THE CARETAKER at a remote observatory in Carmel Valley insists he's innocent of charges that he assaulted a firefighter while trying to save the facility from last summer's wildfires.

A group of his neighbors believe Ivan Eberle's story — and is willing to help finance his legal defense.

The Cachagua General Store will host a dinner Saturday, Jan. 17, to raise money to assist with Eberle's attorney fees.

After receiving complaints from firefighters who were on the front lines in July 2008 as the Basin Complex Fire moved north, the Monterey County District Attorney's office charged Eberle with violating section 243 (B) of the

HIT-AND-RUN TRIAL DELAYED AGAIN

By MARY BROWNFIELD

THE TRIAL of a man accused of drunkenly running down and killing a bicyclist, and then leaving his body by the side of the road, was delayed again Monday. Charles Seaborn, who was charged with five felonies and six enhancements in the Feb. 9, 2007, death of Daniel Vasquez on Highway 1 near Point Lobos, is now set to be tried in April.

"There were some scheduling problems, and the defense asked for continuance and the court granted it," Monterey County Deputy District Attorney David Gross explained Wednesday. "April 6 was the first date we could get that the court's calendar wasn't completely clogged."

Seaborn has been out on bail since his arrest at his Yankee Point home after the collision, which the coroner estimated occurred around 2:30 a.m., though Vasquez' body wasn't discovered until authorities were alerted around 7 a.m.

The ambulance crew found Vasquez clad in cycling gear but with no bicycle nearby, and quickly determined he had been the victim of a hit-and-run. California Highway Patrol officers reportedly found a trail of debris leading to Seaborn's home, where his damaged Range Rover and the victim's bicycle were discovered. The CHP reported the SUV bore decisive evidence of the fatal collision with the cyclist.

In the months since, Seaborn, prosecutors and defense attorneys have met multiple times in court to discuss the case. Last April, Seaborn decided to let the judicial process proceed without a preliminary hearing, in which the district attorney would have laid out the evidence against him and the judge would have decided whether there is sufficient cause to try him for the crimes.

In June, Catherine Borchert, MD, sent a letter to the court on behalf of Seaborn, who sought counseling "after he accidentally hit and killed a cyclist while driving home in the middle of the night." (She did not mention the allegation of her client's intoxication.)

She described Seaborn as "a kind and gentle man who is particularly loving toward animals and family," and said he was grief stricken and "anguished over" how he might make restitution to Vasquez' family.

"I hope that my witnessing of Charles' desperate feelings of remorse and regret, and of his compassion for the victim's family, will be of interest to the district attorney," she concluded.

Vasquez' parents, brother and ex-wife are in regular contact with Gross and have sat in the courtroom during Seaborn's appearances, according to the D.A. At the Jan. 12 hearing, Gross reiterated their desire to have the case resolved as soon as possible.

"They do want closure, but they're understanding people," he said. "They know we don't forget and that time doesn't make us lose interest."

Lifelong resident brings intrigue, forgery to town

By MARY BROWNFIELD

CARMEL WILL star in a feature film about betrayal, the seedy and profitable world of international art forgery, and the age-old battle of good vs. evil. Shooting is slated to begin this month on director/producer Lawrence Roeck's "Carmel the Movie." A town native who has worked in film for years, including the past six years with Clint and Dina Eastwood on philanthropical documentaries, Roeck told the city council about his plans Jan 6.

"It's a pleasure to address the council," Roeck said. "Last time, I was 14, and Dirty Harry was in office."

Roeck, whose credits include five internationally distributed snowboarding films when he was 19 and a Dave Matthews video that hit No. 4 on MTV, has also worked on commercials and feature films.

Roeck said it had always been a dream to focus on Carmel and then launched into the film's story line about a 15-year-old art prodigy abandoned in a local hotel by his heroin-addicted mother.

"He breaks into a home on Carmel Point and, in the basement, discovers a half-finished art forgery," Roeck said. The boy finishes the work and finds himself "lured into the world of international art forgery by a crooked art dealer."

A talented painter, he's tempted by the easy money, and then he meets one of Carmel's old-school artists who hearkens from the town's Bohemian days.

"She finds out about this boy's plight — that he

Bates transferred from L.A. hospital to San Jose

By KELLY NIX

CARTOONIST BILL Bates was released this week from a Los Angeles hospital and transferred to a San Jose facility for continued treatment following a devastating chest infection.

Since November, Bates, 78, had been at Barlow Respiratory Hospital, which focuses on helping patients breathe without the help of a machine.

But on Tuesday, Bates was transferred to a San Jose sub acute center where he will receive medical and nursing care.

"They transferred him here to get continued care," Bates' wife, Lei Lei, said Wednesday. "Because he is still [using] the breathing tube in his neck."

Since experiencing a heart attack in July, Bates had been at Community Hospital of the Monterey Peninsula where doctors repaired his heart. While at CHOMP, Bates was diagnosed with a staph infection in his chest that has kept him mostly bedridden. He was transferred to Barlow in November.

Though doctors at Barlow were able to wean Bates off of a respiratory machine, and have told Lei Lei that Bates is "generally doing better," she said her husband's recovery is touch and go. Bates came down with a 100-degree-plus fever Wednesday.

"Any infection can put him back on the machine," she said. "All I can do is cross my fingers and hope nothing happens."

Though Bates wasn't able to speak to The Pine Cone Wednesday, he reportedly spoke to a friend this week by phone.

Cartoonist Bates has satirized Carmel life for The Pine Cone since 1972. His work more recently has been published in the Monterey County Herald.

Though Lei Lei told The Pine Cone Bates is not quite ready for physical rehabilitation, she said he hasn't shown signs of depression his entire hospital stay.

"He is very strong man," she said.

HOTEL ROBBER MAKES OFF WITH $6

By MARY BROWNFIELD

A SHORT man wearing navy blue walked into the front office of a San Carlos Street inn and demanded all the cash on the premises Friday night. But, because it's not a bank or a busy shop, all the inn's clerk could give him was $6.

Police received a call from the startled hotel employee at 8:19 p.m. Jan 9 reporting the robbery, according to Carmel Police Sgt. Mel Mukai.

"He walked through the door of the front office and

No arrests in cat spray-painting case

By MARY BROWNFIELD

AFTER GETTING the run-around from witnesses, a Monterey County Sheriff's deputy is far from arresting the people responsible for trashing a Carmel home and cruelly painting the occupants' cat in mid-November.

"I've talked to eight people, and I have almost seven different versions of what happened," deputy Fernando White said during his night shift Sunday.

The crimes occurred after the sheriff's office broke up a party nearby, and friends of the Hatton Road resident's 17-year-old daughter called to ask if they could come stay with her, as they had been drinking.

But White said accounts vary as to how many people showed up and what they did once they got there. Someone got hold of a fire extinguisher and discharged it throughout the house. A vandal (or vandals) spray-painted walls, the stairs, mirrors — and the cat — and some unknown substance was poured all over the master bedroom. Outside, eggs were hurled at the chimney, walls, roof and windows. Someone punched holes in the walls.

Complicating the matter was the delay between when the crimes occurred and when the victims reported them. According to White, the resident called the sheriff's office two or three days after the incident.

"The father was talking to the daughter, and the daughter finally talked to friends who gave up the names of these guys," White said. The father contacted them and demanded they clean up the mess.

"When they didn't come over, he called me," the deputy said.

Fortunately, the victims did not delay when it came to seeking treatment for the cat, which had paint on its side, ears and face.

"They called the vet immediately, and he said to wash the paint off," White said. "The cat didn't like it, but was OK."

Did you know...

Steinbeck turnaround - It's been 40 years since novelist John Steinbeck died (Dec. 20, 1968) and 25 since he was fully recognized as a valuable part of Salinas' history. For the latter half of Steinbeck's life, he was persona non grata in his hometown, where his 1930s books were burned and banned, particularly for depictions of rich growers exploiting desperate workers during the Depression. After "The Grapes of Wrath" was published in 1939, Steinbeck was denounced by some as subversive. That anger lasted for years. "They want no part of me except in a pine box," Steinbeck wrote in a letter in 1953. He was living in New York in 1962 when he won the Nobel Prize for literature, and didn't return to Salinas until his ashes were ready for burial in the family plot. Sentiment changed by 1983, when a group of civic leaders and agribusinesses organized to raise millions to build the National Steinbeck Center. It opened in 1998 in tribute to the words of the now-favorite son. (Next week: Ansel Adams)

Mystery illness leaves pelicans unprotected from cold

By KELLY NIX

AS THE number of sick and dying pelicans on the Monterey Peninsula continues to climb, experts are still baffled as to what's causing the endangered birds to become ill.

