A new generation of security cameras with high-definition technology is making it much easier for law enforcement to identify suspected criminals — such as these two alleged car thieves, who stole a Toyota Land Cruiser from a home in Carmel Valley and went on a spending spree with credit cards they found inside. FRUSTRATED BIG SUR RESIDENTS SOUND OFF ABOUT FIRE STRATEGY

■ 'It seems absurd that we have to ask permission to help our neighbors'

By CHRIS COUNTS

ELECTED OFFICIALS expected an earful from fire-weary residents when they hosted a public meeting about the Basin Complex Fire Monday at the Big Sur Lodge Conference Center. And they weren't disappointed.

The fire — which was ignited June 21 by a lightning strike at Grimes Point and finally extinguished July 27 — burned more than 160,000 acres and destroyed 27 homes in Big Sur.

Fifth District Supervisor Dave Potter and U.S. Rep. Sam Farr co-chaired the meeting, which presented locals with the opportunity to comment on what went right, what went wrong and what needs to be improved before another devastating fire sweeps through the Big Sur community.

About 150 people packed the undersized meeting room, giving Potter and Farr a firsthand lesson in Big Sur residents' fierce belief they have the right to defend their homes against wildfires, and that law enforcement has no business getting in the way.

"If you can't access your property, your property rights don't mean anything," observed Jeannie Ford, president of the Coast Property Owners Association.

'Within three days it was no longer a wildfire ... it became a government-managed burn'

Many were critical of a mandatory evacuation order issued by the Monterey County Sheriff's Office and the threat of arrest if they didn't comply.

"It seems absurd that we have to ask permission to help our neighbors," Iris Epstein said.

Several residents who live east of Highway 1 — whose homes were saved primarily by themselves and their neighbors — were critical of government officials who managed the fire.

"If you have a fire, don't expect help," warned Micah Curtis, whose efforts to save structures on his family's 55-acre property drew the ire of fire officials.

Don McQueen, who has lived in Big Sur since 1939 and has been fighting fires since 1948, said

Car events: One grows, one goes and one moves

By MARY BROWNFIELD

CONCOURS WEEK on the Monterey Peninsula is undergoing some overhauling this year.

A longtime auction favorite, Christie's Exceptional Motor Cars, is no more. Concorso Italiano has a new home. And Carmel-by-the-Sea's Concours on the Avenue — which debuted downtown last August after years of planning — has been expanded to two days.

More on the avenue

When they launched the Carmel-by-the-Sea Concours on the Avenue, Doug and Genie Freedman pledged it would spotlight genres of cars missing from other automotive celebrations and said would draw crowds downtown during a slower day in one of the busiest weeks of the year. On 14 blocks closed to traffic, some 130 cars were beautifully staged in various classes and judged, with awards presented on an Ocean Avenue ramp in the afternoon. The event was free to spectators, and through entry fees, the Concours on the Avenue raised money for The Carmel Foundation, a nonprofit that serves seniors.

This year, it's growing. "We are now two days," explained Doug Freedman. "We added Monday, Aug. 11 — our Porsche/Ferrari day," when Ocean Avenue and side streets will be filled with Porsches and Ferraris built between the mid-to-late 1940s and 1973.

Tuesday, Aug. 12, will mirror last year's vintages of American, British and European muscle, sports, luxury, family and race cars from 1946 to 1971, as well as microcars, motorcycles and hot rods.

Raccoon bites woman, dog in backyard scuffle

AN ANGRY raccoon bit, scratched and chased a woman after she broke up a fight between the animal and her dog last Tuesday night. Lindy — a beagle/terrier mix — and her owner, Laura Riley, are undergoing treatment and doing fine.

Shortly after 9 p.m. July 29, Riley, who lives in Clovis but regularly comes to stay in her family's second home in Carmel near Mission Trail park, turned on the outside light and opened the back door to let Lindy out.

"About five feet from the door was this raccoon," Riley said. As soon as Lindy saw the raccoon, she chased it. "They moved really fast and went around the corner of the house."

As the animals began to fight, Riley ran after them in the dark and tried to separate them. But when she reached down to grab her dog and shake off the raccoon, "it bit me multiple times," Riley said.

She and her dog managed to retreat toward the house, but the raccoon followed them.

"Its dander was up and it came after me — and it looked huge," she said. Her daughters, ages 12 and 14, were inside. Luckily, the raccoon changed his mind before entering the house.

Safely behind a closed door, Riley inspected her dog,

Council OKs $107K in new Flanders studies

By MARY BROWNFIELD

THE FUTURE of Flanders Mansion — the city-owned historic house that has been the center of furious debate and litigation for years — will again be the subject of costly studies financed by taxpayers, the Carmel City Council decided Tuesday night.

On a vote of 4-0, with councilman Gerard Rose absent, the council approved a $67,000 contract with Denise Duffy & Associates to prepare an environmental impact report on the options for the mansion, and a $40,000 contract with CB Richard Ellis, a firm specializing in real estate and urban economics, to compare leasing to selling.

Before the council vote, Melanie Billig, president of the group that successfully sued the city to halt the sale of the old house, asked for a delay.

"Wouldn't it maybe be better to get together and talk about what we could do?" she asked. Billig said the nonprofit Flanders Foundation has offered for 10 years, and

Daughter graduates from CHS, Given leaves CUSD

By MARY BROWNFIELD

AFTER MORE than a decade on the Carmel Unified School District's board of education, businessman Howard Given will step down Aug. 15. The district is already searching for his replacement.

"I have always felt that the most passionate board members — the catalysts for change and improvements — have something at stake," Given told The Pine Cone Tuesday. When his daughter, Bonnie, graduated from Carmel High School in June, Given lost that direct link.

"I consider myself as having worked very hard, and have been passionate in bringing constructive change to the district," he said. "But now that my daughter has graduated, it's time for someone else to carry the mantle."

His tenure included the passage of a $20 million bond in 2000 and a $21.5 million bond in 2005 that helped pay for badly needed repairs and upgrades to infrastructure at CUSD campuses, as well as key projects like Carmel High School's library and performing arts center, and the middle school's green science building.

CUSD Superintendent Marvin Biasotti highlighted Given's careful scrutiny of plans and projects, probing questions and talent for solving problems.

"He's provided very strong leadership on the board, particularly when he was president, which was for many of those years," Biasotti said. "He has paid a great deal of attention to his fiduciary responsibilities, and the district is in really great financial shape."

Given felt strongly about the need to boost academic standards, particularly at the high school, and pushed for graduation requirements designed to ensure students meet the standards necessary to apply to four-year state universities.

"Not that I expect all students to go to a four-year college, but to put them into a position to be able to enter a four-year school should they desire," he explained. New CHS courses include American Sign Language and Chinese, and a revamped math program.

Given took some heat for his emphasis on the high school. "It's really about how kids are feeling about education and their future that ultimately determines the success of a district," he said. "I really feel the high school needed the most work."

Biasotti praised Given for his dedication to strengthening academic programs, including finding new ways to help struggling students.

"And he was instrumental in encouraging the district to be one of the first in the state to develop a bullying prevention board policy and programs," Biasotti said.

Known for speaking his mind, getting right to the point — and sometimes rolling his eyes in moments of exasperation — Given was nonetheless careful to consider the concerns of others.

He recalled CHS Associated Student Body President Kyle Macdonald's strenuous argument for the inclusion of fire sprinklers in the new library even though plans did not call for them and the architect said they were not required.

"We wouldn't have gone down that road if he hadn't spoken up," admitted Given, who required persuading. "You have to be respectful and hear ideas, and he was 100 percent

Baez in Carmel, Part 1 - Joan Baez was a hero of folk music when she moved from Massachusetts to Carmel Highlands in the summer of 1961. She built a house in Carmel Valley three years later and soon tried to start an Institute for the Study of Nonviolence in her home. County planners said zoning wouldn't permit a school in a residence, so she bought a former schoolhouse in a remote area 10 miles away, in the oak-studded hills of the upper valley. The old school had closed in 1950. The whitewashed, adobe building had been a poison oak lab and a shotgun shell plant since. Baez's plan inflamed a couple who lived nearby and they made a fuss about "the lunatic fringe" moving into Carmel Valley and Berkeley-type demonstrations forcing the valley's $40,000 - $50,000 property values to plummet. Their claim that the school would violate zoning prohibiting land use "detrimental to the peace, morality, or general welfare of Monterey County" prompted the county Board of Supervisors to convene a hearing. Reward offered for car thieves caught on store's HD camera

By MARY BROWNFIELD

A MAN who left his keys and credit cards in an unlocked vehicle is offering $1,500 rewards for the arrest and conviction of each of the two men Monterey County Sheriff's deputies believe stole the car and the valuables inside.

The suspects helped themselves to the Toyota Land Cruiser parked at the man's home near Los Laureles Grade shortly after 1 p.m. June 1, according to deputy Brian Irons.

After searching through the car and taking the "quick cash items," such as credit cards, the men ditched the SUV in a remote spot nearby (which deputies didn't discover until July 4).

The thieves then went on a Peninsula-wide spending spree that lasted just a few hours but included $2,000 in purchases from markets, gas stations and other businesses.

"It was like they made a loop," Irons said. "They probably came over the hill from Salinas, then went into mid-valley, the mouth of the valley and Pacific Grove, and then back to Salinas, where they started."

The last charge was made at about 6 p.m., after which the cards were canceled.

But some of their shopping was caught on high-quality surveillance equipment.

"A specialized hidden camera [was in position] at one of the stores where the suspects used the victim's credit cards to purchase gift cards and a few other items," Irons said.

And the car they were driving — a white 1990s Ford Thunderbird — was identified via surveillance images from another business.

Irons said he believes he knows who the men are but hopes the public will provide additional information about them and any crimes they may have committed.

Law enforcement officers already suspect them in other incidents, including identity theft involving a Carmel Valley firefighter a few months ago, according to Irons. In that case, the victim recovered his own driver's license — Irons said he didn't know exactly how — which had been altered with the thief's photo.

"We believe the driver's license photo is of the same person as in the surveillance video," Irons said. "He turned that in to us, and it looked just like our guy."

The California Highway Patrol, Pacific Grove P.D., Gilroy P.D. and Morgan Hill P.D. are also investigating crimes in their jurisdictions that might be related, according to Irons.

"The victim in this case has agreed to offer a reward of $1,500 per suspect, for their identification, arrest and conviction," according to the sheriff's office, which encouraged anyone with useful information to contact Irons at (831) 647-7702 or call the sheriff's tip line at (888) 833-4847.

Firefighters to get new wheels

By MARY BROWNFIELD

AIRBAGS, BETTER seat belts, higher technology and advanced braking systems will be among the bells and whistles built into Carmel Fire Department's new engine, which will be delivered sometime in 2009 at a cost of $427,645.44, plus an estimated $68,000 in interest. The Carmel City Council — minus councilman Gerard Rose, who was out of town — unanimously voted Tuesday to hire a Michigan company to build the new rig.

The Saber PUC Pumper will be the department's third engine and be used first in responding to emergency calls. CFD's current front-line engine, a 1999 E-One, will move to a back-up position in the station, with a 1989 Beck third in line.

Administrative services director Joyce Giuffre recommended the city council OK the contract with Pierce Manufacturing, which estimated it will take 225 to 255 days to design and build the new engine. When it's delivered next year, it will be in keeping with the city's practice of buying a new engine every 10 years.

And it will eliminate costly rental charges. "When one of the two fire engines is out of service, the city rents an engine from the City of Pacific Grove," Giuffre said. P.G. charges $71 per hour but bills for 16 hours per day rather than 24 to provide a discount. So far this year, having the engine at CFD for a few weeks in July and August has cost an estimated $25,000.

Councilman Ken Talmage pointed to Giuffre's staff report indicating a front-line engine typically lasts 10 to 15 years. "If our front-line piece is only 9 years old, why are we replacing it?" he asked.

The 1999 E-One is experiencing increasing maintenance problems, mostly electrical, and is in the shop now with engine trouble. It also doesn't meet current safety standards, according to Giuffre.

She said the council should act now, because come January 2009, the NFPA will impose new requirements that would add an estimated $10,000 to the price.

Talmage questioned the rush to buy a new engine that will already be outdated when it arrives in Carmel. And if the 2009 standards improve firefighter safety, he said, the city should be willing to pay for them.

"The standards are always changing," Pacific Grove Assistant Fire Chief Dave Brown told the council. He also said the 2009 changes will affect emissions more than safety.

