In Big Sur, the mudslides have already begun

Last week's rains were lightweight by Big Sur standards and fun for the kids, but with many hillsides stripped bare of erosion-controlling vegetation by recent wildfires, the storm also wreaked considerable havoc. Rivers and streams swelled with mud and debris — invading the front yard and porch of a home in the Big Sur Valley (above right) and forcing election officials to move voting booths Tuesday from the Grange Hall to the Big Sur Lodge. Meanwhile, plugged culverts and falling rocks led to temporary closures and delays along Highway 1. More rain is expected Saturday.

Decision near on C.V. incorporation

By CHRIS COUNTS

SUPPORTERS AND opponents of Carmel Valley's proposed incorporation will have what may be their last opportunity to sound off on the issue at a public hearing when the Monterey County Local Agency Formation Commission meets Tuesday, Nov. 25, in Salinas.

"At the conclusion of the hearing, the commission will take action to approve or disapprove the incorporation proposal," explained Kate McKenna, executive officer of LAFCO. "If approved, we'll request that the board of supervisors schedule an election."

While the next scheduled opportunity for the issue to go on the ballot is November 2009, McKenna confirmed that incorporation supporters are negotiating with the county to schedule a special election in June 2009.

According to 5th District Supervisor Dave Potter's aide, Kathleen Lee, the new town would pay for the special election — which would cost an estimated $150,000 — if voters

MARIJUANA FOUND IN DRIVER IN TRIPLE FATAL

By MARY BROWNFIELD

THE STANFORD business student whose car went off Hurricane Point, killing himself and his two passengers Oct. 10, had used marijuana, according to toxicology results released by California Highway Patrol public information officer Jim Covello Wednesday.

But the presence of cannabis in the driver does not necessarily mean he was high at the time of the wreck, since the drug is traceable in the body for up to a month after its use.

"Toxicology came back negative for alcohol but positive for marijuana," he said of the driver,

Bates airlifted to special hospital in L.A.

By KELLY NIX

AFTER FOUR months of battling a chest infection that kept him bedridden in an intensive care unit, Carmel artist Bill Bates was transferred this week to a Los Angeles hospital for specialized treatment.

Since experiencing a heart attack in July, Bates had been at Community Hospital of the Monterey Peninsula trying to recover from a staph infection that made it difficult to breathe.

Having shown little improvement over the past few months, doctors decided Bates, 78, would be better off at Barlow Respiratory Hospital in Los Angeles, a facility that focuses on helping patients breathe easier.

"We are keeping our fingers crossed this is going to work," said Bates' friend, David Loye. "If there is any possibility of making it, this is the time."

According to its website, Barlow "treats patients with critical care needs that require longer hospital stays and specialized, expert care." The site advertises it is "internationally recognized for its success rate weaning patients from ventilators," which Bates was hooked up to most of the time he was at CHOMP.

On Monday morning, Bates was flown via air ambulance to Los Angeles accompanied by a doctor, according to Dennis Renault, Bates' friend and a retired Sacramento Bee political cartoonist who lives in Monterey.

Bates' wife, Lei Lei, drove to Los Angeles and will stay there with a friend's parents, Renault said.

Before Bates left CHOMP, Loye visited him and said goodbye to his old friend. Loye said he will likely not visit Bates in Los Angeles since it's difficult for him to travel.

Life sentence, no parole for Kenney

■ 'Welcome to Hell,' says victims' friend

By CASEY MILLER

AS HE was required to in a case of murder with special circumstances, Monterey County Superior Court Judge Steven Sillman sentenced John Kenney to life in prison without the possibility of parole on Monday.

Kenney was convicted Sept. 17 of gunning down his neighbors, Mel and Elizabeth Grimes, after a long-running dispute over a shared driveway.

Before the sentence was pronounced, friends, family and colleagues of the victims stood before the court to share their feelings on the case, many of them barely

Council overturns bank demolition approval

By MARY BROWNFIELD

PLANNING COMMISSIONERS erred in believing state laws encouraging affordable housing required them to approve John Mandurrago's proposal to tear down a former bank building and replace it with five condos, two low-rent apartments, a dual-level underground parking garage and ground-floor retail space, the Carmel City Council decided Tuesday.

As a result, the project — which has been mired in the planning process for more than seven years — will probably return to the commission for review, planner Brian Roseth told The Pine Cone after the meeting.

Since September 2001, the proposal has undergone an environmental impact report, a revised EIR and three appeals to the city council, in addition to multiple hearings before the historic resources board and the planning commission.

Mountain lion sighting near school sparks alert, warnings

By MARY BROWNFIELD

A TAXI driver saw a young mountain lion lurking at the Carmel Mission late Sunday night and called police, who checked the area, flushed the animal off the grounds and over a wall into the nearby neighborhood, and then lost sight of it.

"We made notification to the resident whose yard it went into," said officer Chris Johnson. "We told him not to go outside."

Police posted warnings at Mission Trail park, the Mission and Junipero Serra School, spoke to school officials and representatives of Mission Ranch, and advised people living in the area. They reported the sighting to the California Department of Fish and Game, issued a press release and decided to try out the new county-operated telephone emergency notification system, known as TENS, to alert people living south of Ocean Avenue to watch out for cougars, especially at dusk and dawn, and after dark. (Chief George Rawson said the system worked fairly well, though some homes, including the mayor's, did not receive the automated call.)

With the Carmel River nearby, lots of forest and open space, and populations of deer, raccoons, foxes and other creatures on which mountain lions feed, the Monterey Peninsula is a natural home to the large, solitary cats. While a big male can have a territory as large as 100 square miles, females' habitats range in the 20-to-30-square-mile range, according to fish and game associate wildlife biologist Jeff Cann, and the lions' domains often overlap.

"They're pretty elusive — they see us more than we see them," he said, adding that the department routinely fields such calls. "I always say that just existing is not a crime."

In fact, fish and game makes little note of lion sightings unless the animal appears unafraid, aggressive or confrontational, or has been killing livestock or pets. In the case of Sunday's sighting, Cann and police were quick to point out the animal fled when humans were in the area and seemed to pose no threat.

'Not so important'

Though police urge residents and visitors to call 911 or fish and game if they see a cougar, Cann commented, "We want people to call us if they have some threatening situation. For example, if there's a lion on school grounds during school time, we want to know about it. A lion on school grounds in the middle of the night — not so important."

Carmel animal control officer Cindi Mitchell used the opportunity to educate people about how to respond if they see a lion, how to protect their kids and pets, and how to discourage cougars and other wildlife from spending too much time in town.

Pets should be kept inside except during daylight hours, and they should always be fed indoors. Under no circumstances should food be left out for wildlife, since that encourages prey — and predators — to frequent populated areas and lose their natural fear of humans. Lots of trees and shrubs provide attractive hiding places, and water draws thirsty animals, she pointed out.

"They have been known to kill and eat cats and dogs — dogs of any size," she said of mountain lions.

In Big Sur last May, a mountain lion ate numerous pets before being shot by a resident who had a permit to kill the animal. And in September, a lion broke through a glass door and chased a house cat into a woman's bedroom off Palo Colorado Road.

In Carmel, some cats have recently gone missing, but Mitchell could not say whether the lion, another predator or traffic was to blame.

"We just want people to be alert and aware," she said. People should jog and walk in more populated areas if they want to be out during the dark hours, and consider going with a group rather than alone. Mitchell also advised keeping an eye on children playing outside. And if a lion is spotted, it should not be approached.

"They're so beautiful," Mitchell commented. "But let's view them from farther away."

Did you know...

Sardine packing matrons: It was the peak of Monterey's sardine industry, and the 23 canneries didn't always have enough workers to pack all the fish the boats were bringing in. It was also the peak of World War II, and food was sometimes scarce. So in November 1942, some patriotic women in Pebble Beach decided they should leave their comfortable homes when they heard the shrill sirens from the canneries, go stand in the foul odors of the sardine industry for long hours, and help pack fish into cans so none would be wasted. They were soon joined by housewives from Monterey and a group of artists from Carmel, sometimes called into the canneries in late afternoons to work on the busy lines all night. Some had sons in the service. Some had cars to drive the others. They all had cotton dresses, sweaters, and bandanas for their heads. "The packers stick with the catch, even if it keeps them there until 4 o'clock in the morning," one paper reported. (Next week: Border war)

Pebble Beach, Carmel use most water, Cal Am says

By KELLY NIX

PEBBLE BEACH and Carmel households use more water than those in any other community on the Monterey Peninsula, while Sand City and Seaside residents use the least, according to new study by California American Water, Co.

The analysis compares how many gallons of water per person per day users in nine communities consumed in 2007 and 2008. It also indicates the total use for each household.

"We divided the total number of gallons by the average number of people in each household according to the 2000 census," said Cal Am community relations manager Catherine Bowie.

Pebble Beach customers used 138 gallons of water per person per day, while users in unincorporated Carmel used 107 gallons. Those in Carmel Valley consumed 101 gallons per day, while Carmel-by-the-Sea users are relatively thrifty, consuming 85 gallons daily.

Lots in Pebble Beach and Carmel Valley are typically larger and require more water for landscaping than lots in Seaside and Sand City. Irrigation is the biggest use of water, Bowie said.

Some areas also have quite a few condos and apartments, most of which have no yards at all.

Monterey households use 58 gallons per person per day; Pacific Grove, 60 gallons; and Del Rey Oaks, 68 gallons.

"If these numbers introduce a healthy sense of competition in terms of reducing water use, that would be great," Bowie said.

To reduce consumption, she said Cal Am is telling residents to turn off their sprinklers in the winter. The water company is placing notices on water bills and using print advertising to get the message across.

"People are really going to have to watch their water usage when we implement new rates, which will penalize high users," she added.

But even the highest water users on the Peninsula don't touch the amount of water used by communities such as Sacramento. A 2001 analysis in that city found the average single-family home used a total of 572 gallons per day.

Comparatively, Pebble Beach households used an average total of 297 gallons per day, while households in Sand City used 122 gallons.

Police, Fire & Sheriff's Log

Neighbor called long distance

HERE'S A look at the significant calls logged last week by the Carmel-by-the-Sea police and fire departments and by the Monterey County Sheriff's Office.

WEDNESDAY, OCTOBER 22

Big Sur: Trespasser at campsite said he would mail a check [to pay for using the campsite] and left before law enforcement arrival. No prosecution desired. Case closed.

Big Sur: Canon camera and camera bag taken from unlocked vehicle parked at Pfeiffer Beach. Theft occurred between 1430 and 1600 hours this date. Total loss value: $2,000.

THURSDAY, OCTOBER 23

Carmel-by-the-Sea: A 38-year-old male subject was reported to be trespassing on property at Dolores and Ninth, and failed to leave after being asked to do so. Units contacted the subject, who was identified as a local transient, and subsequently arrested him for trespassing. Subject transported to county jail.

Carmel-by-the-Sea: Ambulance dispatched to a Via Mar Monte residence for a female with right hip and leg pain. Patient transported Code 2 to CHOMP.

Carmel-by-the-Sea: Fire engine and ambulance dispatched to Monte Verde Street for a female in her 90s who had fainted, fallen and possibly experienced seizure activity. According to a witness, she was unconscious for about 10 minutes. Upon arrival of emergency personnel, the patient was alert and oriented. Firefighters assisted ambulance personnel with patient assessment, oxygen administration, c-spine precautions, diagnostics, packaging and gathering information. The patient was transported to CHOMP by ambulance.

Carmel-by-the-Sea: Fire engine and ambulance dispatched to San Carlos Street for a male in his 80s experiencing head and stomach pain, was sweaty and had blood in his stool over the past two days. Firefighters assisted ambulance personnel with patient assessment, diagnostics, oxygen administration, monitor hookup, packaging and gathering information. The patient was transported to CHOMP by ambulance.

Carmel Valley: Initial report of a domestic, with the male pounding on the door and heard by dispatch yelling. Upon arrival, found the male was not a domestic partner but a nephew who stopped to check on why a locksmith was there. His uncle was in the hospital. Caller was on scene and had a locksmith there to open a safe. Matter found to be a civil problem related to an argument over property rights. Parties referred to their lawyers. Case closed.

Carmel area: Carmel Point resident reported finding his wife unresponsive. She was later pronounced dead by paramedics at the scene.

