

Pebble Beach event draws top chefs from around the nation

By MARY BROWNFIELD

THE SECOND Pebble Beach Food & Wine, slated for April 16-19, is drawing top chefs from across the country, wineries from all over the globe and attendees from far and wide — making it one of the premier culinary events in the United States. But cofounder Robert Weakley really wants the people who live here to show up.

“I don’t think the locals realize what they have in their backyard,” he said last week. What that is, exactly, is four days of receptions, lunches, dinners, wine seminars, cooking demonstrations, lavish food-and-wine tastings, and even a

And you thought Detroit had problems ...

It was a rough week for automobiles in the Monterey Peninsula. A mudslide in Big Sur Tuesday evening almost buried a vehicle as it pushed the car toward a creek (upper left). A huge Monterey pine crashed to earth in Carmel Friday morning, crushing a Subaru (above) moments after its owner left the vehicle. And a Lexus careened through a Carmel Valley shopping center April 2, coming to a halt between two concrete pillars (left)

Bank solicits buyers as owner files for bankruptcy

By MARY BROWNFIELD

KRML RADIO — which had been broadcasting jazz from downtown Carmel since 2004 — abruptly moved out of the Eastwood Building on San Carlos Street this week.

The AM station is for sale for $1.5 million, and five separate groups, including one in town, are interested in buying it, according to Monterey County Bank President and CEO Charles Chrietzberg. The bank loaned money to station owner David Kimball and is assisting in the sale in order to be repaid.

An adjacent retail store, the Jazz & Blues Co., was under the same ownership and also closed, with its merchandise and fixtures suddenly removed from the premises at the beginning of the week.

“We were pursuing collection on our loan with Kimball, and he said he was going to file for bankruptcy,” Chrietzberg said. “He didn’t want that to affect the station, so he asked us to work with him.”

Burning message table blamed for office fire

AN UPSTAIRS office in a downtown Carmel building erupted in fire Friday morning, but crews managed to keep the flames from spreading to the rest of the second-floor businesses and downstairs art galleries. Bedding ignited by a heater appears to have been the cause, according to a fire investigator.

Attorney in boar trial warns of accruing interest

By KELLY NIX

AN ATTORNEY for Caltrans said this week the agency will probably file an appeal of a jury’s $8.6 million award to a motorcyclist who was seriously injured when he hit a wild boar on Highway 1. But an attorney for the other side says the appeal could cost state tax-involving a Carmel Valley attorney and his passenger, who was seriously injured, according to a new report.

On Nov. 25, attorney Zan Henson was piloting a 1970 Piper returning from Mexico when the plane stalled, clipped an oak tree and crashed in the parking lot of the Monterey Pines Golf Course.

Henson’s passenger, Aptos attorney Jim Rummonds, received three broken vertebrae, four cracked ribs, a collapsed lung and a concussion in the crash. Henson suffered two cracked vertebrae and a broken rib.

While Henson told The Pine Cone days after the accident he believed a leak in one of the plane’s 25-gallon fuel tanks had caused the engine to stall, the National Transportation Safety Board in a March 23 report concluded the crash was a result of pilot error.

The probable cause of the accident was “the pilot’s inadequate fuel system management and inflight planning that led to a loss of engine power due to fuel exhaustion,” the NTSB said.

Bach Fest: Shorter schedule, 'more accessible' programs

By PAUL MILLER

SHE'S BEEN on the job less than a year, but the Carmel Bach Festival's executive director has already embarked on an ambitious plan to attract new audiences to the festival while preserving its long-standing musical traditions.

"Our loyal audiences will get the performances they love, but we also want to create a welcoming environment for those who don't know about us," said Camille Kolles, who replaced Jesse Read last summer.

'Visual elements'

The program for this year's Bach Festival, which will run from July 17 to Aug. 1, has just been announced, and it includes traditional Sunset Center concerts such as an all-Bach program Monday nights, presentation of Bach's Christmas Oratorio Sunday afternoons and an all-Beethoven concert Saturday nights, plus a full program of Baroque music Wednesday evenings at the Mission, and a host of recitals and master classes at various venues.

But it also includes some innovative new concerts and groundbreaking ways of introducing visual elements to classical music.

"On Thursday nights, we'll be presenting 'The Four Seasons,' by Vivaldi, and we're going to turn it into a treat for the eyes as well as the ears," said David Gordon, whose title is Festival Dramaturge. "We're going to have lighting effects and illustrations to give people new ways to understand the music."

Also new this year is a film series highlighting the powerful ways music can change people's lives, if not history. Presented at Sunset Center, the films include "Les Choristes," one of the biggest hits in the history of French cinema, and "The Singing Revolution," which tells the story of how Estonians used traditional songs to rally the nation and gain their freedom from the Soviet empire.

"The films will help showcase, especially for people uninitiated to classical music, that there are a relevance and a power to music which go beyond the notes on the page," said Kolles.

Also highlighting the Bach Fest's 2009 season:

■ The Friday-night concerts will be Haydn's "The Creation," which festival organizers say promises to be a special treat because of music director Bruno Weil's internationally recognized expertise with Haydn's music.

"Bruno's recording of 'The Creation' is widely thought to be the best available," Gordon said. "The work tells the Biblical story of the creation, but the music is bright and uplifting ... and I just love it."

"The Creation" is the only program that will be presented three times during this year's festival, which has been shortened from three weeks to two. Opening night, July 17, will include a pre-concert reception in the Sunset Center courtyard.

■ At a unique pair of concerts audience members will be able to buy $20 tickets to sit on the Sunset Center stage. "Stringing Us Along," presented July 28 at 10:30 a.m., will feature orchestra members playing and demonstrating historic and modern string instruments. And on July 30 at 10:30 a.m., "The Well Tempered Keyboardists," will include performances on organ, an 18th century harpsichord, a fortepiano and a modern concert grand. Seating for both concerts will be free in the Sunset Center auditorium.

■ Some rehearsals will be open to the public at no charge. Open rehearsals of the festival's principal programs will be held July 9 at 10 a.m., July 11 at 3 p.m. and July 13 at 7 p.m.

■ Concerts will be staged at innovative venues, including the Robert Stanton Theater in King City (July 12 at 3 p.m.) the Oldemeyer Center in Seaside (July 23 at 7 p.m.) and at the newly renovated San Carlos Cathedral in Monterey (July 30 at 5 p.m.).

'Something for everyone'

With activities ranging from lectures to films, and from youth chorus to first-rate baroque and classical performances, and with tickets as low as $10 and many free events, there is "something for everyone at The Bach Festival," Kolles said.

And despite the downturn in the national economy, she is optimistic the Bach Fest will draw a big audience this summer.

"Music has always played an important role during times of hardship," she said, "lifting spirits, helping us to remember the importance of community, and reconnecting with what matters most."

The Carmel Bach Festival is also launching a new website, www.bachfestival.org, which includes complete program information for more than 90 events, program notes and profiles of Bach Festival artists.

Tickets for the 2009 Carmel Bach Festival go on sale to the public April 13 on the website, at the festival's office at Tenth Avenue and Mission Street, and by calling (831) 624-1521.

