COUNTY AGENCY APPROVES INCORPORATION OF CARMEL VALLEY

Proposed Boundaries Town of Carmel Valley

Stretching 14 miles from Highway 1 almost to Sleepy Hollow, the Town of Carmel Valley will go into existence in July 2010 if voters approve it next November, according to a plan OK'd this week by a government commission.

■ Election recommended for November 2009

By CHRIS COUNTS

AFTER ALMOST a decade of trying, proponents of a Town of Carmel Valley got what they wanted Monday when the Local Agency Formation Commission voted 6-1 to recommend the town be created.

It is now up to the Monterey County Board of Supervisors to set a date for an election for residents of the proposed town to decide if they want to incorporate. They will also be asked to elect a five-member town council.

LAFCO recommended the election take place Nov. 3, 2009, with the town officially open for business on July 1, 2010.

There was some last-minute drama Monday, as 3rd District Supervisor Lou Calcagno helped remove Tehama — a 2,000-acre golf club and subdivision co-owned by Clint Eastwood — from the boundaries of the would-be town. More than 25 other neighborhoods and business areas, including the Crossroads, Barnyard and Carmel Rancho shopping centers and several nearby residential communities, also asked to be excluded from the proposed town, but LAFCO turned down those requests.

In contrast to a Nov. 24 public hearing on incorporation — which featured testimony by more than 50 residents — the Dec. 1 hearing offered commissioners a lengthy opportunity to sound off on the issue. Calcagno started things off with a bang by rattling off 20 pages of arguments, which read like a “Greatest Hits” collection of incorporation criticisms. He recited the long list of complaints with a minimum of pauses and often without attribution.

“I’m not comfortable moving this thing forward,” Calcagno said, although he later conceded he was willing to do so, if only to avoid another expensive court battle like the one last summer, which cost taxpayers $240,000 to reimburse attorney Michael Stamp for representing incorporation proponents.

In response, commissioner Vince

NTSB: Henson’s plane had just 32 ounces of fuel

By KELLY NIX

AN AIRPLANE piloted by a Carmel Valley attorney was almost out of fuel when it crashed last week into a golf course just short of the runway at Monterey Peninsula Airport, according to a preliminary report released this week by the National Transportation Safety Board.

On Nov. 25, Zan Henson was piloting a 1970 Piper Cherokee home from a trip to Mexico when the plane struck an oak tree and crash landed in the parking lot of the Monterey Pines Golf Course.

Henson received two cracked vertebrae and a broken rib in the crash, while his friend, Jim Rummonds, an Aptos attorney, had more serious injuries, including three broken vertebrae, four cracked ribs, a collapsed lung and a concussion.

A preliminary investigation released this week by the NTSB shows that the plane Henson was flying had only 32 ounces of fuel in it when it went down.

“During removal of the airplane,” NTSB aviation accident investigator Josh Cawthra wrote in the report, “recovery crews reported they drained 24 ounces of fuel from the left wing fuel tank and 8 ounces of fuel from the right wing fuel tank.”

In an interview at Community Hospital of the Monterey Peninsula the day after the accident, Henson maintained he had an hour’s worth of fuel when the plane crashed. But according to the NTSB, what remained on board was equivalent to less than three cans of soda.

“The pilot stated he realized that he ‘ran the right fuel tank out of fuel,’ and immediately switched to the left fuel tank and turned on the electric fuel boost pump,” the report indicates. “Despite his efforts, the engine did not restart and the airplane descended into trees and subsequently impacted the ground.”

Vandals run wild, damaging house and abusing cat

By MARY BROWNFIELD

A GROUP of rowdy party-goers who imposed on the hospitality of a Hatton Road resident expressed their thanks by vandalizing the home and covering the family cat with orange spray paint, according to Monterey County Sheriff’s Cmdr. Mike Richards. The case is still under investigation, but officers believe they know who perpetrated the crimes.

While her father was in Los Angeles, the 17-year-old girl who lives at the home was supposed to stay elsewhere, Richards reported.

But when a friend called and asked if she and some other girls who had been at a nearby party could come stay the night because they were too drunk to drive, the daughter agreed.

When the girls arrived around 1:30 a.m. Nov. 16, they were accompanied by five males who had also been at the party.

The teen stayed up with the group until around 3:30 a.m., Richards said, when she went upstairs to sleep. About two hours later, she heard noise and went downstairs to investigate.

She found three of the men, who are suspected to be in their late teens and early 20s, still in the house and quickly noticed white fire-extinguisher powder all over the kitchen.

“She started looking around and saw the extent of the damage,” Richards said.

The report did not indicate when the three suspects left the house, but the 17-year-old soon discovered they had punched

Big Sur artist’s unforgettable day at the White House

By CHRIS COUNTS

THE WHITE House is located about 2,400 miles east of Big Sur, but thanks to the creative handiwork of artist Sofanya White, the two places are a bit closer today.

White traveled this week to Washington, D.C., where she attended the unveiling of this year’s White House Christmas tree. First lady Laura Bush presided over the event, a White House tradition since 1889.

Alec Arago, an aide to Congressman Sam Farr, had recommended that White decorate an ornament for this year’s tree. Her hand-painted ornament, which now hangs on the White House’s 20-foot Fraser fir, features a colorful Big Sur seascape. Mrs. Bush asked artists to embellish the ornaments

Deer with stake in antlers appears to be losing weight

By KELLY NIX

A BUCK in Pacific Grove who has had a three-foot wooden stake caught in his antlers since July appears to have lost weight.

The buck acquired the appendage five months ago while scratching or sharpening his antlers at a construction site outside a Sunset Drive home. A piece of rope became wrapped around the animal's antlers, fixing the stake.

"He looks thinner," said Elizabeth Conti-Yeo, Pacific Grove's animal control officer who observes the buck regularly. But the weight loss might not be from the buck having trouble eating.

"It also could be from the rut," Conti-Yeo said. The SPCA for Monterey County has been hesitant to remove the stake by tranquilizing the buck because of the dangers in the procedure.

"The tranquilizer itself easily could kill the deer, as could the drug used to counteract the tranquilizer," said SPCA spokeswoman Beth Brookhouser.

Unless the buck can't eat or is in distress, the SPCA will wait until the animal sheds its horns, which usually happens in winter or early spring.

"We will intervene as a last resort," Brookhouser said. Conti-Yeo said she's concerned the buck could break its neck if it gets the stake caught in a fence and tries to free itself.

In photos Conti-Yeo took of the buck Nov. 8, it's apparent the stake has rubbed against the deer's neck and back. "Where that stake rubs on his fur," she said, "he is losing that hair, and it looks like it could become an open wound."

The buck usually travels with a group of other bucks in the golf course and beach areas of Pacific Grove. Whenever she encounters the buck, Conti-Yeo takes pictures of the animal to document its health.

"I have pictures from [the beginning]," she said, "And now he is definitely not as full."

Brookhouser said it's not uncommon for deer to have items attached to their antlers, such as plastic soda holders and construction mesh.

"We have even seen barbed wire," she said. Though the SPCA and the City of Pacific Grove had been flooded with calls about the deer from surprised residents, Brookhouser said her agency has not received any recent reports about the buck's condition.

"We just encourage everybody to keep us updated on the guy," she said.

Young children watched C.V. cockfight, gambling

By KELLY NIX

CHILDREN AS young as 5 years old were in attendance for a bloody cockfight last weekend east of Carmel Valley Village that resulted in the arrest of three people and the seizure of dozens of fighting birds.

Following a tip, Monterey County Sheriff's deputies Saturday, Nov. 29, raided a home off Carmel Valley Road where a cockfight was in progress. The arrival of law enforcement officers and K-9's sent men, women and several young children scrambling.

"There were children there ranging from 5 to 11 years old," said sheriff's Cmdr. Fred Garcia. "I would make an assumption they were probably watching" the cockfight.

While most of the people in attendance got away, deputies arrested Matthew Cervelli, 58, of Carmel Valley, and Ramon Lopez, 46, and Amado Aguirre, 48, both of Salinas.

"It appears [Cervelli] was hosting it," Garcia said. "He had a van with a table and an ice chest, like he was selling beverages."

Aguirre was charged with possessing fighting birds and resisting and delaying a peace officer, while Lopez was also arrested for possessing fighting birds and a probation violation, Garcia said.

Cervelli was arrested for conspiracy, a felony, for setting up the operation, according to Garcia.

Eight other people at the cockfight, including women who had children with them, were questioned about being participants, Garcia said. The sheriff's office will forward their names to the district attorney's office, which could charge them

Companies vie for Tularcitos classroom project

By MARY BROWNFIELD

PUBLIC AGENCIES are learning the world's woeful economic state has a substantial silver lining: lots of competition from contractors wanting construction jobs, and lower than expected bids. Such is the case for the new five-classroom building planned for Tularcitos Elementary School in Carmel Valley Village.

"We had budgeted $1.6 million in construction costs," Rick Blanckmeister, chief business official for Carmel Unified School District, said last month. But on Nov. 4, the district's board of education approved a contract with Kent Construction of Gilroy for $984,799.

"There could be additional costs or unforeseen circumstances, but it's still significantly lower than what we had anticipated," Blanckmeister said. "It's definitely a reflection of the market. And we had nine bidders on the job."

Most of their bids fell in the $1 million-to-$1.1 million range, according to Blanckmeister, with the highest coming in at $1,233,000. The new building is the only project at Tularcitos being funded by taxpayers via the $21.5 million bond they approved in 2005.

The five-classroom wing will replace some portable units, though a few will be used for special programs like music, and the new building will provide more space than currently exists on campus.

The new classrooms will also set the standard for technology, according to Blanckmeister, including interactive white boards, Internet, computers, audio and visual equipment, and necessary infrastructure.

