community that only a few kindred spirits will share.

It took years of thoughtful planning to ensure that 85 percent of Tehama would remain untouched – wildlife corridors preserved, the natural beauty unblemished, your privacy ensured. While just 90 secluded homesites will grace these 2,000 acres, fewer than half remain available. For those in search of privacy amid natural splendor, a treasured legacy awaits.

“Taking an interest in the land was the only way to protect it.”
Clint Eastwood

ing as many as 20 or 30 images in rows and columns,” McCleary explained. “Back at his ‘digital darkroom,’ he meticulously rebuilds the scene.”

Catotti, a Vermont native who lives in Haines, Alaska, is a versatile artist who will present a retrospective exhibit covering a quarter century of silkscreening. “This show represents 26 years of silkscreen printing, including every serigraph she has done since 1981, when she showed her first 10 pieces at the P.G. Art Center,” McCleary said.

Cirimele, who lives in Carmel, offers a mixed media exhibit, “In My Room.”

“Having grown up in the 1950s and 1960s, he has a strong interest in abstract expressionism and pop art,” McCleary said. “His paintings are his interpretations of his interest in the history of the affairs of the contemporary world.”

The exhibits will be on display through Aug. 30. The venue, which is located at 568 Lighthouse Ave., is open Wednesday through Saturday from noon to 5 p.m., and Sunday from 1 to 4 p.m.

■ Haitian artist turns junk into art

While many creative types can lay claim to being resourceful, few can match the remarkable initiative of Haitian artist Windzor Gouin.

Gouin, who will present an exhibit and demonstration at the Big Sur Spirit Garden Saturday, July 21, makes beautiful art from discarded oil drums.

“Windzor comes from a place in rural Haiti with no running water or electricity,” explained Corey Costanzo, gallery co-owner. “He takes 55-gallon oil drums and he gets the whole village involved in the process. The kids clean the oil out of the drums and sand the metal. Then Windzor uses a hammer and a chisel to turn the drums into works of art.”

According to Costanzo, Gouin and other oil drum artists have been so successful that their work literally sustains their small rural communities. “Haiti is the world’s poorest country,” he said. “What Gouin does is a true testament to man’s resourcefulness in the face of dire economic challenges.”

For more information, call (831) 667-1300 or visit www.bigsurspiritgarden.com.

■ Arts council hosts contest

Not only land use attorneys, politicians and activists are welcome at the new county office building in Salinas.

Thanks to a local nonprofit, artists are also permitted on the premises, and the Arts Council for Monterey County is seeking entries for its annual government center exhibit and 2008 calendar. “What we’re trying to do is celebrate the unique and diverse light, color and emotion that exist throughout our county,” explained Paulette Lynch, executive director of the arts council.

A total of 34 pieces will be displayed at the government center, which hosts the county’s board of supervisors and planning commission meetings, along with vital county offices such as the recorder and assessor. The calendar will feature 12 works, with a Best of Show selected for its cover.

Lynch said the exhibit benefits artists and the public. “It’s a great forum for artists to get their work out there,” she explained. “What a difference it makes to put fine art the walls.”

The deadline for submissions is Monday, July 23. For more information, call (831) 622-9060 or visit www.culturalmonterey.org.

■ Multimedia tribute to photographer

Daniel Dixon will offer a multimedia presentation focusing on the work of his mother — influential photojournalist Dorothea Lange — at the Pacific Grove Museum of Natural History, Saturday, July 21, at 2 p.m.

Dixon, whose father was the acclaimed painter Maynard Dixon, will present nearly 400 slides, while his wife, Dixie, will read excerpts from Lange’s writings.

Lange, who died in 1965, was best known for her 1930-era work that focused on the tragic consequences of the Great Depression. In particular, her image of a weary California mother posing with her children, “Migrant Mother,” is one of the best known of all news photos.

The event is free. For more information, call (831) 648-5716 or visit www.pgmuseum.org.

■ Gallery presents fabric art demo

Humboldt County fabric artist Kimberlee Ellen Brown will present a demonstration of her work at the Big Sur Gallery in Carmel Saturday, July 21, from 3 to 5 p.m.

Brown — who has a pilot’s license — handstitches and handpaints fabric to capture the starkness and drama of a variety of mountainous California landscapes.