Did you know...

Historic ruts - The debates in today's Carmel may pale in comparison to one of the formative battles on whether to smooth Ocean Avenue all the way to the beach. It was in 1921 when the fabled artists in the colony fought to keep deep ruts in the street, dust piles that obscured them and huge pine roots as an effective way to discourage tourists. Developers and businesses owners in the two-block commercial district wanted smoother routes and fewer toll gates to attract customers. The entrenched conflict drew impressive coverage in the Los Angeles Times, which ran a lengthy story on the "protective" ruts versus "safe" roads. It began: "The idiosyncrasies of artists have not succeeded in establishing about Carmel-by-the-Sea a barrier so impenetrable as to exclude the 'idle rich.' But they have, to date, been successful in checkmating the influx of the 'tourist horde' by the simple expedient of thwarting any move made by the 'capitalists' of Carmel toward street improvement." The next year, however, the city decided to pave Ocean Avenue and bought the sand dunes at the foot of it. (Next: Big Sur Laureate)

State parks may install temporary bridge at Pfeiffer

By KELLY NIX

AN OFFICIAL with the California Department of Parks and Recreation said this week a temporary, one-way bridge will be installed at the entrance to Pfeiffer Big Sur State Park, which would allow the popular visitor area to reopen likely by Memorial Day.

Matt Fuzie, Monterey sector superintendent, said the bridge would cost $400,000 to $500,000.

"We are working out all the details," Fuzie told The Pine Cone.

He said state parks will purchase the bridge from Bailey Bridges, an Alabama company, and that paperwork for the sale should be finalized within the next two weeks, with the bridge delivered three to four weeks later.

"We are still shooting to open for Memorial Day," Fuzie said. "And if we open before that, fantastic."

Memorial Day is the kickoff of the park's summer season, when as many as 1,000 people per day visit.

But Fuzie said state parks is still keeping open the option of using a service gate as an entrance to the park in case the temporary bridge deal falls through. The gate is just south of the main entrance. Using that entrance would require some traffic control measures by Caltrans.

"That is our last resort," Fuzie said.

The Pfeiffer park bridge was removed last fall when studies showed it could be undermined by mudslides after wildfires burned about a quarter-million acres last summer.

Business hurting

Kirk Gafill, president of the Big Sur Chamber of Commerce and general manager of Nepenthe, said nearly every visitor-serving business has been hit by the park's closure.

"From the River Inn to as far south as San Luis Obispo County, businesses are seeing some impact," Gafill said.

Though Nepenthe's business has remained steady, the restaurant does not typically attract campers and hikers, Gafill said. But Nepenthe's Café Kevah, below the restaurant, has seen about a 10 percent to 15 percent reduction in business since the park's been closed.

"We have never seen that kind of disparity before," he said.

Gafill estimated Big Sur businesses from March 1 to Oct. 1 would lose between $1 million and $2 million if the park remained closed.

Still, a few businesses are likely benefitting from the Big Sur park's closure, Gafill said.

"Some of the campers will go to private campsites," such as Big Sur Campground & Cabins and Riverside Campground & Cabins.

Hiking guide falls, breaks femur and pelvis

By CHRIS COUNTS

AFTER SUFFERING what he described as a 100-foot fall, and breaking a femur and his pelvis, Pebble Beach resident Steve Copeland is recuperating this week in a Santa Clara Valley hospital.

Copeland and a friend were hiking in Graves Canyon Sunday afternoon when he slipped and fell. The canyon is located behind the Henry Miller Library, about 28 miles south of Carmel.

"He was found about a quarter-mile up the canyon," reported Martha Karstens, assistant chief of the Big Sur Volunteer Fire Brigade, which sent several volunteers to the scene. "He landed in the creek."

In addition to the fire brigade, Monterey County Sheriff's deputies, and search and rescue team members, responded to the incident.

After he was stabilized, Copeland was taken to the Post Ranch Inn, which is located about a mile to the north. From there he was airlifted to the hospital.

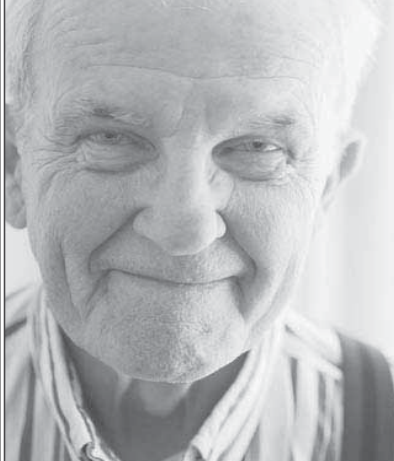

Copeland, who lived in Big Sur for 28 years, was treated for broken bones, and he also received about 100 stitches in his head. His condition is complicated by the fact that he recently had disc surgery to his neck.

"I might need another surgery to my neck," he said. "That's the immediate concern."

Despite the mishap, Copeland was in remarkably good spirits. "I'm lucky to be alive," said Copeland, who owns Big Sur Guides, a hiking guide service. "They're taking good care of me here. It was just one of those unfortunate things."

Copeland said he's trying to smile and find some humor in his predicament.

"If you can laugh and be positive, that goes a long way toward healing," he added.

You Can Help Move a Mountain (of Cash)

In recent months, people are putting more and more of their money into what they perceive as safe vehicles, such as bank savings deposit. Consequently, as a nation, we are now sitting on a "mountain" of cash. But is that a good thing?

While it's true that cash vehicles will likely protect your principal, they may not provide you with returns that can even keep up with inflation.

Furthermore, if you're putting most of your assets into cash, you're sacrificing the chance to invest that money into vehicles that have the potential to provide the growth you need to achieve your long-term goals, such as an enjoyable retirement.

It may feel comforting to have a lot of cash on hand. But if you're going to be truly comfortable in the years ahead, you need to put some of that cash to work.

Your Gardener's Checklist for April 10-23, 2009

- As the soil warms this is the month to plant a vegetable garden. If you're short on garden space, use containers on the patio.
- Divide primroses as soon as they are finished blooming.
- Shady areas of the garden can be livened up with fibrous begonias, lobelia, impatiens, bleeding heart and astilbes.
- Deciduous flowering shrubs and trees can be pruned right after they finish blooming.
- Pinch back new growth for fuller fuchsias. This goes for petunias as well.
- Try morning glories, sweet peas, nasturtiums or black-eyed Susan vines to hide an unattractive fence, to provide shade or create privacy on your porch.
- Start feeding camellias, azaleas, and rhododendrons an acid fertilizer when they STOP blooming.

Crash, foot chase culminate in suicide

By MARY BROWNFIELD

A 22-YEAR-OLD Colorado man with three outstanding warrants shot himself in front of police after he crashed a stolen car and fled on foot in Big Sur Saturday afternoon, according to Monterey County Sheriff's Detective Sgt. Archie Warren. Timothy Ian Fink died after putting a revolver, also stolen, to his head and pulling the trigger as he lay on the ground.