"Part of the concept there is those classrooms will be seen as setting expectations for technology," Blanckmeister said. "A lot of research went into what standards for elementary-school classrooms should be."

According to the contract, the company has 240 days to complete the work, so the new wing should be finished in July 2009.

"It will be up and running for the following school year," he said.

City inches closer to joining Monterey Fire

By MARY BROWNFIELD

WHEN PACIFIC Grove firefighters don Monterey Fire Department badges and start getting City of Monterey paychecks in mid-December, Carmel's contract with Pacific Grove for fire chief services will end. But no leadership gap will follow, according to a short-term contract approved by the Carmel City Council Tuesday that will have Monterey staff taking on those responsibilities.

And by the time that new agreement expires at the end of February 2009, Carmel firefighters might be gearing up to become Monterey employees as well, council members said.

The consolidation of Monterey and P.G. forced the issue of CFD's long-term options, and police chief George Rawson outlined three: hiring a new chief and becoming a stand-alone department, contracting with another city or fire district to run Carmel's fire station, or forming a completely new government agency to run fire departments in the area.

"Important decisions must be made within the next 60 days regarding management of the fire department," Rawson said in his Dec. 2 report.

In his analysis of the options, Rawson concluded operating independently would preserve local control and ensure that Carmel's firefighters would have in-depth knowledge of its confusing streets. But a stand-alone department would be costly.

"This option is very expensive and is not recommended," Rawson wrote in his report. "Establishing a stand-alone fire department would be an arduous process that would necessitate an immediate recruitment effort to hire additional personnel to include a fire chief, division chiefs, and other personnel to oversee fire prevention and training."

Getting the City of Monterey, Carmel Valley Fire Protection District or Cal Fire to take over Carmel's fire department would allow shared administrative costs, better staffing and infrastructure, and abundant resources, but would deprive the city of control over personnel costs.

"This option is the most logical and will probably be the most economical," he said. If implemented correctly with the right partner, contracting would improve "firefighting capabilities in all contexts." Since all departments would be under one agency, they would work well together and be able to send multiple engines to a large fire quickly.

Forming a new government agency — called a joint powers authority — would offer better control over salaries and operational costs but would provide only a "marginal return on investment," require more staff and cause liability issues, according to Rawson.

"The process of establishing a JPA also can be arduous and very time consuming," he said. "Based on the narrow window of time Carmel has to execute a new contract, it would be prudent to focus on contracting."

'An extraordinary fire department'

City administrator Rich Guillen has discussed fire consolidation with his counterparts in Monterey and Pacific Grove for more than three years.

"Our cities work really well together," commented Monterey city manager Fred Meurer, who attended the council meeting to encourage Carmel to join Monterey and Pacific Grove in a department run by the City of Monterey. "The next step is to turn our three fire departments into an extraordinary fire department with one chief, one deputy chief and a full complement of officers."

At this week's meeting, after Mayor Sue McCloud said the council would not make any quick decisions about the fire department's long-term future, she opened the discussion to members of the public, but no one responded.

"Certainly if we don't work with our sister cities, we're jeopardizing not only the safety of our fire responders, but putting the safety of our citizens at risk as well," commented councilman Gerard Rose. But he also said it's "absolutely critical we maintain a staff" of Carmel-savvy firefighters who know their way around a town with dimly lit streets and few numbered addresses.

Rose recommended the city look into contracting with Monterey or another neighboring agency.

"I think this is an important and significant step in the Foundation fires up new generator

THE CARMEL Foundation, which was powerless along with the rest of town for days during last January's big storms, wanted to prevent a repeat, considering how many seniors rely on the nonprofit for hot lunch, shelter and companionship almost daily.

After the power came back on, the foundation launched a fundraising effort to purchase a generator that will keep its kitchen and buildings open, warm and productive no matter what's happening with PG&E's lines and poles.

Foundation members and community groups like Yes for Carmel, Monterey Peninsula Volunteer Services, Yellow Brick Road Benefit Shop and The Harden Foundation contributed $44,000 toward the $48,000 project. They were honored for their generosity Nov. 17 at a Generator Installation Celebration, during which they munched cake donated by Safeway and received emergency preparedness kits.

The Carmel Foundation, which relies entirely on donations to operate, provides most of the low-cost housing for seniors in town, offers some 50 classes and events each week, provides hot lunches and food for shut-ins four days per week, and helps members get to medical appointments, go shopping and take field trips.

The foundation is open to anyone age 55 or older and has about 4,000 members.

Groups give smoke detectors to Carmel Valley residents

THREE LOCAL civic groups want to help Carmel Valley residents protect themselves from home fires.

The three organizations — the Carmel Valley Rotary Club, the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers Local 234 and the National Electrical Contractors Association — are sponsoring a smoke-detector giveaway Sunday, Dec. 7, at the Mid Carmel Valley Fire Station at 8455 Carmel Valley Road and the Carmel Valley Fire Station at 26 Via Contenta.

According to Carmel Valley Fire Chief Sidney Reade, home fires pose a greater risk during the holidays.

"Smoke detectors really do save lives," Reade explained. "There are more than 400,000 home fires in the United States every year. And they result in over 3,500 deaths. Everybody assumes they have fire detectors, but often they don't. And there is an increase in fire during the holidays as a result of fireplaces, heaters, Christmas lights and candles. This is a very good time of year to be doing this campaign."

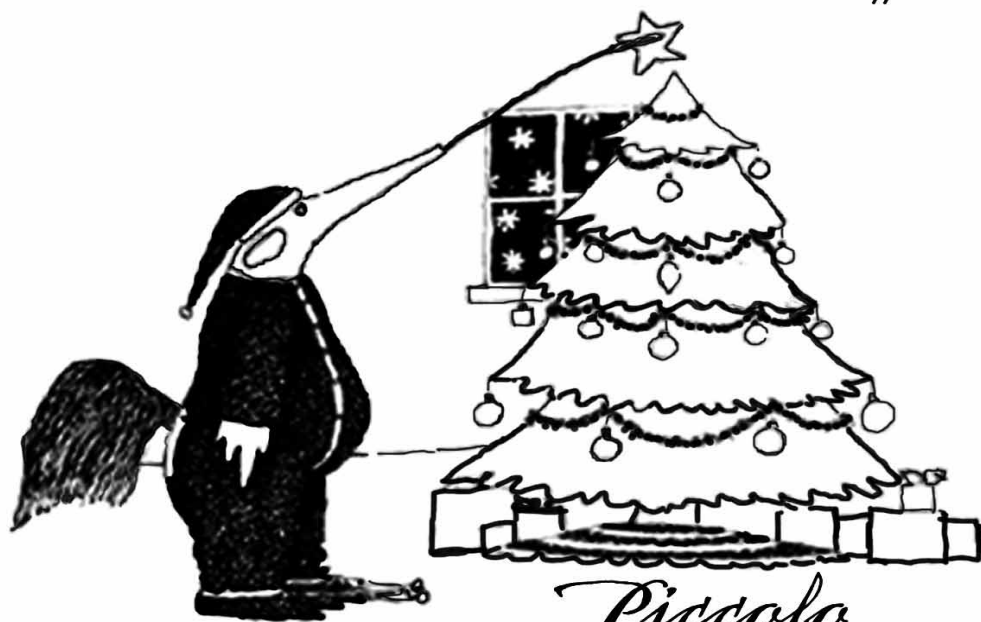

The free smoke detectors will be available at both fire stations from 9 a.m. to noon. Recipients must be at least 18 years old and show identification. For more information, call (831) 624-5907.

right direction," and a shift from a parochial view to a more Peninsula-wide perspective, he said.

"A stand-alone department for a city of 4,000 doesn't work," councilman Ken Talmage said.

But he also agreed local knowledge is important, and Meurer said that, even if consolidation occurs, the Sixth Avenue station would retain its Carmel staff.

"I would argue that what we are proposing would increase your comfort level," he said.

While a Monterey Fire ladder truck now only comes into Carmel if it's needed for a structure fire, in a contract situation, he said, "Every one of our engine companies will be as familiar with runs in Carmel as they are with runs in Pacific Grove and in Monterey."

Guillen thanked the council for its input and said biweekly meetings are already planned for the city managers and fire chiefs.

"We pretty much know the template, so it's pretty much just getting Carmel to fit into that template," he said.

Status quo

Afterward, the council also considered and voted on the temporary agreement with Monterey to have its chiefs run Carmel Fire, just as P.G. Fire Chief Andrew Miller and his assistant chief, Dave Brown, have done for the past few years. Monterey will also continue sending supervisors to major emergencies in town.

Following assurances from Rawson and the fire chiefs the change would be invisible to the public, no members of the audience commented on the $11,250-per-month contract, which will take effect Dec. 15 and terminate Feb. 28, 2009. The council unanimously approved the agreement after praising Miller for his work at CFD.

with a little red, white and blue, so White added a few stars and stripes.

"Sofanya's ornament does a great job illustrating our home," Farr said. "I congratulate her for creating such a great piece of art."

For White, the trip to the historic presidential residence was something she'll never forget. "The event at the historic presidential residence was magical and royal," she recalled.

Traveling with her brother, Bernie, White toured the historic presidential residence. "We walked through the very complex system of underground hallways and rooms, and were amazed at the many sights," she said. "I really enjoyed the portraits of Jackie Kennedy, Eleanor Roosevelt and other "first ladies."

In the Blue Room, which was packed with hundreds of people, White was thrilled to see the ornament she created.

"Our ornament hung proudly near the very top of the tree," she observed.

White also enjoyed viewing the ornaments created by other artists.

"Some of them were amazing designs and paintings, created by artists of all ages, including some young children," White said. (Sofanya's website, www.sofanya.com, includes more details of her trip.)