As of Tuesday, the SPCA for Monterey County had taken in 34 California brown pelicans, seven of which had to be euthanized because they were too sick.

"The numbers went up this week," said Beth Brookhouser, spokeswoman for the SPCA. "When the pelicans come to us, they are cold, weak, thin and dehydrated."

The birds have been found from Moss Landing to Carmel, and inland as far as Salinas and Carmel Valley.

"They are being found in strange places where you normally wouldn't see a pelican," Brookhouser said.

The SPCA Wildlife Rescue and Rehabilitation Center at Ryan Ranch takes in the pelicans, and feeds and warms them before transporting the birds to the International Bird Rescue Research Center in Fairfield.

"At this point, we are acting as a triage unit — rescuing the birds and stabilizing them so that they can later be transferred to IBRRC," Brookhouser explained.

Rebecca Dmytryk, who runs the Moss Landing nonprofit operation WildRescue with her husband, Duane Titus, said they have rescued 28 ill pelicans since Jan. 1. WildRescue works closely with IBRRC.

"The main concern is we are seeing the adults coming down ill," Dmytryk said. "And that is not typical."

Researchers over the years have seen dips in the population in pelicans, but it's usually juveniles affected or illnesses linked to red tide.

And some of the birds rescued in Monterey County, unlike other areas along the coast, are coming in wet, having lost their ability to keep water from penetrating their feathers.

"We don't know why that is," she said. "Birds are [usually] waterproof, because their feathers are like shingles on a house."

Most of the birds Dmytryk and her husband have rescued make their way to the SPCA Wildlife Center then to the IBRRC or Native Animal Rescue in Santa Cruz.

Since December, Dmytryk said the WildRescue telephone hotline has received 460 reports of dead and sick pelicans from Baja to Oregon.

Though domoic acid, a neurotoxin that causes brain damage, has been discovered in three pelicans in Southern California, that is not the primary cause of the illness affecting the birds, said Jay Holcomb, director of IBRRC.

Many of the ill pelicans were caught in a cold snap on the Oregon-Washington border in mid-December, causing them to get frost-bite according to a story in the New York Times Thursday.

"We have sent bodies and blood to the Fish and Game lab in California and to the U.S. fish and wildlife Service lab in Madison, Wis.," he said. "They are doing necropsies to find out what this could be." The results are expected within a couple of weeks, Holcomb said.

Theories over the bird illness, such as fire retardant seeping into the Pacific Ocean after last summer's fires, are also being explored.

Meanwhile, the IBRRC is working overtime trying to keep up with the influx of birds it's treating.

"This is one of the biggest situations we have seen with adult pelicans being weak and sick," Holcomb said. "It's taxing us, because it takes an incredible amount of money to take care of them. They eat a lot of fish."

Dmytryk said WildRescue is seeking volunteers with automobiles to help transport the birds rescued in Monterey County to the IBRRC office in Fairfield, or at least to San Jose.

Crates to hold the birds would be provided by WildRescue.

"We desperately need people to help," Dmytryk said.

To report dead or injured birds, call the WildRescue 24-hour hotline at (866) WILD-911 or the SPCA for Monterey County at (831) 373-2631. For updates on sick pelicans, go to www.ibrrc.org.

General plan survey indicates most people like Carmel the way it is

By MARY BROWNFIELD

CARMEL DOESN'T have many problems. At least, not according to more than half of the 1,118 people who weighed in on a community survey conducted as part of the city's general plan update. At the Jan. 6 city council meeting, Magdalena Barker of RBF Consulting presented the results of the questionnaire and compared them with issues raised during three public workshops.

The Carmel General Plan, described as the city's constitution, is due for revision in several areas: circulation (traffic and parking), public facilities and services, open space and conservation, environmental safety, and noise. To do that, planners wanted to find out what residents and other community members believe should be changed.

The process began with the July 2007 workshops, which were attended by several dozen people. In an effort to reach more, RBF developed a citywide survey, much of it based on issues and questions raised during the workshops. It was mailed to 5,330 homeowners, business owners and registered voters, 21 percent of whom responded, according to Barker.

The results indicated most of the issues aren't of major concern to many Carmelites. With a few exceptions, Barker said the survey results showed no strong majority opinions, with a range of about 15 percent between the number of people who answered a question affirmatively and those who answered negatively. Input gathered from the workshops, however, showed a strong disparity from the survey results on some matters.

Carmel: Quiet or loud?

■ People don't see downtown traffic as congested, Barker said. Respondents to the survey disagreed over the installation of "traffic-calming measures" such as bump-outs and median gardens. They identified the top three traffic issues as excessive speed, pedestrian safety and delivery trucks.

■ "Parking is not perceived as a problem in daily lives," Barker also reported, though more spaces are needed downtown for tourists and visitors. People answering the survey said a parking garage would help, but that the users should pay for it, not the taxpayers. Workshop-goers, however, opposed a parking structure. They wanted the city to focus on better use of existing parking areas.

■ Barker said she discovered an apparent contradiction in that survey respondents said they don't use public transportation, and wouldn't use a trolley service if it were implemented to shuttle people around town. But they support creation of a trolley service anyway. People at the workshops also recommended a shuttle to bring employees downtown from remote parking areas.

■ One of the greatest disparities between mailed survey results and workshop input involved public parks. Respondents expressed little dissatisfaction with any city park, though they were ambivalent toward some, such as Forest Hill, First Murphy and Piccadilly. They were quite happy with the beach, Devendorf and Mission Trail parks, and with landscaping in the public right of way. People at the workshop, however, stated "general dissatisfaction with park maintenance and amenities."

■ Survey participants were similarly pleased with public services, ranging from being most happy with garbage collection, fire and police, and least satisfied with code enforcement and the permit process.

■ The two groups meshed when they prioritized infrastructure needs, listing street maintenance as No. 1, utilities undergrounding as No. 2 and drainage/stormwater runoff as No. 3. Least important were city buildings and park facilities, according to the survey.

■ People answering the survey were divided over whether more trees should be planted, but said if they are, the trees should be drought tolerant, grow on public property in neighborhoods and in city parks, and should be of varying heights. Those who spoke at the workshops wanted more native upper- and lower-canopy trees planted, with assurance they would be maintained. They also emphasized quality over quantity.

■ In allocating the city's precious water resources, survey respondents most wanted it used to upgrade existing homes, followed by building new homes on vacant lots, and "environmental uses."

■ Everyone supports city efforts toward sustainability and green construction for municipal, residential and commercial projects, Barker reported.

■ A striking division of opinion regarded noise, with survey answers showing "Carmel is perceived as a tranquil, quiet place with only occasional noise problems," which usually involve construction and large trucks, while people at the workshops complained a lot about noise and identified leaf blowers as the top offender, according to Barker.

■ When it comes to being prepared for emergencies, survey respondents said they know how to stay safe during most types of emergencies, with the exception of large-scale disasters, and that they prefer to stay informed about hazards and safety issues by reading The Pine Cone. The top issue identified at the workshops involved how to contact residents during major incidents, and attendees recommended using a telephone system the city has since installed.

Barker remarked on some of the disparities between the workshop and survey answers, which prompted resident Nancy Jones to wonder if the information generated by the questionnaire is more reliable and representative than that garnered from workshops, or vice versa. "Or is it just the people who complain who go to the workshops?" she asked.

Barker said the survey mostly confirmed the workshop results, with areas of conflict being "a case of maybe a few squeaky wheels." In those circumstances, the sheer number of survey respondents outweighs the few complainers. "Both are valuable."

The information gathered via the workshops and surveys will be used in drafting the revisions to the general plan.

Woman launches drive to help homeless cats and dogs

By KELLY NIX

REALIZING NOT everyone can pamper their pets like she can, a Monterey woman has launched a drive to collect food and blankets for pets owned by the homeless and underprivileged.