Fink's suicide was a tragic end to an incident that began with a car crash on Highway 1 in front of the Big Sur River Inn around 3:30 p.m. April 4, when he pulled out in front of an oncoming car, according to police. No one was injured in the wreck, which involved Fink in a Mazda Miata and another motorist in a Toyota Camry, and deputies didn't learn Fink was wanted until a dispatcher radioed the information to a deputy directing traffic at the scene.

"While the deputy was occupied with traffic control, this motorist fled on foot across the river behind the River Inn," according to the sheriff's report. He and a state parks ranger chased Fink on foot, and were joined in the search by another deputy and a U.S. Forest Service ranger.

The pursuit continued, with Fink crossing the river several times, and the California Highway Patrol sent an airplane to assist.

"The suspect was eventually found lying on his left side under a tree approximately 150 feet up a hillside," by the deputy and the forest service ranger. "Upon being discovered, the suspect put a revolver up to his temple and pulled the trigger, killing himself."

"He had the high ground — he could have decided to also take someone else's life as well as his own," Warren observed. "I'm very grateful that didn't happen."

The coroner's division arrived and, with the help of the Big Sur Volunteer Fire Brigade, removed Fink's body from the hillside.

In the Miata, which Fink had stolen from someone in Colorado Springs, they found iPods, knives and other items that apparently did not belong to him, as well as a tactical police vest containing a Taser and a clip of ammunition for a semiautomatic.

Investigators are searching for the owners of the stolen property found in the car, as well as for victims who might not yet be tied to Fink, hoping "to close other incidents, and bring closure to other victims," Warren said, adding that Fink is not suspected of committing any other crimes in Monterey County.

Warren said the incident leaves many unanswered questions, not the least of which is what led a 22-year-old man to shoot himself in view of police.

Warren said investigators were in touch with Fink's father in Colorado, but he would not say whether the man helped answer that question. "It's got to be very difficult for his family," he said. "He was young."

Residents warned about fraud by mail

By MARY BROWNFIELD

IN A new twist on an old scam, thieves are getting their hands on people's money and personal information by informing them they've won the Canadian lottery or have been selected as secret shoppers. Carmel Police detective Rachele Lightfoot has received almost a half-dozen letters and fake checks from savvy residents and warned everyone to be on the lookout for more in their mailboxes.

"With five people in the last week bringing them in to me, and I know there are millions more out there," she said.

In the scam, the targeted victim receives a letter and a check. The letter instructs the person to deposit the check to cover certain expenses, but also to wire funds out or send a money order to satisfy tax debt or other fees. Sometimes the letter demands a phone call as well. Ultimately, the thieves make off with the person's money and information, including banking details, while the victim is left with a fake check that bounces after being deposited.

A notice from Platinum Financial Services Inc., for example, notified a Carmel resident she had won $450,000 in a sweepstakes but must wire $3,980 to a tax agent whose information was listed in the letter. The envelope contained a $4,980 check to cover the costs.

In another letter claiming to be from Survey Spot Inc. — which Lightfoot said is a bona fide company but does not do business in this manner — the recipient was invited to participate in the Customer golf tournament, featuring 60 chefs and 200 wineries.

The PBF&W, presented by American Express Publishing, is the creation of Weakley, who organized the renowned Masters of Food & Wine at the Highlands Inn for several years, and Pacific Tweed owner David Bernahl. The inaugural event in 2008 drew crowds and lots of attention, but Weakley said the second annual PBF&W "will blow last year out of the water."

Particularly created with Monterey

Peninsula residents in mind are Saturday's and Sunday's Grand Tastings, which will be held in a 60,000-square-foot, fully equipped tent on the grounds of the Pebble Beach Equestrian Center. Designed to accommodate 2,000 people as they eat, drink and wander among the chefs' stations and wine tables, the midday affairs will feature 25 chefs — up from 16 last year — and 200 wineries each day.

The boost in culinary offerings was in part by circumstance, since organizers expected a 40 percent positive response rate from the invited chefs and instead received 60 percent, and in part by design.

"The food-to-wine ratio was off," Weakley said. "It's a big difference this year: four wineries per chef."

The Grand Tasting is designed "to give guests access to all the chefs at a reasonable price point," Weakley said. "It's built for locals," though many of the people who have already snapped up tickets are from out of town. One unchanged aspect is the price of $165 per person.

In fact, organizers decided to hold prices steady long before the brunt of the national recession hit, and Weakley is grateful they did. While he and Bernahl had planned on the whole event selling out months in advance, the fact it was 85 percent full by the end of last week was still impressive during a time when many are pondering whether to spend $3 on a latte.

"We still will sell out," Weakley predicted. "But we have to work a lot harder."

The Thursday golf tournament pairing notable chefs with fortunate guests is sold out, with 160 players who will be treated to a breakfast of Cristal Champagne and lobster on the 1st Tee, not to mention similar delights served up along the course until play wraps up around 2:30 p.m.

Many others are near capacity, including Thursday's Opening Night, Friday and Saturday dinners, and Saturday's Grand Tasting. While the four-day event's offerings

MAKING YOUR DECISIONS EASIER

Some people buy vehicles because they fall in love with them. Others crunch the numbers and/or make numerous comparisons. In the final analysis, it may be best to allow your subconscious to do the work. So say Dutch researchers, who found that the best way to deal with complex decisions is on a subconscious level. According to the researchers, who studied consumer purchase patterns and consequent satisfaction levels, detailed analysis best lends itself to simple decisions, like buying canned soup. Conversely, complex analysis can actually stand in the way of making a complex decision. In the end, the best way to buy a car is to collect all pertinent information and let your subconscious make up your mind.

Take your time, think things through — in fact, sleep on any deal before you decide — and you'll get the car you want at the best price available. After you have bought your car, we can help out when you do have a repair. Here at Pacific Motor Service, we are committed to excellent customer service, and quality work. That's a promise. Our services are guaranteed for 12 months or 12,000 miles with NAPA Peace of Mind Warranty, and some repairs offer extended warranties. We are located at the corner of Figueroa and Franklin, just west of Jack's Park in Downtown Monterey. All of our work is done by ASE Certified technicians, and we are also AAA Approved. We are the oldest independent repair facility in Monterey going... and growing!

HINT: According to the study mentioned above, car buyers with the highest level of satisfaction were those who did not "overthink" their decisions.

Reward offered for arrest of ambitious golf-course vandals

By MARY BROWNFIELD

VANDALS WIELDING shovels and rake handles destroyed a green at Monterey Peninsula Country Club's Dunes Course last week, and members of the private Pebble Beach club are offering a reward for the vandals' capture, according to general manager Michael Bowhay. The gouges and pits dug out of the 14th Green will cost at least $8,000 — and possibly twice that amount — to repair.

The greenskeeping crew discovered the extensive damage at first light Friday morning. "They perforated the green with the handles of bunker rakes that they had broken off, and probably shovels as well," Bowhay said. "They dug into every square foot of the green."

Bowhay estimated it took the culprits hours to inflict so much injury, which included hundreds of gouges and three deep pits dug through the sand below the green's fine turf.

"I've never seen anything like this," said Bowhay, who has worked at MPCC for 18 years.

The courses are vandalized a half-dozen times a year, but the effects are usually minimal.

"It was a lot of work," he said of the vandalism.

