Judge: Flanders EIR may not be adequate

By MARY BROWNFIELD

THE CITY Council voted unanimously to sell it, and the town's voters agreed by 913 to 552, but a group of preservationists believes a court should order the City of Carmel not to sell Flanders Mansion until it does more work on an environmental impact report.

Specifically, attorney Susan Brandt-Hawley told Monterey County Superior Court Judge Kay Kingsley during a hearing Wednesday morning the city should have analyzed what a private buyer might do with the old home. And she thinks the city's financial analysis justifying the sale was inadequate.

"The EIR needs to be revised," Brandt-Hawley said, particularly to evaluate the potential environmental impacts of turning Flanders into affordable housing, a halfway house or whatever else a public agency or nonprofit might want to use it for after purchasing the property.

Meanwhile, Rick Harray, representing the city, argued evaluating the future of the mansion

There's only a little rain in the forecast, but recent storms have left the courses very wet, so if you're heading out to the AT&T Pro-Am this weekend, you'll need sunscreen and waterproof shoes. During the first round Thursday, celebrities played at MPCC, which became part of the tournament this year. But pro Dustin Johnson (left), playing at Pebble Beach, took the lead at 8 under par. Some of the amateurs did pretty well, too, including Comcast CEO Brian Roberts (right), who birdied the par-5 11th Hole at Spyglass. See our special section for complete coverage.

Bergstrom: 'Jane Doe' testimonies prejudiced jury

Some of trial's sensational evidence should never have been allowed, convicted doctor argues

By MARY BROWNFIELD

PHYSICIAN CARL Bergstrom — convicted last July of forcibly sodomizing a woman at his Carmel Woods home in April 2009 and now serving a six-year sentence in North Kern State Prison — said Monday the California Court of Appeal should overturn his conviction because Monterey County Superior Court Judge Russell Scott illegally allowed other women to testify about their sexual encounters with him.

In the opening brief filed Feb. 8, San Francisco attorney James Farragher Campbell also argued the judge improperly instructed the jury in its decision-making and should not have allowed the prosecutor to introduce unrelated evidence that biased the jury against Bergstrom.

'Abuse of discretion'

The trial court "abused its discretion" by permitting two other women, identified as Jane Doe 2 and Jane Doe 3, to talk about their encounters with Bergstrom, considering the victims never complained to police and did not come forward until after media stories detailed the arrest, according to Bergstrom's appeal. Both women said they had unwanted sexual contact from Bergstrom while intoxicated.

"Defendant not only had the burden of defending himself against complainant's allegations, he had to defend himself against Jane Doe 2 and Jane Doe 3," Campbell wrote. "And, he had to do this in a vacuum: because these

Blogger bashes county over sandbar 'emergencies'

By CHRIS COUNTS

AN ANONYMOUS blogger with a strong local following — and reputed to be a Monterey County official — is pointedly taking the county's public works department to task for declaring five separate "emergencies" since October to legalize its opening of the Carmel River Lagoon to the sea.

But a public works official defended his agency's efforts to balance the welfare of the steelhead trout who live in the lagoon with the need to protect an adjacent neighborhood from flooding, and a California Coastal Commission official expressed sympathy for the county's challenging role and suggested a compromise was possible.

Informative, difficult to pronounce

The blog is called Xasáuan Today — a name that apparently comes from an Esselen village. Its author says it caters to "a small audience of aging beatniks, social and environmental justice advocates, cyclists and backwoods retro-grouch types." The blogger claims Xasáuan Today has "thousands" of followers, partly as a result of its

Moniz raises flap over courtyard map

By MARY BROWNFIELD

A MAP of Carmel courtyards that was plagiarized on the city's tourism website is emblematic of government waste and cover-up, according to mayoral candidate Adam Moniz. But the city councilwoman helping to oversee the marketing effort said it amounted to nothing more than a mistake.

The map, included by the marketing firm Burghardt+Doré in a city brochure last year and featured on the www.carmelcalifornia.com website, was based on a descriptive drawing of court-

No bail for Salyer

By KELLY NIX

A FEDERAL judge in Brooklyn refused to grant bail last Friday for Pebble Beach resident Scott Salyer, the former CEO of SK Foods who was arrested the day before at John F. Kennedy Airport on charges of mail and wire fraud in connection with his failed tomato-processing business.

While his attorney had sought bail, U.S. Magistrate Judge Steven Gold denied the request, ruling Salyer was a flight risk and had come up with "one of the most elaborate schemes to flee" he had ever seen.

Salyer, 54, was arrested by FBI agents after arriving at JFK from London. He will be moved to Sacramento in a few weeks for trial, according to the U.S. Attorney for the Eastern District of California.

Salyer is alleged to have orchestrated a number of schemes over the past 10 years, including paying bribes to corporate food buyers so they would buy processed tomato products at inflated prices from SK Foods.

Salyer is also accused of selling inferior tomato products to customers and directing employees to falsify doc-

They wouldn't do his anti-Obama tattoo, so he firebombed the place

By MARY BROWNFIELD

PACIFIC GROVE resident Nathan Augustine, arrested last summer for fire-bombing a Monterey body-art business and a P.G. restaurant, pleaded guilty to two counts of arson and admitted using an incendiary device, Monterey County Deputy District Attorney Doug Matheson announced last week.

On July 13, 2009, Augustine, 28, threw a Molotov cocktail through the front window of Creative Visions, the Lighthouse Avenue tattoo and piercing shop owned by Carmel city employee Margi Perotti. The building, owned by Troia Dairy Distributing, was badly damaged, and investigators found the vodka bottle Augustine had used for his makeshift incendiary device.

Two days later, Augustine threw a similar bottle onto the roof of Lattitudes Restaurant near Lovers Point.

"Both bottles had handwriting on them in red ink with the words 'Russian Standard,' a swastika, and a unique symbol similar to the British Union Jack with added diagonal lines through it," according to Matheson — symbols which apparently reflected Augustine's political views.

At the time of his arrest, which occurred after police contacted him on an unrelated crime and became suspicious, Perotti said she remembered hearing from the artists in her shop that he had come in demanding a tattoo which they wouldn't do. Matheson reported the they had "refused to tattoo on Augustine's chest a swastika and a likeness of President Obama overlaid with crosshairs."

He also reportedly had a beef with Lattitudes because an African American employee denied him a job.

When police officers searched Augustine's house, they found containers of lighter fluid, gloves similar to those discovered at Lattitudes, and the altered British Union Jack symbol.

Augustine is set to be sentenced by

SCHOOL KIDS, ENTREPRENEUR FIND WAYS TO HELP HAITIANS

By MARY BROWNFIELD

FOOD, WATER, medical supplies and dollars are pouring into Haiti in the massive effort to help that impoverished country recover from last month's crippling earthquake, but to an 8-year-old Carmel River School student, something was missing: Basic comfort for the kids, many of them orphans. In a light-bulb moment while sitting with his family in their Carmel Knolls home watching CNN's exhaustive coverage of the tragedy as it unfolded, Christian Gebhardt decided not only to donate his stuffed animals to Haitian children, but to encourage his classmates to give theirs away as well. Further inspired, he named the drive "Stuffed with Love for Haiti," according to his mom, Patty Gebhardt.

"Stuffed with Love is about providing a bit of comfort to orphans in Haiti. But it is also very valuable to our children," she said. "This project creates discussion about Haiti, at home and in our schools. It helps make the aftermath of natural disasters — and the orphans' plight in Haiti — real to our kids."

Gebhardt also said the opportunity to help, and the feeling they are making a difference, are invaluable.

After getting permission from school principal Jay Marden to hold the toy drive, and finding a reputable organization to oversee the distribution of the stuffed animals in Haiti, the Gebhardts launched their collecting this week and planned to ship the boxes to HOPE Haiti, located in New York, Friday or Saturday.

Gebhardt said coordinating the effort was remarkably easy, thanks to the Internet and a network of philanthropical organizations

'Ecoresort' files $200 million suit against coastal commission

By KELLY NIX

A DEVELOPER is going back to court to try to force the California Coastal Commission to give him a permit for an oceanfront "ecoresort" in Sand City.

On Feb. 1, Ed Ghandour filed a lawsuit in San Francisco Superior Court to overturn a December decision by the coastal commission rejecting the resort he has sought since the mid-1990s. The hotel would be located on a 39-acre site just north of the billboard sand dune and across Highway 1 from Seaside High School — land the coastal commission has long officially designated for a hotel.

Ghandour also filed an inverse condemnation claim — seeking at least $200 million — alleging the state, by not allowing him to build the resort, has created a regulatory "taking" of the oceanfront property he owns.

"We want the court to side with us and issue the coastal development permit ... to let the project go ahead," Ghandour told The Pine Cone Wednesday. "In the alternative, if they are not going to do that, then the state should pay us for what they have taken."

The resort includes a 160-room hotel, 180 condominiums, conference center, underground parking and a dune habitat restoration project.

The project would be built on dunes that were mined for decades. The site is designated for "visitor serving uses" in the Sand City Local Coastal Program, which was certified by the coastal commission. A lawsuit in the 1990s confirmed the site's zoning.

But when Ghandour's permit came before the commission last December, commissioners said the resort was "inconsistent with a variety of Local Coastal Program requirements" and lacks adequate water supply, blocks public views and would not protect natural resources.

The commission set stricter rules when Ghandour sought a permit for his project, he argues.

"The coastal commission is bound by the court order, which it violated," he said.

This week, Ghandour vowed to keep fighting until the state gives.

"We are going to pursue litigation all the way until we get the project, or we get compensated," he said. "That's what I'm entitled to constitutionally."

In 2000, the commission first rejected Ed Ghandour's $300 million hotel plan, claiming it would unduly harm plants and animal on the 39-acre site across Highway 1 from Seaside High School.

But in 2008, a California court of appeal tossed out the habitat argument, citing an earlier coastal commission ruling that the property contained no "environmentally sensitive habitat."

After the most recent rejection, the coastal commission's staff said Ghandour should consider a "much smaller" project that avoids harming native species, such as the Monterey spineflower and Western snowy plover, and minimizes significant impacts to views and addresses traffic concerns.

Ghandour said he's already done that.

"We have scaled it down dramatically," he said. "It appears no matter what we do, it's futile. Clearly, the commission has said they don't want to see anything on the coast."

Council OKs contract for landscape design

By MARY BROWNFIELD

A LANDSCAPE architect will receive $16,975 to design the greenery, irrigation and related details for a path along San Antonio Avenue between Fourth Avenue and the Carmel gate into Del Monte Forest, the city council decided without discussion last week.

According to the agreement, the Monterey-based firm of Bellinger Foster Steinmetz will develop plans for landscaping along the road and path, see them through approval, prepare all the documents and assist in the bidding process. Company principal Larry Foster estimated the conceptual design would cost $6,500, the construction documents would be $6,500, and bidding and construction review would run $3,975. Attending more city meetings or producing more drawings than anticipated would cost extra.

While the conceptual design for the walkway — which is being done in collaboration with the Pebble Beach Co. as part of a larger trails project at the north end of town and Carmel Beach — has been completed, neighbors have told the city they want "a landscape barrier, especially at the intersection of San Antonio and Fourth Avenue," according to the report provided to the council by city staff. They reportedly worried removing plants to build the path would allow the lights from passing vehicles to shine on their properties on the west side of San Antonio.

During its review of the proposal, the planning commission also suggested developing a plan for landscaping that would offer privacy screening without degrading the scenery. Bellinger Foster Steinmetz is familiar with city standards, according to the report, and Foster proposed "to work with both the residents who live near San Antonio and with the Pebble Beach Company staff to develop a plan that conforms to the city's design guidelines."

Without discussion, the council approved the contract as part of its consent agenda Feb. 2.

Colangelo hired as interim CAO

By KELLY NIX

FORMER PACIFIC Grove city manager Jim Colangelo is spending less time on the Monterey Peninsula and more time in Humboldt County, where he is filling in as the assistant county administrative officer, a post he also held in Monterey County.

Since January, Colangelo, 51, has been working in Eureka. He was sought for the interim job by a headhunting firm that specializes in hiring professionals for temp jobs.

Colangelo is filling in for the job through March until a permanent assistant CAO is hired.

"The old CAO retired and the assistant CAO got promoted," Colangelo explained. "While he was doing the recruitment for his replacement, he needed some help."

Colangelo resigned as P.G. city manager in January 2009 after less than four years on the job. He was Monterey County's assistant administrative officer from 1999 to 2005.

Though the employment firm wanted Colangelo to work after his stint with P.G. was over, he told them he needed some time off in between jobs. He also told the company he didn't want to work in Fresno or Bakersfield. "I said 'I'm interested, but only in an interesting place,'" he explained.

Colangelo — who said his hourly wage is comparable to what he earned in Pacific Grove (about $158,000/year) — works three days per week in Humboldt, then drives back to P.G., where he shares a house with his sister, Joy Colangelo.

"I come home for a long weekend," he said.

Humboldt was a good match because Colangelo had visited the area and liked it. His nephew attends Humboldt State University. And, though he expects the job to last only through March, Colangelo said the experience in Humboldt County has been good. "They have some issues they will be facing in terms of finances," he said. "But it's a very nice group of people to work with."

However, even if he was offered a full-time job in Humboldt County, Colangelo said he would turn it down.

"I love Pacific Grove," he said.

Ione Cosette Thornton Strum

1931 - 2009

Ione Cosette Thornton Strum died on October 13, 2009, in Tacoma, Washington. She was 78.

Ione was born on January 31, 1931 in Terre Haute, Indiana. After spending her childhood years in Chicago, Illinois, she returned as a teenager to Terre Haute with her parents, and later attended Indiana State Teacher's College, where she studied English and took her first, memorable, class in philosophy. Her mother, a concert violinist as a young woman, cultivated in her a life-long love of music; a neighbor and an aunt cultivated an early interest in poetry, which became another life-long love. In 1953, she began teaching English at Crawfordsville High School. She met Robert Strum in Terre Haute in 1953, and they married in July of 1954. After their marriage, she helped care for Robert Strum's mother, who suffered from multiple sclerosis, until her death in 1955.

In 1958, having given birth to her first child just one month before, Ione flew to California with her baby to join her husband in Carmel, where they would live as he began a 43 year teaching career at the Naval Postgraduate School in Monterey. In Carmel, Ione Strum was active in the local Democratic club, worked as a paper grader for local high schools, and — characteristically — made many friends among the neighbors she found in the new town. In 1962, she gave birth to a second child.

In 1969, Ione traveled with her family to Bath, England, where they lived while her husband held a Fulbright teaching fellowship. During this year, she visited her English relatives, her beloved York Minster cathedral, along with many other historical sites, and she made a number of life-long friends. In 1974, she began to work outside of the home once again, first at a small business in Carmel, then, for 3 years, teaching English to soldiers at then-Fort Ord in order to help them pass their high school equivalency examinations. In 1977, she was hired at McGraw-Hill's California Testing Bureau in Monterey, where she worked writing reading tests — even here, as a coworker and friend put it, "giving young children a glimpse into the things that are really important in life: art, music, literature." In 1982, she embarked on a new career path as a fundraiser and social service administrator for the Salvation Army in the Monterey Peninsula. Her more than 25 years of service to the Salvation Army were marked by many great accomplishments. Largely through her fundraising efforts, the Army was able to move from its old location in a converted house in Pacific Grove to a new complex in Seaside, which included a child development center where Ione was a frequent and beloved visitor. Her skills as a writer helped the Army greatly increase its fundraising, both from private and government sources, and her energy as an administrator allowed it to expand its services to the young, the old, and the indigent. She recovered from this activity with frequent trips to Great Britain and the European Continent, sometimes with her family, sometimes with only her husband, sometimes with friends.

With the birth of three grandchildren within a year's time in the late 90s, Ione once again generously exercised her unusual capacity to nurture, cultivate, and stimulate children, traveling often to New York City to visit her daughter's twins, or to Mountain View, California, to visit her son's son. Despite having to undergo serious back surgery in 2002, Ione quickly returned to her roles as "Grammy" and "Oma" to her grandchildren, as "retired" but quite active administrator at the Salvation Army, and as "Ione" to her many friends. In the Spring of 2006, she was diagnosed with advanced ovarian cancer. Despite the diagnosis and the rigors of her treatment, she continued all of her activities, characteristically overlooking her discomfort. In the late Fall of 2008, Ione's husband Robert succumbed to a heart attack and stroke. They had lived together in the same house in Carmel-by-the-Sea for 50 years, and been married for 54. In the late summer of 2009, with her condition finally beginning to significantly worsen, she moved to Tacoma, Washington to live with her son and his family, where she spent the last two months of her long and rich life.

She is survived by a daughter, Sarah Darnell Strum, of New York City; a son, Arthur Connelly Thornton Strum, of Tacoma, Washington; a son-in-law Marc Fleisher, of New York City; a daughter-in-law, Carmina Palerm, of Tacoma; her grandchildren Jacob Rose, Rachel Rose, and Alyosha Strum-Palerm; and by many, many loved and loving friends.

Contributions may be made in her memory to Big Sur Land Trust.

Educators look into a crystal ball and see more computers

By CHRIS COUNTS

FORECASTING THE future of the job market might be tricky, but one thing's for certain: When the economy rebounds, more jobs than ever will require computer skills.