More than anything, White is simply glad she's able to bring a little Big Sur Christmas cheer to the White House.

Henson said he believes a fuel leak was responsible for the discrepancy in fuel. The plane was equipped with two 25-gallon tanks.

"I left Mexicali with 4.5 hours of fuel, and I flew approximately 3.5 hours" to Monterey, Henson said. "So somewhere or other, some fuel leaked out of that left wing."

After departing Calexico International Airport for Monterey following a 10-day vacation, Henson said he refueled in Mexico twice, once in Loreto and again in Mexicali. He said he visually checked the tanks in Mexicali to make sure they were full.

Monterey Deputy City Manager Fred Cohn last week said there was no fuel spill at the crash site.

According to NTSB records, the aircraft is registered to Carmel resident Joanna Pfeister.

Investigation continues

A Federal Aviation Administration representative investigated the wreckage last week, forwarding his findings to Cawthra. The final investigation report should be completed within six months, Cawthra said.

The plane is at an aviation retrieval yard in Sacramento and will be moved to another location, where it will be inspected.

"I plan on taking another look at the airplane in the next month," Cawthra told The Pine Cone.

The NTSB is an independent federal agency that investigates every civil aviation accident in the United States and other significant transportation accidents.

"We try to learn from these accidents to see if there are any safety issue to be fixed to prevent them from occurring again," he said.

with crimes.

"Some people tried to grab their roosters and leave," Garcia said. "One of the gentlemen who was caught had a rooster under his arm."

Deputies also confiscated scales to weigh the birds and 135 cockfighting spurs — expensive blades that are attached to roosters' feet in an effort to do the most damage during a fight.

"There were some birds that had visible injuries," Garcia said. Also, 12 dead roosters were recovered.

Deputies and four workers from the SPCA for Monterey County found dozens of birds on scene. A grave for birds was also found.

"We have 51 live birds right now," said SPCA executive director Gary Tiscornia. "We did take in a total of 61, but 10 of them had to be euthanized" because of injuries.

Tiscornia said the birds, which are being held for evidence until the criminal cases against the defendants are resolved, will also be euthanized.

"The sad fact is that these birds are bred to fight and kill other birds," Tiscornia said. "So there is very little ability to place them anywhere."

This chicken, being kept at the SPCA, was one of more than 60 used in a cockfighting operation in Carmel Valley.

The roosters are being held at SPCA off of Highway 68. Because of their aggressive nature, the birds have to be kept in separate enclosures.

There is also the risk the birds carry highly contagious diseases, such as avian flu and Newcastle disease.

"It's a threat to agriculture and other animals," Tiscornia said.

Deputies found evidence attendants were wagering money, a common practice during cockfights.

"It's all about gambling," Garcia said. "Several of the people who were arrested had hundreds of dollars on them."

Cervelli was found at the scene carrying $710 in cash, Garcia said.

"When they got him in jail, he had another $251 on him," he said.

Garcia said the sheriff's office was notified about six months ago that there was cockfighting at the same home, but when deputies got there, they didn't find anything.

Garcia said those involved in cockfighting are a close-knit group of people who watch the blood sport.

"It's word of mouth, and they pass it on," Garcia said.

precinct. And there are a couple of surprises.

For instance, even though they live right next door, voters in Carmel and Pacific Grove didn't see things quite the same way as their neighbors in Pebble Beach.

While Pacific Grove voters overwhelmingly chose presidential candidate Barack Obama over rival John McCain, 76 percent to 24 percent, and Carmel-by-the-Sea went for Obama by 67 percent to 33 percent, the Pebble Beach tally was close: just 52 percent for Obama and 48 percent for McCain.

Precincts in Big Sur reported the largest gap, with 80 percent of the vote going to Obama, while only 20 percent went to McCain.

FLASHING OVERDRIVE LIGHT

A flashing overdrive light is an indication of a transmission-related issue, such as a faulty vehicle speed sensor. If this sensor is not working correctly, it can result in the transmission shifting incorrectly, which can lead to a loss of power. In any case, a flashing overdrive light should prompt the driver to have the vehicle's transmission control system (of which the speed sensor is a part) checked. This can be accomplished relatively easily by having the technician connect a scan tool to the vehicle's data connector and read information about the fault from the vehicle's computer memory. Doing so will provide a point from which the technician can start testing the vehicle to isolate the faulty component.

We have the diagnostic technologies to properly read, and interpret the internal computers in your vehicle. This will allow us to diagnose the overdrive indicator light, as well as the Check Engine light. The sooner you bring your car to our experts when you notice such an indicator, the less likely that further serious, potentially costly, damage will be done. Our services are guaranteed for 12 months or 12,000 miles with NAPA Peace of Mind Warranty, and some repairs offer extended warranties.

HINT: A transmission control unit uses sensors from the vehicle and data from the engine control unit to calculate how and when to change gears for optimum performance, fuel economy, and shift quality.

HEATED TRACK KEEPS WALKWAY SNOW AND ICE FREE

In many parts of the country, snow and ice removal is vitally important in a place where senior citizens are coming and going; therefore, consider a heated track. A heated track continuously melts snow and ice, keeping a walkway clear and safe. The track also has a chevron pattern for added traction. The mats are portable and do not have expensive installation costs. The track not only offers safety, but it also eliminates the mess that rock salt and other ice melting products bring in a home. The mats are custom designed to fit the area in which they are intended. The cord can be on whichever side the customer needs so that it will reach the closest electrical outlet.

At VICTORIAN HOME CARE our highly trained professionals have the experience and sensitivity required to address the special needs of caring for the older adult. We provide care in all types of settings—at home, in residential care, or a skilled nursing environment. Our in-home care program assists older adults in maintaining their independence at home, or can ease the transition to a new setting if needed. Our compassionate caregivers are professionally trained and possess a comprehensive understanding of community resources. The caregiver takes time to get to know the individual and his or her family, establishing a working relationship and striving to ensure the same kind of compassionate care that family members would provide if they could.

P.S. Heated tracks can also be placed under rugs so that an area can have the advantage of heat while maintaining the desired décor.

holes in the walls of the entryway stairwell, fireplace and the pool room, and poured "an unknown substance" all over the sheets in the master bedroom. A mirror was scratched, and outside, they had thrown eggs against the windows, chimney, deck, a statue, a car window and the fence.

The vandals also sprayed orange paint up the stairs to the second floor, on the mirror in the living room — and on the cat.

"The cat specifically had paint on its side and ears and face," said Richards, who had no dollar estimate of the damage and no updated information on the cat's condition.

No laughing matter

"Sadly, we have experience with all kinds of cases of cruelty to animals, whether it's putting rubber bands on them or tight collars that dig into their skin, painting them or dousing them with kerosene and setting them on fire," said Gary Tiscornia, executive director of the SPCA for Monterey County. "There doesn't seem to be any end to the means by which people abuse animals."

Paint can be extremely damaging, terrifying and even deadly for a pet.

"Certainly paint in the eyes can be extraordinarily damaging — it can cause blindness — and ingesting fumes is just as bad for animals as it is for people," Tiscornia said. Sometimes, it can lead to pneumonia.

"Removing the paint from the fur can be a torment of its own," he added. "It's a painful process, depending on the kind of paint and how long it has been on the animal."

He said animal-cruelty cases are particularly tough to solve for one obvious reason: "The animals can't tell us who did it."

He advised anyone who has a pet abused by vandals or who witnesses an act of animal cruelty to get the victim to the vet immediately and report the incident to local law enforcement or directly to the SPCA.

"Certainly we're primarily interested in crimes against animals — that's what we do," he said. "We're really dependent upon the public to help us solve these crimes and refer them to the district attorney for prosecution."

Tiscornia said people can also report crimes anonymously by telephone or online at the SPCA for Monterey County website.

As for the Hatton Road case, Richards said the sheriff's office has leads and is working on catching the culprits, who face charges of vandalism and animal cruelty.

CONSIDER FINANCIAL GIFTS TO FAMILY

The Holidays are upon us. If you'd like to give a financial gift to a loved one, what are your options?

You could give shares of stock. Recipients will enjoy being part owners of companies that make the products they use.

Or, if you have a child or grandchild, you may want to open a Section 529 college savings plan. You might also want to help a family member fund an IRA. While you can't contribute directly to someone else's IRA, you can write out a check to the recipient for that purpose.

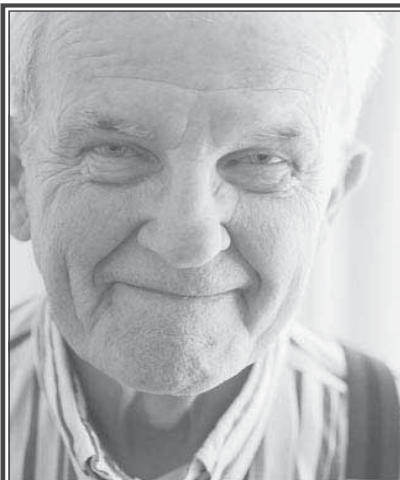

Here's one last suggestion: Make a financial gift to a charitable organization in the name of a loved one. If the group is a qualified charity, you may receive a tax deduction for your gift.

By making any of these gifts to your family members, you'll brighten their Holidays — and yours, too.

DiMaggio argued that residents should be allowed to vote on incorporation.

"If I lived in the valley, I would vote no, but I wouldn't argue against the right to vote," DiMaggio said.

DiMaggio also took issue with the idea of a business or neighborhood opting out of the incorporation boundaries.

"There simply doesn't exist the right to opt out of the incorporation process," he observed.

Can it afford to be a town?

Several commissioners questioned the viability of creating a new town in the midst of a nationwide economic downturn, often referring to a fiscal analysis funded by opponents. Commissioner Don Champion, though, had harsh words for the study, calling its data "questionable at best" and finding "little substance" in its 600 pages.