It's a lot of work to fix it, too.

"The green is being repaired, and we're seeing if it will come back," he said. "And if it doesn't take, we will have to re-sod the whole thing."

Bowhay is hopeful the measures undertaken by course superintendent Bob Zoller and his staff will save the green.

"Our staff is very, very good, and they were out there immediately, doing everything they could to avoid having to re-sod it," he said. Zoller, a 30-plus-year MPCC employee who "comes from a family of superintendents and golf-course managers," was "quite disturbed" by the vandalism, according to Bowhay.

The Monterey Peninsula Country Club is putting up $3,000 to help catch the vandals who destroyed the 14th Green.

"Luckily, we have someone of his caliber who can jump in and know exactly what to do when something like this happens," he said. While the 14th Green heals, golfers are using a temporary green set up just in front of the real one.

And Bowhay hopes that by the time they can putt on the 14th Green again, the vandals will have been tracked down and arrested. To help motivate anyone with helpful information to come forward, the club has put up $3,000 in reward money.

The Monterey County Sheriff's Office is handling the investigation, and tips may be made through its toll-free line, (888) 833-4847.

are abundant and compelling, Weakley highlighted a few, including the Lexus Chef's Table Truffle Lunch, the Delicacy Dinner with every possible indulgence, Citronelle executive chef Michel Richard's cooking demonstration featuring truffles, and a food-and-wine pairing demonstration with Richard and Penfolds wines, including the coveted 1983 Grange.

He also mentioned the reserve tasting of 1959 Bordeaux — said to be the greatest vintage of the century — during which the hosts will pour 48 bottles from the greatest French chateaux.

The PBF&W will offer ample opportunities for sipping Cristal, particularly during a special Friday dinner and the Sunday morning reserve tasting showcasing an impressive eight vintages.

"We'll be pouring more Cristal than the entire West Coast allocation," Weakley said. During dinner alone, 175 people will drink $250,000 worth of the stuff.

Fanning the flames of the NoCal-vs.-SoCal rivalry, a Friday dinner will feature San Francisco chefs Hubert Keller, Michael Mina, Ron Siegel and Nancy Oakes, while a similar setup Saturday night will showcase David Myers, Josiah Citrin, Michael Cimarusti, Nancy Silverton and Joachim Splichal from Los Angeles. All have Michelin stars.

Other lessons learned

Organizers arranged this year's event to hold the cooking demonstrations and wine tastings at Spanish Bay, so attendees don't have to move between it and the Lodge, as they did last year. They overhauled registration and procedures, including mailing tickets and planning a better check-in area.

They also wanted to use local talent wherever possible. When corporate sponsor Kerrygold, for instance, wanted bakers in San Francisco to supply cookies for the event, Weakley said the PBF&W team asked if Parker-Lusseau in Monterey and Patisserie Bechler in Pacific Grove could have the job, instead. National Parking & Valet was tapped to handle transportation.

With setup well under way and ingredients rolling in from all corners of the globe — including nine pallets of Cristal being held in a secret location, 3,000 pounds of butter and 47 pounds of black truffles — Weakley and the rest of the Pebble Beach Food & Wine team are working 18-hour days to get ready.

"Last year, I never worked so much in my life," Weakley said. In planning the 2009 event, Weakley and Bernahl doubled their staff. They brought on chef Todd Fisher to oversee the cooking side, including coordinating the chefs and their menus.

"You have five chefs putting on a dinner, and some don't talk to each other," Weakley explained. "He had to go to Eric Ripert [of Le Bernardin] twice to ask him to change a dish."

Fisher is also in charge of procuring all the ingredients, such as the four whole suckling goats Manresa executive chef David Kinch wants to prepare.

With more help on board, Weakley said he hopes to mix and mingle with some of the guests, chefs and vintners throughout the weekend as he bounces from event to event — and he might even have a chance to eat and drink a little.

Artist shows how to leave a shop with a free painting

BY CHRIS COUNTS

WHEN WAS the last time you went into a home furnishings store and walked out with something you painted?

You can create your very own work of art Saturday, April 11, at the Carmel Bay Company. As part of the store's spring celebration, Big Sur artist Erin Gafill will offer free interactive art lessons and painting demonstrations from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m.

"I did this for Valentine's Day," Gafill explained. "People had an opportunity to sit down and make Valentine's Day cards. It was a blast. We made more than 100 cards."

Gafill realizes many people who are drawn to art don't have confidence in their creative abilities.

"People are very intrigued by the idea of making something, but they don't think they have the time, the materials or the ability," she observed.

In response, Gafill urged reluctant artists to consider giving creativity a chance.

"Here's the paper and here's the brush," she said, emphasizing how simple the creative process can be.

A little instruction can go a long way for a would-be artist, Gafill suggested. "With a few very, very simple techniques, you can make a big impression."

Also featured at the reception will be a new collection by local jeweler Pattie Wells and hors d'oeuvres from Carmel's Merlot Bistro.

Carmel Bay Company is located at Ocean and Lincoln. For more information, call (831) 624-3868.

From arson to art

Fascinated by fire as a youngster, Arthur Rogers quickly learned that becoming arsonist wasn't a good career choice.

"I set fire to the dumpster behind our apartment building, bringing the fire department and the police, and nearly getting me locked up at the tender age of 12," recalled Rogers, who will unveil an exhibit "Arson: New Eclectic Ceramic Works," at the Pacific Grove Art Center Friday, April 10.

Merlot Cabernet Sauvignon Champagne Dinner

Dueling dinners, un-brunch on Easter, and wining with growers

By MARY BROWNFIELD

THERE'S A duel on in downtown Carmel.

Bruno's Market has long been offering gourmet take-out entrées, and now Nielsen Bros. — with the former Bruno's chef — is on the bandwagon. The battle is on to see which of the one-square-mile town's two full-service markets offers the best food for the best prices.

"Business has been quiet, and we're trying to do something different," explained Nielsen's owner Merv Sutton. "We always have stuff in the hot deli, but we've never had dinners prepared."

On weekdays, chef Kenneth Wolff, who also owns A Royal Event catering, prepares an entrée of prime rib, boneless leg of lamb, pork loin or fish, as well as sides of potatoes and seasonal vegetables, and fresh sauces. The take-home dinners are available from 3:30 to 6:30 p.m.

On Saturdays and Sundays from noon to 5 p.m. — when the smoke won't bother upstairs businesses nearby — he fires up the barbecue to turn out chicken, ribs and other meats accompanied by garlic bread.

Wolff, who got into restaurant work as a 14-year-old dishwasher at the Wagon Wheel some 30 years ago and has been in kitchens ever since, prides himself on fine sauces — such as the cherry port mint demi-glace reduction for lamb and the Cabernet sauce for prime rib — and using the best ingredients.

"We sold out every night!" he reported after his first week at Nielsen's, which sells his creations for $8.99 to $14.99. As the official chef, Wolff is also in charge of salads, soups, sauces and other prepared foods sold in the market at San Carlos and Seventh.