Inspired by the grand lifestyle enjoyed by her 3-year-old golden retriever, Sydney, Monterey real estate broker Geri Burchard decided she would collect luxuries for the pets of local homeless.

"Sydney is so fortunate to be so pampered and cared for, and he has all these wonderful blankets he lays on," Burchard said, hoping to bring similar comforts to more animals.

For the Friends Helping Friends Pet Drive, Burchard has set up 14 locations on the Peninsula — and one in Salinas — where people can drop off items in good condition. The items will be given to the Salvation Army's Good Samaritan Center and Monterey County Animal Services.

The drive began Jan. 15 and will end on Valentines Day, Feb. 14.

"This is the first time I've done something like this," Burchard said.

The Salvation Army's Good Samaritan Center in Sand City — the only facility on the Peninsula where homeless can get a hot meal, shower, and do laundry — has given food to pets of the homeless for several years. But pet food supplies and other items are running low, making Burchard's effort a much-needed one, said Diana Gomes, director for the Samaritan Center.

"This will help tremendously," Gomes said. "This idea was very appreciated. It was very nice of her."

The pet items will not only benefit the homeless but could also help low income families who are helped by the center's food box distribution, offered three days a week. However, "the priority is the homeless," Gomes explained.

Don't forget about cats

While most homeless people with pets have dogs, Monterey County Animal Services, the other recipient of the pet drive, is accepting donations for dogs and cats at the shelter.

Barbara Allen with the animal services said any pet supplies are always welcome.

"We think it's just wonderful what she is doing," said Allen. "She is doing this on her own as an individual."

On any given day, the county's animal shelter cares for at least 100 animals.

Burchard has contacted local pet stores, pet food companies and other businesses seeking donations. A local hotel said it might donate towels it no longer needs and a mov-

New Big Sur whale watching tour never leaves land

By CHRIS COUNTS

THE POINT Sur Light Station — which has served as a beacon for mariners since 1889 — is getting into the whale watching business.

The Point Sur State Historic Park will host its first ever whale watching tour Sunday, Jan. 18. And unlike just about every other whale watching tour that's ever been offered, this one never leaves land.

The volunteers who lead light station tours believe Point Sur's dramatic 360-foot-tall rock provides the best vantage point in Central California for watching whales.

"It's a glorious setting," beamed volunteer Mary Jane Hammerland.

While there's no guarantee visitors will actually see whales, Hammerland believes the chances are excellent — the event was timed to coincide with the peak of the southern gray whale migration.

"I was told by someone Sunday that there were all kinds of whales traveling south," she said. "There's a strong probability they will be there."

The event will begin with a brief tour of the light station, and then it's on to a dizzying vantage point where visitors hopefully will be treated to an afternoon of world class whale watching.

The tour will be led two local whale experts, biologist Bob Lea and retired state park ranger Ken Lee. The event starts at 11 a.m. and will last about four hours. The cost is $20 per person and reservations are not available. Hot drinks and binoculars will be provided. Guests are encouraged to pack a lunch.

The light station is located on Highway 1 19 miles south of Carmel. Visitors will drive to the base of the rock and walk a steep pathway to the top. For more about the light station, visit www.pointsur.org.

Road work delays expected on Highway 1

MOTORISTS can expect delays of up to 45 minutes Jan. 20 and 21, when they pass over the Torre Canyon Bridge on Highway 1 in Big Sur, about 32 miles south of Carmel. The delays are a result of a California Department of Transportation project to install a rockfall drapery system on steep hillsides to prevent landslides. With much of its vegetation scorched by recent wildfires, the hillsides are extremely vulnerable to erosion.

'High School Musical 2' — 'The kids are dancing up a storm'

By CHRIS COUNTS

ONE YEAR after staging the regional premiere of "High School Musical," PacRep Theater returns with the West Coast premiere of its sequel, "High School Musical 2." The Golden Bough Playhouse will host performances of the musical Friday, Saturday and Sunday, Jan. 16-18.

"High School Musical" told the story of Gabriella, a bright but shy new student, and Troy, the captain of the basketball team, who meet at a karaoke contest. The pair discover they have more in common than just singing, and a romance blossoms. But an assortment of conflicting events — a basketball game, an academic decathlon and a school play — complicate matters.

Artist, activist, fisherman and surfer adds 'champion' to resume

By CHRIS COUNTS

AN ARTIST and an art instructor, you would expect to find David Allan at his easel or in the classroom. But thanks to his extraordinary commitment to a small group of youngsters who live along Big Sur's remote South Coast, one place you're certain to find Allan is driving along Highway 1.

Allan, who routinely spends three hours a day commuting from his Carmel home to Pacific Valley School and back again, has been named a 2009 Champion of the Arts by the Monterey County Cultural Council. Along with eight other county residents, he'll be honored at a Jan. 24 tribute dinner, which will be hosted by the Embassy Suites hotel in Seaside.

"I can't imagine anybody more deserving," said the proud principal of Pacific Valley School, Raeanna Thomasson.

Thomasson marvels at Allan's creativity — and his initiative. "He's a big thinker," she explained. "But he's also somebody who can make an idea become a reality."

One of Allan's most inspired projects was a colorful 15-by-8-foot mural honoring firefighters for their efforts combatting wildfires in Big Sur. The mural hung at Monterey's recent First Night celebration.

For the past two decades, Allan has worked two days a week as an art teacher at Pacific Valley School. But recently, his workload doubled when the school's administrator discovered he could teach science.

He also writes a column for the Roundup, a monthly newsletter and Big Sur institution.

As an artist, Allan prefers to paint in watercolors, and his favorite subject is also one of his constant companions: the Big Sur coastline he passes each day on his way to work.

In addition to teaching and painting, Allan is a surfer, a fisherman and an environmental activist.

For Allan, the recognition from the cultural council was unexpected.

"I am still stunned by the Arts Council for Monterey County extending such an honor

Beethoven, Sibelius on symphony program

By CHRIS COUNTS

WHEN THE Monterey Symphony performs its third concert of the season Sunday and Monday, Jan. 18-19, at Sunset Center, it will present one of the world's most popular piano concertos. But first, it will offer a rendition of Beethoven's Overture to Leonore No. 2 — a great piece of music you've probably never heard of.

Jeremy Slate brings group to East Village

By STEVE VAGNINI

The East Village Coffee Lounge, at the corner of Pearl and Washington streets in Monterey, has a rich history. For several years it was Morgan's Coffeehouse, and was a hotbed of musical activity that regularly booked national touring folk artists. Today, the intimate venue focuses more on local artists and does not limit itself to acoustic folk. Performing Jan. 17 at 8 p.m., Slate, Sult and Green is a Big Sur trio composed of guitarist Jeremy Slate, bassist Preston Sult and drummer Virdell Green. Together since the mid-'80s, SSG started out as a jazz fusion band and has matured into a group that plays a wider variety of music, including rock 'n' roll and a heavy dose of Slate's original music. Slate, the namesake of the recently deceased beloved local actor, has been playing in bands since the early 1970s and founded Slate Canyon, a popular Carmel rock 'n' roll group that featured the guitar tandem of Jeremy and his brother, Jason. Brian Moore will join the group this Saturday on flugelhorn. For more information call (831) 373-5601.

At the Hyatt Regency Monterey's Fireplace Lounge, drummer David Morwood is promoting a Diva Night Jan. 16 starting at 7 p.m. Pianist Bobby Phillips and bassist Steve Larkin will join Morwood this Friday. Divas confirmed for Saturday's event include Debbie Davis, Linda Hylle and Julie Capili. Capili recently released her debut CD, "Passing Fancies," a tasty collection of jazz standards. Call (831) 372-1234.

During the three decades I have been promoting and covering popular music on the Monterey Peninsula, hundreds of local bands have formed, and yet only a handful of these groups have remained intact and made a long-lasting impression. Featuring the songwriting tandem of front person and vocalist Dani Paige and guitarist Jesse DeCarlo, the Dani Paige Band plays an appealing mix of original music and covers of rock 'n' soul, and has the talent and originality to join the list of bands with staying power. ■ The art of gambling and those who like to gamble.

"The Art of Gambling," which opens Saturday, Jan. 17, showcases the work of two Berkeley artists, Lisa Esherick and Jan Wurm. "The exhibit examines the people and the personalities of gambling," explained Robert Reese, executive director of the Cherry Center.