Anticipating an economy that places an even greater emphasis on computer training, California State Monterey Bay presents its first Monterey Bay Information Technology Summit Friday, Feb. 12. In addition to offering about 100 local students a hands-on, day-long computer workshop, the event will feature a free public talk by Google's director of research, Dr. Peter Norvig.

In the words of the organizers, the event aims to "help create the next generation of technology gurus."

"The goal is to strengthen the pathway from high school to community college to CSUMB to the workplace," explained Leslie Kern, program coordinator for the university's Monterey Bay Regional Academy for Computing Education. "We're trying to grow a community around computer science."

According to organizers, more than 1.5 million new computing jobs will be created by 2016, making it one of the fastest growing segments of the job market. More specifically, computer software engineering jobs are expected to grow 45 percent over the next five years.

The event also aims to demystify computer science.

"A lot of students have no idea of what it means to be a computer scientist," said Dr. Kate Lockwood, assistant professor at CSUMB. "And it's a valuable opportunity for teachers and counselors to see what the field is about, and what the university offers, so they can advise students."

Norvig, who once oversaw a staff of 200 scientists at the NASA Ames Research Center in Mountain View, gained notoriety 10 years ago when he turned the Gettysburg Address into a satire of a Microsoft PowerPoint presentation. He is also the co-author of "Artificial Intelligence: A Modern Approach," a textbook considered many to be a landmark in the field.

Robert Denney Strum

1924 - 2008

Robert Denney Strum, Professor Emeritus in electrical and computer engineering at the Naval Postgraduate School, died on November 21, 2008 at his home in Carmel, California, following a brief illness. He was 84.

He was survived by his wife, Ione Thornton Strum, a daughter, Sarah D. Strum of New York City, a son, Arthur C. T. Strum of Tacoma, Washington, and three grandchildren: Jacob Rose, Rachel Rose, and Alyosha Strum-Palerm, as well as many friends. His wife Ione died on October 13, 2009.

Born in LaCrosse, Wisconsin, Strum was an outstanding student and basketball player at Wiley High School in Terre Haute, Indiana. Following his graduation, he served in the U.S. Navy during WWII, after which he worked as train engineer for General Motors Corporation. Following the death of his father in 1948, he moved back to Terre Haute, Indiana, to take care of his mother, and entered the teaching profession at Rose Polytechnic Institute, where he taught for 10 years. In 1956, he began a master's program at Stanford University, and moved with his family in 1958 to Carmel, California, where he taught at the nearby Postgraduate School in Monterey for 33 years.

When he and his wife moved to Carmel in 1958, Strum became active in a movement, spearheaded by Jeanne Morgan Klenke and Gunnar Norberg, which attempted to curb development in order to sustain the special character of the town. Strum was also a founding member of the Forestry Commission.

At the U.S. Naval Postgraduate School in the mid nineteen sixties, Strum and John R. Ward conducted early research into computer assisted instruction, which led to many years of studies and publications, including books on circuits and networks, linear systems, and state variable analysis, as well as programmed texts on the Laplace transform, signal flow graphs, system response, and state-space. A Senior Fulbright Fellow in Great Britain in 1970-71, Strum collaborated with Ward at the University of Bath and other universities in England, emphasizing educational technology.

More recently, with Donald E. Kirk, he was the author of First Principles of Discrete Systems and Digital Signal Processing, and Contemporary Linear Systems. Strum received the Western Electric Award for contributions to engineering education and, with Kirk, the McGraw-Hill- Jacob Milman award.

The central focus of Strum's educational philosophy was summed up in John Gardner's description: "The ultimate goal of the education system is to shift to the individual the burden of pursuing his own education." His friend and publisher at National Science and Technology Press, Tom Robbins, noted of Strum: "It was typical of his perceptiveness to be one step ahead of the curve, but never outside the unit circle."

Beyond his accomplishments as an engineering educator, Strum was also an avid reader of literature as well as voracious reader of the many periodicals, ranging from the Nation to the New Yorker to Wired, which filled the home he made with Ione Strum. He was intensely interested in politics and basketball. He was also a beloved and deeply loving friend, husband, and father.

Contributions in his memory can be made to Big Sur Land Trust. Friends are invited to read and share memories of Strum at <http://sites.google.com/a/plu.edu/strum-memorial>.

Treasure Island and Alice highlight Forest Theater centennial

By CHRIS COUNTS

IN CELEBRATION of its 100th birthday, the Forest Theater will host two 19th century plays that were performed by Carmel's early Bohemians.

A Forest Theater Guild production of Robert Louis Stevenson's "Treasure Island" will open May 28 and continue through June 20. The guild will also present Lewis Carroll's "Alice in Wonderland," which debuts July 2 and continues through July 30.

"Treasure Island" tells the story of a young man named Jim Hawkins, who discovers a pirate's treasure map and joins an expedition that sets off to find the booty.

In December 1879, the Scottish-born Stevenson visited Monterey. After returning to Scotland, he wrote "Treasure Island," publishing the novel to great acclaim in 1883. The book's fictitious island is in the Caribbean Sea, but its topography is believed to be based on Point Lobos. A stage version of "Treasure Island" was first performed at the Forest Theater in 1911. A stage version of "Alice in Wonderland," based on the 1865 book by Lewis Carroll, was performed in Carmel just two years later.

In addition to the two plays, the Forest Theater Guild is planning a centennial birthday celebration this summer. The fundraising event, for which a date has not yet been set, will showcase past Forest Theater performances and the theater's history. Another event, which will offer local actors and actresses a chance to portray Carmel's early personalities, is also in the works.

The theater's first theatrical production, a Biblical drama by Constance Lindsey Skinner called "David," opened July 9, 1910.

"Attending a play or musical at the beloved Forest Theater is a longstanding Carmel tradition for residents and visitors alike," explained Rose McLendon, local history librarian for the Harrison Memorial Library. For more about the Forest Theater Guild, call (831) 626-1681 or visit www.foresttheaterguild.org.

We also made a difference for:

...A daughter who called us because her mother was not taking her medications. After a short visit to assess the situation, it was clear that she needed some help. We implemented a system to remind her what pills to take with each meal, and we trained her in the proper use of her medical equipment at home. Most importantly, we helped her establish a relationship with a more attentive physician. And now that she has the right medical supervision, the client no longer needs our services.

Late night TV host sells out Sunset, pianist pays tribute to Chopin

By CHRIS COUNTS

RUMORED TO be the heir-apparent for David Letterman as host of "The Late Show," standup comedian, writer and actor Craig Ferguson has a star that continues to rise. And his latest achievement is selling out his Feb. 12 performance at Sunset Center.

While Ferguson's performance is sold out, tickets are still available for classical pianist Gustavo Romero's Sunday, Feb. 14 recital of 19th century works by Frédéric Chopin.

Romero, a native of San Diego, began playing the piano when he was 5, and by the time he was 13, he was performing with the New York Philharmonic. Now associate professor of piano at the University of North Texas, Romero has staged a series of concerts over the past nine years, each showcasing one composer. Before exploring the music of Chopin, Romero has presented performances dedicated to the music of Bach, Beethoven, Mozart, Schumann, Schubert and Brahms. He's noted for his technical brilliance and the interpretive depth of his playing.

Presented by the Carmel Music Society, the concert starts at 3 p.m. Tickets are $37. Call (831) 625-9938.

Also performing this month at Sunset Center are the ATOS Piano Trio (Feb. 19), the Monterey Symphony (Feb. 21-22), a Tribute to Andrew Lloyd Webber (Feb. 27) and Christine Ebersole (Feb. 28). For ticket information regarding the ATOS Piano Trio concert, call (831) 625-2212. For Monterey Symphony tickets, call (831) 644-0669. And for more information about the Webber tribute and the Ebersole performance, call the Sunset Center box office at (831) 620-2048 or visit www.sunsetcenter.org.

Quilted sculpture turns heads in P.G.

By CHRIS COUNTS

IN A town where most art galleries are filled with plein aire seascapes and other conventional creations, Susan Else's quilted sculpture stands out like a flying saucer landing on Lighthouse Avenue.

Back Porch Fabrics and Quilt Gallery unveils an exhibit of Else's eye-catching work Sunday, Feb. 14.

Else, a Santa Cruz resident, is convinced that her work is so different, it's worthy of quite a few metaphors.

"It's definitely off the wall and out of the box,"

Else observed. "I'm in a very small niche that's out in left field."

By sewing swatches of colorful fabric directly onto the surface of a three-dimensional object, Else creates a piece that is part sculpture and part fabric art.

"I'm a fine artist who works in fabric," she explained. "It's a medium that can do anything any other fine art medium can do."

While offering Else an infinite number of creative possibilities, the medium does have its challenges. "There are no books about what I do, so I'm always trying to come up with my own solutions," she said.

Else's playful — and at times mischievous — side comes out in her work. She recently made a life-sized model of a human skeleton with fabric, creating a piece that can charm a child and give an adult nightmares.

"The skeleton is a scary image, but the piece has a certain engaging quality to it," she explained. "I like the combination of slightly disturbing with warm and fuzzy. I use cloth to create an alternate universe, and the resulting work is full of contradictions — It is whim-

Big Sur gold, yet more Valentines, and Parmigiano Reggiano

By MARY BROWNFELD

THE DARK, wet winter months might not seem like the best time to highlight the bounty of local crops, but fun-gophiles know winter is chanterelle time, which is indeed cause for celebration. The Feb. 26-28 Big Sur Chanterelle Festival and Cook-Off will honor the fluted golden wild mushroom that grows in the duff near the bases of native trees.

"The California chanterelle is the largest in the world," said organizer Toby Rowland-Jones, who also headed last November's Big Sur Food & Wine Festival. "And sometimes I'm reluctant to say that, because it sounds like Texas."

But his claim is no wild exaggeration, with single mushrooms known to weigh well over a pound, and considering chanterelles can be astoundingly tasty simply sautéed in butter with shallots and fresh herbs, chefs savor the chance to use them in all sorts of applications when the harvest is abundant.

"It's like finding gold," he said. "Running through the forest and seeing a patch is like standing knee deep in the middle of a stream and finding a gold nugget."

Which is why, beginning with a Friday-night reception at the Big Sur Lodge and concluding with Sunday brunch at the Redwood Grill at Fernwood, chanterelles will be the show-piece of a weekend's worth of culinary creativity and consumption.

"I can't tell you how excited I am," Rowland-Jones said, especially since no festival occurred last year, due to the wildfires the previous summer, the lousy economy and a mediocre harvest caused by lack of rain. Before Rowland-Jones took the helm, Jack Ellwanger ran the festival and cook-off.

One of the weekend's highlights will be a talk and forage led by mycologists, including members of the Fungus Federation of Santa Cruz. Rowland-Jones said he loves taking people out who have never even tasted a chanterelle or know what one looks like.

During a recent mushroom hunt with five newbies, "we went out and found an absolute treasure trove, and seeing their reaction was like watching kids at Easter," he said.

The FUNgus Hunt and Identification Seminar will be held from 9 a.m. to noon, followed by the Chanterelle Cook-Off, in which Big Sur chefs will vie for Best Presentation, Most Original, Best Overall and the People's Choice. A private panel of judges will sample their creations first, with the public having at them from 1 to 3:30 p.m. Participating Big Sur chefs include Matt Glazer from Esalen, Phil Wojtowicz from the Big Sur Bakery, Matt Millea at Sierra Mar, Dory Ford from the Restaurant at Ventana, Nepenthe's Chris Fenton, Charles LaGreca of the River Inn, David Dildine from the Redwood Grill at Fernwood, Wendy Tinaudo from the Big Sur Roadhouse, Chris Watts of Treebones and Joel Manriquez from the Big Sur Lodge.

That evening, a reception and auction will be held at the lodge, after which everyone, including many of the chefs, will enjoy a celebratory awards dinner.

"We'll get a lot of them sitting down for the awards dinner, which is very exciting, because it's not often they get to do that," Rowland-Jones said. "And we only have five wineries, so they will be pouring and showing all weekend," including Morgan, Hahn Estates, Galante, Heller, Talbott and Firestone Walker Brewing Co.

Prices start at just $20 for the FUNgus Hunt and top out at $100 for the awards dinner. The Friday-night reception and Saturday cook-off are each $40, and Sunday brunch is $25. Discount combination packages are also available.

Proceeds benefit the Big Sur Gardens Project, which seeks to plant raised beds throughout the community to benefit area residents and help them learn about cultivating and consuming healthy, locally grown food.

André Lemaire — peripatetic chef with an abiding passion

By MARGOT PETIT NICHOLS

HIS WORK as an executive chef has taken him from his hometown of Paris to Brussels, Cameroon, the Cote d'Azur, La Jolla, Las Vegas, Moscow, Pittsburgh, Palm Beach, Austin, Fresno and (finally) Carmel-by-the-Sea.

Chef André Lemaire has moved 30 times in his life in search of the perfect place, the perfect restaurant where he can practice his profession with passion.

He believes he has found it on Mission Street between Ocean and Seventh avenues. Last April, he purchased Bouchée restaurant from David Fink and turned it into André's Bouchée Bistro and Wine Bar — thereby embracing the name that for several years garnered praise and a steady patronage from local and visiting gourmets.

But, unlike the former restaurant, Chef André does not rely on three or four line cooks — he prepares most of the orders with the help of only one man on the line, and a pantry cook.

He arrives at his tastefully appointed restaurant at 10 in the morning to begin preparing everything, from classic French sauces, to pastries. Few chefs create their own desserts.

This is a prodigious amount of work, considering his dinner menu alone offers 11 appetizers (plus three specials of the day), 11 entrées (with an additional four specials), and six desserts, including a cheese tray.

Chef André describes his menu as classic French cuisine with "California flair." There are five fish entrées listed on the menu and three on the appetizer menu, as well as dishes featuring beef, duck, lamb, veal and sweetbreads. There are few restaurants on the Peninsula that feature such a variety of choices.

Flyboy ambition nixed

Born in Paris, Lemaire attended a culinary institute in Bordeaux at his father's insistence. His father and 22 of his relatives were dedicated to the hotel/restaurant business, and when Lemaire confessed to his father he wanted to be a pilot, he was told, "You're going to be a chef."

He's glad now that his father had the upper hand, because being a chef turned out to be his true calling.

"You start out to become a chef by working in different

■ Lighting the way

CASA, Court Appointed Special Advocates of Monterey County, will hold its annual fundraiser, Lighting the Way, in a Cotton Club theme at the Hyatt Regency Monterey at 1 Old Golf Course Road Saturday, Feb. 20, at 5:30 p.m. The nonprofit also announced supporters can get started vying for Lighting the Way auction items at www.biddingforgood.com/index.htm, where bidding opened Feb. 5.

The party — a major fundraiser for an organization dedicated to helping abused and neglected kids navigate the system and learn to lead productive lives — will feature four courses created by chef Mark Ayers, and wine by Scheid Vineyards and Chateau Julien Wine Estate. Guests will dance all evening to tunes by Dennis Murphy and his 17-piece Big Band.

Tickets are $225 per person. Reservations are required by calling (831) 455-6800.

■ The big cheese

Whole Foods Market is celebrating a much loved cheese, Parmigiano Reggiano, and stores across the country will simultaneously crack open hundreds of wheels of the aged Northern Italian staple Feb. 27. The market honors Parmigiano Reggiano each February "because it is truly one of the incomparable cheeses of the world."

Cheesemongers will demonstrate the traditional method of breaking into 2-year-old, 85-pound wheels using five different official knives from Italy's Consorzio del Formaggio Parmigiano Reggiano. In 2008, they set a world record for most Parmigiano wheels cracked simultaneously — 300 at 176 stores — and the chain hopes to break that record this year. The ceremony will mark the end of the month-long cheese homage.

■ Have a heart

California State University Monterey Bay will hold its annual Have a Heart for Students fundraiser Saturday, March 13. KSBW-TV meteorologist Jim Vanderzwaan will help auction dozens of items, including tickets to the Panetta Lecture Series and next year's AT&T Pebble Beach National Pro-

Am, with a goal of raising $110,000.

Faculty and staff will be waiters and wine stewards for the evening, themed "Home, Sweet Home" and featuring a locally inspired menu. The fundraiser will be held in the University Center ballroom, with the silent auction and mixer at 5 p.m., and dinner at 7:30. Tickets are $85 per person and can be reserved by calling (831) 582-4141. For more information, tickets and auction bidding, visit csumb.edu/auction.

■ Pinot paradise

Pinot Noir has dedicated, even rabid, fans, and each year, Santa Cruz Mountain winegrowers spend a weekend relishing the area's offerings with barrel tastings, seminars and a grand selection of wines and small bites. The 6th annual Pinot Paradise Festival is set for March 27-28 and will feature more than 60 Santa Cruz Mountains wines — all Pinots.

One of the highlights of the weekend will be the Grand Cruz Tasting in downtown Campbell at the Villa Ragusa. In an expansive ballroom, the wines will be divided into six sub-regions of the appellation, and chefs from area restaurants will prepare hors d'oeuvres to accompany them.

"The marine influence and distinctive soils create intensely concentrated fruit that yields some of the most complex and age-worthy Pinot Noir in the world," according to Shannon Flynn of the SCMWA.

Pinot Paradise includes a 9 a.m.-to-noon technical session, which this year will focus on different yeasts' influences on the wines, along with other aspects of viticulture and vinification. The Grand Cruz Tasting runs from 2 to 5 p.m., though a special VIP Package will offer private, pre-event tastings and "guided tours" in small groups at 1 p.m.