Because of the typically long timeline for budgeting and design, city administrator Rich Guillen pointed out, police cars, fire engines and other emergency equipment are almost always outdated in terms of standards by the time the agencies take delivery.

Carmel Police Chief George Rawson encouraged the council to spend the money for the new engine because the city needs a reliable fleet.

"You never want to be in a situation where your firefighters are trying to start the engine, and it won't start," he said.

The council voted 4-0 to approve the contract, and Giuffre said she would research options for financing the new engine and return with a proposal later.

FIRE

officials seemed content to simply watch the blaze burn. "Within three days it was no longer a wildfire," insisted Don McQueen, who battled the fire — and authorities who asked him to evacuate. "It became a government unmanaged burn."

Fire officials weren't the only target of locals. Many residents argued that the sheriff's office exceeded its authority by threatening to arrest anyone caught straying from his property.

Jali Morgenrath observed that he was threatened with arrest while traveling on a private road he shares with his neighbors. He said his son, Tevya, was subjected to the same treatment, even while he was working hard to successfully save several homes. With the mention of Tevya's name, the audience erupted into cheers.

Potter seemed to sympathize with locals who felt they were treated harshly by sheriff's deputies.

"This was not a crime scene," Potter insisted. "This was a disaster."

It was also an expensive disaster. According to Farr, taxpayers spent a combined $115 million suppressing the Basin Complex and Indians fires.

Hard work recognized

While many residents vented their frustrations, others offered praise, particularly for the residents, local volunteers and out-of-town firefighters who battled the blaze. Big Sur Volunteer Fire Brigade Chief Frank Pinney and assistant chief Martha Karstens were singled out repeatedly for their efforts.

"I think Frank and Martha did an extraordinary job," said Kirk Gafill, general manager of Nepenthe restaurant. "They went above and beyond any reasonable expectation."

Several speakers commented that many of the problems that occurred in Big Sur were avoided in the Palo Colorado area, where residents, firefighters and law enforcement officials worked well together.

Cheryl Goetz, chief of the Mid-Coast Fire Brigade, received particular praise for her communication skills and leadership.

Norm Channell marveled at the efficiency in which firefighters defended a fire break along Mescal Ridge from the Old Coast Road to Botchers Gap, extinguishing a threat to his home along Palo Colorado Road.

Potter, meanwhile, recognized Farr for his leadership during the crisis. The congressman is a part-time Big Sur resident.

"You may not always like his politics, but you have to like his passion for this community," Potter added.

Looking forward

Residents offered a variety of suggestions for officials to consider when they map out a strategy for containing — or preventing — the next fire.

Mike Caplin said it's time for officials to consider encouraging controlled burns. "It's all going to burn anyway," Caplin said. "Why not do it when it's safe?"

Caplin also suggested adding an exemption to the California Environmental Quality Act to allow residents to trim chaparral surrounding their homes without the expense and inconvenience of government oversight.

While Caplin emphasized the need for homeowners to take more preventative measures, Jack Ellwanger said fire-fighting budgets need more money for prevention as well.

"What we need is fuel reduction," Ellwanger suggested, echoing Caplin's concerns. "We need to manage the forest. We need to spend money on prevention. We can't spend half the budget on suppression."

In response, Farr conceded the high cost of fighting fires makes it difficult to pay for controlled burns.

"Money that's been appropriated always gets used up when we have big disasters in the summer, and there's nothing left for controlled burns in the winter," Farr said.

Some residents insisted more can be done to prevent fires. Brenda Shoemaker urged park officials to stamp out illegal campfires at Pfeiffer Beach, which is owned by the U.S. Forest Service and managed by a private concessionaire.

"I'm tired of calling for help to break up fires on the beach," Shoemaker said.

Others urged officials to take advantage of the skills Big Sur residents have to offer.

Penny Viergege encouraged the formation of a "civilian action team" that would draw upon the skills and resources of residents during an emergency.

Potter, meanwhile, said he would like to see his office take on a greater leadership role during the next emergency.

"I see no reason why, when decisions are made about how we're going to deal with the public's ability to move in the community and how we're going to help them protect their private property, that we can't be involved in the discussion," he suggested.

Second meeting preview

Potter and Farr will host a second meeting Tuesday, Aug. 12, at the conference center. The meeting will focus on rebuilding homes and infrastructure damaged by the fire, and on planning efforts to prepare for winter mudslides as a result of the fire.

Potter also suggested that Monterey County Sheriff Mike Kanalakis — whose office has been a frequent target of criticism by residents — should attend the meeting.

"I'd like to see the sheriff make himself present," Potter said.

While acknowledging the need to vent, Potter also urged residents to work with officials in an effort to better prepare for the next fire.

"It's a good thing to get emotions out, but it's not productive unless we accomplish something," Potter added.

Tuesday's meeting starts at 6 p.m. The conference center is located inside Pfeiffer Big Sur State Park.

HEAT AT YOUR FEET

Radiant floor heating provides energy efficiency and comfort that no other heating systems can match. The tradeoffs for these advantages are slightly higher initial cost and higher-than-normal installation complexity. When installing a wood floor over radiant heat, it is important to select the flooring material carefully. Wood flooring with high dimensional stability best suits a radiant floor. Certain species, like Australian cypress or teak, have good dimensional change coefficient. In addition, the manner in which the lumber is sawn can also improve chances of success. Quarter-sawn and rift-sawn flooring is more stable in width than flat-sawn. Narrow boards expand and contract less per board, as well. As for engineered flooring, including bamboo, it is more stable than solid flooring.

We've got lots of good ideas for making your environment a cozy, comfortable one for you and your family and a beautiful one for all to see. In fact, clients travel considerable distances to CARPETS & FLOORS, INC. to take advantage of our ability to meet the challenge of creating fashionable, functional floor designs and decor for them, no matter what their lifestyle. And the wide array of our sources gives us the ability to work within our clients' budgets. Time to decorate or redecorate? Time to call us because "only our very best will do." We hope to see you soon.

HINT: Radiant floor heating is a natural for tile and stone floors.

Health Notes*

Presented by
Meg Parker Connors, R.N.

HOME CARE FOR ALZHEIMER'S PATIENTS

Because of the gradual and progressive nature of Alzheimer's disease, many patients live at home for months and even years with their illness. This time typically involves caregiving from family members and other loved ones, who often hire home health care professionals to assist them. A key to successful care-giving for Alzheimer's patients is to make the home safe and convenient for the performance of activities of daily living. For instance, replace glass items with plastic, lower the water heater temperature to prevent scalding, remove potentially dangerous electronics (razors, electric knives, scissors, etc.), and install night lights in bathrooms and hallways. Create two cards with medication info. Keep one in the caregiver's wallet and one on the refrigerator.

Today, as many as 4.5 million people in the United States suffer from varying stages of AD. The initial symptoms may be as minor as forgetting names or recent events, but as the disease progresses, the Alzheimer's patient may wander, become anxious or even aggressive. For older adults and their families, the care management program at VICTORIAN HOME CARE/ RESIDENTIAL CARE HOMES assists people in maintaining their independence at home and can ease the transition to a new setting if needed. We cater to the elderly who are frail or still active and would do better in an assisted living environment.

P.S. Sticking with a regular routine is comforting for an Alzheimer's patient, who can easily become agitated by disruptions.

The district is in such good shape, Given speculated, it will give Monterey Peninsula private schools a run for their money when it comes to attracting students.

“So I feel like I’m going out at a time when the district’s finances are sound, the relations with employees in general are strong, and opportunities for all students are really improving,” he said. “And I’m tired.”

But he won’t disappear from the CUSD scene.

“I’ll still be operating the clock on the scoreboard during the football games this year,” he said. “So I’ll be around.”

Applications due

With Given’s resignation set to take effect Aug. 15, the board is seeking applicants to fill his spot until the next election in November 2009, according to Biasotti.

Applications will be due by 5 p.m. Wednesday, Sept. 3, with interviews conducted the following Monday and appointment of the new board member anticipated to take place Sept. 27.

“The newly appointed board member would begin serving immediately,” he said.

Biasotti said details of the application requirements and process will be posted on the district’s website, www.carmelunified.org.

BITES

which had a couple of puncture wounds from a single bite.

“I was the one who got almost all the bites,” she said. “I didn’t realize it at first, but I was bleeding all over the place.”

A doctor who lives next door treated and cleaned Riley’s wounds, and she reported the incident to the Carmel Police Department the following day. Animal control officer Cindi Mitchell recommended she go to the hospital.

“So I went to the emergency room, and they recommended for sure I go through the rabies series,” she said.

While the treatment no longer requires patients to undergo 30 shots in the stomach, it’s still uncomfortable — particularly the initial treatment, which involves injections directly into the wounds and gamma globulin to encourage the immune system to create the appropriate antibodies, according to Riley.

“The needles are long and the fluid is kind of viscous,” she said, but at least Novocain helps dull the pain. A short series of rabies vaccinations follow.

There have been no reported cases of rabid raccoons in the area in the past decade, making the odds of contracting it slim.

But it takes 30 days for symptoms to appear in humans, and by then it’s too late to treat, according to Riley.

“People die from rabies,” she said. “I figured I better go ahead and do it.”

Now the Rileys are recovering in Clovis, and Lindy is under a 30-day quarantine to make sure she doesn’t spread anything she might have contracted during her wild-animal encounter.

Riley said she, her daughters and the dog all developed a healthy wariness of raccoons as a result of the altercation.

“If it had just been me, I’m sure it would have run away, but my dog provoked it,” she said. “I’ve never been bitten by a wild animal before, and it was scary.”

continues to offer, its help and collaboration in determining the best public use of the mansion.

"This property could be a real big jewel for all of you," she said.

Billig also questioned the council's plans to spend more money on studies of its potential lease or sale after expending so much on previous research and litigation.

But city attorney Don Freeman said the studies — as well as the $16,500 in building repairs the council authorized earlier in the meeting — are required by the court ruling that resulted from the Flanders Foundation case.

"There was a writ petition filed against the city. We lost," he said. "The court identified some deficiencies, and this is trying to fix those problems as identified in the court order."

He said the city must demonstrate its good-faith efforts to address the issues Monterey County Superior Court Judge Robert O'Farrell raised, including inadequate scrutiny of possible uses for the mansion and problems with the EIR.

"To do nothing would put the city in jeopardy," he said.

Mayor Sue McCloud said no fewer than five different task forces have discussed ideas and the means for putting the mansion to good use, to no avail.

In 1997, for example, a task force appointed by Mayor Ken White unanimously recommended a culinary institute as the most viable option for the old mansion. The recommendation came at the end of two years of study and public hearings. But after neighbors loudly opposed any public use, the council unanimously voted it down.

Soon after, the city council voted to sell or lease the mansion to a private occupant — a decision which has been repeatedly reaffirmed over the years without ever coming to fruition.

"We don't really want to spend this money, but it's not an option," McCloud said to Billig during this week's council meeting. "It's because we're under the suit you brought against us."

According to the approved contracts, DD&A will develop a comprehensive description of the project, list all of its objectives, and evaluate it and any feasible alternatives in an EIR, while CBRE Consulting will prepare an economic analysis of selling or leasing the mansion to a family or non-profit.

Meteor shower viewing at Garland Park

THE PUBLIC is invited to join staff and volunteers of the Monterey Peninsula Regional Park District for a viewing of the Perseid meteor shower Monday, Aug. 11, at Garland Ranch Regional Park.

"How often can you spend a memorable evening looking at the night sky with your friends and family?" asked Debbie Wyatt, environmental education coordinator for the park district. "Plus, it's a rare opportunity to be in the park after dark."

The annual Perseid meteor shower, which has fascinated stargazers for 2,000 years, peaks in early August, when more than 60 meteors per hour can be visible.

If you're interested in attending the event, meet at 10 p.m. in the parking lot at 700 W. Carmel Valley Road, about 9 miles east of Highway 1 and (the park district hopes) well out of reach of coastal fog.

Warm clothes, a blanket, a lawn chair and a flashlight are recommended. Hot drinks and cookies will be provided. Rain, cloud cover or fog will cancel the event.

How Big of a Mortgage?

Most first-time buyers don't have the luxury of asking this question. They need the largest possible mortgage with which to purchase their home because they very often don't have a lot of cash for a down payment.

But someone who is selling a home that he or she bought many years ago and realizing enough of a profit to buy a next home without a mortgage has choices to make.