For creative inspiration, Esherick and Wurm not only visited casinos in Las Vegas and Reno, Nev., but also Stuttgart, Germany.

The Cherry Center will host a reception from 3 to 5 p.m. The exhibit will be on display until Feb. 23. The center is located at Fourth and Guadalupe in Carmel. For more information, call (831) 624-7491 or visit www.carlcherrycenter.org.

Monterey Live, will perform at the intimate Alvarado Street venue this Friday at 9:30 p.m. The group, with drummer Jenn Schaff, bassist Nat Shuirman and saxophonist Ben Herod, have also branched outside of the area, playing regularly at Moe's Alley in Santa Cruz, and will open for Los Lobos at the Catalyst in Santa Cruz on March 6. Guitarist DeCarlo is also hosting the Sunday jam at Monterey Live with a house band composed of Schaff on drums and bassist Sean Stillinger. The weekly jam kicks off at 8 p.m. For information call (831) 373-5483.

Wave Street Studios on Cannery Row hosts Santa Cruz reggae and ska band the Skaflaws Jan. 16 at 8 p.m. The Skaflaws is an energetic quartet that has been influenced by the music of Bob Marley and Sublime, and has opened up for the English Beat and the Expendables at the Catalyst. Wave Street Studios is located at 774 Wave St. in Monterey. Call (831) 655-2010.

"It's a rarely heard overture," executive director Joe Truskot said of the Beethoven piece. "Over the years, we've tried to introduce music by familiar composers that people might not have heard of. Our musical director, Max Bragado-Darman, found it and loved it."

If Overture to Leonore No. 2 is a long-lost treasure, then the piece that follows it, Schumann's Piano Concerto in A minor, Op.54, is a familiar masterpiece.

"The audience will love it," Truskot said.

Joining the orchestra on Schumann's concerto will be Pedro Carboné, one of Spain's greatest contemporary pianists.

"He's making his debut here," Truskot said. "We're thrilled to have him as part of our ensemble."

Concluding the concert will be a performance of Symphony No.1 in E minor by Jean Sibelius, a piece that hasn't been performed by the Monterey Symphony in 20 years. The symphony conjures up a vivid image of Sibelius' homeland.

"It paints a beautiful picture of Finland," Truskot added. "It's full of folk melodies, and it's very dramatic."

Sunday's concert starts at 3 p.m., while Monday's begins at 8 p.m. One hour before each performance, Truskot will host a free pre-concert lecture in Studio 105 at Sunset Center. The symphony's new concertmaster, Liang-Ping How, will be featured as a guest speaker.

Tickets range from $35 to $69. Sunset Center is located at San Carlos and Ninth. For more information, call (831) 646-8511 or visit www.montereymsymphony.org.

■ Pianist brings Bach, Chopin to Sunset

The Carmel Music Society presents a concert by pianist Hans Boepple Saturday, Jan. 17, at Sunset Center.

A professor of music at Santa Clara University since 1978 and chair of its music department since 1995, Boepple has taught students who have won more than 100 state, national and international awards.

In addition to performing with symphony orchestras for more than 30 years, Boepple has been featured as a solo recitalist, an adjudicator, a lecturer and a master-class clinician.

When he performs at Sunset Center, Boepple will present Bach's 30 Variations: The Goldberg Variations, BWV 988 and Chopin's 24 Preludes, Op. 28.

The concert starts at 8 p.m. Tickets are $27 for general admission and $11 for students. For more information, call (831) 625-9938 or visit www.carmelmusic.org.

MUSICAL

In "High School Musical 2," Troy stresses over getting a job, worries about the high cost of college, and struggles to maintain his budding relationship with Gabriella.

As a television movie, the premiere of "High School Musical 2" was seen by more than 17 million viewers in the United States, giving it the highest rating of any Disney Channel production.

"High School Musical 2" showcases the talents of more than 30 Monterey County high school and college students who are members of the PacRep School of Dramatic Arts program. The cast includes Kenny Neely and Daniel Renfer (who share the role of Troy); Katie Hazdovac and Chelsea Bates (Gabriella); Bri Slama and Sydney Stampher (Sharpay); Christopher Marcos and Kenny Neely (Ryan); Michael Blackburn (Chad); and Camilla DeLiata and Brenna Sammon (Taylor). Stephen Moorer serves as director, Don Dally as musical director and Susan Cable as choreographer.

"A bunch of kids from the last production have returned," Moorer explained. "Everybody has commented this year in particular how experienced the cast is. They have a lot of theater in their backgrounds. The quality of the music, the dancing and the ensemble work is quite good. People will again be surprised how professional these kids are. It really shows up on stage."

The PacRep production features all the music from the Disney movie, including "You Are the Music in Me," "I Don't Dance" and "What Time is It."

"The music and the dancing are even more pronounced in this production," Moorer said. "Susan, our choreographer, has been having a great time. The kids are dancing up a storm."

Friday's and Saturday's performances start at 7:30 p.m., while Sunday's matinee begins at 2 p.m. The musical continues through Feb. 15 at the Golden Bough. Tickets are $20 for general admission, $10 for students, teachers and active military, and $7 for children. The playhouse is located on Monte Verde Street between Eighth and Ninth. For more information, call (831) 622-0100 or visit www.pacrep.org.

GRAND JURY BLAMES COUNTY'S AMBULANCE WOES ON UNREALISTIC CONTRACTS AND MEDDLING POLITICIANS

By MARY BROWNFIELD

WHATEVER AMBULANCE company Monterey County hires should have a contract that can actually be fulfilled, according to the 2008 Monterey County Civil Grand Jury. In a report released this week, the grand jury said if the county wants reliable and cost-effective ambulance service, it has to do a better job of hiring a company to provide it.

In its review of emergency medical services, the jury concluded "the relationship between the county and its ambulance providers has not been smooth since 1990," when American Medical Response was hired.

The company ran ambulances throughout Monterey County until January 2006, when Westmed took over.

Although much of the last few years' discussion has focused on the failings of Westmed, jurors found neither company was able to meet its county contract without losing money. "Both contracts called for a cost-neutral relationship, yet the county subsidized both AMR and Westmed," the jurors wrote.

Westmed chronically lost money, resulting in the Monterey County Board of Supervisors' authorizing a $1 million bailout in 2007. Despite several contract amendments aimed at making compliance easier, the ambulance company continued to falter, and the agreement was dissolved last September. AMR returned to serve the county during a one-year period while the county's emergency medical services agency tries to come up with a viable contract.

In interviewing key figures, the jury discovered Westmed's problems originated from a poorly written contract and intervention by county supervisors.

Monterey County's sprawling boundaries and diverse population densities made it difficult for Westmed to arrive on scene of an emergency within the required time, according to the report.

"The contract between Westmed and the county lumps the response times for the entire Monterey Peninsula together, rather than clearly delineating the various population densities," the jury wrote. For example, the area designated "Peninsula" includes the cities of Monterey, Seaside and Marina, where responding quickly is easy, but it also includes sparsely populated areas to the north.

And while the ambulance company was shown to be out of compliance in 71 of its 74 contract requirements as of April 2008, it wasn't solely the company's fault, according to the grand jury.

"Many areas of compliance were unattainable with resources available," according to the report.

The company was further hindered by the county's requirement that Westmed hire former AMR workers.

"AMR employees living in the area applied political pressure on the board of supervisors to protect their positions," according to the report.

"Many of those interviewed believed this interfered with Westmed's ability to manage its employees."

And in 2007, supervisors involved themselves in labor negotiations between Westmed and its employees' union, ultimately offering to cover the gap between the amount Westmed wanted to pay and the amount workers demanded.

"Those interviewed felt that the incident undermined the management of Westmed, leaving it unable to assert any authority over its employees," the jury wrote.

How to get it right

Now, the county has a chance to correct past mistakes, jurors pointed out, by formulating "realistic and accurate" requirements for ambulance service which will allow interested companies to make viable bids.

And because there are so many parties in emergency services — such as fire departments and other agencies — jurors said the board of supervisors should identify and support "a single agency or person to take a leadership role in making decisions regarding stakeholder input into the next ambulance provider contract."

That contract should cover all contingencies, specify alternate means of resolution (other than fines and termination) for breaches, let the company hire qualified workers, and clearly define the roles of the board of supervisors, the EMS agency and the ambulance company's management.