Tickets to the technical session are $55 and must be reserved in advance. Grand Cruz Tasting tickets are $55 in advance or $65 at the door; VIP admission is $75.

And for those who would rather go at their own pace, or make a whole weekend of it, the Pathway to Paradise — a self-guided tour of the area's Pinot producers — will be held Saturday, March 27. Barrel tasting and library wines will be part of the fun, and tickets are $25. Tickets and more information are available at (831)685-8463, www.scmwa.com or info@scmwa.com.

■ Fishwife seeks scholars

The Fishwife and Turtle Bay are accepting applications for the New Millennium Scholarship, which is available to seniors at local public high schools and includes a $3,000 gift and four $500 honorary scholarships. During the past decade, the program has awarded more than $65,000.

Restaurateur Jefferson Seay is continuing the tradition of helping needy students "who have the vision and self-discipline to further their education and achieve their goals for excellence." They must have GPAs of at least 3.0, be active in the community, and have overcome hardships, or be working to overcome them. Applications are available at the restaurants and from school counselors, and are due March 19. For more information, call (831) 375-7108.

agement — all needed to run a restaurant.

After this, he went to Cameroon on a two-year contract arranged by the school. When he had fulfilled his obligation, he returned to France, where he worked on the Cotes d'Azur in Cannes and St. Raphael.

"It was a busy life," he said.

He then returned to Paris, where he worked in Henri Sagan's two-star restaurant, Le Pressoire. "Sagan was a talented guy," he said. "I worked for him for three years as an executive chef, 15 hours a day.

In 1987, he returned to the U.S.A. she and chefed at L'Auberge of La Jolla for nine years. While there, he met the then-owners of La Dolce Vita restaurant in Carmel. He came up to see it and was greatly attracted to the village.

But he became sidetracked, ending up in Las Vegas, Moscow, Palm Beach, Paris and Corsica.

During this mélange of culinary travels, he met Elizabeth, who became his wife. They moved to Austin, Texas, then to Fresno, where he was executive chef at the Table Mountain Casino for two years.

Then, finally, they came to Carmel, purchased Bouchée from Fink, and opened André's Bouchée Bistro 10 months ago.

Sommelier Dimitri Ruban helped create the wine cellar of 5,000 bottles, composed of 600 labels. Ruban is the bartender at the restaurant and runs the wine cellar.

Elizabeth oversees the restaurant and is the dinner hostess; Andre's son, Stephane, is the general manager; Elizabeth's daughter, Lauren Haubach, and Stephane's girlfriend, Natalia Skrhova, are servers and luncheon hostesses. It has turned into a family affair.

André's Bouchée Bistro and Wine Bar is open for lunch from 11:30 a.m. until 2 p.m. Wednesday through Sunday, and dinner is served seven nights a week from 5:30 p.m. until closing. The restaurant is on Mission Street between Ocean and Seventh avenues. For information or reservations, call (831) 626-7880.

JAZZ PIANIST PLAYS AT YURT RESORT

TREEBONES RESORT unveils its new grand piano on Valentine's Day, Sunday, Feb. 14. Treebones also recently added sushi to its restaurant menu — no small challenge for a resort of 16 yurts located off the grid and far from civilization.

To make the piano's debut weekend extra special, Treebones is bringing in Big Sur jazz pianist Dick Whittington to play the piano for guests. Whittington, best known for his many appearances at the Cypress Inn, will play a collection of love songs from the Great American Songbook, including favorites by George Gershwin, Irving Berlin, Rodgers and Hart, and Cole Porter.

Whittington will play Sunday and Monday from 6:30 to 9:30 p.m. For more information, call (877) 424-4787.

yards and interblock walkways created by Pine Cone "Sandy Claws" columnist Margot Petit Nichols and her daughter, Francesca Hawthorne. At the time, the pair owned a shop off Lincoln Street in Su Vecino Court and designed the map to draw more visitors off of Ocean Avenue. They researched the material, wrote its editorial content and solicited businesses to advertise on it.

After becoming aware their map was being used in the city's tourism literature, Nichols and Hawthorne sent an Oct. 30, 2009, letter to city administrator Rich Guillen seeking reimbursement.

"At the outset of work, we had nothing to base our map and content upon, because nothing had ever been done like it before, so we started from scratch in creating the map — something that Jeff Burghardt didn't have to spend time doing; he simply filched ours without asking for permission," they wrote. The women estimated they each spent 40 hours researching, drawing, writing, producing, printing, selling, publicizing and mailing the map, and they asked for compensation of $60 per hour.

"Is it possible to bypass the city attorney and council in order to expedite remuneration?" they asked. In December,

Guillen cut a check for $2,400 to each. (City council approval is not required for expenditures under $5,000.)

"We spent a lot of time and effort creating, producing and promoting the map, so when we saw our map and editorial matter had been used on Jeff Burghardt's brochure he produced for the city, we felt stunned, as he had not asked our permission to do so," Nichols told The Pine Cone. "We felt we should be compensated for our time and creativity."

Moniz raised the matter at the Feb. 2 council meeting after condemning the city for paying for its own tourism website when the Carmel Chamber of Commerce operates one. Burghardt was also at the meeting and had given his quarterly marketing presentation to the council before Moniz spoke.

"I think Jeff Burghardt has run out of the building and left town; however, one of the interesting things on his presentation was a link to something called a courtyard tour map," he said. "My questions, since of course I think the city should be as fiscally responsible as possible, are, did Jeff make that map? Did he originally make it? And if he didn't, who made that map, and how much money did it cost the city?"

Moniz already knew the answers, having procured copies of the letter and checks from the city. He told The Pine Cone Burghardt "took the stolen courtyard map, repackaged it, and sold it to the city as if it was his creation," and after Nichols and Hawthorne found out about it, they "in essence, threatened to sue the city over the stolen courtyard map that they created but Jeff sold to the city."

Moniz said city hall officials "prevented this information from seeing the light of day by sending what are essentially settlement checks to the two women," and he condemned the city for paying "for the duplicative efforts."

Hazdovac, who owns a downtown business with her sister and participates in the city's economic development committee discussions that include Burghardt's firm, chamber representatives and others, said the map was borne of discussions at town hall meetings with businesses a few years ago.

The city failed to develop a courtyard map, and Nichols and Hawthorne decided to do the project themselves. She said Burghardt and Doré submitted it after the committee considered including one that showed every business and then realized that would be impossible.

"I should have caught that the courtyard map was in there verbatim, but I just didn't," said Hazdovac, who had advertised on the original map and said Nichols and Hawthorne told her they weren't continuing with it after they closed their store last year.

"We go through these things very quickly," she said. "It was an innocent mistake, but it's time to move on." She also pointed out that the people who were wronged have expressed no dissatisfaction with the resolution.

"If we made a mistake, sorry," she said. "We addressed it, and everybody is happy."

THE HUMANE ALTERNATIVE TO YOUR URBAN WILDLIFE CONCERNS

Charlotte Nichols Allen

Our Mom, Char, passed away and while she will be missed by us and her large, diverse and loving group of family and friends she will be remembered and celebrated for the full and rich life she led and the legacy she left behind.

Char was a special person. She was a matriarch and a mother; she was smart, spontaneous and sincere. She was caring and loving. She believed in the good in people and treated everyone with respect. She took time to help others and loved being with family and friends. Char had many wonderful qualities which she passed on to her children and grandchildren but at her very core she was kind. She was kind to people and she was kind to animals. This kindness radiated from her, you could see it in her and you can see it in her children and grandchildren. You can see it in the smile on Tommy's face, you can see it in the twinkle in Katie's eyes, you can see it in the perky personalities of Hallie, Noel, Tyler and TJ, and you can see it in the way West bounces around the room. You can see it in all of those who were close to her. Kindness is the greatest gift one can pass on to another and this kindness will live on in her friends and family and is her legacy.

Char was born in Michigan and raised by two dynamic and wonderful parents. Her father, Pecks, taught her to ride...and she could ride. Char was a natural athlete and while she never talked about it, became one of the top English riders in the country. She was invited join the U S Olympic three day team at a time no women had competed in the equestrian division of the Olympics. Char, in her humble way told people that they were really interested in her horse, Kinmount.

Char was not only generous but gregarious and creative as well. We remember when she launched the All Saints Day School, school bus drive by collecting green stamps. That's a lot of licking! She was a genuine Mom, not only to us, but to any lost soul who needed a little extra love, support and a roof over their head. She opened up her home and heart to many and during the crazy high school days it was known as "Hotel Allen". She hosted friends, family, high school students and even an entire lacrosse team. Char was always prepared, she was proper and civilized but it didn't stop her from having fun and she could be a little mischievous, like when she and several other octogenarian girlfriends, who's names will remain anonymous, planted eight, bright pink, plastic flamingos circling around the massive Macdonald bronze statue on Peter Hay golf course.

Char loved animals and animals loved Char. She had a special way with horses but loved dogs, cats, chickens and bovines as well. She could learn so much about them, just by the way they moved. We fondly remember the 10 Herford heifers she found to help mow the fields at Saturday Country Farm. She lovingly named them after her breakfast club girlfriends. She specifically purchased breeding stock so that her "girlfriends" wouldn't end up at an outback steak house. The only glitch was that soon her "girls" had families of their own and the herd grew from ten to forty strong! Char loved her farm and created a special and unique place which she shared with many. She worked the farm into her later years and could be seen riding the tractor, with her wide brim hat, mowing the fields well in to her late 70's. Patrice and her family now live there along with their 5 kids, 4 dogs, 3 goats 2 horses, who knows how many gophers and a coyote or two.

We're going to miss our Mom but we are so very thankful to have had the time we did with her. She is in our hearts, she is in our thoughts she is in our DNA and she will live on through us, our children and her friends with the gift of kindness she bestowed upon us and we will share with all those we touch.

Lovingly,
Tim, Tom, Patrice and Laura

A Rosary will be held this Friday the 12th at 6PM and Funeral Mass Saturday at 11AM at St. Angela Merici Church in Pacific Grove with a celebration of Char's life following on Saturday at her home at 1456 Cypress Drive in Pebble Beach.

extensive coverage of the Basin Complex Fire in 2008.

The author — like many local environmentalists — is concerned that the county's annual bulldozing of the sandbar holding back the lagoon harms the trout, which are listed by the federal government as "threatened."

"Every year when the Carmel River begins to flow, it backs up behind the sandbar at the beach and threatens to flood homes built on the floor of the lagoon," the blogger writes. "And every year, the county shows up with bulldozers and breaches the sandbar to protect the homes. The breaching empties the lagoon, saves the homes, and washes out to sea juvenile steelhead not yet prepared to survive in saltwater."

The blogger would like to see the county's efforts subject to more oversight.

"This annual ritual takes place without benefit of environmental review because the filling of the lagoon each year is treated as an unforeseeable 'emergency,' and actions taken on an emergency basis are, of course, exempt under the California Environmental Quality Act," the blog reads.

So what's the solution? According to the blogger, it's an EIR.

"Were environmental review to take place, the county would doubtless be required to manage the lagoon so as to minimize damage to the steelhead, as well as keeping water out of the homes," the blogger suggests. "As a practical matter, this would probably mean having a serious protocol in place for breaching the sandbar at an oblique angle, or in some other controlled fashion, designed to prevent the complete emptying of the lagoon."

The blogger implies the county's emergency work is a charade.

"How much longer can the county go on pretending these activities are isolated, unforeseeable emergencies?" he added.

Easier said than done

Public works director Yazdan Emrani said his agency faces a big challenge balancing the welfare of residents and fish.

"We can't really do anything unless we declare an emergency," he explained. "And we won't declare an emergency unless there's an immediate risk of flooding. We are very mindful each time this comes up. It's not something we take lightly."

Emrani said he would like to see a long-term management plan approved that would guide his agency's work on the sandbar. But he said developing a plan would require paying for expensive environmental studies — no small challenge during a recession.

"It is my understanding we need about $800,000 for the studies," he explained. "It's harder to get funding during tough economic times."

Ultimately, it's up to Lew Bauman, the county's administrative officer — and former public works director — to decide if the conditions warrant declaring an emergency.

"He knows what's going on," Emrani said of Bauman. "He's an expert."

Common ground

Dan Carl, district manager for the California Coastal Commission's Santa Cruz office, said his agency agrees that a long-term plan should be in place to provide guidance to county officials.

"We've been aware that public works has been breaching on an emergency basis for years," Carl conceded. "They'd like to have a permit that allows them to breach when the river reaches flood level, but we're looking for something that balances that with environmental concerns. They submitted an application to breach and we sent it back."

While the coastal commission has not pursued legal action against the county, Carl noted that the county could face litigation or enforcement over the emergency work.

"They know when they go out there that they're not covered by a coastal permit," he said. "There's potential for there to be enforcement under the Coastal Act. It's not just the coastal commission that enforces the Coastal Act. We're the primary entity, but anybody can force them to comply with the act by pursuing enforcement through the courts."

Carl, though, believes the two sides can come together and work out their differences — outside a courtroom.

"We need to engage public works a bit more, and vice versa," he added. "There has to be some common ground, but we can't have a straight breach because this is a resource-rich system. I think there's a solution. There has to be, compared to what is happening now."

uments to make it appear SK Foods was complying with contractual obligations and government regulations.

As part of his alleged master plan to flee the country, federal prosecutors contend Salyer left the United States in October 2009 — following the guilty pleas of several former employees of SK Foods and some of its customers — intending to permanently relocate abroad.

The criminal complaint against Salyer alleges he spoke with a former assistant about obtaining permanent residency in Uruguay, Paraguay, Andorra and France, because he believed he would not be extradited from those countries.

Salyer had also instructed an employee to sell many of his belongings and transfer millions of dollars from bank accounts associated with SK Foods to bank accounts in the Caribbean and Liechtenstein, according to prosecutors.

“Mr. Salyer apparently intended to become a fugitive from justice,” U.S. Attorney Benjamin B. Wagner said. “We are pleased that he will now have his day in court, and we commend the FBI for apprehending him.”

Salyer’s arrest is the latest in the government’s ongoing investigation of the domestic tomato processing industry. Between January 2008 and January 2009, four high-ranking corporate purchasing managers pleaded guilty to receiving bribes from SK Foods while working at some of the nation’s largest food companies, including Safeway, Kraft Foods and Frito-Lay.

Artists return to Ventana

Closed for more than 16 months after it was damaged by a fire, the Gallery at Ventana formally reopens this weekend.

To celebrate the occasion, the revamped gallery presents an exhibit, “To Sur, With Love,” featuring artwork by painters Lygia Chappellet, Sarah Healey, Carolyn Mary Kleefeld, Karuna Licht, Erin Gafill, Brandham Rendlen, Celia Sanborn, Jan Wagstaff and Paddy McEntire, sculptors Tevye Morgenrath and Craig Hubler, stoneworker John Chappel and glass artist Nick Leonoff.

On Saturday, the gallery will offer a free reading by poet Deanna McKinstry-Edwards at 4:30 p.m. She’ll be accompanied by musician Martin Sheers. And on Sunday, Leo Sidorenko and Olga Agafonova will present a free tango performance, which will be followed by complimentary lessons.

The gallery — previously known as the Store at Ventana — narrowly escaped destruction in June 2008 when the Basin Complex Fire threatened the inn. Two months, later though, an electrical fire extensively damaged the gallery and the inn’s restaurant, which reopened last September.

“We are thrilled to unveil our new gallery with this marvelous ‘To Sur, With Love’ exhibit,” says Tina Harlow, Ventana Inn & Spa General Manager. “Ventana has a long history of involvement in the community, and we feel supporting our local artists is vital.”

The Ventana Inn and Spa is located on Highway 1 about 28 miles south of Carmel. For more information, call (831) 667-2331.

Monterey County Superior Court Judge Russell Scott on March 12 and could receive up to seven years in prison.

Perotti told The Pine Cone she was surprised and happy to hear of the guilty plea last Wednesday. She plans to attend the sentencing and has asked for permission to speak to the judge and plead for the maximum sentence.

Her shop was closed for a month while repairs were made and furnishings, equipment and other items were replaced or cleaned. In addition to the monetary loss, Perotti said she and the other artists at Creative Visions suffered emotional costs.

“Everybody has a family, and to be out of work and not knowing who did this during that time resulted in a huge financial hit, but also an emotional hit,” she said.

Perotti said discovering “that somebody would throw a Molotov cocktail through your window because you wouldn’t give him a tattoo” was frightening, and she called the behavior “immature.”

“If you say something bad to another person, you always have that little bit of doubt in your mind,” she said.

Editorial

Why we get in trouble

THERE'S A lot of adversity in the newspaper business these days, across the nation, and even right here in Carmel.

Of course, unless you've been living under a rock for the last decade, you're familiar with most of it: The flight of readers and advertisers to the Internet, the loss of public confidence due to blatant errors of fact and objectivity, and now the Great Recession.

At the big city papers, revenues have declined so much that newsroom staffs have been drastically cut. At the San Jose Mercury News, for example, there are now half as many employees in the news department as there were 10 years ago. To understand why, you need look no farther than the Merc's classifieds, which reportedly brought in more than $100 million a year in the late 1990s but now amount to only about $10 million a year.

Similarly, revenues at the New York Times Co. were down more than 11 percent in the last three months of 2009, compared to the year before (when the recession was already well under way).