Meanwhile, a few blocks away at Junipero and Sixth, AJ Sanchez, son of Bruno's Market owner Fermin Sanchez, continues to offer "an excellent five-star dinner for $15," and said the entrées — such as prime rib, stuffed leg of lamb, pork loin, and fish on Fridays — come with two sides and sauces, and can be picked up or delivered to Carmel residents.

"Every day is different," he said, and everything is fresh. Out front, a barbecue is fired up daily, just as it has been for the past 15 years.

And now, Bruno's is also offering wood-fired pizzas, bread baked daily, New England clam chowder and other fresh foods — including $1 tacos on Tuesdays — and French Dip sandwiches. Veal, beef and chicken stocks are prepared on site.

And for $5, Sanchez is happy to deliver the entrées, and any other needed groceries, to Carmel residents.

"And, guaranteed, it's the hottest, freshest stuff," he said.

■ Belly up for un-brunch

Looking for a lavish Easter meal without the omelet station? Aubergine, the restaurant in the upscale L'Auberge Carmel, is offering Easter Un-Brunch, when executive chef Christophe Grosjean will prepare diminutive amuse bouches and hors d'oeuvres served buffet-style, followed by warm dishes brought to diners at their tables.

Among the buffet bites will be Caesar salad, crab salad, zucchini blossoms with goat cheese and shaved zucchini, artichoke barigoule with basil vinaigrette, charcuterie and cornichons, English pea shooters with Nantucket bay scallops, and asparagus salad with citrus-cured salmon.

Main courses will include lamb shoulder with roasted potatoes and gem salad, roasted whole tri-tip with braised carrots, slow-cooked halibut with saffron risotto and chorizo, and roasted chicken with spring vegetable ragout and thyme jus.

European cheeses will be on offer, and pastry chef Ron Mendoza will bake carrot cake, tres leches cake with strawberries, and chocolate pudding with raspberry.

Meet the growers

Winemakers know superlative fruit is vital to making good wine, and Morgan Winery routinely introduces its growers to the customers who savor vino made from their vines. The next guest in the Meet Our Growers Series will be Ron Silva, of Silvaspoons Vineyard in Alta Mesa, on Friday, May 1.

The special tasting will be offered from 5 to 6:30 p.m. in Taste Morgan at the Crossroads shopping center and will showcase current and past vintages made from Silva's grapes, which are used in wines produced under the Lee Family Farm label, including Verdelho, Rio Tinto and Nero d'Avola.

No reservations are required, and there is no fee for the Meet Our Growers Series. For information, visit www.morganwinery.com or call (831) 626-3700.

Salad days

A Monterey produce company is collaborating with its favorite partners, the Culinary Center of Monterey and MY Museum, to celebrate National Salad Month in May. Salyer American Fresh Foods will host Lettuce Create at the culinary center May 5 and Lettuce Entertain You at the children's museum May 31.

From 5 to 6:30 p.m. in the culinary center on Cannery Row, children 6 and older will "learn to love their iceberg, romaine, green leaf, red leaf and more." While kids create salads, parents will watch a demonstration on using produce as unique serving trays, dishes and other vessels. Afterward, all will sample salads, and parents will take home recipe cards, shopping totes and lettuce, while kids receive mini gardening kits to grow their own. To reserve, call (831) 333-2133. Admission is free.

At MY Museum on Washington Street in Monterey from 1 to 2:30 p.m. May 31, kids and parents will be entertained by onstage antics, a chef's demonstrations, and non-culinary means of getting creative with iceberg — including sculpting. All participants will take home freebies. The class is free with paid museum admission. To make reservations, call (831) 649-6444.

Bouchée Bistro's new owner

David Fink, owner of L'Auberge Carmel and Cantinetta Luca, has sold his Mission Street Bouchée Bistro and Wine Merchants to André Lemaire, who will take the reins April 18. According to Fink, Lemaire, a French chef, initiated the takeover.

In the dwindling days until Lemaire takes ownership, Fink is inviting residents and visitors to partake of a three-course prix fixe farewell dinner for $35.

Then, the restaurant will reopen April 24 as Andre's Bouchée, but the new owner will make "no major changes to the format or menu," Fink reported. "He will continue with the restaurant that has been recognized as Carmel's best bistro."

In the meantime, Bouchée, located on Mission Street just south of Ocean Avenue, can be reached by calling (831) 626-7880.

Valley of the World

A celebration set for 6 to 9 p.m. Thursday, April 16, at Corral de Tierra Country Club will honor Valley of the World award winners. The National Steinbeck Center established the event four years ago to recognize pioneers in Salinas Valley agriculture while raising funds for education and public programs at the museum. The evening's honorees include the late Ted Taylor, the Tanimura family, the late David Stidolph and Andy Matsui. For reservations, which are required, contact Amy Donohue at amy@steinbeck.org or (831) 775-4723.

Hola! chef suggests sugar to quell the flames of chiles

By MARGOT PETIT NICHOLS

HIS EYES sparkle as he describes a seafood dish that appears on the menu as "Al Chipotle" — "We sauté extra large shrimp with chipotle sauce, garlic, onions and sour cream. We serve this over a bed of cilantro rice, with black beans on the side," he said. It's one of his favorites and an entrée he recommends highly to newcomers at Hola! Mexican Restaurant & Cantina.

The restaurant opened in The Barnyard shopping center two years ago with Rafael Sainz as head chef. It is the third Hola! to open, following one in Belmont and one in Burlingame. Sainz started at the Belmont site 10 years ago as a dishwasher. Not speaking English at the time, he kept his eyes and ears open, picking up the language as he went along. Later, he would take English courses at adult education school in San Mateo, and later still, would study at Canada College in Redwood City, always focusing on improving his English.

He advanced in the kitchen, first learning to be a prep cook, then a line cook, by watching other chefs and with instruction from Felipe Cisneros, executive chef of the three Hola! restaurants. And finally, after a number of years, the coveted position of head chef was his.

Chef Sainz, now 28, was born and raised on a ranch in the little town of San Augustin, north of coastal Mazatlan. His mother and father still reside there. He has eight siblings — five sisters and three brothers. His brothers, whom he visits from time to time, now live in the San Francisco Bay Area. Of his five sisters, one lives in Los Angeles, while four stayed in Mexico. He visits home every two years.

In the kitchen at Hola!, his staff is composed of three line cooks, two prep cooks and two pantry cooks. Chef Sainz works five days a week, with Executive Chef Cisneros taking over the kitchen on his days off.

His busiest night is Tuesday "because we have half-priced four-course dinners then," he said. "And on Sunday nights, children eat free."

About cooking, Chef Sainz said, "I like all of it." The menu of Hola! is extensive. He and his staff prepare daily bocadillos (appetizers), soups and salads, quesadillas, regional specialties, house specialties, mesquite charcoal grilled beef, seafood, tamales, fajitas and desserts.

They also prepare complimentary appetizers which are served at the bar during happy hour, Monday through Friday, from 3 to 6 p.m. The full bar, which Sainz said offers 56 Mexican tequilas, has 12 seats, and sports are always showing on two large televisions. Sainz occasionally plays volleyball on his days off, and watches sports on TV at home, never at work. "I'm too busy in the kitchen," he said.