Commission chair and Salinas Mayor Dennis Donohue, meanwhile, cautioned his colleagues to not place too much emphasis on any one fiscal study.

"Nobody's numbers are right," he suggested. "They're all speculative. But folks can come together and be undercapitalized. We do it in Salinas all the time."

Opponents claim the new town would not be able pay its expenses, but LAFCO executive officer Kate McKenna insisted it can be solvent. She also said her agency simply followed state incorporation law when evaluating the town's finances.

"Our responsibility is to determine that the new town has the adequate revenues to ensure financial viability in the three fiscal years following incorporation," McKenna explained.

Contrary to claims by opponents, McKenna said the exclusion of Tehama from the proposal will have little effect on the town's revenues because few homes will be constructed during the next three years. Meanwhile, proponent Glenn Robinson was critical of the decision to remove Tehama from the proposed town's boundaries.

"The Carmel Valley Forum will need to decide if it will fight this nonsensical exclusion," Robinson said. "Eliminating Tehama nearly cuts the town in half. All of the traffic, flooding and other impacts from Tehama will affect Carmel Valley, so it should have remained inside the boundary area."

What's next?

Now that LAFCO has approved incorporation, several steps need to occur before residents can vote on it. First, the proposal needs to be reviewed by the U.S. Department of Justice and the California State Lands Commission. Then the board of supervisors is required to set an election before voters can ratify it.

According to McKenna, the timeline doesn't allow for a special election in the spring, so the next opportunity for voters to weigh in on the issue will be in November.

In the meantime, opponents are gearing up for what promises to be a contentious political and legal battle.

"Let the war begin," announced opponent Bob Sinotte. "I think we should rename the proposed town of Carmel Valley 'Stampville' in recognition of the lawyers who tied the hands of the commissioners, most of whom think the proposal is fatally flawed. There are a litany of concerns that suggest the fate of incorporation will be decided in the courts."

Robinson admitted incorporation supporters face a tough fight ahead.

"Developers will pour lots of money into the campaign to defeat incorporation," he predicted. "We will be badly outspent — that is for certain. But we have facts and logic on our side, and we will meet in living rooms and patios on every street in Carmel Valley to discuss incorporation. Facts empower people, so I expect incorporation will win."

For now, though, Robinson can pause for a moment and savor this week's win.

"This is a historic moment for Carmel Valley," said Robinson of the LAFCO vote to okay incorporation. "People here have been discussing it for 40 years but it has never gotten to a vote. Finally, our community will get the opportunity to decide for itself the shape of its future."

City tree lighting, holiday party Friday

THE CITY of Carmel and the Carmel Chamber of Commerce will host the annual Holiday Tree Lighting Friday, Dec. 5, at 4:30 p.m. in Devendorf Park at Ocean and Junipero.

The Carmel Middle School Chorus, led by Glenda Bernhardt, will belt out traditional holiday carols, as will kids from Junipero Serra School led by Peggy Burger. Perennial favorite Myles Williams will perform his festive songs while the mellifluous-voiced Stephen Moor of PacRep Theatre will recite "'Twas the Night Before Christmas."

Mayor Sue McCloud will light the tree at approximately 5:45 p.m. Refreshments will be provided by the Carmel chapter of the American Red Cross and the Carmel Chamber of Commerce.

Afterward, the fun will continue at Carmel Plaza's annual Holiday Open House with food, refreshments, music and raffle prizes.

ZSA ZSA and Princess, mother and daughter vizslas, 15 and 11, respectively, live in Carmel part time. Their moms, Patricia Houtz and Ruth Ann Marshall, own a home here where they spend the autumn so the kids can run on Carmel Beach, and hike Mission Trail and Gardiner's Resort.

Their lives here are packed with activities and outings; in fact, they're at sixes and sevens as to whether to attend the Stargazing event Friday night at Gardiner's Resort in Carmel Valley to check out the celestial offerings, or watch the Christmas tree lighting and caroling at Carmel-by-the-Sea's Devendorf Park. Both events happen concurrently.

Described as "Velcro dogs," Zsa Zsa and Princess are always together or near each other, like bookends, and love each other's company.

Zsa Zsa, much like a cat or her namesake, grooms herself to perfection. She and Princess are taken to Suds & Scissors for scheduled groomings, and always emerge regally wearing fashionable scarves.

When they're on a road trip with their moms, Zsa Zsa dotes on hotels because of room service. Every time there's a knock at the door, someone miraculously brings in food.

Another item on which they concur: They relish red meat, either cooked or raw vegetables (except radishes and mushrooms), and oatmeal.

But excitement really reigns when their moms return home with those mysterious little white boxes that always contain steak — their all-time favorite.

Your Gardener's Checklist for December 5-11, 2008

- ❑ If you turned your irrigation controller off with the last rain, plants will need water every 2-3 weeks without rain. Don't forget those under the eaves even when it does rain.
- ❑ Expand or start your rose garden with a wish list for the 2009 All American Rose winners. See your local full service garden center for a list.
- ❑ Do not begin pruning deciduous trees until most of the leaves have fallen. This will give you a better view of the tree's structure.
- ❑ Early spring blooming shrubs and trees can wait to be pruned until they have bloomed. If you prune them now you will lose out on the flowering glory this spring.
- ❑ Apply a thick layer of mulch (about 3" deep) in all of your garden beds. It will enrich the soil and keep it from compacting in the winter rain. However, not directly on trunk and root crown of tree, especially native oaks.
- ❑ Plant colorful iceland poppies to fill flowerbeds with color through winter. They'll bloom in cups of orange, white, yellow, pink, red or cream flowers.

This was not a difficult choice. I'm delighted with my life at Carmel Valley Manor. The location is superb; I've loved the Valley since the first time I saw it. My apartment and patio are just right. It felt wonderful to let go of excess furnishings and decorative objects. Community life offers many enjoyable options. I frequently visit friends in the Manor's wonderful care centers and it's good to know those are available should I ever need them.

My advice? Plan ahead; don't wait too long to get on the waiting list.

Council OKs $$$ for numerous changes to new fire engine

By MARY BROWNFIELD

THE $427,645.44 taxpayer-funded Pierce Saber PUC Pumper fire engine ordered by the City of Carmel in August is under assembly and slated for delivery in March 2009, but the city council learned Tuesday the price will increase by more than $11,000.

According to a three-firefighter committee sent to check on the engine's progress, more than three dozen changes are needed to ensure the new rig meets federal safety standards, administrative services director Joyce Giuffre wrote in a report for the council Dec. 2.

Last August, the council approved a contract with Pierce Manufacturing to design and build the engine, and a "new apparatus committee" of CFD Capt. Ian Watts, engineer Ken Hutchinson and part-time Battalion Chief John Trenner recently met with the company to check on its construction and ensure its specifications meet National Fire Protection Association standards.

The group returned with more than 40 contract change orders totaling $9,323 to make the engine "properly equipped for the needs of Carmel-by-the-Sea" and aligned with federal safety guidelines, according to Giuffre. Based on $2,017 in finance charges over seven years, the total cost will be $11,340.

While several of the changes call for deleting high-dollar items, such as the $1,166 driver-controlled locking rear differential, the three rear-facing SCBA seats for $1,049 and several pieces of equipment for $2,247, many more additions were ordered, such as the two vinyl map pockets for the front cab doors ($463), 2-inch-tall lettering on the doors reading "Proudly serving Carmel By-The-Sea since 1915" ($520),

Carmel-by-the-Sea door emblems based on the department patch ($495), equipment storage rack for a Stokes basket [for rescuing people from steep hillsides] and two backboards ($874), eleven adjustable shelves ($1,804), a two-tone paint break to the upper rear body to match the cab paint break ($945), gray spatter finish in the body compartment interior ($473), a "Z" jog in the side reflective striping ($284), $1,597 in other lettering on various exterior aspects of the engine, and $3,478 in lighting equipment.

The city council Tuesday OK'd the changes without discussion, as the item was part of its consent agenda. According to the agreement, the additional bill will be due upon receipt of the new engine in March 2009.

The city is financing the entire cost of the engine — now up to $506,984.44 — over seven years. Included in that overall cost is about $70,000 in interest.

Big Sur residents ready to rescue neighbors from mudslides

By MARY BROWNFIELD

RUSHING TO beat the rainy season — but not hasty when it came to teaching and learning vital lifesaving skills — six Cal Fire instructors and a Monterey Fire captain collaborated to lead more than four dozen people through a Citizens Emergency Response Training class in Big Sur to help ready them for winter's inevitable post-wildfire mudslides.

"The intent of the class is to teach them how to take care of themselves and their neighbors when disaster strikes," explained Cal Fire Battalion Chief Robin Hamelin. "In any major event, be it fire, earthquake or whatever, the emergency resources may be sorely taxed until assistance arrives, which could be several days. CERTs are extremely helpful in such situations."

The curriculum is standardized based on a federal program, and it covers CERT organization, disaster preparedness, fire safety, disaster medicine, urban search and rescue, disaster psychology and terrorism.

"And then the instructors take it and modify it to meet the local issues," such as sandbagging to confine storm flows, Hamelin said.

During 20 hours of class time at the Pfeiffer Big Sur State Park conference center, residents learned how to use fire extinguishers, conduct basic first aid, extricate friends and family from collapsed buildings after an earthquake and shut off gas meters, among other valuable skills. They also learned what to watch for and what to do when fire is approaching.

The training culminated with a final exam at the main fire station in Pebble Beach Nov. 22, when a couple dozen "victims" with serious injuries had to be rescued by trainees.