Pebble Beach: Report of a nude sunbather on the beach near Spanish Bay.

Carmel Valley: Victim reported a theft of more than $2,000 from her home.

FRIDAY, OCTOBER 24

Carmel-by-the-Sea: Unattended camera found on Carmel Beach; turned in to Carmel P.D. for safekeeping. Owner unknown. Finder wished to claim the property if no owner was located.

Carmel-by-the-Sea: Computer monitor found near bus stop on Lincoln Street in the residential area of Carmel.

Carmel-by-the-Sea: Santa Fe Street resident reported the past-tense theft of money, and vandalism of a painting in her home.

CPD: HYBRIDS NOT QUITE READY FOR POLICE DUTY

By MARY BROWNFIELD

HYBRID CARS might help the city cultivate its green image and save a little gas, but they wouldn't make good patrol vehicles, Carmel Police Sgt. Paul Tomasi told the city council Tuesday. His report followed budget discussions last spring in which council members asked the police department to consider buying hybrids rather than gas-powered vehicles.

"We deferred our order of a new car to look into that," CPD Chief George Rawson said Nov. 4 before introducing Tomasi, the department's newest sergeant, to present his research into the matter.

Tomasi discovered three dozen law-enforcement agencies use hybrids, which operate on a combination of batteries and gasoline. But most of those cars and SUVs are used for

Red Cross eagerly awaiting new windows

By MARY BROWNFIELD

ALMOST FOUR months after they pledged to help get new windows for the Red Cross chapter building at Dolores and Eighth, the mayor and two Carmel City Council members are on the way to fulfilling their promise.

In July, after the Carmel Planning Commission denied the nonprofit's request to install new vinyl windows in its old building, executive director Sharon Crino appealed that decision to the city council. She lost 3-2, but the majority promised to help the Red Cross obtain and install windows meeting the city's design guidelines. Crino had said cost was a major impediment to using the higher-quality windows.

"I don't think these windows are very attractive," councilwoman Karen Sharp said at the July city council meeting, referring to the proposed double-pane vinyl windows. "I'd do a personal campaign to get you nicer windows."

Mayor Sue McCloud and councilman Ken Talmage made similar comments, but as winter approaches, the old, drafty, aluminum windows Crino wanted to get rid of remain.

Last week, the mayor and council members said progress is being made, but at a creeping pace. Sharp said the group wanted to have the windows measured but didn't want to enter the building when Crino wasn't there, so the process was delayed when she was on vacation.

Crino recalled meeting with McCloud to discuss the matter in September and said Sharp contacted her two weeks ago about measurements. But since everyone at the Red Cross is aware of the effort to obtain new windows, it wouldn't have really mattered if someone measured when she wasn't there.

Fortunately, the numbers were finally submitted last Thursday, according to Talmage, and they are being used to prepare a specification sheet to seek bids for the project. McCloud also said she has some potential donors in mind.

"We were hoping to get it done before winter, but things move slowly," Sharp said. "We're working on it."

City tax revenues in unprecedented decline

By MARY BROWNFIELD

FOR THE first time in years, the three main revenue streams that fund the City of Carmel — sales, hotel and property taxes — were all below budget expectations, administrative services director Joyce Giuffre revealed in her quarterly report to the Carmel City Council Tuesday.

In reviewing year-end financial data going back to the 1980/1981 fiscal year, city administrator Rich Guillen could find no instance when all of the Big Three came in below budget estimates, he told The Pine Cone Thursday. Quarterly figures were not kept, but Guillen also said he could not recall any quarterly report of all three coming in below target since he joined the city payroll eight years ago.

At the Nov. 4 council meeting, Giuffre said total revenues for July, August and September should have been $2,628,514 but were actually $2,529,706 — a difference of $98,808. The total budget for the 2008/2009 fiscal year is $13,748,894.

Hotel taxes should have been $995,860 but were actually $955,728, property transfer taxes were estimated at $49,316 but came in at $34,080, and sales taxes were anticipated to reach $423,989 but were actually $400,926.

A few improvements

Other underperforming segments were interest income and parking-lot fees, which came in $21,687 below the estimated $143,994, money from other government agencies ($5,272 less than the budgeted $10,090) and traffic safety ($7,453 less than the expected $82,680).

But a few categories brought in more money than expected. Fees and permits added up to $140,923 — $5,958 above target — franchise fees were $5,402 above the expected $74,748, and “other revenues” finished $8,445 higher than the budgeted $12,162.

Fortunately, spending was also below expectations, though Giuffre said the first-quarter savings would probably disappear later in the year when bills are paid.

Salary and wages finished the first quarter $95,575 below the budgeted $1,762,309, because several jobs remain open, though Giuffre reminded the council three full-time fire-fighters will be hired soon.

The city planned to spend $100,000 on the Carmel Regional Fire Ambulance but hadn't gotten the bill by Sept. 30, and the destination marketing budget of $84,754 was under spent by $41,701, also the result of timing, she said. Fees for outside contractors were down ($21,550 under the budgeted $362,063), as were costs in most other categories.

Debt service, however, exceeded its budget, with $381,761 in checks written, compared with the estimated $379,958.

Total expenditures were expected to reach $3,878,879 by Sept. 30, according to the budget, but finished the quarter at $3,585,331, for a total favorable balance of $293,548.

Adjustments coming

Giuffre reported the quarter was set to result in a deficit of $1,250,365, because revenues were expected to lag behind expenses, but actually ended with a deficit of $1,055,625.

“In January, we'll be presenting some midyear budget adjustments, and if any of our revenue line items are continuing to trend down, you will have the opportunity to make adjustments,” she told the council at the end of her report.

Guillen observed that many cities are struggling, “but we're hanging in there,” and officials hope the next four or five months will show some positive results.

Sommerville gets San Antonio Avenue storm-drain contract

JAMES SOMMERVILLE, Inc., had the lowest bid among eight submitted by companies interested in fixing storm drains in Carmel, and the city council voted Tuesday to award the $105,336 job to the contractor. Sommerville's low bid totaled $95,760, while Mark Nicholson, Inc., submitted the highest, $221,926.

The work will reduce the risks of collapse and subsequent residential flooding in the area of San Antonio and Eighth avenues. With a 10 percent contingency to cover unanticipated costs, the council approved the Sommerville contract, which is lower than the city engineer's estimate of $118,840.

ECOLOGIST TALKS ABOUT CMS HABITAT CENTER, LOCAL WILDLIFE

ONE OF the Monterey Peninsula's leading voices in environmental education will present a talk Sunday, Nov. 9, in the gym at All Saints' Day School in Carmel Valley.

Craig Hohenberger, director of the Hilton Bialek habitat center at Carmel Middle School, will talk about the center and its emphasis on native-plant restoration and sustainability. He will also discuss Carmel Valley's wildlife.

Besides its popularity with students and parents at CMS, the Bialek center won a Governor's Environmental and Economic Leadership Award in 2006 for Excellence in Children's Environmental Education.

Hohenberger's is the latest in the Carmel Valley Association's ongoing Carmel Voices Lecture Series.

The talk starts at 2 p.m. Admission is free.

The school is located at 8060 Carmel Valley Road. For more information, call (831) 659-5877.

Suspect arrested on child porn charges

A 72-YEAR-OLD Carmel Valley man was arrested Wednesday after seven detectives and a deputy converged on his home, conducted an extensive search and found evidence of child pornography, according to Monterey County Sheriff's Detective Sgt. Archie Warren.

He would not say what led authorities to suspect Denis Wagner, or even if they found what they were looking for when they searched his house and arrested him, but he revealed the sheriff's office worked on the case for about a week before executing the warrant at Wagner's Lazy Oaks home at 11 a.m. Nov. 5.

After securing the property, which is in a rural area east of the Village, officers knocked on the door — though by law they could have beaten it down if necessary — and found Wagner and two other adults inside. Officers ensured the premises were safe, and while the occupants were confined to one room and watched by a deputy, detectives spent three hours collecting evidence, according to Warren.

They confiscated several photos of child pornography, and detectives are researching whether Wagner has any connection with the subjects.

Warren wouldn't say what else they found, and he did not want to reveal whether the other adults in the home at the time actually live there.

"The case is still being investigated," he said. "We have a lot of evidence we're going over, so right now it would be inappropriate to give out information on the case."

Wagner faces charges of child pornography and sexual exploitation of a child, and was taken to Monterey County Jail.

ALEXANDER "SANDY" ALLAN HUDSON

1950 to 2008

Alex Hudson, 58, left this world peacefully at home on October 20, surrounded by those he loved. Alex fought his cancer with the same strength and determination with which he lived his life.

Born in Annapolis, Maryland and growing up on the Carmel Peninsula, Alex knew no better place to be young than his grandparents' ranch at Point Lobos. Ranch life gave Alex some of his most treasured memories, and recollections of the beautiful Carmel Bay area remained with him throughout his life. Alex attended Junipero Memorial High School until his junior year when he relocated with his family to Mountain View, California.

Alex and his wife Cari met at the University of Idaho in Moscow and were married in 1972. Before making Idaho their home, Alex served in the U.S. Navy during the Vietnam War. A loving husband to Cari and strong father to Ben, Charles, and Chris, Alex's family settled into their beautiful farm overlooking the Bear River north of Preston, Idaho.

As a professional engineer and surveyor with a career spanning 35 years, three states and six Idaho counties, Alex gained the respect of his community and profession, dedicated to the precision and quality that engineering demands. Alex was the founder and owner of A.A. Hudson and Associates in Soda Springs and Preston, Idaho since 1982 and recently became a Certified Federal Surveyor. Alex cherished nature and all the diversity it gives us; as an avid hiker, he knew how to respect and enjoy the natural world around him.

Alex leaves his wife Cari, son Ben of Tempe AZ, son Charles and wife Katie of Fulton, MO, and son Chris of Pocatello, ID. Alex was one of eight siblings and is survived by his father Allan Hudson and wife Joanne McFann of Carmel, brothers Mike Hudson and wife Barbara of Mountain View, Peter Hudson and wife Anna of Sausalito, and Patrick Hudson and wife Julie of Woodbine, MD and sisters Peggy Hudson of San Diego, Rhaea (Betsy) Hudson Maurel and partner Annabel Beerel of Sudbury, MA, Sarah Adams and husband Lew of Carmel, and Martha Sakakura and husband Randy of Stockton, and nine nieces and nephews. Alex was preceded in death by his mother, Mary Benson Hudson, and his grandparents, Admiral and Mrs. L.J. Hudson of Point Lobos.

Funeral services were held in Preston, Idaho on October 24.

Pauline S. Raymond Hamilton Johnson Anderson

October 6, 1923 - September 21, 2008

Pauline Scherer, daughter of Paul A. and Margaret H. Scherer, was born 6 October 1923 in Medford Oregon, the 4th of 6 daughters. She moved to San Francisco where she attended Lowell School, and joined the Billy Rose Aquacade in 1939. She performed as an Aquabelle with Johnny Weismuller and Esther Williams at the Golden Gate International Exposition in 1939-1940. During the War, her family moved to Santa Monica where she attended Santa Monica High School and lettered in swimming. She attended Holmby College and was president of the Student Body. In 1942 she married Stanley W. Raymond and lived in Mar Vista, California. Following their divorce in 1949, she undertook sustained rehabilitative physical therapy for her three sons, Stephen, Lawrence and Peter, each of whom had polio. She worked as a swimming teacher and was also a counselor at Bantum Swimming Club and Tocaloma Club in West Los Angeles.

In 1955 Polly married Jack Irwin Hamilton, an aerospace executive with Menasco Manufacturing Company, and the family moved to Glendale. There she volunteered with the American Field Service student exchange program, and hosted memorable family events including her step children Elizabeth (Happy) and Richard Hamilton. Polly and Jack moved to Cleveland in 1966, and she volunteered at the St. John's Home for Girls in Painesville, Ohio, becoming President of the Board in 1974. They were active in Christ Church in Shaker Heights where Polly served on the Women's Council. With the unexpected death of her husband in 1975, she ultimately resolved to make a new life for herself, and headed back West. On first sight she decided to settle in Carmel, where she has enjoyed deeply rewarding friendships.

