A PIECE of high-tech equipment unlike any other in Monterey County helped save the life of a woman who collapsed at a downtown restaurant last week. The AutoPulse rescue system — purchased for Carmel Fire Department in December with part of an unsolicited $25,302 grant from Fireman's Fund and Monterey Insurance Agencies — was installed on the engine Jan. 30 and put into action four days later.

The patient, a Peninsula resident in her 80s, was sitting outside the Forge in the Forest on Junipero Street shortly before 3 p.m. Feb. 3 when she lost consciousness, and her breathing and heartbeat stopped. A bystander dialed 911.

Knowing what they were facing, the arriving crews pulled the 35-pound AutoPulse off the engine and carried it to the prone patient, according to Carmel Regional Fire Ambulance paramedic David Jedinak.

A bystander had initiated CPR, and the ambulance crew quickly took over, using a manual defibrillator to shock the woman's heart back into rhythm and establishing an airway to get oxygen to her lungs. Meanwhile, firefighters moved the AutoPulse underneath the unconscious patient, wrapped its strap around her chest and activated its automated compressions.

The AutoPulse calculates the depth of the chest wall and size of the person, and compresses the chest

With storm clouds passing overhead and soggy greens underfoot, first-round play in this year's AT&T Pebble Beach National Pro-Am was anything but routine. Above, Davis Love and his caddy line up his putt on the First Hole at Pebble Beach. At the end of the day, two little-known golfers, Dustin Johnson and Robert Garrigus, shared the lead at seven-under par — with Johnson scoring an eagle from 151 yards out on his very first hole. Flanders debate heats up again

■ EIR renews old controversy: To sell or not to sell?

By MARY BROWNFIELD

THE HEARING was supposed to be about the adequacy of the environmental impact report examining the sale of Flanders Mansion, but advocates of keeping the old home turned this week's planning commission hearing into yet another debate about its fate.

"The goal tonight is for the public to discuss the adequacy of the document, not whether the city should sell or lease Flanders Mansion," cautioned planning and building services manager Sean Conroy, adding that people will have ample opportunity to testify when the disposition of the old mansion is considered by the forest, parks and beach commission, the historic resources board, the planning commission and the city council.

The EIR, revised after the nonprofit Flanders Foundation successfully sued the city to stop the sale of the old house, says leasing it out would have less of an impact than selling it, but that selling it is also an option.

"The goal is to create a document that is accurate and useful in making informed decisions about this project," he said.

"We're not here to have a vote whether we're in favor of selling, in favor of leasing or in favor of doing anything else with Flanders Mansion," added commission chairman Bill Strid.

Nonetheless, many speakers could not resist the chance to

Pfeiffer park could be closed for summer

ALVARADO STREET BLAZE: SUIT SEEKS TO PLACE BLAME

By KELLY NIX

A INSURANCE giant filed a lawsuit this week against a sandwich shop destroyed in the massive fire on Alvarado Street in downtown Monterey two years ago, along with the destroyed building's owner and several other firms the suits claims contributed to the devastation wrought by the blaze.

State Farm Insurance Company also sued Star Manufacturing International, the maker of a toaster oven said to have started the fire, which originated in a Quizno's restaurant.

"Prior to the fire, the toaster oven malfunctioned, causing electricity to overheat and ignite nearby combustible materials," according to the lawsuits filed Feb. 6 in Monterey County Superior Court.

But the suit, which seek more than $1 million, also targets the owner of the building, several electrical contractors and others who State Farm contends in some capacity had ties to the Alvarado Street building, which was totally destroyed.

The defendants include Saucito Land Company, Julie Work-Beck, Avila Design and Owens Electric.

State Farm's Emeryville attorney, David Demo, said the suits were filed to reclaim the money — $1,078,000 — the insurance agency gave policy holders Carolyn Harris, Anand Bokde and Joel Knight, whose businesses were damaged by the blaze.

Anand and Bokde were tenants of the building at 467 Alvarado Street, while Knight leased some offices

CITY FREEZES HIRING, CUTS SPENDING

By MARY BROWNFIELD

TO MAKE up for nearly $600,000 in revenue shortfalls, the Carmel City Council decided during a special meeting last Wednesday to leave vacant jobs unfilled, cut spending and take money from reserves.

"Last year, when you adopted the budget, the economy was in pretty good shape, and we were optimistic," city administrator Rich Guillen told the city council Feb. 4. But now the nation is in a recession economists say may not end until mid-2010, "so based on things we're reading and the data, we thought we should take some immediate action and slow down our spending in anticipation of what will be a difficult year."

Administrative services director Joyce Giuffre presented the numbers, suggesting the council drop the budget's revenue projections by $583,920, due to declines in tourism and property sales. She recommended lowering the target for transient occupancy tax by $131,860, to $4,261,640; property tax by $82,000, to $3,892,000; sales tax by $198,060, to $2,164,000; and "other" revenue sources by $172,000, to $2,690,624. To help make up for the shortfalls, she recommended moving $187,082 from reserve accounts for hostelry and capital projects into the general fund.

"We struggled with having to do that, but we have managed to build up reserves over last several years for a rainy day," Guillen said. "And I guess it's raining."

Postponing hiring for five vacant positions — public services director, community planning and building director, senior planner, police services officer and finance specialist — would save $134,415 this year, according to Giuffre.

"All the department managers were asked to look at line items and see where they could make adjustments, if possible," Giuffre added. Even the council's discretionary fund was cut by $10,000.

Spreading out capital projects and purchases over two years would cut $255,000 from street and road work, and design changes are dropping the Scenic Road bathroom project's costs by $46,636. Other items set aside, such as the underground water tank at Del Mar and the mist fire protection system in the library, would save $51,905 this year.

But Giuffre said an unbudgeted $43,185 for the Sunset Theater movie sound system, $40,000 for new parking payment machines in the Sunset Center lot and $34,705 in increased costs for the storm drain at San Antonio and Eighth had to be added to the budget, eating into the cost cutting.

Ike Plays Cypress, visits Carmel- President Eisenhower and his wife, Mamie, took a 5 day vacation in August of 1956 at the exclusive Cypress Point Club in Pebble Beach. The president, despite recent surgery, played 18 holes of golf on that course five days in a row. He was clearly enchanted and commented to the press about drizzle from the fog and the thickness of a cypress tree that held onto a ball he hit into it. He joked that the sea lions always began barking when he commenced a drive. Ike let reporters know that if he tried for three years he wouldn't be able to get a ball across the 220-foot span of ocean on the infamous 16th hole, so he took extra strokes to keep his ball on land. The Eisenhowers rarely ventured away from Cypress Point, but found hundreds of well-wishers waiting in cars greeting them as they entered Carmel on a Sunday morning. They visited the Carmel Mission and Ike shook hands with all 36 nuns. They attended services at the newly-built Carmel Presbyterian Church where all 325 seats were taken and hundreds waited outside. A wall at the church included bricks from churches around the world, including the Eisenhowers' own church in DC. (Next: Barack at Pebble?)

THE CARMEL Foundation and the Church of the Wayfarer will visit seniors on Saturday for the annual delivery of chocolate and roses. The fortunate recipients of the Valentine's Day treats will be residents in the nonprofit's housing at Norton and Haseltine courts.

The foundation, which provides low-cost meals, classes, transportation and field trips for some 4,000 members age 55 and older, is also the city's main provider of affordable housing for seniors. On Valentine's Day, volunteers from the church and the foundation will deliver their gifts to the residents. Juliette Ferguson, development manager for the foundation, said Safeway is also contributing to the effort.

$23 million lawsuit filed against Monterra developers

By KELLY NIX

TWO NEW lawsuits have been filed over the troubled Monterra Ranch development off of Highway 68, including a $23 million suit by a Southern California bank for unpaid loans.

La Jolla Bank FSB last week filed the multimillion dollar suit in Monterey County Superior Court against Monterra Ranch Properties, owners Roger and Basil Mills, and a host of lien holders and beneficiaries tied to the development.

La Jolla Bank's suit seeks $23,257,204.68.

"Defendants breached each of the loan agreements by failing to make payments when due," according to the suit, "defaulting under the terms of the loan agreements and failing to pay La Jolla Bank's trustees fees, attorneys fees costs and expenses."

"It's a similar suit to those some other banks have filed," said David Armanasco, the Mills' spokesman. "It's a suit to reserve their rights in the foreclosure process."

Monterra and the Millses have faced numerous lawsuits over the posh housing development, which has failed to attract the number of buyers the brothers expected.

Construction company files suit

In a separate claim, Travis Construction Inc. filed a lawsuit last week against Monterey County Bank and Monterra Ranch Properties for unpaid bills for construction of a segment of the subdivision.

The lawsuit claims fraud, unfair business practices, economic duress and other claims and seeks $264,435.85 in unpaid construction bills.

Monterra County Bank President Charles

T. Chrietzberg, Jr. told The Pine Cone last Thursday the bank is in the process of filing a counterclaim against Travis.

"Travis really misrepresented the cost to complete the project," Chrietzberg said. "The project went over budget by over a million dollars. They fraudulently signed lien waivers in order to obtain funds from the bank, which is a violation of banking regulations."

Chrietzberg also said Travis performed "defective and shoddy workmanship."

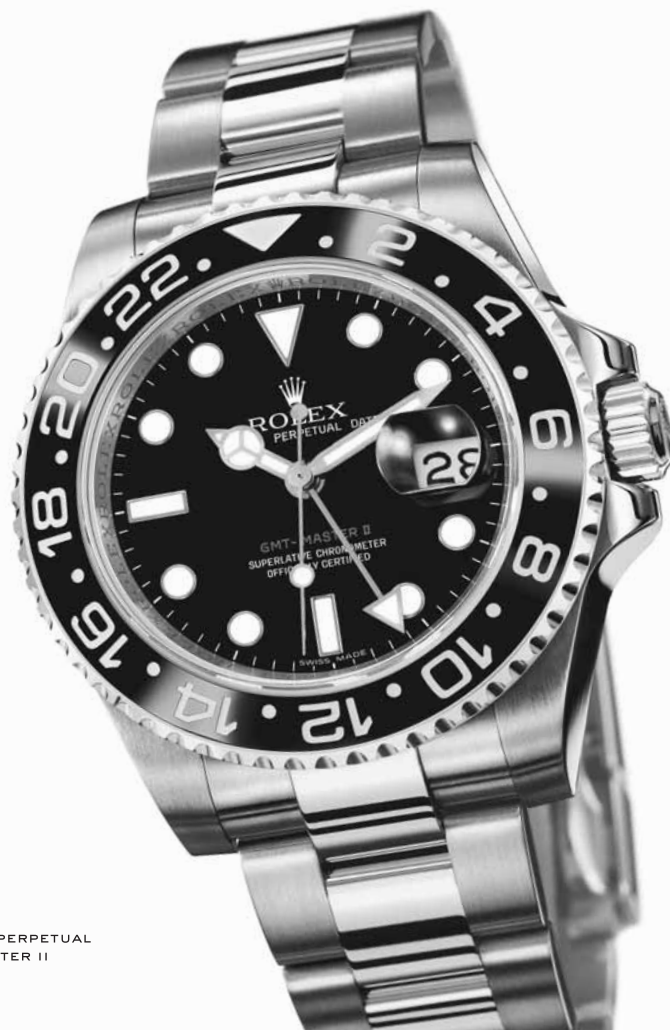

David Hollingsworth, Travis' attorney, alleged the bank said it had enough funds to pay for the construction project but short-changed crews who worked double shifts to finish it.

"After they got all the work and materials out of them," Hollingsworth said, "the [bank] said 'Sorry, we've only got so much, and you can have that or nothing.'" in response to a medical Lifeline alert. Lifeline was notified that upon gaining entry via a window and searching the premises, there was no one in the residence.

Sunset seeks volunteers

Carmel-by-the-Sea: Female in her 80s came to the fire station for medical assistance. She had a small cut on her forehead and bruising to the right side of her face and near the right eye. She had fallen at Dolores and Fifth and was walked to the fire station by a bystander. Police were notified of a fall on city property. Crews provided first aid and checked the patient for injuries by controlling bleeding, taking diagnostics and providing ice for the swelling on her face and near her eye. She refused further treatment and transport, and refused c-spine precautions. She was advised to see her doctor as soon as possible in case she sustained a head injury from the fall. The patient's daughter came to pick her up and take her to the emergency room at CHOMP.

Carmel-by-the-Sea: Fire engine and ambulance dispatched to Dolores Street to find a male in his 80s experiencing right-side chest pain.

Carmel-by-the-Sea: A non-injury accident occurred on Scenic Road.

Carmel area: Carmel Knolls resident reported receiving an anonymous death threat via his email.

Carmel area: Female subject was reported going door to door in the Carmel Views area attempting to sell magazines for a sales company. Caller thought it might be a scam.

Carmel area: Unknown person was reported going door to door soliciting magazine sales on Martin Road.

WEDNESDAY, JANUARY 21

Carmel-by-the-Sea: Traffic accident on Ocean Avenue. Vehicle vs parked vehicle. Note left.

Carmel-by-the-Sea: Followup contact with both person and dog owner regarding past-tense barking-dog complaints on Camino Real. Correct location of the complaints were discussed with both parties. No violations confirmed.

Carmel-by-the-Sea: Report of a lost ladies watch, possibly in the City of Carmel or county area.

Carmel-by-the-Sea: A citizen reported a found dog walking unattended and dragging a leash on Dolores Street. Animal control officer responded and transported the dog to the police department and secured it in a kennel. A message was left on the owner's voicemail of the dog's location. The owner later contacted the department, and the dog was returned at 1620 hours. Warning given and fees were paid.

Carmel-by-the-Sea: Vehicle stopped on Ocean Avenue for speeding, and the 20-year-old driver was found to have a BAC of .021 percent. He was on DUI probation and had a suspended license. He was also on felony probation with a no-alcohol restriction. He was arrested and lodged at county jail.

Carmel-by-the-Sea: At 2108, ambulance was dispatched to Atherton Road for a female who was the victim of a mechanical fall. Patient transported Code 2 to CHOMP.

Carmel-by-the-Sea: At 1253, ambulance was dispatched to Padre Lane in Pebble Beach for a female with right hip pain. Patient transported Code 2 to CHOMP at 1329.

Carmel-by-the-Sea: Fire engine and ambulance were dispatched to Santa Rita to find a male resident in his 80s experiencing bowel pain that was ongoing for about the last five days. Fire personnel assisted with patient assessment, diagnostics, packaging and gathering information. Transported the person to CHOMP.

Carmel Valley: Resident reported harassment at Pacific Meadows.

Carmel area: Dispatched to Rio Road for a suspicious person near a bank who was found to be intoxicated. A subsequent search of his person yielded Geodon, a prescription drug, which he possessed without a prescription. The 32-year-old male is on probation with terms from a prior 647(f) PC.

Pacific Grove: At 0859 hours, police and Monterey Fire responded to an injury accident and vehicle rollover at the intersection of Hillcrest and Carmel Avenue. Upon arrival,

CFD grows by three to ensure speediest possible response

By MARY BROWNFIELD

LOVED ONES pinned badges on Carmel's three new firefighters after they took the oath before the city council last Tuesday. Graham Evans, Brian Harrington and David Meurer were hired to fill the positions created by the council to shore up staffing and ensure the speediest possible response to emergencies. They joined the three engineers and three captains who make up the rest of the department's full-time employees.

Despite a hiring freeze, the city adds emergency workers

"The timing of these changes is difficult due to the declining economy, but the city administrator and city council remain committed to taking actions that will preserve public safety in Carmel," police chief George Rawson told The Pine Cone after the meeting. "The threat and consequences of a devastating fire demand a strong commitment to ensuring the fire department is properly staffed at all times and all

"David comes to us with many accolades," Rawson said. In the two days the department was accepting applications, more than 30 were submitted, "so this was a very difficult decision to make, with many qualified people," Rawson told the council. "But I'm proud to tell you that standing before you are three strong young men who are ready to protect the community." To get there, Evans, Meurer and Harrington each had to pass a written test, undergo oral an examination from a group of fire captains and another from the chiefs, submit to a background check, take pre-employment psychological and medical exams, and successfully complete a physical agility test.

"The three candidates ultimately selected were chosen on the basis of their knowledge, skills, abilities and backgrounds," Rawson told The Pine Cone. And they "are familiar with Carmel and the unique challenges associated with finding locations without addresses."

Rawson and Monterey Assistant Fire Chief Andrew Miller made the final hiring decision after interviewing a pool of candidates recommended by the fire captains.

At the Feb. 3 council meeting, Rawson introduced the three men, all of whom have longtime local ties.

Evans grew up in Carmel, attended Monterey Peninsula schools and began volunteering at CFD while he was still at Carmel High in 1988. After college, he embarked on a different career track but returned to "his true passion," Rawson said, becoming a firefighter and joining CFD part time in 2002. He also went to work for Carmel Regional Fire Ambulance as a paramedic.

Harrington, born and raised on the Peninsula and a resident of Monterey, graduated from Monterey High School in 1998, graduated from the MPC fire academy, and is an emergency medical technician who is working to finish his degree in fire protection. He volunteered as a firefighter at Pacific Grove for three years and Carmel Fire for one-and-a-half years, and also worked part-time for CRFA.

"He has put in many hours in the Carmel Fire Department and has volunteered, and we very much appreciate that," Rawson said.

The son of Monterey City Manager Fred Meurer, Meurer was born in Salinas and has lived in Monterey County his entire life. He became interested in a career in firefighting about two years ago, attended classes and went through the fire academy at Monterey Peninsula College. He volunteered with Salinas Rural Fire Department and worked as a seasonal firefighter for Cal Fire.

Long-lost eagle found seriously injured

■ SPCA caring for her at Ryan Ranch

By KELLY NIX

A 16-YEAR-OLD female bald eagle wildlife officials lost track of in 1995 after the bird's radio transmitter failed is recovering after being found entangled in a wire fence at Fort Hunter Liggett last week.

The eagle, known to the Ventana Wildlife Society as "5M," is being treated at the SPCA for Monterey County Wildlife Rescue and Rehabilitation Center at Ryan Ranch for deep wounds on each wing.

The injured eagle was discovered by Fort Hunter Liggett employees, SPCA spokeswoman Beth Brookhouser told The Pine Cone.

"They wrapped her in a blanket, removed her from the fence and put her in dog crate and called us," she explained.

Most of the 5M's injuries came from struggling to free herself from the wire fence. "The eagle's left wing is drooping, which is never a good sign," Brookhouser said. "Luckily, X-rays aren't showing any broken bones."

Wildlife center employees are feeding 5M with tongs and giving her intramuscular antibiotics twice a day. The bird is being kept hydrated with subcutaneous fluids.

SPCA workers are also trying to leave the bird alone as much as possible so she doesn't get too comfortable around people.

"The goal with her, like all the animals we care for here, is to get her back into the wild where she belongs,"

Brookhouser said.

After being found Feb. 1, 5M was treated at Pacific Wildlife Care in Morro Bay before being transferred to the SPCA Wildlife Center.

As an 8-week-old eaglet in July 1993, 5M was collected from a nest in Juneau, Alaska, and banded and fitted with a radio transmitter.

A few months later, Ventana Wildlife Society officials released her with 12 others in Big Sur as part of a reintroduction effort.

The Ventana Wildlife Society, which conserves native wildlife and their habitat, released 70 bald eagles to Central California in the 1980s and 1990s and began reintroducing California condors in 1997.

Biologists tracked 5M's movements in the Big Sur, Lake San Antonio and Lake Nacimiento areas but lost track of her in 1995 after her transmitter failed.

VWS executive director Kelly Sorenson helped with the bird's introduction to Big Sur when he worked as a field biologist for VWS.

"It is just an amazing feeling to know that this eagle survived all these years," he said. "I just hope she can once again fly free."

The SPCA has received numerous calls from the public asking to see 5M in person, but that type of exposure could add to the animal's duress.

"We completely understand why people want to see such an amazing animal up close," Brookhouser said. "But she is a wild animal, and it is already stressful for a wild animal to be in captivity."

LEARN VITAL PET-SAVING SKILLS AT RED CROSS

WANT TO know what to do when your four-legged best friend gets sick or injured? The Carmel chapter of the American Red Cross will offer its popular Pet CPR and First Aid class Wednesday evening, Feb. 18, to which humans are invited while their pets stay at home, and Fido will thank you for taking the time to attend.

Certified instructor Kevin Cole will lead the class, which will be held in the Red Cross office at Dolores and Eighth from 6 to 9:30 p.m. A member of the chapter's board, Cole is the director of safety and security for Pebble Beach, and will teach people how to perform CPR on animals (using mannequins, not actual pets). Students will also learn how to identify symptoms, care for common ailments, respond to pet emergencies, create a pet first aid kit and maintain their animals' health and well being.

The class costs $45 per person, and preregistration for the 15 available spots is required by calling Daniella Zapata at (831) 624-6921. The Red Cross also sells pet first aid kits for $15 to $25, and all attendees will receive a dog or cat manual with a DVD to take home, along with a copy of the Doggie Gazette newspaper.

Want to party all day at Sunset Center? Movie needs extras

By MARY BROWNFIELD

CREWS FILMING a huge scene of revelry at Sunset Center for "Carmel" need hundreds of festively attired extras Friday and Saturday. The hours are long and the pay is nil, but you get to put on your best duds, hang out with friends and meet people, get the insider's view of movie making — and maybe even be "discovered."

"Carmel" features the story of a teenage art prodigy who is abandoned by his drug-addicted mother at a motel and gets caught up in the dark and lucrative world of international art forgery.

Part of the film's finale is an upscale and well attended party at Sunset Center, and the scenes will be shot at the venue Feb. 13 and 14 with Alfred Molina, Josh Hutcherson, Lauren Bacall and Billy Boyd. The movie also stars Dina Eastwood, Scott Eastwood and Hayden Panettiere.

The Friday scene will require about 200 people dressed in daytime formal wear — cocktail dresses and suits — while Saturday will call for 600 similarly attired extras.

"It would be what you would wear to a matinee at the opera," explained Hannah Smith Walker, who is in charge of casting extras. The scene takes place during the day, so producers don't want evening gowns or black tie. "And we're hoping the women will dress in a bit of color — not too much, but not too much black." Otherwise, the scene might look more like a funeral.