"We put them under piles of lumber and so on, and they had to pull them out, move them correctly, do first aid and work under basic incident-command rules," Hamelin explained.

The graduating group also included 18 people who had attended CERT classes in Pebble Beach, and all received certificates and had lunch after passing their tests.

The Pebble Beach CERT members will routinely return to the station for monthly training in areas of their choice, according to Hamelin. They will also be called upon to help with tasks like delivering food to elderly residents during big storms. The Big Sur group will be guided and trained by the Big Sur Volunteer Fire Brigade.

Cal Fire Capt. Jennifer Valdez, who is in charge of disaster planning, congratulated the graduates and said CERTs "help make our communities safer and stronger."

Council accepts $6,000

THE CARMEL City Council gratefully accepted a pair of donations Tuesday. The Pacific Grove Auto Rally, held during Concours Week each year, generated $3,500 in checks for the Mayor's Youth Fund, and the council also received $2,500 from the Colonel Dorothea Terry Layne Fund "for the beautification and maintenance of Carmel Beach."

Former P.G. Mayor Jeannie Byrne and Bruce Obbink attended the meeting Tuesday to present the checks to McCloud and the council.

Obbink, a participant in the rally, singled out Carmel Police Department and Cpl. Steve Rana for their ability to move the large group of cars, many of them quite old, smoothly through the city.

The Layne Fund donation — the second this year — must be used on Carmel Beach work.

The Art of CARPETING & DECOR

with Dan Jones

AREAS FOR IMPROVEMENT

Although the vast majority of carpeting that homeowners choose to grace their floors is wall-to-wall, area rugs offer more versatility. To begin with, by placing an area rug on a wood or tile floor, you are getting the best of both worlds. That is, you can bask in the warm glow of a wood floor as well as appreciate the artful design, special material, and beautiful construction of a quality area rug. In a sense, a wood floor acts as a frame around the area rug, as art. Whether an area rug lies atop wood, tile, or stone, the layering can be a study of harmony, contrast, and sophistication. Area rugs focus attention and reflect your personal style.

Wherever it sits, a special eye-catching rug can be the focus of attention of any room. Whether your project is limited to incorporating specialty flooring into your decor in one room or your entire home, think of CARPETS & FLOORS, INC. as the answer to your decorating questions. We can help save you time and aggravation and avoid costly mistakes. Come see what many of your friends and neighbors in the Monterey area already know — for quality, friendliness, integrity, experience, and innovative design, we're the place to visit.

HINT: Area rugs define spaces, which is especially useful in the open floor plans of many of today's homes.

Dan Jones is the President of Carpets & Floors, Inc., located at 471 Lighthouse Ave. (between Drake and McClellan) here in Monterey. Ph: 372-2300.

Barbara Anne Yeaman

1933-2008

Barbara Anne Yeaman passed away at Stanford University Medical Center on November 18, 2008, following a one-month hospitalization. Barbara was born in Warren, Ohio, on August 2, 1933, and graduated from Warren G. Harding High School in 1951.

Following graduation she worked as a dental assistant before moving to California in 1962 where she married her loving husband, Max, in 1964. Residing in San Leandro, California, she was a wonderful wife and a devoted mother to her children, Rachel and Evan. She volunteered her time and talents to the local hospital's medical auxiliary, the First Presbyterian Church of San Leandro youth group, the community theatre, and neighborhood crime prevention. Her many friends and neighbors knew her as an accomplished cook, seamstress, and artist with a generous and caring spirit and a rich sense of humor.

Upon retirement in 1994 Barbara and Max moved to Carmel Valley, California, where she devoted time to her grandchildren, traveling, playing bridge, and developing her special talents with arts and crafts. She was also an active member of the Carmel Women's Club and the Carmel Foundation.

In addition to her husband and children she is survived by her four grandchildren, Whitney and Braydon Ross (Mountain View) and Ryan and Emma Yeaman (Aptos); her sister Miriam Bamberger (Lincoln) and brother Robert Boyd (Duvall, Washington); and her son-in-law Clay Ross and daughter-in-law Nicole Young.

A memorial service is planned in the new year. Donations in her memory may be made to your favorite charity or Stanford University Medical Center Foundation, 2700 Sand Hill Road, Menlo Park, CA 94025.

Dance Kids, 'Nutcracker' return to Sunset stage

By CHRIS COUNTS

AFTER A four-year hiatus, Dance Kids of Monterey County is bringing "Nutcracker" back to Sunset Center.

The Monterey-based nonprofit performing arts group presents the popular holiday ballet Friday, Saturday and Sunday, Dec. 5-7.

For the first 10 years of its existence, Dance Kids staged "Nutcracker" at Sunset Center. But after its extensive remodel, the performing arts center raised its fees, and Dance Kids was forced to relocate to Monterey.

According to Dance Kids executive director Alan Richmond, it was new Sunset Center director Peter Lesnik and former Carmel Mayor Ken White who led the charge to bring the group back to Sunset Center.

"Peter called me when he took over last year

After eight-week Big Sur retreat, urban artist unveils work

By CHRIS COUNTS

AS THE latest beneficiary of a program that offers artists an opportunity to live and work in Big Sur, Laura Diamondstone spent the past eight weeks pursuing her creative impulses at the Glen Devin Ranch. Now she's ready to unveil the fruits of her labor.

The Big Sur Arts Initiative and the Big Sur Land Trust present a one-day exhibit of Diamondstone's work Sunday, Dec. 7, from 2 to 5 p.m. at Soul River Studios in Big Sur.

Diamondstone, who lives in the San Francisco Bay Area, spent nearly two months in a studio that sits atop the narrow spine of Garrapata Ridge on the north Big Sur coast, just north of Palo Colorado Road. The ridge is blessed with an extraordinary 360-degree panoramic view of the surrounding mountains, canyons and ocean.

By all accounts, Diamondstone made the most of her stay in Big Sur.

"Laura is going to display everything she created," explained Lisa Goettel, who heads the BSAI's Arts Bridge program. "She was incredibly prolific."

Among the highlights of her exhibit are a large triptych, dozens of 4-inch-by-4-inch paintings, and a collection of drawings and watercolors.

"It's a pretty good mix of mediums," Goettel observed.

Diamondstone's stay in Big Sur had a profound effect on her, Goettel said.

"She was so inspired by Big Sur that she's actually making a life change and moving out of the city," she explained.

and asked what he could do to get the production back to Sunset," Richmond recalled. "He's a big fan of dance."

Meanwhile, White set up meetings with community leaders and local businesses in an effort to find financial support for underwriting the performances. He eventually located several anonymous benefactors, enabling Dance Kids to return to Sunset Center.

"It's our biggest show of the year, and it belongs at Sunset Center," Richmond said. "There's something for everyone — from youngsters, to the young at heart."

More than 100 children — ranging from 4 to 18 — will perform in the ballet. Also featured in the cast will be world champion ballroom dancer Gary Franco, professional dancer Zuri Goldman and KION news anchor Hunter Finnell, who will play the role of Mother Ginger.

No child turned away

Dance Kids was started by Richmond's wife, Carol. The couple live in Carmel.

"This is our 15th year," Richmond explained. "We formed the group to give kids in the community a chance to experience all forms of theater and dance in an effort to develop self-confidence and give them a healthy atmosphere to develop their full potential."

Richmond said the group places great emphasis on being inclusive.

"We do a lot of outreach to minority students," he said. "When we offer auditions, no child is turned away. We always find a place for them."

Friday and Saturday performances start at 7 p.m., while Sunday's matinee begins at 2 p.m. Tickets are $29 for adults, $26 for students, active military and seniors, and $22 for children under 12.

Sunset Center will also host an opening night gala reception from 5 to 6:30 p.m. Tickets are $65 for adults and $35 children. The gala will feature wine, hors d'oeuvres, a live and silent auctions, and preferred seating. The performing arts center will also present a Sugar Plum Fairy Tea Party, Sunday from 12:30 to 1:30 p.m. Tickets are $42 for adults and $38 for children under 12. The tea party includes lunch, cast-member visits and preferred seating.

For ticket information, call (831) 620-2048 or visit www.sunsetcenter.org. For more information about Dance Kids, visit www.dancekids.org.

YuleFest, kitchen boycotts, open houses, and eating for schools

By MARY BROWNFIELD

BEST-SELLING AUTHOR and former high-level marketing executive Bobby Fried defines success as striking a balance between making money and finding meaning, and that's what inspired his YuleFest at Carmel Valley slated for Dec. 12-14 at Gardiner's Resort.

"Our YuleFest is to create an annual Christmas classic tradition for families, friends and kids of all ages with great food and wine, and fun," he said this week. Part of the proceeds from the weekend's dinners, wine tasting and entertainment will benefit the Boys & Girls Clubs of Monterey County.

"The kids will be very active," Fried said, by singing in a choir and crafting ornaments to be sold in a marketplace set up at the formerly private guest ranch on the edge of Carmel Valley Village. "In tough economic times, it's even more important to give back to those who need it the most."

The 25-acre resort will transform into a "winter wonderland," of lit trees, warm fireplaces, twinkling candles, "and who knows? It may even snow," Fried said.

The event will launch at 6:30 p.m. Dec. 12 with the official tree lighting accompanied by a five-course dinner prepared by executive chef Brandon Miller of Stokes Restaurant, and wines poured by notable vintners like Gary Pisoni (known for his splendid Pinot Noir) and Carissa Chappellet, not to mention the candles floating in the pool, music from classic holiday films, the kids' choir and a rendition of "Twas the Night Before Christmas."

From 3 to 6 p.m. Saturday afternoon, talented TV chef Wendy Brodie will produce delectable hors d'oeuvres and share the secrets of setting great holiday tables while 15 of the country's finest winemakers, including Elk Cove Vineyards from Oregon, Big Basin Vineyards, Navarro, Goldschmidt/Forefathers and Talbott, will pour.