In 1980 she married Robert F. Johnson, a retired General Electric executive, who again enlarged her family to include his children, James Johnson and Carol Johnson Daker, and increasing numbers of grandchildren. Robert died in 1990, and Polly continued her life in Carmel as a focal point for all the members of her family. In 1996 her family expanded a final time when she married Marquard Anderson, also of Carmel, to include John and Carl Anderson and their families. Following Mark's death she lived near Quail Lodge until her own death on 21 September 2008, which concluded a decline of several years with Alzheimer's Disease. She is survived by 3 of her sisters, Anne S. James, Martha S. Dillen, and Elizabeth C. Altman, and by most of the members of her large and cohesive family that she loved so deeply.

There will be a memorial service for Polly at All Saints Episcopal Church in Carmel at 4:30 pm 22 November 2008.

CARPETING & DECOR

VERSATILE CARPET SQUARES

While installation of wall-to-wall carpeting is a job for professionals, modular carpet (also known as "carpet squares") is relatively easy to install. Once you establish the center of the room and mark the floor with chalk lines, you are ready to lay the colorful carpet squares on the floor. Adhesive strips and the carpet's heavy backing hold them in place. Carpet squares can be used to add whimsy to a children's room, elegance to a dining room, or a fun feel to a playroom. Cleaning, replacing, or swapping the tiles is as easy as pulling them up. This makes replacement of a stained square a simple matter. This helps to relieve the worry that kids will ruin a carpet.

Don't let yourself become frustrated in an attempt to coordinate the many aspects of successfully decorating your home's interiors. At CARPETS & FLOORS, INC., we don't operate according to one pre-set decorating rule. Instead, we listen to your needs, tastes, and budget restrictions, then we combine these elements with our expertise and experience. The result? Comfortable, harmonious interiors that will give you and your family years of pleasure.

HINT: You can lay carpet squares directly over concrete, plywood, particle-board, oriented-strand board, vinyl, tile, and some finished hardwood floors

Dan Jones is the President of Carpets & Floors, Inc., located at 471 Lighthouse Ave. (between Drake and McClellan) here in Monterey. Ph: 372-2300.

Thousands to run amok along P.G., Monterey shores

By MARY BROWNFIELD

THE BIG Sur Half Marathon on Monterey Bay and accompanying races will have thousands of people of all ages racing at all paces all over Pacific Grove and Monterey Saturday and Sunday. Shorter events targeting families will be held Saturday, Nov. 8, while the 13.1-mile run and a long walk will take place Sunday, Nov. 9.

Organizers announced several changes this year, including new efforts to be more green, new sponsors, a new beneficiary and a new schedule. They also decided to allow 1,000 more runners into the main event, which sold out weeks ago at 5,800 registrants, including its largest-ever field of elite runners.

On the green side, recycling bins will be placed along the route, and runners will be encouraged to BYOB — bring your own bottle — to refill at aid stations. Officials also reduced the amount of printed materials and encouraged participants from outside the area to arrange carpools online.

For the first time, the Big Sur Half Marathon Health & Fitness Expo will be held in the Monterey Conference Center for two days, Nov. 7-8, and the two family-oriented runs will take place Saturday to cut crowding on the course during Sunday's main event. On Cannery Row, the Just Run Just Kids 3K will begin at 8 a.m., followed by the Run Forrest Run 5K at 9 a.m.

The event raises money for several local charities and this year will help the anti-cancer group, Pancreatica, which is based in Pacific Grove.

On the sponsor side, Michelob Ultra is debuting as the new beer provider at Big Sur Marathon events, and JetBlue is joining the party, while returning sponsors include Saab, Asics, Runner's World, Gatorade, GU, Rabobank, Granite Construction and others.

For more information, visit www.bsim.org or call (831) 625-6226.

Cherry Center series highlights monologues

THE CARL Cherry Center for the Arts is going solo.

Starting Thursday, Nov. 13, Cherry Hall hosts "Talk To Me," a four-day performance series dedicated to monologues.

On Thursday, Nina Solomita of Monterey presents "Kabul Homebody," while Allston James offers a monologue based on the T.S. Elliot poem, "The Love Song of J. Alfred Prufrock," and Len Perry performs a piece based on Eugene O'Neill's book, "Hughie." The series continues through Sunday, Nov. 16. Tickets are $15 for Thursday's performance and $50 for all four days. The center is located at Fourth and Guadalupe. Call (831) 624-7491 or visit www.carlcherrycenter.org.

OSTOMY SYSTEMS

An ostomy is an artificial opening that allows for the elimination of secretions from a functioning organ to the outer surface of the body. Artificial openings from the small and large intestine, the urinary bladder, the kidney, and the trachea are all examples of ostomy surgeries. The stoma is the terminal end of the ostomy or the visible opening on the skin. Choosing a patient's ostomy pouching system will depend on the type of surgery. Other factors to consider are the stoma's location, size, and shape. The pouching system should support good hygiene practices while protecting the skin from urine or stool. Most ostomy pouching systems are designed to be lightweight, odor-proof, and relatively low maintenance.

It is estimated that nearly 450,000 Americans of all ages are currently living with an ostomy. Affected persons and their families require competent care and knowledgeable healthcare professionals to help them. At VICTORIAN HOME CARE our highly trained professionals have the experience and sensitivity required to address the special needs of caring for the older adult. We cater to the elderly who are frail or still active and would do better in an assisted living environment. Quite simply, we provide the best home care and geriatric care management for seniors or adults with physical and/or mental challenges in and around Monterey and Santa Cruz, California.

P.S. A patient who has had an ostomy surgery is referred to as an ostomate.

Prize-winning PacRep play looks at the lighter side of death

By CHRIS COUNTS

THE WINNER of PacRep Theater's inaugural playwriting competition uses comedy to examine the seemingly humorless topic of death.

Los Angeles writer Gary Goldstein's original play, "Curtain Call," opens Saturday, Nov. 8, at the Circle Theatre.

"Curtain Call" is a bittersweet story that examines the personal choices we make in response to life's challenges and our own collective pursuits of happiness.

"It's a really humorous play about a very serious subject," explained PacRep's Dan Gotch, the director of the play. "It's about a mother who dies, but comes back. She gets a second chance to put her life in order and say the things she wants to say to her children and her ex-husband. The only character, though, who can see her is her own mother."

Goldstein wrote the play after his mother passed away. Like the lead character in the play, Goldstein's mother received an unexpected chance to put her affairs in order before she died.

Goldstein was surprised when he learned in December 2007 that he was the winner of PacRep's first-ever playwriting contest, which is called the Hyperion Project. "It was like a 1,000-to-1 shot," explained Goldstein, no stranger to rejection slips. "I was floored when my play was picked."

And the fact that his play will be staged in Carmel is just icing on the cake. "It's not like it's being put on just anywhere," he added.

The show starts at 7 p.m. Tickets are $30 to $35, with discounts available for seniors over 65, students, children, teachers and active military. The Circle Theatre, which is part of the Golden Bough Playhouse, is located on Casanova between Eighth and Ninth.

The play continues through Nov. 16. For more information, call (831) 622-0100 or visit www.pacrep.org.

Event helps poor women help selves

RISING INTERNATIONAL will offer its second annual global marketplace at Carmel Kitchens and Baths from noon to 4 p.m. Saturday, Nov. 8. Holidays of Hope, as it's been dubbed, will feature crafts made by poor women in some of the world's most desperate nations who are using their entrepreneurial drives to create better lives for themselves. Rising International, a nonprofit, assists with those endeavors by selling their crafts at events.

Among Holidays of Hope's offerings will be peace baskets made by genocide survivors in Rwanda, dolls crafted by widows in Afghanistan, beaded pillows sewn by a family in India and colorful dog collars designed by former homeless women in Guatemala.

"These remarkable craft makers are not asking for charity, they are asking for a chance," according to the nonprofit's founder, Carmel Jud. "By selling their crafts and running their own micro-enterprises, they have a chance at a new future."

The Saturday event will offer items from more than 20 countries, including Bosnia, Kenya, Nepal, Cambodia, Mali, Bangladesh, South Africa, Guatemala, Uganda and Colombia, with prices starting at $6.

At 2 p.m., Jud will talk about Rising International, and at 3:30 p.m., a silent auction of "the first crafts to arrive in the United States made by Darfur genocide survivors living in refugee camps in Chad" will conclude.

Carmel Kitchens and Baths is located at 26386 Carmel Rancho Lane. For more information about the event, call (831) 624-4667 or go to www.risinginternational.org.

After FEMA says no to free money, SBA says yes to cheap loans

By CHRIS COUNTS

BIG SUR residents and businesses affected by last summer's wildfires can obtain low-interest loans from the federal government to help pay for recovery.

And to make it easy to get those loans, the Small Business Administration opened an office this week at 2620 First Ave. in Marina.

"We opened at 9 a.m. today," SBA spokesman Mark Randle reported Monday. "We've already had a few people come in."

The SBA created the office in response to the Federal Emergency Management Agency's decision last month not to declare Big Sur a disaster area, which would have made taxpayer-funded grants available to victims of the fires.

According to Randle, Monterey County "did not suffer enough damage" to qualify for FEMA aid. In response, the SBA is making loans available at just 2.68 percent annual interest for homeowners and renters, and 4 percent for businesses. He conceded that FEMA's standards are tougher to meet than his agency's.

Under the terms of the loans, homeowners may borrow up to $200,000 to repair or replace their primary residence if it was damaged by the fire. Homeowners and renters may borrow up to $40,000 to replace personal property lost in the blaze. Businesses and nonprofit organizations may borrow up to $2 million to repair or replace damaged real estate, machinery and equipment, inventory or other assets.

Randle encouraged residents and businesses to apply for loans, particularly those waiting to receive word on insurance claims.

"There's no cost or obligation to apply," he added.

In addition to visiting the Marina office, residents and businesses can apply online or receive a loan application by mail.

The Marina SBA office is open Monday through Wednesday from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. For more information, call (831) 659-2955 or visit www.sba.gov.

Though the council determined the Palo Alto Savings and Loan building designed by architect Walter Burde and constructed in 1972 was not historic, the planning commission, and then the council, decided it qualifies as "architecturally significant" and that its demolition would negatively impact the neighborhood. And that could violate the California Environmental Quality Act.

Nonetheless, on Sept. 10, the planning commission approved the permit for Mandurrigo to demolish the structure and build a new one in its place.

Commissioners said a state law encouraging the development of affordable housing (Government Code Section 65589.5) required them to OK Mandurrigo's permits.

"Essentially, the commission believed that it had no choice; the law compelled approval," Roseth explained in his report to the council.

But former city councilwoman Barbara Livingston filed an appeal contending the commission had misunderstood the laws.

According to Livingston, who was aided by preservation attorney Susan Brandt-Hawley, the city has the power to deny a project — even one that contains affordable housing — if it will harm the environment, and it should have done so with Mandurrigo's application.

"I know the city wants to comply with the Government Code and you want to meet your affordable-housing obligations, but what's really going on here is you have someone using that code in a way that it wasn't intended to be used," Brandt-Hawley told the council. To lose a building considered architecturally significant "because you're being told that you have no power to deny it, is inconsistent with state law, and it also doesn't make sense."

Numerous defenders of the bank building — including Carmel Residents Association board president Roberta Miller, Clayton Anderson of the Friends of Carmel Forest, former councilwoman Elinor Laiolo and architect Brian Congleton — spoke or submitted letters arguing in favor of the appeal and against the demolition.

But Mandurrigo countered that the council must deny the appeal.

"I understand there's controversy on this, but there's controversy on everything in town," he said at the hearing. He argued that the opposition of 20 or 30 people who "have a warm, fuzzy feeling about this building" is "not enough" to overrule the law.

"I think I'm doing something wonderful for the community," he said, by providing more housing and parking downtown, and "a beautiful new building."

His attorney, Dennis Beougher of Lombardo & Gilles, said the Government Code section means the city can not justify denial of a project containing affordable housing unless it would have an adverse impact on health and safety.

City attorney Don Freeman then weighed in, stating that while the state has made affordable housing "a very high priority," that law and CEQA both matter.

"There's no trumping of anything," he said. The city is allowed to exercise its discretion and can approve the project if it wants to, but "it's not automatic just because the Government Code sections are there."

Led by councilman Gerard Rose, who made the motion, the mayor and council unanimously voted to grant Livingston's appeal and overturn the planning commission's approval of the project.