Come prepared

She said people should bring a couple of extra formal outfits, if possible, just to ensure the directors get the look they want, and women should be made up. They can bring make-up to reapply but shouldn't bring the whole bathroom drawer, since storage space is tight.

People can volunteer for one or both days and should be prepared to spend between eight and 14 hours on the job. Lunch will be provided, but they should bring snacks and water, and have breakfast beforehand.

"It's a bit of a commitment, but it's a lot of fun, and you get to see how a movie is made from the inside," Smith

Walker said. Throughout the day, volunteers will take direction from the assistant director regarding what they're supposed to do in a particular shot.

"It's a lot of hurry up and wait, but you get to see the stars, and people seem to enjoy it," she said.

To remain entertained when the film isn't rolling, extras should bring books or magazines to read. Smith Walker said they should also encourage friends and family to join in the fun, not only because they're needed on camera, but because it's nice to have friends to hang out with off camera.

But the kids have to stay home, unless they're 16 years or older, since there isn't room for the young ones in the upscale adult party scene.

Smith Walker asked that extras carpool, if possible, and meet in the Crossroads shopping center parking lot at Rio Road and Highway 1 at 6 a.m. Everyone interested should confirm by sending an email to smithwalker@mac.com with "MOVIE EXTRA 800" in the subject line and each extra's name, age, email address, phone number and the date(s) the person is working.

"Carmel" is being directed by Lawrence Roeck.

In a sight not often seen on the Monterey Peninsula, heavy earthmoving equipment is being used to carve a wide swath through the scrub on the former Fort Ord in Seaside. The grading crews are relocating and widening General Jim Moore Boulevard from two to four lanes, part of an estimated $20 million project to improve the road, according to Steve Endsley, FORA's director of planning and finance.

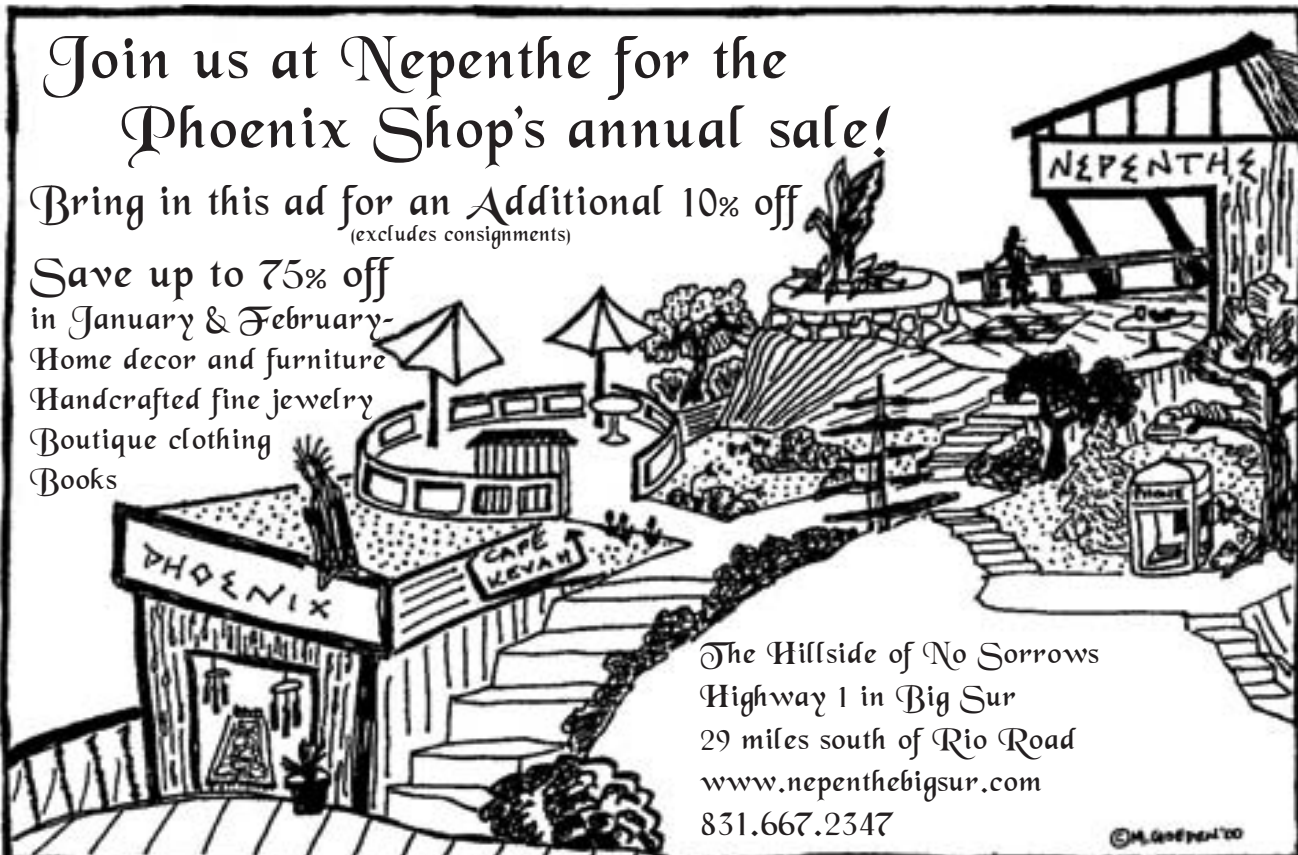

The project's current phase, which includes a bicycle path, began last summer and is expected to be completed this year. "The idea is to increase capacity of the road," Endsley said.

The cost of the roadbuilding project is partly being paid with grants of federal and state tax dollars, he added.

MORE THAN MEETS THE EYE

When tires wear unevenly, the problem may lie deeper than the treads. While improper tire pressure may be the culprit, the problem may also be loose strut mounts, ball joints, or steering linkage, or weak/fatigued shock absorbers or coil springs. Excessive wear on both the inside and outside edges of the tire is often due to low tire pressure. A diagonal tread wear pattern on rear tires often indicates incorrect wheel alignment of the rear tires. If the toe setting is incorrect, the tire will try to travel in a direction other than the one in which the vehicle wants to go. This happens only momentarily, after which the tire is forced back, causing the diagonal scuff wear pattern.

Is your car not operating properly? Here at Pacific Motor Service, we are committed to excellent customer service, and quality work. That's a promise. Our services are guaranteed for 12 months or 12,000 miles with NAPA Peace of Mind Warranty, and some repairs offer extended warranties.

The Art of CARPETING & DECOR

with Dan Jones

AREA OF EXPERTISE

When choosing an area rug, its shape and size will largely be determined by its location and the room's furniture. In the living room, it is often best to leave a one-foot border of bare floor around the rug. Hardwood floors framing a rug create a more formal look. In the dining room, choose a rug that is about four feet wider and four feet longer than the table that rests upon it so that the chair legs will not catch on the edges of the rug. As far as shape is concerned, a rectangular area rug is the obvious choice for a rectangular room, and a round rug softens the right angles of an otherwise traditional room.

Feeling overwhelmed by too many choices? A simple visit to CARPETS & FLOORS, INC. for a discussion with our friendly staff is all it takes to begin your decorating project. We take into consideration your lifestyle, needs, and preferences to ensure that you end up with the interiors you've always envisioned. If you're shopping for carpeting and other floor coverings, the pressure is gone but the fun remains when you choose to decorate with professional help. Breathe a sigh of relief — put your decorating challenges in our hands.

HINT: To add a touch of whimsy, choose a free-form area rug for children's bedrooms and playrooms.

Dan Jones is the President of Carpets & Floors, Inc., located at 471 Lighthouse Ave. (between Drake and McClellan) here in Monterey. Ph: 372-2300.

Cops issue warning about car burglaries

SOMEONE IS smashing windows and swiping purses throughout Carmel and the Monterey Peninsula, and police are warning people against leaving anything in their cars.

"It has been going on since late December," said Carmel Police Cmdr. Mike Calhoun. "We have had seven, and the county has had a lot more."

In Carmel, the first in this string of auto burglaries occurred on New Year's Eve, and the most recent break-ins happened Feb. 1, when two victims reported their cars were broken into while parked on Scenic Road. In the county area, the Monterey County Sheriff's Office most recently took reports of two vehicle burglaries, one on Carmel Point and the other in the parking lot at Stevenson School in Pebble Beach, on Feb. 9.

"It's mainly in the beach area, but not always," Calhoun said of the Carmel car burglaries, which were perpetrated during daylight hours.

The thieves apparently target nicer vehicles and break the window with a tool or a rock when they see a purse inside.

"They also go for anything that's covered," Calhoun said. "You could have a water bottle with a blanket over it, and they will break in to see what's under the blanket."

The burglars are looking for easy money and don't seem interested in items like laptops and stereos, or personal papers.

"They want quick cash or credit cards," he said. "That's really the big thing."

That's exactly what they stole from a New York resident who parked a rental car on Scenic Road last Sunday afternoon to go sit on a bench and enjoy the view with her mother and wheaten terrier.

"About 45 minutes later, we walked back, and the car window was smashed and someone had taken my pocketbook," she said. Records indicate her credit cards were used in large Peninsula stores 20 minutes later.

Parents, sheriff respond to kidnap threat

AFTER TULARCITOS Elementary School received a kidnapping threat Thursday, school officials beefed up security and some parents took their children out of classes.

"We don't know if it's a hoax, but we're taking it seriously and making sure everything is secure at the school," explained Pati Ouellette, an administrative assistant for the Carmel Unified School District.

According to the Monterey County Sheriff's Office, a note suggesting the "possibility of a child abduction occurring" was delivered to the school.

Frank Kousky, the parent of a student who attends Tularcitos School, said he was informed the note "was very scary and creepy."

"We took our child home," Kousky said. "We didn't want to take any chances."

In response to the incident, school officials called in security personnel. The sheriff's office, meanwhile, increased its patrols of the area surrounding the school.

The school is located at 35 Ford Road in Carmel Valley Village.

Clayton Bewley Neill Jr.

CARMEL VALLEY—Clayton Bewley Neill Jr., 79, of Carmel Valley, passed away on January 23, 2009 with family members at his side. Born February 15, 1929 in San Francisco, Clayton attended grade school in both Chula Vista and Carmel (Sunset Grammar School). After graduating from Carmel High School in 1946, he studied engineering and business at Stanford University (BS Engineering, 1951; MBA, 1953). While at Stanford he met Kathleen James (BA Education, Stanford, 1952; Teaching Certification U.C. Berkeley, 1953) and they married June 21, 1953. Seeking a better quality of life for raising a family, Clayton and Katie returned to Carmel in 1957, after Clayton's three year service as a Supply Officer in the U.S. Navy and one year working as an accountant in San Francisco. In 1958 Clayton and Katie moved to Carmel Valley.

Clayton is survived by his wife, Kathleen Neill, Carmel Valley; four daughters: Kathy Guinn (Charles) Sioux Falls, SD, Kim Neill (Robert), Boise, ID, Kerry Halsted (Lance), Davis, CA, and Kristina Neill, St. Paul, MN; six grandchildren; brother, Gilbert Neill, Carmel; two sisters-in-law: Alexandra James, Carmel, and Myrna James, Winchester, CA. Clayton was preceded in death by his parents Clayton Bewley Neill Sr. and Dorothy Neill, Carmel, and son Clayton Bewley Neill III.

As a Civil Engineer, Clayton expanded Neill Engineers consulting engineer firm and developed water utility companies in Monterey County along with his father and brother. In addition to his professional career, Clayton was very active in the community and held several leadership positions during his time on the Carmel School Board (1961-69 & 1977-81), Carmel Rotary (since 1960) and Carmel Fire Board (1972-84). Clayton believed in the importance of education, both locally and worldwide. For the past 15 years, he was a Board member of Schools3, a non-profit organization that collaborates to build schools in Africa.

Clayton was very dedicated to his family. Throughout their childhoods, Clayton drove his daughters thousands of miles to swim practices and meets. To this day his four daughters continue to swim for fitness and competition. Clayton shared his passion for travel and love of food, always including family members on trips and invitations to eateries.

Clayton had a lifelong love of sports, playing basketball, football, handball and tennis throughout his life. He and wife Katie shared a love of gardening, keeping a small acreage with a fruit orchard, rose garden, vegetable garden and a variety of other flowers and trees. Fond of dogs, Clayton was especially bonded with his two Bernese Mountain Dogs, Ramsi and Rigi.

Seniors Inn may reopen without restaurant

By MARY BROWNFIELD

THE OWNER of the Carmel Inn for Seniors and his business partner have abandoned their plans to open a restaurant in the former care home for the elderly.

Developer Nader Agha delivered the news to the planning commission Wednesday after planning and building services manager Sean Conroy said the city could not allow a commercial restaurant and 24 rental units for seniors in the building on San Carlos Street.

Dr. Ron Chaplan owns the inn, which he has been unable to sell since its closing four years ago. He received permission to tear it down and build nine condos, but vacated that plan after the bottom fell out of the real-estate market.

He and Agha subsequently developed a plan to reopen it as a boarding house for seniors, offer five low-rent units, and operate a restaurant to feed the tenants and the public, which would bring in additional revenue. They requested a density bonus in excess of the state code to provide the units, which also allowed them to ask for the restaurant as a concession for providing affordable housing. Restaurants are not allowed in the property's zone.

The commission tentatively approved that setup last month, but Conroy discovered the 2009 Government Code wouldn't allow it unless the city had a specific ordinance permitting the city to grant density bonuses higher than the state limit, which it doesn't.

In his Feb. 11 report to the planning commission, Conroy said Chaplan and Agha could have their commercial restaurant if the inn contained only 11 units, three of which would be affordable, according to density limits.

Alternatively, they could withdraw their application, ditch the request for a commercial restaurant and rent out the units, which don't have kitchens, to elderly tenants. Senior housing is a permitted use in the area and wouldn't even require approval from the planning commission, he said.

"Thank you for the effort," Agha said. "We concur with it and withdraw the application tonight."

Council readies city for fires and floods

By MARY BROWNFIELD

THE CARMEL City Council last week OK'd ordinances limiting construction in the town's 100-year flood zone — which consists solely of the beach and Larson Field — and requiring that only fire-safe materials be used when building new homes in certain parts of the city.

Water

The Federal Emergency Management Agency required the new "community floodplain ordinance," according to planning and building services manager Sean Conroy, so residents remain eligible for the National Flood Insurance Program and the city can get disaster relief following a bad flood.

"Failure to enact appropriate regulations will result in a suspension of flood insurance for members of the community," Conroy told the council Feb. 3. He said 23 homeowners in the city have flood insurance policies.

The lengthy ordinance was written specifically for California coastal communities to limit development in flood-prone areas, thereby avoiding expensive flood-control projects. Conroy said the feds identified Carmel Beach and Larson Field as the city's only flood zones.

"Very little, if any, future development is foreseen in these two areas," he reported. "Therefore, the primary benefit of the proposed ordinance is to continue to make flood insurance available in the city," and to qualify the city for disaster relief money.

The council unanimously voted to approve the ordinance, which will take effect in April.

Fire

Conroy also presented an ordinance to amend the Carmel Municipal Code to adopt the state fire marshal's "high fire hazard severity zone map" for the city. The map highlights a swath of land extending from the northwest corner to the southeast in which only noncombustible materials can be used in new homes, with the intent of slowing the rate of spread and intensity of a wildfire in the forested town. The restrictions don't apply to remodels.

"When this first came to us, our concern was that it might have an effect on community character," Conroy said, because the city favors shingle siding, board and batt, and other traditional wood materials.

But the state keeps a list of treated wood products that meet fire-safe standards, Conroy said. "The noncombustible requirement, therefore, should not have a significant impact on community character, as the traditional range of acceptable siding products will still be available."

Conroy also mentioned the city already requires the use of treated wood shingles on new roofs, regardless of whether the project is new construction or a remodel.

The council unanimously approved the map of the fire severity zone.

Courthouse remodel goes over budget by $45 million

By KELLY NIX

THE COST to renovate the Monterey County courthouse in Salinas has skyrocketed from an anticipated $15 million seven years ago to more than $60 million today, according to documents filed in court this week.

The staggering increase was outlined in a lawsuit filed against two construction companies that allegedly released unsafe levels of asbestos into the ventilation system in 2005 while renovating the North Wing of the courthouse.

"The county incurred significant increased remediation costs, additional costs for environmental consulting and testing" because of the asbestos problem, according to the suit.

The suit, filed against the Skanska USA Building company and Nova Partners, alleges negligence, breach of contract and other charges.

Irven Grant, an attorney with the Monterey County Counsel, said most of the $45 million in extra costs stems from hiring new crews to redo what he said was "inadequate" construction work by Skanska and Nova.

That number also reflects the increased costs of building materials such as steel and concrete, Grant said.

"At a bare minimum," he said, "[Skanska and Nova] should pay us for the costs incurred for two or three acts of negligence that had to do with cutting and attempting to remove asbestos while people were in the building."

County spokeswoman Maia Carroll said the county also had to monitor and test the air quality of the building 24 hours per day, seven days a week because of the asbestos problem.

"There were some pretty extraordinary measures taken during that time because of the asbestos issues," Carroll explained.

Grant said Skanska and Nova crews agreed to remove asbestos without displacing employees. Ultimately, county workers had to be relocated to portable units just north of the courthouse because of high asbestos levels.

"Nova and Skanska owed a duty to the county to avoid any conduct that would result in the unexpected release of potentially hazardous levels of asbestos," according to the suit.

In 2006, the board of supervisors approved more than $1 million for asbestos abatement.

Nova Partners and Skanska declined to comment on the suit because they had not yet seen it.

Grant said the suit also seeks to protect the county from liability stemming from suits filed against the county.

"There are a number of employees and other persons who are suing because they were harmed by the practices that went on and the asbestos that was cut loose in the building," Grant said.

Courthouse workers were exposed to asbestos after the two construction companies reportedly drilled into the building's ventilation system, releasing the carcinogen into the building's environment.

In 2006, Skanska and Nova were indicted by a Monterey County Grand Jury for releasing asbestos into the courthouse. The charges included improperly disposing of asbestos and recklessly releasing the hazardous material into the building.

Run helps feed and house hungry

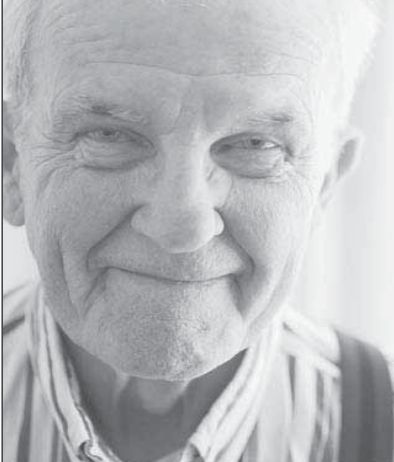

SUPPORTERS OF Dorothy's Place are organizing a Valentine's Day benefit run from Fisherman's Wharf to Lovers Point to raise money for the soup kitchen and shelter. Located in Salinas, Dorothy's Place provides daily meals to homeless and impoverished families, and also serves as a women's shelter at night.

The Hungry Hearts Fun Run will begin at 7:45 a.m., and organizers are asking for a $10-per-person donation, "with some freebies thrown in for kids, lovely ladies and dogs." Contributions will net each runner and walker "a gorgeous run in wonderful company, a warm fuzzy feeling for having donated to an excellent charity, and some great post-race food and raffle prizes."

Refreshments will include coffee and pastries from Paris Bakery, donuts from Red's, muffins, carrot cake, hot Italian panini, water, juice, coffee and other goodies, and will be found on the pier on Wharf No. 1 at Balesteri's Wharf Front, The Coffee House and the Seafood Cafe.

To sign up, get directions or find out where to park, contact Ben Balester at (831) 917-0044 or email sasso@red-shift.com.

In their quest to preserve parkland and open space, government agencies have acquired thousands of acres of local real estate in the past decade.

Gov. Arnold Schwarzenegger has criticized some of the acquisitions, calling for a halt to new parklands until the money becomes available to take care of them.

But Sarah Christie, the legislative director for the California Coastal Commission, believes it's imperative that wildlands be preserved, even if the government agencies buying them can't afford to operate them or open them to the public.

"When properties become available, it's safe to say it's better to buy a critical piece, even if you don't currently have the budget to open it," Christie maintained.

Christie's comments are particularly relevant in the case of Point Lobos Ranch. The 1,312-acre ranch was purchased from the Big Sur Land Trust in two phases. The California Department of Parks and Recreation acquired 494 acres in 1998 and the remaining 818 acres in June 2006. Ultimately, state parks paid about $12 million for the property. The money came from Proposition 117, also known as the California Wildlife Protection Act, which makes about $30 million of taxpayer funds available each year for wildlife habitat protection.

But, as a direct result of the faltering California economy, state parks is unable to open the property to the public.

"There's no money to create a general plan, and there's no money to create an initial access plan," said Matt Fuzie, Monterey district superintendent for state parks. "I'd like to see the process of opening the park completed, but from my seat, that isn't a simple thing."

The 1,200-acre Brazil Ranch in Big Sur — which was acquired by the U.S. Forest Service in 2002 for $23 million — has faced far more scrutiny than Point Lobos Ranch regarding its inability to provide public access.

Until the forest service comes up with a long-term public access plan, the Brazil

Ranch is offering limited access by hosting guided hikes on the property every Saturday, according to the forest service's website.

Fuzie said his agency is open to developing a similar short-term program for Pt. Lobos Ranch, but he said nobody has asked for it.

"We haven't had the pressure to create a [short-term plan]," he said. "But if there was a demand, that might change."

Let there be public access

The coastal commission has repeatedly urged the forest service to create more public access. Yet at least publicly, the state watchdog agency has expressed no concern over Point Lobos Ranch and its absence of an access plan.

Coastal commission planner Lee Otter said his agency recently sent the forest service a letter asking it to "get something up and going beyond simply offering guided tours." He confirmed that Point Lobos Ranch hasn't received similar prodding.

"Point Lobos Ranch is kind of taken for granted," Otter suggested. "It's seen as an addition to Point Lobos State Reserve, which already has plenty of public access."

Otter said the public is entitled to access both Brazil Ranch and Point Lobos Ranch.