"It's a small but very beautiful wine event," Fried said.

That night, the resort's executive chef, Hugo Barragán, will create five courses to be complemented by the wines of three notable vineyards.

And "kids of all ages" will be delighted with Sunday's puppet and magic shows, as well as the chocolate-dipping demonstration by Scott Lund of Lula's Chocolates. Those events were to be centered around a Christmas brunch, but reservations sold out so quickly that organizers decided to offer a second seating for a late lunch.

Reservations for all YuleFest events are going fast, so Fried encouraged people to sign up soon by calling (831) 659-6426 or visiting www.yulefestcv.com. Tickets to the dinners are $125, the Saturday tasting is $85, and Sunday's lunch is $35 for adults and $20 for children 12 and under.

Fried, who said he finds inspiration in Ralph Waldo Emerson's observation that "to know even one life has breathed easier because you have lived — this is to have succeeded," hopes YuleFest will become an annual tradition that will continue to inspire togetherness while benefiting a worthy cause.

■ Quail holidays

The staff at Quail Lodge hopes people will start new family traditions by getting "back to the basics" in the comfort of the Carmel Valley resort.

The lodge is offering room-and-breakfast packages starting at $169 per night, and to get folks in the holiday spirit, Quail will overflow with all sorts of inspired special touches, from drinks and Christmas carols, decorations to the hilt, holiday games and movies, and cookie decorating, to letters to

(and from) Santa, story time with TV newscaster Hunter Finnell, Christmas trees for rent and holiday-inspired menus at The Covey and Edgar's restaurants.

Both venues will offer prix fixe Christmas dinners beginning at 4:30 p.m., and The Covey will present an elegant feast and dancing to ring in the New Year beginning at 6:30 p.m.

For room rates, dinner prices, reservations and other information, call (831) 624-2888.

■ Scheid opens all its houses

To celebrate the arrival of December and all its festivities, Scheid Vineyards will host holiday open houses at its Greenfield winery and Cannery Row tasting room Dec. 6 and Dec. 18, respectively.

The 10th Annual Holiday Open House at the winery will run from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. Saturday, when guests can indulge in appetizers and special Scheid wines, craft holiday wreaths from grapevines, shop for friends and family, play a rousing round of bocce and even get photos taken with Santa.

It will happen for free at the Scheid Vineyards Estate Winery & Tasting Room at 1972 Hobson Ave. in Greenfield, and those interested in wreath-making should bring their own gloves and pruning shears.

Twelve days later in its new tasting room on Cannery Row, Scheid will host another open house offering plenty of treats and discounts on all wine and merchandise between 11 a.m. and 7 p.m. Wine tasting will cost $10 to $20 per person, though fees will be waived for people who take wine home with them.

The Scheid Vineyards Wine Lounge is located at 751 Cannery Row across the street from the new InterContinental The Clement Monterey hotel.

■ Stay out of the kitchen

Want to do all of the feasting and none of the work? The Hyatt Regency Monterey hopes you'll do it in its TusCA Ristorante, where executive chef Mark Ayers and his staff will cook up Christmas and New Year's Eve dinners for anyone who doesn't want to do the cooking or hosting at home.

Christmas Day will dawn with a breakfast buffet of all the favorites, including Eggs Benedict, waffles, omelets and carved meats, from 6:30 a.m. to 1 p.m. for $27.95 per person, which includes a glass of bubbly. Guests may also order a la carte.

Dinner, available from 2 to 9 p.m. for $48 per person, will be four courses of traditional and contemporary fare, such as acorn squash soup with maple syrup and candied pumpkin seeds, roasted Pacific sea bass with herb-Parmesan risotto and preserved lemon, and roasted turkey with whipped potatoes, sherry gravy, sage stuffing, glazed yams, green beans and cranberry chutney.

Another special Ayers-created four-course dinner of dishes like pancetta-wrapped scallop with roasted sweet potato, and roasted salmon with caponata will debut New Year's Eve, accompanied by party favors, a Champagne toast, and live jazz and dancing in the Fireplace Lounge. Dinner will begin at 6:30 p.m. and costs $75 per person.

For reservations, call (831) 372-1234 or visit www.monterey.hyatt.com.

■ Clement celebrates first NYE

To celebrate its inaugural NYE on Cannery Row, the Clement hotel is inviting everyone to its Grand Opening New Year's Gala featuring "the rollicking all-star ensemble Dave Martin's House Party."

Beginning at 5:30 p.m., executive chef Jerry Regester's dinner buffet will have comforting classics like hearty prime rib and seafood, a wide array of side dishes and fresh salads, with desserts brought out at 11. Dave Martin's musicians and dancers will liven up the ballroom at 9 p.m., and guests can party until the clock strikes midnight, when all will join in a Champagne toast.

Kids' options, VIP baby-sitting and other services are also available, along with special room packages. For reservations, call (831) 375-4500.

■ Locals' Night a success for schools

Some 200 people flocked to downtown Carmel restaurants last Tuesday, and a few stopped in at local shops, all to benefit schools during Locals' Night, organized by tireless parent Richard Kreitman.

Participating restaurants and businesses agreed to donate a portion of the proceeds from the night's sales to local schools, including funds for the Friends of Carmel Public Schools and the Carmel High Scholarship fund.

"This is all about community, and we should use the positive momentum generated by this event to continue working at strengthening our community by bringing together residents, schools, businesses and nonprofits," Kreitman said afterward.

■ Three's a charm

The Carmel Art Association hosts a reception Saturday, Dec. 6, from 6 to 8 p.m. for three new group exhibits which showcase the diversity and talent of more than 120 mostly local artists.

In its Segal Room, the art association presents its annual "Miniatures and Small Painting Show." A Carmel tradition since 1929, the miniatures show provides a great opportunity for creative Christmas shopping. This year's collection includes still-life subjects, landscapes and abstracts in oil, watercolor, acrylic and mixed media.

In its Entry Room, the gallery offers "Mission Trails," an exhibit featuring members' depictions of the California Mission adobes, their gardens and statuary. The show features oils, acrylics, watercolors and mixed media.

In its Beardsley Room, the art association presents its annual "Best of Show" exhibit.

"We've all been encouraged to bring our best painting," explained watercolorist Bill Stone, a Pacific Grove resident and a 38-year member of the art association.

The "Miniatures" and "Mission Trails" shows will be on display until Jan. 6. The "Best of Show" will be up until Feb. 3.

The art association is encouraging patrons to bring an unwrapped toy to place under their Christmas tree for the Salvation Army Toy Drive and non-perishable food items for the Salvation Army Food Basket.

The gallery is located on the west side of Dolores between Fifth and Sixth. For more information, call (831) 624-6176 or visit www.carmelart.org.

"Madonna and John the Baptist" by Rodney Winfield will be featured in a miniatures exhibit at the Carmel Art Association.

Cowboy poetry, Sourdough Slim and Wynonna plays Christmas

Plugged In

By Stephen L. Vagnini

THE 10TH Annual Monterey Cowboy Poetry & Music Festival takes place this weekend, Friday through Sunday, Dec. 5-7, at the Monterey Conference Center in downtown Monterey. The event is a three-day celebration of cowboy poetry, song, dance, and a first-class Western art and gear show. The festival brings together people from all over the United States to enjoy and learn more about the "cowboy way of life," including its history, current values and culture. This year's featured entertainers include Juni Fisher, Dave Stamey, Mike Beck, Jay Snider, Sourdough Slim, Stardust Cowboy, Leabert Lindse, Lone Prairie and Patty Clayton.

Headliner Sourdough Slim has gained national recognition performing at events across the country, including The National Cowboy Gathering in Elko, Nev., The Kennedy Center in Washington, D.C., and Carnegie Hall and Lincoln Center in New York. His fast-paced stage show combines cowboy singing, yodeling and comedy, accompaniment on accordion, guitar, ukulele and harmonica, and a keen knowledge of the traditional Western repertoire.

The festival has nine shows scheduled over the three days, plus a jam session on Friday night, and a Western dance featuring country swing band Stardust Cowboy on Saturday evening. For more information or to purchase tickets, visit www.monterey-cowboy.org or call (800) 722-9652.

Local drummer Andy Weis has been a prominent figure on the local jazz scene since moving to the Monterey Peninsula in 1983. A student at the Berklee College of Music from 1973 to 1976, Weis is today a "first call drummer" who has backed a wide array of touring musicians, including Ritchie Cole, Bud Shank, Mark Murphy, Red Holloway, Karryn Allison, Giacomo Gates and many others. Performing last year at the 50th annual Monterey Jazz Festival Weis was given the honor of putting together an all-star band of Monterey musicians for an appearance on the Garden Stage. This Saturday, Dec. 6, at the Jazz and Blues Co. on San Carlos Street, Weis has assembled another stellar lineup for an All-Star Fundraiser for The Carmel Foundation. Andy Weis and his All-Star Band features Weis on drums, George Young on saxophone, Paul Tarantino on woodwinds, Eddie Mendenhall on piano and Tom Bockhold on bass. Ticket holders will qualify for a print courtesy of Simic Gallery and a complimentary wine-tasting presented by Bargetto Winery. The concert begins at 7:30 p.m. Call (831) 624-6432 or visit www.krml-radio.com.

Legendary Nashville singer Wynonna presents her critically acclaimed holiday album, "A Classic Christmas," Thursday, Dec. 11, at the Golden State Theatre on Alvarado Street in downtown Monterey. Born Christina Claire Ciminella, Wynonna made her musical debut in the 1980s with her mother Naomi in the country duo the Judds. The Judds were one of the most celebrated success stories in country music history, selling more than 20 million records worldwide in just six years. When her mother retired due to health reasons, Wynonna embarked on a solo career, and her solo debut album was released in 1991.