The matter will probably go back to the commission for further hearings. In December the council might consider how to instruct the planning commission to proceed.

Jeanne Furlong

July 15, 1936 ~ October 23, 2008

Carmel ~ We lost Jeanne on October 23. She will be deeply missed by her devoted husband of 47 years, Don, who considered her his "trophy and sweetheart". Her passing is also profoundly felt by her sister, Irene; her three daughters, Christy, Kelly and Jill and her four grandchildren.

Jeanne brightened the lives of everyone she knew, always filling the room with laughter, kindness and empathy. Jeanne treasured her position as a hostess of The Terrace Grill at La Playa Hotel in Carmel. Her greatest joys were her numerous pets, most recently her canine buddy, Buggy; family and close friends, Al, Ashton and Patti. Jeanne cherished her time in the sun and water as well as in the theatre with a bucket of popcorn.

In lieu of flowers, contributions to honor Jeanne's memory can be made to her favorite charity, the Monterey Co. SPCA, PO Box 3058, Monterey, 93942.

Please visit www.thepaulmortuary.com to sign Jeanne's guest book and leave condolences for her family.

Prop 9: Victim safety a factor in sentencing, parole decisions

By KELLY NIX

AMONG THE law-enforcement initiatives on the ballot Tuesday, just one passed. Proposition 9, which will expand the rights of crime victims in the judicial process, got 53.5 percent of the vote.

The initiative expands on the Victims Bill of Rights, passed by California voters in 1982 under Proposition 8. Among other things, Proposition 9 affords victims the opportunity to participate in all criminal proceedings and establishes victim safety as a consideration in determining bail or release on parole.

Monterey County District Attorney Dean Flippo said it's unclear how much the measure will impact the local criminal justice system, and what kind of resources will be needed to implement it. "I don't think there is any question victims will be more protected and have more input in the whole justice system" under Prop. 9, Flippo said.

The new law requires victims be notified of, and have a chance to attend and state their views at all public criminal proceedings, not just at sentencing and parole hearings as mandated in Prop. 8.

Prop. 9 also affords victims the right to confer with prosecutors on charges filed against an offender.

"Now they have a right not only to be considered in the bail setting, but also in any type of negotiations in terms of disposition," Flippo said.

Because prosecutors will likely spend more time with victims, that could require extra resources.

"We may have to examine or develop a system where we may need a couple of additional secretaries," Flippo said.

Flippo said the district attorney's office might establish a system to notify victims of their opportunities mandated under Prop. 9, which he said could result in additional administrative costs.

The changes under Prop. 9 include:

- Offenders will be required, without exception, to pay victims restitution if a victim has suffered a loss.

- it extends the time before inmates serving life sentences would be eligible for parole hearings.

- expands rights of victims to be notified of, attend and state their views at all public criminal proceedings, not just at sentencing and parole hearings as mandated in Prop. 8.

- establishes constitutional rights to prevent the release of confidential information or records to criminal defendants, and refusal to be interviewed or provide pretrial testimony or other evidence requested on behalf of a criminal defendant; and the return of property to a victim no longer needed as evidence in criminal proceedings.

- the state Constitution will be changed to specify that the safety of a crime victim must be taken into consideration by judges in setting bail for people arrested for crimes.

Because the new law requires the safety of a crime victim to be taken into consideration by judges in setting bail for a person arrested for a crime, an offender could be locked up longer, which opponents of the measure contended could cause jail and prison overcrowding.

"This thing is really aimed at preventing early releases," Flippo said. "And that's been a real bone of contention with police and prosecutors."

Ultimately, Flippo said new law will benefit victims of crime.

"It does have some impacts," Flippo said, "but overall, we stand by our victims, and we want them to be protected and have rights."

SPCA needs volunteers

THE SPCA for Monterey County is seeking new volunteers to help at its Benefit Shop in Carmel.

Volunteering in the shop at allows people to make a difference in the lives of animals in need, according to the SPCA.

Volunteers will interact with customers, sort and price donated items, design creative retail displays, run the cash register and have a "great time helping support the vital services and programs" of the SPCA.

For more information about volunteering with the SPCA, please visit www.spcamc.org or contact Stacy Soracco at (831) 373-2631 ext. 223 or ssoracco@spcamc.org. A wide variety of volunteer positions are available.

BATES

"I talked to him and he blinked his eyes and moved his face," Loye said. "And he looked certainly more alert than of late."

Carmel's unofficial artist in residence, Bates' cartoons depicting the idiosyncrasies of Carmel life have appeared in The Pine Cone since 1972.

Before Bates' heart attack, Loye was working with Bates on his memoirs.

Bates suffered a heart attack July 1 while painting a sign for his first art gallery at San Carlos and Seventh. Doctors successfully repaired Bates' heart, but the staphylococcus infection has kept him in intensive care and in and out of consciousness.

An Oct. 26 fundraiser to financially help Bates' wife and teenage daughter, Chelsea, "exceeded expectations," Loye said. The event, called Wine, Wit and Wonder, featured live music and a silent auction of donated artwork that raised thousands of dollars.

"In some places, you could barely move through the people," Loye said of the fundraiser. "There must have been at least 300 or 350 considering the fact people were coming and going."

Before he became ill, Bates, 78, submitted a new cartoon to The Pine Cone nearly every week. He also worked at Trader Joe's illustrating the store's signs and painted portraits of people on the side. Recently, the Monterey County Herald also published his cartoons on national political subjects.

Loye said he hopes the special facility will provide Bates with the care he needs to recover.

"It gives him one more chance to get back among us," Loye said.

Wardner Bingham Crockett

August 7, 1927 – October 26, 2008

Wardner Bingham Crockett, 81, of Carmel, California, died at Community Hospital of the Monterey Peninsula on October 26, 2008. A native of Pueblo, Colorado, he was a graduate of the University of Colorado at Boulder where he was a member of Phi Delta Theta after his service in the U.S. Navy. Ward's entire career was in the property/casualty insurance business, starting in his family's agency in Pueblo, Colorado, continuing through several states and Canada and finally in the corporate offices of the Home Insurance Company and Chubb Corporation in New York and New Jersey.

Ward was a past or present member of the boards of trustees of the Carmel Public Library Foundation and the Monterey Museum of Art. He also served on the Monterey County Grand Jury. He was a trustee and president of the board of trustees of the Reeves-Reed Arboretum in Summit, New Jersey. He served in many different capacities at Westminster Presbyterian Church in Berkeley Heights, New Jersey and actively volunteered in many organizations, usually as treasurer.

Ward was a courtly, quiet gentleman who was an avid reader interested in history, geography, and genealogy. He enjoyed travelling the world and was a steam railroad enthusiast.

He was a member of the Monterey Peninsula Country Club, the Beach and Tennis Club, and the Old Capital Club in Monterey. Ward was also a member of the Sons of the American Revolution and the Mayflower Society.

He is survived by his wife Mary Kay Higgins Crockett; his daughters Nancy Crockett Ross of Gladstone, New Jersey and Carol C. Hoover of Mahwah, New Jersey; his step children Scott Campbell of Monterey, California and Leslie Campbell of Pacific Palisades, California; five grandchildren Emily A. Ross, Thompson C. Ross, Eliza M. Hoover, Kate Campbell, and Nathan Campbell; his sister, Carol C. Meech of Toronto, Canada and his brother, Charles T. Crockett of Denver, Colorado, and his collie, Sandy. He was preceded in his death by his first wife, Virginia Shaw Crockett.

Memorial services have been held.

The family suggests that any contributions be made to the:
Carmel Public Library Foundation, P.O. Box 2042, Carmel, CA 93921;
Community Hospital of the Monterey Peninsula, 23625 Holman Highway,
P.O. Box HH, Monterey 93942; or to the charity of ones choice.

NOTICE OF PETITION TO ADMINISTER ESTATE of MARIA RATCLIFF, also known as MARIA R. RATCLIFF and MARIA HOLZNER RATCLIFF Case Number MP 19235
To all heirs, beneficiaries, creditors, contingent creditors, and persons who may otherwise be interested in the will or estate, or both, of MARIA RATCLIFF, also known as MARIA R. RATCLIFF and MARIA HOLZNER RATCLIFF
A PETITION FOR PROBATE has been filed by GARY TISCORNIA in the Superior Court of California, County of MONTEREY.
The Petition for Probate requests that GARY TISCORNIA be appointed as personal representative to administer the estate of the decedent.
THE PETITION requests the decedent's will and codicils, if any, be admitted to probate. The will and any codicils are available for examination in the file kept by the court.
THE PETITION requests authority to administer the estate under the Independent Administration of Estates Act. (This authority will allow the personal representative to take many actions without obtaining court approval. Before taking certain very important actions, however, the personal representative will be required to give notice to interested persons unless they have waived notice or consented to the proposed action.)
The independent administration authority will be granted unless an interested person files an objection to the petition and shows good cause why the court should not grant the authority.
A hearing on the petition will be held on in this court as follows:
Date: November 21, 2008
Time: 10:00 a.m.
Dept.: 17
Room: Probate L&M
Address: Superior Court of California, County of Monterey, 1200 Agujaito Road, Monterey, CA 93940.
If you object to the granting of the petition, you should appear at the hearing and state your objections or file written objections with the court before the hearing. Your appearance may be in person or by your attorney.
If you are a creditor or a contingent creditor of the decedent, you must file your claim with the court and mail a copy to the personal representative appointed by the court within four months from the date of first issuance of letters as provided in Probate Code section 9100. The time for filing claims will not expire before four months from the hearing date noticed above.

Carmel Valley prison: real threat or incorporation ploy?

By CHRIS COUNTS

A LEADING proponent of incorporation is warning Carmel Valley could be the site of a new prison if residents fail to gain a greater control of their political destiny. But the idea is a non-starter, according to supervisor Dave Potter's office.

John Dalessio, president of the Carmel Valley Association, reported in the group's November newsletter that Monterey County was offered $50 million to construct a re-entry prison capable of housing 500 inmates, and Carmel Valley was identified as a potential site.

The subject of building a prison in Carmel Valley came up at the Sept. 16 board of supervisors meeting. Dave Potter left the meeting early because he had a doctor's appointment, so he missed participating in the discussion. Potter's aide, Kathleen Lee, conceded Carmel Valley was mentioned as a possible site, but she equated the reference to a "flippant comment." She said Carmel Valley's lack of public transportation and public services made it an impractical choice.

Two days later, the Corrections Standards Authority Board withdrew state funding for the proposed facility after failing to identify a viable site.

"The county and the state have formally ended negotiations for the site," Lee reported. "It's totally dead."

Dalessio, though, believes the proposal still has some life in it.

"The re-entry prison concept is alive and well," he writes in the newsletter. "Sometime, someplace, the prison will be back."

In Dalessio's view, creating a Town of Carmel Valley is the perfect way to thwart such a plan.

"Incorporation will allow the people of Carmel Valley — not supervisors from Salinas, King City and Moss Landing — to decide the future of Carmel Valley," Dalessio explained.

"This latest shot — the re-entry prison — should be our wake-up call. We need to incorporate now, before saving Carmel Valley becomes a meaningless slogan. No one is going to 'save' us. We have to do it ourselves."

Salinas was also identified as a location for the facility, but supervisors withdrew three possible sites because of opposition from neighbors.

In contrast to Monterey County, other communities in California — like the towns of Delano and Susanville — have welcomed new prisons because of the jobs and revenue they bring.

INCORPORATE

approve incorporation. She said it is unclear who would pay for the election if the incorporation bid fails.

"Proponents are saying they don't have $150,000," Lee said. "It's a very real question who is going to pay it."

Lee said it's also possible Gov. Arnold Schwarzenegger could call a spring election to address other issues, and if that's the case, the incorporation vote could cost as little as $30,000.

Meanwhile, the board of supervisors this week approved a revised revenue neutrality agreement between the county and incorporation proponents. The two sides agreed to a settlement in May 2006 where the new town would pay the county $15,919,280 over 16 years for lost revenues, beginning in 2010. But after legal action delayed the drive, negotiations were reopened. Under the new agreement, the total amount due would remain the same, but the first payment would not be due until 2012, according to Tom McCue, a senior financial analyst for LAFCO. McCue said a reinstatement of vehicle license fee revenues — which were not available when the initial agreement was drawn up — will enable to the new town to pay off the county in just 14 years instead of 16.

