ENVIRONMENTAL GROUPS SAY THEY'LL SUE OVER STEELHEAD LOSSES

By KELLY NIX

THE SIERRA Club and the Carmel River Steelhead Association have threatened to sue California American Water Co. for alleged violations of the Endangered Species Act over the harm the company has done to the river's steelhead fish population.

A March 14 letter from the environmental groups' attorney to the state water board threatens to sue Cal Am after 60 days if the water company doesn't take steps to reduce pumping from the Carmel River and other measures to minimize the harm to the steelhead.

"Cal Am has been operating, and continues to operate, its diversions and dam facilities in a manner that is likely to result in the unlawful taking of steelhead," according to the

Judicial candidates agree: gangs are biggest problem

By KELLY NIX

ELECTING SUPERIOR court judges is something voters do all the time.

But usually they're only given the opportunity to reelect judges who were first appointed by the governor. Because incumbents have an advantage, judicial races don't draw much interest.

On June 3, however, there will be serious competition among four candidates to replace Stephen Sillman, who retired last week after 25 years on the Monterey County

Democrats to contest election results

■ Challenger who lost says he will stay out of fray

Draped in leis, victorious Mayor Sue McCloud (left) and council members Karen Sharp and Ken Talmage pause on the steps of Carmel City Hall with fellow council members Gerard Rose and Paula Hazdovac after taking the oath of office Tuesday.

AS THE Monterey County Democratic Central Committee prepares to challenge the results of Carmel's April 8 municipal election, the man it says should have won is staying out of the fight.

Michael LePage, who lost his bid for city council by 22 votes according to election results certified by Monterey County Registrar of Voters Linda Tulett last week, said he's instead focusing on 2010.

"I'm going to run again," LePage pledged the day after the victorious incumbents, Mayor Sue McCloud and council members Ken Talmage and Karen Sharp began their new terms. "I feel I did really well and had a good result." Next time, he said, he'll have an even stronger showing.

In the meantime, he intends to stay involved in matters at city hall, including continuing to serve on the city's design review board, of which he's been a member for six years.

While LePage is willing to let the results of last week's election stand, he also believes the error on the ballot — which instructed voters to "Vote for two," while it should have said, "Vote for no more than two" — hurt his chances.

The Democratic Central Committee pointed out the error a few weeks before Election Day, and the city promptly issued a correction to advise voters of the proper wording, though about half the total 1,044 absentee ballots cast had already been submitted.

LePage said he was struck by the significance of the problem while cam-

Victorious incumbents sworn in

By MARY BROWNFIELD

DESPITE A local Democratic Party official's plans to challenge the April 8 Carmel municipal election results, the three victorious candidates — Mayor Sue McCloud and council members Karen Sharp and Ken Talmage — were sworn in at city hall Tuesday afternoon.

In its first order of business, before the winners took the oath of office, the council unanimously voted to certify the results of the election, which gave Talmage and Sharp a narrow victory over challenger Michael LePage.

No members of the public spoke up question the validity of the election or suggested the council delay its proceedings.

After solemnly swearing to "support and defend the Constitution of the United States and the Constitution of the State of California against all enemies, foreign and domestic," each candidate received a Certificate of Election, was adorned with an aromatic lei and shared a few words with family, friends and onlookers assembled at city hall.

Sharp said she savored the opportunity to learn so much during the cam-

P.G. hopes scavenger hunt will lure shoppers

By KELLY NIX

TO HELP revive a struggling downtown Pacific Grove, some business owners have come up with a unique idea they're hoping will draw customers.

Friday night, more than 50 businesses on and around Lighthouse Avenue will take part in the city's, and perhaps the county's, first-ever public scavenger hunt, billed as a "Scavenger Hunt with a Twist."

"It's a great way for people to get to know downtown P.G. while having

CALIFORNIA DEPARTMENT OF PARKS AND RECREATION

Especially in light of last month's double drowning at scenic but dangerous Monastery Beach, California State Park officials hope visitors will heed the warnings well illustrated by this new sign, which was recently approved and may be installed by this weekend, according to Monterey sector superintendent Dana Jones. "I have a stack of them sitting in the office," she said. The signs arrived Wednesday and will be placed on existing posts until officials determine the best location for them. "We're also talking about putting split rail fencing along the parking area to try to direct people onto the beach where the signs are."

COUNCIL: RIVER ROCK CURB NOT ALLOWED ON CITY PROPERTY

By MARY BROWNFIELD

HOMEOWNERS WHO installed a river rock curb on city property around the northwest corner of Mission and Santa Lucia had to remove it, the Carmel City Council decided April 3. By Tuesday, it was gone.

While Fred and Regina Amoroso thought the curb, which ranged in height from 8 to 16 inches, would prevent erosion and discourage illegal parking near the corner, it violated several provisions of the municipal code, according to building official John Hanson.

He discovered the curb during an inspection of the Amorosos' remodeled home at the busy intersection. The Amorosos applied for the required encroachment permit, but

The people who own this home under remodel will have to find something else to do with the piles of river rocks they had planned to use as a curb.

city administrator Rich Guillen denied their request, because the curb "was not consistent with city standards." Represented by landscape architect Richard Murray, the couple appealed that decision to the city council.

Murray argued the installation of 176 linear feet of river rock curb would reduce erosion and help the Amorosos' guests understand where they should park. The property contains a two-car garage and additional off-street parking.

"People have driven up on the plants," he told the council. "We're trying to do the best we can to have as good of a neighbor policy as is practical with the project."

But Hanson recommended the council deny the Amorosos' appeal because the municipal code prohibits "paving, gravel, boulders, planters or other aboveground encroachments" in public rights-of-way.

Although councilman Gerard Rose doubted the need for the rock curb, councilwoman Karen Sharp said the stones would help prevent the dirt shoulder from eroding.

And councilwoman Paula Hazdovac suspected the rocks would not effectively discourage people from parking on the street — and might actually encourage them to block traffic lanes, perhaps obstructing emergency vehicles.

"I don't think the curb is needed," she said.

To prevent illegal parking at the corner, councilman Ken

Did you know...

Many people made their living at Point Lobos before the state bought it in 1933 to preserve its unique beauty and natural resources for generations to come. Various settlers, including 19th century Chinese fishermen, quarried the granite, logged the forests, and shipped coal from nearby Malpas Creek. Portuguese whalers, Japanese abalone canners, and miners hauled sand off the beaches. Farmers grew potatoes and corn and grazed livestock in the meadows. One of the more colorful and least recorded economic uses of Point Lobos occurred during Prohibition, when Canadian ships unloaded whiskey there for American bootleggers. During such a clandestine operation in 1922, federal agents swooped in to seize the whiskey and arrest the smugglers. After a gun fight in Whalers Cove, the feds arrested 8 people and confiscated 15 vehicles from the bootleggers. Next week: Pebble Beach Movies

Got Clogs?

Do you have frequent sewer line backups?

Do you call a plumber more than twice a month?

Do roots grow in your sewer line?

If so, you could be a victim of "The Clog"

Tips for preventing clogs:

1. Keep cooking fats, oils and grease out of the drain.
2. Don't use toxic copper roots killers or caustic drain cleaners.
3. Inspect, maintain and repair your sewer lateral on a regular basis.

DNA link identifies murder victim in old Big Sur case

■ Search begins for suspects

By MARY BROWNFIELD

FIFTEEN YEARS after a pair of mushroom foragers found her skeletonized remains off a road in Big Sur, and four years after the Monterey County Sheriff's Office tried to get her DNA identified, authorities have learned the name of the woman who died of gunshot wounds so long ago. They now hope to discover who pulled the trigger.

Bakersfield resident Frances Pauline Elwell, born in September 1965, had been dead for at least a few months, and possibly as long as a year, when two men hunting for mushrooms in Los Padres National Forest off Nacimiento-Fergusson Road about three miles east of Highway 1 reported finding her remains on April 2, 1993, according to MCSO Cmdr. Alan Wheelus.

At the time, Wheelus worked in the coroner's division and handled the case.

"It was a very remote area," he said. And it was obvious the remains would be difficult to identify.

"We brought in a team of anthropologists and anthropology students from UC Santa Cruz to help us process the scene," Wheelus said.

The scientists, led by Alison Galloway, Ph.D., a UCSC professor in forensic anthropology, determined the victim was a petite white female between the ages of 25 and 40 who had died of multiple gunshot wounds sometime between spring 1992 and winter 1993.

The coroner's office kept her remains and in 2004 submitted a DNA sample to the California Department of Justice. On March 31, investigators finally learned the name of their murder victim. Elwell, it turned out, had served time in prison, and the state lab matched the DNA samples taken during her sentence and when her body was found. Nobody had reported her missing, and Wheelus could not say when she was in prison or why.

Working with Bakersfield Police Department and the sheriff's office in Kern County, deputies located and notified her family, who still live in Bakersfield, according to Wheelus.

He did not know why it took four years for the state lab to identify her.

"I have no idea what criteria they use and have no idea what their backlog is," he said.

Now that investigators know her name, they can delve into her past in hopes of determining who shot her.

"Obviously it makes it much more difficult, because of the gap in time," he said. Although investigators in 1993 combed the area where she was found for clues, "until we get an I.D. established, we don't really know where to look. Now we know who she is and can track back, find people she might have associated with, figure out who she knew and why she was here."

He did not want to reveal any specifics of the case.

"Generally speaking, when we have an ongoing homicide investigation, we're not at liberty to discuss it a whole lot," he said.

And though much work remains to determine who killed Elwell and why, Wheelus said simply knowing her name also offers some relief.

"Since it was my coroner's case, I was always kind of hoping we would be able to find out who she was," he said. "Nobody likes loose ends, and it's bad enough when you can't solve a crime. If you don't know who she is, you can't tell her family. There were all those years of not knowing."

Police, Fire & Sheriff's Log

Bizarre-acting female scares guests

HERE'S A look at some of the significant calls logged by the Carmel-by-the-Sea Police Department, the Carmel Fire Department and the Monterey County Sheriff's Office last week. This week's log was compiled by Mary Brownfield.

THURSDAY, APRIL 3

Carmel area: Victim reported that an unknown suspect entered her locked vehicle and stole money from her purse.

Carmel Valley: Resident reported that the glass to his door was shattered.

FRIDAY, APRIL 4

Carmel-by-the-Sea: Units responded to a local church on Rio Road where they were advised of a male subject who was possibly stealing money from locked donation boxes. When units tried contacting the male subject, they were unable to locate him. The reporting party informed responding units they have reported the subject's behavior before and during that incident there was video footage; however, it can not be determined if the male subject actually took money. RP advised he would call again if the male subject visits the church again.