“I used to think that I wanted to venture to the stars, but seeing the earth from above, in a small airplane, reminded me of the greatness of our own planet — the forests, the oceans, mountains, deserts,” Brown explained. “I am still fascinated with the universe beyond, but there is so much to see and experience here — from the patterns in the skin of a lizard, to the giant, ancient trees and great, twisting canyons.”

across the street from Seaside City Hall.

In Monterey, local blues band Red Beans & Rice jump starts the 11th Annual Del Monte Center Musical Marketplace series in a benefit concert for the local SPCA. The Beans recently released their 4th CD, "Hot 'n Spicy," and will play from 5:30 to 8 p.m. at the shopping center's sunken garden. And at Carmel Plaza (corner of Ocean Avenue and Mission Street) Jazz at the Plaza continues from 5 to 7 p.m. Friday with pianist Scott Brown and saxophonist Roger Eddy on Friday, July 27. The music is free and complemented by a wine tasting program for $15.

The Golden State Theatre in downtown Monterey continues to announce new bookings for this fall, including a rare performance by Hall and Oates, one of the most successful duos in rock 'n' roll history. Having sold more 60 million albums in a career that has spanned three decades, the creators of such classic hits as "Maneater" will perform on Sunday, Sept. 2. Performing Friday, July 23, at the renovated Monterey venue, four-time Grammy award winners k.d. lang and Lyle Lovett are touring the United States together this summer. Lang will be backed by her small quartet and Lovett by his legendary Large Band. Lovett's latest release was "My Baby Don't Tolerate" in 2003, and Lang's last studio album was 2004's "Hymns of the 49th Parallel," which featured covers of songs originally sung by various natives of the singer's home country, Canada, including material by Neil Young, Joni Mitchell and Leonard Cohen. Tickets for all performances at the Golden State (including Weird Al Yankovic Oct. 12 and legendary blues artist B.B. King Oct.25) are on sale. Call (831) 372-3800.

Sunday, July 22, the Monterey Jazz Festival's Monterey County High School All-Star Band will perform at the National Steinbeck Center in a special concert kicking off the group's annual performance tour of Japan. The MJF County High School All-Star Band is directed by renowned saxophonist and flautist Paul Contos. The 21-member band features the finest young jazz musicians throughout Monterey County, including students from Monterey, Carmel, Pacific Grove, Salinas, Palma, Stevenson, and York high schools. The MJF County High School All-Star Band's tour of Japan will take place July 24-Aug. 6.

The All-Star Concert at the Steinbeck Center starts at 7 pm. Call (831) 775-4721 for tickets and info.

On their 2006 CD release, "Open," vocalist and composer Dominique Eade and pianist Jed Wilson performed unusual covers, rarely heard standards, and songs written by Eade for the duo, including some brand new originals. Eade and Wilson, who will perform Saturday, July 28, at the KRML Jazz and Blues Store on San Carlos Street, have been playing together since 2004 when the young pianist graduated from the New England Conservatory of Music. Eade, a Boston jazz artist who has won numerous accolades, was voted one of the Top 10 jazz singers in the Downbeat Critics Poll and has released five albums since 1997. She has been a featured performer at the Porto Jazz Festival in Portugal, the Bell Atlantic Jazz Festival's Diva's of Jazz concert in New York with Terri Thornton and Abbey Lincoln, and the Toulon Jazz Festival in France. Known for her exquisite taste in material and imaginative interpretations, Eade is a well kept secret on the West Coast. The concert starts at 7:30 p.m. Call (831) 624-6432 for reservations.

Named one of the "Top 10 artists to watch" in 2005 by Rolling Stone Magazine, vocalist Brandi Carlile performs Tuesday, July 24, at Monterey Live on Alvarado Street. Touring in support of her latest album "The Story," Carlile has during the last two years opened for a number of headlining artists including Chris Isaak, Tori Amos and Shawn Colvin. Driven by Carlile's vocals and imaginative original material, "The Story" is a powerful recording that announced her arrival as an up-and-coming singer/songwriter. The music starts at 6:30 p.m. For tickets call (877) 548-3237.

SMOKING

Nyunt, and the restriction will help cut healthcare costs, since tobacco use has been tied to heart disease and other expensive ailments from which public safety workers are already more inclined to suffer due to their jobs.

"There's some causal effect with smoking and heart disease and other conditions that are considered unhealthy," he told The Pine Cone. "Especially with this line of work, smoking would make them more aggravated, so that's why we've decided not to hire smokers."