Probably the old adage comes to mind that you should always get the largest possible mortgage because the interest is tax-deductible. This is indeed one of the great things about home ownership. But you have to pay interest in order to deduct interest, and the interest deduction doesn't do away with the expense by any means.

A second biggest-mortgage argument warns that you can end up house-rich and cash-poor if you don't hold out money by taking out a mortgage. A reverse mortgage can sometimes take care of this problem, though.

In the end, the answer to this question has to do with your personal make-up and plans. Do you sleep better knowing there isn't a lender on title to your home with you? Or do you want to be sure you have money for trips to Europe and other delights? Do these two things: Look at the total amount of interest you might pay on a mortgage with deductions reducing that amount. Then look at the expenses you'll want to be able to pay in coming years...and consider that you can use some of the equity in your home to finance them. Partying for fire relief, fighting hunger with pears, and living it up locally

By MARY BROWNFIELD

A LAVISH affair featuring the creations of eight Big Sur chefs will benefit the Coast Property Owners Association's fire relief fund Saturday, Aug. 9. Monterey County Supervisor Dave Potter, Peninsula business people and the founders of the Pebble Beach Food & Wine are collaborating to present "Neighbor to Neighbor — A Big Sur Fire Relief Gala" at the Monterey Conference Center.

The talented culinarians of Sierra Mar, Deetjen's, Cielo, Big Sur Bakery, Pacific's Edge (not quite Big Sur, but just as coastal) and Esalen will create the evening's cuisine, and guests will enjoy wines poured by Bernardus, Chappellet, Galante, Georis, Gruet, J. Lohr, McIntyre, Morgan and Talbott.

Many businesses and suppliers are contributing to the event, and Big Sur artists and local retailers will stock live and silent auctions, while Big Sur musicians and entertainers will keep things moving. Tributes to the Big Sur and Mid Coast fire brigades are planned, as is a video documenting the fire's devastation.

The gala will run from 6 to 10:30 p.m. at the Monterey Conference Center. Tickets are $100 per person and are available at www.BigSurFireRelief.org or at the door.

■ Pear picking

Hate to see good fruit go to waste? So does the nonprofit Ag Against Hunger, which developed a gleaning program to allow volunteers to work with local growers to collect the usable produce remaining after commercial harvest. Those fruits and vegetables make their way to food banks and pantries in Monterey, San Benito and Santa Cruz counties, where they help feed people in need.

AAH's next gleaning is set for Saturday, Aug. 9, in a pear orchard. Volunteers should meet at 901 Soquel Drive in Santa Cruz at 9 a.m. to drive to the nearby orchard. The whole effort — transportation, orientation and harvesting — will take about three hours. To sign up, call (831) 755-1480 or email ananda@agagainsthunger.org by noon Aug. 8.

■ Got soul?

The Aug. 15 Jazz at the Plaza in Carmel will mark the halfway point of the 12-week series and will feature soulful singer Neal Banks, along with the wines of San Saba Vineyard, a small Monterey County winery producing Cabernet Sauvignon, Merlot, Pinot Noir, Sauvignon Blanc and Chardonnay. Sponsored by Carmel Plaza and the Monterey County Vintners & Growers Association, the event will run 5 to 7 p.m. The music is free, while the wine and cheese tasting costs $15 per person. The Plaza is located on Ocean Avenue between Junipero and Mission.

■ Pets love Howlin' Red

Just as it pledged it would, Cima Collina Winery donated proceeds from its 2006 Howlin' Good Red to the SPCA for Monterey County. In February, the winery released the red blend, and on Wednesday, owner Richard Lumpkin presented $3,009 to SPCA Executive Director Gary Tiscornia.

Cima Collina produced 332 cases of the wine, which retails for $20 and is a blend of Merlot, Syrah, Petite Sirah and Cabernet

■ Southern spirits

The next installation in Bernardus' Spirited Dinner Series is set for Thursday, Aug. 21, and "if there ever was a custom-made meal for a bourbon enthusiast, this would be it," according to organizers.

The evening will pair cocktails created by mixologist Zole Andahazy using Beam Family bourbons with five Southern-influenced courses masterminded by executive chef Cal Stamenov and his executive sous chef, Nate Mitzner.

According to a preview, the menu will include frisée salad with bacon, egg and hoecake paired with "Peaches & Sage" using Basil Hayden's; crawfish gumbo with heirloom tomato and homemade Andouille sausage paired with "Smoky Mountain Sour" containing Knob Creek; mint julep sorbet and bourbon gelée; whole roasted suckling pig with Gizdich apple slaw, corn and cathead biscuits paired with "The Porcus Project" using bacon-infused Maker's Mark; and "Almond Tasty," green tomato chutney and grilled corn ice cream paired with the "OI' Standby" of Booker's, crushed ice and branch water.

The event costs $65 per person, plus tax and gratuity, with a reception at 6 p.m. and dinner at 7, at Bernardus Lodge, 415 Carmel Valley Road at Los Laureles Grade. Call (831) 658-3550 for additional information and to make a reservation.

■ Good to be local

The C Restaurant + Bar in the new InterContinental The Clement Monterey on Cannery Row is wooing its neighbors by offering Monterey County residents a 10 percent discount on food.

"It's really important to have the support from the community," said restaurant general manager Sonny Petersson. "And any little thing that helps, we will do. Locals are our bread and butter throughout the whole year."

Since the hotel and restaurant — which is presided over by executive chef Jerry Regester — opened almost three months ago, business has been brisk. Petersson reported they are averaging 80 breakfasts a day, with dinner for 60 or 70 people most nights.

"The menu is just incredible," he said, and the bar features "freshly squeezed everything. You won't find any sweet and sour mix."

Petersson highlighted the bar's flights of 2-ounce tastes of sparkling wines and Champagnes, priced at $16 to $26 per flight broken into Old World (read: Europe), New World (read: Everywhere else) and The Best of Both Worlds.

■ Buy pasta

A rock-wielding burglar smashed the window of The Pasta Palate in downtown Carmel sometime Monday night, making off with the cash register and $250 cash.

Considering the skyrocketing prices of flour, eggs and even saffron — which now costs so much the proprietor no longer makes his wonderful saffron pasta — are already making times tough, the theft added insult to injury.

Check out the spectacular ravioli and fresh-made pasta at The Pasta Palate in the Stonehouse Terrace, San Carlos Street between Seventh and Eighth, or call (831) 625-6508 for information.

Food, libation as luxe as the cars at The Quail

By MARY BROWNFIELD

MORESO THAN at any other event during the Monterey Peninsula's classic car week, The Quail, A Motorsports Gathering, emphasizes food and wine as much as it celebrates spectacular automobiles.

"It was conceived that way from the beginning," said executive chef Jeff Rogers, who has worked every Q since it began six years ago and will oversee all the culinary efforts Aug. 15. "I would say it's equal focus, at this point. People will talk about a rare car they've never seen before, and a great cheese they've never tasted before."

In planning menus for The Quail, Rogers takes inspiration from the featured classes of cars, and also balances "fan favorites" with whatever is new, exciting, local and fresh.

In addition to its prewar and postwar sports, touring and racing cars, this year's show will celebrate automobiles that competed in the Twelve Hours of Sebring endurance race, the 25th anniversary of the Porsche 959, Eagle race cars, and the career of Lamborghini test driver Valentino Balboni.

Therefore, Rogers and his team will highlight the flavors of Italy, France, Cuba, Florida and California, which will be offered in al fresco dining areas around the grounds.

The Florida-inspired menu will bear tropical, Cuban and Southern influences, such as grilled mahi mahi with Caribbean fruit salsa, and Creole-spiced chicken with Yukon Gold parsley potatoes.

This year's French and Italian offerings will include herbed bavette de flanchet (flank steak) with wilted Savoy spinach, mesquite-grilled albacore with Nicoise olives and haricots vert, and Tuscan-style Castroville artichokes. "Italian food has proved to be really popular — it's simple, with great ingredients," Rogers said.

In everything, Rogers focuses on the abundant fresh fruits and vegetables from Earthbound, Serendipity and other small farms. "That's the great thing about living here and cooking here," he said. "All the stuff is in place for us to take advantage of it."

But he does splurge on exotics, such as the 20 pounds of Osetra caviar he ordered. "We emphasize that it is sustainable," he said of the prized fish roe.

Hog Island will shuck its famous oysters, but guests won't find any salmon on the menu, since the government shut down the local season this year.

"We are committed to line-caught wild fish," he said. "So we will do albacore."

The wide range of cuisine ensures everyone — even vegans — can find plenty to eat. The night before The Quail, which is sold out at 3,000 but offers a waiting list, Rogers and his team will prepare for the day's frenetic pace, and he'll close up around 11 p.m.

At 4 the next morning, he'll be back. He'll have an hour to prepare before his staff — including five former Quail Lodge sous chefs who are returning to work with him during The Quail — comes in at 5. They will spend the next several hours churning out the dishes to keep guests satiated.

"Everything's fresh," he said. "We don't cook anything ahead of time."

He doesn't want anyone to be thirsty, either, and The Quail is known for pouring fine wine, spirits and other beverages. Illy Cafe will provide the espresso, sparkling and still water will be widely available, and mojitos will be poured this year.

For those seeking the fruit of the vine, Louis Roederer will be the bubbly, as always, along with the tasty Domaine Ott Rosé Cote de Provence, and guests may also sip the wines of Cima Collina, Pelerin, Bernardus and Figge Cellars.

And there won't be any plasticware in sight. "It makes it a little more elegant," Rogers said of using real dishes, glasses and silverware.

Trying something new, local artist leaves out cars, planes

By CHRIS COUNTS

FOR AN artist who has earned much praise for his photorealistic renderings of automobiles and aircraft, Thierry Thompson didn't have too much trouble setting them aside to concentrate on a new series of local landscapes and seascapes.

"I'm just doing what I've done all along," explained Thompson, a Carmel Valley resident whose work will be featured in a new exhibit opening Sunday, Aug. 10, at the Classic Art Gallery. "I'm just leaving out the cars and planes."

The landscapes and seascapes were inspired by scenes from Point Lobos, Pebble Beach and Carmel Valley. "This area has definitely been an inspiration," said Thompson, who studied art restoration and surrealistic painting in college.

In addition to his new landscapes and seascapes, the show will feature paintings of an A-10 Warthog jet and Formula 1 race cars.

A longtime pilot, Thompson calls the A-10 Warthog his favorite aircraft. But curiously, it's one of the few military planes he hasn't flown in. As a member of the United States Air Force Art Program, he's had a chance to travel aboard aircraft most people rarely get close to.

"I've landed on three different

Thierry Thompson has turned his expertise at making highly detailed technical paintings, such as this racecar, to creating local landscapes and seascapes. An exhibit of his work opens Sunday.

Focus on history, ecology of Carmel River

By CHRIS COUNTS

THE CARMEL River will be the subject of a talk Sunday, Aug. 10, by Larry Hampson, an engineer for the Monterey Peninsula Water Management District. All Saints' Day School in Carmel Valley will host "The Carmel River: Past, Present and Future," which begins at 2 p.m.

Hampson's talk will provide an introduction to the history and ecology of the river.

"It's a unique opportunity to learn about the river from someone who knows it well," offered John Dalessio, chair of the Carmel River Advisory Committee. "The river is so important in all of our lives. All decisions about water on the Monterey Peninsula are affected by the river."

The presentation will also feature maps, photos and video.

"Larry knows more about the Carmel River than anyone," said Larry Levine, vice chair of the Carmel River Advisory Committee. "Plus, he has access to the most interesting photos — historical, flood stage, and beautiful — of the river."

From its source at Church Creek Divide — located deep in the Santa Lucia mountains — the Carmel River meanders north through Pine Valley before dropping into a steep, wooded canyon. About 10 miles from its source, it reaches the Padres Dam. From there, it flows for about 20 miles before spilling into the sea.

Not only is the river the source of most of the Monterey Peninsula's drinking water, it also provides plenty of controversy — especially now, with state officials threatening permanent water rationing to

Impressive summer concerts offer auto respite

THE JAZZ and Blues Company continues its impressive slate of summer concerts this Saturday, Aug. 9, with jazz vocalist Sandy Cressman and the latest version of her Homenagem Brasileira Band, which now includes Harvey Wainapel on sax and clarinets, Celso Alberti on drums, David Belove on bass and local sensation Weber Iago on piano.