"We know they're struggling with budget issues," he said. "But a state legislative mandate requires that they provide a maximum of public access and recreational opportunities."

A third recent addition to Monterey County's vast inventory of parkland — the Monterey Peninsula Regional Park District's 4,300-acre Palo Corona Regional Park — has not been kept off limits the way Point Lobos Ranch has. The regional park district has yet to implement a long-term access plan for its park, but Otter praised its short-term plan, which allows hikers to access — by reservation only — a well graded 1.5-mile ranch road.

The path leads to an overlook and picnic spot called Inspiration Point, which offers stunning views of Point Lobos, Carmel and Carmel Valley.

"I am very pleased with what they've done," Otter said of the regional park district. "They're providing public access opportunities and protecting resources. They're taking their charge quite seriously, and they're striking a commendable balance."

a couple of inches in order to circulate blood to the brain and other vital organs.

"And it doesn't just squeeze where you would normally squeeze the sternum — it's squeezing the whole chest wall — so it's distributing the force around the chest and is much more effective," Jedinak said. "It was a very impressive tool to use in a full arrest situation."

After a few moments, the woman's heart started beating on its own again, and she had a pulse. Emergency workers loaded her into the ambulance and took her to Community Hospital of the Monterey Peninsula, where she was lodged in intensive care.

Jedinak couldn't say whether the machine made the difference in the return of her vital signs, but it certainly increased the odds of success, giving her body 80 compressions per minute as the ambulance crew worked on getting air to her lungs and administering drugs.

"It was the first time an AutoPulse was ever used in Monterey County," said Jedinak, who estimated the fire department responds to a couple of cardiac cases a month and will be putting the machine to good use.

"We were very fortunate to be able to secure this from a grant from Fireman's Fund," he said.

Gardiner's 'project' includes no development, says planner

JUST FIVE weeks after closing the doors of Gardiner's Resort, the company that owns the property is presenting a "general development plan" for the one time tennis retreat. But according to a county planner, the proposal — which will be considered Tuesday, Feb. 17, by the Carmel Valley Land Use Advisory Committee — does not include any new development.

According to David Mack of the Monterey County Planning Department, the proposal aims to place 32 lots of record under a single "plan" as a means of preserving its non-conforming uses.

"If the the resort is closed for one year and reopens, they would lose their legal nonconforming uses," Mack said. "They would have to comply with existing zoning restrictions."

Mack said the owners of the resort, Pristine Development, LLC, will be represented by EMC Planning Group. EMC did not return a call asking for comment on the issue.

Prime ministrers and presidents

Founded by local tennis legend John Gardiner at 114 Carmel Valley Road, the resort opened in 1957, eventually establishing itself as a world-class tennis getaway.

During its half century of operation, the resort gained fame for its impressive guest list of celebrities, which included four presidents — Richard Nixon, Gerald Ford, Ronald Reagan and George H. W. Bush — and a number of movie stars and athletes.

Pristine Development cited the global financial downturn as the chief reason for closing the resort.

The meeting, which starts at 6:30 p.m., will be hosted by St. Phillips Church, which is located at 8065 Carmel Valley Road. The meeting will follow a visit by LUAC members to the property at 4:30 p.m.

POOCHINI NOWAK, 5 months old, is a golden-doodle, a cross between a golden retriever and a standard poodle.

He lives in Las Palmas with Mom Susanne and Dad K.C. Mom is an opera aficionada, thus explaining Poochini's name.

Poochini flew out unaccompanied from his breeder in Atlanta, and emerged from the plane with tail wagging, all ready for his new family. As well as a Mom and Dad, Poochini has two little sisters, Madeleine, 7, and Claire, 5, who are crazy about him. He plays nicely with them, being careful not to bowl them over with puppy enthusiasm. He grabs a hem of a skirt, a hand, anything that's attached to them, and pulls them along — especially little Claire, as she's more tugable.

The girls are students at Santa Catalina School in Monterey, which means Mom has a lot of driving to do. En route, Poochini sits on the back seat with the girls.

Once the girls are at school, Mom brings Poochini to Carmel Beach. When we encountered them on the walking path above the beach on Tuesday morning, it was his fourth visit and he was loving it.

In his enthusiasm to be photographed, he assumed pose after pose, lasting a few seconds each. In order to obtain a more motionless shot, we asked Poochini to hop up on a beach-side bench, thus immobilizing his puppy activity.

He's enrolled in "From the Heart" puppy class in Salinas, where he's learning manners, how to walk on a lead and how not to lie down in the middle of a road when he wants a rest and where Mom can't budge him.

With sales down, artists keep painting for the love of it

By CHRIS COUNTS

WHILE SEVERAL local art galleries have closed their doors in response to the economic downturn, gallery owner Robert Lewis has managed to stay afloat.

"It's not just about selling," explained Lewis, the owner of Le Beau Soleil Gallery in Pacific Grove. "It's about painting."

An exhibit of acrylics by Elizabeth Meyer, "The Love of Painting," opens Friday, Feb. 13, at Lewis' gallery. Meyer, one of seven artists whose work is displayed there, has impressed Lewis with her creative output.

"Elizabeth is very prolific and dedicated," Lewis said. "She's been doing some really lovely acrylics, primarily seascapes. They're very dreamy and easy to look at."

Also featured at Le Beau Soleil Gallery is work by Teresa Brown, Carol Bestor, Dick Gorman, Eva Nichols, Murray Wagnon and Kathy Sharpe.

"Their styles are all quite different," Lewis explained. "I'm really happy with the collection."

A year ago, it was Lewis' work that hung in his gallery. But after Gallery Elite of Carmel offered to exclusively showcase his paintings, Lewis reinvented his own gallery, renaming it and covering its walls with paintings by Meyer and others.

The gallery will host a reception from 6 to 9 p.m. The exhibit will continue through March 27. Le Beau Soleil Gallery is located at 210 Forest Ave. For more information, call (831) 333-9046 or visit www.lebeausoleil.com.

Father and son bring a touch of Mexico to Monterey Symphony

By CHRIS COUNTS

BRINGING together a reverence for the past and a curiosity about the future, Carlos Prieto is the precise definition of a modern-day Renaissance Man.

Prieto, a former Massachusetts Institute of Technology engineering student who went on to become Mexico's most respected contemporary classical musician, will play with the Monterey Symphony when it performs Sunday and Monday, Feb. 15-16, at Sunset Center. Prieto will be joined by his son, Carlos Miguel Prieto, who will conduct the symphony.

The elder Prieto, one of the most acclaimed cellists in the world, has long served as an ambassador for Latin America's many contributions to the legacy of classical music. During the past 30 years, he has performed the world premieres of more than 80 compositions, most of which were written for him by composers from Spanish-speaking countries.

Like father, like son

The younger Prieto, meanwhile, is music director of Mexico's most respected orchestra, the Orquesta Sinfonica Nacional de Mexico (National Symphony Orchestra of Mexico). A graduate of Princeton and Harvard universities, he's also an accomplished violinist.

"They come from a long line of musicians," observed Joe Truskot, executive director of the symphony. "They're just an extremely talented family."

When the symphony performs at Sunset this weekend, it will open each performance with a rendition of Redes Suite by Silvestre Revuelta, an early 20th century Mexican composer.

"Revuelta wrote in all different genres, but he's best known for capturing a Mexican flavor in this particular suite," Truskot said.

The suite comes from the soundtrack of a 1936 Mexican film, "Redes" or "The Wave," which marked future Hollywood legend Fred Zinneman's debut as a director.

The son of famous cellist Carlos Prieto, Carlos Miguel Prieto will conduct the Monterey Symphony Sunday and Monday in Carmel.

Following Redes Suite, the symphony will perform a cello concerto by contemporary Mexican composer Federico Ibarra. The elder Prieto commissioned Ibarra to write the piece.

Concluding the program will be a performance of Schumann's Symphony No. 4 in D Minor, Op. 120. "It's one of the great 19th century romantic symphonies," Truskot noted.

This weekend's concert marks the symphony's fourth this season, and according to Truskot, the reception it's received so far has been overwhelmingly positive.

Joan Baez and plenty of places to take your sweetie

IN THE fall of 2008, iconic folk singer Joan Baez celebrated her 50th anniversary as a professional performing artist with the release of her first studio album in five years. Produced by Steve Earle and featuring a band that includes bluegrass stalwarts Tim O'Brien and Darryl Scott, "Day

Plugged In

By Stephen L. Vagnini

Moving with her family from Palo Alto to Boston in the summer of 1958, a young Joan Baez first made a name for herself performing at the heralded Club 47 in Beantown. A celebrated folk recording artist shortly thereafter, she toured the country with Bob Dylan, and the pair later lived together in the Carmel Highlands. During the 1960s, Baez performed at the Big

Sur Folk Festival, which was held at the Esalen Institute. An accomplished artist with a remarkable body of work, Baez received the Grammy Lifetime Achievement Award in 2007. Performing at the KRML Jazz & Blues Company on Valentine's Day has become somewhat of a given for San Francisco Bay Area jazz vocalist Sony Holland. Appearing at the intimate venue once again this Saturday, Feb. 14, Holland will be accompanied by her husband, Jerry, on guitar. A star on the rise, Holland sings in a style that is sophisticated and emotionally direct.

Her interpretations of the great American songbook show a deep respect and love for the material. Her latest CD, "Out Of This World," is an intimate set of 13 songs delivered with panache. The core of the album is made up of beautiful jazz standards, from the swinging "Old Devil Moon," to the dreamy "Nearness Of You," and from the sexy "Summer Night," to a powerhouse version of "At Last." The show starts at 7:30 p.m. Call (831) 624-6432.

Popular Bay Area old-school band Today Yesterday and Tomorrow performs Friday and Saturday at Sly McFly's in Monterey, and on Sunday the venerable Cannery Row music venue hosts its annual Sweetheart Dance featuring new county artist Fred McCarty.

McCarty was raised in the foothills of the Allegheny Mountains and has deep musical roots in bluegrass and country. He has composed more than 300 songs and compositions, and he has appeared on stage with Loretta Lynn, Willie Nelson, Waylon Jennings, Trisha Yearwood, Mark Chestnut, Charlie Daniels, Lee Greenwood and many others. Having released five albums of original material, he also performs classic covers of Texas swing and Cajun tunes, as well as classic cowboy music. Call (831) 649-8050 for more information.

■ Make your own V-Day card

The Carmel Bay Company celebrates the most romantic day of the year with a free lesson on how to use watercolors to create one-of-a-kind Valentine's cards.

Erin Gafill, a lifelong Big Sur resident and a well known fifth-generation artist, will demonstrate her alla prima technique Friday and Saturday, Feb. 13-14, from noon to 5 p.m.

"It's going to be fun," promised art consultant Maxine Russell.

Gafill will also be creating works for sale. As an added bonus, Gafill's mother, Holly Fassett, is baking a batch of her famous cupcakes for the occasion.

Primarily known for its inventory of home furnishings, the Carmel Bay Company also features artwork by Gafill, Richard Tette, Pamela Takigawa, Marie Gabrielle and Carol Chapman.

The gallery is located in the Seven Arts building on the southwest corner of Ocean and Lincoln. For more information, call (831) 624-3868 or visit www.carmelbay-company.com.

■ Gallery offers demo, talk

Scottish painter Angus Wilson returns to Carmel when he offers a demonstration and talk at Gallery i Saturday, Feb. 14.

"There is such a vibrancy to his work," art consultant Gloria Fucillo said. "His work is so bright and alive. It makes you happy just to look at it."

Now a resident of the San Francisco Bay Area, Wilson paints in oils, acrylics and watercolors.

Gallery i will present a drawing Saturday at 6 p.m. To enter, stop by the gallery before 6 p.m. and fill out an entry form. The winner of the drawing will take home a print by Wilson valued at $1,500.

The gallery is located on the southwest corner of Ocean and Mission. For more information, call (831) 626-1617 or visit www.galleryifineart.com.

■ You, too, can paint

Pacific Grove artist Jane Flury is offering six-week watercolor classes at the Pacific Grove Art Center beginning in March. Using the "limited palette method," the class will explore color mixing, brushwork, perspective, composition and watercolor printmaking.

"If you've never taken a limited palette class, this class is for you," Flury said.

Starting March 2, the art center will offer a daytime class on Mondays from noon to 3 p.m.

Starting March 3, it will also offer an evening class from 6 to 9. For more information, call (831) 373-1494 or send an email to artnants@aol.com.

Performing at a special Valentine's concert at the Ol' Factory Café in Sand City, Houston Jones plays high-octane Americana music. A quintet of acoustic musicians from the San Francisco Bay Area, HJ plays an original blend of folk, blues, bluegrass and gospel.

The group's name comes from founding members and guitarists Glenn "Houston" Pomianek and Travis Jones. Bassist Chris Kee, drummer Peter Tucker, and Wayne "Chojo" Jacques on fiddle and mandolin join the pair.

The group's latest CD, "Calico Heart," showcases clever songwriting and strong musicianship. The music starts at 7 p.m. Call (831) 394-3336.

Performing Friday at Monterey Live, Rushad Eggleston and the Tornado Riders are in the process of recording new material. A graduate of Carmel High School and the Berklee College of music, Eggleston has been nominated for a Grammy and has practically invented a new style of playing the cello.

The current lineup of the Tornado Riders includes Scott Manke on drums and Graham Terry on bass. Eggleston plays the natural cello standing up. The music is rock 'n' roll played at a frenzied pace and features three-part unison singing and wild, brave adventurous cello solos. The drummer dresses like a pirate or dog, the bassist dresses like a knight, and Eggleston is usually a caveman. The fun begins at 9:30 p.m.

On Monday, Feb. 16, former Eggleston collaborator Nico Georis entertains at Monterey Live, playing a solo concert of his original music.

At the Hyatt Regency Monterey's Fireplace Lounge, a pair of sax virtuosos perform this Friday and Saturday evenings. Feb. 13, sax giant George Young performs, accompanied by pianist Marshall Otwell and David Morwood on drums.

On Saturday, Feb. 14, Los Angeles studio sax player Gary Meek entertains, joined by Morwood on drums and Ben Stolorow on piano. The music starts at 7 p.m. Call (831) 375-1234.

Exec Chef Rodriguez: His menu is his palette at Il Fornaio

By MARGOT PETIT NICHOLS

WATCHING Executive Chef Gabriel Rodriguez at work in the exhibition kitchen at Il Fornaio Italian restaurant is like watching an artist in his studio. He moves swiftly, shaking and stirring pans and pots, adding ingredients, incorporating liquids — all the while intent and smiling to himself.

“I love to cook all the time,” Rodriguez said. “For me, it’s an art.”

The Il Fornaio kitchen allows him to interact with diners who sit at the long counter in front of his range and ovens. “I like it best when it’s noisy” — which to him signifies everyone is having a good time.

We watched while he made risotto with fresh fava beans. Carnaroli rice was used in the risotto, instead of the usual arborio rice. He explained carnaroli absorbs more of the cooking broth, has a higher starch content and keeps its form better. He said vegans can request that vegetable broth be substituted for the usual chicken stock, and he will do so gladly.

He believes food preparation at Il Fornaio restaurants is the most authentic one can find outside of Italy. There are 17 Il Fornaio restaurants and bakeries in California.

Carmel’s Il Fornaio, located in the Pine Inn, has several dining venues in one large space. There’s the coffee bar and bakery that serves light fare in the morning and afternoon; the main dining room — accessible from Ocean Avenue or Monte Verde Street — which offers tables opposite the bar; another area near the host desk, at the far end of Rodriguez’ kitchen, features fireside dining; then there’s the Ocean Avenue area, and the outdoor terrace from which one can catch glimpses of the ocean and where canines are welcome. All of these areas offer a different ambiance, and the long, elegant bar is a popular gathering place.

Chef Rodriguez is there five days a week for lunch and dinner. As exec chef, he oversees his eight kitchen prep and line cooks and workers, creates specials, hires new staff, orders, and takes care of myriad other tasks.

“I’m very picky,” he said, “so everything is more perfect.”

When he’s interviewing prospective employees, there are two requirements he considers essential: “I look for good attitude and willingness to work on weekends.” He can teach new employees required cooking techniques, but he wants to start out with an enthusiastic worker.

Before signing on with Il Fornaio, Rodriguez attended San Francisco Culinary School, but dropped out after two months of academics. “For me, I liked to learn on the job,” he said. He worked for five years prepping at Café Napoli; two years at PortaBella and two-and-a-half years at the Monterey Plaza Hotel’s restaurant as a line cook before signing on with Il Fornaio in 1997.

On the line, he learned a great deal from then-Executive Chef Alessio Giannozi. “He was a master for me. He made me strong [in Italian cuisine],” he said. “I was assistant chef to Alessio, and when he left a year-and-a-half ago, I was made executive chef here.”

The tapas kings, wine fetes, apple lessons and entertaining

By MARY BROWNFIELD

EVER SINCE chef Brandon Miller left Stokes Restaurant in Monterey, people have been wondering where he would end up, but no one thought he would be without a kitchen for long.

Turns out he'll be opening Gabe Georis' tapas place, Mundaka, on San Carlos Street next month.

To prepare, Miller has been honing his culinary skills and palate in San Sebastian, Spain. That's where Georis spent his freshman year in college studying, surfing, and learning about food and wine before returning the states, finishing school and going to work for his family's restaurants, Casanova and La Bicycleette.

Miller and Georis became acquainted while collaborating on a holiday dinner. At a table full of people discussing wine and food pairings, Georis said he and Miller "saw eye to eye," and later, he observed the chef's work in the kitchen.

"I can tell he just gets it," Georis said. "It's a passion for food that comes from the heart, rather than from the mind."

Georis told him about his plans to open a tapas restaurant in the former Gem Restaurant location, and they decided to collaborate. Mundaka — named for the famous surfing town about 30 minutes from San Sebastian — will open next month.

"Working on a new project gets me so jazzed I can't sleep at night! I think I was born to open restaurants," Miller said this week from Spain, where he had just enjoyed a breakfast of venison, pork belly and red wine in the Barcelona market with chef and tour guide Amanda Laporte. "The learning is one of the reasons I love this business so much."

He and Georis share the vision of a casual, upbeat, lively place that will become "a local hangout, a place for discussion and laughter, and of course a place to eat and drink well without an exorbitant price tag," as Georis described it.

Miller said he plans to keep the menu "simple, traditional, visual and fresh," letting the ingredients speak for themselves. He's also a strong advocate of using as many local products as possible, including fish, meat, produce, olive oil and other artisanal foods from the Central Coast, but will

Married, he and his wife Maria have a 10-month-old son named after him. He enjoys family gatherings or get-togethers with friends, and loves to cook for both.

He learned to cook at his family's home outside of Guadalajara, Mexico. He learned from his mother and aunt while working in his father's butcher shop. His parents now live in Marina.

With Il Fornaio for 13 years, Chef Rodriguez enjoys preparing the monthly Festa Regionale menu which features alternately the cuisine of one of Italy's 20 food regions with authentic recipes created by Il Fornaio's Italian chefs.

The everyday "core" menu comes from the company's Corte Madera headquarters, but each executive chef prepares and presents his own specials and signature dishes at the restaurant where he presides.

Chef Rodriguez considers his signature dish to be gnocchi — potato dumplings made with Yukon Gold potatoes — and served four different ways. He has been certified for making authentic Italian gnocchi by the company.

"The important thing is to serve only the best quality and to be consistent in preparation," he said. "And to offer hospitality to our customers."

For first-time diners, he suggests a dinner commencing with antipasti misto della casa, followed by an entrée of either a fish soup with jumbo shrimp, prawns, mussels and fresh fish filet, or grilled rack of lamb drizzled with thyme olive oil, served with Yukon Gold potatoes and sautéed vegetables. For dessert, try fried crêpes with caramelized warm apples, creme Anglaise, caramel sauce and vanilla ice cream.

Il Fornaio is located at Ocean and Monte Verde in Carmel-by-the-Sea, and is open for lunch and dinner Monday through Thursday from 11:30 a.m. to 10 p.m.; breakfast, lunch and dinner Friday through Sunday from 9:30 a.m. to 11 p.m. For information or reservations, call (831) 622-5100.

also procure essentials like Iberian ham and cured anchovies.

"I think this will enable us to do the most authentic Spanish restaurant on the Central Coast, if not in California," Miller said.

Georis said Laporte will also come west for a few weeks to help them get going, and he's looking forward to having a restaurant that will be "a personal expression," of his true passion for food, wine and "the simplicity of really good, well put together dishes."

Miller also sees Mundaka as an example of hope.

"In these tough times, the best thing you can do is open a new, affordable, small business," he said.

Rosie's wining and feasting

The band might have had to play elsewhere, but food and wine are still going strong at Rosie's Cracker Barrel in Carmel Valley Village. On Friday, Feb. 13, from 5 to 7 p.m., chef Daniel Barduzzi (whose Garden Bistro caught fire several months ago) will prepare a five-course meal to accompany the wines of Dan Tudor, all for $45 per person.

Courses include onion pie paired with Radog Rosé, red snapper with cream and mushroom sauce on pastry shell paired with Tudor Dry Gewürztraminer, Daube de Boeuf Provençal paired with Syrah, assorted cheeses paired with Radog Pinot Noir, and creme puff and caramel sauce paired with Radog Riesling.

And when you're there, check out the Valentine's gift baskets and Rosie's wine club. To RSVP, call (831) 659-2629. Rosie's is located at 1 Esquiline Road, just off Carmel Valley Road and across the bridge.

Trailside not just for breakfast

The Trailside Cafe in Monterey — one of the best breakfast joints in town — is hosting a beer pairing dinner Friday, Feb. 13, in recognition of San Francisco Beer Week. Four courses, such as homemade German pretzels, spiced onion and ale soup, roasted pork tenderloin and homemade beignets, will be accompanied by hand-crafted Hefewiezen, Cháu Tién Pale Ale, Lost Coast Downtown Brown and Reutberger Helles. And yes, beer will be used in cooking each course.

Guests from two of the featured breweries will mingle with folks during the dinner, which costs $55 and will run from 6 to 9 p.m. No credit cards accepted. The Trailside is located on the recreation trail near Cannery Row at 550 Wave St. Reservations are recommended by calling (831) 649-8600.