The hearing starts at 4 p.m. The board of supervisors Chambers are located at the Monterey County Government Center, which is located at 168 W. Alisal St. in Salinas.

Reeling from wildfires, monks turn to art to aid hermitage

By CHRIS COUNTS

WITH THEIR solitary lives of contemplation and focus, artists have a lot in common with monks. Perhaps the biggest difference between the two is that, while an artist seeks peace in creative expression, a monk finds it in prayer and forgiveness.

Father Arthur Poulin, who is an artist and a monk, has found peace in Big Sur's dramatic natural surroundings. His colorful impressionist landscapes will be presented in a fundraising group exhibit opening Saturday, Nov. 8, at the New Camaldoli Hermitage in Big Sur.

A longtime resident of the hermitage who now lives in Berkeley, Poulin views his artwork not as a livelihood, but as an extension of his spiritual path.

In an exhibit opening Saturday at The Carmel Art Association, Tim Sloan presents a group of oil paintings inspired by the plant life of the Asilomar Dunes.

Big band recreates the sights and sounds of the swing era

By CHRIS COUNTS

ONE OF the enduring images of the 1940s is that of a big band playing in a starlit ballroom while soldiers and their sweethearts dance the night away. These were the rock concerts of their era, and the performances were beamed by radio to living rooms across the country.

The sights and sounds of the big-band era come back to life Sunday, Nov. 9, when Sunset Center presents "Big Band Broadcast," a stage show and concert featuring vocalist Holly Larocque and Mark Ferguson's 13-piece orchestra.

Like many who were too young to experience the big band era, Larocque is captivated by the music her parents listened and danced to.

"My passion for the music of the 1940s is longstanding," explained Larocque, who starred in the Disney television series, "Under the Umbrella Tree." "As a small child, in lieu of bedtime stories, I played a nightly musical game with my father, himself a World War II vet, where he would hum a tune that I would have to identify and complete."

Ensemble uses martial arts to tell the story of a raindrop

By CHRIS COUNTS

WHEN IT performs at Sunset Center Saturday, Nov. 8, Taiwan's U Theatre will use drumming, music, dance and martial arts to tell the story of a raindrop as it finds its way to the ocean.

"It's a story that's as old as the earth," explained Peter Lesnik, Sunset Center's executive director.

U Theatre was founded in 1988 by artistic director and popular Taiwanese stage actress Liu Ruo-Yuon on Laochuan Mountain near Taipei, the capital of Taiwan. Each new production by the performing arts ensemble is premiered at the company's 500-seat outdoor theater, which was literally carved out of the mountain.

Lesnik once traveled to Laochuan Mountain to watch U Theatre perform.

"I drove up a dirt road and hiked up a trail," he recalled. "It was extraordinary. What they do is both ancient and contemporary at the same time."

Saturday's appearance at Sunset Center marks a rare opportunity to see the ensemble perform live. "They will play here, in San Jose and back East," Lesnik observed.

When U Theatre tours Taiwan and other parts of Asia, its members often travel on foot, carrying instruments and supplies on their backs. They also believe that the practices of tai chi — an ancient Chinese martial art that pro-

Taiwan's innovative U Theatre uses drumming, music, dance and martial arts to create an extraordinary visual spectacle.

German doughnuts, French celebrations and muddy afternoons

By MARY BROWNFIELD

AN ANNUAL celebration of the fruit of the vine organized by the Monterey County Vintners & Growers Association kicks off Friday and will highlight more than four dozen local labels and numerous talented chefs. The Nov. 7-9 Great Wine Escape will offer plenty of opportunities for sipping, nibbling, tasting, talking, socializing and definitely learning.

On the educational front, GWE participants can check out Palate Pleasers — a series of talks about pairing wine with healthy dishes, the effects of terroir on Pinot Noir, and the importance of drinking from the proper wine glass — as well as Saturday's seminar on trying to accurately price 10 wines during a double-blind tasting.

No meal will be left unplanned. On Friday, Rick Moonen, chef/owner of RM Seafood at Mandalay Bay in Las Vegas, and Jerry Regester, the chef at The C Restaurant + Bar, will prepare a four-course Around the World lunch focusing on sustainable food and wine. On Friday and Saturday nights, winery representatives will pour their best vintages in collaboration with chefs at notable restaurants throughout the Peninsula. Among the highlights are the "interactive dinner," Cooking with the Experts, at the Culinary Center of Monterey Nov. 7, and the Nov. 8 Wine Enthusiast Signature Dinner at Bernardus Lodge in Carmel Valley, for which executive chef Cal Stamenov will create five stellar courses complemented by specially selected boutique wines.

Wineries throughout Monterey County will throw open their doors to entice visitors with special tastings, food and entertainment Saturday, when participants can opt for a ride on a GWE minibus or make their own arrangements. Meanwhile, small operations that lack tasting rooms or purchase Monterey County fruit but don't have wineries here will pour during the Boutique and Hidden Gems tasting at the Monterey Marriott.

The wrap party, the Grand Finale, will be held from noon to 4 p.m. Nov. 9 at the InterContinental The Clement Monterey Hotel. Three dozen wineries will offer tastes, and 10 chefs will prepare foods to match, including a special focus on the Pacific Rim.

The Great Wine Escape is one of the non-profit association's major annual affairs and furthers its mission of promoting and supporting more than 85 vintners and growers. For more information on the organization or the event, including ticket prices and options, visit www.montereywines.org or call (831) 375-9400.

Community Church of the Monterey Peninsula in Carmel Valley has a corner on the market and offers the delectable pastries during its Annual Harvest Fair set for 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. Saturday, Nov. 8.

"Those German doughnuts can't be avoided, because they are made hot on the premises and must be had once a year," said Pam Klaumann. "They're quite tasty."

The women's association that hosts the event also prepares homemade soups — pumpkin, split pea and chicken noodle — and hot dogs to sell, and the fair features arts, crafts, jewelry, stationery, jams and jellies, baked goods and other treats and gifts. The church's organist, world-class pianist Weber Iago, is releasing a new CD and hopes to have copies for sale Saturday as well.

The proceeds will benefit a dozen local nonprofits the church supports as part of its mission, including Monterey County Free Libraries, Monterey County Aids Project, the YMCA's shelter for battered women and the Gateway Center.

"Last year, we raised $4,700 — not bad for one day," Klaumann said. She realizes numerous worthy organizations are vying for the same dwindling dollars in this economy and hopes many residents and visitors will come to the fair not just for the tasty food, but to do some Christmas shopping that helps those in need. The church is located at 4590 Carmel Valley Road next to Rancho Cañada golf course.

■ Mmmm, bubbly

The Bountiful Basket on San Carlos Street in Carmel, which carries a bounty of olive oils, vinegars, wines and related gifts, will host a free Champagne tasting Saturday, Nov. 8, from 2 to 6 p.m. Roland Jacquard of the French Champagne house, Comte Audoin De DamPierre, will be on hand to discuss the finer points of his chateau's releases.

The store, which relocated from the Barnyard last summer, routinely offers special tastings featuring specific winemakers or producers of other delicious goods. For more information, stop by the shop in the Doud Arcade or call (831) 625-4457.

■ Another chance to learn

The seemingly indefatigable duo of Arijit and Sangita Das will be offering another round of Indian cooking classes via the Monterey Adult School beginning Friday, Nov. 7, with sessions following Nov. 14 and 21, and Dec. 5, from 6 to 9 p.m. Each evening costs $25.

On the syllabus for the Indian Culinary Potpourri course are "Meat Lovers Unite," with chicken chop, yogurt salad, Indian milk tea, chicken malwani and jeera rice; "Indian Urban Movie Snacks," with ghoogni, rasmalai, paneer chops and sweet chutney; "Eggs Galore," with egg dolma, cardamom tea, egg omelet curry and Indian dry puffed bread; and "A Fishy Treat," with a fish sandwich, Indian masala tea, fish moilee and shrimp pilaf.

To sign up, call (831) 373-4600.

■ If Indian's not your cup of tea

Speaking of inexpensive cooking lessons, the Monterey Recreation & Community Services Department offers several classes for kids and one for adults. During the winter and spring, children of various ages can become baking mavens in Cupcake Masters and learn the basics to develop their cheffy talents in Kids Kitchen Caper. Special offerings in the Caper series include Mrs. Claus' Kitchen, Valentine Nostalgic Days, and Mother and Daughter Creations. Other courses are offered for the real younguns 6 and under. Dates and fees for participation vary.

The single offering "for ages 18 and older" during the winter/spring period is Soups, Salads, Stews and More, which will be held Thursday evenings from 6:30 to 8:30 in Monterey. Sessions led by a professional chef and featuring local ingredients will be held Dec. 11, as well as Jan. 8, March 12, April 9 and May 14 next year. The cost is $36 per meeting for Monterey residents and $47 for all others.

For more information or to sign up, visit www.monterey.org/rec or call (831) 646-3866.

■ L'Auberge gets props

They may be inaccessible to many, but the upscale L'Auberge Carmel and its tiny restaurant, Aubergine, are favorites among Conde Nast Traveler readers and Gayot.com reviewers. Participants in the this year's Readers Choice Poll voted the Monte Verde Street hotel No. 31 on the list of the top 100 in the United States, while Gayot.com named Aubergine among its Top 10 New Restaurants in the nation.

Although L'Auberge has operated a restaurant since the hotel's comprehensive remodel and opening in 2004 under the leadership of David Fink, the restaurant was renamed, features a new menu and has a new master in the form of chef Christophe Grosjean, who worked for Stamenov in the kitchen at Bernardus.

The 12-table establishment features "fresh-from-the-garden-and-farm modern French cuisine with California influences," and an extensive wine list that taps into its 4,500-bottle collection housed in an underground cellar.

L'Auberge and Aubergine are located on Monte Verde Street just a few steps from city hall in downtown Carmel.

■ Snail celebrates turning 50

A Carmel institution that makes folks wish the walls could talk, L'Escargot restaurant celebrated its 50th anniversary Monday evening with a period-dress party and classic dishes offered for $4.95.

Waitresses donned poodle skirts to dish out founder Yvan Nopert's famous chicken with black truffle-Madeira cream sauce, Monterey sand dabs lightly breaded and baked with a lemon-caper beurre blanc, and Boeuf Bourguignon, all sold for 1958 prices to delighted diners.

Even during nights when such deals aren't to be had, L'Escargot, owned and run by chef Kerry Loutas for about a decade, offers wonderful food and warm, old Carmel ambiance.

The caramelized onion and goat cheese tart is a delectably balanced combination of creamy, piquant, sweet, savory and crisp, while the mussels steamed with shallots and cream are a steal as an appetizer that could easily be dinner. And on the occasion bouillabaisse appears on the menu, don't miss the chance to order it. For dessert, L'Escargot is known for its pillows of crème brûlée carefully plated with fresh fruit and a berry coulis. The restaurant also offers a fixed-price Bistro menu.

Find L'Escargot on Mission Street just south of Fourth Avenue (look for the carved wood snail out front) or call (831) 620-1942.

■ Get down and dirty

High Ground Organics farm in Watsonville invites people who like digging in the mud for the sake of something good to "enjoy the abounding life in Harkins Slough" while planting native rushes, sedges, grasses and wildflowers on the farm's conservation easement during two special planting days set for Nov. 22 and Dec. 13.

Each Saturday event will run from 10 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. and include a potluck lunch, warm drinks, bird watching and lively company, not to mention lots of good, hard work, rain or shine. Those interested in helping should meet at High Ground, 521 Harkins Slough Road in Watsonville. For more information, call (831) 761-8694.

"Arthur's work is just beautiful and bright," explained BeBe, exhibit curator and manager of the hermitage bookstore. "His paintings show nature at its finest."

Also featured in the exhibit will be work by painters Lynn Jays and Brother Emmaus, jewelry artist Sophia Christine and multimedia artist Dan Cronin.

Many Big Sur locals remember Jays, who lived in Big Sur for more than 30 years before moving to Northern California about a decade ago. Jays died earlier this year, and she left behind a treasure trove of her oil paintings, which depict Big Sur landscapes.

Cronin, a Big Sur resident whose work has been presented in shows at the Monterey Museum of Art and the Pacific Grove Art Center, once served on the maintenance staff at the hermitage.