According to state law, the Monterey County Board of Supervisors must respond to the report, stating whether it agrees or disagrees with the findings, and articulating any disputes.

The board also must report how the jury's recommendations are being implemented, and if they're not, why not.

Herald reporter claims he was paid less and fired because he's black

By KELLY NIX

A FORMER reporter for the Monterey County Herald has filed a lawsuit against the newspaper alleging he was paid lower wages than other reporters with less experience, and ultimately fired, because he is black.

Andre Briscoe, who lost his job at the Herald Jan. 11, 2008, made the claims in a suit filed in Monterey County Superior Court last week.

"The conduct of [the Herald] was done in conscious disregard of Briscoe's civil right to be free of prohibited discrimination in the workplace," the lawsuit alleges.

Briscoe claims he found out he was the lowest paid reporter at the newspaper by examining his salary history after a union rep gave him a list of pay rates and salaries that each Herald employee received.

"Briscoe was even paid at a lower rate than at least two reporters who had fewer years of reporting experience," the lawsuit alleges.

The Herald's attorney, Marshall Anstandig, said, "We completely deny his claims of discrimination and retaliation and will vigorously defend this matter," according to an emailed statement to The Pine Cone from Herald publisher Gary Omernick.

Briscoe is seeking an unspecified amount of money for "loss of wages, promotional opportunities and benefits," as well as for "mental and emotional distress." He also thinks the newspaper should be required to pay "punitive and exemplary damages" because of its "malicious and oppressive conduct."

Briscoe alleges that four days after a Jan. 7, 2008, meeting with the Herald's human resources manager to discuss his low salary, he was fired.

"The circumstances behind Briscoe's sudden termination ... create a presumption that it was motivated by his race and voicing his complaints," the suit indicates.

Briscoe also alleges he had undergone three employment evaluations during the term of the union's collective bargaining agreement, while every other reporter had only undergone two.

The lawsuit also targets the Herald's owners, MediaNews Group and its subsidiary, California Newspapers Partnership. MediaNews publishes more than 50 other newspapers, including the Santa Cruz Sentinel and the San Jose Mercury News.

Briscoe, who the suit indicates was vice-chair of the newspaper's local union, covered crime and the cities of Pacific Grove and Seaside, according to the suit.

Before filing the lawsuit in Monterey County Superior Court, Briscoe says in June 2008 he filed a discrimination claim with the California Department of Fair Employment and Housing, which in November gave him the go-ahead to file the suit.

Breakfast of 1,200 champions, killer food, and V-Day decadence

By MARY BROWNFIELD

THE RIO Grill's 19th annual Resolution Run was held on a bright, beautiful and chilly New Year's Day, and while the restaurant's staff didn't put on their running shoes and hit the trail with everyone else, they probably burned as many calories.

Chef Cy Yonts, for instance, spent weeks lining up food donations for the pancake breakfast that always follows the run, helping to ensure its benefiting charity, Big Brothers Big Sisters, would receive as much money as possible from the event.

Then he ran the kitchen throughout a busy New Year's Eve, grabbed a little sleep and rounded up his staff of eight before dawn the next morning to orchestrate breakfast for runners and race volunteers. They worked double-duty, preparing the restaurant to open for lunch while mixing gallons of pancake batter, making scrambled eggs and sizzling sausage for the run's brunch.

"It's a challenge to cook the food at the restaurant and then run it across two parking lots to the brunch area while maintaining the temperature and quality of the food," pointed out race director Julie Ann Lozano.

The Kiwanis Club of Monterey — an integral player in the event since its inception — supplied volunteers and griddles. "I wouldn't even dare to venture a guess as to how many thousands of pancakes they've made for us over the years," Lozano said.

For more information on the Rio Grill, which is owned by Tony Tollner and his Downtown Dining group and known for contemporary fare and fun atmosphere, visit www.riogrill.com or call (831) 625-5436. The restaurant is located at 101 Crossroads Blvd. off Rio Road in Carmel.

■ Be nice to your citrus

Anyone who has a rose bush, a Meyer lemon, a dwarf lime or any other citrus tree needs to know how to care for it, so McShane's Nursery is hosting free pruning workshops this winter. Every Saturday in January and February, McShane's will offer rose pruning at 10 a.m. and fruit-tree pruning at 11 a.m. Students should bring their garden shears to get some hands-on lessons from the experts, who will demonstrate how proper care yields the most blooms and best fruit in the spring and summer.

McShane's is located at 115 Monterey Salinas Highway in Salinas and can be reached at (831) 455-1876.

Restaurant — owned and run by the Cardinali family since 1994 — is one of the best spots to take advantage of an early-bird special.

Stop in between 5 and 6 p.m. anytime the restaurant is serving dinner (in other words, Thursday through Saturday), and take 25 percent off the meal.

Dinner offerings include several appetizers, such as the baked Brie for two; a multitude of fish, poultry, meat and pasta dishes; specialty crepes, like spinach and cheese, and ratatouille; sandwiches and salads; more than half a dozen pizzas, and lots of desserts. The Cottage is located on Lincoln Street between Ocean and Seventh.

■ 'Killer food, casual setting'

The second installment of the Pelican Tavern's underground dining series will feature Monterey Bay Aquarium chef de cuisine Estevan Jimenez — better known as EJ — Jan. 22. "We can't guarantee the forks will match, but the food will be killer and the prices affordable," organizers pledged.

EJ has opted to present small plates during his Pelican appearance, and a preview of the menu shows items like crispy ricotta dumplings, shaved endive and pear salad, truffle-scented crispy chicken breast, char-broiled arctic char, raviolis of natural beef short rib, slow-roasted pork shoulder, panna cotta and chocolate ganache tart — all with accompaniments too elaborate to list here.

Guests at the tavern, located on the ocean side of the American Tin Cannery, can order wine from the Pelican's list or bring their own and pay the paltry $10 corkage. Call Diane Kleindienst at (831) 647-8200 or email diane@thepelicantavern.com to reserve a spot at the table.

■ It's mushroom time!

Winter rains and deep moisture mean all sorts of delectable mushrooms are growing in secret spots, and Aubergine will honor the wild world of fungi during a special dinner Friday, Jan. 30.

Executive chef Christophe Grosjean and guest chef Steve Gothman of Robuchon Las Vegas will prepare five courses to be paired with California wines. Gothman hails from the frenzy and lavishness of Sin City, while Grosjean, a French fungophile, is a precise, talented, creative and charming chef who went to cook for L'Auberge Carmel after working under executive chef Cal Stamenov at Bernardus. To Grosjean, mushrooms "add a component of wildness and mystery to a dish."

Dinner is $125 per person, plus tax and tip, with a package including an overnight stay, two dinner tickets and breakfast available for $475. For more information or reservations, call (831) 622-5907. Aubergine is located in L'Auberge Carmel at Monte Verde Street and Seventh Avenue.

■ Prune in style

Bernardus Lodge's resident florist and rose expert, Susanna Gamble, will host a pruning demonstration from 11 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. Saturday, Feb. 7, in the resort's Rose & Wedding Garden.

"Her passion for creating arrangements from truly the ground up is sure to inspire those who have trouble maintaining a winter garden," said Gina Martin of Bernardus.

The idyllic setting features more than 100 hybrid teas, floribundas, shrubs, climbers, old garden roses, miniatures and other varieties, and Gamble will discuss the funda-mentals of pruning, care and plant selection.

Guests will also take home rose clippings "to help inspire them to start working in the garden." The cost is $20 per person, and the lodge is located at 415 Carmel Valley Road at Las Laureles Grade. For reservations, call (831) 658-3550.

■ Speaking of roses...

... or of an occasion for giving roses, at least: Bernardus will also be the place to treat your sweetie on Valentine's Day. Between 11 a.m. and 3 p.m., Stamenov, pastry chef Ben Spungin and mixologist Zole Andahazy will collaborate on a chocolate demonstration and wine country lunch.

The spoiling will begin with Andahazy's imaginative cocktails and bubbly, while the funny and congenial Spungin will share his favorite chocolate recipes, demonstrate signature desserts and show guests how to make their own chocolate truffles to take home.