Carmel-by-the-Sea: Fire engine on scene at the Carmel post office upon request to try to unlock a restroom door which had been shut in the locked position unintentionally. Firefighters attempted to unlock the door but were unable to do so without possibly damaging it. Reporting party was advised to contact a licensed locksmith.

Carmel-by-the-Sea: Fire engine on scene of an accidental fire alarm activation secondary to tripping the pull station in a commercial building on Mission Street. The business owner phoned the fire department to advise there was no fire problem, so the ambulance stayed in the station. Alarm was silenced by fire personnel and alarm company notified to come restore the pull station.

APPLE MOTH LEGISLATION PASSES ASSEMBLY COMMITTEE

By KELLY NIX

TWO PIECES of legislation by Assemblyman John Laird to restrict spraying for the light brown apple moth were approved Wednesday by the state's Assembly Agriculture Committee.

Last fall, the California Department of Food and Agriculture sprayed the Monterey Peninsula and other areas with minute amounts of pheromones to make it difficult for the moths to find mates. If successful, the campaign would eradicate the invasive moth, which state officials say could cause hundreds of millions of dollars in agricultural damage. It plans another round of spraying in June. But after the earlier spraying, more than 200 Peninsula residents said the pheromone made them sick.

Resolution ACR 117 calls on the CDFA, the Department of Pesticide Regulation, the Office of Environmental Health Hazard Assessment and other state agencies to address unresolved health, scientific and efficacy issues surrounding the state's plans to eradicate the moth.

"As stated in the resolution, it is the responsibility of our government to demonstrate its LBAM actions are necessary and do not compromise human or environmental health," Laird said. "It isn't the responsibility of the people to demonstrate the reverse."

Last week, the CDFA released a report concluding it's impossible to determine whether there is a link between the reported illnesses and the moth-confusing pheromone, CheckMate, sprayed by planes over Monterey and Santa Cruz counties last fall.

Bill AB 2763 requires the CDFA to create a list of invasive animals, plants and insects that have a "reasonable likelihood" of entering the state for which an eradication plan might be appropriate.

For each invasive item on the list, the CDFA would prepare a written assessment on the most appropriate method of eradication. If pesticides or other chemicals were to be used, the assessment would have to discuss the application methods, and the impact of the pesticide or other chemical and its inert ingredients on public health and the environment.

"Clearly, the state was not adequately prepared for LBAM," Laird said. "This bill aims to put in place a pest planning process that prevents the kind of public fear and confusion we've experienced with LBAM."

Under the bill, if a pest is found, the CDFA would be required to notify local agencies, hold public hearings and comply with other requirements.

ACR 117 passed with a 5-3 vote and AB 2763 passed 8-0. Both are headed to the Assembly Appropriations Committee.

Cleanup day to celebrate Earth Day

IN HONOR of Earth Day, April 19, Countywide Cleanup Day will take place April 19 in numerous Monterey County locations.

The event, sponsored by Illegal Dumping and Litter Abatement Task Force of Monterey County and the Monterey County Environmental Health Division, seeks volunteers to help with a variety of county cleanup efforts.

Volunteers can help organize a cleanup, publicize the event, recruit volunteers, volunteer to hand out free bags, gloves and vests or adopt a road or highway.

On April 19, there will be a Cleanup Day outreach booth at Whole Foods in Monterey.

For information about Cleanup Day and a complete list of cleanup efforts, locations and times, visit the Monterey Regional Waste Management District's website at www.mrwm.org or call (831) 796-1269.

It's fun. Really. Participants in last month's Mud Run get wet, muddy and giggly while tackling their first obstacle on the five-mile course.

Any excuse to get dirty!

■ Mud Run draws serious athletes, serious comedians

By MARY BROWNFIELD

MOTIVATED BY camouflage-clad military men and women barking orders, more than 600 runners conquered 5.2 miles of roads and trails, flung themselves over plastic barriers in a gigantic puddle, leapt a 5-foot-tall wall and scrambled on their bellies through water-filled mud pits during the March 29 Mud Run in the former Fort Ord. Oh, and they did a few jumping jacks and pushups, too.

Such was the third annual Mud Run presented by the Big Sur International Marathon in cooperation with the Presidio of Monterey and California State University Monterey Bay. A large contingent of military and students, complemented by a field of civilians, showed up on the gray and chilly Saturday to take part in the race modeled after a similar event at Camp Pendleton in San Diego. The competition included categories for military and civilian individuals, as well as five-person teams (open male, open female, mixed, corporate, military and public safety) that had to cross the finish line together with linked arms in order to compete for awards.

While most participants showed up in typical running gear, prepared to get wet and muddy, some opted for a comic twist, donning accessories that included Buzz Lightyear Wings and belly dancer's spangles. On one team, four men wore ties, shorts cut from suit pants and coats with the sleeves ripped off, while their sole female member wore a pink and red floral spaghetti-strapped dress. Another group of men wore kilts.

Entrants ran the gamut, from the serious and seriously fit military teams like the Chupacabra Hunters, who finished in a blistering 35:44.7 to win the military category, to the Sexy Slugs team headed by former Carmel Foundation development assistant Jennifer Martinez, who now works for CSUMB. The Slugs came in third among female teams with a time of 59:50.3. The top individual competitor was Jon Clark from Rancho Santa Margarita, who crossed the finish

COLD TRUTH

Many vehicle owners take it for granted that their air-conditioning systems will perform flawlessly when called upon. Yet very few vehicle owners take the time to have their AC systems checked as a matter of regular maintenance. As a result, too many car owners only address problems as they occur, leaving them without AC when they need it most. With this uncomfortable possibility in mind, have your vehicle's AC system tested for refrigerant leaks as part of your regular maintenance program. If refrigerant escaped past an O-ring seal or leaky compressor, seeped out of a pinhole in the evaporator or condenser, or leaked through a bad hose, the leak must be repaired before the system can be recharged.

Come see us and have your AC checked before this summer. We can help you decide what maintenance to perform and when is the best time to perform it. We guarantee your satisfaction with any work done. Our people do NOT talk down to our customers! Your questions and concerns give us the opportunity to understand your needs.

P.S. Running your car's air-conditioning system for short periods in the winter helps lubricate O-ring seals, which prevents them from drying, cracking, and leaking.

Big Sur brush fire closes Highway 1

By MARY BROWNFIELD

THE PEOPLE evacuated from six homes on Dolan Road after a vegetation fire broke out in Big Sur Wednesday afternoon were allowed to return home later that night, and firefighters were expected to have the blaze fully contained by Thursday evening, according to U.S. Forest Service spokesperson Joe Pasinato.

Highway 1 was closed in both directions Wednesday afternoon, and on Thursday a single lane was open.

The grassfire that started about two miles south of the Esalen Institute was reported shortly before 1 p.m. April 16, and firefighters from Cal Fire and the Big Sur Volunteer Fire Brigade rushed to assist the forest service in stopping it from spreading to nearby homes. It was burning in steep, rugged terrain covered with heavy, tall brush.

"The fire made some aggressive runs initially up the steep slope," Pasinato said.

Monterey County Sheriff's deputies were summoned to facilitate the evacuation but were delayed in their efforts after a driver heading down the steep, narrow dirt road swerved to avoid colliding with another and rolled his car, blocking the road, according to deputy Mike Shapiro.

Neither driver was injured, but deputies had to wait two hours while a bulldozer arrived to clear the wreckage. In the meantime, the MCSO helicopter notified residents by loudspeaker, and after the road reopened, deputies went door to door. They reportedly contacted seven people, and five agreed to leave while two refused.

The highway was closed so firefighters and equipment could access the area, and by 5 p.m., Jan Bray, who works for Cal Fire, reported the fire had consumed about seven acres.

No structures were damaged, nor was anyone injured.

Pasinato said after its initial spread, the blaze slowed significantly, and it did not grow much throughout the night.

In addition to the fire and law enforcement agencies helping at the scene, the Red Cross lent a hand. According to Sharon Crino, executive director of the Carmel chapter, a volunteer happened to be near the fire Wednesday and hightailed it up to Carmel to fetch hot meals and water for the crews.

The following morning, about 50 USFS crew members continued working on the fire, and the Red Cross also brought them coffee and pastries. California Highway Patrol officers also remained in the area to conduct traffic control on Highway 1.

The cause of the fire is under investigation.

JON BARTON SHASTID

Jon Barton Shastid, age 93, passed away peacefully on April 4, 2008. The cause of death was old age.

Born in Hannibal, MO in 1914, Jon B. Shastid was raised in Dodge City, Kansas where his parents owned wheat lands. He experienced the dust-bowl Depression years in Kansas and as a result of the demands of farming and the outbreaks of influenza, was home schooled. His formal schooling was limited to 2 years at Dodge City Junior College. In spite of - or perhaps because of - this lack of formal education, Jon developed into a voracious reader with an inquisitive mind. He learned bridge (and became a Kansas State champion), started his own accounting business, and later became a CPA.

WWII saw him join the Air Force as a typist with the rank of private. His abilities won him promotions and he ended his service with the rank of Captain, charged with contract negotiations for war materials. His final posting in NYC allowed him to attend a dance held by the Junior League of New York City, where he met his bride, Natalie Kiliani of Loudonville, NY. In the late 1940's they moved to New Castle, PA where Jon worked in finance for a manufacturing company. His four children were born in New Castle: Lucinda, Jon G., Victoria and Thomas.

In the early 1950's, Jon and Natalie decided to move to Modesto, California where he obtained a position with a small winery: The E & J Gallo Winery. During the next 35 years, Jon was instrumental in helping the Gallo Winery grow from several million in sales to its current position of over 1 billion dollars and the recognized leader in the worldwide wine business. At Gallo, Jon oversaw all financial and legal matters. He earned his California law degree in the early 1960's (achieving one of the highest scores on the California Bar Exam) and was licensed to practice before the Supreme Court of the U.S. He finished his career at Gallo as Executive Vice President.

Jon was an inveterate traveler with a deep appreciation for remote places and peoples. While he had never left the continental US until his 40's, he more than made up for that during the ensuing years. He traveled to every continent, visited over 100 different countries and even summited Mt. Kilimanjaro at the age of 60.

In addition to his business success, Jon served several years on the Modesto City Council and one term as Vice-Mayor of Modesto. He was also active in the American Bar Association, serving on their committee for Estate Planning and Taxation. During his business years, and into retirement, Jon devoted countless hours and financial support to charitable and social causes, including: The Salvation Army (as a Board member) in Modesto and That Man May See.

Jon spent his final years living in Walnut Creek, enjoying constant visits from his children and continuing to travel to all parts of the globe.

He is survived by his four children and their spouses, and twelve grandchildren. Gifts in his memory may be made to Hospice of Contra Costa County, CA.

TROUT

letter from Larry Silver, the attorney with the California Law Project, which represents the two organizations.