Of the house specialties, chicken, beef and seafood are featured. Inspired by his home state of Sinaloa, Chef Sainz prepares rib eye steak, grilling it and serving it with sautéed onions, tomato, avocado slices and elode azado (corn on the cob).

There is always a fresh fish of the day, he said, and giant prawns figure prominently in seafood specialties. Chef Sainz combines chicken, shrimp and crab meat in the costena platter, sautés them with onions, tomatoes and mushrooms, and splashes in and reduces white wine. Then he tops this flavorful mélange with melted cheese.

Kimball was also months behind in his rent, according to Alan Williams of Carmel Development Co., which manages the Eastwood Building for Clint Eastwood and his ex-wife, Maggie. "The Eastwoods have worked with KRML for months trying to keep them there," he said. After the San Carlos Street storefront was emptied this week, the radio equipment and store inventory were moved into a vacant space adjacent to the Monterey County Bank branch on Dolores Street, according to Chrietzberg. The AM station remains on the air out of its relocated studio on Dolores Street, broadcasting from a transmitter in the Carmel area, and Chrietzberg said Kimball will probably hold a sale sometime during the next couple of weeks to get rid of the merchandise.

Who's next?

Chrietzberg would not say who is interested in buying the station, which has been on the air since 1957, but of the five groups considering it, three are local, with one based "right in the middle" of Carmel.

"I'm local, and I've got an interest in making sure the station stays on the air, as do the local people," he said, adding that Carmel Mayor Sue McCloud called him to relay similar concerns. "I know there's a lot of community support for the station, and the thing we need to assure people is that it's going to continue on the air."

While the Eastwoods might seem ideal buyers — especially since KRML figured prominently in Eastwood's 1971 hit movie, "Play Misty for Me" — Williams said the business is overpriced.

"They wanted to keep the station in Carmel, but the asking price is exorbitant," he said, adding that even the bank loan is probably for an amount greater than the business is actually worth.

Chrietzberg would not disclose the amount Kimball owes, either, but said potential buyers in the past had offered $1.5 million for the station — an offer Kimball had deemed too low at the time.

But in this economy, when advertising revenues in all media are declining, Chrietzberg said Kimball found himself in a tenuous situation.

"He basically ran out of money," he said. "We need somebody with deeper pockets who can cultivate KRML into the jewel that it is."

He estimated the sale and transfer of the radio license could take three to six months, but Kimball will liquidate the store merchandise far sooner.

"Dave's going to do a three-day liquidation sale of the store inventory, probably at a 50 percent discount," he said. The site will likely be the Dolores Street space, which is located between Seventh and Eighth avenues in Carmel.

While "spicy sauce" appears frequently on the menu, Chef Sainz will tone down the heat for diners who are sensitive to chiles if a request is made to the server.

He offered a tip to readers who don't know how to quench the fire after they've taken a bite of something very hot. "Don't drink water. Eat a tortilla, or do what my mother did for me when I was a little boy: She fed me a teaspoon of sugar."

There are six desserts on the menu: flan, plantanos fritos, bunyuelos con neve (crispy flour tortillas, tossed with sugar and cinnamon, then topped with vanilla ice cream), pastel tres leches, ice cream, fresh fruit sorbets, and a brownie sundae topped with house-made chocolate sauce. The sundae is Chef Sainz favorite.

Monterey Peninsula College in 1978, became excited about art when he discovered a medium that required fire. After watching his girlfriend throw pottery, "I knew I had found an art form to get passionate about."

At MPC, Rogers became a lab assistant and finally got the opportunity to "set fire to something without breaking the law." Over the next three decades, he explored a wide variety of firing techniques, including high fire reduction, low fire salt, raku, naked raku, soda firing and wood firing.

"All lend a unique flavor to the pots, and a special surface," he observed.

Also featured at the art center will be new exhibits by painter Mark Farina ("Point Lobos as Inspiration"), pen and ink artist Sally Giddings Smith ("Wildflowers from Maine to California"), mixed media collage artist Marybeth Rinehart, members of the Focus on Flowers painting class and students from art center painting classes.

The art center will host a reception from 7 to 9 p.m. Al Rio will play the piano. The exhibits continue through May 21. The venue is located at 568 Lighthouse Ave. For more information, call (831) 375-2208 or visit www.pgartcenter.org.

Also, downtown Pacific Grove will host an art walk Friday, April 10, from 6 to 9 p.m. The event is free and open to the public. Maps are available at participating galleries and the Pacific Grove Chamber of Commerce. For more information, call (831) 373-3304.

Spring cleaning

Glassblowers Alan Masaoka, Nick Leonoff, Nancy Francioli and Mark Stephenson have cleaned out their studios and are offering a Spring Seconds Sale Saturday, April 11, at Masaoka Glass Design in Carmel Valley Village.

The all-day sale, which begins at 10 a.m., will feature a dazzling assortment of colorful hand-blown glass vases, pumpkins, bowls, ornaments, hearts and more.

Masakoa and his fellow glass artists create their work in an alley behind the gallery, which is located at 13766 Center St., behind Will's Fargo Restaurant. For more information, call (831) 659-4953 or visit www.masaokaglassdesign.com.

The art of metal etching

Labyrinths, crop circles and images of the earth adorn Jody Royee's fascinating metal art, which is displayed in an exhibit, "Perceived Connections," at her Carmel Valley gallery.

The Jody Royee Gallery will host a reception Saturday, April 11, from noon to 4 p.m. The gallery is located at 317 Mid Valley Center. The exhibit will be on display until May 30. For more information, call (831) 620-0303.

AFTER AVOIDING COFFEE SHOP AND ART GALLERY, DRIVER CRASHES INTO PILLARS

By CHRIS COUNTS

NOBODY WAS injured last week when a motorist careened down a walkway and crashed her car between two pillars in the Mid-Valley Shopping Center in Carmel Valley.

"It happened right in front of me," said Jody Royee, who owns an art gallery that was nearly struck by the wayward driver and her car. "I was standing in my doorway talking on my cell phone. She hit her gas and then she hit a rock, which sent her car toward the coffee shop next door."

While the driver's four-door Lexus was extensively damaged in the April 2 collision, Royee said the accident could have been much worse, and she was thankful no bystanders were hurt, particularly at the Carmel Valley Roasting Co. Despite the mishap, Royee credited the driver with making the best of a bad situation.

"She had the presence of mind to veer away from the coffee shop," Royee observed. "Many horrible things could have happened, and it's amazing how she threaded her car through the concrete walkway. We were all shocked."

Royee described the driver as a woman in her late 60s or early 70s.

"She had her foot on the gas the whole time," she observed. "After the crash, one of the guys in the coffee shop ran outside and turned off her car."

The driver didn't appear to be injured. "She was ok, as far as we know," Royee said.

According to Royee, the driver is a regular at the shopping center who apparently was on her way to mail a letter.

"I'll bet that was the most expensive letter in her life," Royee added.

CRUSHED

ing it especially vulnerable to the day's high winds, also significantly damaged Murray's new Mercedes and put some dents and scratches in a neighbor's Mercedes.