Cressman and Silva developed an extensive repertoire, and in 1997 they expanded their group to a quintet. In 1999, they released "Homenagem Brasileira," their critically acclaimed tribute to the great composers and performers of Brazilian Jazz. Brasileira have since performed at the Monterey Jazz Festival and the San Jose Jazz Festival, in addition to a wide variety of jazz venues on the West Coast.

Cressman also performs frequently as part of Orquesta Candela, the Bay Area All Star Salsa Band, which has appeared at various national and international music venues, including the Festival Beny Moré in Havana and all the major California jazz festivals. Concours Week in Carmel: Come early and park far away

By MARY BROWNFIELD

WHEN IT comes to navigating the streets of Carmel-by-the-Sea during the Monterey Peninsula's multi-day celebration of classic cars, patience is key. Crowds clog the city's narrow and sometimes confusing roads, and special events require closures and detours.

Whether your destination is the Concours on the Avenue at the beginning of the week, the Thursday visit of cars from the Tour d'Elegance, or the Friday drive-through by the Pacific Grove Concours Auto Rally, Carmel Police Cpl. Steve Rana has some advice.

"Arrive early and park away from the event, if possible," Rana said. He has the unenviable task of coordinating traffic and closing streets during the town's busiest week of the year. "There will be a slough of detours, and a slough of 'no parking,' so please be patient."

Detours will begin popping up in town early early Aug.

Council funds Concours on the Avenue map

A MAP showing key features of the Aug. 11-12 Carmel-by-the-Sea Concours on the Avenue — and indicating which downtown businesses are participating in the event's window-display contest — should help promote the town and its stores, according to city administrative services director Joyce Giuffre. At its Aug. 5 meeting, on her recommendation, the Carmel City Council decided to pay for it.

Designed by Anda-Burghardt, the city's ad firm, the 12-by-18-inch map show where participating stores are located and include a schedule of events and entertainment, as well as general information about Carmel-by-the-Sea. The city is sponsoring the two-day car show. Jeff Burghardt estimated design and production costs for 1,000 copies would total $2,380.95, and the council voted to fund it with some of the $20,000 budgeted for its discretionary account in the 2008/2009 fiscal year.

11, for the Carmel-by-the-Sea Concours on the Avenue, which will be held on Ocean Avenue and side streets all day Monday and Tuesday.

According to Rana, Ocean Avenue between Junipero and Monte Verde streets, Lincoln Street between Ocean and Seventh, and Dolores Street between Ocean and Seventh, will be shut down around 3 a.m. each day, and probably reopened sometime after 6 each evening, depending on when the show cars clear the area. San Carlos Street between Eighth and Ocean will also be closed while the 130 contestants wait with their prized wheels to be escorted to their show spots between 8:30 and 11 a.m. each day.

"The promoters, Doug and Genie Freedman, have worked basically tirelessly to let all the businesses know about the event," he said.

Rana also arranged to have special zones set up for commercial vehicles during the Concours on the Avenue. The north sides of Sixth and Seventh avenues between Junipero and Monte Verde will be reserved for delivery drivers taking goods to downtown businesses.

"They will have to walk probably no farther than a block," Rana said.

Driving tours

Some of the same streets will close again Thursday, when the Pebble Beach Tour d'Elegance comes through town. Because the city constitutes the major stop on a route traveled by almost 200 vintage cars making the trip through the Monterey Peninsula and down the Big Sur Coast, the timing is more tricky to predict.

Rana estimated the cars will begin rolling in via Rio Road and Junipero Street at around 11 a.m. Aug. 14., and he will shut down that route to through traffic for an hour in order to accommodate them.

A few blocks of Ocean Avenue will be closed while Tour participants dine on a catered lunch in Devendorf Park, leaving their rare and pristine autos parked on the street for perusing by the masses.

The Tour will leave around 2:15 p.m., heading down Ocean Avenue to turn north on San Antonio and return to Pebble Beach through the the gate at the city's border.

"This is always a fluid event," said Rana, who encouraged spectators to arrive early and park in the city's free lot at Torres and Third — or elsewhere away from the melee — and to be careful not to block any driveways.

Finally, Friday, Aug. 15, will feature the Pacific Grove Auto Rally, which is set to pass through Carmel between 6:30 and 7:15 p.m.

The estimated 150 cars will enter the city through the Pebble Beach gate and stage in the parking lot near the beach at the foot of Ocean Avenue before traveling two abreast up Ocean Avenue to Highway 1.

"You can't cross Ocean Avenue once they're coming," said Rana, who also advised motorists planning to go to Pebble Beach during that time to use the gates on Highway 1 or Highway 68.

AUTOS

Freedman sees the expansion as affecting not just his event, but all the others. "We're connecting the two week-ends," he said. "That connecting of the dots creates a critical mass, and gives everyone an opportunity to attract a greater audience. It will make all of the events stronger, for the entire Monterey Peninsula."

In selecting the roughly 130 entries for each day, organizers looked for a wide representation and "the best of the best." They also wanted to avoid exhibiting the same cars as those shown elsewhere.

And two more blocks will be opened each day this year for the new Heritage Avenue Exhibit — a non-judged display open to modified touring and racing cars, and contemporary production and racing cars.

"We had calls from Carmelites and others on the Peninsula and nearby who had cars that did not exactly fit" the judged categories for either day, Freedman said. "So we have this opportunity for you to be involved deeply in what we're doing for the day and have the experience, but without the judging."

Freedman also said the Concours in the Windows — a contest of windows decorated in a Car Week theme — is growing in popularity. The contest intends to entice shoppers to spend while they're downtown, and cash prizes are awarded to the three best windows, with matching money going to The Carmel Foundation.

"We absolutely believe that no matter where you are on the Monterey Peninsula, someone might say, 'Go see what people did in all those windows in Carmel,'" Freedman said. "People in the shops are drawn out by the cars, and the windows draw people in."

The Freedmans hope to see not just business windows, but those in apartments and all sorts of other buildings decorated in the automotive spirit.

Some improvements will be made to address retailers' complaints, including using plants and benches — rather than the cloth walls erected last year — to delineate the show area from the rest of downtown.

"We've listened, and we've reacted," Freedman said. "We're reaching out to everyone."

He hopes the Carmel-by-the-Sea Concours on the Avenue, which also includes a Monday night reception for contestants and guests, continues to change and grow — and eventually make a profit for the organizers, thought it will remain free to spectators. "We may never get there, or we may get there next year. We're deeply committed to the idea of what we're doing and working as hard as we can," he said. "I'm just a guy who wants to turn his hobby into a business."

Christie's cuts cars

After years of auctioning collectible autos — including Steve McQueen's Ferrari Lusso last year — Christie's closed the division and held its final car auction at the Monterey Jet Center in August 2007.

"A review of our global strategy for Christie's International Motor Cars was conducted in 2007," explained spokesman Rik Pike. "And as a result, Christie's closed the department in September of that year and redirected departmental resources to other parts of our business."

Although the Peninsula lost one of its key automobile auctions, it did not lose the talented individuals who helped make it happen. Longtime Peninsula resident Gordon McCall — who has worn multiple hats in the car world for many years, including as a consultant for Christie's — as well as former head of Christie's International Car Department Rupert Banner and Philip Kantor, who ran Christie's European Car Department, all went to work for Bonhams, which hosts an auction in conjunction with the Quail in Carmel Valley each August.

"Once we started to detect Christie's was going to pull the plug on the car department, we all thought, 'Would this be an interesting move, to go to Bonhams?'" McCall said.

They approached the company, which they had viewed as an arch competitor until that moment but quickly learned was full of like-minded folks. "They are all car enthusiasts," he said. "They have a huge commitment to the department."

The auction house, which is called Bonhams & Butterfields in the United States, hired McCall as a senior consultant to its worldwide motoring network. It named Banner vice president of U.S. business development and based him in New York City, and hired Kantor, who lives in Belgium, as international director of business development.

In addition to their expertise, the three men brought some Christie's clients with them, which has led to an "amazing lineup — the biggest Bonhams has ever seen" for its Aug. 15 auction at Quail Lodge, according to McCall.

Topping the list is the ex-Pierre Boncompagni Ecurie Nice 1939 Talbot-Lago T150 C SS, one of only four examples of Pourtout's coachwork fitted to the T150 C SS chassis and designed by Georges Paulin, "whose innovative coachwork cheated the wind." Bonhams is the first to auction the car, which has been under the same ownership since 1962.

McCall procured the consignment for his new employer. "It's something I've been working on forever," he said. "I'm not a prolific consigner, but I always go after the headliners."

He landed the Talbot-Lago through the former owner of McQueen's Lusso — McCall's last-hurrah consignment for Christie's.

"It's knowledge and passion, and based on connections," explained McCall. "A lot of people are aggressive, but that's not my style. I'm willing to work on something for years."

Other key auction cars include James Garner's 1968 Corvette L88 racer, the 1960 Jaguar E2A Prototype, a 1930 Scuderia Ferrari Alfa Romeo 6C-1750 Gran Sport, a 1928 Streamlined Experimental Rolls-Royce Phantom I Torpedo, a 1913 Isotta Fraschini Tipo KM and a collection of Voisins.

McCall, whose professional involvement in the automotive world has spanned more than three decades, including as a restorer, historian, writer, photographer and racer, was also the mind behind The Quail. Even as he worked for Christie's, he recruited Bonhams to hold a concurrent auction. (He and his wife, Molly, also host the week's biggest bash at the Monterey Jet Center, and after 15 years of holding the party privately, they opened it to the public and began selling tickets last year.)

"I'm looking forward to this first year of not being the Christie's guy at the Quail show," he said.

Concorso heads north, adds wings

When the organizers of Concorso Italiano learned their venue of the past few years — Bayonet and Black Horse golf courses in Seaside — would be undergoing major renovation at the time of the car show, they decided to find a new home. After considering several possible locations, including the Pacific Grove golf course, they chose the Marina airport.

Located off Reservation Road in Marina, 10 miles north of Monterey, the airport has plenty of room for the annual celebration of Italian automotive genius, fashion and music.

Known for drawing thousands of enthusiasts to peruse the hundreds of Ferraris, Alfa Romeos, Fiats, Lancias, Lamborghinis, Panteras, Maseratis and other marques created in bella Italia and preened over by their owners, Concorso Italiano strikes a festive, casual atmosphere. Many participants picnic among the cars — and sometimes even on them — and the day always includes on-stage commentary with car owners and celebrities as the automobiles are honored. A live fashion show and music, such as opera, are featured as well, along with a display of fabulous Riva yachts.

All of that will be true this year, when Concorso is held Aug. 15, but for the first time — and in a nod to its new location — Concorso Italiano will include vintage aircraft. Organizers also decided to professionally cater the show.

And, of course, the airport offers easy access and onsite parking, which had been challenges when Concorso was held at Quail Lodge and in Seaside.

This year's Concorso Italiano will honor 45 years of Automobili Lamborghini, the creations of Marcello Gandini and the 40th anniversary of the Ferrari 365 GTB/4 Daytona.

"From an enthusiast's perspective, I'm thrilled to see all these things going on. It has truly become an a la carte, two-week period," said McCall. "People have to give up complaining that there's too much to do. People don't say that about Disneyland — they just pick the rides they want to do."

He encouraged people to choose their favorite auctions, shows, parties and races. "There's enough diversity for everyone, and I think it's great," he said.

Everyone says a woman's heart is different. We treat it that way.

We're introducing a new program designed just for women — it's called the Women's Heart Risk Assessment. As part of our Women's HeartAdvantage® Program, we'll take a comprehensive look at your personal risk for heart disease and help you develop a plan for reducing that risk. Consultations will include:

- Evaluation of risk factors for heart disease including review of cholesterol and blood glucose test results, blood pressure, and body mass index
- Nutrition review and recommendations
- Individualized heart risk profile
- Consultation with registered nurse and cardiologist
- An action plan with follow-up recommendations

City asks Homeland Security to foot bill for generator

By MARY BROWNFIELD

THE CITY of Carmel will ask the U.S. Department of Homeland Security for $150,750 in taxpayer money to buy a generator, the city council decided Tuesday. The generator would be used by the police and public works department during power outages, and would allow the Carmel Youth Center next door to serve as an emergency shelter.

According to a report prepared for the council by Carmel Police Sgt. Mike Calhoun, CPD's generator is "antiquated, difficult to maintain and has insufficient power to operate the entire station."