Here at The Pine Cone, our revenues are down, too, but not as much as the big newspaper companies'. And we have managed to avoid cutting our news staff. In fact, we have more reporters than we did in 2000. Furthermore, our readers remain fiercely loyal and appreciative of all the work we put in covering happenings — big and small — in this treasured corner of the universe. Our circulation is at an all-time high.

In fact, when we get into trouble, it's not because we've cut back our news staff or reduced our focus on the community, but because we pay such close attention and are so aggressive about digging up stories, the people involved sometimes get very angry.

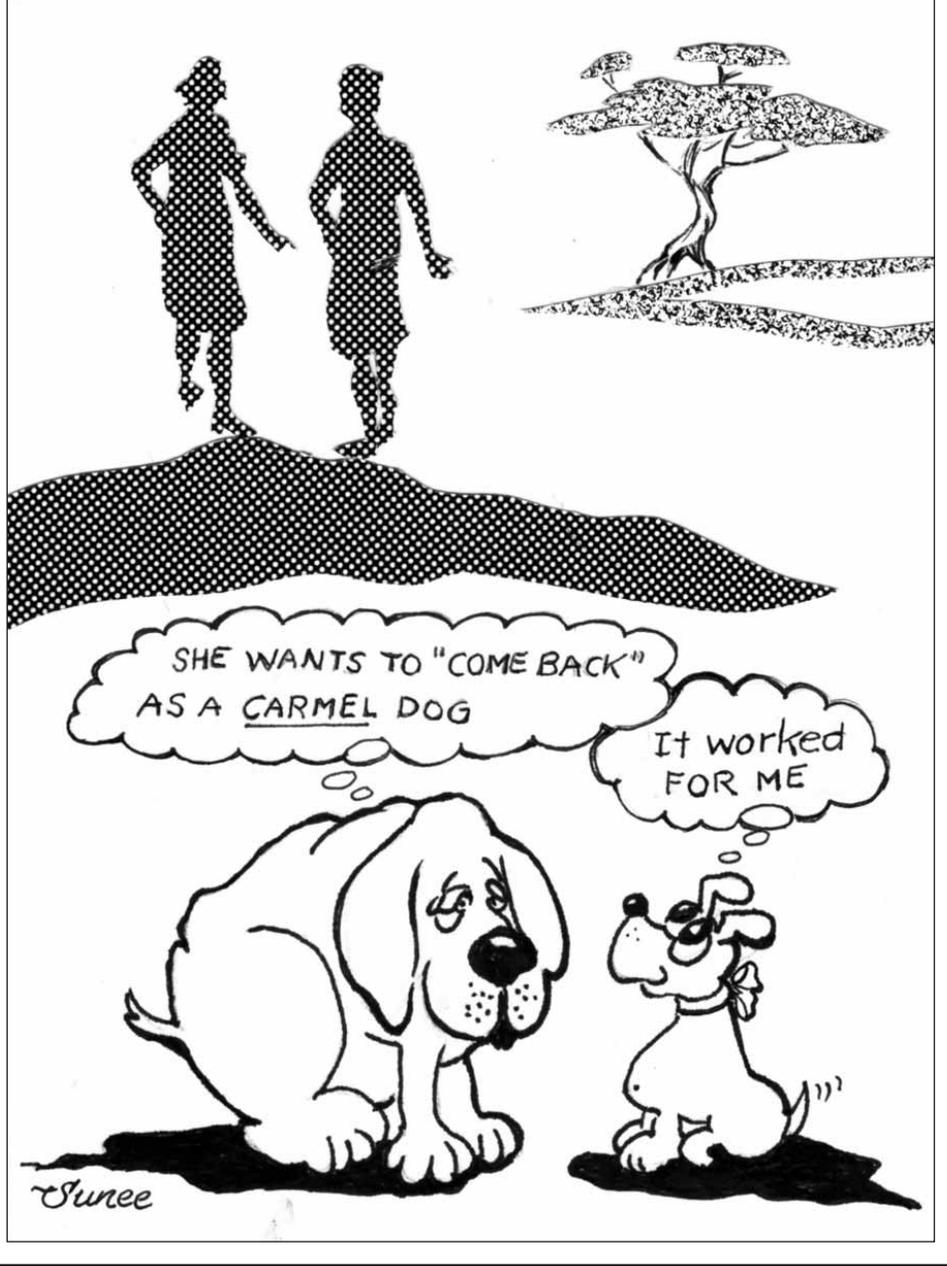

That's what happened with a Carmel Valley man, David Fairhurst, who sued us for defamation. Sure, Fairhurst was convicted of threatening the life of county supervisor Dave Potter and was ordered by a judge to surrender more than 200 firearms he kept at home. But when we reported these things — and we were the only news outlet to do so — he decided we had unnecessarily and illegally besmirched his reputation, and he made up his mind to sue us. Somebody (we have no idea who) also started vandalizing our Carmel Valley distribution racks.

And then last week we printed Kelly Nix's very thorough story (also not reported anywhere else) about a Carmel-Monterey-Pacific Grove couple who have not paid the rent for their two recent restaurants and borrowed money from customers without paying it back. The couple, Francis and Christine Richard, admit that they have a mountain of unpaid bills and say have always intended to pay but just ran into trouble.

But some of the people who lent them money told us they did so out of sympathy for the Richards' claimed medical problems — that the husband, and then their son, had life-threatening forms of cancer. As the claims were repeated and changed, doubts began to surface that the illnesses were real. When Nix offered Christine Richard an opportunity to demonstrate to the community the illnesses were genuine, she at first said she would provide a big pile of bills and other documents as proof. But when no documents, phone calls from doctors or any other evidence were provided, and Nix pressed the question, a woman who has invested money in the Richards' latest restaurant angrily told Nix he had to quit "harassing" Christine Richard. And then she said she would sue us if we printed a story about their history of unpaid debts.

When she said that, we had a feeling of déjà vu. But, as with Fairhurst, we believe our story about the Richards was accurate and fair. And both of those stories were very important to the community. And that's what we're here for.

Too many trees?

Dear Editor,

As an early Carmel-by-the-Sea resident, I realize how I now miss looking west down an avenue, particularly Ocean Avenue, and not seeing that glistening sea, particularly vibrant this time of year. I very much appreciate the forested environment of Carmel, but suggest we take a moment to think if we are not going too far in the planting of trees, particularly non-native to Carmel. Perhaps we can have a friendly dialogue about this in The Pine Cone.

One concern is the recent planting of many redwood trees, which trees will greatly alter the upper canopy in not too many years and give a quite different look to our community. Also, those planted adjacent to sidewalks will not stop growing when their trunks expand to the pavers or cement. Redwoods would seem to belong more in a narrow coastal valley than in a residential/commercial district setting.

Another concern is the planting of many trees on the dunes to the west of Del Mar. A significant attraction of early Carmel residents and visitors were the dunes, with Monterey Pines and Live Oaks residing further East in Carmel. Look at early photos/paintings of Carmel. These trees will soon block the sea and dune views as well as litter the dunes with needles and cones.

Niels Reimers, Carmel

Not that Nancy

Dear Editor,

We read The Pine Cone cover-to-cover every week. You reach a huge audience, some of those readers are our friends. Your article on the front page of last week's paper "French restaurateurs may have been serving up fraud", prompted some of our friends to call us. There are two people named Nancy Lewis in Carmel. My husband Bill, often mistaken for the local doctor, and I were both coincidentally from the Danville area. We are NOT investors in a P. G. restaurant.

Nancy and Bill Lewis, Carmel

A total waste?

Dear Editor,

Could it be that the huge amounts of money, energy and sacrifice, on the part of area residents to provide lots of Carmel River water for steelhead trout have perhaps been a total waste? If everything is based on the "science" that these fish need lots of water, how can we reconcile the fact that water levels were extremely low last year, but, the hatch was one of the largest in years?

WORLD WAR I MEMORIAL: Carmel-by-the-Sea's World War I Memorial has not seen any major work since late 1977 (a car lost its brakes coming down Ocean Avenue and plowed into it on August 6, 1977). As Mayor, Adam will join veterans in leading fundraising efforts for private financial backing to give our war memorial the restoration it desperately needs.

“If you find reputable partners, the Internet makes planning and collaboration a breeze,” she said. “I sometimes think families and schools are concerned that logistically, their great ideas will be very difficult to execute. With this project, everything came together so quickly and easily.”

She said the dedication of a couple of people and a couple of days of planning can go a long way. Their efforts manifested in eight bags of stuffed animals — about 150 toys — gathered on Monday, the first day of the drive. By Wednesday afternoon, they numbered close to 800.

“And the kids were so excited. They had buried them in their knapsacks and were pulling them out,” she said. “Some of them were really cute, because you could tell they had a hard time parting with them — you could see for some of them, it was their little prized possession — and they were giving it up to ship to Haiti.”

The connection with the kids they are helping will be further solidified when the children have a chance to see their donations in the hands of the recipients. Gebhardt said HOPE Haiti will snap photos on the ground so the River kids can see evidence of their work.

A few key sponsors are helping with Stuffed with Love: The Print Shop located in the Barnyard shopping center is donating all printing services, and Carmel Rotary is covering the costs of shipping to New York, according to Gebhardt.

“My hope is that this experience will fuel more community service projects. I know for Christian, it will underline that he can have an idea, and although it may seem complicated at first, he can make it happen,” she said. “He sure had a big smile today as kids handed over their stuffed animals.”

CHS grad gets creative

Carmel High School graduate Jordana McVey owns and runs Santa Cruz-based Jordana Paige, which sells knitting handbags and patterns in specialty stores all over the world, and she raised $15,150 for Doctors Without Borders’ work in Haiti by offering online specials on imperfect bags. On Jan. 27, a handbag of a different color was offered each hour for $50 — with all of the proceeds benefiting the nonprofit — and word was spread through Twitter and Facebook to alert customers, according to McVey.

She took one week to promote the sale via social networking sites and her company’s blog, and by the end of the day, more than 300 handbags for knitters had been sold, with many customers snapping up more than one. McVey said she has no employees working at the company she launched in 2002 while a freshman in college, so she swamped with the orders.

“Three hundred orders in one day is much, much more than I am equipped to handle on my own. I put out the call to friends asking for help,” she wrote in her blog afterward. “Seventeen of the most wonderful people showed up to tape, package, label and stack boxes. A task that would have taken me days was done in just an hour-and-a-half — and we had a pretty fun time while at it.”

would be nearly impossible, as well as pointless, since a project there would require environmental review of its own. He said the economic feasibility study was adequate and the city should be able to proceed with selling the Tudor-style mansion it bought 38 years ago but has never put to public use.

"I think the city has gone to great lengths to do what it's uncharged offenses were never reported to the police, there was never any investigation; thus, there was never any physical evidence which would either substantiate the allegations or provide defendant with an opportunity to contest them."

Campbell said their testimony was untrustworthy, suggesting it might have been more inspired by news reports than by facts, and argued the court had no way of knowing whether the jury was also punishing Bergstrom for these allegations when it found him guilty of anally raping Jane Doe 1.

"Absent the testimony of these witnesses, the case the jury would have heard would have been about two mature adults with very high blood alcohol levels at the time of the incident; a complainant who 'faded in and out' and couldn't really 'remember' anything except for being sodomized; a complainant whose injuries were as consistent with consensual intercourse as nonconsensual; a complainant who stated she didn't know 'why' the defendant stopped; and, a defendant who said he stopped because she said, 'No,'" Campbell wrote.

Furthermore, the witnesses' testimony allowed Monterey County Deputy District Attorney Cristina Johnson to characterize Bergstrom as a "sexual predator," according to Campbell. "The prosecutor conceded as much in her closing argument when she told the jury: 'So maybe one prior victim, one woman, you could explain away. But when you get to the point of two or three, it gets to the point where the problem is the defendant, not these women.'"

And their inclusion resulted in the judge's improper instructions to jurors to help them decide whether Bergstrom was guilty.

Campbell also said the defense was not given enough time to research the women's stories to prepare defense arguments against them.

Videos, cocaine

Finally, Campbell alleged the judge illegally allowed two pieces of evidence — 10 short cell-phone videos taken by Bergstrom of his consensual anal sex with another woman, and a 2007 recording of conversations between him and several people that included explicit sexual details, profanity and the purchase and sale of cocaine, as well as an offer to trade a line of cocaine for sex with a longtime girlfriend, all of which occurred in his office. Campbell said neither was proper evidence of Bergstrom's "bad character" and should have been excluded.

"California law is quite clear that sodomy between consenting adults is not a crime," he wrote. As for the audio recording, it occurred, "obviously prior to the time defendant went into rehab for treatment for abuse of cocaine," and it provided no evidence he had relapsed.

"His possession of cocaine was not misconduct rising to moral turpitude," Campbell said. Furthermore, the cell-phone videos and the tape also prejudiced jurors against him, he argued.

The state attorney general's response is due March 10.

supposed to do," he said.

The Feb. 10 arguments, which Kingsley took under submission, are the crux of a lawsuit filed by the nonprofit foundation last June alleging the city violated California state environmental laws in pursuing the sale of Flanders Mansion. It previously sued the city over the sale and won when former Monterey County Superior Court Judge Robert O'Farrell decided officials needed to do more environmental review, as well as put the matter up for a public vote. The EIR was revised in response to O'Farrell's ruling, and last November 62 percent of the town's voters said the mansion should be sold.

"This case presents some very novel factors," Kingsley commented. "That's why we're all struggling with it, and there's no case law to give us guidance."

But Kingsley said she was "leaning toward the petitioner" with regards to the need for more analysis of the potential impacts of selling Flanders to another government agency.

Exempt from rules?

In addition to wanting the judge to order the city to do more review of possible future uses, Brandt-Hawley said there's no guarantee a government buyer would have to follow city zoning on the property, or rules and conditions of sale to protect the mansion's historic qualities.

If the county purchased the mansion, for example, it would be subject to county rules, not city rules, according to Brandt-Hawley. Same for the state.

But the city argued that state environmental laws would prevent anything harmful from happening on the property.

"Our view is of course that the California Environmental Quality Act governs all development of this property, including those of all the potential public entities and quasi-public entities to whom we have to offer the sale," Harry countered. "CEQA is supreme in this matter."

Money questions

The lawyers also argued over what Monterey County Superior Court Judge Robert O'Farrell demanded in the previous case, particularly regarding economic analysis. Brandt-Hawley said the city had to prove it needs the money from selling Flanders to work on other capital projects and should demonstrate it can't raise the funds in ways that will impact the environment less.

"If you need money, show what it's needed for, and are there other ways to raise it," she said. "The economic analysis — all it talks about is whether the city can make a profit selling vs. leasing."

She mentioned the city's "$11 million surplus," which in fact is about $10 million in reserves — much of it designated for specific uses — and said the city had not proved it needs to sell Flanders.

Harry called that point "a deflection" and said CEQA is not supposed to take into account the wealth or poverty of an applicant. He also said O'Farrell wanted the economic analysis to prove why leasing the mansion, as opposed to selling it, was not a viable option. The subsequent study fulfilled its purpose by contemplating the lease or sale of the mansion to public agencies and private buyers, and the consultant found there was a "minuscule" market for leasing.

Kingsley took the voluminous case under submission and has 90 days to make a ruling.

Tim Allen
presents
Al Smith's
"Carmel Legends"

Everybody knows that Del Monte is the oldest golf course west of the Mississippi, actually dating from 1897. But can you guess the second oldest in this area? Pebble Beach? Cypress Point? No, that honor belongs to the CARMEL GOLF CLUB, a nine hole links measuring 2112 yards, spread over the dunes of Carmel Point. Its club house stood on a rise at what is now 14th Ave, and San Antonio, and it is still there! It's a small, shingled building, now used as a guest house by descendants of the founders, Philip and Laura Wilson. The course was opened a hole at a time in 1912, and the first official meeting was held Nov. 20 of that year at the Pine Inn. Memberships were $20 a year, green fees 50¢ a day. The land was owned by the Carmel Development Company, which assured the Club by written contract that it "would not be sold in lots or otherwise till after the year 1915." Among the members was Dr. Clappett, which brings us up to date. The Club expired around 1920, and today nearly 300 houses stand on its abandoned fairways. Think what might have been!

smoke or odor removal. Investigation found minor roof repair work in the area was causing a "petroleum" odor in the general area. No hazards.

Carmel-by-the-Sea: Fire engine dispatched to San Antonio near 12th Avenue for a power line down. Investigation found no hazards — telephone and cable wires down. Wires moved to side of roadway and secured.

Carmel area: During a traffic stop, the deputy found the driver to have a license which was suspended or revoked.

Carmel area: A 33-year-old Salinas resident was stopped at Highway 1 and Carpenter Street for vehicle code violations. As the investigation continued, the subject was unable to explain how he came into possession of the vehicle he was driving and did not know who the owners of the vehicle were. The owners of the vehicle were contacted and found to be out of town. They stated that they did not know the suspect, and their vehicle was supposed to be in their garage in their residence in the City of Carmel. Carmel P.D. responded to the residence and found that it had been burglarized and ransacked. Numerous items of stolen property from the victim's residence were located inside of the vehicle. The suspect later admitted to knowing the vehicle and its contents were stolen from a residential burglary.

SCHEDULE, TICKETS & PARKING

Sunday, February 14

7:30 a.m. • Final round — Pebble Beach Golf Links (60 low pros and 25 low teams)
TV coverage: CBS, noon-3 p.m.