According to the State Water Resources Control Board, Cal Am pumps too much water from the river, a practice which creates low levels that harm the fish, federally classified as "threatened."

Cal Am has long proposed to reduce pumping from the river — in the 1990s by building a large dam in upper Carmel Valley, and lately by constructing a desalination plant in Moss Landing. Voters rejected financing of the dam, while permits for the desal plant are tied up in an environmental review by the California Public Utilities Commission.

Cal Am responded to the letter.

"We take the health of the Carmel River and its habitat very seriously," said Cal Am community relations manager Catherine Bowie, "and have already invested upwards of $20 million over the past two decades to protect the local steelhead population."

Silver said the groups will ask a judge to establish minimum flows along the river during spring and summer to "preserve the breeding, spawning, rearing, migrating, feeding and sheltering patterns" of the fish.

"Not only is [Cal Am] in violation of California law, but they are committing federal crimes in terms of causing the natural habitat to be degraded through their diversion," Silver told The Pine Cone this week.

The groups' letter comes about two months after the SWRCB proposed a cease and desist order to compel Cal Am to cut back pumping of the river, the Monterey Peninsula's main water source, by 50 percent within six years.

A hearing in June will determine if the SWRCB will go forward with the cease and desist order. But Silver said the Sierra Club and CRSA might take their case to court before the hearing if it becomes clear the state won't carry out the cease and desist order.

"We are saying that [the SWRCB] ought to be able to resolve the issue," Silver said. "If they can't or make it clear they aren't going to, we will go to federal court."

Although it's widely believed Peninsula residents conserve water better than any other area in the state, the Sierra Club wants "even more stringent water conservation measures" to help make up for the water Cal Am provides to its customers on the Monterey Peninsula.

The environmental groups also want Cal Am to construct fish passage facilities at Los Padres Dam for steelhead and improve a fish ladder at San Clemente Dam to meet standards set by the National Marine Fisheries Service, unless removal of the dam begins within three years.

In December, the Carmel River Steelhead Association issued a 60-day notice of intent to sue NOAA's National Marine Fisheries Service for violation of the Endangered Species Act; however, no suit was ever filed.

Although the Carmel River's steelhead trout population is classified as a "threatened" under the Endangered Species Act, the species oncorhynchus mykiss is very common in rivers on the Pacific Coast of North America and around the world.

TIME FOR SOME FINANCIAL SPRING CLEANING?

You might not engage in many of the typical activities of "spring cleaning," but you can almost certainly benefit from "sprucing up" your financial situation. Here are a few ideas for doing just that:

First, look for ways to get rid of "clutter" in your portfolio. If you have too many investments that look alike, you might be hindering your progress toward your objectives.

Also, if you've been automatically moving money each month from your checking account to an investment, determine if this transfer is still appropriate for your goals. A systematic investment plan does not guarantee a profit or protect against loss in a declining market. You should consider your ability to continue investing through periods of low price levels.

Finally, check your beneficiary designations on financial documents, such as your insurance policies, IRA and 401(k). Over time, your family situation may have changed, through death, divorce, remarriage or the birth of new children.

By following these "spring cleaning" suggestions, you can help put your financial house in order for the seasons to follow. Take action soon.

Psychiatrist joins forest and beach commission

HE HAS “no specific technical qualifications for the forest and beach commission other than living in the forest and walking the beaches,” but Dr. Les Kadis has “a personal interest in their management,” according to his letter to the City of Carmel seeking appointment to the commission.

“After listening to debates about our forest and beaches, I believe many of the problems can be resolved using some of my conflict resolution, mediation and group dynamic skills,” he wrote.

Mayor Sue McCloud and Vice Mayor Ken Talmage apparently agreed, recommending the city council appoint Kadis to the commission April 3.

A 38-year resident of the Central Coast who has lived in Carmel-by-the-Sea since 1999, Kadis graduated from Brandeis University with a degree in chemistry in 1957 and completed studies at the Albert Einstein College of Medicine in 1961, according to his application. He worked as an assistant professor at the Stanford University School of Medicine from 1967 until 1973, when he opened the private practice he continues to run today.

His community involvement and volunteer work has included serving as president of the Santa Cruz Symphony Association board and being a member of the board of the Cultural Council of Monterey, and he continues to assist at the Carmel chapter of the American Red Cross.

McCloud and Talmage selected Kadis to replace commissioner Bob Tierney, who resigned. The council voted in favor of Kadis’ appointment to serve the remainder of Tierney’s term, which ends in October 2009.

Man dies in Big Sur wreck

A 48-YEAR-OLD Palo Colorado man died when he crashed his 1991 Toyota Land Cruiser onto the beach several hundred feet below the roadway near Garrapata Creek Monday night.

According to California Highway Patrol public information officer Jim Covello, Brian Howe was “traveling southbound on State Route 1 at an undetermined speed when he failed to negotiate a series of curves in the roadway.” He lost control of the Toyota, which ran off the west side of the highway, overturned several times and landed roof-down in the rocks at water’s edge 280 feet below. Howe was not wearing a seat belt and died after being ejected from the truck.

The accident occurred at 9:05 p.m. April 14, and the Monterey County Sheriff’s Dive Team, the county’s urban search and rescue unit, and Mid-Coast Fire responded to help recover the victim.

Covello reported the coroner’s office will determine whether Howe was intoxicated at the time of the crash.

JUDGES

Superior Court bench. Because his retirement came at the end of his term, Governor Arnold Schwarzenegger wasn't allowed to pick his successor. Instead, the voters will do that.

The newly elected judge will have his work cut out for him. According to candidate Mark Hood, last year there were more than 89,000 criminal cases filed in Monterey County handled by 14 judges. And there are thousands of civil cases filed every year.

The judicial seat up for grabs is an all-purpose assignment, which means the judge may serve in civil and criminal courts. Not surprisingly, the four candidates agree gang violence is the probably the biggest legal problem in the county.

■ Mark Hood

Candidate Mark Hood, 48, has spent the last 19 years prosecuting thousands of criminal cases including murder, arson, gang crimes and other cases.

He believes in tough sentences for violent criminals and a "comprehensive approach to keep youth out of gangs in the first place."

"With gang-related violence growing and affecting more neighborhoods," said Hood, who is endorsed by the Monterey County Deputy Sheriff's Association, "I believe we need someone who has extensive criminal prosecution experience."

Hood also believes the court should assign a judge to focus specifically on defendants associated with gang activity in a similar way the court has judges assigned to handle defendants with mental health issues and drug problems.

"A judge knowledgeable about gangs, gang abatement and community opportunities such as education, training and employment can be an effective resource in a comprehensive gang prevention model," he said.

At the same time, Hood supports limits on plea bargains in cases involving serious felonies or the use of firearms.

"Violent acts must result in sentences consistent with California's sentencing guidelines for serious felonies," he said.

In regards to the state's "three strikes and you're out" law passed by voters in 1994, Hood said judges have a lot to consider in determining if the law applies in a particular case, but, "the court must above all consider the public's safety."

■ Todd Hornik

A prosecutor in Monterey County since 1994, Todd Hornik, 43, said he's handled a whopping 1,000 cases per year, much of them involving narcotics. In 2007, he was assigned to a special narcotics unit, allowing him to handle smaller, but more serious, drug offenses.

In the same way drug offenders are monitored by the courts after being convicted, Hornik said he supports doing similar checks for first-time gang offenders, something he said is not currently in place.

"Bring them in every week," said Hornik, who lives in Carmel. "Check on their job hunt status, or their enrollment in classes, or payment of restitution and court fines. Let them know that we're watching, but that they can have the assistance of the courts to get them through their struggle."

Although he said he's been moved by the turnaround some drug addicts have made after running afoul of the law, in the six years he's handled drug cases, he said there has been no reduction in the number of criminal narcotics filings.

"We're never going to defeat narcotics in the criminal courts," he said. "No one ever has, and no one ever will. Narcotics are a social disease, and if we are ever going to make significant headway in this area, it will be on the social front."

He said that fact should be taken into consideration when prosecuting drug offenders.

"If the state has X amount of prison beds, do we want to fill half of them, or a third, or a quarter, with nonviolent drug possessors?" he said. "Or should we save the space for those who would harm us, rob us, steal from us and endanger our ability to live our lives freely?"

Because there are more criminal cases than civil, Hornik said the court needs an experienced attorney to handle the high volumes that will likely be assigned.

"For me, the bottom line is courtroom experience," he said. "No other candidate brings to this election the courtroom practice and skills that I do."

■ Luma Serrano Williams

Luma Serrano Williams, 43, who has been a prosecutor, public defender and civil attorney, is one of 10 children whose parents emigrated from Mexico to the United States when she was a child.

"My family finally settled in Salinas in 1979," Serrano Williams said. "I hardly spoke English, but I successfully completed my high school education and graduated from Alisal High School in 1982."

An attorney who specializes in workers' compensation cases, Serrano Williams said she wants to be judge to bring more balance to the bench.

"Out of 19 seats, five are occupied by female judges, yet 50 percent of the residents of this county are female," she said. "Women are grossly underrepresented in our local judiciary, and we need to make some changes."

She also contends she is suited to be a Superior Court judge because she has the "judicial temperament," legal knowledge and ability to be fair.

"I have integrity and common sense," she said. "I am even-tempered and open-minded. I am committed to the rule of law, to fairness, justice and equal protection."

Everybody Needs a Break Now and Then

Even the most dedicated family caregivers periodically need "time off" to replenish their energy. That's what our Respite Care service is for.

Our Home Care Coordinator will visit you first to discuss your needs and wishes.

When you need a break, we will carefully select a Personal Attendant to be at home with your loved one while you are away, and to follow the routine that you have established.

You can't take good care of anyone else unless you take care of yourself!

"Central Coast Senior Services arranged for care for my parents several times and I couldn't have been more pleased. Literally within a couple hours of my phone call, they had someone in my father's home so he could return from the hospital. They provided 24-hour care for my father, who is blind, including fixing his meals and helping him bathe. I found their services to be exceptional."

Commission OKs new Plaza restaurant

By MARY BROWNFIELD

AFTER HASHING out exactly how many customers Firok Shield will be allowed to serve in his new Carmel Plaza restaurant, the planning commission unanimously approved a permit for Bistro Beaujolais.

The new establishment — Shield's third in town — will fill the storefronts formerly occupied by Lenny's Deli, which closed, and clothing store Georgiou, which relocated.

The plans for the new restaurant include a bar, an open grill, a kitchen, a bathroom, a large dining area and a smaller private dining room.

Outside, the facade would consist of off-white stucco, a tiled wainscot in matte-finish tones of brown and green, wooden doors and divided-light windows, and copper awnings above the windows.

But one aspect of the design — beveled glass — would contradict Carmel Plaza design guidelines, according to new assistant planner Marc Weiner. He recommended requiring regular glass.