After all that, couples will take their seats at tables for two and delight in Stamenov's buffet dishes of local vegetables, natural raised meats and Monterey seafood, all paired with newly released Bernardus wines and concluding with more chocolate and other decadent offerings, of course. Reservations cost $95 per person and are required. Call (831) 658-3550.

Red Cross gets its windows

By MARY BROWNFIELD

THE AMERICAN Red Cross chapter house in downtown Carmel can finally install new windows, according to the planning commission's unanimous approval Wednesday. Now, the two city council members who pledged to help the nonprofit must raise the money to pay for them.

The aluminum-clad, forest green windows will have a grid similar to the old aluminum windows they are replacing but will be double-paned and much more energy efficient, said Jim Pope, general manager of American Vision Windows.

Their approval was a long time in coming. Last June, the nonprofit asked the planning commission for permission to replace the aluminum windows with vinyl, but was denied. Executive director Sharon Crino appealed to the city council, which also denied the application but pledged to help raise money to pay for more appropriate, and more expensive, windows.

At the Jan. 14 meeting, after Pope described the windows the Red Cross wanted, Crino explained the color choice.

"White, tan and beige almost clashed with the color of the building," she said. "And when we put the green on there, it just popped."

Carmel Residents Association President Barbara Livingston made no comment about the windows them-handed a small, black plastic bag to the clerk, and angrily demanded all the money that they had in the office," Mukai said. "Fearing for her safety, the clerk gave him what currency they had at the front desk."

The robber declined to take coins and no one was hurt, Mukai added.

The Coachman's Inn employee did not know whether the man was armed. She described him as being Hispanic in appearance, and 5-foot-5 to 5-foot-8-inches tall, wearing a navy baseball cap and a navy jumpsuit or overalls. The robber also had freckles and a slight mustache, and spoke English without an accent. She could not say in which direction he fled after leaving the office at the inn, which is on San Carlos between Seventh and Eighth avenues, and police searched the area but did not find anyone.

California Penal Code, which states that it is a crime to commit battery against a firefighter in the performance of his or her duty. He is also charged with interfering with a firefighter in the line of duty.

"This poor man was arrested for seeking to defend the property he is the caretaker for," explained Michael Jones of A Moveable Feast, who is helping to organize the event.

Eberle believes the charges came in response to comments he made that were critical of the way officials managed the wildfire. Like Eberle, Jones had harsh words for the performance of fire officials.

"The community's interaction [with fire officials] was less than stellar," Jones said. "The Cachagua volunteers were great, and many of the fire crews were awesome, but the way things were handled by those in charge was very poor."

In response to the charges, Eberle said he may have accidentally "brushed" a firefighter July 12 with his hose while he was trying to save the observatory. He said firefighters refused to help him save the observatory, which is also his home. The observatory is located along Tassajara Road at an elevation of about 5,000 feet.

Eberle later received a commendation and a $1,000 gift from the Monterey Institute for Research in Astronomy for his "heroic actions."

In addition to his job as a caretaker, Eberle is a photographer who has had his work published in Outdoor Photographer, Popular Photography, Monterey Bay Magazine, The Carmel Pine Cone and The Monterey County Herald.

The fundraiser starts at 6 p.m.

"We're going to serve wine, pizza, tri-tip, sustainably caught local seafood and locally grown organic vegetables," Jones explained. "Ivan is going to show his photos of the fire."

To reach the Cachagua General Store, drive four miles east of Carmel Valley Village along Carmel Valley Road, turn right on Cachagua Road, and follow it for 6.2 miles. The store is located at 18840 Cachagua Road.

Jones asked people planning to attend to RSVP. For more information, call (831) 659-1857.

needs to learn about artistic integrity," he said, adding that the story is "a metaphor for this town," and its struggles to remain true to its roots.

Roeck said the full-length film will be entertaining and "an economic boon for the town."

Roeck raised the money for the project and pitched it around Hollywood. Carlos de los Rios ("Playing Mona Lisa") wrote the screenplay, and Lee Caplin ("Ali") is executive producer. Lauren Bacall, Hayden Panettiere (of the TV show, "Heroes"), and Scott Eastwood — former Carmel Mayor Clint Eastwood's son — have agreed to roles. Dina Eastwood will play a social worker.

"I was very pleasantly surprised to find that the world of Hollywood and these artists wanted to come and be in our little picture," Roeck said.

But he also requires some lesser known actors.

"We do need some extras," he said. "When you do a small, independent film, it's great to have free extras."

With permits and insurance in hand, Roeck told the council he is ready to begin shooting and will spend his first day, Tuesday, Jan. 27, at Carmel Mission. He and his crew will shoot scenes throughout town six days a week for four weeks, and they are coordinating with Carmel Police Cpl. Steve Rana to arrange street closures and tackle other logistics.

Location manager Peter Newfield pledged to canvas residents and business owners to advise them of the timing and location of filming — "which will be most of the town from day to day, for full and half days," he said. "The key is to get information out there so we don't surprise people."

The group will try to minimize impacts on parking and will strive to not take up too much space at a time, he said.

After Roeck finished his presentation, Mayor Sue McCloud said the city offered offices at Sunset for the film crew and, she hopes the distributor will agree to stage the premiere in the theater at Sunset Center.

Considering the film concludes in that very place, Roeck said, "that would be a great thing for the worldwide press to latch onto."

ENGINEERING BEAUTY
For those who love the look of wood floors, engineered wood provides a practical choice for over concrete slabs and in environs where solid wood flooring cannot be applied (such as below grade from finished basements). Aside from meeting these practical challenges, engineered wood flooring mimics the look of real wood by applying a thin wood veneer over a plywood substrate. Because the thickness of engineered wood is only three-eighths to five-eighths-of-an-inch deep, it can be applied over an existing floor (such as in a kitchen renovation) with minimal increase in floor height. Most engineered flooring is available in tongue-and-groove strips that must be stapled or glued to the subfloor. Others, such as "long-plank" types, are designed for "floating" installations.
Flooring choices can set the tone for any room in your home or office. Careful consideration of material, ease of maintenance, durability, color, and design is not something you have to do on your own, however. That's our job. Our ability to stay on top of the latest design trends, product knowledge, and myriad resources keep us well-suited to meet your decorating challenges. For the perfect finish, start here at CARPETS & FLOORS, INC. We're open Monday through Saturday, 9am to 5am.
HINT: Virtually all engineered flooring comes prefinished, usually with "eased edges," which are slightly rounded edges that provide small V-grooves between each board.

Dan Jones is the President of Carpets & Floors, Inc., located at 471 Lighthouse Ave. (between Drake and McClellan) here in Monterey. Ph: 372-2300.

YOUR AUTO COLUMN

Presented by Kevin & Sue Anne Donohoe

GETTING A LITTLE BLUE IN THE TOOTH
Bluetooth technology, which enables devices such as cell phones and laptops to connect without wires, is playing an increasingly important role in automobiles. As new laws require drivers to keep their hands on the wheel and not their cell phones, car manufacturers are incorporating Bluetooth controls in their vehicles, which enable drivers to make and receive phone calls while maintaining their grip on the wheel. The second most popular use of the technology involves using a mobile phone or MP3 player to stream music through the vehicle's stereo system. In the future, there is likely to be Bluetooth video streaming into backseat entertainment units. Buyers who value this technology should opt for factory-installed units.
This column on Bluetooth technology is brought to you by our entire staff. We take customer service very seriously, always treating your vehicle with the utmost care because we know how much you and your passengers rely on your vehicle. We appreciate your business, and provide personal service to each and every customer. We are located at the corner of Figueroa and Franklin, just west of Jack's Park in Downtown Monterey.
HINT: As with most cutting-edge technology, Bluetooth was first introduced into luxury automobiles, but is now available in more affordable models.

PROVIDING OPTIONS FOR INDEPENDENT LIVING...

Everybody Needs a Break Now and Then

Even the most dedicated family caregivers periodically need "time off" to replenish their energy. That's what our Respite Care service is for.

Our Home Care Coordinator will visit you first to discuss your needs and wishes.

When you need a break, we will carefully select a Personal Attendant to be at home with your loved one while you are away, and to follow the routine that you have established.

You can't take good care of anyone else unless you take care of yourself!

"Central Coast Senior Services arranged for care for my parents several times and I couldn't have been more pleased. Literally within a couple hours of my phone call, they had someone in my father's home so he could return from the hospital. They provided 24-hour care for my father, who is blind, including fixing his meals and helping him bathe. I found their services to be exceptional."