Enforcement of the new rule would be similar to that for illegal drugs, according to Nyunt. Probable cause would be needed in order to investigate an officer.

"If you don't have cause, there's no reason for going out and testing people and watching people," he said.

Nyunt admitted the clause attempts to control Carmel P.D. employees' personal lives and decisions regarding what is a legal activity for adults.

"You're serving the interests of the community, and the community has to pay for everything," he explained, including rising insurance and medical costs resulting from long-term health problems linked to smoking.

Nyunt said no one in the union, which represents all CPD staff except the chief, objected.

"Our association's attorney didn't see a problem with it, either," he added.

More money

The new police contract, which runs July 1 through June 30, 2010, also includes salary adjustments of 8.75 percent each July 1 for "safety positions" — officers, corporals and sergeants — and 2.5 percent every six months, in July and January, for non-safety positions such as dispatchers and parking officers.

The estimated additional costs are $115,000 for the 2007/2008 fiscal year, $133,000 for 2008/2009 and $162,000 for 2009/2010. At $2.7 million, the police department consumes the largest chunk of the city's current $13.1 million annual budget.

At the same meeting, general workers and managers received cost-of-living raises in their new contracts, which were likewise adopted by the council without discussion and will last two years. They contained no provisions on smoking.

According to the agreements ratified by the city and the general employees and management associations, workers received a 3 percent COLA July 1. They will get another 3 percent in January 2008, and 4 percent on July 1, 2008.

The fire department's contract expired June 30, and employees and the city are negotiating a new one.

PacRep's TheatreFest

PACREP THEATER'S annual 2007 Monterey Bay TheatreFest Arts and Crafts Faire will be held Saturday and Sunday, July 21 and 22, from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m., at Monterey's historic Custom House Plaza at the top of Fisherman's Wharf.

Artisans and crafters will present their original works in this juried show. The faire includes musical entertainment by Dogman Jal, Jim Fucillio and Gemini Soul Smooth Jazz throughout the day, and a variety of food, beverages and snacks.

Admission is free. Proceeds benefit PacRep Theatre, which is currently presenting "Miss Witherspoon" at the Golden Bough Playhouse. For more information, visit www.pacrep.org.

Motorcycle-only parking decreed

AS TENS of thousands of race fans converge on the Monterey Peninsula for the Red Bull U.S. Grand Prix at Mazda Raceway Laguna Seca this weekend, even the small City of Carmel-by-the-Sea, which is already hosting the Bach Festival, is welcoming them by setting aside a block for motorcycle-only parking. One block on the north side of Ocean Avenue, the city's main shopping street, will be off-limits to four-wheeled vehicles from noon to 9 p.m. Friday, Saturday and Sunday, July 20-22. Bikes will be parked next to Devendorf Park between Junipero and Mission streets, according to community services director Christie Miller. "And if it's really successful, we will add more Saturday and Sunday," she said. "We want to make people feel welcome."

JUDGE

tion." He accused LAFCO of having a "hidden agenda."

But LAFCO officials said they were just trying to protect the county's taxpayers.

"We are locally funded," said Kate McKenna, LAFCO executive officer. "And we have a responsibility to recover our costs and have the authority under state law to do so."

At issue are incorporation expenses from July 2003 to February 2007, which totaled nearly $269,000.

The expenses include legal costs and preparing environmental, fiscal and service plan studies for the would-be-town.

Carmel Valley incorporation opponent Bob Sinotte said if the CVF doesn't pay the processing costs, the public will be stuck with them.

"Certainly, these people [incorporation proponents] ought to pay these bills," Sinotte said Wednesday. "Who wants the taxpayers to pay the $137,000 or whatever it is?"

CVF's attorneys attempted have LAFCO's suit thrown out with an anti-SLAPP motion, alleging the suit was an effort to stop incorporation proponents from exercising their constitutional rights.

In its claim, LAFCO contended the CVF "induced LAFCO to incur expenses, for which LAFCO reasonably believed it would be reimbursed." The agency also claims the CVF "never challenged the fact it would reimburse LAFCO."

"The judge's ruling confirms that LAFCO has a legitimate basis in law," to try to recover its costs, McKenna told board members after the hearing. "Our claim is not intended to chill the protected rights of the forum and that LAFCO has demonstrated the probability of prevailing on the claim."

A trial over the costs will probably take place this fall, according to Robinson and McKenna.