Shield reassured the commission his latest restaurant would be worthy of its setting in the Plaza. "It's going to be absolutely beautiful," he said. "I have two other restaurants [Da Giovanni and Carmel's Bistro Giovanni] and run them very responsibly. I love Carmel."

Weiner told commissioners Shield's restaurant would accommodate 85 diners, 10 more than Lenny's Deli was allowed to serve.

Examining the drawing submitted by International Design Group, commissioner Robin Wilson counted 61 seats inside the restaurant and asked if the section of the Plaza courtyard outside the restaurant could hold the remaining 24 comfortably.

Designer Richard Pilfold argued the 85-person occupancy number was based on the 15 square feet per person required by the building code and nothing else.

"There is seating outside, but it's got nothing to do with the seating inside the restaurant," he said, describing the outdoor seating as "an additional service."

But planning services manager Brian Roseth explained a restaurant's occupancy is based not only on building codes, but on water allocation and overall design. The Carmel Plaza agreed to assign more water to the restaurant space, which would allow it to serve 85 patrons.

Shield said he intended to have 61 seats inside and 24 outside, but Pilfold worried that meant the restaurant wouldn't be able to serve everyone inside during rainstorms.

"I don't think we have a problem, and I'm sorry I brought this up," Wilson interjected. "You're approved for 85 people, and you can serve them inside or outside."

"The applicant can put them wherever they want," Roseth added, as long as the Plaza approves. And if Shield wants to be able to accommodate more people and the Plaza agrees to give him even more water, the permit could be amended.

Chairman Bill Strid suggested delaying the application a month so Shield could provide a diagram of the seating inside and out, but commissioner Janet Reimers did not like the idea of holding up the restaurant's opening.

She suggested approving the permits, including the requirement of regular glass instead of beveled, and the rest of the commission agreed.

Ag Woman of Year sought

ONE OF the women who made significant contributions to the success of agriculture in Monterey, San Benito and Santa Cruz counties will be honored June 4, and the nonprofit Ag Against Hunger is accepting nominations for the award.

Service, nonprofit and trade organizations can submit nominations for Ag Woman of the Year, which seeks to recognize a person possessing leadership qualities that include "a selfless spirit of engagement in promoting and celebrating agriculture with one's heart, mind and soul."

The winner will be recognized at a $50-per-person luncheon hosted by Paraiso Vineyards in Soledad, during which Jess Brown of Santa Cruz County Farm Bureau and Tim Driscoll of Valley Pride, founders of Ag Against Hunger, will speak.

Their nonprofit provides fresh produce to food banks in the three counties, as well as statewide and beyond when local needs are fulfilled. Since 1990, growers and shippers have donated more than 140 million pounds of fresh fruits and vegetables via Ag Against Hunger.

Sheriff's helicopter rescues stranded hikers

THREE PEOPLE on a two-mile jaunt near Cooper Point in Big Sur got trapped on a beach and had to be lifted to safety by a helicopter, according to the Monterey County Sheriff's Office.

The group set out Saturday for the hike, which should not have taken longer than a couple of hours, but when the hikers had not returned after 10 hours, the sheriff's search and rescue team was called in to help.

Team members searched throughout the night for the hikers, to no avail. In the morning, the sheriff's office helicopter was summoned to the scene.

Approximately 30 minutes into its search, the helicopter crew reportedly spotted the hikers trapped on a beach between two cliffs. The helicopter landed on the beach and lifted all of them to safety.

According to the sheriff's office, "The area where the hikers were found was inaccessible to ground searchers due to the extreme terrain and tide conditions."

SPRING Into Action!

Conserve water now to make a difference in the summer.

Conserving water is important during any time of year, and taking special care to be efficient during springtime can make a big difference. Almost 50 percent of residential water use is outdoors. Limiting the use of sprinklers and automated irrigation systems during April and May means water will be available in the dry months ahead.

HERE ARE A FEW WAYS YOU CAN
"SPRING INTO ACTION" NOW:

- Wait before you water outdoors. Keeping your sprinklers off during April and May saves you money and helps protect our environment.
- When you do need to water, do it in the early morning when there is less wind.
- Replace high water use plants with water-efficient varieties.
- Give your irrigation system a spring tune-up and repair all leaks and worn nozzles.
- Renovate your irrigation system and incorporate water-efficient products, including weather-based controllers, rain shut off devices and drip irrigation systems.
- Apply mulch in landscape beds to reduce water loss.
- Consider replacing portions of your lawn with water-efficient plants, ornamental grasses and decorative hardscapes.

Get your free water-saving devices, helpful tools, and information about rebates that are available for installing water-efficient irrigation products and indoor high-efficiency appliances from California American Water today!

Cats, dogs, horses and kids to benefit from A Table Affair

By MARY BROWNFIELD

A GROUP that helps find homes for stray and abandoned pets and an organization that uses horses as therapy for disabled children will benefit from A Table Affair, the annual fundraiser hosted by the Pebble Beach Riding & Trails Association and the P.B. Company that shows off tables elaborately decorated in various themes.

"We'll have 30 tables, so it will be the biggest we've ever had," said organizer Averil Nero. "Everybody's gone all out with very different themes, and I'm quite excited about it. Some are prosaic, and you could actually sit and eat at them, and others are over the top and just sheer fun."

As guests meander among the artistically adorned table tops in the conference center in the Lodge at Pebble Beach while enjoying refreshments provided by the hosts, representatives from Animal Friends Rescue Project and Mountain Valley Equine Assisted Therapy will distribute information about their organizations and accept donations, which Nero hopes will be plentiful.

AFRP, which operates a small adoption center in Pacific Grove and arranges foster care for dogs and cats who need permanent homes, is often the last hope for stray and abandoned pets. The group helps ensure the animals and potential owners will be well matched; vaccinates, neuters and otherwise cares for the pets before they are adopted, and partners with local vets who provide free initial examinations.

Mountain Valley Equine Assisted Therapy, a nonprofit located "up high on the mountain between Monterey and Carmel overlooking Carmel Bay and the Santa Lucia Mountains," provides physical, occupational and speech-language therapy to children with special needs, including autism.

"These children benefit from the contact with the animal and the movement of the horse," Nero said. "It's terribly labor intensive. You need a very, very good stable horse and four people with each child: front, back and each side." Mountain Valley has a core staff and several volunteers.

With PBRTA underwriting the cost of A Table Affair and P.B. Co donating the use of the conference room and contributing toward refreshments, every dollar benefits

Hikers mark Earth Day with Garland Park project

By CHRIS COUNTS

A GROUP of hiking enthusiasts will be thinking globally but acting locally Saturday when they participate in a trail rehabilitation project at Garland Ranch Regional Park in Carmel Valley.

Trails Day is an annual event that coincides with Earth Day, a worldwide celebration intended to inspire awareness of and appreciation for the environment. This year's Earth Day marks the 38th anniversary of the inaugural event in 1970.

April 19, volunteers will work to improve the park's popular Mesa Trail. And anyone unable to engage in strenuous trail work can help pull invasive weeds near the park's visitor center.

After completing the project, volunteers will be treated to a chicken and veggie burger barbecue at the visitor center courtesy of Whole Foods Market in Monterey.

Park district officials will also recognize the park's many volunteers at the barbecue.

"We're going to honor all the people who work on our restoration and maintenance projects all year round," explained Debbie Wyatt, environmental education volunteer coordinator for the park district. "It should be a great day."

Monterey Peninsula Regional Park District will supply all the tools. Volunteers are asked to bring sturdy shoes, long pants, long-sleeve shirts, work gloves, sunwear and sunscreen. The park district will supply snacks and bottled water, although volunteers are also invited to bring their own. Commemorative T-

NOTICE OF PETITION TO ADMINISTER ESTATE OF DOLORES MAY JOHNSON

Case Number MP 19003
To all heirs, beneficiaries, creditors, contingent creditors, and persons who may otherwise be interested in the will or estate, or both, of DOLORES MAY JOHNSON.

A PETITION FOR PROBATE has been filed by LAUREL JOHNSON MILLER, CHRIS JOHNSON & ERIK JOHNSON in the Superior Court of California, County of MONTEREY.

The Petition for Probate requests that LAUREL JOHNSON MILLER, CHRIS JOHNSON & ERIK JOHNSON be appointed as personal representative to administer the estate of the decedent.

THE PETITION requests the decedent's will and codicils, if any, be admitted to probate. The will and any codicils are available for examination in the file kept by the court.

THE PETITION requests authority to administer the estate under the Independent Administration of Estates Act. (This authority will allow the personal representative to take many actions without obtaining court approval. Before taking certain very important actions, however, the personal representative will be required to give notice to interested persons unless they have waived notice or consented to the proposed action.) The independent administration authority will be granted unless an interested person files an objection to the petition and shows good cause why the court should not grant the authority.

A hearing on the petition will be held on in this court as follows:
Date: April 18, 2008
Time: 10:00 a.m.
Dept.: 17
Room:

Address: Superior Court of California, County of Monterey, 1200 Aguajito Road, Monterey, CA 93940.

If you object to the granting of the petition, you should appear at the hearing and state your objections or file written objections with the court before the hearing. Your appearance may be in person or by your attorney.

If you are a creditor or a contingent creditor of the decedent, you must file your claim with the court and mail a copy to the personal representative appointed by the court within four months from the date of first issuance of letters as provided in Probate Code section 9100. The time for filing claims will not expire before four months from the hearing date noticed above.

You may examine the file kept by the court. If you are a person interested in the estate, you may file with the court a Request for Special Notice (form DE-154) of the filing of an inventory and appraisal of estate assets or of any petition or account as provided in Probate Code section 1250. A Request for Special Notice form is available from the court clerk.

NOTICE OF INTENT TO ADOPT A MITIGATED NEGATIVE DECLARATION

MONTEREY COUNTY PLANNING COMMISSION

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that the Monterey County Public Works Department has prepared a draft Mitigated Negative Declaration, pursuant to the requirements of the California Environmental Quality Act (CEQA), for the creation of a new class I bicycle trail from the western boundary of the Monterey Peninsula Regional Park District (MPRPD) property (APN 157-121-001), and extends to the eastern boundary of the Quail Lodge property (APN 157-171-057), where it meets the existing class III bicycle trail (see description below). The Mitigated Negative Declaration and Initial Study, as well as referenced documents, are available for review at the Monterey County Public Works Department, 168 W. Alisal St., 2nd Floor, Salinas and the Monterey County Clerk's Office, 168 W. Alisal St., 1st Floor, Salinas. Written comments will be accepted from April 15, 2008 to May 15, 2008. The Monterey County Planning Commission will consider this project at a public hearing on May 28, 2008 at 9 a.m. in the Monterey County Board of Supervisors Chambers, 168 W. Alisal Street, Salinas, CA. Comments may also be made during the public hearing.