French nod to presidents

In honor of Presidents Day and the final round of golf at the AT&T Pebble Beach National Pro-Am, chef Didier Dutertre and manager Colleen Manni are opening their Bistro Moulin for dinner on Sunday — typically the restaurant's dark day — and taking Monday off instead. Dutertre will also offer two specials in addition to the regular menu.

For more information or reservations, visit the restaurant at 867 Wave St. in Monterey, go to www.bistromoulin.com or call (831) 333-1200.

Art of the table

The Carmel Woman's Club will host Suzanne Von Drachenfels-Irwin, author of "The Art of the Table," Monday, Feb. 16, at 2 p.m. in the clubhouse at San Carlos and Ninth. Organizers describe the author as "an acclaimed authority on all facets of the dining experience, dating from ancient traditions to contemporary living."

She will discuss the customs and history of what and how people eat, and the talk is free to woman's club members and $3 for guests. Tea and refreshments will be served immediately after.

P.G. market needs vendors

The farmers' market held on Lighthouse Avenue at 17th Street from 4 to 7 p.m. in Pacific Grove most Mondays needs vendors, and organizers are offering free booth space to Pacific Grove businesses this month. Anyone interested need only fill out an application at www.everyonesharvest.org, or contact Pat Tanumihardja at pat.tanu@gmail.com or (831) 521-7771.

In addition, the folks at Everyone's Harvest — which organizes the P.G. market — are seeking volunteers to help in the Chinatown Community Garden, 5 Soledad on the corner of Lake Street in Salinas, on Sunday, Feb. 15, from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. Those lending a hand should plan to dig, plant, compost, chat and eat. For more information, call (831) 384-6961.

Wine auction and gala

A lavish affair hosted by former Monterey County Supervisor Butch Lindley will be held Saturday, Feb. 21, from 6:30 to 11 p.m., when more than 30 Monterey County wineries will be showcased alongside international cuisine, live music from Grammy winner Louie Ortega, dancing, and silent and live auctions. In the private barrel room at Jackson Family Wines in Soledad, the gala will honor the contributions of Jerry Lohr, president and owner of J. Lohr Vineyards & Wines.

Proceeds from the auctions will benefit "worthy charitable and viticulture research causes," and the event is sponsored by the Monterey County Vintners & Growers Foundation, Mercedes Benz of Monterey County and Rabobank.

Jackson Family Wines is located on Doud Road in Soledad. Tickets are $175 per person, and escorted transportation will be available from the Peninsula and Salinas. For additional information and to purchase, visit www.montereywines.org or call (831) 375-9400.

Bouchée prix fixe

For the rest of this month, Bouchée Bistro on Mission Street between Ocean and Seventh in Carmel is offering a great deal on food and wine once a week. On Thursday nights, chef Jesse Kloskey prepares three courses and wine director Thomas Perez finds just the right wines to pour with them.

Calling it "common sense for uncommon times," the restaurant offers the prix fixe deal for $30 per person, with $5 for selected wines by the glass. To make reservations, call (831) 626-7880.

Comfort me with apples

Aubergine, chef Christophe Grosjean's

restaurant in L'Auberge Carmel on Monte Verde Street, will host a cooking class focusing on the apple on Wednesday, Feb. 25. Participants will work in the kitchen with pastry chef Ron Mendoza, formerly of the French Laundry, as he teaches cooking techniques and use of ingredients while demonstrating his favorite desserts highlighting the versatile winter fruit.

The class will run from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. and is limited to 10 guests at $80 per person, plus tax. Reservations are required and may be made by calling (831) 622-5907. L'Auberge Carmel is located on Monte Verde Street at Seventh Avenue.

Speaking of pomes

Apples are easy to grow and easy to graft, allowing several varieties to flourish on a single tree and ripen at different times. McShane's Nursery & Landscape Supply will host its fourth annual apple grafting event Saturday, Feb. 28, at 1:30 p.m. During the workshop, which is open to 50 people and costs $5 to attend, participants will learn how to "build" trees and add new varieties to existing ones.

Cal Poly professor and "master grafter," Joe Sabol will facilitate, and the nursery's "free tree specialist," Christa Jennings, will also be there.

McShane's is located at 115 Monterey-Salinas Highway in Salinas and can be reached by calling (831) 455-1876.

Our efforts last year allowed us to extend two $1,500 scholarships and with support we hope to do it again this year. Any questions please contact Lisa Hollo, (831) 373-0542.

Alleged DUI murder suspect again found incompetent

DEBORAH KING — the Monterey woman arrested for allegedly driving under the influence of prescription drugs and killing a young father in front of Pacific Grove Middle School last September by swerving her SUV into him — was again deemed incompetent by a Monterey County Superior Court judge Wednesday, according to deputy district attorney Steve Somers.

The murder case against King, who had been in treatment at Natividad Medical Center but is back in custody at the Monterey County Jail, cannot proceed until she is aware of the proceedings. She underwent similar evaluations for competency in the weeks following her arrest, was treated and deemed fit, and had been set for a preliminary hearing last week, when her mental state was again brought into question.

While some suspects can be treated to the point of being declared competent, others never reach that level and remain in care of the state.

Somers said he and King's new public defender, Daniel Clymo, will meet with the Judge Russell Scott to discuss the case Friday.

once again voice their opinions on the fate of the old house, which was built in 1924 and purchased by the city more than 35 years ago but never put to public use.

"We simply believe the city has not made the case that the sale of the Flanders property is necessary," said Flanders Foundation President Melanie Billig.

The group favors city ownership of the mansion, which is in Mission Trail park, and Billig was skeptical of the EIR's claims that selling or leasing it would facilitate the preservation of the historic property, minimize impacts on the neighborhood and put it to productive use.

"Our contention is the city hasn't really looked at how it can put it to productive use," she said. "There's no concept of what productive use really is."

(She made no mention of extensive but unsuccessful efforts previous city councils have made to identify a public use for Flanders Mansion, including creation of a task force by former Mayor Ken White in the mid-1990s.

After numerous public meetings and in-depth fact-finding, the task force recommended a culinary center be housed at the mansion. But after fierce opposition from the surrounding neighborhood, the council rejected the culinary center concept in August 1997.

"We've been looking for a solution for 25 years and now we're back where we started," said White at the time.)

Billig also said the EIR didn't do a good enough job of outlining the process for sale, including offering the property to local and state government agencies before making it available to a private buyer.

"The proposed project is a clear violation of eight general plan goals, policies or objectives, and if for no other reason than that, should be denied," she said.

Former planning commissioner Yoko Whitaker said the EIR inaccurately concludes occupancy of the home by a family would have the least impact. Families can be loud, residents can drive through the area at any time of day, and people might want to fence or wall off Flanders from the surrounding public lands.

"Whereas a nonprofit use would have fixed staff and hours," she said, and during events, attendees would park off-site and ride shuttles.

But people who live nearby disagreed. Representing the Hatton Fields neighborhood group, Robert Knight said more than 30 residents submitted letters articulating their opinions. "Flanders Mansion should be sold for the purpose for which it was built — a single-family residence — and no public or quasi-public use should be permitted," he said.

He also doubted a family living at Flanders would generate more noise and traffic than an organization.

Carmel Woods resident Joyce Stevens said the city should not sell the mansion and argued that making it private property would impact the surrounding park habitat and create an inholding.

"I urge you to reject the EIR when it comes before you," she said.

Only one planning commissioner, Steve Hillyard, commented on the report, which he said included "social impacts," when it should have only concentrated on "physical impacts." He also said the "indirect impacts" should not be speculative.

"It ignores the fact that if it keeps it, the city will probably put the mansion to the same use as if it's sold," he added.

Conroy said the city will continue accepting comments on the EIR until Feb. 18.

destroyed by the fire, Demo said.

Danny Fancher, owner of Fancher Monterey, who Demo said was Quizno's franchise operator, is also listed in the State Farm suit. Fancher filed a suit in February 2008 against many of the same parties State Farm did.

Fancher could not be reached for comment.

Faulty toaster

Fire investigators determined the blaze was sparked by a toaster oven in the Quizno's restaurant.

"The question is, who is responsible for the fire starting?" Demo asked. "Was it the manufacturer of the toaster oven or was it the Quizno's franchise operator itself?"

And the lawsuit contends others might be responsible for the fire. State Farm also sued several contractors who had performed various electrical work in the building.

"There has been work done to the electrical system over the years, so that's why these other defendants are included," Demo said.

The suits also list the company that maintained the toaster oven and the previous tenant of the former Quizno's location.

"As a proximate result of the negligence of all defendants ... State Farm suffered and continues to suffer losses," according to the suits.

Because all the lawsuits related to the Alvarado Street fire are in the process of being combined, and the statute of limitations to file suit isn't until February 2010, it will be awhile until the suit sees a courtroom, Demo said. "This litigation is not going to go anywhere fast," he said.

Flanders Mansion's fate has been debated for more than 35 years — with no end in sight.

Get muddy or go home

YOU CAN never have too much mud. Well, not at the Mud Run, anyway. The fourth annual event slated for Saturday, March 28, will have runners slogging through more mud pits, splashing in more puddles and tackling more physical feats than ever before during the run along trails and roads on old Ft. Ord land. Organized by the Big Sur International Marathon, California State University Monterey Bay and the U.S. Army Garrison — Presidio of Monterey, the run is based on a similar event at Camp Pendleton.

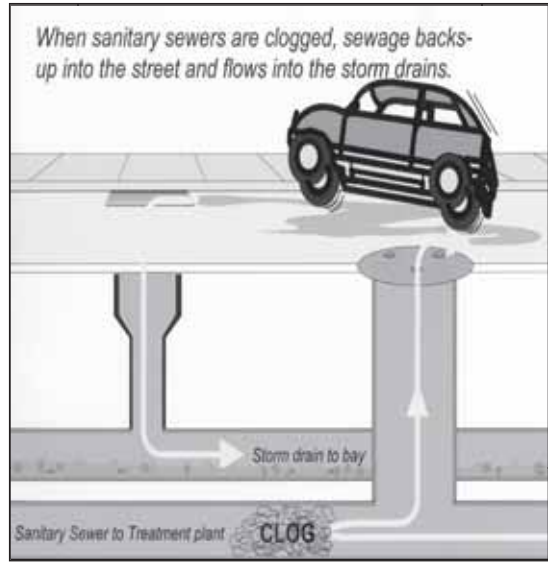

Fueled by adrenaline and egged on by barking Marine and Army drill sergeants, athletes of all levels will tackle the five-mile course. The event is especially popular with military personnel, college students and adventurers "who prefer sports with a twist," according to organizers, and it's open to everyone 15 years of age and older. This year, the run will have more mud pits and obstacles than usual, thanks in part to sponsor Granite Construction Co., which builds them.

People can compete as individuals or as part of five-person teams in the Open Male, Open Female, Mixed, Corporate, Military, Public Safety and Collegiate categories. Team members must cross the finish line with linked arms.

The fun will begin in CSUMB's Freeman Stadium at 9 a.m. March 28 and conclude with a final shower (in cold water, of course) and lap around the stadium's track.

Entry fees are $48 for individuals and $240 per team, with discounts given to active military and students. Register online at www.bigsurmudrun.org. For more information, dial (831) 625-6226 or email info@bsim.org.

Your Gardener's Checklist for February 13-19, 2009

- Time to get out in the garden to prune and also spray for dormant pests. This is vital for peak performance from roses, deciduous fruits, nuts and berry plants.
- Plant summer blooming bulbs now — gladiolus, canna lilies, tuberous begonias, Mexican shell flowers and many others are available.
- Now is the peak season for camellias. Take time to pick your favorite to plant in your garden while you can witness the actual color of the flowers.
- When feeding your lawn, do so with a product that does a dual job — feeds and has pre-emergence weed killer to get rid of those pests before they sprout when the weather warms.
- Plant a grapevine to cover the patio and provide sweet, juicy fruit this summer.

IN MORE WAY THAN ONE, TWO EGGS ARE BETTER THAN ONE

By CHRIS COUNTS

FOR ANYONE unfamiliar with the Carmel Valley tradition, being named a Good Egg is a very good thing. But for only the third time in more than half a century, a local resident, Phyllis Crockett, received the lesser known — but ultimately far more prestigious — Double Yolk award.

Crockett was honored at a reception Wednesday evening at the Quail Lodge Resort & Golf Club. Also recognized were this year's Good Egg winners, Mike Thatcher, Cindy Thatcher and Meredith Manhard. The reception was presented by the Carmel Valley Chamber of Commerce.

According to Crockett, much of the early construction of Carmel Valley Village — which occurred in the decade following World War II — was notable for the spirit of cooperation that existed among residents.

“Everybody worked together like a barn-raising,” explained Crockett, who won a Good Egg in 1964.

The community spirit that Crockett describes inspired the creation of the Good Egg award. Since 1953, Carmel Valley residents have annually bestowed Good Eggs on several of their neighbors as recognition for their charitable contributions. “The Good Egg started in 1953, and since then there have been exactly 150 people who have received the award,” Crockett observed.

This year's Good Egg winners are all very active members of the Carmel Valley community.

Mike Thatcher works as a licensed painting contractor, while his wife, Cindy, is employed as a substitute teacher at Carmel High School, where she teaches English.

Mike has served as the president of Carmel Valley Little League and president of the Carmel Valley Community Chapel board of directors, and has been a member of the Carmel Valley Kiwanis Club for 20 years.

Cindy, meanwhile, has served as president of the Tularcitos Parent Club and facilitator for Carmel Valley Community Chapel Furniture Thrift Shop, and was once recognized as Volunteer of the Year for Carmel Valley Little League. The couple married in 1972, and they've lived in Carmel Valley since 1976.

Manhard has served as president of the Carmel Valley Community Center, and recently led the fundraising drive for construction of the new 45-meter Carmel High School pool, a $2.5 million project.

Crockett joins Louis Gardner (1997) and Randy Randazzo (2003) as only the third resident to receive the Double Yolk. “Nobody does anything on their own,” said Crockett of the award. “It's a group effort. It's a wonderful community, and I feel blessed to be part of it.”

An old bridge that was part of the main entrance to the park was removed last fall. But there is no timeline for replacing it.

“Until the budget is passed in Sacramento and bond funds are freed up, the contractor will not be able to recommence work,” Kirk Gafill, president of the Big Sur Chamber of Commerce said in an email to chamber members Thursday.

In the letter, Gafill said the reopening of the campground and day use areas will likely be “significantly delayed into the summer season.”

“In a worst case scenario, it may be well after the summer season before the park reopens,” he said.

The lengthy steel vehicle bridge, along with a smaller wood pedestrian bridge within the campground, was removed last fall after studies showed the bridges could be undermined by potential mudslides caused by erosion from last summer's devastating Big Sur fires.

Last spring, a bridge crew performed the initial work to replace both bridges — already called for in a redevelopment plan — with the goal of finishing the work in the spring.

“Our goal was to open around Memorial Day,” said C.L. Price, superintendent of the Big Sur sector of the California Department of Parks and Recreation.

Price said park officials and others are exploring options, including reinstalling the old bridges — which are sitting in the park — until they can get new ones. But there could be problems with that.

“They are old bridges, and for safety reasons, they might not pass muster to go back in,” Price said. “We have to wait for the winter to pass, and we don't want to put anything in prematurely that is going to be at risk.”

Big Sur Chamber of Commerce executive director Stan Russell said the park is a draw for Big Sur businesses. Visitors to the park spend money in hotels, restaurants and shops.

“It could be catastrophic for us,” Russell said. “If visitors don't get access to hiking, they are going to rethink their vacation.”

The campground has 200 sites, with a combined day use and camper population of approximately 1,000 people per day during the summer season.

In December, the state froze financing for bond-funded infrastructure projects, which affected $3.8 billion in funding for about 5,600 projects across California. About 5,300 of those projects have been halted or delayed, according to the State Department of Finance.

Gafill said the closure of the park would further hurt businesses affected last summer by last summer's Basin Complex and Chalk Hill fires.

Pfeiffer Big Sur State Park's continued closure would “virtually eliminate one of the most important reasons many travelers have to visit our area,” Gafill said.

The Big Sur Softball League season is also in jeopardy, since the field the league plays on lies within the campground.

PUBLIC NOTICE

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that the Design Review Board of the City of Carmel-by-the-Sea will conduct a public hearing in the City Hall Council Chambers, located on the east side of Monte Verde between Ocean and Seventh Avenues, on, February 25, 2009. The public hearings will be opened at 4:30 p.m. or as soon thereafter as possible. Note: one or more of the items may be on the Consent Agenda. Items on the Consent Agenda will be approved without discussion unless someone requests otherwise. For all other items staff will present the project, then the applicant and all interested members of the public will be allowed to speak or offer written testimony before the Board takes action. Decisions to approve or deny the project may be appealed to the City Council by filing a written notice of appeal with the office of the City Clerk within ten (10) working days following the date of action by the Design Review Board and paying a $260.00 appeal fee as established by the City Council. For those projects listed as appealable to the California Coastal Commission, appeals may be filed directly with the Coastal Commission for no fee, by filing a written notice of appeal with the Coastal Commission's Central Coast office in Santa Cruz. Such appeals must be filed within ten working days of the Coastal Commission's receipt of the City's Final Local Action Notice.

If you challenge the nature of the proposed action in court, you may be limited to raising only those issues you or someone else raised at the public hearing described in this notice, or in written correspondence delivered to the Design Review Board or the City Council at, or prior to, the public hearing.

Help for nonprofits in surviving downturn

THE COMMUNITY Foundation for Monterey County is holding more than a dozen workshops this winter and spring to help nonprofits deal with the economic downturn.

The workshops will "help nonprofits analyze their situation and strategize solutions as an organization, identify and pursue new funding sources, and strengthen skills that will be useful in negotiating difficult situations," according to the foundation.

Presenters for the workshops are experienced professionals from the nonprofit and for-profit business sectors, according to the Community Foundation.

The foundation's Management Assistance Program offers workshops, grants, referrals, online resources, and a non-profit management library to support local nonprofit management.

The mission of the Community Foundation for Monterey County is to "improve the quality of life in Monterey County by raising, managing, and distributing charitable funds to qualified organizations and by creating positive connections between donors and their interests."

The full schedule of Community Foundation workshops is available at www.cfmco.org (click on "management assistance"). For more information, call (831) 375-9712.

Regional park district seeks broom bashers

THE ONGOING battle between invasive plants and native plant habitat continues this weekend at Palo Corona Regional Park.

The Monterey Peninsula Regional Park District is seeking volunteers Saturday, Feb. 14, to help eradicate — or at least temporarily subdue — stubborn exotic vegetation, including genista and Cape ivy.

The 4,300-acre park, which is located on the East side of Highway 1 just south of Carmel, overlooks Pt. Lobos, Carmel Valley and the Monterey Peninsula, and was formerly known as Fish Ranch.

It was acquired by the regional park district in 2004, with assistance from the Nature Conservancy.

"Getting rid of exotic plants will be fun way to do something with your sweetie on Valentine's Day," suggested park district volunteer coordinator Debbie Wyatt.

Volunteers will meet outside the park's front gate at 9:30 a.m., and are encouraged wear sturdy shoes and be prepared for the possibility of wet weather. The park district will provide tools and gloves.

The park's front gate is located on east side of Highway 1, about 1.5 miles south of Rio Road. For more information, call (831) 224-5059

Editorial

Off with their heads

CALIFORNIA AMERICAN Water made a big mistake when it proposed an elaborate water project that didn't include any new water for the basic needs of this community.

Even if the people of the Monterey Peninsula decide they don't want any significant additional development, everybody acknowledges that a few new facilities and housing will be needed sooner or later.

There are plenty of people who don't see the need for a huge new water project that could open the floodgates of development.

Right now, everything's at a standstill because of the water shortage. But if this community is going to spend $150 million to $200 million for a desal plant and underground storage, it is absolutely essential that it include a small amount of new water for infill housing.

A good example of how a small amount of water would benefit the community — and how the moratorium on water permits is hurting everybody — is the American Tin Cannery in Pacific Grove.

The water project's environmental impact report released two weeks ago didn't even acknowledge the terrible economic and social cost to this community of having a grossly inadequate water supply.

If it does, the people of the Monterey Peninsula will be subject to a form of governmental repression and denial of basic human rights that call to mind the circumstances that led to some of the important revolutions in human history.

In fact, does anybody know where we could get a guillotine?

It's not just a party for fatcats

The economic downturn has led to well deserved recriminations against bankers and other Wall Street fatcats who abused their positions at the helm of this country's — and the world's — financial system.

But the new era of parsimony and asceticism must not go too far. For example, if most corporate retreats and conventions are canceled because many of them happen in resort locales and have the appearance of vacations.

A good example is the AT&T Pebble Beach National Pro-Am. At first glance, this event might seem to be an excuse for rich people to play golf and rub elbows with celebrities.

But it's much more than that. The Pro-Am raises millions of dollars for charity. And it brings a ton of badly needed business to the Monterey Peninsula.

Playing golf and having fun may seem frivolous at a time when the President of the United States says we're in a national economic crisis. But backing off from such events will only make the crisis worse.

Glad the 'goofballs' weren't around in 1776

Dear Editor,

The long-awaited public utilities commission environmental study of a desal plant is finally in with a recommendation that no new water be allocated for existing lots of record, remodels or infill because "...water for growth may be very controversial."

Listen, if you want to avoid controversy, you better stay out of the water business.

Throughout the history of California, water has been more controversial than gay marriage! But what is really disappointing is that these idiots have taken up the banner of controlling growth through infrastructure rather than planning.

And how many of these lots are we talking about? Less than 3 percent of the total properties served by California American Water Company.

Governments are formed to ensure that the rights of the people are protected equally. And now we have a government agency suggesting just the opposite.

Chris Tescher, Carmel

The Shepherds of Pan

HARRISON MEMORIAL Library will host the next meeting in its 2009 Local History Lecture Series Monday, Feb. 23, when journalist and Monterey Peninsula College instructor Elayne Wareing Fitzpatrick "explores the spiritual journey of the 'Shepherds of Pan.'"

The lecture will focus on writers who "perceived divinity in the awesome, double-dealing power of Nature," according to local history librarian Rose McLendon. "The lure of nature linked unlikely figures in their search for the divine."