Ticket Information

Most attendees buy their tickets well in advance, including high rollers who pay thousands for admission to all tournament events and exclusive clubs. Also, ticket packages, such as the Executive Booster Package ($2,400) and the Partners Package ($350) had to be purchased by Jan. 15. (Start planning for next year!) But there are still several options:

Season Badge • $150

■ Entrance to all events, practice rounds and all tournament rounds at all three courses.

Daily Ticket

■ $60 for the three days of practice rounds. Don't forget that military, firefighters and police officers are admitted free on Feb. 10.

■ $60 for each tournament round.

■ Children under 12 admitted free if accompanied by a paid adult.

Where to buy: Online at www.attpbgolf.com or by telephone at (800) 541-9091. Daily tickets will also be sold at the Carmel shuttle stop in front of Carmel Plaza shopping center, at the Carmel Chamber of Commerce visitors center on San Carlos Street, at the Pacific Grove admission trailer (17 Mile Drive at the P.G. Gate) and at the CSUMB parking area (follow signs from Highway 1 exit to CSUMB, approximately 10 miles north of Pebble Beach).

It can get pretty lonely in the grandstand at the 18th Green at Pebble Beach when the action is elsewhere, but Kevin Costner always draws a crowd, especially when he signs autographs. Likewise Andy Garcia (bottom).

Parking: During early practice rounds (Monday and Tuesday), parking is available inside Pebble Beach. Wednesday and during tournament rounds, complimentary spectator parking is available on the CSUMB campus at the former Fort Ord, about 10 miles north of Pebble Beach on Highway 1, with frequent shuttle buses to deliver spectators to the competition courses, where other shuttle buses will also take them between courses. Handicapped parking is available throughout the practice and tournament rounds inside Pebble Beach.

There are also convenient shuttle buses available from Carmel, Pacific Grove and Monterey to the pro-am tournament. For details about these shuttles, please see page 10 ATT.

Prohibited items: The following items are specifically prohibited inside the entrance gate of the AT&T Thursday through Sunday of tournament week: Cellphones and PDAs; distracting or noise-producing devices; cameras (except during practice rounds); bags, backpacks, food container or cooler or any other carrying device larger than 8 inches in height, width or depth; signs, banners or posters (except for autographs); televisions and radios; alcohol, except onsite sales or businesses; pets (except service animals), bicycles and ladders; metal spiked golf shoes; weapons of any sort, whether licensed or permitted, and any other item deemed potentially injurious, unlawful or dangerous to staff, volunteers or participants as determined by the PGA Tour, tournament security personnel or law enforcement. Plastic water bottles and food capable of fitting into an 8-inch-by-8-inch container are acceptable.

2010  SHUTTLES

Chambers of commerce offer quick, easy shuttle rides

By MARY BROWNFIELD

TO GIVE golf fans the opportunity to eat, drink and shop when they're not in Del Monte Forest watching the AT&T Pebble Beach National Pro-Am, and to provide easy ways in and out of the tournament, business groups in several Monterey Peninsula cities are offering shuttles throughout the week and weekend. The buses eliminate the need for golf fans to take shuttles to the tournament from parking lots at California State University Monterey Bay on the former Fort Ord.

stop or at the Carmel Chamber of Commerce Visitor Center, located on the west side of San Carlos Street between Fifth and Sixth avenues, ahead of time.

Paid parking is available at the Sunset Center lot on Eighth at Mission Street and in the Carmel Plaza on Mission between Ocean and Seventh avenues. Free parking is available in the Vista Lobos lot at Third and Junipero, as well as on the street, though people should be aware of parking time limits in certain areas of town. If fans want to take a break from golf and come into Carmel for lunch or shopping, they can catch the shuttle by the P.B. Equestrian Center.

■ Carmel-by-the-Sea

The Carmel Chamber of Commerce and the Carmel Innkeepers Association will run shuttle buses from Carmel to the pro-am from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. on Wednesday, Feb. 10, and from 6:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m., Thursday through Sunday, Feb. 11-14. Buses depart from Carmel Plaza and drop spectators off in Pebble Beach, and passes, which allow unlimited rides, are $15 per person per day.

Shuttle tickets and tournament any-day tickets may be purchased ahead of time by calling the Carmel Chamber of Commerce at (831) 624-2522 or visiting www.carmelcalifornia.org. During the tournament, tickets can be purchased at the Carmel Plaza bus stop.

■ Monterey

The Cannery Row Co. and the Old Monterey Business Association are operating the Monterey Express

Fans may also purchase any-day golf tournament tickets for $55 (as opposed to $60 at the gate) at the bus

THE VOLUNTEERS

Volunteers are lifeblood of AT&T Pro-Am — and love it

■ ‘I would have to die for somebody to get my job’

By MARY BROWNFIELD

PRESENTING A week-long golf tournament like the AT&T Pebble Beach National Pro-Am, which is played on three golf courses and includes a multitude of related events, would be impossible without the help of nearly 2,000 volunteers, many of whom travel from afar on their own dollars to help. Many important jobs — from answering the phone and bandaging blisters, to presenting players with their welcome gifts and reporting the distance of each pro’s stroke to PGA Tour officials — are handled by unpaid workers.

‘Sing me a song’

Pebble Beach resident Maryanne Wilson, contestant registration chair, joked that someone on her committee will have to die for a spot to open for a new volunteer — not only because it has just seven people, but because the job is so much fun. Contestant registration takes place in the players’ hospitality tent, a place off-limits to almost everyone but those who swing a club during the pro-am, and includes taking down contestants’ information, getting their autographs on an event poster (which is then framed and hung next to similar posters from previous years) and giving them their welcome gifts. Shuttle. Fans can park their cars at two Monterey locations, get their fill of golf and return for an evening of food and fun on Cannery Row or in downtown Monterey.

The shuttle stop is located at the corner of Prescott Street adjacent to Steinbeck Plaza, with parking in the Cannery Row Garage. In downtown Monterey, the stop is at the Monterey Conference Center in Portola Plaza, with parking in the downtown garages on Tyler and Franklin streets.

Buses leave approximately every quarter hour Feb. 10 between 10 a.m. and 4 p.m., Feb. 11-13 between 6 a.m. and 5:30 p.m., and Feb. 14 from 6 a.m. to 4:30 p.m.

The cost is $10 per person for a one-day round-trip shuttle ticket, and parking is $7 per vehicle at the municipal garages near the shuttle stops. Shuttle tickets and AT&T Pro-Am tickets may be purchased at the stops.

For more information, visit canneryrow.com or call (831) 657-6485.

■ Pacific Grove

The Pacific Grove Chamber of Commerce will also run a shuttle Wednesday through Sunday, Feb. 10-14, and is also selling golf tickets for $55 each. The shuttles will leave from the Pacific Grove Museum of Natural History starting at 6:30 a.m., with departures every 30 minutes. The cost is $15 for all day, and a five-day pass is available for $40.

Free unlimited parking is available a block away on Ocean View Boulevard, and each rider will receive a gift bag of coupons, postcards and brochures. Pacific Grove inns and hotels will offer special packages and discounts, and some stores will remain open late Friday and Saturday to accommodate fans who don’t have time to shop until evening.

Play begins at 8 a.m. each day, except for Sunday’s final round at the Pebble Beach Golf Links, which begins at 7:30 a.m. For more information, contact the Pacific Grove Chamber of Commerce at (831) 373-3304.

Back in the day when Tiger Woods regularly played the AT&T Pro-Am, he always had an extra team of volunteers keeping a close eye on him and the crowd (top left), but things are a bit more relaxed when celebrities such as Dennis Quaid sign autographs (above). Every golfer about to make a shot gets the benefit of “quiet” signals from volunteer marshalls (top right), who always look spiffy when they head out in the morning (middle).

Upon entering Pacific Grove, motorists are greeted with a series of large signs directing them to the city’s AT&T shuttle, and with good reason: The alternative is to drive to another town, or even to Fort Ord.

ies, has worked in contestant registration for 20 years.

“A very privileged few get to go in there, and through the years, we’ve had a ball,” she said. “Everyone’s happy to be there.”

The volunteers set up in the contestants’ big top, which has wood paneling, leather couches and chairs, televisions, refreshments and everything else players could want while unwinding. On Sunday, Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday of tournament week, two volunteers register amateurs, two people register pros, one person is in charge of the poster, Wilson distributes the gift, and one person “floats around.”

“No one wants to give up their job,” she said.

Wilson has gathered some great stories on the job. Actor and tournament regular Bill Murray demonstrated unsurprising histrionics upon receiving his gift one year.

“He said, ‘Nobody has ever done that for me before,’ and he took me in his arms and bent me back, and he was trying to kiss me,” Wilson recalled. “And I was trying to avoid him. I could hear all my friends laughing in the background.”

He once gave a volunteer a noogie, and she had a headache the rest of the day.

Actor Andy Garcia kissed Wilson and declared he was going to take her with him.

Actor Phil Harris, who was friends with tournament founder Bing Crosby and sang in the animated “Jungle Book,” arrived to register, and Wilson mentioned that her sons had just been watching the film and she loved “Bear Necessities.”

During that year’s entertainment-filled volunteer party — which is an annual tradition — she recalled, Harris walked out on the stage and sang her favorite song.

After she told singer John Denver her favorite of his was “Leaving on a Jet Plane,” he sang it at that year’s volunteer party.

“I really laughed the first time I reg-

The Carmel Pine Cone

YOUR SOURCE FOR NEWS, THE ARTS AND OPINION SINCE 1915

Here's what our readers are saying —

- "I get The Pine Cone every week and enjoy it more than you can know. What a wonderful paper you have. I read every word!"
- "I just wanted to let you know how truly outstanding The Pine Cone is. The writing equals, if not exceeds, top-notch national papers. You and your staff should be proud. I know I've told you before how great I think The Pine Cone is, but it really is a terrific paper."
- "Thank you for providing balanced and researched reporting and upbeat articles. I hope we have The Pine Cone around for many years to come. If it gets down to it, I would pay for the subscription to keep the paper viable."
- "We poll our ticket-buyers as to where they hear about our concerts. You might be surprised to learn how many of them mention The Pine Cone. Thanks!"
- "Thanks for the consistently great job you do with your newspaper. I regularly read several newspapers from around the country and yours has the best editorial integrity — bar none. Keep up the good work!"
- "I look forward to The Pine Cone more than you will ever know."
- "The Pine Cone used to be my Friday morning habit, and now it's my Thursday night habit. I also love the fact I can get the entire paper online when I'm out of town."
- "I am a regular advertiser in your paper, and I have been meaning to tell you how much I enjoy your writing. It accomplishes exactly what I guess you want it to: I always want to read on. I appreciate and enjoy your talent."
- "I just wanted to tell you how much I appreciate The Pine Cone and the fact that it seems to be the only news medium that does not feel it must serve up a diet of perversion, doom, gloom and controversy in order to glean and keep readers."
- "I am writing to thank you for your excellent newspaper, especially since it is available online. God Bless you and your editorial and production staff."
- "I love your newspaper!"
- "I am so grateful to read all about the local news."
- "I just want to tell you how much I enjoy receiving The Pine Cone online ... it keeps me connected with Carmel. I love what you guys do."
- "I don't know where all the good reporters have gone, but I sure miss them when I read other local papers. Keep up the good work. Your community needs you."
- "I can't begin to tell you how much I look forward to The Pine Cone. It gives me more news in one week and one edition than the Herald does all week. You and your staff seem to have an ability to sniff out what is really important and of interest to Carmelites, weed out all the extras, and deliver it in a concise and timely manner. I can't thank you enough for it."
- "I love Carmel and your enticing commentary. You're creative."
- "Probably 50 people came to our event because of the article you printed. I kept asking people, 'How did you hear about this?' and pretty much to a person they said, 'the article in the paper,' which meant The Pine Cone. Thank you so much."
- "I have always been amazed at your editorials in The Pine Cone in that I do not believe I have ever disagreed with one of them. From taxes to the economy, to our current leaders, the crazy historical preservation efforts in Carmel, our court system, you have been a voice of sane reason in an increasingly insane world. I call you the 'anti-Chronicle,' and, believe me, that is a huge compliment."
- "Thank you for your excellent, easy-to-read, always-appreciated newspaper."
- "Your team is doing a great job! I have been a subscriber for a while now. The paper lets me know what's going with my Favorite Place On Earth."

ter. Pros receive the crystal and the phone, but not the gear, since endorsement deals often prevent their wearing it. (Of course, the main reason the pros participate is to try to win a share of the $6.2 million purse.)

AT&T is celebrating its 25th year as the pro-am's title sponsor, and Wilson said the technology, and therefore the gifts to players, have certainly changed since the tournament stopped being called The Crosby.

"Back in the day, we used to give them really big phones," she said of AT&T's early contributions to the players' gifts.

Wilson said she's thrilled to be an pro-am volunteer, especially since she gets to have fun while helping charities. The tournament generates millions of dollars each year for distribution to dozens of nonprofits, many of them local.

'Hello, can I help you?'

Of all the work at the tournament, office volunteer committee chair Kay Kuffner and her group of 14 have one of the lengthiest assignments, so her team is all local. Their efforts begin in November or December and run through the end of the tournament.

"Our first and foremost job is to answer the phone, which starts ringing at about 6 a.m. and probably doesn't ever stop," she said. "Sometimes we go home and close the door on it, and it's still ringing."

They take ticket orders, screen callers asking to speak to a paid staffer and answer questions as best they can.

"Sometimes we get the answers right, and sometimes we don't," she said.

Aside from telephone work, office volunteers "do all sorts of odd jobs," she said. "One volunteer pointed out that the jobs they give us are in direct correlation to our IQ."

They stuff the multiple letters sent to each volunteer and run them through the hated postage machine, which breaks down with regularity. They assemble and ship out packages of golf balls, hats and other tournament swag, and laminate thousands pieces of paper containing information needed by people in the field, and must therefore be weatherproof.

"Today we were inventorying marshals' jackets," she said the Friday before the tournament started. "There were 26 boxes of jackets, and each box contains a dozen."

Considering everything that must occur for the event to run smoothly, Kuffner said she's happy to do whatever she can to help and enjoys the variety.

"I haven't been bored there ever in my life," she said.

Kuffner first began volunteering in 1991, when she was a walking scorer who followed a group and kept track of the golfers' strokes as they played. Then, during the rainy years, "I learned you can work inside," she said, and she never went back. She started Kuffner recalled one volunteer's sincere effort to help the mother-in-law of a female amateur who had been invited to play. While placing her ticket order, the woman asked the volunteer if any other female players had been invited.

"The only list the volunteer had was of the celebrities, and she read through and said, 'Here's another woman: Alice Cooper,'" Kuffner recalled. "And the mother-in-law said, 'Oh, that's great — she won't be the only one.'"

Kuffner said she returns to volunteer year after year because the paid staff are so dedicated and work hard to make the pro-am efficient and fun.

"It's so amazing — the logistics of putting on that tournament — you can't imagine," she said. "They work on and on and on. You can't help but admire them. And they're so nice to us, and so grateful."

Point and shoot

Carmel City Councilman Ken Talmage, an AT&T Pebble Beach National Pro-Am volunteer for two decades, oversees a large group of workers who come from all over the country — including as far away as Maine, Hawaii, South Carolina and Florida — to operate the laser equipment at the Pebble Beach Golf Links.

The lasers are used to calculate the distance of each pro's strokes, ball positions on the greens and other data, all of which are transmitted by the minute to an 18-wheeler full of computer equipment and a dozen PGA Tour officials. When an announcer tells television viewers Vijay Singh's tee shot on the 7th Hole landed 11 inches from the pin, it was the laser operator who captured that information, fed it into a Palm Pilot and transmitted it back to the trailer parked near the Lodge.

The green-side laser at each hole is owned by the PGA Tour and "is a roughly $20,000 piece of equipment," Talmage said. "There's no better view than from one of the laser towers at one of the greens, unless it's raining and windy, in which case it can be a very long day."

All the volunteers work 10-hour days, from an hour before the first tee time until well after the last golfer is off the course. Talmage doesn't accept part-time workers and said laser operations is probably one of the most challenging assignments.

"We have 150 volunteers. That's what it takes to run the laser system at Pebble Beach," he said. "We have six new people this year, and 144 returning."

The assignment attracts a certain sort, such as tech-savvy Silicon Valley residents, military pilots and others with relevant skills. The new additions have operated lasers at other tournaments, so they know the drill as well.

"It's different at other tournaments, where you have really high turnover," he observed. "Here, there's a great camaraderie among volunteers."

Many travel and stay in town, all at their own expense, in order to help. Last year's laser ops committee had volunteers from 17 states.

"People are coming from all of these states to stand in the rain for four days," he said. "Of course, Pebble Beach has a special place in golfers' hearts."

He mentioned a sister and her three brothers who work for him every year: The woman is a Microsoft programmer, one brother is local and a captain in the U.S. Navy, and the two other brothers are a New York firefighter and a New York police officer who worked at Grand Zero following the Sept. 11, 2001, terrorist attacks on the World Trade Center.

"Last year, we had senior Navy officers who flew in from Baghdad," he said. "They told us they would be here, and they arrived literally 12 hours before the tournament" — which earned one man personal thanks from former Carmel Mayor and event chairman Clint Eastwood.