Also, the existing generator uses natural gas, which means it relies on a steady, pressurized supply from a pipeline in the street — a supply that may not be available in the event of a natural disaster, such as a large earthquake.

A more powerful diesel generator could store its own fuel supply and would fully power the police department, including its emergency operations center in the basement, as well as the public works building to the south and the youth center to its east.

"The Carmel Youth Center would be used as a temporary center to provide our citizens, particularly seniors and those with special needs, with physical and emotional support and information during an emergency," Calhoun wrote.

A diesel generator capable of producing 150 kilowatts of power would cost $193,500, including installation and infrastructure, and new computers and radios in the EOC would cost $7,500.

If Homeland Security approves the grant request, which will first be reviewed by the governor's office, Carmel taxpayers will contribute 25 percent — $50,250 — and pay the grant writer's fee of $1,875.

Without discussion, the council approved the grant application, which had been placed on the consent agenda of the Aug. 5 meeting.

Group seeks missing Padres

A COMMITTEE of committed Carmel High School alumni — Clayton Neill, Gene Vandervort, Bruce Hanger, Leslie Geyer Epps, Janet McFail Childs, Diane Lewis Hanger, Bob Burgess and Joan Sanders Vandervort — is planning its Sporty Forties & Nifty Fifties Summer Reunion, and the search is on for dozens of missing classmates. The Sept. 6 reunion, to be held at the Carmel Valley Trail & Saddle Club, will honor graduates from CHS classes of 1941 through 1959. Contact Joan Vandervort at (831) 659-5099 with hints or to see the list of missing men and women.

"It's been something trying to round up all these people, but we have more than 200 so far," Joan Vandervort reported. "We're hoping for 300."

P.G. City Council has three vacancies and five candidates

By KELLY NIX

ALTHOUGH FIVE candidates for Pacific Grove City Council will compete for what is expected to be three vacant seats left by council members not seeking reelection, it appears incumbent Mayor Dan Cort will run uncontested.

As of Thursday, council members Dan Davis, Scott Miller and Susan Nilmeier hadn't filed paperwork with the city to run in the the Nov. 4 election. Their deadline to file is Friday.

"There is going to be a vacuum where they [incumbent council members] were," said Cort, who by Thursday was the only mayoral candidate.

Candidates Ken Cuneo, Carmelita Garcia, former city councilwoman Susan Goldbeck, Bill Kampe and Deborah Lindsay have all filed paperwork to run for council, according to the P.G. city clerk.

"I'm hoping the individuals running will bring some thoughtfulness to the council," Cort said.

And those hoping to make a last-minute decision to run for a city council seat still have a few more days.

That's because, according to election law, if any incumbent hasn't filed by the Aug. 8 deadline, the filing deadline for everyone else will be extended for five days, which in this case is Aug. 13.

Davis told The Pine Cone he doesn't expect to run, and Nilmeier said she wouldn't run. Miller couldn't be reached for comment, but it's widely rumored he also won't seek reelection.

The biggest surprise candidate is attorney Susan Goldbeck, a former councilwoman from 2002 to 2006 who told The Pine Cone after she lost her bid for mayor in 2006 she wouldn't run for office again.

"I want to be part of bringing the last hometown back, financially and spiritually," she told The Pine Cone when she announced her candidacy in June.

Cort said challenges for the new council include keeping the city's budget balanced while maintaining services, managing funds provided by a voter-passed sales tax and contending with the city's costly retirement plan.

Pacific Grove voters in November will decide whether the city should give up the state Public Employees Retirement System in favor of a another plan that doesn't cost the city as much.

Cort said Miller, Nilmeier and Davis' experience will be missed.

"We have worked really well together for the last four years," he said.

While Cort said there is always a learning curve for new council members, he's confident they'll do some homework beforehand.

"I trust that any new council members will do the necessary research and understand how our charter functions, and how our city operates," he said.

nuclear carriers in jet aircraft," recounted Thompson, who is 56. "I've had a lot of great opportunities.

Some opportunities, though, involve a bit too much risk. "The Air Force wanted me to go to Iraq," explained Thompson, who moved to the Monterey Peninsula with his wife, Beverly, in 1999. "But I wasn't too keen on that."

A former racecar driver, Thompson is also a big fan of Formula 1 racers. And, while his creative focus has shifted over the years, he seemed destined to paint cars and planes at an early age.

"From the first time I held a crayon, I was inspired to tear things apart so I could understand how they worked," he recalled.

The gallery, located at Ocean and Dolores, will host a reception Tuesday, Aug. 12, from 4 to 7 p.m. The exhibit continues through Aug. 18. For more information, call (831) 626-3002 or visit www.classicart-gallery.com.

■ New shows at CAA

A new exhibit, "People, Paper and Places," opens Saturday, Aug. 9, at the Carmel Art Association. The show will feature handmade paper creations by Eleen Auvil, mixed media paintings by Robert R. Bradshaw and watercolors of places by Francyne Laney. Also opening at the art center will be new exhibits by Cyndra Bradford (coastal scenes in oil), Jeff Daniel Smith (new works in oil) and Peggy Jelmini (California vineyards and landscapes). The shows will be on display until Sept. 2.

The art association will host a reception Saturday from 6 to 8 p.m. It is located on the west side of Dolores, between Fifth and Sixth, and is open every day from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. For more information, call (831) 624-6176 or visit www.carmelart.org.

GUINNESS ROESSER, 9 1/2, is a Carmel Airedale terrier who has his own car with driver and personalized license plate, OCNAIRE. He goes on trips in his Toyota Land Cruiser with Dad Joe, a semi-retired civil engineer, when he's not on beach patrol.

Guinness considers himself an arbiter of good beach comportment and monitors Carmel Beach, searching out inappropriate behavior. On the rare occasion he finds someone behaving badly, he stares disapprovingly until the offending party shapes up.

The first Friday of every month, dogs and their folks gather on Carmel Beach at the foot of the 13th Avenue steps for a bit of play and conviviality in the late afternoon-early evening until dark. They get together around a bonfire and enjoy snacks and a little wine. When Dad plays guitar and Guinness sings, that's the signal for all dogs to join in. Anyone who walks a dog on Carmel Beach is welcome, according to Dad Joe, who is currently in charge.

Guinness goes to the beach twice daily, at 6 a.m. and again at 6 p.m., but I encountered Guinness, his Dad and family friend Sang having a lunch snack at noon on a promontory overlooking the beach.

Guinness has applied for a lunch card at The Carmel Foundation, but so far he hasn't been granted one, although he fulfills the age and residency requirements. Until the decision is reversed, Guinness will make do with occasional noontime picnics at the beach.

At home, Guinness has his own bedroom, complete with queen-sized bed and lots of fuzzy toys, but sometimes he joins Dad in his bed if English muffins with marmalade are being served that morning.

BEST OF BATES

Editorial

Your cell phone is watching you

THE NEW law against using a hand-held cell phone while driving may be the first legislation since Prohibition that banned something millions of people did every day — 99.9 percent of them without any dangerous consequences whatsoever.

While few accidents have been directly attributed to cell-phone use, it's certainly true that being distracted while driving is a major contributor to highway mishaps. For some reason, the Legislature and the governor decided only one of at least a dozen common behind-the-wheel distractions needed a law against it. There is no specific law, for example, against putting on makeup, opening mail, changing a CD, reprimanding a child, programming a navigator, untangling a dog's leash or unwrapping a hamburger while driving — or, for that matter, sending a text message, checking email, surfing the web or looking up a phone number and punching it into a keypad. Most of a cell phone's functions can still be done legally in your car. But the least distracting one — talking — is forbidden.

Adding to the irony, we think complying with the new cell phone law has introduced a host of new distractions, such as switching to speakerphone mode, plugging in a headset, or concealing your cell phone from a police officer while trying to converse at the same time. For the most part, the new cell-phone law is counterproductive and just plain silly.

But an unexpected benefit has emerged. Two weeks ago, the Pacific Grove Police Department apprehended a dangerous criminal after stopping him for talking on his cell phone. That's something the Legislature probably didn't foresee.

Meanwhile, the high technology built into today's cell phones will have a host of other unanticipated legal consequences, not only when it comes to apprehending criminals, but also in determining fault in accidents and settling civil disputes over the damage they cause.

Consider this: When you talk on your cell phone, a permanent record is made showing what time you called and how long you talked. Let's say you are involved in a serious crash. Pretty soon it will become standard practice in the civil courts to subpoena your cell-phone records to see if you were on the phone at the time of the crash. If you were, and your phone wasn't set up for hands-free use at the time, Bingo! Instant liability.

Similarly, when you send a text message or ask for a webpage from a cell phone, a permanent record of those communications is also made. Were you texting when that other vehicle hit you? If you were, a clever lawyer will figure out a way to make the crash partly your fault.

But those aren't the most significant developments in cell-phone technology that will find their way into the courts. Many of today's cell phones have built-in navigators. To help you figure out where to go, they need to keep track of where you are. But knowing where you are also means the cell phone is keeping track of how fast you are traveling — information that is stored not in your car or in your phone, but on the wireless companies' computers and therefore readily available to be produced as evidence in court.

So while a cop may not be interested in what you were saying to the person you were talking to when he pulled you over, prosecutors, judges and lawyers for somebody suing you may be very interested in what your phone has to say about you.

"This'll do it!"

Letters to the Editor

'Give preference to local farmers'

Dear Editor,

Each Monday I go to the Wild Goose Cafe in the Village to pick up my CSA (Community Supported Agriculture) box from Serendipity Farms. Every week I can hardly wait to see what delicious organic, locally grown fruits and veggies will be inside. I also enjoy farmer Jamie Collins' weekly newsletter giving an update on the crops and the toils of a farmer.

Today I was shocked to read that she has been on the waitlist for local farmers' markets since 2001. She has not even received a call back to tell her where she stands on the lists. She drove all the way to Oakland on Sunday to sell her produce! I am sure that many other residents on the Peninsula assume, like I did, that any local organic farmer who wishes to be included in one of our farmers' markets is welcome. With all of the recent focus on the benefits of organic food and eating locally, I am appalled that she has not been allowed to participate. I feel that the rules governing our local farmers' markets need to be updated. There should be preference given to local farmers and locally made products.

'My favorite fish to eat'

Dear Editor,

I read with interested the article in the Aug. 1 edition regarding the record-setting population of steelhead in the Carmel River. It caught my eye since steelhead trout is just about my favorite fish to eat.

The article stated that, "since May 14, a record 56,000 steelhead have been rescued ..." What do they rescue these fish from, and what do they do with them after that? It seems like a large amount of fish, especially since I can't seem to find any to buy at the grocery store.

Hopes dashed

Dear Editor,

It is faith and hope, my dear Mr. Kevan Urquhart, that bring about miraculous change. It would appear after 15 years of having my hope dashed by the Monterey Peninsula Water Management District, that hope is on the horizon.

MPWMD now finds itself in my predicament, i.e., finding a home for the fish. Mine is building a home on my legal lot of record.

Hopefully, with renewed faith, all God's creatures' habitat can and will be protected/procured.

old daughter who hosted an underage drinking party four years ago at our house. We found the story about the out-of-control party in the July 18 edition of The Pine Cone very disturbing. Not only that so many teenagers attended, but that the hosts themselves were shot by someone they don't know and didn't invite into their home.

We understand being embarrassed by children's behavior and poor judgment but cannot understand the behavior of the family. They had no right to threaten the reporters who covered the story, send hateful emails or steal newspapers. What's even more frightening is the picture of the Pine Cones in garbage bags accompanied by a taunting note. It reminds us of a kidnapper looking for ransom.

We were dismayed that the police were summoned to our home four years ago to break up the party but extremely grateful that nothing terrible happened to our daughter or her guests.

Maybe the family's energy would be better spent focused inwardly for healing their injured sons rather than outwardly attacking The Pine Cone for doing its job.

Antiques, eats and handbags

SUMMER BRINGS with it an influx of visitors to the streets of downtown Carmel-by-the-Sea, most of whom are seeking to soak in a variety of places to eat, shop, relax and enjoy. You can bet that lots of them will be asking for directions or recommendations from the locals, so to keep area residents in the know, here are some business changes and developments in recent weeks:

Although it has been open since late April, Grannis Antiques, which bills itself as "the newest antique store in town," held its chamber-sponsored ribbon cutting Aug. 7. Grannis is located in Su Vecino Court on Dolores between Fifth and Sixth avenues.