Henry Miller, Robinson Jeffers, Robert Louis Stevenson and others became pantheists or nature mystics, "cast under the spell of the alternately soft and violent landscape of California's Central Coast," and the central theme of wisdom divined from nature is the basis of Fitzpatrick's book, "Shepherd of Pan on the Big Sur-Monterey Coast," according to McLendon.

The free lecture will be held at 2 p.m. at the Church of the Wayfarer on Lincoln Street at Seventh Avenue, and seating is on a first-come, first-served basis. For more information, contact McLendon at (831) 624-1615 or visit www.hm-lib.org.

accelerate their learning and development. This project would not have been a success without so many people in the community lending their support. In particular, Karl Pallestrini, Elena Loomis, Dina and Clint Eastwood, Mayor Sue McCloud, the ACTION Council of Monterey County, Carmel Pine Cone, Peet's Coffee, Borders, Pilgrim's Way books, Harrison Memorial Library and all the financial donors. Though their plates were full with other deadlines and opportunities, they graciously made room at their table for this special project. I'm forever indebted.

Trifecta weekend, the Blue Dog moves, and a taste of New Orleans

TO OLD-TIMERS, it's still the "Crosby Clambake," but whatever you call the AT&T Pebble Beach National Pro-Am it's here — this year converging with Presidents Weekend and Valentine's Day. Carmel businesses are gearing up for the special-occasion trifecta and will have a few new things in store for the residents and visitors coming to town.

The new "toast of the town" is Carmel Belle, which opened last week in the Doud Craft Arcade on San Carlos opposite Wells Fargo Bank, in the former Paolina's location. Chef/owner

Stephen Viguerie and his wife, Kristin, hail from New Orleans, and the food at Belle definitely rivals the best of the Big Easy. Featuring European-inspired breakfasts, an array of great coffee, and homemade soups, sandwiches and salads, the menu already has drawn rave reviews. Kristin said, "Our specialties will include local ingredients, California cheeses and charcuterie, as well as yummy wine by the glass and local beers." After undergoing two months of extensive remodeling, they have managed to transform their space into an upscale, cozy and friendly place where guests will want to linger for a meal or a snack between shopping. Carmel Belle is open for breakfast and lunch, from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m.

They say you can't teach an old dog a new trick, but you can have a Blue Dog learn a new spot — Rodrigue Gallery, "Home of the Blue Dog," recently moved from its location on Sixth Avenue between Dolores and Lincoln just a few blocks away to the west side of Dolores off Ocean, next door to Piccadilly Chocolates.

Finally, downtown Carmel has seen some recent ownership changes. White Rabbit, the gift and home accessories store in the Court of the Golden Bough, was bought by Derek Olinger. Portnoy Galleries, at Dolores and Sixth, next to the Village Corner, is now owned by Gerald Byrne. When you are strolling the town, say hello and welcome these new business owners.

This column runs one Friday each month. We welcome your comments, suggestions or tips about new businesses in Carmel-by-the-Sea. Please call or e-mail Molly Laughlin at Carmel-by-the-Sea City Hall, 620-2019, or mllaughlin@ci.carmel.ca.us.

Mazda Raceway wants idols

EVER HAD a burning desire to sing the National Anthem? If so, Mazda Raceway Laguna Seca wants to hear from you — and hear you. The track "is looking for race fans with amazing singing voices" to perform throughout the 2009 race season, which kicks off with the the Festival of Speed featuring the Rolex Grand-Am Series May 15-17.

Contestants in "Mazda Raceway Idol," must represent the track "in a professional manner and have the talent and ability to sing the National Anthem live," according to organizers.

The top four contestants selected by the judges will sing at the four major race events this year, including the Red Bull U.S. Grand Prix — reportedly the No. 1 attended motorsports event in the state — in July, the Rolex Monterey Historic Automobile Races in August and the American Le Mans Series in October. Winners will receive international media exposure, free race tickets and gifts.

To enter, send a CD of your singing talent to the Mazda Raceway Idol Judges, Mazda Raceway, P.O. Box 2078, Monterey, CA 93942 by March 11. The top 10 contestants will be invited to sing live for the judges, with the four winning Mazda Raceway Idols announced in April. For more information, visit www.mazdaraceway.com.

POLICE LOG

officers located a 2005 Honda Pilot resting on its roof near the curb and a 1995 Volvo station wagon that was in the middle of the intersection. Both vehicles had sustained moderate damage. The driver of the Honda, a Monterey resident, was transported to CHOMP for complaints of neck and back pain. The Volvo driver sustained no injuries.

THURSDAY, JANUARY 22

Carmel-by-the-Sea: A citizen found a dog running loose in the roadway and transported the dog to the police department for safekeeping. The dog owner was located from the I.D. on the dog's collar. The dog was returned with a warning at this time, and the fees were paid. Forward a copy to ACO for further followup on a possible citation.

Carmel-by-the-Sea: Report of a lost organizer in the business area of the City of Carmel.

Carmel-by-the-Sea: A 47-year-old female driver was stopped on Camino Real for several violations and found to be intoxicated. Driver was arrested, and she submitted to a breath test.

Carmel-by-the-Sea: Traffic collision on Seventh Avenue. Property damage only.

Carmel-by-the-Sea: Fire engine dispatched to Sixth and Santa Fe for a reported water problem. Unable to locate problem in reported area.

Carmel-by-the-Sea: Fire engine and ambulance dispatched to a residence on Alta that was determined to be in the Cypress Fire Protection District, but Carmel took the call. Crew arrived on scene to find a female in her 80s experiencing aching in her chest and diarrhea. Fire personnel assisted with patient assessment, diagnostics, packaging and gathering information. Transported the person to CHOMP.

Carmel area: Victim at the Crossroads made a report of annoying phone calls.

Carmel Valley: Subject's girlfriend called to report a subject who was suicidal wanting to overdose with pills (possibly in possession). He fled the residence on foot, then came back and hot-wired his car, crashing it off the road. Subject contacted in vehicle was despondent and armed with a large screwdriver. Subject was talked down, threw knife and screwdrivers out the door, and was taken peacefully to Natividad Medical Center for a mental evaluation.

Carmel area: Subject on Rio Road reported a violation of restraining order had occurred.

Carmel Valley: At about 2359 hours, Monterey County Sheriff's deputies responded to a "vandalism in progress" call at a business in Carmel Valley Village. Upon arrival, deputies found numerous items had been destroyed. An extensive search for suspects was conducted but was not successful. The business sells pottery, statues and ceramic garden pieces. Damage is estimated at more than $100,000. The damage is extensive and appears to have been caused by a group of individuals.

FRIDAY, JANUARY 23

Carmel-by-the-Sea: Unknown vehicle hit and damaged a parked vehicle on Mission Street. A witness saw the incident but could not provide the correct plate.

Carmel area: Person reported suspicious persons claiming to sell books at her residence.

Carmel area: During foot patrol, deputy located two juvenile males. One was in possession of marijuana.

Carmel Valley: A male suspect brandished a knife at his girlfriend and her son. He also pushed the girlfriend as she tried to unlock a door for her son. He also has a conviction of 273.5 PC against the same girlfriend. His probation terms stated to have no contact with her. He hid from deputies prior to their arrival.

Pacific Grove: At approximately 1448 hours, police responded to the intersection of Forest Avenues and Sinex Avenues to a report of a vehicle accident. Officers located a 1986 Mercedes Benz that was resting in the front yard of a Forest Avenue residence, with severe damage to the driver's side. The driver of the vehicle received a serious laceration to his left forearm. He was transported to CHOMP by ambulance. The other involved vehicle was a 2003 GMC pickup whose driver was uninjured.

SATURDAY, JANUARY 24

Carmel-by-the-Sea: Carmel Mission reported a subject attempted to steal cash from a donation cash box inside the church.

Carmel-by-the-Sea: Non-injury traffic collision on Ocean Avenue.

Carmel-by-the-Sea: Burglary of a vehicle on Eighth Avenue.

Carmel-by-the-Sea: Followup completed on a past-tense loose dog report. Gate alteration discussed to keep the dog secured; verification of current license and vaccination completed.

Carmel-by-the-Sea: Vehicle stopped on Carpenter Street for a traffic violation. Juvenile driver, age 17, found to be in possession of alcohol, tobacco and marijuana. Driver cited and released at the scene.

Carmel-by-the-Sea: At the fire station on Sixth Avenue, crews administered first aid for a female in her 20s who sustained a lacerated right index finger as the result of a workplace injury. After cleaning and bandaging, the patient refused further medical treatment, signed a medical release with the on-duty crew, and was transported to CHOMP by a coworker for followup treatment.

Carmel Valley: Burglary to a vehicle in Carmel Valley.

SUNDAY, JANUARY 25

Carmel-by-the-Sea: Female subject, age 23, was contacted at Del Mar and found to be in possession of a small baggie of marijuana.

Carmel-by-the-Sea: A citizen found two dogs running loose on Highway 1 south of Ocean Avenue. Only one dog was captured and transported to Carmel P.D. for safekeeping. The dog was placed in the Carmel Police Department kennel. No identification was found on the dog. The dog remained in the department kennel overnight, until the owner contacted the police department. On Jan. 26 at 1000 hours, the dog was released to the owner, who was warned and paid the kennel fees.

Carmel-by-the-Sea: An attempt to contact was conducted for a resident on Camino del Monte. The subject was fine, and the caller was updated on the findings.

Carmel-by-the-Sea: A citizen found a loose yellow Labrador in the area of Monte Verde. The dog was brought to CPD and checked for identification. The dog had I.D. tags. An attempt to locate the dog owner via phone was conducted but was met with negative results. At approximately 1523 hours, a citizen identified that he lost his dog and would be coming to the station to retrieve his dog. The kennel fees were paid, and the individual was given a warning about his dog being at large.

Carmel-by-the-Sea: Report of the theft of a bronze statue from a gallery on Ocean Avenue. Somebody entered the store and took a little monkey bronze statue, 7 inches long and 2.75 inches high, valued at $600.

Carmel-by-the-Sea: Fire engine and ambulance dispatched to Fourth Avenue between San Carlos & Mission for a water leak at Villa Carmel. Crews shut off water to the building after determining there was a leak in the water meter box, and notified Cal-Am and the responsible party of the need for repairs.

MONDAY, JANUARY 26

Carmel-by-the-Sea: A Federal Express driver located a loose dog in the area of San Pedro. Dog was brought to CPD to see if assistance could be made to locate the owner. A collar and dog tag were located on the rat terrier dog, and the owner was notified of his whereabouts. Arrangements were made to house the dog until the owner retrieved it. The owner came to the station, paid the kennel fee, and the dog was returned.

Carmel-by-the-Sea: Elderly woman tripped and fell on the sidewalk on Ocean Avenue. She refused medical.

Carmel-by-the-Sea: A citizen reported a complaint of an ongoing barking-dog problem on Santa Rita. On Tuesday, Jan. 27, contact was made with the owner of the dogs. Ways of preventing the barking were discussed, and the owner will take action to do so.

Carmel-by-the-Sea: Person on Mission Street wanted to report a customer had written two bad checks to his business. The officer explained that he would have to contact the D.A.'s office and file a report. Officer provided him with the necessary forms and also left a message for the offending party as a courtesy, and asked that they contact the victim to settle the debt.

Carmel-by-the-Sea: Person on Carpenter Street reported that a new business was using their product without paying for it. Evidently, they had a contract with the previous owner, but the new owner did not want to honor the contract. The caller said that was fine but wanted the product back. Officer contacted the new owner and was told that the product had been returned and that there was nothing more that he could do. Officer advised the other party of this, and they accepted it.

Carmel-by-the-Sea: Person called stating that she lost her camera in the area of San Carlos and Fifth Avenue on or about Nov. 30. If located, the victim will be notified. Information only.

Carmel-by-the-Sea: Fire engine dispatched to San Carlos between Fourth and Fifth for a service call. The guests accidentally broke the key to the gas valve for the fireplace and were concerned the gas was not completely shut off. The gas monitor indicated there was no leak. The guests were advised to notify management about the key and to possibly get a new one.

Carmel-by-the-Sea: Fire engine and ambulance dispatched to Ocean Avenue. Crews arrived on scene to find a female in her 80s on the ground in front of a shoe store. Provided first aid and checked for injuries. The patient denied any treatment or examination. She was advised to see a doctor if any problems developed as a result of the fall.

Carmel-by-the-Sea: Fire engine and ambulance dispatched to Scenic Road south of 12th Avenue for a fire alarm activation. Search showed no fire issues. A ladder was found under a smoke detector in the hallway which was seen from the outside. This alarm activated earlier this morning. The alarm company was to send a technician in about 20-30 minutes.

Carmel-by-the-Sea: Fire engine and ambulance dispatched to a residence on Lincoln Street. Crews arrived on scene to find a female in her 80s in the bathtub, unable to help herself out. She was experiencing neck pain but refused c-spine precautions. Firefighters helped the patient out of the bathtub and assisted with packaging and gathering information. She did agree to moderate c-spine precautions which were performed upon her approval. Transported to CHOMP.

Carmel-by-the-Sea: Fire engine and ambulance dispatched to Camino Real for a male resident of approximately 60 years in age who was pulseless and apnic. Patient had signs of rigor and lividity. Patient determined dead. Corner requested engine crew stand by for coroner arrival.

Carmel Valley: Stemming from a verbal domestic dispute, coastal station deputies received a call at 2137 hours from a female regarding a suicidal male subject who claimed he would take his life by shooting himself. The female advised that the 50-year-old male, who lives on Cachagua Road, had a shotgun and would shoot at responding deputies. The female also advised that as she was leaving to seek refuge at a neighbor's residence, she heard one gunshot blast. Deputies arrived on scene, and forced entry was made through the front door after failed attempts to hail out the subject. He was taken into custody without incident and transported to NMC for 5150 WI. Deputies confiscated one shotgun, one rifle, one pellet rifle, one handgun and ammunition.

Carmel area: Victim at the Crossroads shipping center stated an unknown suspect assaulted him for unknown reasons during a gathering. Victim did not wish to press charges.

Big Sur: Person turned in 10 .308 cartridges she found at her residence that she wanted destroyed.

Carmel area: Deputies were dispatched to a report of transients causing a public disturbance at the Carmel River, near Highway 1, underneath the bridge. During their investigation, deputies discovered that a 17-year-old minor was a victim of sexual assault. [MCSO reported the sexual intercourse was consensual.]

Carmel Valley: Victim reported the front window to her office was broken between Jan. 23 and Jan. 24. Damage estimated at $139. No suspects.

Carmel Valley: Resident reported her mail was found on the ground near her business on Saturday, Jan. 24, by another tenant. It had all been opened, but she does not believe anything was taken from the envelopes. No suspects.

Pebble Beach: Resident reported her fence had been graffitied in early December 2008, and several cactus plants in her yard had been damaged on Sunday, Jan. 25. No suspects. Damaged estimated at under $400.

TUESDAY, JANUARY 27

Carmel-by-the-Sea: A citizen reported a complaint of a dog in a vehicle on Ninth Avenue with no windows open. Animal control officer responded and located a dog in a vehicle with only one window open and access to water. The dog owner was located and provided cross ventilation to the dog, who appeared to be healthy.

Carmel-by-the-Sea: Person stated she let a friend borrow $2,500 and she has not paid her. The female stated her friend told her check was in the mail, and she has not received the check. She was counseled.

Carmel-by-the-Sea: Two dog owners were walking past each other on Seventh Avenue and stopped to let the dogs sniff each other, when one of the dogs bit the other.

Carmel-by-the-Sea: A 46-year-old female subject was arrested at Junipero and Third for providing false identification to police. She was lodged at county jail.

Carmel-by-the-Sea: Fire engine and ambulance dispatched to Mission and Eighth, at the Scout House, for steam, vapor, fog or dust thought to be smoke. Bystanders stated they saw smoke coming from the westernmost smoke stack. The furnace thermostat was on low, but cold temperatures activated the furnace and made vapors coming out of the vent through the smokestack visible (appearing to be "smoke" to some bystanders). Firefighters turned the thermostat off. The building was secure.

Carmel Valley: Resident reported property missing from her residence.

Pebble Beach: Unknown person(s) entered the victim's garage for unknown reasons. No force was used to gain entry. Nothing appeared disturbed or taken.

Carmel Valley: Report by citizen of a fight between males, which was determined to have

The Spring Home & Garden In Your Dreams March 27, 2009

Spring on the Monterey Peninsula presents some unique opportunities for local homeowners. With warmer weather and the end of the winter rains, people who live in the Carmel area start spending more time growing their gardens. As they do, they also start to tackle remodeling and landscaping projects they've had in mind for months. This March, The Carmel Pine Cone will profile some of the Peninsula's most creative residents and look at the changes they have in mind for their one-of-a-kind homes. In Your Dreams gives readers a chance to plan their own dream home and collect inspiring local gardening and decorating ideas. Advertisers reach the affluent residents of this area who appreciate quality and style of their products & services. In Your Dreams will be printed on 34 pound, hi-bright white stock— in The Pine Cone's "long tab"— to ensure high printing quality. In Your Dreams will circulate 19,000 issues, be home delivered to more than 2,350 homes in Pebble Beach and read by over 5,800 email subscribers.

No other publication can touch the readership of The Pine Cone in Carmel, Pebble Beach, Big Sur and Carmel Valley!
This beautiful 4-color special section will be published Friday, March 27.

on the right rear area.

Carmel-by-the-Sea: Fire engine and ambulance dispatched to Junipero Street for a tree down on a vehicle, blocking driveways and the street. After a police officer on patrol saw the damage and notified CFD, the vehicle owner and the resident. Fire crew removed the hazard by cutting away the tree from roadway and driveways. White BMW was damaged from tree falling on it. Firefighters decided not to remove larger portions of tree limbs still on the vehicle because of the probability of doing more damage to the car. A larger saw was probably needed to perform this function. Secured property by taping off the two piles of tree branches and limbs on the side of the roadway.

Carmel-by-the-Sea: Ambulance dispatched to Mid Valley Center to a medical clinic on Dorris Drive. While on scene, fire medic assessed two victims of an assault. Patients refused transport and signed medical releases. Ambulance released.

Carmel Valley: School reported several acts of vandalism occurred in January 2009 during the weekends.

Carmel area: Resident at Highlands Drive and Pine Way reported theft of his stereo from his unlocked parked vehicle.

Carmel area: Mesa Place resident reported hearing a female scream for help. An area check was made, and nothing was found.

THURSDAY, JANUARY 29

Carmel-by-the-Sea: Carmel Fire Department personnel reported seeing a white mini-van with two male subjects driving erratically on Carpenter north of Ocean. CFD personnel reported the mini-van was full of computer equipment and the two male subjects aboard appeared disoriented. Upon contact, it was determined the two subjects were contracted through AT&T Mobility to test cellular phone sites in the area. A call to the subject's employer verified their presence. As the subjects are required to perform these test from 2200 to 0700 hours, they were advised to contact the local law enforcement agency where the tests are to be performed and furnish each agency with their identities, vehicle description and all pertinent contact information prior to each testing period.

Carmel-by-the-Sea: Citizen at a Junipero Street business reported receiving an obscene phone call from an unknown male calling from out of state. Male subject was ultimately found to be calling from Ottawa, Ill., and identified. Subject was found to have prior contacts for similar incidents as documented with Ottawa police. Ottawa police were asked to make personal contact with the subject. Carmel P.D. also contacted the subject by telephone and requested that the obscene telephone calls cease.

Carmel-by-the-Sea: Person brought her dog into the station to report a dog vs. dog incident on Scenic Road.

Carmel-by-the-Sea: Property left at a Mission Street restaurant turned in for safekeeping.

Carmel-by-the-Sea: Found single bicycle tire on Junipero Street.

resulted from the unfortunate event of a histrionic 17-year-old female yelling at her boyfriend. One male thought he was stopping a domestic. Mutual punches thrown and minor injuries resulted. No prosecution. Case closed.

WEDNESDAY, JANUARY 28

Carmel-by-the-Sea: Ambulance dispatched to 17 Mile Drive for a male with abdominal pain. Patient transported Code 2 to CHOMP at 1433.

Carmel-by-the-Sea: Vehicle hit a tree on Seventh Avenue and scraped and dented her car

Ticket Information

Most attendees buy their tickets well in advance, including high rollers who pay thousands for admission to all tournament events and exclusive clubs. Also, ticket packages, such as the Executive Booster Package ($2,400), the Champions Club Member ($1,600 weekly), the Partners Package ($350) and the Charity Patron Badge ($150) had to be purchased by Jan. 15. (Start planning for next year!) But there are still several options:

Season Badge • $150

■ Entrance to all events, practice rounds and all tournament rounds at all three courses.

Daily Ticket

■ $60 for the three days of practice rounds. Don't forget that military, firefighters and police officers are admitted free on Feb. 6.

■ $60 for each tournament round.

Any-Day ticket book • $600

■ Each book contains

10 coupons which can be exchanged at the gate for daily tickets.

■ 12 and under admitted free if accompanied by an adult.

Where to buy: On line at www.attpbgolf.com. By telephone at (800) 541-9091, and by fax to (831) 649-1763. Daily tickets will also be sold at the Carmel shuttle stop in front of Carmel Plaza shopping center, at the Carmel Chamber of Commerce visitors center on San Carlos Street, at the Pacific Grove admission trailer (17 Mile Drive at the P.G. Gate) and at the CSUMB parking area (follow signs from Highway 1 exit to CSUMB, approximately 10 miles north of Pebble Beach).

Parking: During tournament rounds, complimentary spectator parking is available on the CSUMB campus at the former Fort Ord, about 10 miles north of Pebble Beach on Highway 1, with frequent shuttle buses to deliver spectators to the competition courses, where other shuttle buses will also take them between courses. Handicapped parking is available throughout the practice and tournament rounds inside Pebble Beach.

There are also convenient shuttle buses available from Carmel, Pacific Grove and Monterey to the pro-am tournament. For details about these shuttles, please see page 5 ATT.