Victorian Home Care

CONSIDER A GCM

For those who aspire to see their senior loved ones "age in place," the assistance of a Geriatric Care Manager (GCM) may be key when ascertaining the correct mix of appropriate services to be rendered by home healthcare providers. Typically, a GCM makes a professional assessment based on one-on-one interviews with the senior and a meeting with family members. Topics include the senior's health and living environment, psychological state, and finances and insurance information. An individualized care plan is then proposed, and arrangements are made for care, including available community resources. Periodic assessments can determine if any adjustments should be made to the plan. As a professional, the GCM can address issues before they become problems, and get them resolved.

VICTORIAN HOME CARE provides the best home care and geriatric care management for seniors or adults with physical and/or mental challenges in and around Monterey and Santa Cruz, California. Our mission and promise to our clients is simple—to provide the best care possible, as many hours as we are needed. Comfort and compassion are our guiding principles. Out of respect for our clients and their families, we respond to the sometimes complex physical and emotional issues faced by those we serve with open hearts and open minds.

P.S. You can request a referral for a geriatric assessment from a primary care physician.

For a free in-home care assessment, please call Victorian Home Care at 655-1935.

NOTICE TO READERS: California law requires that contractors taking jobs that total $500 or more (labor or materials) be licensed by the Contractors State License Board. State law also requires that contractors include their license number on all advertising. You can check the status of your licensed contractor at www.cslb.ca.gov or 800-321-CSLB. Unlicensed contractors taking jobs that total less than $500 must state in their advertisements that they are not licensed by the Contractors State License Board. The PUBLIC UTILITIES COMMISSION requires household movers to include their PUC license number in their ads.

RESIDENTIAL DESIGN & CONSULTATION

BUYING A HOUSE?
What's possible on your site; guest house, granny cottage, additions? Let us analyze how planning and zoning laws affect your potential resale value.

NEED TO DESIGN A NEW HOUSE?
Start with a feasibility study for your site. We offer high end design skills, work in any design style, with focus on "client needs" and green design.

NEED TO REMODEL?
Want to know how to maximize cost/reward benefits of your remodeling project? Should you "tear it down" and start new, or just remodel?

LOOKING FOR GREEN SOLUTIONS?
Rainwater Catchment - Options for solar, electrical, reduced energy bills - LEEDS and Green Standards, if desired - Want to go "off grid"?

Our combined design, planning and engineering experience exceeds seventy years on the Monterey Peninsula.

WASTE MANAGEMENT®

Think Green.®

Waste Management, your garbage collection and recycling service provider, is proposing a rate adjustment. The rate adjustment of 3.02% for the city of Carmel-By-The-Sea would become effective on April 1, 2009. This increase is comprised of Cost of Living and an increase in our disposal costs at the Monterey Regional Waste Management District (the Marina landfill) from $45 to $46.25 per ton. If you have any questions, please call our Customer Service department at 831.384.5000.

Sincerely,

Waste Management – Carmel Marina Corporation

Editorial

Wrong again, Ms. Kay

SAN FRANCISCO Chronicle reporter Jane Kay is trying her best to get into the Hall of Fame for Bad Reporting.

In 2007, she famously insisted on calling the pheromone spray designed to confuse light brown apple moths a “pesticide,” even though the spray didn’t even give the moths a headache. A pesticide, of course, is something that kills a pest, and a substance that confuses moths about the location of potential mates doesn’t come close to qualifying. Practically all the news media got this angle right, raising questions about the pheromone spray’s safety without unnecessarily frightening the public by making them think they were about to be doused with a deadly chemical. But not the Chronicle’s “Environment Writer.” Why bother with accuracy when there are tales of doom and gloom to spin?

This week, Jane Kay struck again, this time on the subject of power-plant cooling systems and their potential impacts on marine life.

Some power plants, you see, draw sea water through large pipes, use the chilly waters to absorb excess heat from boilers and turbines, and then discharge the (somewhat warmer) water to the ocean whence it came. Environmentalists have made up their minds this “once-through cooling” technology should no longer be used because it damages the ocean, and insist that power plants build cooling towers to discharge excess heat into the atmosphere instead. A valid public debate is underway whether the benefit of building new cooling systems is worth the expense.

But Kay has already made up her mind about once-through cooling, it seems, and in her stories one side is presumed to be right (guess which!), while the other is depicted as being supported only by greedy businessmen and their lackeys in the Bush White House. And in her haste to push the environmentalists’ agenda, Kay doesn’t take the slightest care to get her facts right.

This is what she reported Jan. 14 about our local power plant in Moss Landing, which is owned by Dynegy, Inc., of Houston, Texas:

■ “Coastal power plants [including Moss Landing] withdraw cold water and discharge hot water at a rate of about 16.7 billion gallons per day, according to reports.”

Fact: Even when operating at peak capacity, the Moss Landing power plant processes far less than 16.7 billion gallons of sea water per day, and increases its temperature by only about 20 degrees Fahrenheit before sending it back to the ocean. Since the water in Monterey Bay is usually around 50 degrees Fahrenheit, the increase of 20 degrees means the water is discharged at a temperature of about 70 degrees — which can hardly be called “hot.”

■ “... the Moss Landing Power Plant takes and discharges water to the environmentally rich Elkhorn Slough on Monterey Bay.”

Fact: The Moss Landing power plant draws its water from the Moss Landing harbor, which is at the mouth of Elkhorn Slough. But it discharges its water about 600 feet offshore into the immense, cold waters of Monterey Bay. This is not just a trivial error, because there is a huge difference, environmentally speaking, between sending millions of gallons of warm water into a coastal slough and sending them into the vast Pacific Ocean. The Moss Landing power plant does not discharge any cooling water into Elkhorn Slough.

We often have this reaction when reading a big city or national newspaper’s account of a local story: “What the heck are they talking about?”

Next time the editors of the San Francisco Chronicle send a reporter to Monterey County to cover an important local story, we urge them to provide some background from experienced local journalists. On the other hand, they probably won’t want to, because when you’ve already made up your mind about what a story’s supposed to be, the facts can just get in the way.

Letters to the Editor

Support for ice cream shop owner

Dear Editor,

As a former Pacific Grove resident (after my time in the military) and a former Defense Language Institute student, I’m trying to get my head around what might have happened at Mr. Ozuna’s ice cream store when the Williamses visited it.

I see nowhere in the account where he refused to serve them. Additionally, neither of them was in uniform at the time of the visit, according to your account.

He expressed his disagreement with the prosecution of the war in Iraq, not his disagreement with the existence of the military. That is one of his rights as a U.S. citizen.

If Mrs. Williams believes that Mr. Ozuna would not have his freedom if it were not for her husband who served in Iraq, she is seriously delusional. There are far more considerations to the entire situation in the Middle East than her own narrow world view.

Why she expects that just because she and her husband are in the military and thus have the last word as to whose opinion about the war in Iraq is correct and whose is not is beyond me.

I fully support Mr. Ozuna’s statement that we are, in fact, murdering people in Iraq for no good reason. So do many other people in this country and in the rest of the world.

Her belief in freedom should, to my understanding, also include Mr. Ozuna’s freedom to express his opinion, no matter what her vocation is.

According to the second to last paragraph in your story, she gives lip service to this idea but if she truly believes it, why did she or her husband contact Mr. Ozuna’s ice cream supplier to complain? It sounds to me as if she believes Mr. Ozuna is entitled to his opinion as long as it completely jibes with hers but not otherwise.

I also see no reason why Mr. Ozuna should be pressured to apologize to the Williamses. For what? Having an opinion they disagree with? Not every member of the military or US citizen agrees with our Middle East policy by any means. Why should Mr. Ozuna?

I do not live on the Monterey Peninsula at the moment, and read the Pine Cone online, but if I’m ever out that way, I plan to buy as much ice cream from Mr. Ozuna as I can for sticking up for his Constitutional rights.

Lucian Dixon,
Jackson, Miss.

‘Imagine hearing that’

Dear Editor,

Thank you for publishing the letter from Staff Sergeant Nunemaker regarding the Ice Cream Shoppe incident (Jan. 9). Imagine serving your country in Afghanistan or Iraq and hearing about such a thing! I couldn’t have said it better.