For those who crave Mediterranean cuisine, Dametra, a new restaurant on the south side of Ocean between Lincoln and Dolores, is serving lunch and dinner. This is the former restaurant site of Julihan of Carmel. Owners Bashar Alneeh from Syria and Faisal Nimri from Jordan have a comprehensive menu of dishes from their home countries, as well as from Greece, Lebanon and Italy, among other nations.

If you would like to try and some place old — yet new — for a sumptuous Sunday brunch, one of Carmel's favorite restaurants, Grasing's, expanded its menu in mid-July to include Sunday brunch. Reservations at the restaurant at the corner of Sixth Avenue and Mission are recommended. Sunday brunch is served from 8 a.m. to 3 p.m.

The Court of the Fountains, on the west side of Mission between Ocean and Seventh, is the new home of Jean Newhart Antiques.

Zebaah-Gizelle, a purveyor of fine handmade women's boots, shoes and handbags, is now open in the courtyard at San Carlos Square, on the east side of San Carlos between Fifth and Sixth avenues, next to Simic Galleries and Club Jalapeño.

To go with the new shoes and handbag, stop by Pamplemousse, a chic boutique that opened in June on Mission Street, northwest of Sixth Avenue, in the spot vacated by Redeem. It's not easy to miss this store: playing off its name ("pamplemousse" is French for "grapefruit"), the front door and sign, appropriately, are painted pink. Owner Lauren Merrill offers unique and trendy clothing for day wear, night wear and casual wear from well known and up-and-coming designers.

Finally, the popular Hanson Gallery has moved into its new location on the courtyard level of the Carmel Plaza, next to the Cheese Shop. The Hanson Gallery, which has been in Carmel for more than 30 years, features an international collection of established and emerging artists appealing to a wide range of artistic interests.

This column will run the first Friday of every month. We welcome your comments, suggestions or tips about new businesses in Carmel-by-the-Sea. Please contact Molly Laughlin at city hall — (831) 620-2019 or mlaughlin@ci.carmel.ca.us.

Carmel-by-the-Sea: Lincoln Street resident requested a welfare check on her neighbor's house sitter, who was taking care of her neighbor's dog and house. Resident reported the upstairs unit had the heater on for two days and she believed it was a fire hazard. CPD and Carmel Fire Department responded and found the front door to the upstairs unit unlocked but no one inside. The heater was on, and CFD found some safety hazards. Police supervised activities by firefighters, which included turning off the furnace to the unoccupied unit and moving combustibles away from the furnace and water heater. The property owner was notified of the issues and said he would address this, plus other issues, with the tenants. The front door was secured and a business card was left.

Carmel-by-the-Sea: Person reported seeing a friend's vehicle parked near her residence upon returning home. She has been having relational difficulties and requested that officers respond to check the property on San Carlos Street. No one was on scene, and the vehicle was gone on arrival. There was no indication of any entry. Person was counseled regarding her situation. Attempted to contact the party in question, with negative contact.

Carmel-by-the-Sea: Past-tense non-injury accident on Lincoln Street.

Carmel-by-the-Sea: Fire engine and ambulance responded to Carmel Mission for a male in his 70s who experienced a possible syncopal episode due to a possible drop in blood pressure. Firefighters assisted ambulance personnel with patient assessment, oxygen administration, packaging and gathering information. The patient was transported to CHOMP by ambulance.

Pebble Beach: Carmel ambulance was dispatched to a Riata Road residence for an unconscious, unresponsive male. After all ALS procedures given, patient was pronounced dead and Monterey County Sheriff's Office on scene called coroner.

Carmel area: Elderly female contacted at the Crossroads shopping center by two male adults in their 30s who offered to do auto body work on her car. $450 cash paid, and work began, consisting of some spray paint, which was done at her house. The suspects failed to return to finish work the next day; common auto-body fraud scheme. There are leads. Case continues.

CONCOORS WEEK

Car aficionados' fantasy lineup offers everything for everyone

By MARY BROWNFIELD

EVERY YEAR, it gets bigger and better. In fact, Concoors Week on the Monterey Peninsula presents so many options, it's impossible to do them all. But, as one local car guy observed, it presents the perfect opportunity for a la carte ordering of whatever shows, rallies, races and parties tantalize you most. Events catering to auto enthusiasts run the gamut, from themed car parades and multi-million-dollar auctions of all sorts of vehicles and accouterments, to races representing decades of ingenuity and judged displays of the world's finest driving machines. Festivities begin Aug. 11 with the Carmel-by-the-Sea Concoors on the Avenue and conclude Aug. 17 with the famed Pebble Beach Concoors d'Elegance and accompanying Gooding & Co. auction, with the intervening days featuring an indulgent celebration of Italian genius; a Ferrari-themed fundraiser centered around food, wine, fashion and jazz; eclectic sales of old cars, new cars, rare cars, motorcycles, memorabilia and jewelry; rallies and tours all over the Peninsula, and a decadent day of wining, dining and notable racing and collector cars. Here, The Pine Cone summarizes them all so you can assemble the best possible feast for all the senses.

effectively filled a new niche by showcasing cars not celebrated elsewhere during the week, and doing it on a particularly slow day of the week.

The event — which is free to the public — came off without a hitch, drawing auto oglers who meandered among beautifully presented specimens parked along park-like Ocean Avenue and side streets. Spectators chatted with their owners and appreciated placards at each entry explained interesting bits of history.

Organizers Doug and Genie Freedman were so thrilled with the show — and its accompanying Concours in the Windows that got downtown businesses in on the festivities — they decided to expand it to two days in 2008. This year's Concours on the Avenue will showcase about 64 Porsches built between 1948 and 1973, and an equal number of Ferraris, constructed from 194178 to 1973, on Monday, and post-World War II American and foreign cars, 1946 through 1971, as well as microcars and motorcycles, on Tuesday.

Each day will also include a Heritage Avenue Exhibit of non-judged entries, particularly focused on modified touring and racing cars, and contemporary designs.

Spectators are invited to closely inspect entries in a multitude of classes. Monday will focus on various models of the renowned German and Italian marques, while Tuesday will feature numerous categories: American Family Favorites, Hot Rod, Historic Race Car, Shelby, Micro Car, Motorcycle, British Sport, German Sport, French Sport, British and European Luxury, British and European Family Favorites, GM Muscle, Mopar Muscle, Ford Muscle, AMC Muscle, American Luxury, American Sport and the feature class, "50 years ago in 1958 — Chrome."

During the day, judges will select

■ Blackhawk Collection Exposition and Sale Peter Hay Golf Course, Pebble Beach

Aug. 13-17

Danville's Blackhawk Collection, which specializes in acquiring and selling American and European classics, coach-built specimens and one-of-a-kind automobiles, has spent the past two decades seeking out “automobiles of singular beauty and historic distinction,” and will bring more than 85 of them — from a 1914 Mercedes touring car, to a 1996 Lamborghini Zagato Raptor — to show and sell during the week of the Concours d'Elegance.

The exposition sale debuted at Pebble Beach in 1990, and according to Concours organizers, “has a devoted following. Many enthusiasts who regularly attend the Concours and related events head first to the Blackhawk venue hoping to secure the automobile of their dreams.” Spectators wander through the collection in the Blackhawk tent and out on the golf course across the street from the Lodge at Pebble Beach. blackhawkcollection.com.

■ The 10th Annual Pebble Beach Tour d'Elegance

Down the coast and around the Monterey Peninsula, including Carmel-by-the-Sea
Aug. 14, 7 a.m. to 3 p.m.