"I expect the forum will win the case, which would lead both to incorporation being put on the ballot and LAFCO having to pay the forum up to $500,000 in legal costs," Robinson said.

CAMP

working parents didn't have to — no small challenge given Big Sur's complex network of dirt roads and sharp turns.

"The camp was extremely successful," Chappellett-Volpini said. "My only disappointment is that we couldn't do it for more weeks. My goal is to make it longer, but we're limited by finances."

Day camp participants received an added bonus when the Esalen Institute donated tickets so the kids could attend a July 4 Arts Festival, which featured artists and musicians from all over the world.

Families paid $50 per week for each child enrolled in this year's camp, an amount that doesn't cover the program's many expenses.

"We have estimated that it will cost us $200 a week per child to run a safe and efficient camp," Chappellett-Volpini explained. "This price would include safe transportation, insurance for the camp, art supplies, sports equipment, snacks, and a modest stipend for the counselors and camp director."

The program's tight budget has required Chappellett-Volpini to add fundraising to her list of duties as camp director. She's working overtime to convince local businesses, foundations and residents that the day camp is a worthwhile endeavor. She's even baking cookies on the side to help the camp break even.

"Every dollar counts," explained Chappellett-Volpini, who said the Post Ranch Inn, the Ventana Inn and Spa, the Big Sur River Inn and the Big Sur Spirit Garden each recently made financial contributions to the program.

Despite the growing pains, she is convinced the camp is worth the effort.

"There is a huge need in our community for a program like this," she added. "The kids love the program. They want to do it all year round. And the parents love knowing their kids are supervised and having fun."

KING

diner there, according to Randall Bennett.

"He's certainly the first head of state we've had visit us, as far as I'm aware," said Bennett, who has owned Katy's Place since 1989. He received about an hour's notice, so he continued seating diners on the deck but put off filling tables inside until he knew where the king's group would sit.

Fortunately, Carmel police received a bit more warning. Cpl. Steve Rana received a call at his home at about 10:30 p.m. Tuesday from Sgt. Ray Faulk, who organized the CHP escort. He arranged with night watch commander Sgt. Ken Shen to keep the block from filling with parked cars.

With officers clearing the route, the king and his entourage rode from the Highlands Inn accompanied by Secret Service agents and Jordanian security officials in unmarked cars and SUVs, and CHP officers in cars and on motorcycles.

They pulled up directly in front, and as soon as the king was inside, Bennett started seating other diners.

King Abdullah II and his group made no special requests, according to Bennett, who also fed the security agents — portable-style, since they had to remain on their feet and prepared to spring into action. A few dozen onlookers milled around on the street outside.

"The king had pancakes and mixed fruit," Bennett reported.

Although his partner, Gytha McFarland, had an opportunity to chat with their esteemed customer, Bennett had little time to do more than shake his hand and thank him for his work toward peace in the Middle East.

"I was pleased and honored he was there," he said.

The 45-year-old king is a 43rd-generation direct descendant of the Prophet Muhammad and became Monarch of the Hashemite Kingdom of Jordan in February 1999, the day his father, King Hussein, died. Educated in his native country, as well as in England and the United States, King Abdullah II had a lengthy military career before taking the throne.

He is also an acquaintance of California Governor Arnold Schwarzenegger, who visited King Abdullah II in Amman in May 2004.

According to his website, he "has continued his late father's commitment to creating a strong and positive moderating role for Jordan within the Arab region and the world, and has worked toward the establishment of a just and lasting comprehensive solution to the Arab-Israeli conflict."

Under his reign, Jordan, one of the Middle East's most progressive countries, gained admission to the World Trade Organization and ratified agreements to establish free trade with the United States, the European Union, European Free Trade Association countries and 16 Arab nations. He says he condones government transparency and advancement of civil liberties, including guaranteeing women "a full role in the Kingdom's socioeconomic and political life."

And his affection for motorcycles is no surprise, considering he is also "a qualified frogman, pilot and a free-fall parachutist," who enjoys automobile racing, water sports, scuba diving, and collecting ancient weapons and armaments.

During their Carmel visit Wednesday, King Abdullah II and his group spent about an hour at Katy's before heading down Highway 1 to San Luis Obispo, probably without ever having to slow for a stop sign or a pokey tourist in a motorhome.

"I didn't get to meet him, but the visit went like clockwork," Rana said afterward. "The CHP and the Secret Service really complimented us on making it so easy at such short notice."