"We're in quite a state of shock, because it could have fallen on my wife or me. I had just been in the car," said Murray, who had sat in the Subaru Legacy gathering paperwork and listening to a BBC broadcast for three or four minutes after parking on the street. A few minutes after he went into his house, the tree fell with a loud whoosh and a ground-shaking thud.

"We're very happy that we're alive," he said. "If I had been in the car, I would have had no chance. The tree just flattened it."

No hope

Murray holds out no hope for that totaled car, which was 12 years old, but he's optimistic the damaged Mercedes CLK 350 — which the couple have only owned for three months and have driven barely 500 miles — can be repaired.

The pine came crashing down around 9 a.m. April 3.

City forester Mike Branson said he believes the pine was on city property, and his investigation of the roots, which were exposed when the tree pulled out of the ground, showed significant rot. Cuts in the trunk also indicated some decay.

"Part of the root system was significantly affected, and part of it still looked pretty healthy," he said. When it was standing, the pine "was a robust, healthy tree," with no strong indications of root rot. It was also covered by ivy, which could have hidden any outward signs.

"It was one of those trees that's difficult to make a positive assessment on," Branson said. He estimated the pine was about a century old and about 85 feet tall and nearly 40 inches in diameter.

He is looking at some other trees in the area to which the neighbors have brought to his attention.

"We love Carmel — it's a lovely city," Murray commented.

"It does have trees, and that makes it an even prettier city, but we are concerned with them. A car or two can be replaced, but our concerns are our lives and our neighbors' lives, and after that, our houses."

BURIED

Martha Karstens, assistant chief of the Big Sur Volunteer Fire Brigade. "The heavens just opened up and dumped rain, hail, lightning and thunder."

More than three feet of mud covered the world-famous highway near the entrance to the park, Karstens reported. One car — thankfully minus a driver — was buried in the muck.

"It was a real mess," she said.

The slide hit just after 5 p.m. Tuesday, with Caltrans employees working to clear it early Wednesday morning. One lane reopened about noon.

"We got the debris out of the way and cleaned the highway up as quickly and safely as possible," Cruz explained. "I think it's admirable that it got taken care of so quickly."

Cruz credited the Big Sur Volunteer Fire Brigade with helping to get the highway opened more quickly than early estimates suggested.

"[Fire brigade chief] Frank Pinney and the Big Sur locals are always willing to lend a hand," she added. "It's a real tight-knit community."

Once the highway was opened, the scenic route was restricted to one-way traffic until 2:15 p.m.

Why Cesar Chavez opposed illegal immigration

IF THE past isn't what you want it to be, why not change it?

That seems to be the attitude of California's Hispanic activists, who have turned UFW leader Cesar Chavez into the patron saint of immigrants' rights.

Chavez died in 1993 and is helpless to complain about the usurpation of his long and distinguished career fighting to improve the lives of the nation's farmworkers. Since many of those farmworkers were Mexican-Americans, it's easy to turn him into an icon of the Reconquista movement.

But the fact is that Chavez, a third-generation American citizen, adamantly opposed illegal immigration and regularly demanded action from Congress and the INS to stop it. In 1969, accompanied by Sen. Walter Mondale and civil rights leader Ralph Abernathy, Chavez led a march on the U.S.-Mexico border demanding federal action to prevent illegal immigrants from crossing.

Chavez' reasoning was simple: Since wages were (and are) so low in Mexico, immigrants from that nation would obviously be willing to work for far less than native-born Americans. And since the standard of living in many Mexican towns was (and remains) appallingly low, they would also be willing to work in conditions that U.S. citizens would never tolerate. Accordingly, a steady flow of illegal immigrants would undermine Chavez' goal of higher pay and better working conditions for farmworkers.

If Chavez were alive today, he would be shocked to see how the flow of illegal immigrants has turned into a flood, drastically altering the cultural landscape of California, Arizona, Nevada and many other states, and driving down wages in many industries and professions.

To cite one example that often shows up in the pages of this newspaper: Food writer Margot Petit Nichols regularly profiles chefs in Monterey Peninsula restaurants, detailing their skill and professionalism, and their inventiveness with many types of cooking. And for the vast majority of these chefs, there is another common factor: They are from Mexico. Margot is too polite to inquire whether they entered the country illegally, or even whether they are illegally here now. But it's a safe bet that most of them did, and some of them are.

Often, during the debate over the pros and cons of illegal immigration from Mexico, the "fact" is often cited that Mexican immigrants play an essential role in our economy because they are willing to take jobs that "regular" Americans refuse to do.

But how did it happen that so many Carmel restaurants have Mexican chefs? Is it because U.S. citizens, of whatever race, no longer want to be chefs? Can it be that running an upscale restaurant and cooking for the affluent is considered beneath someone who was born in San Francisco, Chicago or Boston? Do the great-grandchildren of earlier generations of immigrants from Ireland, Italy, Asia and Africa look down their noses at careers in haute cuisine? Or do Mexicans simply have better cooking skills? Hardly.

The reason that restaurant kitchens in Carmel, Pebble Beach and other local communities have so many Mexican immigrants working in them is that these workers could be hired for less.

Cesar Chavez was right. Massive illegal immigration hurts American workers. And it is happening all around us.

Letters to the Editor

Public comment useful

Dear Editor,

It seems like The Pine Cone (editorial, April 3) thinks that public comment is simply a waste of everybody's time and that the P.G. City Council was right in seeking to limit it. Only the political gadflies come to the council meeting to have their say says the Pine Cone, and this exercise in ego expansion should be curtailed if not eliminated.

I sat on the Pacific Grove City Council for four years. Before that I watched those meetings regularly as the editor of a town paper. Did it ever get tedious to listen to the public? At times, yes. But most of the time I really was thrilled to let democracy play out in our small town. Most of the folks that speak to the council do have an important and divergent perspective on various issues. Many of them are scared and would rather stick a needle in their eye than speak in public. But they care enough to do so.

They cared enough last Wednesday to come out in force to have their say. These pesky gadflies included a mayor, city manager, several planning commissioners, council members, the president of the chamber of commerce and yes just plain folks, all who cared about democracy and their role in that precious process.

Susan Goldbeck, Pacific Grove

Where's Spike?

Dear Editor,

I am writing to ask for a little help about a cat named Spike. I live by the Lincoln Bridge Footpath, and for months now have been greeted by Spike. One of my neighbors told me his story. Evidently, he was from Big Sur and was forced to move with his family when the fires came. They chose a nice apartment in downtown Carmel, and thought Spike would enjoy being near the restaurants, etc. After living in the apartment for a short while, Spike decided he was going to relocate himself and moved to the Lincoln Bridge. His family was contacted by the police department and informed of his whereabouts.

He was like the troll under the bridge; we expected to see him there every day. People fed, petted and spoke to him. One day I ran into his family, who were there feeding him and checking on him. Obviously he was loved and missed, but they honored Spike's decision to live outdoors where he was happy.

Now for the past many times I have been over the bridge, Spike is nowhere to be found. Since I do not know his family, I have no way of finding out about him. Maybe they moved back to Big Sur, maybe elsewhere in Carmel. Did they come and take him away? At least I will have an answer to what happened to the very kind feline troll that lived under the bridge.