Proceeds from the show will benefit the hermitage, which lost much of its summer revenues as a result of recent wildfires. To help pay its expenses, the hermitage offers guests single-occupancy "retreats."

"We've been evacuated twice for fires, and we're trying to recoup," BeBe explained.

The exhibit will be on display until the end of the year.

Founded in 1958, the hermitage was established by the Camaldolese branch of the Benedictine family of monastic communities. It remains the oldest Camaldolese hermitage in the Western Hemisphere and is located about 50 miles south of Carmel.

The reception starts at 6:30 p.m. For more information, call (831) 667-2320 or visit hermitagebigsur.com.

■ Art center unveils shows

Three exhibits opening Saturday, Nov. 8, at the Carmel Art Association showcase a diversity of styles, subject matter and palettes.

The one time chair of the Monterey Peninsula College art department, Alex Gonzales presents "Works on Paper," a retrospective collection of paintings and drawings in watercolor, ink and mixed media he has assembled over the past three decades.

Using the flora of the Asilomar dunes as inspiration, painter Tim Sloan unveils "Along the Coast," a collection of oils. Meanwhile, a group exhibit features Susan Giacometti's paintings and prints, Andrea Johnson's acrylics and John Francis Marsh's automotive paintings.

The art association, which hosts a reception from 6 to 8 p.m., is located on Dolores Street between Fifth and Sixth. For more information, call (831) 624-6176 or visit www.carmelart.org.

notes strength, flexibility and balance — and meditation are essential to their performance, believing that inner peace has a profound effect on the creative process.

At 7:30 p.m. in the Sunset Center lobby, Dr. Stephanie Taylor will present a demonstration of tai chi.

The shows begins at 8 p.m. Tickets range from $40 to $50. Sunset Center is located at San Carlos and Ninth. For tickets or more information, call (831) 620-2048 or visit www.sunsetcenter.org.

Goodman, Duke Ellington and Count Basie, Ferguson meticulously recreates the swing era sound.

A pianist, trombonist, composer, arranger, producer and educator, Ferguson, has performed with an impressive array of talent, including Ella Fitzgerald, Tony Bennett, Nelson Riddle, Dionne Warwick and Natalie Cole. He also tours regularly with the Funk Brothers, the legendary house band of Motown Records.

When they perform at Sunset Center, Larocque and the orchestra will play some of the more memorable hits of the 1940s, including "Boogie Woogie Bugle Boy," "I've Got A Crush On You," "In The Mood" and "And the Angels Sing." Between songs, Larocque and Ferguson add a nostalgic twist to the show by recreating commercials by vintage sponsors.

The show begins at 3 p.m. Tickets range from $39.50 to $49.50. Sunset Center is located at San Carlos and Ninth. For tickets or more information, call (831) 620-2048 or visit www.sunsetcenter.org.

SUNDAY, NOVEMBER 9 AT 3PM
Sunset Center - Carmel-by-the-Sea

HYBRIDS

administrative purposes, not emergency responses that require high-speed driving.

Tomasi said his research indicated hybrids would be less efficient and effective than expected while costing tens of thousands dollars more than conventional police vehicles.

Among the major concerns, he said, are the cost and the high center of gravity, which makes some of them prone to rollovers during high-speed driving. Most are front-wheel drive rather than the preferred rear-wheel drive, and it's difficult to mount spotlights and install the necessary wiring and other apparatus. Interior space is limited, and the estimated $800 per year in gas savings would not offset the higher price tags of hybrids. In addition, once outfitted with all the necessary police gear and equipment, the vehicles get heavier and less fuel efficient.

In conversations with Steve Nielsen, field operations manager for the California Highway Patrol's fleet, Tomasi said he learned hybrid technology is at least two years away from being useful for officers on patrol.

"His recommendation was to delay," he said. "Most agencies are staying with the Crown Victorias we currently use."

But Tomasi said other non-emergency cars, trucks and SUVs could be replaced with hybrids. Building services' 2001 GMC Safari van, 2000 Jeep Cherokee and 2006 Ford Ranger, for instance, could be replaced with Ford Escapes or Toyota Highlanders. In the police department, a 2001 Ford Taurus, a Crown Vic, a 10-year-old Ford Expedition and a 2006 Ford Ranger could be exchanged, as could the fire department's Expedition.

Councilman Gerard Rose said the report convinced him of the need to continue using Crown Victorias to chase down bad guys.

"But any vehicle that's not going to be used as a prowler ought to be a hybrid," he commented. "Even hardcore folks like me who have always liked their engines big would like to see the city set an example."

For a modest price increase, the city could gain much in positive perception, Rose surmised.

Councilwoman Paula Hazdovac agreed. "We should use these where we can," she said.

Everyone says a woman's heart is different. We treat it that way.

We're introducing a new program designed just for women — it's called the Women's Heart Risk Assessment. As part of our Women's HeartAdvantage® Program, we'll take a comprehensive look at your personal risk for heart disease and help you develop a plan for reducing that risk. Consultations will include:

- Evaluation of risk factors for heart disease including review of cholesterol and blood glucose test results, blood pressure, and body mass index
- Nutrition review and recommendations
- Individualized heart risk profile
- Consultation with registered nurse and cardiologist
- An action plan with follow-up recommendations

Senior Living

Everybody Needs a Break Now and Then

Even the most dedicated family caregivers periodically need "time off" to replenish their energy. That's what our Respite Care service is for.

Our Home Care Coordinator will visit you first to discuss your needs and wishes.

When you need a break, we will carefully select a Personal Attendant to be at home with your loved one while you are away, and to follow the routine that you have established.

You can't take good care of anyone else unless you take care of yourself!

"Central Coast Senior Services arranged for care for my parents several times and I couldn't have been more pleased. Literally within a couple hours of my phone call, they had someone in my father's home so he could return from the hospital. They provided 24-hour care for my father, who is blind, including fixing his meals and helping him bathe. I found their services to be exceptional."

"For me, it was the only place to be."

This was not a difficult choice. I'm delighted with my life at Carmel Valley Manor. The location is superb; I've loved the Valley since the first time I saw it. My apartment and patio are just right. It felt wonderful to let go of excess furnishings and decorative objects. Community life offers many enjoyable options. I frequently visit friends in the Manor's wonderful care centers and it's good to know those are available should I ever need them.

My advice? Plan ahead; don't wait too long to get on the waiting list.

Deep-sea creatures debut in P.G.

By KELLY NIX

LURKING DEEP below the Monterey Bay in a dark, frigid and unforgiving realm is a legion of mysterious creatures seldom seen by people.

But a photographic exhibit at the P.G. Museum of Natural History entitled "Sea Creatures Rediscovered," exposes some of the organisms that exist thousands of feet beneath the bay.

Pacific Grove photographer Jason Bradley teamed up with staff from the Monterey Bay Aquarium Research Institute and the Moss Landing Marine Labs to document unusual deep-sea specimens collected by the research facilities.

"Most of the photos are of preserved animals I exhumed from their jars," Bradley said. "A small amount, about 20 percent, were still alive from trolling nets."

Visitors to the exhibit, which opens Sunday, Nov. 17 will see a variety of organisms found in Monterey Bay including fang-

Dorothea Roberts

April 27, 1920 ~ October 24, 2008

CARMEL ~ The family and friends of Dorothea Roberts were saddened by her passing on Friday, October 24th after a brief illness. She was born in Chowchilla, CA on April 27, 1920 and lived her entire life in Carmel. She was the second of four children born to Dio Lewis and Mary Madana Dawson.

Dorothea was always extremely energetic, even into her eighties. Ever the lightning rod for any occasion, she was also willing to see to the details and chores entailed in the project. Her infectious smile and laugh will not soon be forgotten by her many friends, associates, and even acquaintances. Her youth was filled with accomplishments. A gifted athlete, Dorothea excelled at archery, tennis, and golf. She was Monterey Peninsula Country Club Ladies Champion during the '60s. She became Matron of Honor for the Eastern Star, participated in 20/40 Club, Yes for Carmel, Carmel Sunset Girls of the '30s, and Mission Trails Historical Bottle Club.

While her children were growing up, Dorothea was a leader in Cub Scouts and Boy Scouts. The children were encouraged in many pursuits, even the care and feeding of a virtual zoo in the house and back yard, which at times consisted of tarantulas, snakes of all breeds and dispositions, an armadillo, a skunk, a kinkajou, a slow loris, and Amos the owl, to name but a few. This parental support was extended to her many grandchildren and great-grandchildren, as well.

Dorothea was very active in the community. At times she worked on the Carmel Welcome Wagon, greeting newcomers with a basket of goodies and a kind word. She volunteered for the Red Cross in the '50s and '60s and spent 12 years on the planning commission, working to keep Carmel's character intact and its growth sensible. She served on Clint Eastwood's campaign for mayor.

A successful businesswoman, she owned and operated two dress shops in town: Dorothea's and Casa Dolores Gallery, the latter of which she converted to an art gallery. She enjoyed promoting several Western artists and also featured seascapes, a favorite of hers since the years when she had excelled at painting them herself. She had studied under Buck Warshowsky.

Dorothea and her beloved husband, Kenneth, thoroughly enjoyed their time together, winning several golf tournaments, some at the 49er Encampment at Furnace Creek in Death Valley. They dug for antique bottles throughout the West and England, to which they traveled several times, adding to their marvelous collection. Their travels also took them to Spain, France, Belgium, Italy, and Hawaii.

A practicing Christian Scientist for years, Dorothea spent many hours doing her weekly lesson. Her spirituality was genuine and radiated to others through her wonderful selflessness and sense of humor.

Dorothea was preceded in death by her husband Kenneth, her sister Mary Jane Aldrich, and her brother Donald Dawson. She is survived by her sister, Charlotte Elliott; daughter, Nancy Roberts (Tim Connell) of Carmel; sons, Dio of Carmel Valley, and David of Plymouth, California; grandchildren Ryan Meyer, Courtney Garneri and Alexi and Brittany Connell; great-grandchildren, Kaylee and Jason Meyer and Ayden and Danielle Garneri and cousins too numerous for this page.

A Celebration of Dorothea's Life will be held on Sunday November 9th at 1:00 pm at the Carmel Women's Club on San Carlos and 8th. We encourage those who knew her to attend. Contributions may be sent to Christian Science Reading Room, P.O. Box 185, Carmel, 93921 or to the Salvation Army of the Monterey County, PO Box 1884, Monterey, 93942. Please visit www.thepaulmortuary.com to sign Dorothea's guest book and leave condolences for her family.

'Like a hay wagon rolling downhill on fire'

By STEVE VAGNINI

FOR HER long-anticipated return to the KRML Jazz and Blues Company Saturday, Nov. 8, lyricist and jazz vocalist Lorraine Feather will showcase some chosen compositions of Duke Ellington and Fats Waller with her own lyrics and vocals. Feather, who will be accompanied by Chris Dawson on the piano, is the daughter of the esteemed jazz writer Leonard Feather and big-band singer Jane Larrabee and has had an impressive and diverse career of her own. Jump-starting her career as a backup singer in the 1970s for Petula Clark and Grand Funk Railroad, Feather moved to Los Angeles, where she joined producer Richard Perry's vocal trio, Full Swing, and recorded three albums with the group.

In 2001, Feather released "New York City Drag," an album that featured the compositions of Fats Waller with her own lyrics and vocals.

In addition, Feather has written the lyrics for a number of Disney movies and television programs, including the opening theme for, "All Dogs Go to Heaven." She has received seven Emmy nominations. In April of 2008, Feather released her latest solo project, "Language," the No. 1-selling jazz CD on Amazon the month after its release. The show starts at 7:30 p.m. Call (831) 624-6432.

Peter Case is a singer/songwriter who employs a wide variety of American styles to get his stories across. A founding member of popular 1980s rock 'n' roll group, The Plimsouls, Case has performed as a solo act for 17 years. His 2007 release, "Let Us Now Praise Sleepy John," was nominated for a Grammy in the Best Traditional Folk Album category. Case performs Friday at Monterey Live on Alvarado Street at 7 p.m. Singer/songwriter Crosby Tyler opens the show. Call (831) 373-5483.