Project Description: The proposed project consists of constructing a class I bicycle trail that is one segment of a multi-segment bicycle trail system in Carmel Valley, CA. The proposed project is the third phase of the four-phase Carmel Valley/Valley Greens Drive Class I/III Bicycle Trail that begins at the eastern end of Valley Greens Drive and will extend to State Hwy 1. The construction of the trail system, which the proposed project is just one segment of, will allow bicycle commuters in Carmel Valley and surrounding communities to avoid using Carmel Valley Road, which is a high speed and high volume roadway facility. As part of the larger Carmel Valley/Valley Greens Drive Class I/III Bicycle Trail project, the proposed project will offer bicycle commuters a safe travel alternative at the Rio Road/State Hwy 1 junction, and to other places on the Monterey Peninsula. The proposed project will connect to an existing 0.70-mile (3,700-foot) class III bicycle trail on an adjacent Quail Lodge property (APN 157-171-060) to the east. West of the proposed project, a future trail will continue on a new levee and terminate at State Hwy 1. The length of the proposed trail segment is approximately 1.1 miles (5,825 linear feet). The proposed bicycle trail is planned to be eight feet wide with a four-foot gravel shoulder on each side. The trail will be paved with asphalt and will include appropriate directional signage and striping. It is estimated that the permanent footprint of the trail will be approximately 2.1 acres.

Restaurant placards promote water savings

ONE PACIFIC Grove restaurant owner estimates as much as 80 percent of the drinking water he serves to his customers is not consumed. To reduce that waste, there is a new effort, via small placards placed on dining tables, to let restaurant customers know water is "precious."

California American Water Co. and the Monterey Peninsula Water Management District have distributed placards to 168 restaurants, and hotels and other businesses.

"Not only will it benefit the water supply," said Cal Am community relations manager Catherine Bowie, "avoiding waste will save money for the restaurants and hotels."

Matteo Enea, owner of Matteo's Deli & Caffe in Pacific Grove, said he believes the new cards will help save water since most of the H2O customers request ends up being dumped in the sink. "I'm a small operation," Enea said. "But on a busy night, we can serve like 60 pints of water."

The placards will not only help save drinking water served to customers, Enea said, but also the water used to wash the glasses.

During Stage 1 water conservation, which the Peninsula has been under since the early 1990s, restaurants are not to give water to customers unless it's requested. But some have done it away anyway — a situation the cards will help rectify, Bowie said.

"We had signs like these decades ago," Bowie said. "But nobody wanted to use them because they were really unattractive."

The new ones are much prettier, she said.

Cal Am paid for the design of the placards, which were distributed in Carmel, Pacific Grove, Monterey and Seaside.

Meg's Health Notes

Presented by
Meg Parker Conners, R.N.

HOME HEALTHCARE - MORE THAN NURSES

People often associate home healthcare services with nurses who come to help with wound dressing after surgery. Although agencies are very good at delivering high-quality nursing care, they provide much more. Today's home care agencies can serve in virtually any capacity that a client requires. Some clients may simply want someone to check on an elderly relative twice a week just to sit and chat, while someone else may need 24-hour care that involves medical treatments. Home care services also include activities that will alleviate the clients' general burdens such as meal preparation, bill paying, and bathing. For clients who need to make it to medical appointments but cannot get there themselves, home care services can provide transportation.

Prolonged illness, disability or simply the challenges of aging can significantly alter the lifestyle of older adults. Daily responsibilities can become difficult. However, efficient coordination of medical, personal and social services resources can enhance the quality of life. For older adults and their families, the care management program at VICTORIAN HOME CARE/ RESIDENTIAL CARE HOMES assists people in maintaining their independence at home and can ease the transition to a new setting if needed.

P.S. Approximately 7.6 million Americans currently receive some sort of home health service.

Meg Parker Conners is an RN and owner of Victorian Home Care and Victorian Residential Care Homes. For assistance, call 655-1935.

CANDIDATES

In tackling the county's gang problem, Serrano Williams said preventing kids from getting involved in gangs is the answer to reducing violence.

"We need to reach children while they are still young," she said, "and we need to direct them toward more productive lives before they end up in juvenile hall."

Serrano Williams is involved in the Capstone Project in Salinas, a program created by the Monterey County Sheriff's Office and elected officials.

"Our goal is precisely to strengthen families," she said, "and to provide them with the necessary resources to stop violence in our community."

Tom Wills

Boasting a lengthy endorsement list, candidate Tom Wills has 30 years of legal experience in private practice and has also served as a temporary judge on numerous cases in Monterey County Superior Court for the last two years.

His experience in criminal and civil law is one reason he has support from 22 sitting and retired judges and 30 present and former Monterey County Bar Association presidents. And he says his experience on both sides of the bench will serve the people of Monterey County well.

"It can be an intimidating experience to appear in court," said Wills, 59. "I am well aware of that. I listen, treat people with respect and am fair."

In dealing with what he agreed is the county's biggest problem — gangs — Wills said he supports the Silver Star Program established by retired Superior Court Judge John Phillips.

"At-risk youth are put into that program and taught social skills and trade skills that give them self-esteem and a productive role in our local work force," he said.

Wills, a longtime resident of Pacific Grove, said he agrees with the three-strikes law. "There are people who have shown repeatedly that they cannot and will not abide by the rules of our society," he said. "Those serious offenders must be put away to protect the rest of our population."

Wills said over the years he's been hired by attorneys and their clients as an arbitrator or mediator to help resolve disputes.

"They know that, while they might not always like what I have to say," he said, "my decisions and recommendations will be fair, practical and carefully thought out. If elected, I would apply that same standard on the bench."

Big Sur fundraiser to aid school support group

By CHRIS COUNTS

LED BY a gifted young trio that plays traditional Celtic and bluegrass music on stringed instruments, about a dozen youngsters will present a fundraising variety show at the Big Sur Grange Hall Friday, April 18.

“There will be music, dancing and a little comedy,” explained longtime Big Sur resident Hyson Epstein, who helped organize the event. “The kids have created all their own skits and acts.”

See FUNDRAISER page 22A

Most people probably recognize this talented young trio, Mountain Jam, from performances during the weekly farmers market on Alvarado Street when the kids play to raise money to attend music camp. They will perform at a fundraiser in Big Sur Friday.

Symphony presents clarinet concerto, timeless romantic piece

By CHRIS COUNTS

A CONTEMPORARY clarinet tour de force and an unforgettable romantic piece by one of Russia’s great composers highlight the Monterey Symphony’s sixth concert of the season at Sunset Center April 20-21.

The symphony will open with “Clarinet Concerto” by Joan Tower, one of America’s most respected modern composers. The concerto’s soloist will be Ginger Kroft Barnetson.

“It’s a modern piece of music in which Tower explores all the sounds a clarinet can make and organizes those sounds into a 20-minute concerto,” explained Joseph Truskot, executive director of the symphony. “It will be a great performance of a challenging work.”

The symphony’s rendition of “Clarinet Concerto” will mark the third time it has featured a piece by a female composer.

Following Tower’s concerto will be a performance of Sergei Rachmaninoff’s beloved

Upbeat PacRep kids’ musical takes on death — with humor

By CHRIS COUNTS

IT MIGHT seem difficult to fathom, but PacRep Theatre’s latest production is a joyous musical, has a youthful cast and deals with death.

“If Wishes Were Horses” opens Friday, April 18, at the Golden Bough Playhouse.

“Believe it or not, it’s an upbeat story,” said Walt DeFaria, the writer and director of the musical. “There’s lots of humor in it. And it has a happy ending.”

“If Wishes Were Horses” tells the story of a girl — played by Maria Ramierz and Brittney Kessler — who is confined to a wheelchair. She has been granted three wishes, and how she decides to use the wishes will have a great effect on those around her.

Meanwhile, the girl’s fate is the subject of contention

An original musical, “If Wishes Were Horses,” will be premiered by PacRep at the Golden Bough April 18.

Rock 'n' jam, jazz and psychedelic funk

SINCE MOVING to Austin, Texas, from Fort Collins, Colo., "rock and jam" band Moving Matter has steadily improved, continuing to hone its high-energy sound, while drawing comparisons to such acts as Sound Tribe Sector 9 and Phish. Touring 20 cities and nine states in less than a month, Moving Matter is living up to its name and will make a stop in Monterey with a performance at Monterey Live Saturday, April 19. The group's third and latest CD, "Live at Greco's," is a two-disc showcase of the band's raw, live power, improvisation and strong songwriting skills. Bay Area psychedelic funk band Something Different and Seattle experimental jazz band Das Vibenbrass are also on the bill. The music starts at 9:30 p.m.

Plugged In
By Stephen L. Vagnini

Monday, April 21, at 8:30 p.m., local sax favorite Roger Eddy also performs at the intimate Alvarado Street venue with a quartet composed of Tim Volpicella on guitar, Skylar Campbell on drums and Steve Uccello on bass. Eddy, a longtime band leader on the Monterey Peninsula, also owns his own recording studio and frequently supports other major artists. In 2005, he performed on the main stage at the Monterey Jazz Festival with the Carla Bley Big Band and also toured with Robben Ford and the Ford Blues Band. In 2007, Eddy appeared at the Monterey Bay Blues Festival in "For the Love of Ray: An All-Star Tribute to Ray Charles," and the Monterey Jazz Festival's 50 year anniversary concert with The Monterey All-Stars. Call (831) 375-LIVE for info.

From Chelsea, Mich., folksingers Annie and Rod Capps play modern-day folk music with a rootsy vibe, a touch of twang and a soulful groove. Married for more than 13 years and "making music for many more," the Capps are touring the West Coast in support of their fifth album, "In This Town," and will make two stops on the Monterey Peninsula. They perform Friday night (April 18) at 7:30 p.m. at The Works, 667 Lighthouse Avenue in Pacific Grove, and on Saturday at the East Village Coffeehouse at the corner of Pearl and Washington Street in Monterey. The Capps play mostly original material — songs that explore human emotions, delivered with a "mix of tenderness and sass."

April 19 at 7:30 p.m., local couple Mary Anne and Ames Anderson (also known as Simple Pleasures) play their easy listening mix of original and cover tunes at The Works, and on Saturday, Placerville folkie Andrew Herringer performs music from his latest CD, "It Seems So Long Since Yesterday," at the East Village Coffeehouse. For more information call The Works at (831) 372-2242 or the East Village at (831) 373-5601.

The Christian Church of Pacific Grove presents award-winning dulcimer player Steve Eulberg Sunday at 2:30 p.m. at 442 Central Ave. Eulberg, who will be accompanied by guitarist Dan Paul, is an accomplished instrumentalist and singer-songwriter. Touring extensively throughout the United States, Eulberg plays mountain and hammered dulcimers with a variety of unusual instruments to create thought-provoking, smile-inducing, toe-tapping acoustic experiences. Call (831) 372-0363 for tickets.