The group is so large that it has its own tournament at Bayonet Golf Course in Seaside the Wednesday of AT&T Week and celebrates with a big party at Poppy Hills Friday night. The fun helps keep morale high, which contributes to the low dropout rate among laser volunteers, according to Talmage.

The reason he serves year after year is not for the golf, but for the charitable aspect of the event.

"To me, it's not a golf tournament, it's the largest, most successful fundraiser that takes place in Monterey County," he said. Since Crosby brought his Clambake to Pebble Beach in 1947, the Monterey Peninsula Foundation, which hosts the pro-am, has distributed more than $79 million to charities.

The AT&T Pro-Am has 1,500 to 2,000 people who donate their time to make it work, which enables golf to give "more money to charity than all the other sports, combined," according to Talmage. Since its first donation in 1938, charitable giving by the PGA Tour has surpassed $1.5 billion.

"PGA officials do a review, and they say ours is the best laser operations team of any tournament," Talmage added. "The team takes great pride in what they do and the money they help generate."

GI bleeds and sunburns

Despite a full plate working as a physician at Community Hospital of the Monterey Peninsula and running his general practice in Carmel, Dr. Glenn Hudgens takes time to serve as the tournament's medical director — a volunteer assignment he's held for almost four decades.

"I am responsible for getting the volunteer doctors and nurses who run the first aid stations at the tournament," he said, which totals about 50 people. Each course has a station staffed with one doctor and two nurses.

Hudgens also acquires all the medical supplies, which are furnished by CHOMP, to stock each trailer. Bandages, aspirin and tampons are the most requested items, he said, adding that the trailers also carry common medications for headaches, sunburns and other common maladies.

"We used to have suture materials and sew up cuts, but now we don't do that anymore," he said. Due to paperwork and other requirements, it makes more sense to send anyone in need of stitches to the emergency room.

"Between the tournament and two full days of stocking trailers and talking to people getting them to volunteer, I've worked quite a few hours," during the past 37 years, he said, adding that some of the medical volunteers have been helping out for as long as he has.

While most of the medical needs the doctors and nurses encounter are not life-threatening, Hudgens recalled a particularly busy shift at Spyglass sometime in the 1970s.

"One day when I was working at the tournament as a physician, I had three GI bleeds and one stroke to take care of," he said. "They were all spectators."

Contestants usually complain of sore throats and fevers. "One year, I had a player with a 103-degree fever, and I gave him antibiotics and told him to go home and go to bed," Hudgens said. "And he said, 'No Sir, I have to play.' It's how they make their living — they have to play."

The pro didn't win, but he finished. (The way the prize money is structured, even pros whose scores put them near the bottom of the field can earn a hefty check.)

Another year, a player banged his club on the ground in frustration, and its graphite shaft shattered in his hand. "I spent the afternoon picking out graphite splinters," Hudgens said.

He has also witnessed disaster averted. A couple stood next to the fairway as Jack Nicklaus teed off, and the man, watching through binoculars, told his wife who was hitting. He then said, "Oh look, the ball is coming straight toward us," according to Hudgens. The woman, holding her program open over her head to shield her eyes from the sun, told him she couldn't see it.

"The ball hit her head on top of the program, and then bounced back into the fairway," Hudgens said. The woman was none the worse for wear, and Nicklaus gave her a golf ball.

While many AT&T Pro-Am volunteers are golfers, and some admit being addicted to the game, there are few who can claim one of Hudgens' achievements in the sport: "I've had seven holes in one. They range from July 1974 at Spyglass, to the last one in October 2008 at Quail," said Hudgens, who is a member at Quail Lodge. "That's pretty good for somebody who works for a living."

AT&T Pro-Am provides critical funding to local music groups

By CHRIS COUNTS

THE SOUND of a golf ball being hit off the tee is sweet music to the ears of the folks who run four local nonprofit groups.

The Monterey Jazz Festival, The Monterey Symphony, the Monterey Bay Symphony and the Monterey Opera Association — all dedicated to bringing music to the Monterey Peninsula — have proceeds from the

AT&T Pebble Beach National Pro-Am to thank for some of their success.

Cultivating the youngsters

Founded in 1957, the Monterey Jazz Festival is one of the longest running jazz festivals in the world. Staged annually at the Monterey Fairgrounds the third weekend in September, the festival offers world-class performances, panel discussions, workshops, exhibitions, clinics and music education for youngsters

The jazz festival's latest contribution from the AT&T Pro-Am was a $25,000 grant in December 2008, with the money being invested in the next generation of jazz musicians. "The money we receive from the AT&T tournament goes right into our youth education programs," said Rob Klevan, the jazz festival's education director.

Since 1983, the festival has orga-

County Middle School Honor Band — all receive some funding from the AT&T Pro-Am.

The jazz festival also used money from the AT&T Pro-Am to start up a digital music education project. "We asked some of the leading jazz musicians in the world to provide young players with tips and suggest recordings they should listen to," Klevan said.

Some of the biggest names in jazz are participating in the project, includ-nized jazz clinics — taught by professional musicians — in local classrooms. "The program has done so much to further the musical skills of children in our area," Klevan observed.

The jazz festival also offers an instrument bank, which functions as a library for used musical instruments.

"We loan out the instruments to students free of charge," Klevan explained. "With all the budgets cuts in education, it's important these resources are available."

Three local youth music ensembles — The Next Generation Jazz Orchestra, the Monterey County High School All-Star Band, the Monterey County High School Honor Vocal Jazz Ensemble and the Monterey ing Dave Brubeck, Ornette Coleman and Jim Hall.

"If we want jazz to have a future, we need to cultivate a younger audience," Klevan added.

The next generation

Since 1947, the Monterey Symphony has presented classical musical programs in Monterey County. The symphony — under the direction of Max Bragado-Darman — presents seven concerts each season at Sunset Center in Carmel and Sherwood Hall in Salinas.

In addition to its performances, the symphony is committed to providing youngsters with an introduction to classical music. In June, the symphony received $21,000 from the AT&T Pro-Am, and that money will directly fund the group's youth education activities.

"The money we receive helps to send musicians into fourth- and fifth-grade classrooms to demonstrate how they play their instruments," explained Joe Truskot, the symphony's executive director. "At those two levels, children are at just the right age to start playing an instrument."

The the AT&T Pro-Am money also helps send those same children to the symphony's concerts. Through discounted tickets and youth concerts, more than 6,000 children each year get a chance to see the symphony perform in Carmel and Salinas.

For more information about the symphony, call

(831) 646-8511 or visit www.monterey-symphony.org.

Funding dwindles

Often confused with the Monterey Symphony, the Monterey Bay Symphony has been staging classical music concerts since 1985. The symphony is best known for offering free indoor and outdoor pops concerts, and the $10,000 the group received last year from the AT&T Pro-Am will help fund future performances. The AT&T money is particularly critical for the symphony, which has lost several important funding sources as a result of the slumping economy.

"We used to do five concerts a year," said Ron Weitzman, executive director of the symphony. "But the Community Foundation stopped funding arts organizations, and the City of Monterey stopped funding us as well. We only did two concerts last year, and we're hoping to do two or three this year."

Weitzman is also executive director for the Monterey Opera Association. Like the Monterey Bay Symphony, the opera association depends on money from the AT&T Pro-Am for its survival. In May, the group received $10,000 from the golf tournament.

"We wouldn't be in existence without them," Weitzman conceded. "They're our largest donor."

Started in 1988, the nonprofit group stages two operas per year, each supported by a 30-piece orchestra and led by conductor Carl Christensen.

HISTORY OF THE PRO-AM

From Crosby to AT&T, the golf has been as good as the scenery

PINE CONE STAFF REPORT

IN 1937, Bing Crosby invited a group of friends to get together for a round of golf and a “clam-bake” at Rancho Santa Fe in Southern California. That gathering of Hollywood celebrities and golf greats gave birth to the first National Pro-Amateur Golf Championship, sponsored by Bing Crosby, with Sam Snead taking the top prize of $500.

For five years, the tournament was played at Rancho Santa Fe before being discontinued during the war years. Meanwhile, 1946 was shaping up to be a bleak year for the Monterey Peninsula. Postwar Monterey was frantically scraping for income, the chief source having been packed into sardine tins for just about the last time. Cannery Row was heading into a long decline, Carmel wasn't a worldwide tourist attraction, Pebble Beach had yet to be classified the finest course in the world, and nobody had heard of a young, would-be actor named Clint Eastwood.

At this time, a young newspaper reporter, Ted Durein, came up with the idea of attracting more tourists by bringing a major special event to the area. A good sporting event, once a year, perhaps garnished with celebrities, could anchor a drifting economy. Slowly an idea began to take shape, along with a worldwide household name: Crosby.

Durein solicited local merchants to see if they would pool money for a tournament purse — they would. Bravely, Durein wrote to Bing Crosby himself with the idea. That was in January of 1946. February and March passed. Nothing. April, May, still nothing. Then, in June, a letter from Bing's brother, Larry, arrived. Yes, Bing was interested. What's the offer? Durein didn't have one.

The deal is struck

He quickly rushed to see if Samuel F.B. Morse (president of Del Monte Properties, now known as Pebble Beach Company) would let the Pebble Beach golf course host the Crosby. Morse agreed. Ted met with Larry Crosby and the deal was struck.

Bing then decided he wanted the tournament spread out over three courses: Pebble Beach, Cypress Point and the Monterey Peninsula Country Club's Dunes Course. The PGA Tour, the controlling body of the professional golfers' tournament, said this was unprecedented. Bing asked, “Why not? It's done in England.” The PGA Tour consented and the Crosby Pro-Am broke new ground in American golf and was played for the first time on the Monterey Peninsula in January 1947.

Since then, the annual tournament at Pebble Beach has been a staple of the PGA Tour calendar. The tournament purse has increased from $500 for first prize in 1937 to a first prize of $900,000 in 2004. The monies for charity each year have continued to set new records as well, with total contributions hitting $46 million.

Bing Crosby died in 1977. His wife and children continued to host the Crosby Pro-Am until 1986, when AT&T took over sponsorship of the event. Since 1991, the event has been played at Pebble Beach, Poppy Hills and Spyglass. Over the last 20 years, the event has provided some of the most dramatic moments in golf, including Hale Irwin's fantastically lucky tee shot in 1984, and Tiger Woods' amazing comeback in 2000.

It has also endured some of the worst weather ever for a major sporting event. Twice, after particularly cold and rainy spells, tournament organizers have talked about moving the Pro-Am to a different time of year. And on one occasion, when the hardy golfers refused to surrender to gale force winds and near-freezing temperatures, Crosby reminded everyone that, “We must not forget the players — those dauntless athletes, professionals and amateurs alike — who are willing to pit their skills, and in some instances their survival, against these challenging links in conditions which sometimes defy description.”

But most years there have been glorious, only-in-California conditions for the Pebble Beach Pro-Am. And the memories have been golden, too.

Winner: Jack Nicklaus
66-74-71-73 (284)

A 25-foot birdie putt on the first hole of a sudden-death playoff gave Jack Nicklaus the Crosby title and a $28,000 first-place check. He beat Johnny Miller after both had poor rounds on the final day — hitting bad tee shots and missing short putts all over the course. Miller even hit a ball into the ocean on 10. Nicklaus, who three-putted on 17 to set up the playoff, earned his fifth tour victory in six events. Lee Trevino took third place, as well as the Pro-Am title with partner Don Schwab.

According to a newspaper account, Clint Eastwood, then at the height of his “Dirty Harry” fame, playing in his seventh Crosby, missed the cut and spent Sunday watching the Super Bowl (Dallas 24, Miami 3) and playing tennis.

Winner: Jack Nicklaus
71-69-71-71 (282)

Despite back-to-back bogies on 7 and 8 at Pebble during the final round, Jack Nicklaus won the tournament for the second straight year in a sudden-death playoff — and again with a birdie putt on the first sudden-death hole, 15. Robert Moody appeared to have the tournament won in regulation, but missed an easy two-and-a-half-foot putt on 18 that knocked him back into a tie with Nicklaus and Ray Floyd. “I missed a $20,000 putt,” Moody said. Not only that, he shot 76 on the final round, while Nicklaus and Floyd both shot 71. Instead of the top prize of $36,000, Moody had to settle for second place money, $16,650. Lanny Wadkins and Bill Satterfield won the Pro-Am title.

and hail, and with Pebble Beach looking more like ocean than land, the final round of the Crosby had to be canceled after being delayed from Sunday to Monday (Jan. 8). With everyone in a miserable mood, tournament officials threatened not to hold the event again unless it could be moved later in the year. "If we don't get the third or fourth weekend in January next year, I'd say there won't be a tournament," said chairman Don Searle. Originally, the 1974 tournament was scheduled for Feb. 14-17, but Crosby officials and local business people were unhappy with the prospect of playing over Washington's birthday weekend, when tourists would flock to the Monterey Peninsula anyway. So they negotiated a date switch with the Glen Campbell Los Angeles Open, but that still left everybody unhappy. After Sunday's round was postponed, defending champion Jack Nicklaus withdrew. He was suffering in the wet weather from back pain and had fallen 10 strokes behind leader Johnny Miller. When Monday's round was canceled, Miller got a reduced winner's check of $27,500. But he also received a check for $2,250 for winning the Pro-Am side, with partner Locke de Bretteville.

Winner: Gene Littler
68-71-68-73 (280)

A former amateur boxing champ and winner of the 1961 U.S. Open, 44-year-old Gene Littler dented the aura of invincibility that had surrounded youthful Johnny Miller during the first two weeks of the 1975 PGA Tour. A final round of 73 gave him a total of 280, enough for a four-stroke victory over Hubert Green. Miller double-bogeyed 15 on the final round, played in frigid temperatures and gale force winds, and finished with 289, along with Jack Nicklaus. Tom Watson shot 81 on the final day, including two triple bogeys. Littler's winning purse was $37,000 and it came after 20 years of playing the Crosby, with his previous best finish having been second in 1959. Pro-Am winners were Bruce Devlin and former NFL quarterback Jacky Lee. The tournament was boycotted by Lee Trevino, who said he didn't like playing in the rain on the Monterey Peninsula. Perhaps because of his comment, it didn't rain a bit.

1976
Winner: Ben Crenshaw
75-67-70-69 (281)

The 35th Bing Crosby Pro-Am featured a rare meltdown by Jack Nicklaus, who shot 45 in warm sunshine on the back nine at Pebble Beach in the final round, including a double bogey and two triple bogeys, clearing the way for 24-year-old Ben Crenshaw to claim the $37,000 first prize.

With a record crowd on hand, Nicklaus led the field going into Sunday's play, but ended up tied for 18th place. Already out of the big money and in a hurry to catch a flight to Japan, Nicklaus tried to get to the 18th green in two, but pulled his wood shot into Carmel Bay and finished, in front of a national TV audience, with a triple-bogey eight. Johnny Miller, suffering through two rounds with the flu, tied with Nicklaus at 291. Pro-Am winners were Hale Irwin and Pebble Beach resident Darius Keaton, who was then chairman of Charter Oil Company.

Winner: Tom Watson
66-69-67-71 (276)

Tom Watson picked up the first prize of $40,000 with a dramatic one-stroke victory that included rounds of 66 at Pebble Beach on Thursday, 69 at Cypress Point on Friday, 67 at MPCC's Shore Course on Saturday and a 71 in the final round at Pebble on Sunday, breaking the tournament record, set by Billy Casper in 1958, by four strokes. Saturday's gallery of 28,000 was also a then-record — helped by sunny skies and mild temperatures. Former President Gerald Ford, playing in the Pro-Am for the first time, had a birdie on 14 at Pebble Beach on Friday. Leonard Thompson and Jim Vickers, an oil man from Wichita, won the Pro-Am side.

1978
Winner: Tom Watson
66-74-71-69 (280)

Becoming the fourth man to win back-to-back Crosbys, Tom Watson beat Ben Crenshaw on the second hole of sudden death on the final day of play, which was pushed back to Monday by rain. Shooting a torrid six-under-par 30 on the front nine at Pebble on the final day, Watson finished with a 69, bringing him into an unexpected tie with Crenshaw, who shot a seemingly unbeatable 67. Watson's first-place finish was worth $45,000. Pro Gibby Gilber and Richard Gelb, chairman of the board of Bristol-Myers, won the Pro-Am team title.

Winner: Lon Hinkle
70-68-69-77 (284)

After Andy Bean missed a 20-foot putt on 18, a three-way tie forced a playoff between Bean and fellow PGA youngsters Mark Hayes and Lon Hinkle — a playoff ultimately decided in Hinkle's favor when he sank a 12-foot birdie putt on 17. The winner's purse was $54,000. Hinkle's dramatic finish wasn't seen by TV viewers, however, when CBS decided to end its coverage after 72 holes in favor of "60 Minutes" and "Rocky." Jack Nicklaus missed the Crosby in 1979 for the first time in his career, and Hale Irwin broke his string of making the cut in 87 straight tournaments. Pro-Am winners were Bean and Florida real estate developer Bill Bunting.

1980

George Burns III
71-69-71-69 (280)

Under crystal-clear skies, a record gallery of more than 10,000 watched Sunday's final round of the Crosby, when George Burns overcame a big lead by Jack Nicklaus to win. Nicklaus was at one point 10 under (including a 5-under performance on the first six holes Sunday) but faded on the back nine. Burns, meanwhile, was steadily making difficult putts, including a monster 40-footer on 16. "It surprised the hell out of me," said Burns who, at 30, had won almost $500,000 in five years on the PGA Tour without a victory. He added another $54,000 with his win at Pebble Beach. Pro-Am winners were George Cadle and Whizzer Farish of Pebble Beach, a pilot for Pan-Am playing in his 22nd Crosby.