As a solo artist, Wynonna has sold more than 10 million albums and has garnered numerous awards, including multiple top Female Vocalist awards by the Academy of Country Music. In 2006 she released her first solo Christmas CD titled, "A Classic Christmas," on which she delivers soulful, contemporary renditions of her favorite holiday songs. At Thursday's performance, Wynonna will perform such traditional holiday classics as "White Christmas" and "Winter Wonderland," plus hits from her previous albums. Thursday's concert starts at 8 p.m. Call (831) 372-3800.

Word comes from pianist Dick Whittington that the music at Terry's Lounge in the Cypress Inn in Carmel has been cut back. The talented local pianist who had been performing three nights a week accompanied by various musicians will now play solo on Fridays and Saturdays from 6:30 to 10 p.m. Classical guitarist Richard DeVinck still plays every Sunday from 5 until 8 p.m. Call (831) 624-3871.

Country-rocking cowboy returns to his old stomping grounds

By CHRIS COUNTS

AT THE tender age of 13, Mike Beck went to the Monterey Pop Festival. There, on the main stage at the Monterey Fairgrounds, among the blazing guitar solos of Jimi Hendrix, Pete Townsend and Stephen Stills, he saw his future.

Forty-one years later, Beck's musical journey is coming full circle. While he's never achieved the commercial success of his childhood heroes, he's a widely respected guitarist and songwriter whose music brings together the best qualities of 1960s rock 'n' roll. And when he performs at the Pelican Tavern in Pacific Grove Friday and Saturday, Dec. 5-6, he'll be backed by the Bohemian Saints, a band Beck is convinced is one of the Monterey Peninsula's finest ever.

"My heart and soul are with the Bohemian Saints," said Beck this week from his home in Montana, where he works as professional cowboy when he's not touring. "We have something really special. When

Boys & Girls Club seeks Santas

TO BRIGHTEN the season for people in need, get in the holiday spirit and feel good about making a difference — “all at the same time!” — the Boys & Girls Clubs of Monterey County encourages people to Sponsor a Family.

Each year, club officials select more than 100 members' families worthy of sponsorship. Organizers contact them to learn about their children's needs and wants, and then develop detailed shopping lists for special gifts to be bought, wrapped and given to the families.

To “bring Christmas joy to the many local families who would otherwise miss out,” the BGCMC encourages people to send donations to Christmas Family Support Fund, Boys & Girls Clubs of Monterey County,

P.O. Box 97, Seaside, CA 93955. Alternatively, donations of food gift certificates from local grocery stores are always appreciated and will be included with the family gifts. They can be mailed to the P.O. box as well.

Those who want to participate at a greater level can call (831) 394-5171 and ask for Lee Ann Luongo, who will provide a family's lists of needs and wishes. Donors can then do the shopping themselves and deliver the unwrapped gifts to the Boys & Girls Club in Seaside by Dec. 12.

Finally, additional hands are always needed for wrapping all those presents at the club.

For more information on how to help, call Luongo at (831) 394-5171 or email lluong@bgcmc.org.

people hear us play, they feel it."

The Bohemian Saints feature Tom Ayres on lead guitar, Marty Lydon on bass and Paul "Monty" Montgomery on drums. Ayres, one of the most gifted musicians to come out of the local music scene, is now the leader of Persephone's Bees, an Oakland-based pop-rock group. The Bees have been lauded as the Best Bay Area Pop Band, and their music was prominently featured in the 2005 film, "Bewitched," which starred Nicole Kidman and Will Ferrell.

Ayres, by the way, recently produced Beck's latest recording, a self-titled EP.

"It's the first time I worked with a producer," admitted Beck, who praised Ayres' many talents. "He's a genius."

The Friday and Saturday dates mark a homecoming for Beck and the Saints, who rarely get a chance to play together because Ayres lives in San Francisco and Beck lives in Montana. They're also thrilled to be returning to the Pelican Tavern, where they last played in August.

"They treat us really well there, and they really respect us," Beck added. "Plus, the sound in there is surprisingly good."

The concerts start at 8 p.m. The Pelican Tavern is located at 125 Ocean View Blvd. in the American Tin Cannery. For more information, call (831) 647-8300.

Editorial

An undemocratic decision

SEVEN YEARS ago, we used this space to urge that external barriers to incorporation of Carmel Valley be lifted. If the people of the scenic valley want to take charge of their own zoning, road maintenance, police protection and the like, they should be able to without the state, the county or the Local Agency Formation Commission's interference, we said in July 2001 editorial.

"If the people want it and they're willing to undertake the financial obligations of self-government, nothing should stand in their way," we summed up.

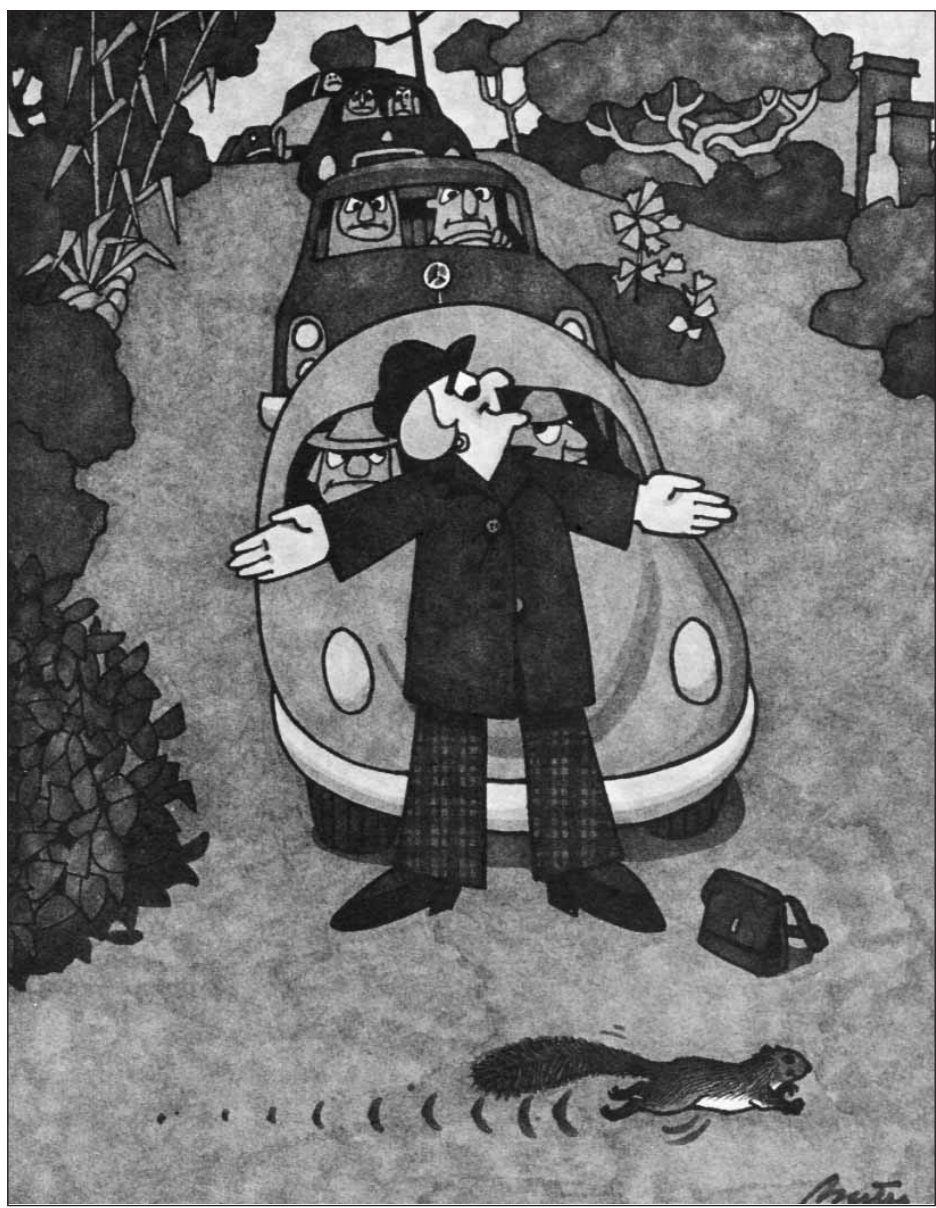

This week, one of the most formidable barriers to letting the people of Carmel Valley decide their own fate was lifted, when LAFCO voted to approve the creation of a Town of Carmel Valley. The issue will probably be submitted to the valley's voters next year. While we take no position on whether they should vote yes or no, we certainly applaud the fact that they'll be able to make up their own minds.

But underlying the triumph of democracy that LAFCO's decision represents, there is a rather shocking undemocratic undercurrent. According to LAFCO's analysis, no fewer than 27 neighborhoods, business areas and property owners asked to be excluded from the proposed town — including The Crossroads, Barnyard and Carmel Rancho shopping centers and most of the adjacent residential neighborhoods, plus the Clock Tower business district and several other important properties on Via None Marie, not to mention Rancho Cañada, Quail Lodge, Hacienda Carmel, September Ranch and Tehama. Since incorporation was proposed, it has been obvious that anti-incorporation sentiment runs high at the mouth of the valley. But at this week's meeting, except for Tehama and Coast Ranch, all these people were told, "Too bad — you're in."

It seems the Town of Carmel Valley wouldn't have enough money to operate without the substantial sales, hotel and property tax revenues all these shopping centers, expensive homes, offices and hotels generate. Which raises the very ugly possibility that an entire, geographically isolated part of the proposed Town of Carmel Valley may be hauled unwillingly into the city, simply because the residents (businesses don't get to vote) in the Shanghaied area are outvoted by the more populous neighborhoods to the east. This would be wrong. While it might be acceptable for a small pocket of opposition to be included in a town which is voted for by a majority of residents throughout the proposed town, doing the same thing to such a wide area as the entire mouth of Carmel Valley smacks of totalitarianism.