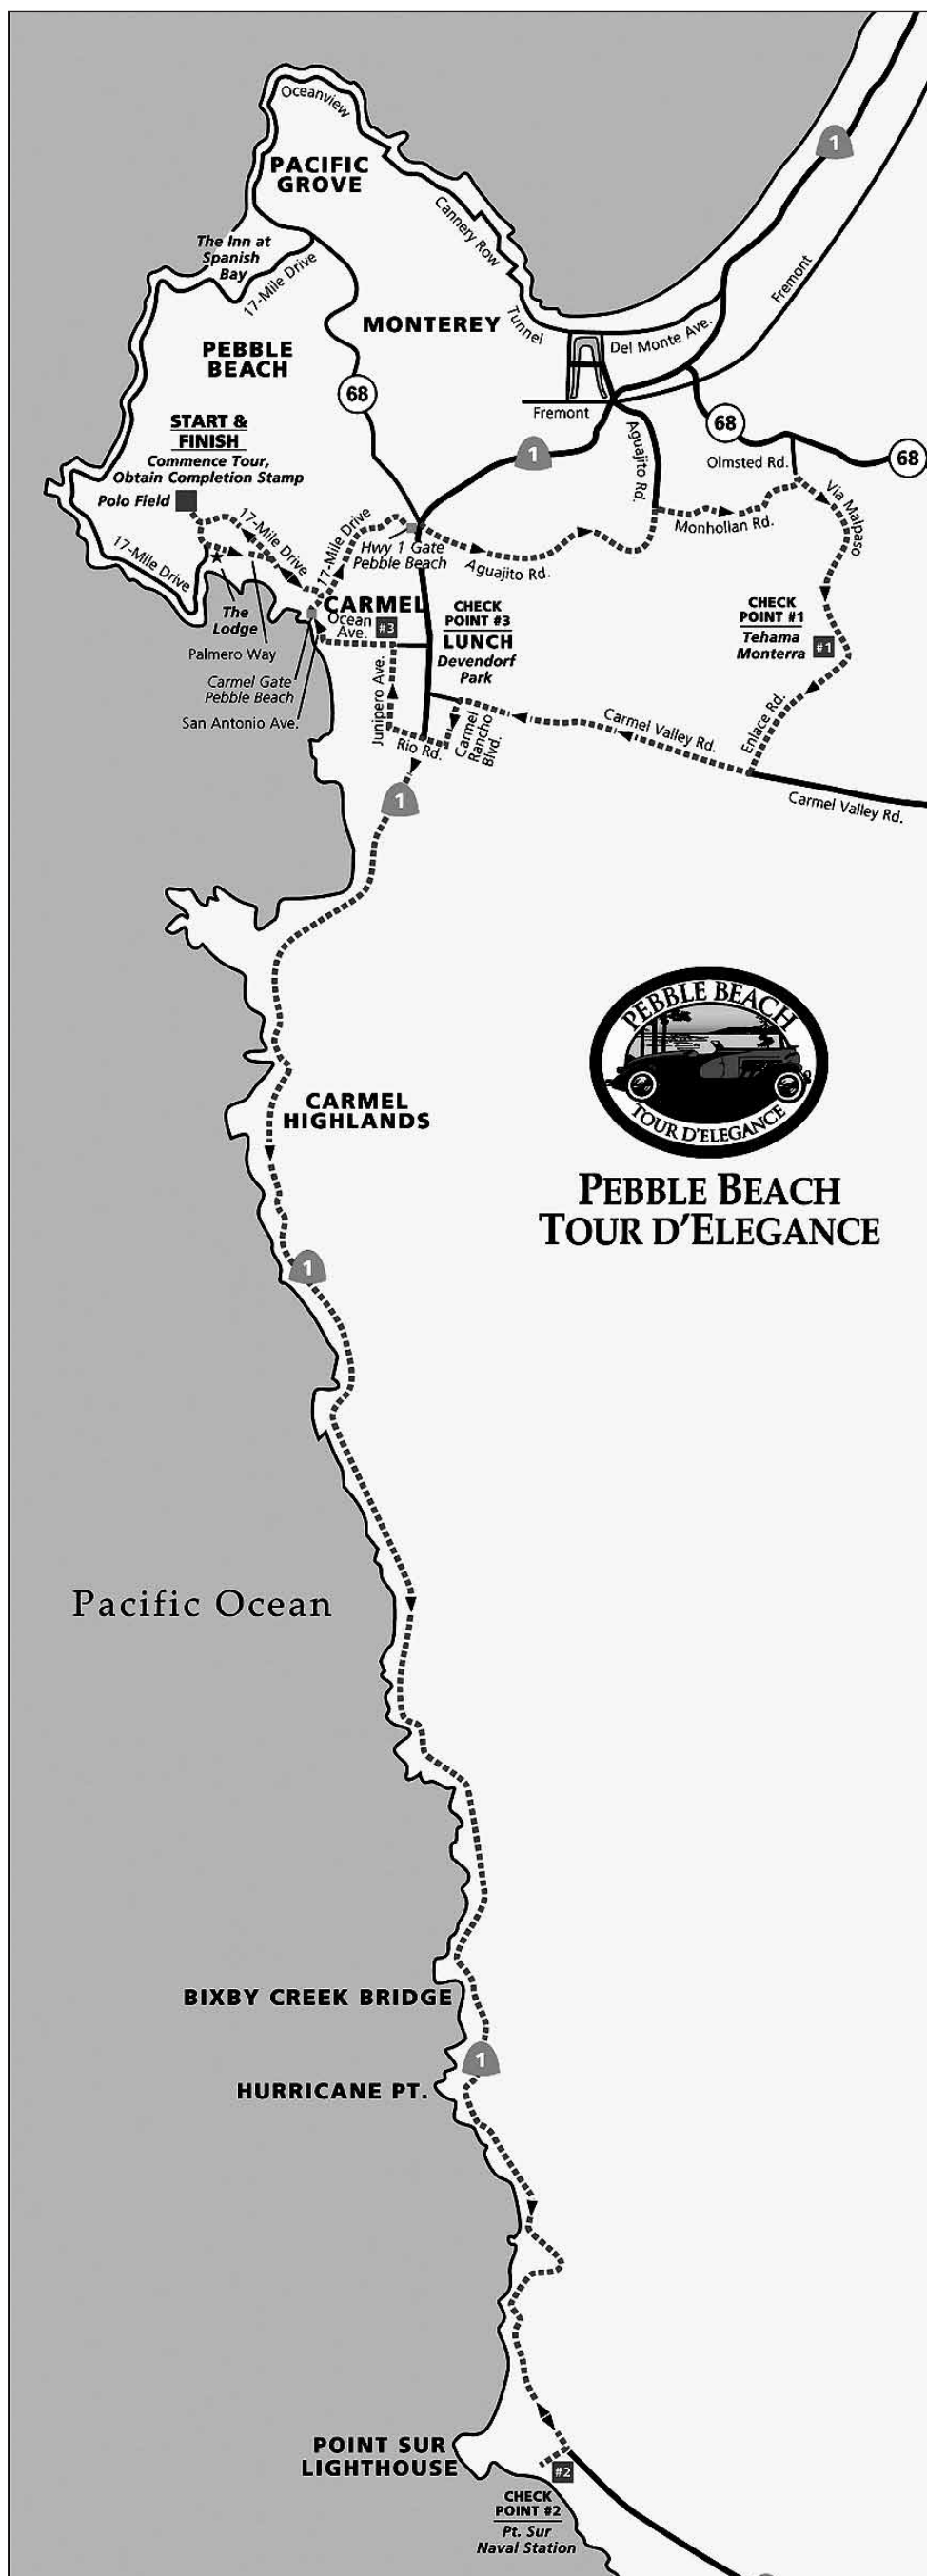

The most exciting (and the cheapest) way to observe more than half of the historic cars invited to enter the highly regarded Pebble Beach Concours d'Elegance — including rare beauties dating to the early 20th century — is to see them in motion on scenic Monterey Peninsula roads during the annual Tour d'Elegance. Many of the world's rarest automobiles will take the 60-mile drive from Pebble Beach, along Aguajito and Monhollan roads through Jacks Peak, on Carmel Valley Road, and down Highway 1, with decadent stops along the way.

Car buffs gather at strategic gazing points along the route, and according to tour organizers, the event was "initiated to showcase the elegance of the automobile in motion." Waxing sentimental, they also say, "The Tour underscores the early history of the place that is Pebble Beach. Decades before golf links were laid out along the edge of the Pacific Ocean, this area was known for its scenic drive, winding for miles through pine and cypress forest, dancing alongside dramatic cliffs and leading, ultimately, to a beautiful crescent-shaped bay."

Toward the end of their drive, participants — many dressed in period clothing to match their autos — leave their precious treasures on Ocean Avenue in downtown Carmel-by-the-Sea to have a sumptuous lunch in Devendorf Park. The cars remain motionless for a couple of

■ Concorso Italiano

Marina airport

Aug. 15, 9:30 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Celebrating its 23rd anniversary in a new venue that will allow it to maximize its goal of satisfying every Italy-inspired craving, be it for cars, motorcycles, food — and even fashion, Concorso Italiano will celebrate all Italian marques, with a special emphasis on 45 years of Automobili Lamborghini, the creations of Marcello Gandini and the 40th anniversary of the Ferrari 365 GTB/4 Daytona. According to organizers, the festival's relocation to the airport, which is located 10 miles north of Monterey, "will give us tremendous opportunity to expand and to introduce new and exciting features." While the fashion show, onstage commentary with car owners and celebrities, music and the festive atmosphere that have come to characterize Concorso Italiano — along with the abundance of beautiful cars — will not change, its new home means the festival can add vintage aircraft to the mix. In addition, it will offer, for the first time ever, professionally catered food and beverages, and tales of traffic and parking woes will surely be a thing of the past. General admission, $100, with children 12 years old and under admitted free. Gold Class tickets — which include lunch and VIP parking — are $150 per person; $50 per child age 4-12. Proceeds benefit charity. Visit www.concorso.com, email ci@concorso.com or call (425) 742-0632.

The RetroAuto pavilion is also the site of select parties and special events throughout Concours Week.

■ The 35th Annual Rolex Monterey Historic Automobile Races Presented by Toyota

Mazda Raceway Laguna Seca

Aug. 15-17

The Historics prove vintage vehicles, no matter how old and rare, are meant to be driven with gusto, and founder Steve Earle — who started this quintessential gentlemen's racing event more than three decades ago with five dozen cars and a handful of spectators — is pulling out all the stops to celebrate its 35th anniversary.

Legendary racecar driver Mario Andretti will be the official guest of honor, and Alfa Romeo, the event's first featured marque, will return in that position atop the pedestal this year. "With great cars like the Alfa Romeo 8C-2900B Mille Miglia, the star of our second event back in 1975, returning; with the 1908 Grand Prix Mercedes racing in its 100th year; with Historic Trans-Am cars, barely retired when the event began, and racing as close as ever; with the presentation of past Monterey Cup winners; the Toyota Race of Legends [in which former Formula 1 racers compete for a $25,000 purse to be given to charity]; the Ferrari Historic Challenge; autograph sessions, and enhanced Consumer Expo, I believe that fans will find this an event they will long remember," Earle says.

The Historics will run in more than a dozen classes, with half the groups competing Saturday and the other half Sunday. (Both practice on Friday.) Classes this year include, on Saturday: Pre-1940 Sports and Touring Cars, 1925-1950 Racing Cars and Indy Roadsters, 1958-1959 F-Jr. Celebration Race, 1955-1960 Sports Racing Cars over 2500cc, 1959-1960 F-Jr. Celebration Race, 1966-1972 Historic Trans-Am Cars, 1966-1974 Historic Can-Am Cars, and 1964-1975 FIA Sports Racing Cars, and on Sunday: 1947-1955 Sport Racing and Production, 1956-1961 Sport Racing Cars under 2500cc, 1955-1962 Production Sports Cars, 1963-1966 Production Sports Cars, 1961-1963 F-Jr. Celebration Race, 1967-1978 Historic F-1 Cars and 1972-1983 Historic IMSA GT Cars.

With well matched vehicles piloted by enthusiastic drivers, the competition is always stiff but usually respectful, considering how valuable and special their automobiles are. Spectators are invited to wander through the paddock and check out the many displays, while vendors will happily support your retail therapy needs.

For detailed event information, visit www.montereyhistoric.com.

Tickets for the Historics are available for one, two or three days at (800) 327-SECA (7322) or www.laguna-seca.com. Children 12 and under admitted free.

■ Pacific Grove Concours Auto Rally Lighthouse Avenue and through the Monterey Peninsula

Aug. 15 — 1 p.m. staging
6 p.m. tour

All who own and drive their own vintage vehicles and sports cars — especially BMWs, since they are being featured this year — are invited to participate in the colorful 14th annual P.G. Concours Auto Rally, sponsored by the Pebble Beach Co. and the Skip Barber racing school (which will raffle a rally ride in a race car and admission to its driving school at Mazda Raceway Laguna Seca). Thousands of spectators will line the tour route from Lighthouse Avenue through Pebble Beach, Carmel and Monterey as hundreds of beautiful cars cruise past.

Staging and registration on Lighthouse Avenue begin at 1 p.m. and continue until 5:30, when the cars and drivers prepare for their 6 p.m. departure. An awards barbecue will follow in Pacific Grove's historic Chautauqua Hall at 7 p.m. Registration runs $90 to drive only; $105 including driver's dinner. A limited number of additional dinner tickets are available for $20 per person; $15 for children 12 and under. Proceeds benefit Pacific Grove Youth Action, Inc., and the rally has raised more than $90,000 since its inception. Call (831) 372-6585 or visit www.pgautorally.org.

■ Russo & Steele's Monterey Sports and Muscle at the Marriott, Monterey

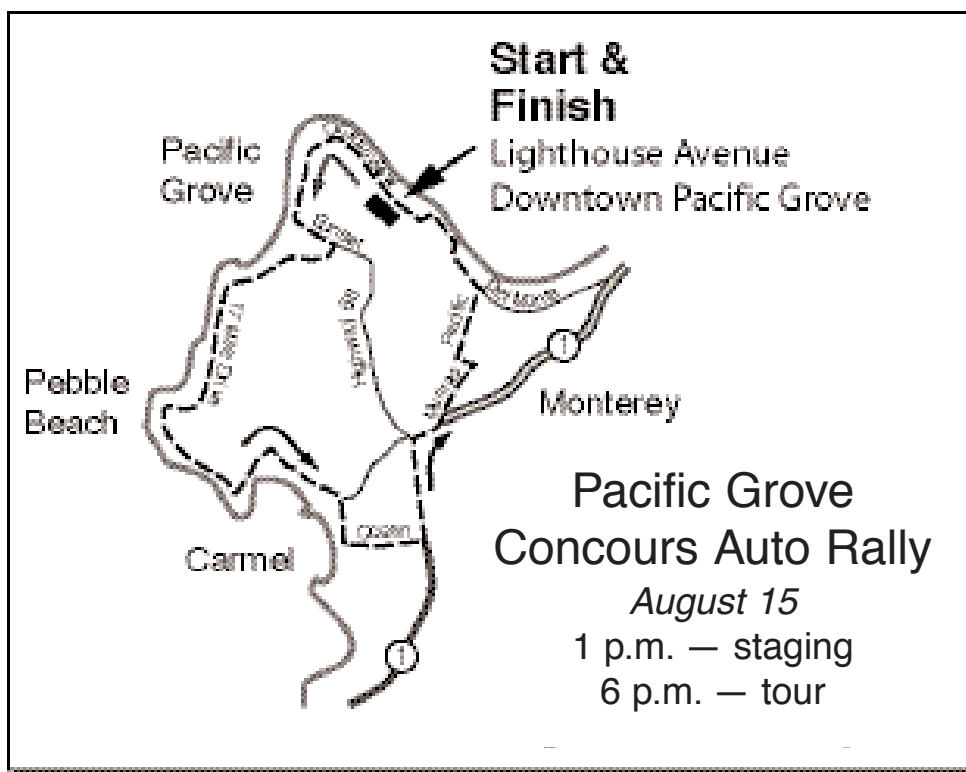

Aug. 15-16 — 5 to 10 p.m.
(Previews begin at 10 a.m. each day, and a charity preview event will be held the evening of Aug.
14.)

Entering its eighth year of Peninsula automobile auctions, Russo & Steele expanded its uniquely casual and lively sale to two nights a few years ago and took in more than $1 million per hour in sales during the course of the two evenings.

The organizers, Drew and Josephine Alcazar of Scottsdale, Ariz., say, "We are 100 percent committed to offering the finest in European sports cars, American muscle cars, hot rods and customs in an intimate environment. Camaraderie amongst enthusiasts is why we do this, and it is our goal to produce this event with professionalism, discretion and most of all, for the love of the hobby that we are all a part of."

Among the 150 lots on offer this year will be an iconic 1975 Lamborghini Countach LP400 'Periscopio' — sporting a design that "can be credited with having popularized, if not pioneered, the wedge-shaped, sharply angled look popular in many high performance supercars to this day," and the stunning 1957 Mercedes Benz 300SL Roadster, "one of the most desirable automobiles ever built."