1981

Winner: John Cook
66-71-72 (209)

A dramatic five-way playoff, the first-ever on the PGA Tour, ended in a stunning victory for unknown pro John Cook over 20-year-old Bobby Clampett, Hale Irwin, Ben Crenshaw and Barney Thompson. Cook won by making par on the third playoff hole after lapses by his opponents (including a bogey by Irwin) left the door wide open. Rain delayed the start of the Crosby to Saturday, and icy winds made things miserable throughout the weekend. Nevertheless, record crowds turned out to watch the tournament, which was shortened to 54 holes and ended on Monday. Clampett, who lived in Carmel Valley, missed the victory when he couldn't sink a three-foot par putt on his final hole at Cypress.

Cook's winning purse was $40,500 (reduced by 25 percent because the tournament was shortened). Pro-Am winners were again George Cadle and Whizzer Farish — the first and only Pro-Am team to repeat. Farish, who grew up on the Peninsula, said of the three Crosby courses, "I've played them a thousand times — each."

1982

Winner: Jim Simons
71-66-71-66 (274)

Blowing a five-stroke lead with 10 holes to play — and foreshadowing the 2000 AT&T Pro-Am when Tiger Woods overcame an even bigger deficit — Craig Stadler let Jim Simons win the 1982 Crosby and its first prize of $54,000. But Simons was no patsy; his final round of 66 was one of the finest finishes to date in the tournament, and he set a Crosby record with his total of 274, 14 under par. The great Jack Nicklaus might have won, but ended up in a five-way tie for third (with Johnny Miller and three others) after missing several key putts.

1983

Winner: Tom Kite
69-72-62-73 (276)

It rained all day during Sunday's final round, but play continued anyway as Tom Kite took the tournament despite a final round of 73. Saturday, when Kite also played Pebble, he set a course record of 62. The $58,500 first prize was Kite's fifth PGA crown in 12 years. Despite four birdies on the back nine, Jack Nicklaus finished in sixth place — which earned him $11,700 and made him the first golf pro to earn more than $4 million in a career. Cal Peete was in second place, two strokes back. The Pro-Am winners were Gilder and Clark.

Winner: Hale Irwin
69-69-68-72 (278)

With the most improbable shot in Pebble Beach history, Hale Irwin captured the 1984 Crosby title and the $72,000 check that came with it. Even Tiger Woods couldn't hope to pull off the shot Irwin made on 18 at Pebble during the final round Sunday. Irwin's tee shot was headed out into Stillwater Cove when the ball improbably caromed off a rock and bounced back onto the fairway. "The entire tournament evolved around that tremendous break I had on 18," Irwin said. Mark O'Meara, with two eagles on the front nine, nearly caught Irwin. Even after Irwin birdied 18, Jim Nelford did catch him, forcing a playoff. But on the second playoff hole — 16 — Irwin made a tremendous second shot from a bunker 200 yards onto the green and just nine feet from the cup. When Nelford missed his birdie putt on the hole, Irwin calmly nailed his tournament-winning shot. O'Meara, paired with J.P. Diesel of Houston, won the Pro-Am team crown.

1985

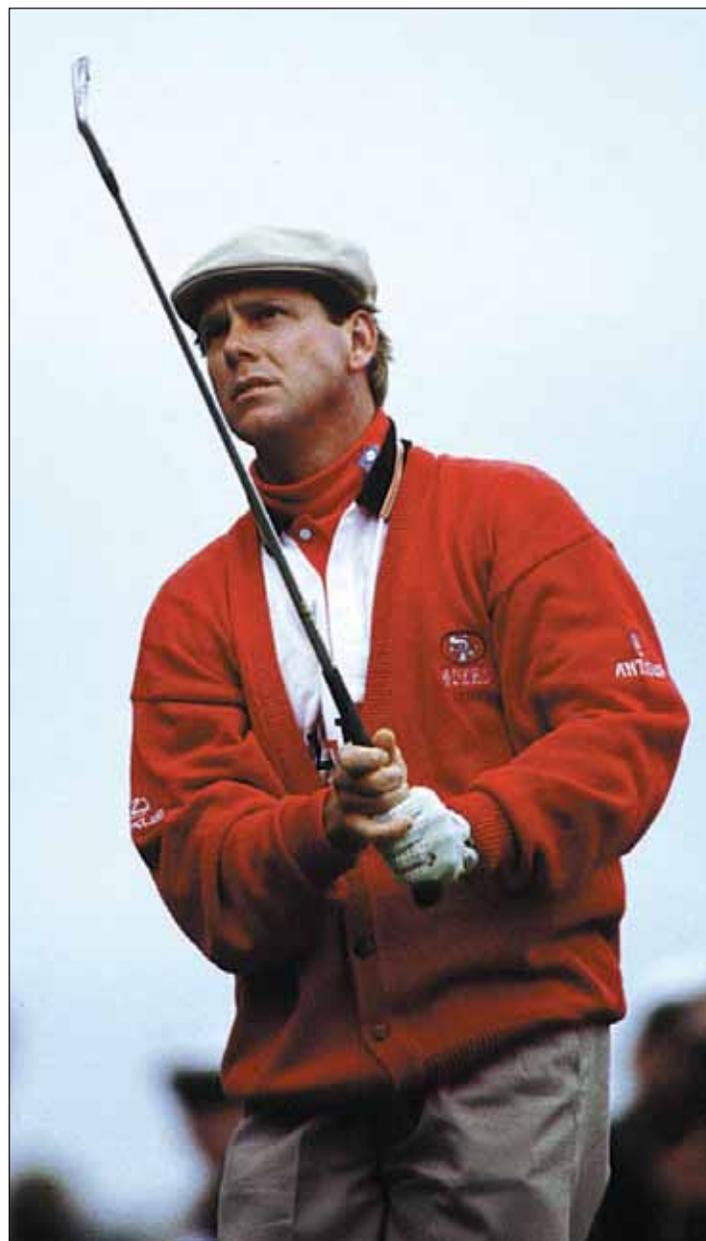

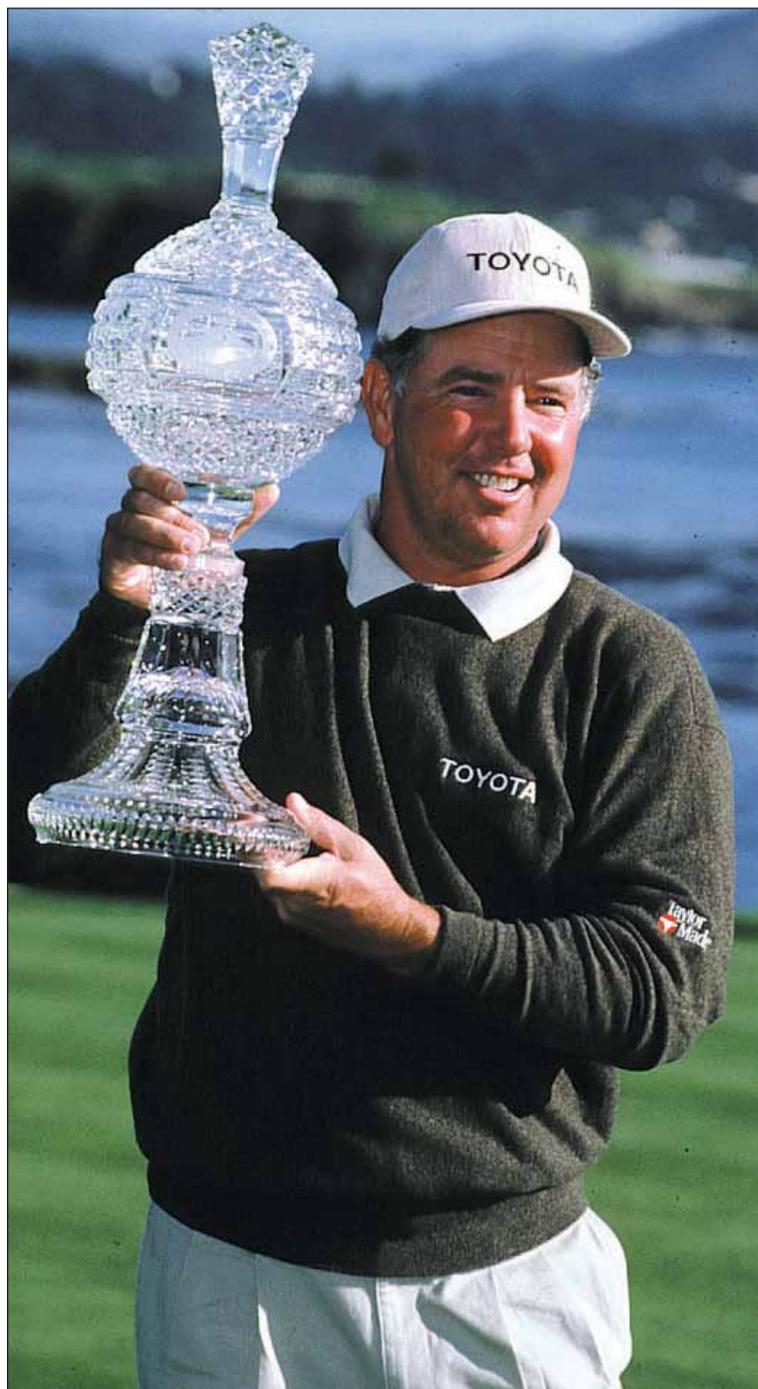

Winner: Mark O'Meara
70-72-68-73 (273)

The final year of the Crosby saw the tournament begin under frosty skies with winds at 35 mph. But in the end, Mark O'Meara warmed up the crowd with clutch putting that, despite a final round of 73, gave him the $90,000 first place check and a then-record 72-hole low Pebble Beach Pro-Am score of 273. Larry Rinker, Kikou Arai and Curtis Strange were all just one shot behind. Playing in the final group, O'Meara missed a birdie putt on 18, but so did Strange, ending any chance of a playoff. Dean Spanos, who lived in Stockton and was part-owner of the San Diego Chargers, and pro partner Hubert Green captured the Pro-Am crown.

1986

Winner: Fuzzy Zoeller
69-66-70 (205)

The first year with its new corporate sponsor was nearly a washout for the AT&T Pebble Beach Pro-Am. Friday's round was canceled after heavy morning rains drenched the three courses. And so was the rescheduled final round on Monday, leaving Fuzzy Zoeller the winner of the $108,000 first prize after just 54 holes. Crowds were sparse, but the tournament still generated a hefty sum for charity, with AT&T contributing $750,000 in its first year backing the tournament. Zoeller, who was on Pebble Monday before play was suspended, called the weather, "The worst conditions I've ever played under." He was also winner of the Pro-Am team title, partnered with Coral de Tierra golfer Mike Evans.

HISTORY OF THE PRO-AM

GREATEST

1987

Winner: Johnny Miller
72-72-68-66 (278)

Taking advantage of a bogey on 17 by third-round leader Payne Stewart, Johnny Miller won the Pebble Beach Pro-Am for the second time. On a perfect Sunday at Pebble Beach, he shot a six-under 66, including seven birdies, for the $108,000 first prize. "I can't believe I won," Miller was overheard to say to his caddy as the day wrapped up. Stewart finished just one stroke back. This was Miller's 19th appearance at the tournament he continued to call The Crosby. In 1968, he launched his career with a victory at the California State Amateur, also at Pebble Beach, which he often referred to as his home course. And Miller wasn't through. He came back and won the Pro-Am again in 1994. The team victory in 1987 went to Fred Couples and baseball great George Brett, who capped the title with a three-inch putt on 18.

1988

Winner: Steve Jones
72-64-70-74 (280)

With an 18-foot birdie putt on the second hole of a sudden-death playoff, Steve Jones capped a dramatic victory at Pebble Beach over a field that included five or six players with a shot at the title. Jones, a relative unknown, triumphed over 1988's top players, including Bob Tway, Greg Norman and Craig Stadler. Jones had a three-stroke lead as Sunday's round began, but bogeys on 15 and 17 opened the door for Tway, who tied the leader with a birdie on 18. But in the playoff, it was Jones who out-putted the veteran for a $126,000 first-place check. The Pro-Am winners were Dan Pohl and Miami Dolphins quarterback Dan Marino.

1989

Winner: Mark O'Meara
66-68-73-70 (277)

With a dramatic 10-foot birdie putt on 18, Mark O'Meara edged out Tom Kite — who missed his chance for a tie on 18 when his 15-foot putt for birdie fell short — for the 1989 first prize of $180,000. "I knew that whoever birdied 18 would win," Kite said. He finished just one stroke back. After the match, O'Meara sharply criticized the slow play during the tournament, saying it took his group three hours to finish the first nine holes during the final round. Pro-Am winners were Steve Jones and Carmel Valley doctor Jim Rheim, who birdied 18 with a 9-foot putt.

1990

Winner: Mark O'Meara
67-73-69-72 (281)

Winning for the second year in a row, Mark O'Meara became the first player to win back-to-back titles since Tom Watson in 1977 and 1978. Nicklaus also won consecutive titles; Cory Middlecoff was the first to do it back in '55 and '56. O'Meara won the $180,000 first prize with a final round of 72 at a windy Pebble Beach. No one has done it since. Kenny Perry finished in second place, two strokes back. Payne Stewart seemed like the favorite to win until he bogeyed 12, 14, 16 and 18. Four groups had to finish their third round Sunday morning, after high winds at Cypress curtailed play on Saturday. Dean Spanos, co-owner of the San Diego Chargers, teamed with Hubert Green for the Pro-Am team title.

Winner: Paul Azinger
67-67-73-67 (274)

After being frustrated with his play at Pebble Beach year after year, Azinger stormed to a final round score of 67 to take the tournament from gallery favorite Rocco Mediate. "Every year when I leave here, I say I'm not coming back," Azinger joked after taking the $198,000 first prize. Before the 1991 Pro-Am, Azinger said he'd never shot better than a 70 at Pebble. On his way to the victory, he birdied 13 and 17, while Mediate was blowing his once-substantial tournament lead with a final round of 74. The Pro-Am team title went to John Cook and soap opera star Jack Wagner.

1991 was also the first year Poppy Hills was part of the Pro-Am play; it replaced Cypress Point golf club after PGA officials raised concerns about the club's exclusive membership policies.

69-68-68-70 (275)

With a dramatic 35-foot putt on 18 to force a playoff with Jeff Sluman, Mark O'Meara made perhaps his most dramatic shot in a run of three AT&T Pro-Am victories in four years. He captured the $198,000 first-place prize by sinking another great putt — from 18 feet — on the first playoff hole. The day started poorly for O'Meara, who shot 38 on the front nine. But he came storming back with a 32 on the back nine. Paul Azinger was just one back after regulation play finished, despite shooting 68 for the final round. Pro-Am winners Greg Norman and Kerry Packers set a tournament record with a 42-under total of 246.

1993

Winner: Brett Ogle
68-68-69-71 (276)

Gregarious Australian Brett Ogle captured his first PGA Tour victory at Pebble Beach with a three-shot triumph in the AT&T Pro-Am, despite four bogeys in six holes during the final round. With a steady rain falling through much of the day, Ogle birdied three of the last six holes to fend off challengers Billy Ray Brown and Greg Twigs. Ogle's first-place finish was worth $225,000. Tom Watson had the low round on the final day, with birdies on 10, 11, 18, 6, 7 and 9. Payne Stewart and Jim Morris won the Pro-Am title, after Mark McGwire knocked his team out of contention with a bogey on 18.

Winner: Johnny Miller
68-72-67-74 (281)

Defying the calendar, 46-year-old Johnny Miller captured the AT&T Pro-Am, and even he had trouble believing it. "I play two tournaments a year . . . this is magic," he said. The win was Miller's third title in three different decades at the Pebble Beach charity event — he had previously won in 1974 and 1987. Jeff Maggert, Corey Pavin, Kirk Triplett and Tom Watson all finished just one stroke behind Miller, who sank a one-foot putt for par on 18 to avoid a possible five-way playoff. It rained nearly all day during the final round and, with a gale blowing from the south, Miller got to the green in two on 17 to preserve his lead while Watson was bogeying 14, 16 and 17. Miller's first-place finish was worth $225,000. Pro-Am winners were Dudley Hart and 18-year-old amateur Robert Floyd.

1995

Winner: Peter Jacobsen
67-73-66-65 (271)

With the best final round by a winner, Peter Jacobsen captured the $252,000 winner's purse despite starting play at Pebble Beach on Sunday at three under. His total score, 271, was the lowest since Mark O'Meara's 273 in 1985, but with clean-and-place rules in effect because of a wet course, Jacobsen said his record score deserved "an asterisk." With a bit of sun finally showing through the clouds, Jacobsen birdied 18 to seal his victory. David Duval, in his first full year on the PGA Tour, finished in second place, two strokes back. Pro-Am winners were Bruce Vaughn and amateur Masahi Yamada.