Much of the mess was cleaned up by the time White arrived to investigate, though the resident provided photos.

"The paint was off the cat but still on the stairwell, and on some mirrors," he said. Some of the eggs remained spattered across the home's exterior, awaiting the arrival of a power-washer, and despite repeated mopping, fire-extinguisher dust could still be seen in the rough floor boards.

After acquiring the names of possible suspects and witnesses, White questioned them — but a group from Monterey was trying to pin everything on a group from Carmel, and vice versa, he said.

"I'm getting the run-around by everyone," he said. "When a house gets trashed, people know. It's not like one guy did it while everyone else was asleep."

"Did the community come forward and pay for the windows? I hope the answer is yes," she said, adding that she had sent a check.

Crino said council members Ken Talmage and Karen Sharp compiled a list of donors and were making phone calls, and had gathered about $3,500. "I've left it in the hands of Karen and Ken in making those calls, as they committed to," she said, adding that the total cost will be about $23,000.

Pope said he managed to get commercial pricing for the project, despite its small scale, and the manufacturer decided to contribute the necessary painting after learning the client was a nonprofit.

"To let the citizens know, this project, for what they're getting, would be about $31,000," he said.

William Paul 'Will' Kramer

1918 - 2008

WILLIAM PAUL 'WILL' KRAMER passed away in his sleep December 13, 2008, in Carmel. Will, as he was known to his many friends, was born to Theodore and Ann Kramer in Ridgewood, New Jersey on August 31, 1918. He is survived by two sons; William Michael and Theodore Thomas 'Pat' Kramer.

Will attended St. Peters Prep School in New Jersey and graduated from the Univeristy of Notre Dame in South Bend, Indiana, where he met Suzanne West who was to become his wife and mother to "Mike & Pat." After graduation he enlisted in the Army Air Corps where he be came co-pilot and bombardier on a B-17. Flying with the 02nd Squadron out of Foggia, Italy against the heavily defended oil fields of Polesti, Romania he was seriously wounded but continued his mission and was awarded the Distinguished Flying Cross, the highest honor the Army Air Corp bestowed.

After the war he retuned to South Bend, where he worked for the Studebaker Automobile Co. in their export division. From there he went on to a successful career working in the aerospace industry before semi-retiring to Carmel Valley with his second spouse 'Caio' some forty years ago. Caio has since passed away.

He worked at the Valley Village Post Office and became a fixture in the Valley where he had many wonderful friends. Evenings he was often to be found at Will's Fargo or The Running Iron, his two favorite haunts in the Valley. Will was a true gentleman with a great wit that no pun was to escape.

Sandy Claws

By Margot Petit Nichols

DAPHNE OPGRAND, a 14-month-old Cavalier King Charles spaniel, was born on the day her Mom and Dad were married. They learned of this happy coincidence later, and thought it a fortuitous sign.

When she was born, she was all white, except for her ears. As you can see from this photo taken at Carmel Beach Tuesday, as she was drying out on a sunny rock, she now has many brown markings decorating her petite form.

She loves her Mom Beth, but adores her Dad Kip, according to Mom. "When Kip comes home from work, it's all about Dad," she said. Dad is a partner in Golf Links to the Past, a Pebble Beach shop specializing in golf antiques.

Daphne has a penchant for the beach. She gets to come to Carmel Beach twice a week, and the remaining five days she's taken for a shoreline walk between Bird Rock and China Rock in Pebble Beach. She digs up bird feathers buried in the sand (pelican, seagull, etc.) and chews on them. Evidently she can sniff out tasty quills even when they're concealed from sight. She also loves to tear up dried kelp and nibble on abalone shells; sometimes she's loathe to leave her treasure on the beach and carries the shell all the way home.

Daphne's collection of stuffed squeaky toys grows with each visit to Diggidy Dog, where she also selects peanut butter cookies in the shape of paw prints. Her favorite toys are her duck and gorilla. When Dad makes a noise like a duck and imitates a gorilla, Daphne runs off and fetches them for him. It is all about Dad!

Tim Allen
presents
Al Smith's
"Carmel Legends"

We have lately (and temporarily) come into possession of a copy of the TELEPHONE DIRECTORY for Monterey and San Benito Counties dated February, 1930. It's a little larger than a Reader's Digest, a bit tattered, stained in places by wine and tomato sauce, and runs to about 100 pages. The Carmel section is 7 pages and lists numbers like 352-W, 44 and 2-J-5. Fairy Lee Byrd, for example, is 841, the Fire Department is 100, and Miss Eliza Clevenger is 1-J-3. Robinson Jeffers is not listed because he didn't believe in telephones. Edward Weston (782) and Hazel Watrous (361) did. The yellow pages are not yellow at all, run to 51 indexed pages and are called "Buyer's Guide." 94 restaurants are listed (9 in Carmel), and only one of the restaurants survives today. There were 42 physicians in 1930, more like 242 today. Real estate offices (may their tribe decrease) add up to 77, of which 3 are still extant in some form; but remember, this covers two counties. There were 82 hotels (some duplications), no motels. Ice business was big: 9 outlets. Traveling through this list of 57 years ago is fascinating... and more than slightly disconcerting. Do you suppose that somebody in the year 2044 will be equally enchanted with our telephone book?

The total amount of the unpaid balance with interest thereon of the obligation secured by the property to be sold plus reasonable estimated costs, expenses and advances at the time of the initial publication of the Notice of Sale is $1,164,820.59. It is possible that at the time of sale the opening bid may be less than the total indebtedness due. In addition to cash, the Trustee will accept cashier's checks drawn on a state or national bank, a check drawn by a state or federal credit union, or a check drawn by a state or federal savings and loan association, savings association, or savings bank specified in Section 5102 of the Financial Code and authorized to do business in this state. Said sale will be made, in an "AS IS" condition, but without covenant or warranty, express or implied, regarding title, possession or encumbrances, to satisfy the indebtedness secured by said Deed of Trust, advances thereunder, with interest as provided, and the unpaid principal of the Note secured by said Deed of Trust with interest thereon as provided in said Note, plus fees, charges and expenses of the Trustee and of the trusts created by said Deed of Trust. If required by the provisions of Section 2923.5 of the California Civil Code, the declaration from the mortgagee, beneficiary or authorized agent is attached to the Notice of Trustee's Sale duly recorded with the appropriate County Recorder's office. NOTICE OF PETITION TO ADMINISTER ESTATE

of CLARE LEWIS JARDSTROM
Case Number MP 19333

To all heirs, beneficiaries, creditors, contingent creditors, and persons who may otherwise be interested in the will or estate, or both, of CLARE LEWIS JARDSTROM.

A PETITION FOR PROBATE has been filed by MARTA JARDSTROM THYSELL in the Superior Court of California, County of MONTEREY.

The Petition for Probate requests that MARTA JARDSTROM THYSELL be appointed as personal representative to administer the estate of the decedent.

THE PETITION requests the decedent's will and codicils, if any, be admitted to probate. The will and any codicils are available for examination in the file kept by the court.

THE PETITION requests authority to administer the estate under the Independent Administration of Estates Act. (This authority will allow the personal representative to take many actions without obtaining court approval. Before taking certain very important actions, however, the personal representative will be required to give notice to interested persons unless they have waived notice or consented to the proposed action.) The independent administration authority will be granted unless an interested person files an objection to the petition and shows good cause why the court should not grant the authority.

A hearing on the petition will be held on in this court as follows:
Date: January 30, 2009
Time: 10:00 a.m.
Dept.: Probate
Room: 17
Address: Superior Court of California, County of Monterey, 1200 Aguajito Road, Monterey, CA 93940.

If you object to the granting of the petition, you should appear at the hearing and state your objections or file written objections with the court before the hearing. Your appearance may be in person or by your attorney.

If you are a creditor or a contingent creditor of the decedent, you must file your claim with the court and mail a copy to the personal representative appointed by the court within four months from the date of first issuance of letters as provided in Probate Code section 9100. The time for filing claims will not expire before four months from the hearing date noticed above.

You may examine the file kept by the court. If you are a person interested in the estate, you may file with the court a Request for Special Notice (form DE-154) of the filing of an inventory and appraisal of estate assets or of any petition or account as provided in Probate Code section 1250. A Request for Special Notice form is available from the court clerk.