Making his first appearance at the Ol' Factory Café in Sand City Thursday, Nov. 13, Tony Furtado is an award-winning banjo and slide guitar virtuoso. Furtado's music is a flawless fusion of bluegrass, country, indie rock, blues, jazz and folk influences.

Opening Thursday's concert at 8 p.m., Peter Mulvey is an indie-folk rocker who has performed many shows for Ol' Factory promoter Morgan Christopher. His musical style is, according to Christopher, "like a hay wagon rolling downhill on fire, driven by a man in an expensive suit." Call (831) 394-6000.

At the Fireplace Lounge in the Monterey Hyatt Regency, drummer David Morwood will be joined Nov. 7 and 8 by guitarist Gino Raugi and pianist Eddie Mendenhall. Raugi, an accomplished guitarist from Santa Cruz, has worked with Nancy Wilson, Earl "Fatha" Hines, The Drifters, Little Anthony and the Imperials, as well as working as a studio musician in Hollywood and in Nashville. Mendenhall began his professional career during his years as a student at Robert Louis Stevenson. He teaches music at Stevenson High School, Monterey Peninsula College and the Monterey Jazz Festival Summer Jazz Camp. Call the Hyatt at (831) 372-1234.

PUBLIC NOTICE

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that the Design Review Board of the City of Carmel-by-the-Sea will conduct a public hearing in the City Hall Council Chambers, located on the east side of Monte Verde between Ocean and Seventh Avenues, on Wednesday, November 19, 2008. The public hearings will be opened at 4:30 p.m. or as soon thereafter as possible. Note: one or more of the items may be on the Consent Agenda. Items on the Consent Agenda will be approved without discussion unless someone requests otherwise. For all other items staff will present the project, then the applicant and all interested members of the public will be allowed to speak or offer written testimony before the Board takes action. Decisions to approve or deny the project may be appealed to the City Council by filing a written notice of appeal with the office of the City Clerk within ten (10) working days following the date of action by the Design Review Board and paying a $260.00 appeal fee as established by the City Council. For those projects listed as appealable to the California Coastal Commission, appeals may be filed directly with the Coastal Commission for no fee, by filing a written notice of appeal with the Coastal Commission's Central Coast office in Santa Cruz. Such appeals must be filed within ten working days of the Coastal Commission's receipt of the City's Final Local Action Notice.

If you challenge the nature of the proposed action in court, you may be limited to raising only those issues you or someone else raised at the public hearing described in this notice, or in written correspondence delivered to the Design Review Board or the City Council at, or prior to, the public hearing.

tooth fish, dragon fish, deep sea jellies, and "strange deep sea worms."

While the photographed specimens are not newly discovered species, many of them have never been seen by those other than scientists and researchers.

"These are old things gathered over the years," Bradley said, "but they are new to the public."

One of the creatures represented in the photo exhibit is the fangtooth, a particularly terrifying-looking fish with razor-sharp teeth that resembles a piranha on steroids. Among the deepest-living fish, fangtooth typically live between 660 to 6,560 feet, though some have been found deeper than 16,000 feet.

Though the fangtooth and other creatures Bradley captured with his Nikon digital camera appear menacing because of their seemingly immense size, most of them are much less intimidating.

"Most of the organisms are pretty darn small," he said.

KENNEY

holding back tears as they talked about their relationship to the Grimeses and their contempt for Kenney.

Tom Wills, Elizabeth Grimes' son, said his mother's murder had "taken trust out of society" for him and his wife. "I can't watch movies with gun violence, and I can't let my 2-year-old daughter cross the street because there's bad people out there, not just on the movies or TV," Wills said.

His wife insisted that Kenney "didn't just kill two people. He took my husband from me. My entire life has been ruined by a man that has no idea that I exist."

Steven Rosnack, Elizabeth Grimes' brother, spoke of their mother, who lost her husband and then her daughter only 15 months apart, only to die a short time before Kenney's sentencing.

"Your soul is going to rot in hell for this," Rosnack said ominously. "And even if you make peace with your maker and make it to heaven, my father — a true veteran, not a coward — will be waiting for you. And you will have to look him in the eye."

Prosecutor Berkley Brannon was the last to speak before the sentence was delivered, asking for the maximum in hope that "perhaps there's somebody out there who's listening that we can deter from such an act of monumental stupidity." Kenney's "wake of destruction" was "the most significant thing he's done in his entire life," he added.

A strip of dirt

Robert Hatcher, a retired attorney who shared a law office with Mel Grimes, accused Kenney of killing his "best friend" over a meaningless strip of land. "You killed two people over a 10-by-3 foot strip of land ... and that is so dumb. Peoples' lives aren't worth that."

The land in question was an area on Kenney's property over which Mel and Elizabeth Grimes had an easement to drive their cars, but which Kenney insisted was his "front garden." The long-standing disagreement spiraled out of control on Jan. 29, 2007, when Kenney had a large boulder delivered to block the Grimeses from driving over the land. Despite having arranged for legal counsel and a deputy sheriff to be present to avoid a confrontation, Kenney found himself alone that night when Mel Grimes began attempting to break the boulder with a sledgehammer. Kenney maintains he fired his gun in self defense after Mel and Elizabeth attacked him, but the jury "reached a very much different view of the facts," according to Sillman.

Throughout the case, Kenney insisted that the Grimeses had a history of assault and abuse toward him, and even after hearing the bitter and emotional testimonies by his victims' friends and family, he did not apologize for the killings or even acknowledge his guilt. Instead, Kenney thanked the members of the court and the police force for displaying "basic human decency" and fairness. Speaking of the members of his church and neighbors who offered their support, Kenney said, "I never knew I had so many friends." But he said he "must ask them for more" — to look after his wife and daughters once he's gone.

"I can't do anything for them now," Kenney said.

29-year-old Long Island, N.Y., resident Christopher Sahn.

Sahn, 23-year-old Micah Springer from Columbus, Ohio, and 28-year-old Raleigh, N.C. resident Viet Quoc Nguyen were killed when Sahn's 2005 Jeep Cherokee ran off the highway the night of Oct. 10 and plunged over the side, rolling twice during the 600-foot fall to the water's edge. Officers found no skid marks on the road.

The three men were MBA students in the prestigious Stanford University's business school, and CHP officers located the wreckage Saturday after classmates reported the men had not arrived Friday night in Big Sur to meet them as expected.

"The largest one I photographed was 9 inches long."

Another photograph of note is a 4-foot-by-6-foot image that makes it possible to visualize how many krill a humpback whale would eat in an average gulp.

"I took a picture of one individual krill," Bradley said, "and I duplicated it on this canvas 60,742 times. And then I calculated that 35 of the panels of krill would be equal to one gulp."

Another exhibit photo shows a detailed portion of MBARI's "Ventana," a remotely operated vehicle used to photograph and collect specimens from the crushing depths of Monterey Bay's underwater canyon.

In some cases, Bradley said he used special lenses, stark backgrounds, special lighting and subtle post-production techniques to enhance the life forms.

"I wanted to capture the essence of the animal," he said.

Bradley, a professional photographer who studied marine biology in college, said he came up with the idea of photographing deep-sea specimens a couple of years ago after seeing some photos his wife took of krill that were on display at an marine education event in Monterey.

"My wife had a point-and-shoot camera, and she was taking pictures of the jars," he said. "And I was analyzing what she was doing. I liked a lot of them even though they were just dead krill in a jar."

Shooting some of the specimens turned out to be a smelly and messy challenge since most had been kept in jars full of formaldehyde, Bradley said.

"Each animal required a whole different technique" to photograph, Bradley said.

Museum manager Lori Mannel said the exhibit highlights not only the rich marine life within the Monterey Bay, but the cutting-edge research performed by dozens of local scientific institutions.

"A lot of the research is of international importance," Mannel said. "The museum is the place where we can display what these institutions are researching and the meaning of their work."

In addition to 45 photographs on display, the exhibit will feature actual laboratory specimens collected by MLML and MBARI researchers.

"Visitors can look at these creatures up close and in person even though the creatures might be very small," Mannel said.

The grand opening reception for Sea Creatures Rediscovered is Sunday, Nov. 16, from 3 to 5 p.m. Refreshments will be served and there will be a free drawing for a gift print. The exhibit runs through March 7.

What the public wants from Obama

HAVE THE majority of citizens of this country changed their minds about terrorism, taxes, immigration, third-term abortions and other key national issues?

With the election of a liberal Democrat, Barack Obama, as president Tuesday, a lot of commentators are saying they have, and that the public obviously wants Obama's presidency to be radically different from the George Bush presidency on a host of critical topics.

But there was a strong clue on the front page of Monday's New York Times that some things aren't going to change at all, and that Obama may be forced — by circumstances or public opinion — to do things pretty much the same way Bush did.

The Times story, headlined, "Next President Will Face Test on Detainees," carried the surprising news (to the Times, anyway) that many of the people being held at the U.S. prison at Guantanamo Bay are, in fact, terrorists bent on committing mayhem against Americans, and that Obama will have to figure out some way to deal with them that doesn't include simply letting them go.

What a switch from the Times' ceaseless depiction over the past five or six years of Guantanamo as a place where innocent victims of Bush's imperialism have been cruelly deprived of their basic human rights, if not tortured into making phony confessions.

Why run the revelatory story that many of the inmates are actually terrorists now?

Obviously, the editors of the Times decided some backtracking was in order to lessen the criticism of Obama when he inevitably changes his mind about what to do with terror suspects captured on foreign battlefields.

Don't be surprised if, in the near future, the New York Times or one of the other national news organizations closely allied with the Democratic Party runs a story about the importance of intercepting foreign phone calls and email messages, and how waiting for warrants (as the media have brutally criticized Bush for not being willing to do) would put the safety of our nation in jeopardy. Or that tracking international money transfers is a vital antiterrorism tool. Etc., etc.

If Obama doesn't know it already, he's going to find out real soon that being in power is a completely different thing from hurling criticisms from the safety of the opposition.

Consider this scenario: A Marine unit captures an Al Qaeda operative in Afghanistan. The man has a cell phone. In the phone's memory are several phone numbers in the United States. Would any president wait even five minutes to start eavesdropping on those phones? Of course not.

Nevertheless, when Bush did it, he was accused of shredding the Bill of Rights.

Obama won't be accused of doing that. But we are also quite certain that, as every president must, he'll use every power available to him to keep this country safe.

However they voted Tuesday, it's certainly what most Americans still want.

Next week: Taxes

Letters to the Editor

For, not against
Dear Editor,

A very heartfelt thank you to the community for its support of my appeal of the planning commission decision to allow the demolition of the Burde bank building. The city council listened carefully to the city attorney and to the testimony of many speakers — architects, preservationists, former elected and appointed officials. And, of course, to the informed reasoning of land use attorney Susan Brandt-Hawley, who argued the case so effectively. Following all the eloquent testimony, the council voted unanimously to grant the appeal. The Burde bank building, currently occupied by Homescares, will not be torn down.

In defending his position, the developer, John Mandurrago, argued that people are always against something. I think he has got it all wrong. The people Tuesday night were for preserving a building that is historically, architecturally and visually significant. The people were speaking for the city's right to legislate within the boundaries of the law for its aesthetic welfare. The people were arguing for, not against. Thank you to everyone who attended. Each of you added an important bit of testimony which helped to win the appeal. I appreciate your support.

A sad day for California
Dear Editor,

The election of Barack Obama was made bittersweet for many of us by the passage of Proposition 8. Tuesday was a very sad day for California, as discrimination is now part of our constitution. There are some things that, no matter what the majority may believe, are simply wrong and should never be ballot items. To be sure, this is a very limited list, and is limited to those issues that would permit the use of the ballot box to codify discrimination against other members of society.

The far right wing that funded "Yes on 8" mixed children with its favorite tactic, fear, in a shameful campaign. They did this knowing that they could not muster a winning argument to explain how marriage is threatened by same-sex couples being afforded this civil right. So, instead, they filled the airwaves with fear, distortion and lies.

The fight for equality is always painful and filled with setbacks. Education is the tool which will help us build a California that says no to discrimination, to banish it from our values and our laws forever. Today is a sad day, a setback, but not the end. Freedom, liberty and justice for all continually trump bigotry, intolerance and ignorance.

were delighted by the warmth and courtesy of local people, the one thing that made our trip so special was the manner in which wildlife have been incorporated, protected, cherished and enjoyed, so close to human habitation.