Chef Singh: It's the spices that make Ambrosia so good

By MARGOT PETIT NICHOLS

ACCORDING TO Greek mythology, ambrosia was the food of the gods. In Monterey, Ambrosia is the award-winning Indian restaurant that serves a menu spanning everything from simple samosas, to succulent tandoori lobster.

Ambrosia India Bistro is located at 565 Abrego St., formerly the old Clock Garden restaurant. One can lunch or dine indoors or outdoors in a sunny, umbrella-shaded patio that seats 57 and has enough tall heat lamps to comfortably warm the area when the Peninsula chill is in the air.

Wands of lavender sway in giant terra cotta pots, bougainvillea has started climbing walls that shelter diners within, and snapdragons and petunias add their color to a patio guarded by two happy Ganesh deities.

Executive chef/owner Bhupender Singh is the young, creative force behind Ambrosia, which opened 15 months ago. In the works is his second India restaurant in Aptos, scheduled to open in late June at the request of Ambrosia's fans who come down from Santa Cruz. The Ganesh figures are to bring luck, Chef Singh said, and they are obviously working.

With an impressive professional background to his credit, Singh has worked diligently at this craft for the past 14 years. He began training at the age of 16, winning his degree from the Hotel Management Institute of New Delhi in 1993. He served three years as an apprentice at the Mawya Sheraton Hotel in Delhi where his uncle was executive chef.

In the United Kingdom, he obtained a master's degree from the University of London, then served as junior sous chef for Carnival Cruise Lines for two years before coming to the United States. In Mountain View, he was a chef for six years at Amber India restaurant before being called to Los Angeles to be the executive chef at Saffron restaurant from the day it opened until one year later, when he came to the Monterey Peninsula. Here he opened his own restaurant, Ambrosia, while still acting as a consultant for Saffron, which has become a chain.

His Nepalese wife, Kalpana, styled the decor for the restaurant and is a registered nurse with Community Hospital. The couple have a 9-month old son, Abhik.

It seems almost improbable that this vibrant young man who began cooking as a hobby and has now made it a successful profession, is only 30 years old.

"All my recipes, handmade spices and everything we cook here comes from my heart," he said.

"I created the menu to give people a sense of India," he said. "The food we offer is representative of the different states of India" — regional specialties from the North, South, East and West.

"I like to talk to our clients," he said, "to get feedback and to help educate the public about Indian food and spices."

Singh concocts his own spices from fresh ingredients straight from nature. He blends them in traditional fashion, and claims his meticulous method and insistence on quality are what give his food, "a touch of freshness — with each bite."

"Fresh" and "from scratch" reoccur frequently in Singh's descriptions of items on his menu. "We use no MSG or food colorings. In India, there are more than 300 spices, all of them natural. We roast, fry and blend ours for freshness and flavor."

With two clay Tandoori ovens made of brick and clay — one to roast meat, one to bake naan (flat bread) — there is no need to employ cooking oils. To roast meat, Singh's kitchen staff skewers it on long rods that are inserted vertically into the tandoor into extreme heat. Meat and chicken have only to roast for a short time before being pulled from the oven. From the tandoori come chicken, lamb, prawns, mixed grill, lobster and sea bass. Vegetarian specialties abound, and there are many seafood, chicken and lamb dishes prepared on the range top. There are six rice dishes and soup and salads, and 11 fresh breads and appetizers — both vegetarian and non-vegetarian. There is a vegetarian soup, smoked tomato shorba, and six vegetarian entrees.

Chef Singh is aided by three line cooks, including his sous chef, Amil Shuakul, six waiters, two food runners and four to six busers.

Singh said diners with food allergies or who can't eat certain ingredients have only to tell him and he will prepare a meal to suit their taste and needs.

The indoor restaurant seats 57 and the bar seats eight.

Although Singh claims not to have a signature dish, because such care is given to everything on the menu, he suggests trying his butter chicken (tandoori-roasted, shredded chicken tossed in a creamy tomato sauce), rack of lamb or a Chilean sea bass (fish tikki kebab flavored with lemon juice, ajwain and other mild spices).

Ambrosia India Bistro, 565 Abrego St., Monterey, is open seven days a week with lunch from 11:30 a.m. to 2:30 p.m., and dinner from 5:30 p.m. A buffet is served weekdays, a Champagne brunch on weekends, and at a full bar, happy hour is from 5 to 6:30 p.m. For information or reservations, call (831) 641-0610.

MUSICAL

between an angel, played by Connie Lee, and the Grim Reaper, played by her son, Robbie Lee.

While the forces of good and evil are occupied with each other, a group of children kidnap the girl and take her to a school prom, much to the shock of her mother, who is played by Gracie Poletti.

The play features a cast of 75 kids ages 6 to 18. They'll be supported by seven adults.

"I don't like kids playing adult roles," DeFaria explained. "If I get a mother to play a mother, it makes the role much more believable."

DeFaria said PacRep tries to give the kids a theatrical experience they can't get in the classroom.

"We try to surround the kids with as much acting and technical help as possible," he added. "We try to give them an almost professional experience."

Stephen Tosh wrote the music, while Don Dally provides the musical direction.

The musical continues through April 27. Tickets are $16 for adults; $10 for seniors; $8 for students, teachers and military, and $7 for children under 12. The theater is located on Monte Verde, between Eighth and Ninth. For more information, call (831) 622-0100 or visit www.pacrep.org

CONCERT

Symphony No.2, in E minor, Op.27. The piece was completed by the Russian composer in 1907 and its premiere was conducted by Rachmaninoff in St. Petersburg the following year.

"It's one of the great works of romantic music," Truskot offered. "Excerpts from it appear all the time on television and in the movies. Often when someone wants a lush romantic sound, they'll use the piece. It's full of wonderful, long, very Russian-sounding themes."

One of the most influential pianists of the 20th century, Rachmaninoff was also one of the last great champions of the Romantic style of European classical music.

The program will be also be broadcast on KUSP 88.9 FM on Sunday, May 11, at 11 a.m.

The Friends of the Symphony will honor Barnetson at a luncheon at the Inn at Spanish Bay, Friday, April 18, from 11:30 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. The cost of the luncheon is $45.

Pre-concert lectures by musicologist Dr. Jean Widaman, which are free of charge to all ticket holders, will begin one hour prior to the start of each performance in Room 105 at Sunset Center.

Tickets are $60, $55, $50, $45 and $35. For more information, call (831) 624-8511 or visit www.monterey-symphony.org.

FUNDRAISER

The variety show will feature a performance by Mountain Jam, a youthful ensemble that highlights the musical talents of Makiah Epstein, Emily Mann and Joe Mann. Emily plays the fiddle, while her brother, Joe, and Makiah play cellos.

"They perform at the Monterey Farmers Market every week," he said. "People love them."

The audience will also be treated to a vegetarian chili dinner prepared by Epstein, a onetime champion of the annual Carmel Valley Chili Cook-Off. "It was the only vegetarian entry in the cook-off," he noted.

Proceeds from the inaugural variety show will benefit the Big Sur Home School Project, which for the past two decades has provided Big Sur children with diverse learning experiences that fall outside the traditional state-funded curriculum.

"The project started as a home school support group that was put together to connect children on a community level," explained Epstein's wife, Iris. "If something is not 'in the box' enough for the state, we do fundraisers so those kids can have these experiences."

Included among the many opportunities the project has offered are kayaking adventures to Moss Landing, excursions to Sunset Center to see the circus and other events, and classes taught by locals like percussionist Jayson Fann and the late biologist and historian Jeff Norman. There's even a ski trip to Lake Tahoe.

Friday's event will also include a silent auction, which will feature gift certificates to local restaurants, massages by local bodyworkers and a huge hand knit blanket.

Dinner starts at 5:30 p.m., and the variety show will follow at 6:30 p.m. A $10 donation is suggested. For more information, call (831) 667-2728.

HUNT

a ball and maybe winning a fabulous prize to boot," said Sally Aberg, one of the event's coordinators.

The way the game works, Aberg said, is participants will receive a game card with 53 clues and riddles about each participating store, restaurant and gallery. The game will take place April 18 from 5 to 9 p.m.

"The goal is to identify the business, go to that business, and write down the secret code that is posted somewhere on the premises," she said. "Many businesses will also be offering special gifts that night, such as free samples and discounts."

Contestants who identify at least 20 businesses and collect the secret codes are eligible to enter a drawing to win one of a host of prizes.

The prizes, which will be awarded to 50 or more winners, range from vouchers for ice cream cones and $100 gift certificates, to several women's clothing stores and a basket of tools from a P.G. hardware store, Aberg said.

Business owners "will all be challenged to come up with a creative way to promote their business during those couple of minutes they have people [game participants] in the store," Aberg said.

The scavenger hunt is the first event of a new series called "Pacific Groove Night — Get into the Grove," which Aberg says, if successful, will offer a different theme each time in an effort to attract shoppers and restaurant-goers.

Although Aberg said they don't expect to see high sales during the inaugural event, they hope it will be enough to draw visitors back to Pacific Grove.

"We are really trying to get families to come downtown," she said.

In organizing the event, which Aberg called a grassroots effort, nearly all of the downtown businesses decided to participate in the game. The Pacific Grove Chamber of Commerce and the P.G. Business Improvement District support the event, she said.

Emily Owens and Mary Troup, the owners of the eclectic Forest Avenue store, Tessuti Zoo, came up with the idea of the scavenger hunt, Aberg said.

"They said, 'Why don't we have more events that include all of the downtown businesses?'" Aberg said.

The scavenger hunt begins at 5 p.m., and game cards can be picked up at 570 Lighthouse Ave., a longtime Hallmark store that recently went out of business. The drawing for prizes will be held at 8:45 p.m., and players need not be present to win. For more information, call Tessuti Zoo at (831) 648-1725.

Asilomar chef earns top peer award

EXECUTIVE CHEF Colin Moody, known for working culinary magic at the Asilomar Conference Grounds in Pacific Grove, has been named Chef of the Year and will be honored at the annual dinner and president's ball hosted by the Monterey Bay chapter of the American Culinary Federation Sunday, April 27.

Executive Chef Bert Cutino, past ACF National Chef of the Year, will bestow the honor upon Moody, "who has shown outstanding dedication to members of the ACF, the culinary profession and the community." In addition, national, state and local politicians and other dignitaries will offer commendations.

The 34th Annual Chef of the Year Dinner & President's Ball will be held Sunday, April 27, at the Hyatt Regency Monterey, One Old Golf Course Road in Monterey, and hosted by Executive Chef Mark Ayers.