Carmel police have some experience accommodating dignitaries. Pope John Paul II's visit in September 1987 required extensive planning, and when the King of Spain wanted to stroll through Carmel-by-the-Sea three weeks later, officers had to contend with the threat of Basque separatists, who had put a bounty on his head.

Like that visit, King Abdullah II's went just fine.

"It was very fluid and it had to be handled quickly, and as it was, it worked out very well," Rana said. "Where else can you be 10 feet away from the king of a country?"

Flanked by Secret Service agents, Jordanian officials — and onlookers who applauded when they saw him — His Majesty King Abdullah II bin Al Hussein of Jordan zips up his black Harley-Davidson jacket (top) in preparation to board a motorcycle for a ride down the California coast. After breakfasting at Katy's Place in Carmel-by-the-Sea Wednesday, the visiting king and his helmeted entourage (left) ride up Mission Street and out of town, with the California Highway Patrol leading the way.

Time to rethink redistricting

DAVE POTTER has gotten used to being called “4-to-1 Dave,” because he is often by himself on the losing end of votes at the Monterey County Board of Supervisors.

But maybe he should be called “4-to-10 Dave” because, while he may be outvoted by his colleagues on the board, his constituents usually far outnumber the rest of the county when it comes to the percentage of people showing up at the polls.

A case in point is the June 5 special election on the county general plan. Residents of Potter’s district make up only about 20 percent of the people in Monterey County, yet they cast more than 43 percent of the countywide ballots on Measure A.

County registrar Linda Tulett tried to explain this gross discrepancy between turnout in the Peninsula and the rest the county by making it seem as though inland and north county residents didn’t have much at stake in the general plan debate.

“It’s a matter of what is on the ballot,” Tulett said. “It has to mean something for the voters to turn out.”

Yet the chief spokesman for the anti-Measure A crowd, Tom Carvey, points out that Measure A would have had little impact in the Peninsula, where land use policies are already strictly controlled by the California Coastal Commission. Indeed, the Measure A debate wasn’t about open space in Big Sur and Pebble Beach — it was about limiting development in places such as Aromas, Prunedale and the outskirts of Salinas.

Furthermore, the supposedly irrelevant June 5 election wasn’t the only thing residents of other parts of the county don’t seem to care much about. They also don’t bother to participate in elections — period. In the 1st District, which includes most of the City of Salinas, among 80,000 residents, there are just 15,674 registered voters! The Peninsula has more than 49,000 voters among its 80,000 citizens.

Of course, a higher percentage of Salinas residents are under 18 than the folks who live in Carmel or Pacific Grove. But the disparity is nowhere near enough to explain the dearth of willing voters in the county seat.

The truth must be that many of the people who live in other parts of the county are illegal residents of the United States, and therefore ineligible to vote, or they are apathetic and can’t be bothered to participate in this democracy.

Whichever explanation is the right one, we think strong measures should be taken to encourage eligible people to vote, and to let decisions be made by people who show an interest in making them.

For example, apportionment of supervisorial districts could be done on the basis of voter registrations, and not simply by population.

If that were the case, based on the results of the June 5 election, the people of the Monterey Peninsula would get back the two county supervisors they had before the inland population boomed.

And if the people of Salinas, Greenfield and Soledad didn’t like the balance of power shifting back to the Peninsula, they could fix it by signing up to vote.

Letters to the Editor

‘Luddite thinking’

Dear Editor,

Lois Roberts and Bill and Cheryl Moreland (letters, July 13), included mis-statements resulting in phony criticism of the proposed adaptive reuse of the former Carmel Hospital.

First: The old hospital is not now designated as historic. My family’s desire to preserve the building through adaptive reuse is not required by any authority. Preservation is an expensive undertaking we are prepared to do on a voluntary basis because we believe the historic site deserves honoring. Our proposal is a way to accomplish this without any use of public funds while maintaining the integrity of the site and the neighborhood. Ms. Roberts’ inaccuracy in describing actual project circumstances should be a future caution to readers.

Second: City zoning sought for the project permits a density of 11 units per acre. We propose nine units per acre. Six of these would be contained within the existing building. Only the 3.8-acre site would be rezoned and annexed. The surrounding neighborhood would remain as is, governed by county land use regulations.

Our family was not among those of Perry Newberry’s time who opposed paving the streets of Carmel. That kind of Luddite thinking questions the common sense of those who espouse it.

Curtis Leidig, Landsdowne, Va.