Here in Ireland seals stay well away from humans, a sad indictment of the treatment they have received at the hands of a few. Wildlife in Ireland is taken for granted and, despite 10 years of financial boom, we still have nowhere to rehab the injured.

While in Monterey, we spent hours enjoying the antics of a group of seals close to shore. They played and snoozed, oblivious of our presence. I have never been able to get so close to be able to enjoy their natural behaviour! The sea otters tangled in their kelp homes, unthreatened and oblivious.

The Carmel Pine Cone so stunned us with the warmth and affection displayed for animals and native wildlife, the image of the Garden of Eden sprang to mind.

The wealth of facilities that rescue and rehabilitate wildlife in the State of California and in particular, Monterey Peninsula, was so heartening.

The only rehab facility in Ireland for marine wildlife is the Irish Seal Sanctuary, which is in a private back garden and run entirely by volunteers. The sanctuary had hoped to have a national facility built and, after years of campaigning and planning, it looked like a possibility, but rather than adapt the plans to the budget, the council simply cancelled the development.

Our National Lottery system categorically refuses to support any animal charity, regardless of need.

The Monterey Peninsula and bay are a treasure, a delicate blossom that should be enjoyed and protected. It is an example of how humans and wildlife can live side by side. It is a joy to visit for all those who care about our disappearing world of wildlife.

New restaurants join downtown lineup

HALLOWEEN IS now a week past and in Carmel-by-the-Sea, as elsewhere, the orange pumpkins and black witches are slowly giving way to Jolly Old St. Nick, festive holly wreaths and all the trimmings of the holiday season. Within a few weeks, the medians on Ocean Avenue will be transformed to reflect the look and feel of a winter village — as much as you can on the sunny Central California coast!

All throughout the business district, there is anticipation about what the holiday season will bring and great optimism that, although we need the rain, it will fall gently and in short bursts so the locals can venture out to patronize their favorite places and the tourists can avail themselves of all the terrific shopping, lodging, dining and sights Carmel has to offer.

Two new restaurants have opened in downtown Carmel. Siam Orchid Thai, offering extensive lunch and dinner menus, recently opened in the site that formerly housed Tutto Mondo, on the east side of Dolores between Ocean and Seventh. Holiday shoppers at Carmel Plaza have a new place to have a nice relaxed lunch, Bistro Beaujolais. Located near the Cheese Shop on the downstairs level, this spot was once Lenny's Deli. Bistro Beaujolais is owned by Firok Shield, who owns two other Carmel restaurants, da Giovanni and Bistro Giovanni.

Masterpiece Gallery has a new location on the east side of Dolores between Fifth and Sixth avenues, opposite the Carmel Art Association. Also, optometrist Richard Conklin moved his office from the back to the front of Village Court on the east side of Mission between Fourth and Fifth. His old location is now the site of Poppy Patch Studios, an art production studio.

Finally, beauty salon/spa Mantra Aveda, located at Mission and Seventh (Court of Fountains), is now under new ownership. The new proprietress is Veronica Dokie.

Sandy Claws By Margot Petit Nichols

PAPILLON LOFINK, left, and his sister, Millie, come to Carmel Beach at least once a week on their day off from Mom's Monterey shop, Tenth Street Ceramics.

Papillon, who just turned 15 in October, doesn't live up to his name: He's a Maltese terrier. Millie, 4, is a schnauzer.

This darling duo lives with Mom Mariko and Dad Ned in South Salinas and enjoy the car trip to and from work. They also enjoy being at work because of the numerous social aspects it affords: mingling with customers and customers' dogs.

At the shop, they have already begun to make Christmas presents for their friends: ceramic Christmas tree balls imprinted with their paw prints. First Mom has to clean their foot pads, then paints on bright colors – red for Millie, blue for Papillon. She then presses their paws against the wet clay ornaments for a unique signature print.

Last Christmas, they discovered where their own presents were hidden at home by the aroma of dog treats tucked away in their new sweaters.

Both have Puppia harness vests they bought at Chateau Le Paws. Papillon's is emerald green, and Millie's is a girly pink – striking colors set off handsomely by their respective coats. Papillon also wears a collar imprinted with the tongue-in-cheek words, "Bad to the Bone," and Millie has a pink collar that sparkles in the sunlight.

Papillon's favorite toy is a stuffed teddy bear that he generously lets his sister play with from time to time, even though she generally favors her own plush squirrel.

PRISTINE LIVING IN CARMEL

Built in 2006, this beautiful newish construction has it all!!

Perhaps the most beautiful kitchen in Carmel...Julia Child would have loved it! The kitchen is open to the dining area which has a gas fireplace and opens out to a lovely spacious patio with another gas fireplace. Large living room with very high ceilings and lots of light...another fireplace and wet bar area. Fabulous master bedroom with fireplace and large balcony with a view of the ocean. Special built-in cappuccino machine just outside the master suite so that you do not even have to leave your room! Large master closet and built-in TV behind bathroom mirror...loads of extras... AND a large two car garage. Three bedrooms and two bathrooms total, approx. 2300 square feet.

Tim Allen
presents
Al Smith's
"Carmel Legends"

If you are not familiar with "The Nixon File" in the Harrison Memorial Library, we recommend it to you. The name "Nixon" has nothing to do with the former president, but refer to MRS. D.E. NIXON, a rather formidable lady of great imagination. In 1948, after having lived in Carmel for 25 years, she conceived the heroic task of assembling pictures, letters and memorabilia to record Carmel's history. Three massive cabinets in The Library now contain the results of her labors of love, and they are a gold mine of information. Another Nixon of her time, probably no more related to her than Richard M., was "Nick," a friendly character, who spent most of his time sweeping out the post office and telling stories to people collecting their daily mail. One had to do with his dog, Duke, who chased cats. He'd round up 15 or so in an alley, and when they split up, Duke would "just stand there wondering which one to go after." Nick and Duke may have been a bit confused, but MRS. D.E. knew what she was doing!

3RD QUARTER CONDO REPORT: MARKET'S DOWN, BUT NOT OUT

low. It was a meager 10 percent on October 1, up a tad from the nearly invisible readings of 8 percent on April 1 and 9 percent on July 1.

The low reading, together with current economic uncertainties, guarantees another weak performance during the fourth quarter of 2008.

Gross dollar volume for condo sales in the Monterey Peninsula during the third quarter was down from last year, but up a bit from the alarmingly low number in the second quarter. The improvement, however, was

IT WILL not be a surprise to anyone that the Monterey Peninsula condominium market in the third quarter continued to be weak.

Our Market Barometer — the percentage of listings in escrow — continues to be exceedingly

low. It was a meager 10 percent on October 1, up a tad from the nearly invisible readings of 8 percent on April 1 and 9 percent on July 1.

The low reading, together with current economic uncertainties, guarantees another weak performance during the fourth quarter of 2008.

Gross dollar volume for condo sales in the Monterey Peninsula during the third quarter was down from last year, but up a bit from the alarmingly low number in the second quarter. The improvement, however, was due entirely to the sale of three units at Spanish Bay during the quarter at prices that totaled $5,827,250, or 28 percent of the total volume in the Monterey Peninsula in the quarter.

Our two largest condo markets are Carmel Valley and Monterey. Carmel Valley held up well in relation to last year with the same number of sales, 10, and a gross volume of $6.739 million, up from last year's fourth-quarter volume of $5.98 million. The two senior citizen complexes in Carmel Valley, Hacienda Carmel and Del Mesa Carmel, had three and two transactions respectively — not great, but at least something — while Carmel Valley Ranch logged three sales in the quarter, with a healthy median sales price of $1,080,000.

Monterey, on the other hand, suffered a large decline from last year. Sales volume declined from $7,677,681 to $1,663,000, a drop of 78 percent. The number of units sold dropped from 14 to 3. It was truly a terrible quarter for condos in Monterey.

Prices

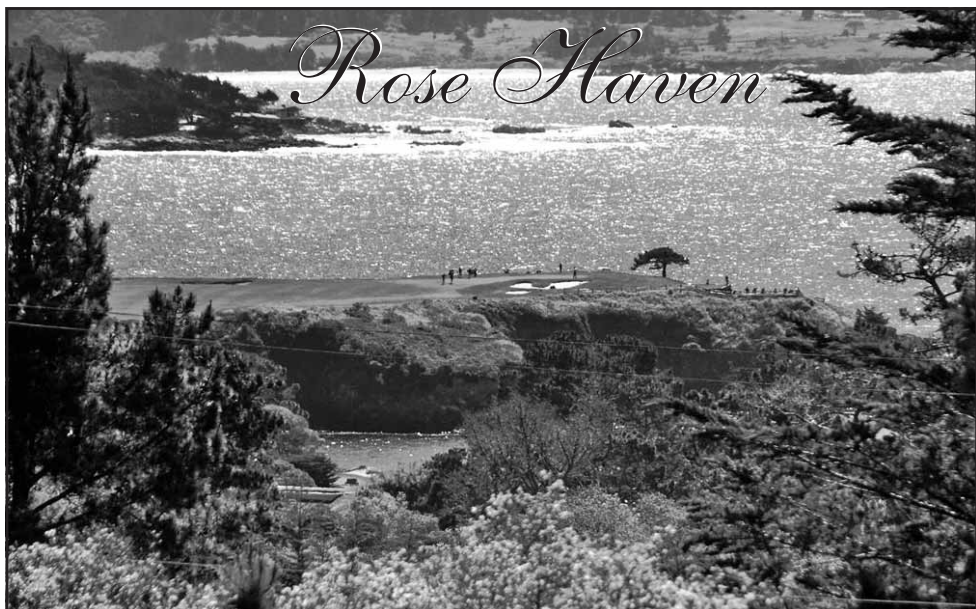

For the most part, prices are trending down, just like volume. The median condo sales price of $568,250 during the fourth quarter in Carmel Valley improved over the same period last year but was off the 2007 median sales price of $642,500.

All the other markets declined, with the exception of Monterey, where the median sales price jumped to $590,000 from $472,500 last year, but on the meager volume of only three sales.

There's no doubt that 2008 will go in the books as one of the weakest condo markets on record.

POLICE LOG

Carmel-by-the-Sea: A 17-year-old suspect was arrested on Fourth Avenue for public intoxication and was subsequently found to be in possession of a controlled substance. Due to the amount of medication he had taken, he was taken to CHOMP for treatment and evaluation.

Carmel-by-the-Sea: Carmelo Street victim reported the theft of a gold watch valued at $26,400 from his residence. Victim had no suspect information.

dent wanted it documented that he called CPD to report an ongoing issue and potential problem with a neighbor who is upset over the recent construction at his residence. He also wanted to document that his neighbor called him long distance to complain about his vehicle being parked in front of her residence. He requested that CPD provide close patrol of his residence and vehicle until he returns to Carmel on Oct. 25. He was advised that upon his return, if he is confronted by his neighbor, he should contact authorities. Area checks were conducted at 2321 hours and 0100 hours with nothing to report. This report is being made for documentation purposes only.

Carmel-by-the-Sea: A 70-year-old female suspect was found to have an outstanding $10,000 felony warrant for an FTA [failure to appear] on several charges. Warrant control confirmed the warrant. She was located at her residence and was taken into custody without incident.

Carmel-by-the-Sea: Female called to report losing her wallet while observing the parade in the commercial district. She gave a brief description of the wallet and was advised to contact police if she found the wallet.

Carmel-by-the-Sea: A citizen reported two dogs were chasing each other and ran into the her from behind while on Scenic Road. She was struck on the back of her legs while jogging. She was helped to her feet by citizens in the area. She described the dog owner as a male adult, approximately 37 years old, 6 feet 2 inches tall, with short brown curly hair. He was possibly wearing a jean jacket with plaid on it and long pants that were greenish khaki in color. The female contacted the dog owner, and he stated he did not see his dog run into her. The dog owner only gave a first and last name. The dogs were described as grey in color with white chest and belly — unknown breed. The female reported the incident by telephone after leaving the beach.

Carmel-by-the-Sea: A 51-year-old male driver was arrested on Ocean Avenue for DUI.

Carmel-by-the-Sea: Ambulance dispatched on a mutual aid to a San Antonio Avenue residence for a female reacting to medications. Patient transported Code 2 to CHOMP.