Prohibited items: The following items are specifically prohibited inside the entrance gate of the AT&T Thursday through Sunday of tournament week: Cell phones and PDA's; distracting or noise producing devices; cameras (except during practice round days Mon-Wed); bags, backpacks, food container or cooler or any other carrying device larger than 8" inches in height, width or depth; signs, banners or posters (except for autographs); televisions and radios; alcohol, except on site sales or businesses; pets (except service animals), bicycles and ladders; metal spiked golf shoes; weapons of any sort, whether licensed or permitted, and any other item deemed potentially injurious, unlawful or dangerous to staff, volunteers or participants as determined by the PGA Tour, tournament security personnel or law enforcement officials. Plastic water bottles and food capable of fitting into an 8"-by-8"-by-8" container or pockets are acceptable for entry.

SHUTTLES

The least-hassle way to get to the Pro-Am? A shuttle, of course

WANT TO avoid parking at Fort Ord, thereby adding an hour to your day of spectating at the AT&T Pebble Beach National Pro-Am? Increasingly, fans are saying yes, and they're using shuttles to do it.

In fact, recent years have proved many would happily pay a few bucks to hop a shuttle in Carmel, Pacific Grove or Monterey, rather than park at California State University Monterey Bay and ride buses to and from the AT&T Pebble Beach National Pro-Am. The chambers of commerce in those cities are sponsoring shuttles through Sunday, Feb. 15.

The Carmel Chamber of Commerce and the Carmel Innkeepers Association will have buses operating from 6 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. all weekend, leaving from the Carmel Plaza and delivering riders to the tournament gate in Pebble Beach. To return to town, riders should look for the Carmel shuttle stop at the Pebble Beach Equestrian Center. Daily passes, which allow unlimited rides in and out of the Forest throughout the day, are $15 per person.

In addition, people can purchase any-day AT&T Pro-Am tournament tickets at the bus stop or in the Carmel Visitor Center, located on San Carlos Street between Fifth and Sixth avenues, for $55. (Tickets will be $60 at the gate.)

And the shuttles aren't just for locals hoping for a convenient way to get to the golf tournament. Fanatics from out of town might want to take a break for lunch in Carmel, and those who get their fill of the game after a few hours on the course could opt to spend some time shopping in town instead, the chamber and the innkeepers association hope. Last year, the buses provided 5,000 trips during the five days of the pro-am.

Anyone wondering about the best restaurants in town, or desiring to know anything else about Carmel-by-the-Sea, can stop in at the visitor center located on the west side of San Carlos Street between Fifth and Sixth avenues.

Shuttle tickets and tickets for the pro-am can be purchased ahead of time by calling the chamber at (831) 624-2522 or visiting www.carmelcalifornia.org. During the tournament, shuttle tickets can be purchased at the inns, the Carmel Plaza bus stop or on the bus. Shuttle riders can pay to leave their cars in the north lot at Sunset Center, located at the corner of Eighth and Mission, or in the garage at the Carmel Plaza at Mission and Seventh. Free all-day parking is available in the city lot at Torres and Third, which is about four blocks from the Plaza.

P.G. offers extras

The Pacific Grove Chamber of Commerce's 59-passenger Pacific Monarch buses will depart every 30 minutes from the Pacific Grove Museum of Natural History, 165 Forest Ave., beginning at 6:30 a.m. through Sunday, Feb. 15. Pro-Am play begins at 8 a.m. Friday and Saturday, and at 7:30 a.m. for the final round at the Pebble Beach Golf Links on Sunday.

Riders will receive gift bags containing coupons, post cards and brochures.

Chamber president Moe Ammar pointed out that taking the shuttles — as some 2,500 people did last year — will save them about an hour of travel time while offering them more flexibility in their schedules.

With special packages offered by hotels and businesses willing to stay open late, chamber officials said they are "making a concerted effort to provide the maximum in hospitality to the visitors for the golf tournament and to showcase the many charms of Pacific Grove."

Shuttle passes run $15 per day, or $40 for a five-day pass, and free parking is available a block away on Ocean View Boulevard. The chamber is also selling daily tournament tickets for $55. For more information, contact the chamber of commerce at (831) 373-3304 or check the group's website: www.pacificgrove.org.

Monterey hospitality

The Cannery Row Company, the Old Monterey Business Association and the Fisherman's Wharf Association are collaborating to offer express shuttles to and from Del Monte Forest from 6 a.m. to 6 p.m. Friday and Saturday, and from 6 a.m. to 5 p.m. Sunday.

The buses will carry golf fans from Cannery Row, Fisherman's Wharf and downtown Monterey, all of which offer plenty of parking, as well as a lot of shopping and dining opportunities before and/or after spectating at the golf tournament.

On Cannery Row, golf fans can catch the shuttle at Wave and Prescott, across from Willy's Smokehouse, and park in the Cannery Row garage off Foam Street. The shuttle from Fisherman's Wharf leaves from Oliver Street off Scott, and parking is available in the waterfront lot off Del Monte Avenue. Downtown, the shuttle leaves from the Monterey Conference Center at the Portola Plaza Hotel, and parking is available in the downtown Monterey garages using the entrances off Tyler or Franklin streets.

The per-day cost for unlimited rides is $10 per person, and all-day parking costs $7. Golf fans can purchase their shuttle and tournament tickets at the shuttle stops. For more information, call (831) 657-6488 or visit www.canneryrow.com.

Shuttles from Carmel and other local cities will even get you to the golf courses early enough to see the holes being set.

CHARITIES

Pebble Beach Pro-Am vital to charities during tough times

By KELLY NIX

DURING THE country's current economic state, with job layoffs making headlines and families trying to save as much as possible, charities are also feeling the pinch.

Fortunately, hundreds of nonprofits in Monterey County can rely on proceeds from the AT&T Pebble Beach National Pro-Am to help give them much-needed economic assistance.

The money, distributed through the Monterey Peninsula Foundation, is the lifeblood of many of these local charities. To date, more than $73 million has been raised. Here are a few organizations that benefit from the golf tournament.

■ Easter Seals

Nobody recognizes the importance of the Pebble Beach Pro-Am more than Tracy Chappell, chief development officer for Easter Seals of Central California.

"Our mission is to change the lives of children and adults with disabilities," said Chappell, who works out of Easter Seals' Monterey office.

The money that Easter Seals receives from the AT&T — about $82,000 a year — goes toward its P.L.A.Y. Project, a program that shows parents of autistic children how to help their kids at home with about 10 hours per week of intensive play therapy.

"The funding provides for tutors to be in the homes with these parents," she said. "It's quite an undertaking and takes a lot of hours. The AT&T Pro-Am helps us put those tutors in the home."

Autism, which occurs in as many as five out of every 1,000 children, is a developmental disorder characterized by impaired social interaction, problems with communication and unusual, repetitive, or severely limited activities and interests.

But P.L.A.Y. Project is working, Chappell said. She recounted the case of a young son who was scared to be touched by or receive any affection from his mother.

"Because of Easter Seals, her son woke up," she said. "Now he sits in her arms. We have helped him for seven months. The results have been huge. And Tickets bought by the gallery that lines the fairways during the Pro-Am are an important source of support for local charities. And so are sponsorships paid by the companies that occupy the VIP tents in the background. Equally important in generating funds for charities is the participation of celebrities and PGA stars, such as Phil Mickelson (below).

the AT&T helps."

Easter Seals also offers services in the areas of education, family, camping and recreation.

The central coast chapter serves about 1,600 people across 10 counties. But Chappell said that number is deceiving because it only reflects the people with disabilities, not their families.

"We really serve the whole family" of disabled people, she said.

For information about Easter Seals Central

California, contact its Monterey office at (831) 242-2110.

■ Big Sur Health Center

Thanks to a community effort, the Big Sur Health Center was founded in 1979 to provide quality, comprehensive medical care to everyone in Big Sur — even if they can't pay.

"We have approximately 2,600 patient visits annually," said Sharen Carey, executive director of the BSHC.

When the BSHC opened its new facility in 2004 at 46896 Highway One to replace an aging building it had outgrown, the Monterey Peninsula Foundation helped the nonprofit.

"The foundation has been very generous in supporting our programs and special projects in the past," Carey said. "The most notable was an $80,000

THE GOLFERS

Pros with Peninsula ties savor battles on old stomping

By MARY BROWNFIELD

TWO PROFESSIONAL golfers with local roots — one a well established player with an impressive career and another embarking on his dream of making a living playing one of the most challenging games on earth — are competing in this week's AT&T Pebble Beach National Pro-Am. Bobby Clampett, a Monterey boy who became a phenom, and Rob Grube, a Stevenson School graduate seeking his big break in the PGA, are vying with more than 150 other top pros for the lowest scores on the Pebble Beach Golf Links, Spyglass Hill Golf Course and Poppy Hills Golf Course.

Back to Quail

Clampett was the youngest player to finish among the top 24 in the Masters (he did it at the age of 18). And then he amassed more than $1.4 million in winnings during his 14 years as a full-time pro player. The whole adventure began with a childhood job at Quail Lodge in Carmel Valley.

"I had been bothering my mom for a couple of years because I wanted to contribution toward our new building. Over the years, AT&T Pebble Beach Charities has donated over $112,000."

The health center provides primary and preventive medical services, urgent and emergency care, minor surgical procedures, and Spanish language translation assistance.

In order to best serve its Spanish-speaking patients, most of whom are from Guadalajara, Mexico, BSHC developed a Multicultural Health Project, funded in part by Community Hospital of the Monterey Peninsula.

In 2006, that led Carey to spend nine weeks in Guadalajara to improve her Spanish skills while also spending time in a small medical clinic.

During the 2008 fires in Big Sur, Carey and clinical assistant Danielle Latta, with help from the U.S. Forest Service, set up a medical clinic at the base camp in Molera.

"Not only did the Molera medical clinic avoid time-consuming trips to the emergency room, but it provided immediate onsite evaluation and treatment so that fire personnel could return to their crews to continue their important work," according to the BSHC.

As the fire spread, a second base camp set up near Tassajara Road in Carmel Valley was managed by the health center's staff.

The Forest Service calculated that the medical clinics, which treated more than 1,300 patients, had saved it more than $2 million.

■ Central Coast YMCA

For just $30 per year, a child can join the Central Coast YMCA, which offers a variety of valuable community programs, including after-school childcare, homework assistance, recreation enrichment, spring, summer and winter camps, karate, soccer, basketball, lacrosse and step aerobics for active older adults

"We don't have a full workout facility and pool like you find at a lot of YMCAs," said executive director Tracy Langhorne. "But we provide a wide variety of programs and services."

To help those services, the Monterey Peninsula Foundation gave the Central Coast YMCA $100,000 last year for its general fund, Langhorne said.

"Those funds support programs like after-school childcare, recreation, sports and camp for children in all five YMCA's of the Central Coast (Monterey Peninsula, Salinas, South County, San Benito and Watsonville)," she said.

The YMCA now even offers soccer and basketball programs for kindergartners.

The Central Coast YMCA last week kicked off its 2009 Strong Communities Campaign, which seeks to raise $110,000 to support its programs.

And Langhorne said volunteers are an integral part of the YMCA's success and fundraising effort.

"Whether as coaches, tutors, campaigners or policy volunteers, many residents of the Peninsula help us build a stronger community through their work with our YMCA," she said.

The Strong Communities Campaign wraps up March 11.

learn to play golf," he recalled. At first, she ignored his demands. "But I kept badgering her, and she finally took me down to meet [Quail Lodge founder Ed] Haber, and I went into his office when I was 10 and asked for a job."

Haber gave the young boy a job picking balls on the driving range. Clampett got a set of clubs that Christmas, and his mom scraped money together for lessons with teaching pro Lee Martin.

"I had a love of golf right away — it was all I wanted to do," Clampett said. "I enjoyed the challenge of figuring it out and competing."

He played golf in high school at Stevenson, becoming the No. 1 junior player in the state. At Brigham Young University he was a first-team All-American, a rarity for a first-year student, and that summer competed in the U.S. Open when he was 18. He played well and started getting a lot of tournament invitations, including one to play in the hallowed Masters at Augusta, Ga. In 1978, Golf Magazine and Golf Digest both named him the

No. 1 amateur player in the United States, three years after his handicap reached scratch.

He earned his PGA Tour pro player's card by finishing 8th in the Buick Open in 1980 and embarked on a full-time pro career that would last 14 years.

But television also called, and Clampett took a part-time announcing job with CBS in 1991 that became full-time in 1995. He has worked as a course designer and author out of his home in Raleigh, N.C., and been a pilot since 1987, logging his hours in a 1986 Piper Malibu.

Now Clampett is embarking on yet another chapter. He and his wife bought a home in Carmel Valley, and he recently became Quail's "golf ambassador."

"So it's officially my home course, and that kind of brings it all full circle for me," he said. "Part of my involvement with Quail is we're starting to launch my first golf school with my method of teaching called the Impact Zone — an instruction book that is really changing the way golf is taught and is a unique perspective into what teaching golf is about."

Although he lives with his family in Raleigh, Clampett said he comes to the Peninsula whenever he can and is looking forward to playing well during this year's AT&T Pebble Beach National Pro-Am.

"There's nothing like playing golf here on the Monterey Peninsula," he said.

Although he declares his favorite course is "whichever I'm playing at the time," Clampett admitted "a real affection" for Cypress Point and Pebble Beach.

"Cypress, to me, is the ultimate golf experience and the ultimate club," he said. "Pebble Beach really is the ultimate competitive course, and it's a rare combination of really challenging conditions on the coast and rare beauty."

Clampett has been working hard on his game, not only to get ready for the Pro-Am, but to join the Champions Tour full-time as soon as he's old enough.

"I have 15 months to 50 and am focusing on getting my game competitive again to see where I can take it," he said.

Fresh on the road

Rob Grube was also an insistent kid who found an unexpected talent and passion for the game of golf.

"I had an overactive Little League coach, to put it mildly, and I told my mom I didn't want to play it anymore, so we tried a bunch of different sports," he recalled. "I've had a love affair with golf since I was 8, and I can't really explain it."

Growing up in Chicago, Grube said no one in his family played the game, though his dad picked it up, and the two go out for rounds together whenever Grube is home for a visit.

Grube found his way to Stevenson via a round-about way. His older sister attended a prep school in Connecticut, and Grube decided he wanted to go to one, too.

"But I also wanted to play golf, and Stevenson was a perfect fit," Grube said. His mom was familiar with the Pebble Beach high school because a former boyfriend had attended the school years ago, so he applied.

The 14-year-old freshman soon joined the golf team.

"I got to play Spyglass, which is one of the country's greatest courses, every day," he recalled.

He also looked up to his teammates and learned a lot from their skills and discipline on the golf course.

"I wasn't really that good," he said. "I was playing with these guys every day, and they were beating me. I watched how hard they practiced, and that's what I wanted to do."

Grube played all four years at Stevenson, graduated in 2004 and headed to Stanford, where he majored in American studies — a combination of history and political science — and played golf.

"It was a similar type of experience to Stevenson in that it was perfect for me: I got a really good education in a great place, and the golf team was fantastic," he said. "It made me a better player, and I loved going to Stanford."

He performed well there as a four-time All-American and Pac 10 Player of the Year. In a tournament against the University of Hawaii, Grube shot a career-low 64 in the final round, tying for the fourth best round in Stanford history. He hit that low again during the 2007 NCAA Championships, netting Stanford the title and third place for himself. Last year, while he was team captain, Stanford missed the title by a one-stroke loss to UCLA.

Grube graduated in June and immediately embarked on his professional golfing career, competing in three Nationwide Tour tournaments and one PGA Tour event, the Reno Tahoe Open, where he finished 14th.

In an attempt to get a regular spot on the PGA Tour, Grube competed in Qualifying School but didn't make it to the final stage.

"No one said it was going to be easy," he commented.

He's eager to return to familiar ground and is excited to be competing in his first AT&T Pebble Beach National Pro-Am, in which he, like Clampett, was invited to compete without having to qualify.

"To get to play in a PGA Tour event is a great opportunity, and I'm really excited about it," he said.

While he played Spyglass almost daily during his high-school years, Grube also took his game to Poppy Hills and Pebble Beach Golf Links five times a year.

"Those courses were such a big part of why I became a professional golfer," said Grube, who plans to make time to hook up with his Stevenson coach, see some friends and chat with former teachers while in town.

But "it's business first" when it comes to the reason for his Peninsula reunion, and he's not willing to envision anything other than the best possible finish.

"You have to try to win it," he said.

Star gazing —

Your guide to the Pro-Am's musicians, movie stars and athletes

THE ECONOMY may be holding ticket sales down, and rain in the forecast will probably keep some of the usual mob away from this year's AT&T Pebble Beach National Pro-Am. But smaller crowds mean better access to the PGA pros and celebrities who make the tournament so popular. With that in mind, here are mini-bios for the stars who will be playing at Pebble Beach, Spyglass and Poppy Hills. For tee times and locations, check the pairings on page 20 ATT. And get your autograph books ready!

■ Rubens Barrichello, Jr.

One of the world's most successful Formula One drivers, Rubens Barrichello was suddenly left without a team when, due to the economic downturn, Honda announced in December it would no longer participate in Formula One racing.

But after such a stellar career, it seems likely Barrichello will be driving in 2009 for somebody else.

He began his career as a race car driver when he wasn't old enough to have a driver's license, winning five karting titles in Brazil before going to Europe where, in his first year, he won a championship. Barrichello was then invited to join the Jordan Formula One team in 1993, when he was just 21 years old. Before moving to Honda, Barrichello raced for Ferrari from 2000 to 2005. He has raced on the Formula One circuit 271 times, with nine wins, achieving the seventh-highest lifetime points total.

■ Chris Berman

Perhaps the nation's most colorful sportscaster, Chris Berman was hired by ESPN one month after its inception in 1979. Six times selected National Sportscaster of the Year by the Sportscasters and Sportswriters Association, Berman has also won nine Emmy Awards. This year was his 23rd as host of the ESPN Sunday NFL studio show, and he also took on a studio role for Monday Night Football when it moved to ESPN three years ago, following the acquisition of ESPN by ABC in 1984, which was subsequently purchased by Disney in 1995. Berman is also proud of his role covering the U.S. Open golf championship, which he has done since 1986. But his greatest fame probably came from his years anchoring Sportscenter (one of his co-anchors was former Carmel resident Craig Kilborn), where his colorful nicknames for famous athletes became part of the national sports lore: Roberto "Remember the" Alomar, Bert "Be Home" Blyleven, Jim "Two Silhouettes On" Deshaies, Fred "Crime Dog" McGriff, Andre "Bad Moon" Rison, Curtis "My Favorite" Martin, Steve "I've Got You Babe" Bono and Chris Fuamatu "Bad" Ma'afala, etc.

■ Michael Bolton

One of the world's top-selling vocalists and songwriters, Bolton grew up idolizing such pioneers of R&B as Ray Charles, Otis Redding and Marvin Gaye. Blessed with an incomparable voice, Bolton has sold more than 45 million albums during his career. Bolton has won two Grammys for Best Male Vocalist, six American Music Awards, and had a string of No. 1 hits (including more than 100 songs he has written for other world-renowned artists).

Bolton started his career as a heavy metal singer with the band, Blackjack, which toured with Ozzy Osbourne. Later, he wrote, "How Am I Supposed to Live Without You," which Laura Branigan turned into a hit. His latest CD is "Bolton Sings Sinatra."

■ Brandi Chastain

Her autobiography, "It's Not About the Bra," evokes one of the most famous moments in American sports history, when Brandy Chastain celebrated a winning penalty kick in the 1999 Women's World Cup final by stripping off her shirt during a midfield celebration, later describing it as, "momentary insanity, nothing more, nothing less."

She was on the U.S. women's national soccer team from 1991 to 2004 and the San Jose CyberRays

The AT&T Pebble Beach National Pro-Am always attracts an eclectic and unique group of celebrities. Among those playing in the tournament this year are (clockwise, from lower left), singer Michael Bolton, race car driver Rubens Barrichello, Jr. (also pictured at top on the track in a Formula One racer), comedian George Lopez, saxophonist Kenny G and major league baseball player Ken Griffey, Jr.

■ Eric Close

Star of "Without a Trace," (CBS, Tuesdays at 10 p.m.), where he plays an FBI agent who specializes in missing-person cases, Eric Close has starred in the series "Now & Again" and "The Magnificent Seven" as well as "Dark Skies" and "McKenna." His other television credits include appearances in the series "Sisters" and "Santa Barbara." He also starred in the Hallmark Hall of Fame presentation "Follow the Stars Home" on CBS and the 20-hour, 10-part mini-series "Taken," which was executive-produced by Steven Spielberg and received a Golden Globe nomination. His feature film credits include "Liberty, Maine," "The Sky Is Falling," "Alvarez and Cruz," "American Me" and "Safe House." Close was born in Staten Island, New York, and lives in Los Angeles with his wife and two daughters.

■ Carson Daly

Winner of a golf scholarship to Loyola Marymount University and a one-time caddy for O.J. Simpson, Daly gained fame as host of the MTV show, "Total Request Live," and now has his own late-night talk show on NBC, "Last Call With Carson Daly," which follows Jay Leno and Conan O'Brien.

Clint Eastwood (left) won't be playing in the tournament this year, but as Chairman of the foundation that sponsors the tournament, he'll certainly be seen around the courses and clubhouses. He also appeared in "Hitch," with Will Smith and Kevin James, and in "Come Early Morning," with Ashley Judd. On television, he had a supporting role in "Crossing Jordan," and currently stars in "Burn Notice" on USA Networks.

■ Tom Dreesen

A comedian who has played Vegas, Reno and Atlantic City with the likes of Liza Minelli and Sammy Davis, Jr., and who spent a decade as Frank Sinatra's opening act, has also appeared in many network television shows including more than 50 appearances on the "Tonight Show" and guest roles on TV shows such as "Columbo," "Gabriel's Fire," "Murder She Wrote" and "Touched By An Angel." He launched his career in comedy by touring with Tim Reid, and to show his versatility, he once recorded a comedy album, "That White Boy's Crazy," before an all black audience. Last year, Dreesen and Reid published a book about their early days on the road together: "Tim and Tom: An American Comedy in Black and White."