The event will begin with a reception at 6 p.m., followed by awards and dinner.

Tickets are $90 per person.

Mail check with all guests' names to ACF Monterey Bay Chapter, P.O. Box 7034, Carmel, CA 93921. For more information, call Chef Paul Lee at (831) 915-9357 or email pjbh-lee@sbcglobal.net.

Duck Club hosts wine dinner

TESTAROSSA WINES will be poured alongside special dishes crafted by Executive Chef James Waller during the April 24 wine dinner at the Duck Club Grill in the Monterey Plaza Hotel & Spa on Cannery Row.

Started by a husband and wife who left high-tech for wine-tech, Los Gatos-based Testarossa grew from 25 cases produced in their garage to a 15,000-case-per-year operation that routinely enjoys 90-plus-point ratings from critics.

To complement their wines, Waller will create a special menu, and the evening will begin at 6:30 with hors d'oeuvres and Testarossa's 2006 Castello Chardonnay on the hotel terrace, which offers breathtaking bay views.

The four-course dinner — paired with Testarossa's 2006 Sleepy Hollow Chardonnay, 2006 Sleepy Hollow Pinot Noir and 2005 Subasio Syrah — will follow at 7:30 in the Duck Club Grill. A representative from winery will share information about each wine and its pairing.

The cost to attend the Testarossa Vineyards Wine Dinner runs $150 per person, all inclusive, and reservations may be made by calling (831) 646-1700. In addition, the hotel is offering a special room rate for dinner guests: $199 for an inland view and $299 for an ocean view. The Monterey Plaza Hotel is located at 400 Cannery Row in Monterey.

Wine fest at the foot of the Pinnacles

THE TINY Monterey County appellation known as Chalone, located in the craggy Gabilan Mountains near the Pinnacles National Monument, produces some of the finest wines and contains some of the oldest vineyards in the area. On Saturday, April 26, the appellation, which is home to 14 producers, will host its 5th Annual Pinnacles Wine Festival.

During the event at the Inn at the Pinnacles, Monterey County chefs will prepare hors d'oeuvres to nibble while sipping premium Chalone Appellation wines.

Winemakers, chefs and proprietors will be on hand to share their experiences, expertise and stories with fortunate attendees.

The festival will run 11:30 a.m. to 4 p.m. at the inn, located at 32025 Stonewall Canyon Road in Soledad, off Highway 146, which leads to the Pinnacles. Tickets are $60 per person, with a portion of the proceeds benefiting the Richard H. Graff Scholarship Fund.

For more information, visit www.pinnacleswinefestival.com or call (831) 678-2400.

Sandy Claws

By Margot Petit Nichols

SOPHIE HUNKEN, 2, is thought by her Mom to be a mix of Italian greyhound and terrier. She is as winsome as can be, especially in her pink wool sweater and rose-colored harness.

We met Sophie on the walking path above Carmel Beach Monday morning on one of her three weekly visits there with Mom Valerie. Another outing at Monterey's new dog park (across the street from Dennis the Menace Park on Pearl Street) rounds out her week of outdoor activity.

Between these adventures, she plays with her two friends, Lani, a Pacific Meadows Yorkie, and Minni, a Chihuahua-rat terrier mix who lives next door to Sophie.

Mom describes Sophie as "the sweetest, dearest, most obedient dog in the world" — which is why she became a therapy dog at Carmel Hills Care Center.

Graduating at the top of her class from obedience school, Sophie was flattered by her teacher, who suggested she would make a fine therapy dog. Sophie enrolled in the "Hug-a-Pet" program at the SPCA, passed her Canine Good Citizen test and started visiting shut-ins at the care center. There, she lies companionably on counterpanes, enjoying strokings and cuddlings, and giving kisses in return.

Back in December, Sophie selected Mom when she went to the Salinas animal shelter with her two daughters, Monica and Kristina, who flew out from New York and Virginia, respectively, to be with Mom Valerie for Christmas. Mom had lost her beloved dog Keegan two weeks before, so Monica and Kristina insisted she find another pet for companionship.

When they entered the shelter, every dog there set up a barking cacophony to attract their attention — all but Sophie. She sat quietly, looking hopeful.

When Mom had her taken from her cage to go for a trial walk outside, Sophie stopped at each of the other dogs' cages and kissed them goodbye. Even before the papers were signed, she knew she had a new home.

shirts will be presented to the first 72 volunteers.

For many local outdoor enthusiasts, Garland Park is an invaluable resource.

"You can hike, ride your horse, ride your bicycle and bring your dog," Wyatt said. "It's a great place for people of all ages and levels of hiking ability."

Volunteers will meet at 8:30 a.m. at the visitor center. For more information, call (831) 659-6065 or (831) 372-3196, ext. 3.

CURB

Talmage suggested signs would be more effective, but Hazdovac objected to adding any. Besides, she said, it's already common knowledge that it's unsafe to park at corners, where visibility is an issue.

"If people can't figure that out, they shouldn't have a driver's license," she said.

Hazdovac made a motion to deny the appeal, which passed 3-1, with Sharp dissenting. Mayor Sue McCloud stepped down, since she lives nearby.

Remodel your driveway.

Change is good. Change that includes an Audi is even better. Take the Audi A4 for instance, awarded the IIHS trophy for "Top Safety Pick" in its category! Then again, the Audi A6 sedan with fuel-efficient FSI® direct injection technology makes a welcome addition in its own right. And no driveway would be complete without the seven-passenger Audi Q7 with quattro® all-wheel drive. Audi. Truth in Engineering.

Monterey-Salinas Transit to get more county tax dollars

MONTEREY-SALINAS TRANSIT will get more money now that the government has redefined the population it serves.

According to a report presented to the Carmel City Council by city clerk Heidi Burch April 3, the 1981 joint powers agreement that governs MST stipulates it receives local transportation funds based on the number of people living within a half-mile of its routes.

But the federal and state departments of transportation and the U.S. transit administration have since expanded the formula to include those living within three-fourths of a mile of the bus lines.

"It is estimated that the population between one-half mile and three-fourths of a mile from existing routes would generate for MST an additional $270,000 per year" in county transportation money, Burch wrote in her report.

But in order for MST to receive those tax dollars, the funding formula in the JPA had to be amended, requiring ratification by each of the member jurisdictions, including Carmel-by-the-Sea.

Without discussion, the council adopted the resolution approving the amendment to the Monterey-Salinas Transit Joint Powers Agreement adjusting the funding formula from the County of Monterey.

MST has numerous routes connecting the cities of the Monterey Peninsula with Big Sur, Carmel Valley, the Salinas Valley, Watsonville, Moss Landing, Prunedale, Gilroy, Morgan Hill and San Jose.

painging in front of the post office the day the city issued its correction letter.

“One of my supporters came out and said, ‘I voted for two because I thought I had to,’” he said. “And the woman working with me also said that.”

While LePage is uncertain whether he would have won had the wording been right, Vinz Koller, chair of the Democratic committee, seems confident the outcome would have been different and will spend the next few weeks gathering evidence to support that argument. The election results were certified by the county April 9, and the committee has 30 days to contest them. Koller, who signed LePage’s nomination papers and is a board member of the Carmel Residents Association, said Carmel voters asked the committee to get involved.

“We believe there are enough people who have already told us that they would have voted differently had they known,” he said. “If 23 people had voted differently, it would have turned out differently.”

How people voted in person April 8 suggests that might be the case, according to Koller. When voters at the polls were advised they could vote for as many as two or as few as zero for city council, more of them chose LePage than either of the incumbents. From the total 329 ballots submitted at Sunset Center that day, LePage received 201 votes, while Sharp and Talmage each got 179. But in the end, he lost to Talmage by 22 votes.

On Monday, the committee advised the city it would undertake preliminary steps to contest the election and asked for a delay in seating the newly elected council members.

“We thought people didn’t want that to happen when there’s still a cloud hanging over the election,” he said. “We understand the city proceeded, but that doesn’t really change anything.”

The committee is gathering evidence and seeking legal advice on how to proceed with the case in Monterey County Superior Court.

“I have no opinion on whether the committee should take the issue to court — I’m kind of staying out of that,” LePage commented. “But obviously the city needs to make some corrections and think about what policy they need to change so this doesn’t happen again.”

paing and encouraged residents and others to remain involved. “I want you to keep the tough questions coming,” she said. “It makes us all better at accomplishing what’s best for our lives, our village and for the future of both.”

When it was his turn, Talmage thanked everyone for “being real patriots for the city,” and said he appreciated the passion exhibited during the election.

“Let’s take this passion and channel it to the difficult issues that are in front of us for the next four years,” he said.

McCloud, who was solidly elected to a record fifth term, thanked participants for presenting their varying views and opinions at city hall and praised Talmage and Sharp for first stepping forward to be appointed, and then seeking full four-year terms.

She said the city is well positioned to contend with challenges like a slumping economy and the state crackdown on California American Water Co. and Peninsula water users.

“I know you share in my enthusiasm that we have a team which has proved that it can work effectively together to address such issues,” she said.

But they put off such tough business for at least a little while to be led by bagpiper Michel d’Avenas, and followed by a group of residents, business people and other revelers, to Cypress Inn for food and libation in what has become a Carmel tradition on swearing-in day.

Peninsula chamber hosts green show

AN EXHIBITION of local businesses involved in a “sustainable economy,” films on “green innovations,” speakers and educational sessions on subjects ranging from energy efficiency, to “geotourism” and socially responsible investing will be featured at the 2008 Monterey Sustainable Business Showcase set for 3:30 to 8 p.m. Wednesday, April 30, at the Monterey Conference Center.

The event’s featured speakers will include CSU Monterey Bay professor Pat Tinsley McGill; Bill Leahy, executive director of The Big Sur Land Trust; and Deborah Lindsay, cofounder of Sustainable Monterey County.

Among the featured films will be “The Next Industrial Revolution: Cradle to Cradle — Remaking the Way We Make Things,” and “The Green Dragon Media Project,” a documentary about green construction in China.

In addition to learning about local businesses and resources, participants may sit in on sessions covering recycling, nontoxic cleaning products, sustainable purchasing and “other environmentally, socially and economically sustainable approaches to business and home,” according to Monterey Peninsula Chamber of Commerce public relations coordinator Georgette Cash. ## The most generous people

THE LOS Angeles Times had a story on its front page Sunday that must have come as quite a surprise to California taxpayers, not to mention people with “organ donor” stickers on their driver’s licenses.

Ana Puente is a 21-year-old woman who badly needs a liver transplant. She is poor and has no private insurance, according to L.A. Times reporter Ana Gorman. At first, she was told the government-funded medical program that takes care of indigent adults could not afford the $500,000 cost of a liver transplant. Without a new liver, Puente, who lives in Van Nuys, faced certain death, the newspaper reported Sunday — a prospect she faced angrily.