Investment vs. residence

Dear Editor,

We’ve often been told great-grandmother Leidig was born on Mission Ranch. That’s wonderful. But where exactly does Curtis Leidig live and earn his living? Carmel? Monterey County? California? West Coast? Because there is a distinction between investment of money and investment of time and daily life ... just curious. We know the 600 signatures belong to local residents and not investors.

Chantal Georis Melendrez, Carmel

Another opportunity?

Dear Editor,

After I had a letter-to-editor published about the demise of Pebble Beach Co.’s plans, a Sierra Clubber approached me and accused me of siding with golfers and slick developers from Southern California that can’t be trusted. I told him that my position wasn’t about judging the company or about golf, it was about saving the forest in conservation easements.

He told me that the Pebble Beach Company had no right to develop “our open space.”

“Wait a minute,” I said, “it isn’t our open space. They own the land. It’s private property.”

I learned long ago that standing in front of bulldozers to stop development, literally or figuratively, doesn't pay off in the long run. There are three legal and ethical ways to save open space on buildable private property, which do work:

1. Accept it as a gift.
2. Purchase it.

3. Accept open space as a mitigation for allowing some development.

Mitigation for development was probably the only option in this case, and to me the tradeoff to preserve hundreds of acres of free open space Monterey pine forest was a no-brainer.

It didn't happen. The question now is, will we have another opportunity?

Subcommittee to work on GPU5

MEMBERS FROM Monterey County's five supervisorial districts were chosen by the county planning commission this week to draw up a new compromise general plan.

On Tuesday, the board of supervisors voted to form a subcommittee composed of the five citizens to come up with a plan that satisfies opposing sides of the land use debate.

The members are Jay Brown, Martha Diehl, Nancy Isakson, Cosme Padilla and Juan Sanchez.

In June, voters rejected the supervisors' own general plan, dubbed GPU4, as well as a slow-growth plan backed by LandWatch Monterey County. Over the next six weeks, the subcommittee will work on the new document, which is supposed to be a 20-year blueprint for development.

Supervisors also approved a 45-day ordinance that prohibits major development in the county while GPU5 is being hashed out.

On one of the prettiest, quietest lanes in Carmel is an extraordinary opportunity to own a designer's elegant (to the studs) remodel of a 5BD/3.5BA, 3400+/- square foot home. Close to town and sited on nearly two and one-half Carmel lots, it overlooks Pescadero Canyon with vistas to Pebble Beach. This is the latest achievement of International award winning designer, Gail Lehman. Enjoy the enormous living room and formal dining room with vaulted ceilings, floor to ceiling Carmel stone fireplace, hand hewn beams and custom trusses. Relax in the charming library with it's own fireplace and walls of maple bookcases. There is a fabulous eat-in kitchen to delight all chefs with a center island which seats five plus a walk-in pantry. Additionally there is a charming guest apartment with living room, bedroom and bath. Plus extra storage for your future wine cellar. Garage plus parking for eight cars.

Offered at $2,450,000

presents
Al Smith's
"Carmel Legends"

We have lately (and temporarily) come into possession of a copy of the TELEPHONE DIRECTORY for Monterey and San Benito Counties dated February, 1930. It's a little larger than a Reader's Digest, a bit tattered, stained in places by wine and tomato sauce, and runs to about 100 pages. The Carmel section is 7 pages and lists numbers like 352-W, 44 and 2-J-5. Fairy Lee Byrd, for example, is 841, the Fire Department is 100, and Miss Eliza Clevenger is 1-J-3. Robinson Jeffers is not listed because he didn't believe in telephones. Edward Weston (782) and Hazel Watrous (361) did. The yellow pages are not yellow at all, run to 51 indexed pages and are called "Buyer's Guide." 94 restaurants are listed (9 in Carmel), and only one of the restaurants survives today. There were 42 physicians in 1930, more like 242 today. Real estate offices (may their tribe decrease) add up to 77, of which 3 are still extant in some form; but remember, this covers two counties. There were 82 hotels (some duplications), no motels. Ice business was big: 9 outlets. Traveling through this list of 57 years ago is fascinating... and more than slightly disconcerting. Do you suppose that somebody in the year 2044 will be equally enchanted with our telephone book?

Carmel-by-the-Sea: Found wallet with contents on Carmel Beach. Owner's father notified found property held at Carmel P.D. for safekeeping.