Plenty of British, European and American offerings will cross the block during the two auctions, which will begin promptly at 5 p.m. Friday and Saturday. A special preview gala and silent auction set for 6 p.m. Thursday, Aug. 14, will include live music, cocktails, "and the greatest cars in the world," while raising money for charity.

According to Vintage Motorsport magazine, "Russo and Steele put on an incredible spectacle with bright lights, a huge sound system and melodramatic ringmen, in what has been dubbed 'the WWF of auctions.'" Visit www.russoandsteele.com or call (602) 252-2697.

■ Sports & Classics of Monterey, Portola Plaza Hotel, Monterey

Aug. 15-16 — 5 p.m. to 1 a.m.
(Preview Thursday through Saturday, 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.)

The 23rd Annual Sports &

Classics of Monterey, presented by RM Auctions, will offer more than 180 vehicles on "an unparalleled roster of significant, historic and exotic cars of exceptional quality," during the world's largest sports and racing car auction.

The 1972 Lamborghini Miura P400,0 boasting 385 horsepower, "massive speed and jaw-dropping design coupled with technological innovation," epitomizes the supercar that took the elite market by storm in the late 1960s, while the 1958 Chrysler Diablo Convertible Coupe is a guaranteed show-stopper, considering it's a unique concept car seeing its first time at auction.

■ Khaki’s 10th Annual Ferrari Event

The Barnyard Shopping Village parking lot, Carmel Rancho Boulevard, Carmel, Aug. 16 — 4:30 to 7 p.m.

Featuring “great cars, great friends, great food and wine,” the event — hosted by J. Lawrence Khaki’s Men’s Clothier owners Jim and Connie Ockert, and their team — is the only Concours Week event that directs 100 percent of its money to nonprofits, according to its founders. The party benefits the Juvenile Diabetes Research Foundation and the Carmel Youth Center. All Italian exotic cars are welcome, and live music, along with wine tasting offered by 18 Monterey County vintners and food prepared by eight Barnyard restaurants offering Italian, Japanese, Chinese, Swiss, Caribbean and American cuisine, accentuate the festive atmosphere. “We’re thrilled to have a nonprofit event that is so meaningful to so many people,” the hosts say. “Khaki’s has made the distinction of paying all the expenses and making sure that all proceeds go to both The Carmel Youth Center and Juvenile Diabetes.” Tickets are $40 for the event, which “has become a don’t-miss, one-of-a-kind, over-the-top affair for Italian-car owners.” For more information, call (831) 625-8106 or email khakis@pacbell.net.

Established by David Gooding in 2003, Gooding & Company — which has set records for individual sales during its short history — will conduct the collectible automobile auction that has marked the conclusion Concours Week since 1990. Among its world-record-setting auction items were the 1967 Ferrari 275 GTS/4 alloy NART Spyder for $3.96 million and a 1935 Duesenberg SJ Speedster — the Mormon Meteor — for $4.45 million. Where else might you find a 1903 Toledo 12-Horsepower Rear-Entrance Touring Car, or the gorgeous 1930 and 1931 Alfa Romeo 6C 1750 Gran Sport Spiders? Potential buyers and all admirers are invited to peruse those masterpieces and other automotive gems on the grounds of the Gooding & Co. tent at the Pebble Beach Equestrian Center. Admission is $40; $100 for a catalog admits two. For more information, call (310) 899-1960 or visit www.goodingco.com.

■ Pebble Beach Concours d’Elegance 18th Fairway of the Pebble Beach Golf Links

Aug. 17 — 10:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m.

“Only the most beautiful and rare cars are invited to appear on the famed 18th Fairway of the Pebble Beach Golf Links, and connoisseurs of art and style flock to see these masterpieces,” according to organizers of the Pebble Beach Concours d’Elegance. It wasn’t always that way, but the Concours has grown from a casual show by car buffs for car buffs first staged in 1950, to what is arguably the world’s best Concours in the most gorgeous setting.

Stunning oceanside scenery, Champagne and cigars, parties, fine food, celebrities, occasional period costumes and an unparalleled, exclusive, invitation-only display and competition of rare, sometimes one-of-a-kind automobiles combine to make it the top event of its kind. Judges examine specimens polished to perfection and lovingly restored or meticulously maintained in a contest of historical accuracy, technical merit and style.

The 2008 Pebble Beach Concours d’Elegance will feature Lancia and Lamborghini, and celebrate the centennial of General Motors, the world’s largest automobile manufacturer. Founded in 1906, Lancia was the first company to produce V-4 and V-6 engines, while Lamborghini, founded in 1963, has been acclaimed as the producer of “some of the fastest, most expensive Italian super (sports) cars in the world.” The planned salute to GM will include cars from the Motorama road show that took prototypes and concepts across the United States for public viewing between 1949 and 1961.

Another special class will include early London to Brighton Veteran Car Run participants. Attendees might also search the field for San Francisco police officer Marvin Zukor's 1934 Packard V12 Convertible Victoria, which he drove down the California coast to participate in the third Pebble Beach Concours d'Elegance in 1953 and is bringing again this year.

The eagle eyed might spot a celebrity or two, as Jerry Seinfeld, Nicholas Cage and Ben Stein have visited in recent years, and Jay Leno is a regular.

The Concours, which has distributed more than $10 million to local charities since its inception in 1950, will this year benefit the United Way of Monterey County, the Pebble Beach Company Foundation and Boys & Girls Clubs of Monterey County. Special auto raffles will raise funds for the Kinship Center, Natividad Medical Foundation, Animal Friends Rescue Project, Court Appointed Special Advocates, Community Hospital Foundation, Meals on Wheels and the California Highway Patrol's 11-99 Foundation.

The $150 advanced ticket ($175 the day of the event) includes a program, parking and a shuttle ride to the show. For a truly indulgent experience, consider the 12th Annual Club d'Elegance, a $500 package that includes special parking, full breakfast, buffet lunch, wine, cash bar, signed Concours poster, event program, VIP shuttles, a special commemorative dash plaque, “executive restrooms,” coat and package check, and an elegant tent at the Equestrian Center to serve as home base.

For more information on the Club, call the Concours office at (831) 622-1700. Call the United Way at (877) 693-0009 or visit www.concours-store.com/concours for tickets. For information, visit www.pebblebeachconcours.net.

■ Automotive Fine Arts Society exhibit 18th Fairway of the Pebble Beach Golf Links

During the Pebble Beach Concours d'Elegance

Held alongside the Pebble Beach Concours d'Elegance each year, the Automotive Fine Arts Society show features inspired pieces by world-famous artists in many different mediums that are sought by collectors and car buffs alike. According to Concours organizers, “The automobile changed the whole of our culture almost immediately upon its introduction; it was more than transportation, it served as a status symbol, it was a matter of style. But it took some time for the art world to view the automobile as an appropriate subject of fine art.” Established a quarter century ago with six artists dedicated to elevate the understanding and acknowledgment of automotive art, the AFAS seeks to exhibit members' works, promote and publicize them, raise the standards of automotive art to a level of acceptance as serious fine art from the point of view of collectors and critics, and provide “a practical means to form enduring friendships, exchange ideas and build fellowship among automotive fine artists and enthusiasts.” The 23rd annual display will include pieces by some of the society's 30-plus sculptors and painters, in watercolor, acrylic, oil, wood and various metals. Lincoln, which has sponsored the Pebble Beach AFAS exhibit since 1996, will do so again in 2008 and plans to display a new 2009 Lincoln MKS, as well as a classic 1940 Lincoln Continental, at the AFAS tent. Admission to the show is free to Concours ticket holders.

CONCOURS WEEK

Money raised by Concours d'Elegance vital to Monterey County charities

By KELLY NIX

WHILE THE thousands of enthusiasts who attend the Pebble Beach Concours d'Elegance will be sure to see some of the world's most prized collector automobiles, many may not realize the entrance fees and sponsorships they pay and the tickets they purchase generate very significant funds for local charities.

The Concours d'Elegance this year will support the United Way of Monterey County, the Pebble Beach Company Foundation, the Boys & Girls Clubs of Monterey County, CASA of Monterey County, the Animal Friends Rescue Project, the Community Hospital Foundation, and other worthy causes.

"The Concours raises around $1 million a year for these charities," said Kay Sorenson, operations manager for the event.

To date, the Concours d'Elegance, which began in 1950, has raised more than $10 million for local, national and international charitable organizations.

Some of the charities get proceeds from raffle tickets they sell for a car that is awarded during the event. The Boys and Girls Club, for example, is auctioning a $41,000 Infiniti 2009 G Sedan Sport (donated by Infiniti) to help pay for its programs for disadvantaged young people.

■ Pebble Beach foundation

One of three main charities that benefits is the Pebble Beach Community Foundation, which has been a partner of the Concours since 1985. It provides grants to local schools and cultural, environmental and athletic organizations.

The foundation also funds scholarships for the secondary education of children of Pebble Beach Company employees. The foundation has given more than $2.5 million to support community needs.

■ CASA of Monterey County

Another charity supported by the Concours d'Elegance is CASA Monterey County, which strives "to ensure that abused and neglected children are provided with every available opportunity to begin a journey into healthy, productive lives."

CASA, which stands for court-appointed special advocates, does that by introducing caring, responsible adults trained as advocates into those children's lives. Their involvement helps break the cycle of abuse and neglect, according to CASA.

"We are there to advocate for the children in the dependency system or foster care system," said CASA executive director Siobhan Greene. "What that means is we are there to make sure those children's needs are being paid attention to and their needs are met."

The Concours not only provides revenue for CASA, but also the chance to spread the word about the organization while its volunteers sell tickets for its automobile raffle.

"One of the things that I think is so incredibly great for our organization is the opportunity to spread our message to so many people," Greene said. "It offers us a thousand chances when we can talk about how CASA benefits these children and the community."

The revenue generated from the car event goes into CASA's general fund, which means it can be used to pay staff salaries and other expenses.

"It really goes to our direct operating expenses of our program and to work with the children in the system," she said.

CASA relies on volunteers. Those interested in getting involved undergo an initial 30-hour training curriculum and ongoing education programs.

"CASA is kind of like a cast on a broken arm," Greene said. "During the healing process, you need somebody to hold the pieces together."

For more information about CASA of Monterey County, call (831) 455-6800.

■ Boys & Girls Clubs of Monterey County

This year the Boys & Girls Clubs of Monterey County is celebrating its 40th year of helping local children.

The clubs, in Seaside and Salinas, offer a variety of services, such as homework assistance, tutoring, recreation, sports and fitness, art instruction and character and leadership development.

"At our two sites, we serve more than 700 children a day," said CEO Donna Ferraro. "Without the community's support, it would be difficult to do the work we do."

The Boys & Girls Clubs offer their programs for just $10 per year — and without any government funding. The organization relies on donations to keep it going.

"That's why we really need the support of our community," she said. "And the Concours' dollars are very helpful to us."

With the $100 tickets the organizations sells for its Concours car raffle, along with additional money the Concours provides, it makes $40,000 to $75,000, Ferraro said.

Besides the invaluable services it offers, the Boys & Girls clubs also feed its members.

"Most of our kids are on a subsidized food program," Ferraro said. "And we feed them one meal a day after school and, during the vacation period, we give them breakfast, lunch and a snack."

As part of the Boys & Girls Clubs 40th anniversary celebration, it's launching a fundraising "40 for 40 Campaign."

"Whether you give $40, 40 quarters or 40 pennies, it all counts, just like we know each and every child counts," according to the Boys & Girls Clubs.

■ United Way

The mission of United Way Monterey County is simple: "To engage the community and focus resources to improve lives in Monterey County."

It does that by collecting donations and distributing the money to a variety of health and human service organizations that help the community.

"One in four people in Monterey County benefit from the services from United Way of Monterey County," said Fatima Dias, director of marketing and communications.

Donations to United Way Monterey County go toward hunger and homelessness, children and youth, people with disabilities, prevention and treatment for child abuse, elderly needs and other services.

Like those with other charities, United Way workers and volunteers appreciate the opportunity the Concours provides to spread the word about their organization, Dias said.

"One of the benefits is we get to talk to all the people who come to the Concours about United Way," Dias said. "It's a lot of work, but it's fun, too."

This year, the United Way has 38 partner agencies including Alliance on Aging, Boy Scouts Monterey Bay Area Council, Catholic Charities, Legal Services for Seniors and Meals on Wheels of the Monterey Peninsula.