■ Clint Eastwood

Mayor of Carmel-by-the-Sea from 1986 to 1988 and supporter of numerous local charitable and conservation causes, the indefatigable Eastwood is a familiar face on the Monterey Peninsula. Winner of Best Director and Best Actor Oscars for "Unforgiven" (1992), and Best Actor and Best Picture Oscars for "Million Dollar Baby" (2004), Eastwood has appeared in, produced and/or directed more than 50 motion pictures, beginning with “Revenge of the Creature” in 1955. His latest movie, “Gran Torino,” in which he plays a disgruntled former auto worker who doesn’t like what’s happening to his neighborhood, is an international hit and has grossed more than $120 million. Last year, he also released, “Changeling,” starring Angelina Jolie, for which she earned a Best Actress nomination. In 2000, he was honored by President Bill Clinton with the Kennedy Center Medal for his lifetime achievements in the arts. Eastwood, a co-owner of the Pebble Beach Company, is chairman of the board of the Monterey Peninsula Foundation, the charity group that hosts the AT&T Pro-Am. He lives in Pebble Beach with his wife, Dina Ruiz Eastwood, and their daughter, Morgan.

■ Andy Garcia

Born in Cuba in 1956, Garcia’s family fled to Miami Beach after Castro came to power. He studied acting in Florida before heading to Los Angeles, where his first role was as a gang member on the first episode of “Hill Street Blues.” Garcia later starred in “The Untouchables,” “The Godfather, Part III,” “Desperate Measures” and “Ocean’s Eleven” and its sequels.

■ Kenny G

Legendary saxophonist and the best-selling instrumentalist/musician in the world, Kenny G has been a constant presence on the Billboard charts for more than 15 years. His career as a saxophonist began at 17 when he backed up Barry White in a concert in Seattle, Kenny G’s home town. When he signed his first recording contract in 1982, a new era in instrumental music was born.

He is a frequent participant in the AT&T Pebble Beach National Pro-Am, having loved golf since he played for his high school team.

stage. His film career began with the 1992 Ron Howard film, "Far and Away." He also appeared on television in "The Kennedys of Massachusetts," "Tales of the City," and "A Will of Their Own."

■ Pat Green

Born in San Antonio, Pat Green started his music career at the age of 18 playing at bars and small clubs in Texas, but he didn't make a full-time commitment to the profession until he lost his job as a fuel wholesaler! Before too long, Green caught the ear of Willie Nelson and began touring with him and other famous country musicians. He was soon playing sold out shows in Texas and sold more than 250,000 albums before signing a recording contract.

Green released his first book, "Pat Green's Dance Halls & Dreamers," in February 2008. It contains more than 200 photographs of dance halls Green has frequented throughout his career.

Once known as the pinnacle of "Texas Country" music with songs like "I Like Texas" and "Southbound 35," Green is now striving for pop country stardom.

Last year, Green released the single, "Let Me," from his latest CD, "What I'm For."

■ Ken Griffey, Jr.

A free agent (for now) and hoping to sign with a club for the 2009 season, Griffey is one of the most prolific home run hitters in baseball history, currently fifth on the list of most career home runs (611), and is tied for the record of most consecutive games with a home run (8). Griffey played for the Seattle Mariners, Cincinnati Reds, and Chicago White Sox.

Son of famed outfielder Ken Griffey, Sr., Griffey was inside of the clubhouse during his father's back-to-back-championships in the 1975-1976 World Series.

■ Kevin James

With his new hit movie, "Paul Blart, Mall Cop," still drawing crowds, comedian Kevin James has moved solidly from his days as Doug Heffernan, the hardworking parcel delivery man on the prime-time CBS comedy "The King of Queens," which ran from 1998 to 2007. He began his career doing standup comedy, gaining popularity through numerous appearances on various talk shows, including the Tonight Show with Jay Leno, the Late Show with David Letterman, Dennis Miller Live, and The Late Late Show. His big break came at the 1996 Montreal Comedy Festival and James was then cast in a recurring role in the comedy series "Everybody Loves Raymond," starring his best friend, Ray Romano, which led to the development of "The King of Queens."

■ Greg Kinnear

You may remember him as the beleaguered father in "Little Miss Sunshine," or as the frustrated inventor of the intermittent windshield wiper in "Flash of Genius." But Greg Kinnear first rose to stardom as the host of E!'s Talk Soup. In 1994, he moved to NBC, where he hosted a late-night talk show. From there, it wasn't far to the silver screen, where Kinnear landed roles in "Sabrina," "As Good as It Gets," and "You've Got Mail." In 2002, Kinnear starred in the movie, "Auto Focus," and later he also appeared in "Fast Food Nation," playing a fast food executive who discovers secrets about his company.

■ Steve Kroft

Now the lead correspondent on the CBS News program, "60 Minutes," Steve Kroft has also emerged as one of the nation's leading political reporters after scoring several exclusive interviews with President Barack Obama during the 2008 election campaign, including the first interview after the election. His investigative reporting has garnered him much acclaim, including three Peabody Awards and nine Emmy awards, one of which was an Emmy for Lifetime Achievement.

After graduating from Syracuse University, Kroft was drafted into the United States Army and served in the Vietnam War. He was assigned to the 25th Infantry Division in Cu Chi, where he was a reporter for the Armed Forces Network; he covered the Division's participation in the invasion of Cambodia and won several Army journalism awards for his work and a Bronze Star for Meritorious Achievement. Shortly after receiving an honorable discharge from the army in 1971, he began his broadcast journalism career, working as a reporter in Syracuse, N.Y., Jacksonville, Fla., and Miami. Kroft joined CBS News in 1980 as a reporter, assigning him to bureaus in New York, Miami and London. In 1986, CBS News brought Kroft back to the United States to become a principal correspondent on a new magazine show called West 57th. He stayed in that position until the program was canceled in the spring of 1989.

That September, Kroft joined 60 Minutes. After allegations of infidelity surfaced in the 1992 presidential election, then-Governor Bill Clinton and his wife, Hillary, gave an exclusive interview to Kroft. The interview was one of the defining moments in the election.

■ Huey Lewis

A native of New York, Lewis created his breakthrough group, Huey Lewis and the News, in Marin County in 1980. Their first album produced a top-10 hit, "Do You Believe in Love?" and was followed by five other top-20 recordings. Lewis also recorded the theme song, "The Power of Love," for the movie "Back to the Future."

In 2006, the versatile Lewis took on a starring role in the Broadway musical, "Chicago."

■ George Lopez

A Pebble Beach resident and a fan favorite for his friendliness and approachability, the multitasking George Lopez was the star, writer and producer of the ABC sitcom, "George Lopez," which ran from 2002 to 2007 and was a hit with critics and viewers. He also provided the voice for the lead character in the Disney film, "Beverly Hills Chihuahua." Lopez has enjoyed a long career on stage, film and television.

■ Peyton Manning

Long regarded as one of the NFL's most proficient quarterbacks, Manning was drafted by the Indianapolis Colts as the first overall pick in 1998 after a standout college football career with the Tennessee Volunteers. The son of former NFL quarterback Archie Manning, he is also the older brother of current New York Giants quarterback Eli Manning. In 2007, Peyton Manning was the winning quarterback in Super Bowl XLI, when the Colts beat the Chicago Bears, 29-17.

Manning holds NFL records for consecutive seasons with more than 4,000 yards passing and the most total seasons with 4,000 or more yards passing in a career. Among active NFL QB's, Manning has the highest career passer rating, his 94.8 rating ranking second all-time. Having become the NFL's most marketable player, Manning has appeared in numerous commercials, was featured on the covers of the NFL Fever games for the Xbox, and hosted an episode of Saturday Night Live.

■ Dan Marino

He never won a Super Bowl, but Dan Marino is in the NFL Hall of Fame for his illustrious career with the Miami Dolphins and holds or has held almost every major NFL passing record. Remembered particularly for having a quick release and a powerful arm, Marino drove the Dolphins into the playoffs on numerous occasions.

Marino was selected to play in nine Pro Bowls and was named All-Pro eight times. In 1999, Marino was ranked number 27 on The Sporting News' list of the 100 Greatest Football Players.

■ Bill Murray

A favorite at the AT&T Pro-Am, Murray is one of America's unique talents. Born in 1950 in Wilmette, Ill., Murray first moved to the nation's center stage when he joined the cast of Saturday Night Live in 1977. While still with SNL, Murray made his first hit film, "Meatballs." Soon after, he was transformed into Carl Speckler, assistant greenskeeper, in the classic golf comedy, "Caddyshack." That film was directed by Harold Ramis, who starred with Murray in "Ghostbusters" (1984) and directed him again in "Groundhog Day" (1993). He has also been praised for his recent dramatic roles in films such as, "Lost in Translation," "The Life Aquatic with Steve Zissou," and "Broken Flowers."

■ Chris O'Donnell

A native of Winnetka, Ill., O'Donnell is best known for his portrayal of Robin in "Batman Forever" and "Batman and Robin," and for "Scent of a Woman," which earned him a Best Supporting Actor Oscar nomination. He also got highly favorable reviews for "The Three Musketeers" in 1993.

More recently, he was cast in the lead role in a short-lived Fox series, "Head Cases," and later portrayed a veterinarian in the ABC drama, "Gray's Anatomy."

■ Stone Phillips

Longtime host of Dateline NBC and frequent fill-in anchor for NBC Nightly News and Today, Stone Phillips and his wife, Debra, recently bought a home in Carmel Valley. At Yale, from which he graduated with a degree in philosophy, Phillips was starting quarterback for the football team. On October 17, 2005, he was a guest on the premiere episode of "The Colbert Report."

■ Rick Reilly

Long known as the "back page" columnist for Sports Illustrated, Rick Reilly made headlines in 2007 when he jumped to ESPN in 2007. Reilly often pokes fun at the absurdities of athletics, but he also tackles serious topics, especially steroid use in professional sports. He is also the co-writer of the movie, "Leatherheads," a film starring and directed by George Clooney

■ Kenny Roberts, Sr.

One of the greatest motorcycle racers, Kenny Roberts, Sr., won two AMA Grand National Championships, three 500cc World Championships, along with three victories at the Daytona 200. He is also the father of 2000 500cc World Champion, Kenny Roberts, Jr.

■ Ray Romano

Star of the CBS Monday night comedy, "Everybody Loves Raymond," which ran from 1996 to 2005, Romano was expert at portraying a man who is clueless about relationships. More recently, he provided his acting talents to the Disney movies, "Ice Age," and "Ice Age 3: Dawn of the Dinosaurs." His older brother, Richard Romano, is a sergeant with the New York Police Department.

■ Kelly Slater

Known for his competitive prowess and inspirational style, Kelly Slater is widely regarded as the greatest professional surfer in the history of the sport.

Slater was crowned ASP World Champion a record 9 times, including 5 consecutive titles from 1994-98. He was also the youngest (at age 20) and the oldest (at age 36) to win the title. Upon winning his 5th world title in 1997, Slater passed Australian surfing legend Mark Richards to become the most successful champion in the history of the sport.

■ Lynn Swann

A Pro Football Hall of Fame member and former wide receiver, Swann played for the Pittsburgh Steelers from 1974 to 1982 — a span during which the Steelers won six straight AFC titles and four Super Bowls. In his career, Swann had 336 receptions for 5,462 yards and 51 touchdowns.

■ Justin Timberlake

Amid all the chaos and controversy that the pop music business can generate, Justin Timberlake just keeps producing hit records. He has also won six Grammy Awards as well as an Emmy Award.

Timberlake came to fame as one of the lead singers of 'N Sync. In 2002, he released his debut solo album, "Justified," which sold more than 7 million copies. Timberlake's second solo release, "FutureSex/LoveSounds," was released in 2006 with the number-one hit singles "SexyBack," "My Love," and "What Goes Around.../...Comes Around." The album has sold more than 9 million copies. His other ventures include record label Tennman Records, fashion label William Rast, and the restaurants Destino and Southern Hospitality.

■ Clay Walker

Singer/guitarist and one of the U.S.A.'s biggest Country and Western stars, Walker began performing professionally at 16 in his native Beaumont, Texas. In the fall of 1993 his first single, "What's It To You," went straight to number one on the charts. His biggest selling albums are "Say No More" and "Live Laugh Love." Walker is considered a modest individual and says he sees himself in the face of each and every fan. "When we make records," he says, "it's final. The records will always be the same, but it's the fans who give life to the music. On stage, you know immediately if you are really reaching people."

■ Patrick Warburton

One of the stars of the CBS comedy, "Rules of Engagement," Patrick Warburton is known for his uniquely deep voice. He played David Puddy on "Seinfeld," and has appeared in "The Bee Movie," and "The Emperor's New Groove."

HISTORY OF THE PRO-AM

63 years of the greatest golfers and the biggest thrills

PINE CONE STAFF REPORT

IN 1937, Bing Crosby invited a group of friends to get together for a round of golf and a “clam-bake” at Rancho Santa Fe in Southern California. That gathering of Hollywood celebrities and golf greats gave birth to the first National Pro-Amateur Golf Championship, sponsored by Bing Crosby, with Sam Snead taking the top prize of $500.

For five years, the tournament was played at Rancho Santa Fe before being discontinued during the war years. Meanwhile, 1946 was shaping up to be a bleak year for the Monterey Peninsula. Postwar Monterey was frantically scraping for income, the chief source having been packed into sardine tins for just about the last time. Cannery Row was heading into a long decline, Carmel wasn't a worldwide tourist attraction, Pebble Beach had yet to classified the finest course in the world, and nobody had heard of a young, would-be actor named Clint Eastwood.

At this time, a young newspaper reporter, Ted Durein, came up with the idea of attracting more tourists by bringing a major special event to the area. A good sporting event, once a year, perhaps garnished with celebrities, could anchor a drifting economy. Slowly an idea began to take shape, along with a worldwide household name: Crosby.

Durein solicited local merchants to see if they would pool money for a tournament purse — they would. Bravely, Durein wrote to Bing Crosby himself with the idea. That was in January of 1946. February and March passed. Nothing. April, May, still nothing. Then, in June, a letter from Bing's brother, Larry, arrived. Yes, Bing was interested. What's the offer? Durein didn't have one.

The deal is struck

He quickly rushed to see if Samuel F.B. Morse (president of Del Monte Properties, now known as Pebble Beach Company) would let the Pebble Beach golf course host the Crosby. Morse agreed. Ted met with Larry Crosby and the deal was struck.

Bing then decided he wanted the tournament spread out over three courses: Pebble Beach, Cypress Point and the Monterey Peninsula Country Club's Dunes Course. The PGA Tour, the controlling body of the professional golfers' tournament, said this was unprecedented. Bing asked, “Why not? It's done in England.” The PGA Tour consented and the Crosby Pro-Am broke new ground in American golf and was played for the first time on the Monterey Peninsula in January 1947.

Since then, the annual tournament at Pebble Beach has been a staple of the PGA Tour calendar. The tournament purse has increased from $500 for first prize in 1937 to a first prize of $900,000 in 2004. The monies for charity each year have continued to set new records as well, with total contributions hitting $46 million.

Bing Crosby died in 1977. His wife and children continued to host the Crosby Pro-Am until 1986, when AT&T took over sponsorship of the event. Since 1991, the event has been played at Pebble Beach, Poppy Hills and Spyglass. Over the last 20 years, the event has provided some of the most dramatic moments in golf, including Hale Irwin's fantastically lucky tee shot in 1984, and Tiger Woods' amazing comeback in 2000.

It has also endured some of the worst weather ever for a major sporting event. Twice, after particularly cold and rainy spells, tournament organizers have talked about moving the Pro-Am to a different time of year. And on one occasion, when the hardy golfers refused to surrender to gale force winds and near-freezing temperatures, Crosby reminded everyone that, “We must not forget the players — those dauntless athletes, professionals and amateurs alike — who are willing to pit their skills, and in some instances their survival, against these challenging links in conditions which sometimes defy description.”

But most years there have been glorious, only-in-California conditions for the Pebble Beach Pro-Am. And the memories have been golden, too.

Winner: Jack Nicklaus
66-74-71-73 (284)

A 25-foot birdie putt on the first hole of a sudden-death playoff gave Jack Nicklaus the Crosby title and a $28,000 first-place check. He beat Johnny Miller after both had poor rounds on the final day — hitting bad tee shots and missing short putts all over the course. Miller even hit a ball into the ocean on 10. Nicklaus, who three-putted on 17 to set up the playoff, earned his fifth tour victory in six events. Lee Trevino took third place, as well as the Pro-Am title with partner Don Schwab.

According to a newspaper account, Clint Eastwood, then at the height of his “Dirty Harry” fame, playing in his seventh Crosby, missed the cut and spent Sunday watching the Super Bowl (Dallas 24, Miami 3) and playing tennis.

Winner: Jack Nicklaus
71-69-71-71 (282)

Despite back-to-back bogies on 7 and 8 at Pebble during the final round, Jack Nicklaus won the tournament for the second straight year in a sudden-death playoff — and again with a birdie putt on the first sudden-death hole, 15. Robert Moody appeared to have the tournament won in regulation, but missed an easy two-and-a-half-foot putt on 18 that knocked him back into a tie with Nicklaus and Ray Floyd. “I missed a $20,000 putt,” Moody said. Not only that, he shot 76 on the final round, while Nicklaus and Floyd both shot 71. Instead of the top prize of $36,000, Moody had to settle for second place money, $16,650. Lanny Wadkins and Bill Satterfield won the Pro-Am title.

1974

Winner: Johnny Miller
68-70-70 (208)

After six straight days of rain, sleet and hail, and with Pebble Beach looking more like ocean than land, the final round of the Crosby had to be canceled after being delayed from Sunday to Monday (Jan. 8). With everyone in a miserable mood, tournament officials threatened not to hold the event again unless it could be moved later in the year. “If we don't get the third or fourth weekend in January next year, I'd say there won't be a tournament,” said chairman Don Searle. Originally, the 1974 tournament was scheduled for Feb. 14-17, but Crosby officials and local business people were unhappy with the prospect of playing over Washington's birthday weekend, when tourists would flock to the Monterey Peninsula anyway. So they negotiated a date switch with the Glen Campbell Los Angeles Open, but that still left everybody unhappy. After Sunday's round was postponed, defending champion Jack Nicklaus withdrew. He was suffering in the wet weather from back pain and had fallen 10 strokes behind leader Johnny Miller. When Monday's round was canceled, Miller got a reduced winner's check of $27,500. But he also received a check for $2,250 for winning the Pro-Am side, with partner Locke de Bretteville.

Winner: Gene Littler
68-71-68-73 (280)

A former amateur boxing champ and winner of the 1961 U.S. Open, 44-year-old Gene Littler dented the aura of invincibility that had surrounded youthful Johnny Miller during the first two weeks of the 1975 PGA Tour. A final round of 73 gave him a total of 280, enough for a four-stroke victory over Hubert Green. Miller double-bogeyed 15 on the final round, played in frigid temperatures and gale force winds, and finished with 289, along with Jack Nicklaus. Tom Watson shot 81 on the final day, including two triple bogeys. Littler's winning purse was $37,000 and it came after 20 years of playing the Crosby, with his previous best finish having been second in 1959. Pro-Am winners were Bruce Devlin and former NFL quarterback Jacky Lee. The tournament was boycotted by Lee Trevino, who said he didn't like playing in the rain on the Monterey Peninsula. Perhaps because of his comment, it didn't rain a bit.

Winner: Ben Crenshaw
75-67-70-69 (281)

The 35th Bing Crosby Pro-Am featured a rare meltdown by Jack Nicklaus, who shot 45 in warm sunshine on the back nine at Pebble Beach in the final round, including a double bogey and two triple bogeys, clearing the way for 24-year-old Ben Crenshaw to claim the $37,000 first prize.

With a record crowd on hand, Nicklaus led the field going into Sunday's play, but ended up tied for 18th place. Already out of the big money and in a hurry to catch a flight to Japan, Nicklaus tried to get to the 18th green in two, but pulled his wood shot into Carmel Bay and finished, in front of a national TV audience, with a triple-bogey eight. Johnny Miller, suffering through two rounds with the flu, tied with Nicklaus at 291. Pro-Am winners were Hale Irwin and Pebble Beach resident Darius Keaton, who was then chairman of Charter Oil Company.

Winner: Tom Watson
66-69-67-71 (276)

Tom Watson picked up the first prize of $40,000 with a dramatic one-stroke victory that included rounds of 66 at Pebble Beach on Thursday, 69 at Cypress Point on Friday, 67 at MPCC's Shore Course on Saturday and a 71 in the final round at Pebble on Sunday, breaking the tournament record, set by Billy Casper in 1958, by four strokes. Saturday's gallery of 28,000 was also a then-record — helped by sunny skies and mild temperatures. Former President Gerald Ford, playing in the Pro-Am for the first time, had a birdie on 14 at Pebble Beach on Friday. Leonard Thompson and Jim Vickers, an oil man from Wichita, won the Pro-Am side.

1978

Winner: Tom Watson
66-74-71-69 (280)

Becoming the fourth man to win back-to-back Crosbys, Tom Watson beat Ben Crenshaw on the second hole of sudden death on the final day of play, which was pushed back to Monday by rain. Shooting a torrid six-under-par 30 on the front nine at Pebble on the final day, Watson finished with a 69, bringing him into an unexpected tie with Crenshaw, who shot a seemingly unbeatable 67. Watson's first-place finish was worth $45,000. Pro Gibby Gilber and Richard Gelb, chairman of the board of Bristol-Myers, won the Pro-Am team title.

1979

Winner: Lon Hinkle
70-68-69-77 (284)

After Andy Bean missed a 20-foot putt on 18, a three-way tie forced a playoff between Bean and fellow PGA youngsters Mark Hayes and Lon Hinkle — a playoff ultimately decided in Hinkle's favor when he sank a 12-foot birdie putt on 17. The winner's purse was $54,000. Hinkle's dramatic finish wasn't seen by TV viewers, however, when CBS decided to end its coverage after 72 holes in favor of “60 Minutes” and “Rocky.” Jack Nicklaus missed the Crosby in 1979 for the first time in his career, and Hale Irwin broke his string of making the cut in 87 straight tournaments. Pro-Am winners were Bean and Florida real estate developer Bill Bunting.

George Burns III
71-69-71-69 (280)

Under crystal-clear skies, a record gallery of more than 10,000 watched Sunday's final round of the Crosby, when George Burns overcame a big lead by Jack Nicklaus to win. Nicklaus was at one point 10 under (including a 5-under performance on the first six holes Sunday) but faded on the back nine. Burns, meanwhile, was steadily making difficult putts, including a monster 40-footer on 16. "It surprised the hell out of me," said Burns who, at 30, had won almost $500,000 in five years on the PGA Tour without a victory. He added another $54,000 with his win at Pebble Beach. Pro-Am winners were George Cadle and Whizzer Farish of Pebble Beach, a pilot for Pan-Am playing in his 22nd Crosby.