“How could they just let me die?” she demanded to know. Presumably, her question was addressed to California taxpayers.

These few facts raise all sorts of interesting questions about who should be responsible for extraordinary medical care for the poor. Federal, state and local governments already spend tens of billions of dollars a year providing free medical care to them. The question in Puente’s case seemed to be this: Should they pay even more?

But that’s not all there is to Puente’s story. If she gets a new liver, it will be her fourth.

According to the Times, she was brought to this country illegally from Mexico in 1989 by her aunt for the sole purpose of getting a liver transplant courtesy of U.S. taxpayers — something her fellow citizens in her home country evidently were not willing to provide. And she received a new liver at UCLA Medical Center gratis. In fact, when the first one failed, she got another one that same year. And a third one in 1998, each paid for by the government.

But it gets even more interesting. As soon as Puente turned 21, she no longer qualified for the childhood medical program that provided her first three (free) transplants. And, as we mentioned above, Medi-Cal denied her application for a free liver once she became an adult.

Still more: By notifying the U.S. Citizen and Immigration Service she was in the country illegally, Puente then somehow qualified (the L.A. Times doesn’t say exactly how) for a free transplant that would not be available to anyone in her situation who is a legal resident!

Puente is now awaiting her fourth liver. The total bill to taxpayers for her transplants and the extensive followup care she has received and will continue to need could easily reach $10 million. For her, it has all been free. And all these years she has lived in the United State illegally.

We do not tell this story to take sides in the debate about whether illegal immigration from Mexico should be curtailed, whether illegal residents of this country should be asked to leave, or even whether they should receive free medical care.

The question that was foremost in our minds was this: Two years ago, when large rallies were held in Los Angeles and around the country protesting a proposed crackdown on illegal immigration and demanding a path to citizenship for illegal immigrants, all the news coverage focused on the grievances of these immigrants — their lives in “the shadows,” their low wages, their crowded living conditions and the discrimination they suffer. All those stories, and, indeed, the L.A. Times’ Sunday story about Puente’s transplants, seem designed to make Americans seem heartless, selfish and cruel.

But doesn’t the Puente saga actually demonstrate something else?

If we provide limitless, free medical care to people who cross our borders illegally, doesn’t that place Americans — and Californians — among the kindest and most generous people on Earth?

‘Trying to be a responsive neighbor’

Dear Editor,

I was sad to see the letter last week from Mr. & Mrs. Rubenstein about their desire to see the Golden Bough torn down and the historic theatre site used instead for houses. They also were upset as to not yet having been consulted. Rest assured, it is our plan to meet with the residents of the neighborhood as well as anyone else interested in the Golden Bough as we make our way through the long planning process.

We are trying to be a responsive neighbor and will continue in that vein. When we reopened the Bough in 1995, for example, we moved our curtain times from 8 p.m. to 7:30 p.m. in order to create an earlier end-of-evening exodus from the facility. Also, in response to neighbor requests, we have reduced midweek events on the main stage, reduced outside storage and made our entire site a nonsmoking area. Further, our new plans will prevent sound from leaking into the neighborhood, and also allow us to eliminate outdoor set construction and storage.

My comments regarding having an arts shuttle drop off patrons to the Bough (as well as Sunset Center and the Forest Theater) was an honest attempt to respond to neighborhood concerns about a lack of abundant parking surrounding these facilities. Both the Bough and Sunset are on bus routes, so a small shuttle seems a reasonable avenue to explore. But it is only a suggestion. The same suggestion was made regarding the Forest Theatre by some of the neighbors there. If there are other ideas on the parking issue, we are happy to hear them.

We want to be reasonable. But asking for the site to be demolished is simply not reasonable. We must consider the greater good for the community at large, and our cultural facilities serve a vital function and help define what makes Carmel so special.

way, an estimated 400 residents better pack their bags and get ready to move.

P.G. has an estimated 400 nonconforming, more commonly referred to as illegal units. Many of these units are non-conforming for no other reason than they do not meet current zoning standards — zoning being that subjective thing that changes over the years to hopefully meet a community's needs. Catch 22, many illegal units don't meet building code standards and/or are not properly maintained. The catch is a tenant in one of these units is usually not well off financially. Furthermore, these tenants are not about to go to the building department to complain about a leaky roof or bad plumbing or wires that short out, because the minute they disclose they're living in a nonconforming unit, the city is going to close it down and they will be on the street.

Wednesday night, the council directed its staff to do whatever it takes to close down those units. Leading the charge was councilman Scott Miller, who was so excited about the idea he offered to volunteer his time to help locate these units for eradication. And by the end of the brief but definitive discussion about nonconforming illegal units in Pacific Grove, the council and mayor were so excited about their decision you would think they'd won the Super Bowl and were going to give each other high-fives.

Oh, and what about these displaced tenants, who may have been P.G. residents longer than the current council? Councilman Miller's answer was to provide them with "some kind of list" from the housing authority or rental agency of available rentals. Bear in mind other communities have taken a completely different approach as to how to deal with their nonconforming illegal units. These other communities have looked at them as an opportunity to allow them to stay under the conditions that they meet building, fire and safety codes, and that they are rent restricted units providing affordable housing in an unaffordable world.

By the way how long do we have to wait until the next election?

The morning of the event, BSIM race director Wally Kastner speculated attendance, bolstered by busier than expected race-day registration, would surpass the previous two years' numbers. Afterward, marketing and PR coordinator Julie Armstrong reported that though a firm count was impossible since not everyone wore a timing chip to record their finishes, an estimated 625 people competed — "not a record, but a good turnout for the event," she said. "We hope that it can grow over the years as we begin to promote it regionally."

A Primer on Capital Gains

"A capital gain is an increase in the value of any capital asset that you own," says a USAA article on the subject. A good example? Real estate. Stocks, bonds, personal property and collectibles are also capital assets, and when you sell any of them for a higher price than you originally purchased them, you have realized a capital gain, and you will likely have to pay a tax on that gain.

But let's return to real estate. If you bought your personal residence several years ago for, say, $450,000 and you sell it for $650,000, there's an obvious $200,000 gain, much of which you can simply put in your pocket as profit from the sale. And capital gains from the sale of personal residences, as you probably know, get very special treatment.

If you file jointly as a married couple, you can exempt up to $500,000 in capital gains from taxation in the sale of a personal residence in most cases. That means your $200,000 profit (less the costs of selling) simply won't be taxed. Thus, if you would normally be taxed in the 25% bracket on capital gains, you'll save roughly $50,000.

This is one of the stunning ways in which a personal residence can serve you financially, and one of the main reasons that people look to their homes as one of the foundation of their financial lives and bedrocks of their savings programs. Food to live by.

During our peak growing season, April through October, we host a special event every Saturday.

2008 Saturday Events

Arrive any time during these events.
Free admission.

Farm Stand Activities

Arrive at least half an hour before workshops end.

Guided Walks on the Farm

Wear appropriate field-walking shoes, and be sure to arrive on time so you don't get left behind!

Celebrate Earth Month at Earthbound Farm

Throughout April, we're donating 5% of Farm Stand sales to a different environmentally focused nonprofit each week: American Forests, The Habitat at Carmel Middle School, the Natural Resources Defense Council, and the Organic Farming Research Foundation. In honor of Earth Day, join us on April 19 for farm tours and games, and learn how organic farming produces healthy food and protects the environment. Free admission. Rain cancels.

Raspberry Revelry

Join our midsummer celebration of the sweet crop that got us started 24 years ago! Enjoy delicious organic raspberry treats from our kitchen, plus cooking demos, crafts, games, train rides, and farm tours. Free admission.

Corn Crazy Celebration

It's the grand opening of our organic corn maze! We're crazy about corn, so we're having a cornhusk doll workshop, corn-on-the-cob eating contest, corn cooking demos, farm tours, and more. Free admission.

Harvest Festival

Bring the whole family to our grand harvest celebration, with squash and pumpkin tastings, games, pumpkin carving demos, music, farm tours, train and hay rides, and more! Free admission.

Cornhusk Doll Workshop

Make folk art that's fun for all ages. Free.

Garlic Braiding Workshop

Create beautiful and useful decorations. Pay only for materials, instruction is free.

Jam Jar Vase Workshop

Create hanging vases using twisted wire, beads, and jam jars. $10 includes materials and instruction.

Pumpkin Scratching

Scratch words or designs into pumpkins still growing in the field. Come back in about a month to find your design on a fully grown pumpkin! Ages 10 and up, pay only for your pumpkin's weight at the end of the growing season. Please arrive promptly so you have plenty of time to finish your pumpkin.

Stepping Stone Workshop

Bring your own bag of treasures (broken plates, stones, marbles, etc.), or use our baubles and trinkets to adorn your stone. $10 includes materials & instruction.

Wreath-Making Workshop

Twist organic grapevines into a wreath, then decorate it with natural greenery. Bring your gardening gloves! $15 includes materials and instruction.

Bug Walks

Kids of all ages learn about beneficial insects and help us release ladybugs in our fields. Fun for the whole family! $5/child (includes goodie bag), adults free.

Chef Walks

Join Farmer Mark Marino and a special guest chef for a walk in our fields to pick your own organic vegetables, learn about organic farming, and get insider tips from the chef. After the walk, enjoy a cooking demo, a tasting, and recipes. $20/adults, $5 children 12 and under.

Flower Walks

We'll take you into our fields to pick your own fresh organic flowers, and then give you tips for unique presentations. $20/adults, $5/children 12 and under.

Harvest Walks

Follow Farmer Mark Marino through our fields on a fun and informative walk, harvesting fresh organic produce to take home. $15/adults, $5/children 12 and under.

ture fire on Mission south of Alta at 2146 hours. Fire engine and ambulance on scene, nothing showing and investigating. Just prior to arrival, two occupants of a two-story, single-family residence had attempted to extinguish a fire in the southeast corner of the upstairs bedroom, the result of a candle being placed on a wicker dresser and too close to combustible curtains. Occupant No. 1 was transported to CHOMP by ambulance and occupant

No. 2 was treated at the scene after they attempted to extinguish the fire. Crews extinguished the remaining fire on arrival and performed salvage and overhaul. Damage was estimated to be $5,000 to contents and $5,000 to the structure. Chief on scene and assumed Mission Command. Cypress engine assisted with equipment deployment and performed standby at scene. Carmel P.D. also responded and contacted the victims.

Big Sur: A male in the South Coast area committed suicide.

MONDAY, APRIL 7

Carmel-by-the-Sea: On Sunday, April 6, a police officer located property belonging to an entity based in Moss Landing while patrolling Carmel Beach. The item was secured and brought to the station for safekeeping. A message was left with officials. On Monday, April 7, contact was made with a representative who wished to procure the item. The item was returned to them effective this date.