I realize this is not pressing news, but to me, my family and the rest of my neighbors it is important!

The Carmel Pine Cone was established in 1915 and is a legal newspaper for Carmel-by-the-Sea, Monterey County and the State of California, established by Superior Court Decree No. 34750.

APPEAL

payers more than $500,000 a year in interest. Following a three-week trial, a jury in Monterey County Superior Court decided March 27 the state should pay motorcyclist Adam Rogers millions of dollars because it didn't do enough to prevent wild boar from crossing Highway 1.

"It looks like we are planning to appeal," said California Department of Transportation attorney Kamau Edwards, one of two attorneys who represented the state during the trial.

Caltrans spokeswoman Susana Cruz said it could take weeks for the state to make a final decision. The state has 60 days from the time the verdict was granted to decide.

But Larry Biegel, Rogers' attorney, said the state would be subject to about $590,000 in interest per year during the appeal period. And he also dismissed the idea that the jury's verdict was defective.

"We don't think there are any grounds to appeal," Biegel told The Pine Cone.

The state would only have to pay interest to Rogers if he won the case on appeal, which would be heard in the Sixth District Court of Appeal in San Jose.

Biegel also said the majority of cases tried in appeals courts result in favor of the lower court's decision. "About 95 percent of cases are affirmed," he said.

Rogers was returning from Big Sur Sept. 23, 2003, about midnight when he struck a wild boar that was in the road between the Carmel River Bridge and Ribera Road. The crash left the father of two wheelchair-bound and brain damaged.

Among other findings, jurors awarded Rogers — a former competitive kickboxer — millions because they found the state had created a "dangerous condition" on Highway 1.

The verdict sparked criticism because Rogers was under the influence of alcohol at the time of the crash. According to trial testimony, his blood alcohol level was .107 percent, exceeding the legal limit.

"We are disappointed the driver's responsibility was not given more weight by the jury," Cruz said.

During the trial, Caltrans' attorneys insisted Rogers hit the boar because he had been drinking and couldn't react in time to avoid the animal, which did not dart out in front of his motorcycle but was likely already dead when struck.

But Biegel argued Rogers hadn't been drinking the night of the accident. And Rogers' wife, Kristen Finn, testified her husband couldn't have been drinking because he was training for a kickboxing competition.

Rogers had gone to Big Sur to "clear his head" because he and Finn had gotten into an argument, she said.

Though Henson said he believed the plane had an hour's worth of fuel left, NTSB investigators found Henson's plane had only 24 oz. of fuel in the left wing fuel tank and only 8 oz. in the right fuel tank.

According to the NTSB report, Henson told investigators he "had forgotten to switch the fuel tanks and had run the right fuel tank dry," which would explain why the plane stalled.

The NTSB report does not indicate the plane had a fuel leak or any other mechanical problem. But the report said Hansen's "failure to use the landing checklist" contributed to the accident.

The NTSB indicates that on an accident form after the crash, Henson wrote, "If I had used my landing checklist, I would have not run the right tank dry because I would have turned to the fullest tank for landing."

The report says that while Henson was preparing to land — about 800 feet above ground — the engine lost power.

When Henson realized he had accidentally run the right tank out of fuel, he switched to the left fuel tank and turned on the electric fuel boost pump, according to the NTSB.

"Despite his efforts, the engine did not restart, and the airplane descended into trees and subsequently impacted the ground," the report said. The plane landed on its side.

Henson told the NTSB he topped off the airplane with fuel in Mexicali, Mexico. He then flew 15 minutes to Calexico, where he underwent an inspection by the U.S. Customs and Border Protection for reentry into the United States.

Henson had been returning from a 10-day vacation in Baja with Rummonds, a friend of his for nearly 40 years, when the plane went down.

FIRE

7 a.m. April 3 after seeing flames, Carmel Police Sgt. Ken Shen said this week, and no one was in the building by the time the first fire engine and ambulance arrived moments later from the station a block away.

As a ladder truck from Monterey Fire and other resources were en route, the first crew of five firefighters — three on the engine and two on the ambulance — waged their attack. The interior team, which included CFD Capt. Mitch Kastros, new Carmel firefighter Brian Harrington and Carmel Regional Fire Ambulance EMT/firefighter Spencer Reade, hoisted the fire hose, found the burning office and broke through the door.

No visibility

"The room was charged with heat and toxic gas, fire and smoke, and there was nowhere for it to go," Kastros recalled. "When we opened the door, all the smoke shot out right into our faces."

But at about the same time, the heat shattered a window, ventilating the room and enabling the firefighters to see, according to Kastros. Firefighters doused the flames.

The crew on the Monterey Fire ladder truck checked out the roof for extension of the fire but found none.

"We didn't have to chop up the building too badly," Kastros said. And though some water leaked from upstairs into an art gallery below, it was little enough to be sopped up with a towel and did not ruin any artwork.

"The fire was contained in the space of origin, which sustained major damage," Kastros reported.

All told, 20 firefighters and four chiefs from Carmel, Monterey, Cypress Fire Protection District, Carmel Valley and Carmel Regional Fire Ambulance responded.

The office tenant and a friend had been "hanging out" in the space and left around 6 a.m., according to MFD fire marshal David Reade.

"The patterns on the heater indicate it ignited the bedding material on top of a massage table," Reade said.

Reade said the insurance company's investigators will make a final determination on the cause and the amount of damage, but he estimated the tab at $20,000.

Tim Allen presents Al Smith's "Carmel Legends"

You have probably wondered how JAKE STOCK'S famous band got its name, "Abalone Stompers." It happened one night in 1942 at "The Oasis" in Salinas. For its own amusement, the band started playing some impromptu blues. "Who-ee!" said the piano player, "that sounds like a lonely abalone calling its mate!" A lady, much impressed, asked the name of the piece. "That's the Abalone Stomp," said Jake, and ever since they've been The Abalone Stompers. Jake was born in Savannah, Georgia in 1910, son of a clarinetist in the hotel orchestra. When Jake was 5, the family moved to Ohio, where Mr. Stock organized a 45-piece brass band, sold sewing machines, ran a pool hall and took on a farm near Columbus. Jake learned from him and became an excellent sight-reader, which stood him well. In 1929, after 2 years at Dennison University, he moved to Montreal and played with bands in hotels, theatres, resorts and clubs. In 1935 he came west to L.A., driving a used Packard across the country. He played many clubs and met his wife, Grace, on Catalina Island when she filled in for a reluctant pianist. "Best jazz pianist I ever knew," says Jake, and he proposed, not once but 4 times! "You don't want me," said she, "because I want 10 kids!" So did Jake, so he grabbed her. They fell a little short, only had 9, all but one of whom are living and doing well. Jake kept the kids in food and shoes by daylighting on other jobs, becoming a journeyman brick mason. Stories about him are legion, unbelievable, and true! He has been honored by the U. S. Congress, the people of Monterey and others, honor he says "make me uncomfortable. Catch him at the Hilton Inn on Sundays, or the River Inn, Beach Club, Aquarium, etc. And expect to be thoroughly entertained!