Carmel-by-the-Sea: Junipero Street resident reported civil grandchild custody dispute on this date. Reporting party provided family court order (dated June 29), which imposed biological father with custody rights on alternate weekends from Saturdays at 1000 hours to Sundays at 1800 hours. The order did not establish which weekend is the biological father's appointed weekend with child. RP stated she didn't fear for the child's safety, but this weekend was their weekend to have custody of the grandchild. RP plans to return to family court to reconfirm exact visitation dates. this incident be documented, court order attached and Monterey County Sheriff's Office advised.

Carmel-by-the-Sea: Ambulance dispatched along with a Cal Fire engine to Ward Place for an elderly gentleman who suffered a mechanical fall with a hematoma. Assisted patient up into bed at patient's request. Patient refused transport with all risks advised. He signed a medical release and was left in care of his daughter.

Carmel-by-the-Sea: Fire engine and ambulance responded to a medical emergency on Crespi. Firefighters assisted ambulance personnel with patient assessment, packaging and gathering information on a male in his 30s who appeared to be shaky and disoriented, possibly due to the use of an over-the-counter stimulant. The patient was transported to CHOMP by ambulance and the engine returned to the station.

Carmel-by-the-Sea: Fire engine and ambulance responded to a residential fire alarm activation at Scenic and 13th. Firefighters discovered an unoccupied residence with lights on and the alarm sounding inside. A neighbor stated that the residents had left earlier. A search of the outside perimeter of the building using thermal imaging camera showed no fire problem. FireComm was not able to get a response from the alarm company. At this point the scene was secure (without the opportunity to gain access) and all units returned to the station.

was able to speak to the store owner and she conveyed that she is more than willing to return the print as soon as the RP contacts her. No further action.

Carmel-by-the-Sea: Female reported her 73-year-old husband had struck her in the face and knocked her unconscious. Upon arrival, RP had a laceration on the bridge of her nose. The RP's husband was arrested for spousal battery and booked.

Carmel-by-the-Sea: Female reported leaving her purse behind at one of the restaurants in the commercial district. When she realized that she did not have it, the restaurant on Mission Street had already closed for the night. Later, the owner arrived at the department to claim her handbag and contents. It was released to her.

Carmel-by-the-Sea: Fire engine and ambulance dispatched to a fire alarm activation at a restaurant on Mission Street. Arrived on scene with nothing showing. patient contact.

Carmel-by-the-Sea: Ambulance dispatched to a medical emergency on Lisbon Lane in Pebble Beach.

Carmel-by-the-Sea: Fire engine responded to a reported fire alarm activation at a business on Ocean Avenue between San Carlos and Mission. The cause of the alarm activation was found to be from a box stacked on a shelf coming in contact with the ceiling's heat detector. The alarm was silenced and Sentry Alarm notified by business owner to have the detector repaired.

Carmel-by-the-Sea: Ambulance dispatched to a medical emergency on Santa Rita Avenue.

Pebble Beach: Report of a water balloon thrown at a gatehouse. No damage or injury.

Carmel area: Carmel P.D. requested a deputy contact Washington Mutual in reference to Washington Mutual being the victim of a credit card crime. Case suspended.

TUESDAY, JULY 10

Carmel-by-the-Sea: Subject contacted for sleeping in the Vista Lobos lot and subsequently cited for possession of marijuana.

Carmel-by-the-Sea: Traffic collision on public property on Second Avenue. Property damage only.

Carmel-by-the-Sea: Reporting party was at a market when he set his wallet on top of his car. He drove off. He realized what he had done a few minutes later, and the wallet must have fallen off somewhere in the business area while traveling down Ocean Avenue.

Carmel-by-the-Sea: Traffic collision on private property on Junipero Street. Vehicle was drivable.

Carmel-by-the-Sea: Reporting party advised while visiting in Carmel she lost her camera.

Carmel-by-the-Sea: Reporting party on Junipero Street came to the station to turn in a dog she found running loose in the area of Forest Hill Park. The RP said she did not know whom the dog belonged to; however, she called the phone number attached to the dog's collar. This met with negative results. The dog was placed in a kennel pending contact with the dog's owner. Officer was able to locate the dog's owner in the Carmel P.D. data system, and two messages were left for him to contact police. At about 2125 hours, the owner of the dog came to the station to retrieve his dog. The kennel fee was collected. The dog owner was warned and advised he would be contacted at a later time by the CPD animal control officer. Nothing further.