Winner: nobody
Tournament canceled due to unplayable conditions

The weather on Sunday was pleasant: low clouds, some sun, no rain. But heavy rains earlier in the week, including a torrential downpour on Saturday, left the courses — especially Spyglass — in unplayable condition, forcing outright cancellation of the AT&T Pro-Am due to weather for the first, and only, time in its history. (Play was suspended from 1942 to 1946 because of WWII.) In particular, one flooded spot on 16 at Spyglass was cited by PGA officials as requiring cancellation of the event. Jeff Maggert was the leader at 136 after 54 holes; he got $5,000 in consolation money, just like all the other pros in the field.

Winner: Mark O'Meara
67-67-67-67 (268)

Fighting off an amazing comeback by Tiger Woods — who was in 67th place on Friday and trailed by seven shots Sunday morning — Mark O'Meara won his fifth AT&T Pebble Beach Pro-Am by a single shot over Woods and David Duval. Woods, playing in a foursome one hole ahead of O'Meara, had six birdies in the first 12 holes but bogeyed 13. Two shots down on 18, Woods made a dramatic bid for an eagle on 18. His second shot, from 267 yards out, landed on the front of the green. But he missed a 35-foot putt and had to settle for a birdie. O'Meara's all-time low score at the event was worth $342,000. Pro-Am champs were Paul Stankowski and Andy Garcia.

Winner: Phil Mickelson
67-68-67 (202)

A torrential downpour on Sunday brought back memories of 1996, when the AT&T Pro-Am was canceled after 54 holes. But in 1998, with California again experiencing record-breaking rains, PGA officials looked for a way to squeeze in a third round at Pebble Beach sometime later in the year. First, they set the final round for March 2. Later, it was rescheduled again to Aug. 17. The winner's check was $450,000. The Pro-Am portion of the tournament was canceled.

1999

Winner: Payne Stewart
69-64-73 (206)

With weather getting seriously in the way for the fourth time in five years, the 1999 tournament was shortened to just 54 holes, just like it had been the year before. Saturday leader Payne Stewart was declared the winner of the $504,000 first prize after heavy rains Saturday night and Sunday forced cancellation of the final round. Stewart's final shot on Saturday, a tap-in birdie on 18 at Spyglass, turned out to be the winner over Frank Lickliter, just one shot back. Pro-Am winners were Lickliter and Robert MacDonnell. Later that year, Stewart won the U.S. Open at Pinehurst, S.C. He died in a plane crash Oct. 25 when carbon monoxide rendered everyone on board his chartered airplane unconscious soon after takeoff from Orlando, Fla. The plane flew on autopilot until it ran out of fuel and crashed in South Dakota, depriving Stewart of the chance to defend his U.S. Open and AT&T Pro-Am titles — both at Pebble Beach — in 2000.

Winner: Tiger Woods
68-73-68-64 (273)

Leaving the crowd and the sportswriters practically speechless, Tiger Woods gave the AT&T Pro-Am a finish unlike any other. Down five shots when play began on Sunday, and even further behind — seven shots — with just seven holes to play, Woods took complete control of his game and the tournament, capping his comeback with a 97-foot wedge shot on 15 that hit just to the right of the hole, took two bounces, and landed in the cup. He nearly did the same on 16 and finished two strokes ahead of Vijay Singh and Matt Gogel to take the first prize of $720,000. The win was Woods' sixth in a row on the PGA Tour. Pro-Am champs were Skip Kendall and King City businessman David Gill. The tournament was the last Pebble Beach Pro-Am event for golf legend Jack Nicklaus.

2001

Winner: Davis Love III
71-69-69-63 (272)

Despite a seven-shot deficit when play started under sparkling, clear skies Sunday morning, Davis Love III put together an amazing round of 63, including five birdies and an eagle on the first six holes. On the front nine, he was an amazing eight under. Another birdie on 15 sealed his victory and the first-place money of $720,000. Vijay Singh finished just one stroke back; Tiger Woods was eight strokes off the lead. Pro-Am champs were Phil Mickelson and saxophonist Kenny G.

2002

Winner: Matt Gogel
66-72-67-69 (274)

With his first PGA Tour victory, Gogel picked up a check for $720,000 after shooting two under on the back nine during the final round. Two years earlier, Gogel had watched Tiger Woods stage an incredible comeback to take the tournament from him. This year, third-round leader Pat Perez, who was up by four strokes when play started Sunday, withered on the final day, shooting a triple-bogey on the 18th Hole, opening the door for Gogel who showed none of the nervousness of 2000. Tiger Woods shot 282, eight strokes off the lead (for the second year in a row). Pro-Am winners were Brian Claar and Randall Mays.

2003

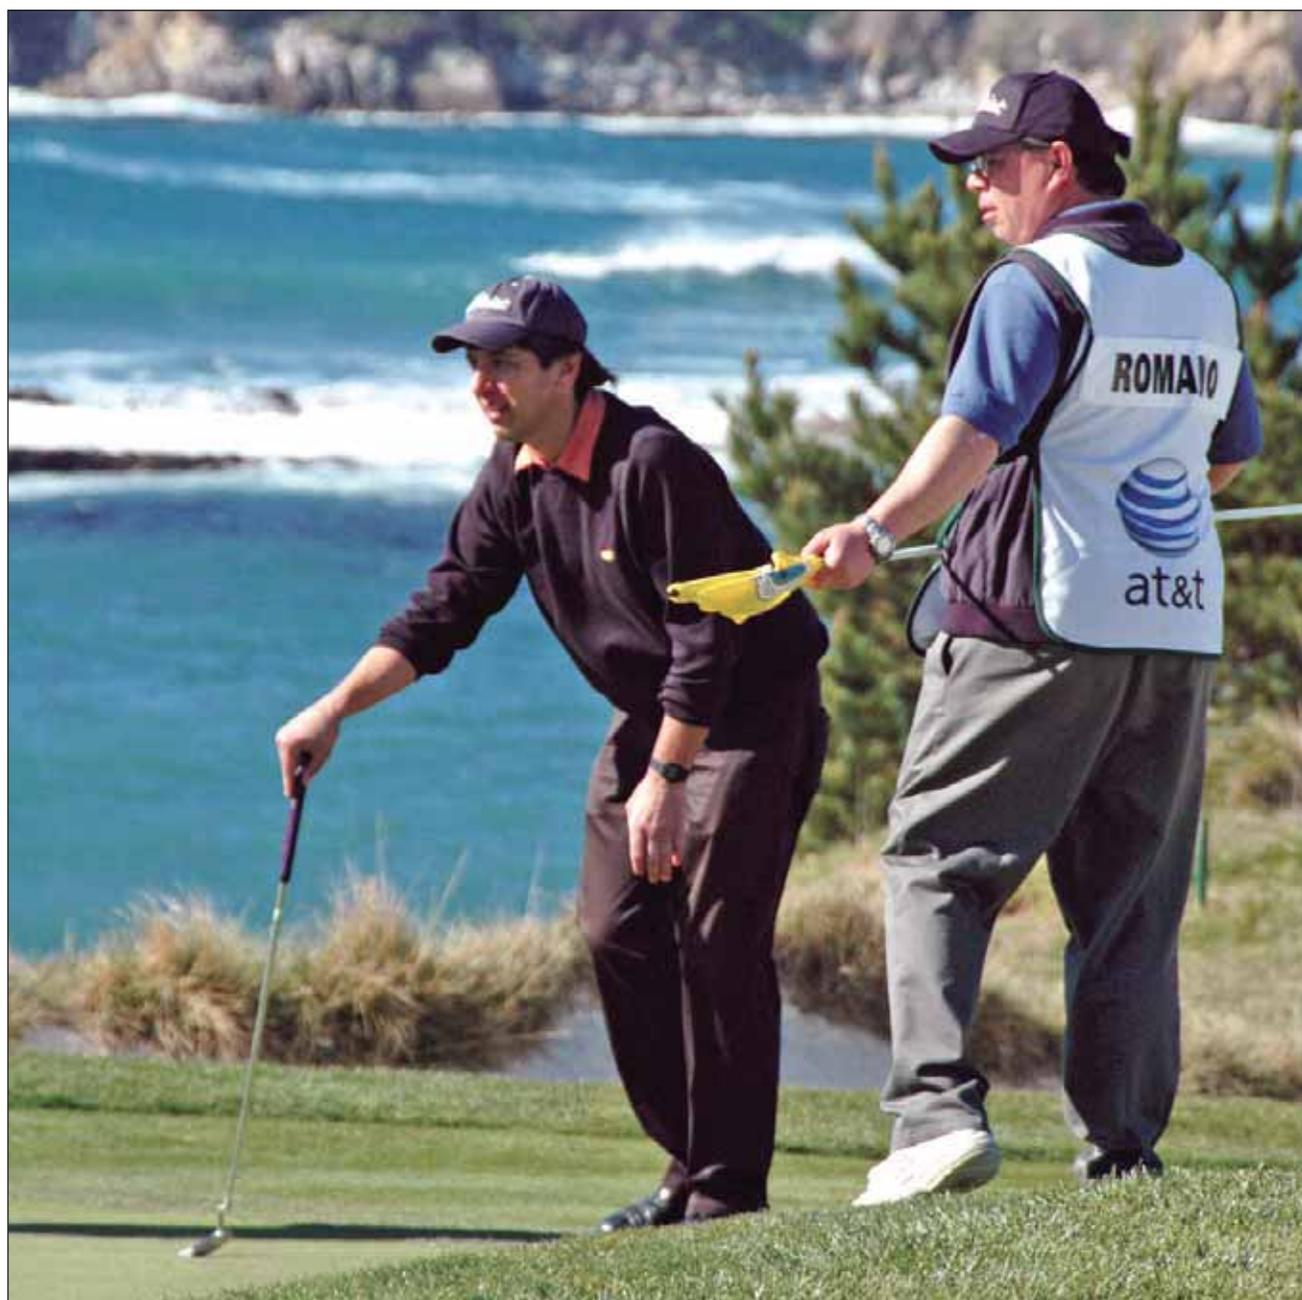

Winner: Davis Love III

1990s — was completely forgotten. And with Tiger Woods sitting out the Pro-Am after consecutive years finishing eight strokes off the lead, all the attention was on less well known, but equally formidable, PGA stars. Davis Love III salvaged a victory with a birdie on 18 on the final day — holding off Tom Lehman by a single stroke. Love's win — his second in three years — came despite a bogey on 16 on the final round. In the group just ahead, Tom Lehman bogeyed two holes in the front nine but then shot five birdies on the back nine and seemed poised to force a playoff. A missed birdie putt from less than six feet on 18 left him in second place. Love's win, worth $900,000, came with some extraordinary luck: His tee shot on 12 hit a photographer (not from The Pine Cone) and rolled to within easy putting distance of the pin. The Pro-Am ended in a tie, with pros Phil Tataurangi and Brad Faxon and their amateur partners Chris Heatley and Thomas Ryan ending up with 31-under scores of 257. Both pairings finished with final rounds of 64. Two Pro-Am teams were disqualified during the tournament for signing incorrect scorecards.

2004
Winner: Vijay Singh
67-68-68-69

With four rounds in the 60s, Vijay Singh had little serious competition in the 2004 AT&T Pebble Beach National Pro-Am. His dominating, three-stroke victory came with 25 birdies and earned him $954,000. After 54 sun-drenched holes, it appeared that San Jose State graduate Arron Oberholser (who would win the tournament in 2006) had a chance to beat Singh. In the same group for the final round, they were tied at 13 under when play began Sunday. On the first three holes, Singh's tee shots were errant: one going into the rough, one missing the fairway and another missing the green by 60 yards. But Singh managed to turn all three into birdies. Another birdie for Singh on 8, coupled with a double-bogey for Oberholser on the same hole, gave Singh an unbeatable six stroke lead. The winning pro-am team was Jerry Kelly and Robert Halmi, Jr.

2005
Winner: Phil Mickelson
62-67-67-73 (269)

Phil Mickelson started his week on the Monterey Peninsula being inducted into the California Golf Hall of Fame and finished it breaking records on his way to a four-stroke victory in the 2005 Pebble Beach Pro-Am. Fellow lefty Mike Weir was the runner-up.

In the process, Mickelson became the first wire-to-wire winner since the tournament was lengthened from 54 holes to 72 holes in 1958. He matched the tournament record with a 10-under-par 62 in his opening round at Spyglass Hill Golf Course. The amazing performance also set a record for Spyglass. And then, Mickelson set the tournament 36-hole record at 129 with his second-round 67 at Poppy Hills. And he set the tournament 54-hole record at 196 with his third-round 67 at Pebble Beach.

Although a final-round 73, 1-over-par at Pebble Beach, left him one shot off the tournament record of 268 set by Mark O'Meara in 1997, it nonetheless was a solid finish, given that Weir's 67 was the only sub-70 round posted in a light rain, with some gusty wind. When the final round began, Mickelson held a seven-shot lead through 54 holes, making Sunday's play little more than a formality. His winnings were $954,000.

Bill Murray and longtime pro partner Scott Simpson were in the running for the pro-am title, but their closing 67 gave them a 258 total, good for fourth. The victory went to Barry McCollam and pro partner Joel Kribel.

Winner: Arron Oberholser
65-68-66-72 (271)

Two years after failing to catch Vijay Singh, Arron Oberholser closed the deal on his first PGA Tour victory to the delight of his family and friends from San Jose.

"Growing up, I always watched guys win the golf tournament and just the walk up 18 at Pebble Beach is unlike anything else," said Oberholser, a former San Jose State standout who played numerous amateur events on the Monterey Peninsula. "Even when you're playing here by yourself or with a foursome, it's still an incredible walk. But to walk up knowing that you are the champion ... I wish everybody could feel that way. It's incredible."

Oberholser shot a final-round 72, even par, on the Pebble Beach Golf Links for a 271, 17-under-par — enough for a tournament record-tying five-shot cushion over runner-up Rory Sabbatini, whose 70 gave him a 276. Mike Weir, who came into Sunday tied with Oberholser at 199, crashed early — with a double-bogey at the second hole and bogey on the third — and shot 78 to tie for third at 277 with Jonathan Byrd.

The victory, which Oberholser locked up with a dramatic birdie out of the trees on the par-4 15th, was a distinctly different sequel to his final round in 2004, when he went into the final round tied for the lead with Vijay Singh, but then seemed to succumb to the pressure of facing one of the top players in the game.

There was a lot of smiling and good times in 2006, as record crowds enjoyed a sixth straight year with no rain problems. Sunshine pushed temperatures into the high 70s as more than 155,000 fans overall attended the four rounds of competition.

Oberholser, whose first place finish was worth $972,000, became only the fifth player to earn his first PGA Tour victory at Pebble Beach, joining John Cook (1981), Steve Jones (1988), Brett Ogle (1993) and Matt Gogel (2002).

Oberholser was also the fifth pro to sweep both the individual and team titles, as he and amateur partner Michael McCallister, the president and CEO of Humana Inc., tied for first in the pro-am, at 255, 33-under-par. They shared the championship with pro Hunter Mahan and Alan Heuer, the COO of Mastercard International, who shot 66 in the final round, while Oberholser and McCallister shot 68.

Winner: Phil Mickelson
65-67-70-66 (268)

Taking the tournament by storm, Phil Mickelson won his third Pebble Beach pro-am (and $990,000), finishing the tournament ten under par and tying the record for victory margin with a five-stroke win over runner-up Kevin Sutherland. His final round 66 at Pebble Beach Sunday included six birdies.

And speaking of storms, while Bill Murray's group was on the 17th Green at Spyglass on Thursday, a huge Monterey pine toppled on a nearby hillside, barely missing a spectator.

Mickelson and his amateur partner, Harry You, CEO of BearingPoint Consulting, also won the pro-am tournament, at 39 under par.

2008

Winner: Steve Lowery
69-71-70-68 (278)

Having played 198 PGA tournaments since 2000 without a victory, Steve Lowery probably wasn't expecting to defeat the legendary Vijay Singh in a sudden death playoff at the end of the 2008 Pebble Beach Pro-Am. Still, he neatly dispatched Singh on the very first playoff hole with a seven-foot birdie putt.

Through most of the opening three rounds, Lowery's name wasn't exactly at the top of the leaderboard. But 10 birdies in 15 holes on Saturday and Sunday propelled him to the top. Singh needed a birdie on the final hole of regulation to force the playoff. "Winning on this course against Vijay is something really special," Lowery said, who picked up a first-place check for $1,080,000.

The pro-am champions were amateur Bill Walters, owner of Walters Golf in Las Vegas, and pro Frederick Jacobsen, who shot 250 (38 under par) to win by a tournament-record 10 strokes.

Clear, sunny weather prevailed on the Monterey Peninsula during the tournament, and there were no delays due to weather.

2009

Winner: Dustin Johnson
65-69-67 (201)

In a rain-shortened event of 54 holes, 24-years-and-seven-months-old Dustin Johnson became the second-youngest winner of the AT&T Pebble Beach Pro-Am (Tiger Woods was six months younger when he won the event in 2000).

Johnson opened at Pebble Beach on Thursday with a crisp, 7-under 65, followed with a 69 at Spyglass on Friday, and then birdied all the par-fives at Poppy Hills on Saturday to build a big lead going into what should have been a final round at Pebble Beach on Sunday. The victory was worth $1,098,000 for Johnson. Mike Weir was the runner-up, winning $658,800. Retief Goosen finished third.

Johnson, along with his amateur partner, Joe Rice (an attorney from Charleston, S.C.), also took the pro-am title.