Unfortunately for incorporation proponents, the idea that all those people would be forced to join a town they don't like is also likely to drag the incorporation proposal to defeat. Because even residents of mid-valley and Carmel Valley Village who favor incorporation are going to find something unsavory about dragging the mouth of the valley with them.

A prison in P.B.?

Dear Editor,

The idea of locating a prison in Carmel Valley is preposterous. Both sides in the Carmel Valley incorporation debate know that. Nonetheless, the idea of foisting an incarceration facility upon unsuspecting residents in some unincorporated part of Monterey County does have some merit. In fact, there already exists an area within unincorporated Monterey County that is ideally situated for a high-security state prison — Pebble Beach.

Pebble Beach, largely surrounded by water and with multiple guard gates already in place, would be a prison paradise. In fact, many tourists to our area, after having visited Alcatraz the previous day, often remark about how Pebble Beach reminds them of The Rock ... only with trees, golf courses, equestrian trails, countless luxury European automobiles and multimillion-dollar homes.

Security experts say that a prison in Pebble Beach would be virtually escape-proof as nobody can find their way out of that place, especially at night. Also, in this era of increasing fiscal belt-tightening, a room-swapping arrangement between the California Department of Corrections and the Pebble Beach Company to handle any ebbs and flows in their respective accommodation capacities could be a huge money-saver.

The Monterey County Board of Supervisors must act quickly upon this prison site opportunity, before the residents of Pebble Beach get any silly notions about incorporating!

Erik Davidson,
Carmel Valley

Incorporation not liked

Dear Editor,

In reference to Lorraine Surprenant's letter, what does Lawrence Samuel's Libertarian persuasion have to do with the false story of a prison in the valley? It doesn't. It's just one more in a series of character attacks that seem to have a common fingerprint, a politics of poison that no one wants.

In fact, not a single residential association in the Carmel Valley Master Plan area supports incorporation. Most valley and coastal property owners don't like city politics and have little respect for the group pushing them. City promoters have delayed the LAFCO process for two years with a lawsuit, burdened taxpayers with hundreds of thousands of dollars in unpaid bills and legal expenses, and have denied the community a much-needed EIR.

Property owners don't like the character attacks directed at the board of supervisors, LAFCO commissioners and the opponents of incorporation. With hundreds of cities going bankrupt, they don't want to be the next. They don't want the thousands of new traffic trips generated from a city hall, city housing projects and tourism promotion. They don't want to assume hundred of millions of dollars of deferred capital investment needed for the valley's infrastructure. In short, they don't want the enormous impact a city would impose on their communities — politically, financially, socially and environmentally. And finally, they don't want to be dragged into expensive and perpetual incorporation elections every two years.

Robert A. Sinotte,
Carmel Valley

Libertarianism explained

Dear Editor,

I am surprised by Lorraine Surprenant's letter (Nov. 28). Libertarianism is not radical. It is a rebirth of the classical liberal tradition of Thomas Jefferson and Tom Paine, the same philosophy that liberated much of the world from kings and tyrants over 200 years ago.

So, what does this have to do with the incorporation of a city? Plenty. Incorporation will create another layer of intrusive government. More government equates to more taxation, interference and overbearing control. Jefferson expressed a similar sentiment: "The natural progress of things is for liberty to yield and government to gain ground."

Libertarians believe that less is more. Governing systems should be minimal, lean and efficient. But as we have recently witnessed, government has habitually become bloated, paying out ridiculously high benefits to civil employees, spying on citizens without warrants, overspending taxpayer funds and getting involved in empire-building. Moreover, bad behavior is often rewarded with large bailouts and subsidies.

As for extremism, that label is reserved for those who believe they are right and therefore cram their ideology down everyone's throats, advocating that the ends justify the means. On the contrary, Libertarians, like Gandhi, believe in choice and the "nonaggression principle."

Lawrence Samuels,

New businesses add variety to holiday shopping

DEC. 5 marks the official city tree-lighting ceremony and kicks off the start of the downtown holiday shopping season. True to its special character as a village in a forest, the lights in downtown Carmel-by-the-Sea may be more subdued than in neighboring towns, but the magical feel of the season will shine brightly all the same.

Those walking around downtown may notice a few new stores and even a few old ones that have moved to new locations. For example, Pamplemousse, which opened several months ago on the west side of Mission between Fifth and Sixth recently moved to the Southeast corner of San Carlos and Sixth, formerly the site of Blue Lobster. Owner Lauren Merrill said she likes the new location, which she adds is better suited to a women's retail clothing store. Pamplemousse can be found by its signature grapefruit-colored door (Pamplemousse is French for "grapefruit"). Also, Kip Evans' Mountain and Sea Gallery, which relocated from The Barnyard earlier this year, moved just a short distance to a new location within Del Dono Court on Dolores Street near the post office.

One exciting business that recently debuted is Epiphany Boutique, which specializes in top designer wedding dresses, gowns and accessories. It is located in the Mission Patio Shops on the west side of Mission between Fifth and Sixth, in the space vacated by Be Real.

Christine Dillulo, the owner, said hers is the only full-service bridal boutique on the Monterey Peninsula. Besides wedding and bridesmaid apparel and accessories, she features other fine evening wear, prom dresses, and dresses for events such as first communions and christenings.

The former Sharper Image site on Ocean Avenue at San Carlos is the temporary home of the Alzheimers Association's benefit holiday store, which features heirloom fur teddy bears of all sizes. Manager Sherry Williams said two artists, including Linda Van Houtte from Carmel Valley, craft these heritage bears from donated furs, most of which are gifts from the families of Alzheimers patients. The store will be open every Saturday and Sunday through Dec. 21, from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. On the final weekend, the store also will be open the same hours on Friday, Dec. 19. Proceeds from sales will benefit local Alzheimer's programs and services.

The new year of 2009 promises exciting additions to the streets and courtyards of Carmel-by-the-Sea as several businesses have filed paperwork with the city for new licenses.

This column runs the first Friday of every month. We welcome your comments, suggestions or tips about new businesses in Carmel-by-the-Sea. Please call or e-mail Molly Laughlin at Carmel-by-the-Sea City Hall, (831) 620-2019 or mlaughlin@ci.carmel.ca.us.

Tim Allen presents Al Smith's "Carmel Legends"

Tucked away in Carmel Woods is a most unique home which was built 50 years ago by an equally unique lady. Drive to the corner of Portola and San Lucas Streets and you will find an imposing brick structure of European style which was constructed for COUNTESS LILLIAN DANDINI to be her Carmel weekender. If the house seems grand for a weekend hideaway, one must understand that she called the 100 plus room Pullman Mansion in Hillsborough home on a permanent basis. A patron of the arts, she regularly enjoyed Carmel's Bach Festival and signalled her friends and neighbors that she was "in residence" by throwing a Spanish blanket over the second floor porch rail. The Countess died in the late 60's and her home sold through her estate. We had the good fortune to handle that sale, consummated in the study of the Hillsborough mansion, and were invited to help with the disposal of another parcel owned by the Countess...that being the "Pussy Cat Theatre" in Oakland. We didn't have much success on that one!

Intero Real Estate Services ~ Carmel Agent Introduction

Carmel has always held a special place in my heart. Although I was raised in the Bay Area, my family made frequent visits to Carmel and the peninsula to enjoy the many treasures of the area. As an adult, I always felt a strong sense of belonging here and wanted to share with my children, the many wonders of this region. This ultimately led to the purchase of our get-away home at Carmel Point and then finally, permanent residency. My Real Estate career was fueled by my desire to help other's acquire the home of their dreams in this magnificent area as well.

To all heirs, beneficiaries, creditors, contingent creditors, and persons who may otherwise be interested in the will or estate or both, of Robert Harrington Skiles:
A PETITION FOR PROBATE has been filed by Christine M. Hyland in the Superior Court of California, County of Monterey.
THE PETITION FOR PROBATE requests that Christine M. Hyland be appointed as personal representative to administer the estate of the decedent.
THE PETITION requests the decedent's WILL and codicils, if any, be admitted to probate. The will and any codicils are available for examination in the file kept by the Court.
THE PETITION requests authority to administer the estate under the Independent Administration of Estates Act. (This authority will allow the personal representative to take many actions without obtaining court approval. Before taking certain very important actions, however, the personal representative will be required to give notice to interested persons unless they have waived notice or consented to the proposed action. The independent administration authority will be granted unless an interested person files an objection to the petition and shows good cause why the Court should not grant the authority.

A HEARING on the petition will be held on December 12, 2008, at 10:00 A.M., in Dept. 17 - Probate, located at the SUPERIOR COURT OF CALIFORNIA, COUNTY OF MONTEREY, 1200 Aguajito Road, Monterey, California 93940.

IF YOU OBJECT to the granting of the petition you should appear at the hearing and state your objections or file written objections with the court before the hearing. Your appearance may be in person or by your attorney.
IF YOU ARE A CREDITOR or a contingent creditor of the decedent, you must file your claim with the Court and mail a copy to the personal representative appointed by the Court within four (4) months from the date of first issuance of Letters, as provided in Probate Code section 9100. The time for filing claims will not expire before four months from the hearing date noticed above.

YOU MAY EXAMINE the file kept by the Court. If you are a person interested in the estate, you may file with the court a Request for Special Notice (form DE-154) of the filing of an inventory and appraisal of estate assets or of any petition or account, as provided in Probate Code section 1250. A Request for Special Notice form is available from the court clerk.