Carmel-by-the-Sea: Ambulance responded to Ocean Avenue and Highway 1 with Cal Fire for a motor vehicle accident.

Carmel-by-the-Sea: Fire engine and ambulance responded to a water heater leaking fluid at Mission and Fifth. On scene, hot water coming from a relief valve. Problem resolved. Owner advised to call a plumber.

Pebble Beach: Bristol Lane resident called to report suspicious noises early morning of July 8 and a small white station wagon near her home the evening of July 9.

Carmel Valley: Resident reported strange phone calls from an unknown person.

Carmel Valley: Person reported a fight between a housing manager and one of its tenants. A mutual combat. No prosecution.

PUBLIC NOTICE

CITY OF CARMEL-BY-THE-SEA CALIFORNIA

NOTICE TO BIDDERS

Notice is hereby given that the City of Carmel-by-the-Sea will receive sealed bids at City Hall, located on the east side of Monte Verde Street between Ocean and Seventh Avenues until 5:00 p.m., July 30, 2007, at which time bids will be opened for the sale of one (1) 2002 Chrysler GEM electric vehicle, VIN #5ASAG474X2F029274.

Minimum bid amount: $1,000.00.

Bid Results: Subject to final verification, bid results will be available 24 hours following the bid closure date.

Terms of Sale:

1. The vehicle is sold AS IS to the highest bidder with no warranties or guarantees.
2. Buyer acknowledges and agrees to hold the City harmless from claims or demands arising out of the City's sale and the Buyer's purchase of the vehicle.
3. Buyer assumes all risks, liability and loss resulting from the use of the vehicle.
4. Buyer understands that the vehicle will be available when taken out of service by City, and that the Buyer is responsible for removal of equipment when so notified by City of its availability.

Bidding Requirements: Bidder must be 18 years of age or older. Bids shall be submitted directly to City Hall in a sealed envelope addressed to the City Clerk and clearly marked "GEM Vehicle Bid". Bids shall include the bidder name, address, phone number and bid amount. Faxed bids are not acceptable.

Viewing of Vehicle: The vehicle is available to view at City Hall, located on the east side of Monte Verde Street between Ocean and Seventh Avenues.

Bid Award: The City reserves the right to reject any and all bids, to accept bids in whole or in part, and to withdraw the item from sale at any time when in the best interest of the City. The City will notify the awarded bidder by phone followed by a written notification by mail.

Payment: Payment shall be made in the form of cash, personal check, or VISA or Mastercard. Payment shall be made in full prior to taking possession of the vehicle.

Taxes: Sales tax will be collected by the State when the buyer applies for license at the Department of Motor Vehicles, not at the time of sale.

Vehicle Title Transfer: Following complete payment, the City shall provide the certificate of title (including odometer reading) and registration to the buyer. The buyer is responsible for filing transfer of title forms with the Department of Motor Vehicles.

The General Plan Update Project

Creating a Vision for Carmel's Future

As part of the City's effort to update your General Plan, the City of Carmel-by-the-Sea is conducting a public workshop seeking ideas about the future direction and vision for the City of Carmel. You are invited to attend and share your ideas.

- Traffic
- Parking
- Noise

These subjects affect all neighborhoods as well as the commercial area. If you have thoughts, opinions or ideas, please share them at the workshop. Your contribution to community debate on these subjects will help shape City policies for the future.

It is important that all of Carmel's voices be heard. The new General Plan policies will affect everyone so we need comments from residents, property owners, businesses, employees, organizations—and anyone else that has a stake in the outcome.

At the workshop you will learn some background information on parking, traffic and noise. Then in a creative workshop environment you will be able to offer your ideas, and consider those of your neighbors. The workshop is future-oriented and is intended to generate ideas that will guide decision-making through the year 2030.

No experience is required! You don't need to be familiar with public meetings, politics or technical issues. This will be a very collaborative process; everyone will have a chance to contribute his or her thoughts and ideas. All you need to bring is your enthusiasm, good ideas and civic pride in knowing that you can help your city and improve the quality of life in Carmel.

The workshop will be held on Monday, July 23, 2007, from 4:00 PM to 6:00 PM at the Carmel Women's Club auditorium on the southwest corner of San Carlos Street and Ninth Avenue. Light refreshments will be served.

To avoid conflicts with the Bach Festival we request that you please not park across the street in the middle or south lots at Sunset Center