1981
Winner: John Cook
66-71-72 (209)

A dramatic five-way playoff, the first-ever on the PGA Tour, ended in a stunning victory for unknown pro John Cook over 20-year-old Bobby Clampett, Hale Irwin, Ben Crenshaw and Barney Thompson. Cook won by making par on the third playoff hole after lapses by his opponents (including a bogey by Irwin) left the door wide open. Rain delayed the start of the Crosby to Saturday, and icy winds made things miserable throughout the weekend. Nevertheless, record crowds turned out to watch the tournament, which was shortened to 54 holes and ended on Monday. Clampett, who lived in Carmel Valley, missed the victory when he couldn't sink a three-foot par putt on his final hole at Cypress. Cook's winning purse was $40,500 (reduced by 25 percent because the tournament was shortened). Pro-Am winners were again George Cadle and Whizzer Farish — the first and only Pro-Am team to repeat. Farish, who grew up on the Peninsula, said of the three Crosby courses, "I've played them a thousand times — each."

1982
Winner: Jim Simons
71-66-71-66 (274)

Blowing a five-stroke lead with 10 holes to play — and foreshadowing the 2000 AT&T Pro-Am when Tiger Woods overcame an even bigger deficit — Craig Stadler let Jim Simons win the 1982 Crosby and its first prize of $54,000. But Simons was no patsy; his final round of 66 was one of the finest finishes to date in the tournament, and he set a Crosby record with his total of 274, 14 under par. The great Jack Nicklaus might have won, but ended up in a five-way tie for third (with Johnny Miller and three others) after missing several key putts.

Winner: Tom Kite
69-72-62-73 (276)

It rained all day during Sunday's final round, but play continued anyway as Tom Kite took the tournament despite a final round of 73. Saturday, when Kite also played Pebble, he set a course record of 62. The $58,500 first prize was Kite's fifth PGA crown in 12 years. Despite four birdies on the back nine, Jack Nicklaus finished in sixth place — which earned him $11,700 and made him the first golf pro to earn more than $4 million in a career. Cal Peete was in second place, two strokes back. The Pro-Am winners were Gilder and Clark.

1984
Winner: Hale Irwin
69-69-68-72 (278)

With the most improbable shot in Pebble Beach history, Hale Irwin captured the 1984 Crosby title and the $72,000 check that came with it. Even Tiger Woods couldn't hope to pull off the shot Irwin made on 18 at Pebble during the final round Sunday. Irwin's tee shot was headed out into Stillwater Cove when the ball improbably caromed off a rock and bounced back onto the fairway. "The entire tournament evolved around that tremendous break I had on 18," Irwin said. Mark O'Meara, with two eagles on the front nine, nearly caught Irwin. Even after Irwin birdied 18, Jim Nelford did catch him, forcing a playoff. But on the second playoff hole — 16 — Irwin made a tremendous second shot from a bunker 200 yards onto the green and just nine feet from the cup. When Nelford missed his birdie putt on the hole, Irwin calmly nailed his tournament-winning shot. O'Meara, paired with J.P. Diesel of Houston, won the Pro-Am team crown.

Winner: Mark O'Meara
70-72-68-73 (273)

The final year of the Crosby saw the tournament begin under frosty skies with winds at 35 mph. But in the end, Mark O'Meara warmed up the crowd with clutch putting that, despite a final round of 73, gave him the $90,000 first place check and a then-record 72-hole low Pebble Beach Pro-Am score of 273. Larry Rinker, Kikou Arai and Curtis Strange were all just one shot behind. Playing in the final group, O'Meara missed a birdie putt on 18, but so did Strange, ending any chance of a playoff. Dean Spanos, who lived in Stockton and was part-owner of the San Diego Chargers, and pro partner Hubert Green captured the Pro-Am crown.

1986
Winner: Fuzzy Zoeller
69-66-70 (205)

The first year with its new corporate sponsor was nearly a washout for the AT&T Pebble Beach Pro-Am. Friday's round was canceled after heavy morning rains drenched the three courses. And so was the rescheduled final round on Monday, leaving Fuzzy Zoeller the winner of the $108,000 first prize after just 54 holes. Crowds were sparse, but the tournament still generated a hefty sum for charity, with AT&T contributing $750,000 in its first year backing the tournament. Zoeller, who was on Pebble Monday before play was suspended, called the weather, "The worst conditions I've ever played under." He was also winner of the Pro-Am team title, partnered with Coral de Tierra golfer Mike Evans.

1987
Winner: Johnny Miller
72-72-68-66 (278)

Taking advantage of a bogey on 17 by third-round leader Payne Stewart, Johnny Miller won the Pebble Beach Pro-Am for the second time. On a perfect Sunday at Pebble Beach, he shot a six-under 66, including seven birdies, for the $108,000 first prize. "I can't believe I won," Miller was overheard to say to his caddy as the day wrapped up. Stewart finished just one stroke back. This was Miller's 19th appearance at the tournament he continued to call The Crosby. In 1968, he launched his career with a victory at the California State Amateur, also at Pebble Beach, which he often referred to as his home course. And Miller wasn't through. He came back and won the Pro-Am again in 1994. The team victory in 1987 went to Fred Couples and baseball great George Brett, who capped the title with a three-inch putt on 18.

Winner: Steve Jones
72-64-70-74 (280)

With an 18-foot birdie putt on the second hole of a sudden-death playoff, Steve Jones capped a dramatic victory at Pebble Beach over a field that included five or six players with a shot at the title. Jones, a relative unknown, triumphed over 1988's top players, including Bob Tway, Greg Norman and Craig Stadler. Jones had a three-stroke lead as Sunday's round began, but bogeys on 15 and 17 opened the door for Tway, who tied the leader with a birdie on 18. But in the playoff, it was Jones who out-putted the veteran for a $126,000 first-place check. The Pro-Am winners were Dan Pohl and Miami Dolphins quarterback Dan Marino.

Winner; Mark O'Meara
66-68-73-70 (277)

With a dramatic 10-foot birdie putt on 18, Mark O'Meara edged out Tom Kite — who missed his chance for a tie on 18 when his 15-foot putt for birdie fell short — for the 1989 first prize of $180,000. "I knew that whoever birdied 18 would win," Kite said. He finished just one stroke back. After the match, O'Meara sharply criticized the slow play during the tournament, saying it took his group three hours to finish the first nine holes during the final round. Pro-Am winners were Steve Jones and Carmel Valley doctor Jim Rheim, who birdied 18 with a 9-foot putt.

1990
Winner: Mark O'Meara
67-73-69-72 (281)

Winning for the second year in a row, Mark O'Meara became the first player to win back-to-back titles since Tom Watson in 1977 and 1978. Nicklaus also won consecutive titles; Cory Middlecoff was the first to do it back in '55 and '56. O'Meara won the $180,000 first prize with a final round of 72 at a windy Pebble Beach. No one has done it since. Kenny Perry finished in second place, two strokes back. Payne Stewart seemed like the favorite to win until he bogeyed 12, 14, 16 and 18. Four groups had to finish their third round Sunday morning, after high winds at Cypress curtailed play on Saturday. Dean Spanos, co-owner of the San Diego Chargers, teamed with Hubert Green for the Pro-Am team title.

1991
Winner: Paul Azinger
67-67-73-67 (274)

After being frustrated with his play at Pebble Beach year after year, Azinger stormed to a final round score of 67 to take the tournament from gallery favorite Rocco Mediate. "Every year when I leave here, I say I'm not coming back," Azinger joked after taking the $198,000 first prize. Before the 1991 Pro-Am, Azinger said he'd never shot better than a 70 at Pebble. On his way to the victory, he birdied 13 and 17, while Mediate was blowing his once-substantial tournament lead with a final round of 74. The Pro-Am team title went to John Cook and soap opera star Jack Wagner.

1991 was also the first year Poppy Hills was part of the Pro-Am play; it replaced Cypress Point golf club after PGA officials raised concerns about the club's exclusive membership policies.

1992
Winner: Mark O'Meara
69-68-68-70 (275)

With a dramatic 35-foot putt on 18 to force a playoff with Jeff Sluman, Mark O'Meara made perhaps his most dramatic shot in a run of three AT&T Pro-Am victories in four years. He captured the $198,000 first-place prize by sinking another great putt — from 18 feet — on the first playoff hole. The day started poorly for O'Meara, who shot 38 on the front nine. But he came storming back with a 32 on the back nine. Paul Azinger was just one back after regulation play finished, despite shooting 68 for the final round. Pro-Am winners Greg Norman and Kerry Packers set a tournament record with a 42-under total of 246.

1993
Winner: Brett Ogle
68-68-69-71 (276)

Gregarious Australian Brett Ogle captured his first PGA Tour victory at Pebble Beach with a three-shot triumph in the AT&T Pro-Am, despite four bogeys in six holes during the final round. With a steady rain falling through much of the day, Ogle birdied three of the last six holes to fend off challengers Billy Ray Brown and Greg Twigs. Ogle's first-place finish was worth $225,000. Tom Watson had the low round on the final day, with birdies on 10, 11, 18, 6, 7 and 9. Payne Stewart and Jim Morris won the Pro-Am title, after Mark McGwire knocked his team out of contention with a bogey on 18.

1994
Winner: Johnny Miller
68-72-67-74 (281)

Defying the calendar, 46-year-old Johnny Miller captured the AT&T Pro-Am, and even he had trouble believing it. "I play two tournaments a year . . . this is magic," he said. The win was Miller's third title in three different decades at the Pebble Beach charity event — he had previously won in 1974 and 1987. Jeff Maggert, Corey Pavin, Kirk Triplett and Tom Watson all finished just one stroke behind Miller, who sank a one-foot putt for par on 18 to avoid a possible five-way playoff. It rained nearly all day during the final round and, with a gale blowing from the south, Miller got to the green in two on 17 to preserve his lead while Watson was bogeying 14, 16 and 17. Miller's first-place finish was worth $225,000. Pro-Am winners were Dudley Hart and 18-year-old amateur Robert Floyd.

Winner: Peter Jacobsen
67-73-66-65 (271)

With the best final round by a winner, Peter Jacobsen captured the $252,000 winner's purse despite starting play at Pebble Beach on Sunday at three under. His total score, 271, was the lowest since Mark O'Meara's 273 in 1985, but with clean-and-place rules in effect because of a wet course, Jacobsen said his record score deserved "an asterisk." With a bit of sun finally showing through the clouds, Jacobsen birdied 18 to seal his victory. David Duval, in his first full year on the PGA Tour, finished in second place, two strokes back. Pro-Am winners were Bruce Vaughn and amateur Masahi Yamada.

HISTORY OF THE PRO-AM

some sun, no rain. But heavy rains earlier in the week, including a torrential downpour on Saturday, left the courses — especially Spyglass — in unplayable condition, forcing outright cancellation of the AT&T Pro-Am due to weather for the first, and only, time in its history. (Play was suspended from 1942 to 1946 because of WWII.) In particular, one flooded spot on 16 at Spyglass was cited by PGA officials as requiring cancellation of the event. Jeff Maggert was the leader at 136 after 54 holes; he got $5,000 in consolation money, just like all the other pros in the field.

1997

Winner: Mark O'Meara
67-67-67-67 (268)

Fighting off an amazing comeback by Tiger Woods — who was in 67th place on Friday and trailed by seven shots Sunday morning — Mark O'Meara won his fifth AT&T Pebble Beach Pro-Am by a single shot over Woods and David Duval. Woods, playing in a foursome one hole ahead of O'Meara, had six birdies in the first 12 holes but bogeyed 13. Two shots down on 18, Woods made a dramatic bid for an eagle on 18. His second shot, from 267 yards out, landed on the front of the green. But he missed a 35-foot putt and had to settle for a birdie. O'Meara's all-time low score at the event was worth $342,000. Pro-Am champs were Paul Stankowski and Andy Garcia.

Winner: Phil Mickelson
67-68-67 (202)

A torrential downpour on Sunday brought back memories of 1996, when the AT&T Pro-Am was canceled after 54 holes. But in 1998, with California again experiencing record-breaking rains, PGA officials looked for a way to squeeze in a third round at Pebble Beach sometime later in the year. First, they set the final round for March 2. Later, it was rescheduled again to Aug. 17. The winner's check was $450,000. The Pro-Am portion of the tournament was canceled.

1999

Winner: Payne Stewart
69-64-73 (206)

With weather getting seriously in the way for the fourth time in five years, the 1999 tournament was shortened to just 54 holes, just like it had been the year before. Saturday leader Payne Stewart was declared the winner of the $504,000 first prize after heavy rains Saturday night and Sunday forced cancellation of the final round. Stewart's final shot on Saturday, a tap-in birdie on 18 at Spyglass, turned out to be the winner over Frank Lickliter, just one shot back. Pro-Am winners were Lickliter and Robert MacDonnell. Later that year, Stewart won the U.S. Open at Pinehurst, S.C. He died in a plane crash Oct. 25 when carbon monoxide rendered everyone on board his chartered airplane unconscious soon after takeoff from Orlando, Fla. The plane flew on autopilot until it ran out of fuel and crashed in South Dakota, depriving Stewart of the chance to defend his U.S. Open and AT&T Pro-Am titles — both at Pebble Beach — in 2000.

2000

Winner: Tiger Woods
68-73-68-64 (273)

Leaving the crowd and the sports-writers practically speechless, Tiger Woods gave the AT&T Pro-Am a finish unlike any other. Down five shots when play began on Sunday, and even further behind — seven shots — with just seven holes to play, Woods took complete control of his game and the tournament, capping his comeback with a 97-foot wedge shot on 15 that hit just to the right of the hole, took two bounces, and landed in the cup. He nearly did the same on 16 and finished two strokes ahead of Vijay Singh and Matt Gogel to take the first prize of $720,000. The win was Woods' sixth in a row on the PGA Tour. Pro-Am champs were Skip Kendall and King City businessman David Gill. The tournament was the last Pebble Beach Pro-Am event for golf legend Jack Nicklaus.

2001

Winner: Davis Love III
71-69-69-63 (272)

Despite a seven-shot deficit when play started under sparkling, clear skies Sunday morning, Davis Love III put together an amazing round of 63, including five birdies and an eagle on the first six holes. On the front nine, he was an amazing eight under. Another birdie on 15 sealed his victory and the first-place money of $720,000. Vijay Singh finished just one stroke back; Tiger Woods was eight strokes off the lead. Pro-Am champs were Phil

Mickelson and saxophonist Kenny G.

Winner: Matt Gogel

Gogel picked up a check for $720,000 after shooting two under on the back nine during the final round. Two years earlier, Gogel had watched Tiger Woods stage an incredible comeback to take the tournament from him. This year, third-round leader Pat Perez, who was up by four strokes when play started Sunday, withered on the final day, shooting a triple-bogey on the 18th Hole, opening the door for Gogel who showed none of the nervousness of 2000. Tiger Woods shot 282, eight strokes off the lead (for the second year in a row). Pro-Am winners were Brian Claar and Randall Mays.

2003

Winner: Davis Love III
72-67-67-68 (274)

With nothing but blue skies and mild temperatures throughout the tournament, talk of “Crosby Weather” and of moving the AT&T later in the year — a common topic in the storm-tossed 1990s — was completely forgotten. And with Tiger Woods sitting out the Pro-Am after consecutive years finishing eight strokes off the lead, all the attention was on less well known, but equally formidable, PGA stars. Davis Love III salvaged a victory with a birdie on 18 on the final day — holding off Tom Lehman by a single stroke. Love’s win — his second in three years — came despite a bogey on 16 on the final round. In the group just ahead, Tom Lehman bogeyed two holes in the front nine but then shot five birdies on the back nine and seemed poised to force a playoff. A missed birdie putt from less than six feet on 18 left him in second place. Love’s win, worth $900,000, came with some extraordinary luck: His tee shot on 12 hit a photographer (not from The Pine Cone) and rolled to within easy putting distance of the pin. The Pro-Am ended in a tie, with pros Phil Taturangi and Brad Faxon and their amateur partners Chris Heatley and Thomas Ryan ending up with 31-under scores of 257. Both pairings finished with final rounds of 64. Two Pro-Am teams were disqualified during the tournament for signing incorrect scorecards.

2004

Winner: Vijay Singh
67-68-68-69

With four rounds in the 60s, Vijay Singh had little serious competition in the 2004 AT&T Pebble Beach National Pro-Am. His dominating, three-stroke victory came with 25 birdies and earned him $954,000. After 54 sun-drenched holes, it appeared that San Jose State graduate Arron Oberholser (who would win the tournament in 2006) had a chance to beat Singh. In the same group for the final round, they were tied at 13 under when play began Sunday. On the first three holes, Singh’s tee shots were errant: one going into the rough, one missing the fairway and another missing the green by 60 yards. But Singh managed to turn all three into birdies. Another birdie for Singh on 8, coupled with a double-bogey for Oberholser on the same hole, gave Singh an unbeatable six stroke lead. The winning pro-am team was Jerry Kelly and Robert Halmi, Jr.

Winner: Phil Mickelson
62-67-67-73 (269)

Phil Mickelson started his week on the Monterey Peninsula being inducted into the California Golf Hall of Fame and finished it breaking records on his way to a four-stroke victory in the 2005 Pebble Beach Pro-Am. Fellow lefty Mike Weir was the runner-up.

In the process, Mickelson became the first wire-to-wire winner since the tournament was lengthened from 54 holes to 72 holes in 1958. He matched the tournament record with a 10-under-par 62 in his opening round at Spyglass Hill Golf Course. The amazing performance also set a record for Spyglass. And then, Mickelson set the tournament 36-hole record at 129 with his second-round 67 at Poppy Hills. And he set the tournament 54-hole record at 196 with his third-round 67 at Pebble Beach.

Although a final-round 73, 1-over-par at Pebble Beach, left him one shot off the tournament record of 268 set by Mark O’Meara in 1997, it nonetheless was a solid finish, given that Weir’s 67 was the only sub-70 round posted in a light rain, with some gusty wind. When the final round began, Mickelson held a seven-shot lead through 54 holes, making Sunday’s play little more than a formality. His winnings were $954,000.

Bill Murray and longtime pro partner Scott Simpson were in the running for the pro-am title, but their closing 67 gave them a 258 total, good for fourth. The victory went to Barry McCollam and pro partner Joel Kribel.

Winner: Arron Oberholser
65-68-66-72 (271)

Two years after failing to catch Vijay Singh, Arron Oberholser closed the deal on his first PGA Tour victory to the delight of his family and friends from San Jose.

“Growing up, I always watched guys win the golf tournament and just the walk up 18 at Pebble Beach is unlike anything else,” said Oberholser, a former San Jose State standout who played numerous amateur events on the Monterey Peninsula. “Even when you’re playing here by yourself or with a foursome, it’s still an incredible walk. But to walk up knowing that you are the champion ... I wish everybody could feel that way. It’s incredible.”

Oberholser shot a final-round 72, even par, on the Pebble Beach Golf Links for a 271, 17-under-par — enough for a tournament record-tying five-shot cushion over runner-up Rory Sabbatini, whose 70 gave him a 276. Mike Weir, who came into Sunday tied with Oberholser at 199, crashed early — with a double-bogey at the second hole and bogey on the third — and shot 78 to tie for third at 277 with Jonathan Byrd.

The victory, which Oberholser locked up with a dramatic birdie out of the trees on the par-4 15th, was a distinctly different sequel to his final round in 2004, when he went into the final round tied for the lead with Vijay Singh, but then seemed to succumb to the pressure of facing one of the top players in the game.

There was a lot of smiling and good times in 2006, as record crowds enjoyed a sixth straight year with no rain problems. Sunshine pushed temperatures into the high 70s as more than 155,000 fans overall attended the four rounds of competition.

Oberholser, whose first place finish was worth $972,000, became only the fifth player to earn his first PGA Tour victory at Pebble Beach, joining John Cook (1981), Steve Jones (1988), Brett Ogle (1993) and Matt Gogel (2002).

Oberholser he was also the fifth pro to sweep both the individual and team titles, as he and amateur partner Michael McCallister, the president and CEO of Humana Inc., tied for first in the pro-am, at 255, 33-under-par. They shared the championship with pro Hunter Mahan and Alan Heuer, the COO of Mastercard International, who shot 66 in the final round, while Oberholser and McCallister shot 68.

coupled with a double-bogey for Oberholser on the same hole, gave Singh an unbeatable six stroke lead. The winning pro-am team was Jerry Kelly and Robert Halmi, Jr.

65-67-70-66 (268)

Taking the tournament by storm, Phil Mickelson won his third Pebble Beach pro-am (and $990,000), finishing the tournament ten under par and tying the record for victory margin with a five-stroke win over runner-up Kevin Sutherland. His final round 66 at Pebble Beach Sunday included six birdies.

And speaking of storms, while Bill Murray’s group was on the 17th Green at Spyglass on Thursday, a huge Monterey pine toppled on a nearby hillside, barely missing a spectator.

Mickelson and his amateur partner, Harry You, CEO of BearingPoint Consulting, also won the pro-am tournament, at 39 under par.

Winner: Steve Lowery
69-71-70-68 (278)

Having played 198 PGA tournaments since 2000 without a victory, Steve Lowery probably wasn’t expecting to defeat the legendary Vijay Singh in a sudden death playoff at the end of the 2008 Pebble Beach Pro-Am. Still, he neatly dispatched Singh on the very first playoff hole with a seven-foot birdie putt.

Through most of the opening three rounds, Lowery’s name wasn’t exactly at the top of the leaderboard. But 10 birdies in 15 holes on Saturday and Sunday propelled him to the top. Singh needed a birdie on the final hole of regulation to force the playoff. “Winning on this course against Vijay is something really special,” Lowery said, who picked up a first-place check for $1,080,000.

The pro-am champions were amateur Bill Walters, owner of Walters Golf in Las Vegas, and pro Frederick Jacobsen, who shot 250 (38 under par) to win by a tournament-record 10 strokes.

Clear, sunny weather prevailed on the Monterey Peninsula during the tournament, and there were no delays due to weather.
