Where'd our beach go?

High seas and winter storms since the beginning of the year have carried away most of the sand at Carmel Beach, as they often do, but this year's were also fierce enough to claim the bottom of stairways from Scenic Road at 10th Avenue and 12th Avenue. The wooden staircases are made to break away at the bottom, protecting the rest of the steps and the supporting bluff. City administrator Rich Guillen said the stairs will be fixed this spring after the stormy weather subsides. Even before this week's deluges, total rainfall for the year had reached 19.9 inches, or 128 percent of average.

Anchorwoman relives dog attack in jury trial

■ Ospina says she has flashbacks

By KELLY NIX

IN EMOTIONAL and, at times, tearful testimony, KCBA and KION anchorwoman Olga Ospina recounted in a Monterey courtroom this week the fatal mauling of her beloved dog, Lulu, by a Labrador in front of the Pacific Grove post office almost three years ago — an attack Ospina said has left her with flashbacks and nightmares.

Olga Ospina

Ospina's testimony Tuesday marked the second day of a jury trial in Monterey County Superior Court over a lawsuit the newscaster filed against the Labrador's owner for the July 25, 2007 attack.

In her suit, filed in October 2008, Ospina asks that dog owner Donna Bazan and her father, Donald Armstrong, be ordered to pay her tens of thousands of dollars for pain and suffering, wage loss, vet bills and other damages.

Ospina rejected a $40,000 offer by Bazan and Armstrong to settle the case.

In tearful testimony, Ospina, 38, said she was on a routine walk with Lulu at about 11 a.m. when she passed Bazan's Ford Explorer in front of the post office and saw Bazan's Labrador, Samson, climbing out of a partially open window. The Lab lunged, bit Ospina's arm and then attacked Lulu.

"I still had Lulu by the leash," Ospina said. "That's when he just grabbed her with his jaws."

Frantically trying to fight off the dog, Ospina said she screamed "at the top of my lungs."

"I said, 'Help me, somebody please help me!'" Ospina said. "I was screaming so loud. I can't tell you how many minutes [it was]. It seemed like an eternity ... I thought, 'I'm just left to fend for myself.'"

Big Sur wilderness bill — will it make it harder to fight fires?

By CHRIS COUNTS

A LOCAL environmental group is praising a bill that would designate 920 acres in the northeast corner of Andrew Molera State Park in Big Sur as a state wilderness area. But some Big Sur residents are concerned the designation would limit access to a critical fire break in the event of a wildfire, and others are disappointed the bill's author, Assembly member Bill Monning, didn't discuss the proposal with Big Sur residents before unveiling it.

The bill — AB 2074 — was introduced by Monning Feb. 18. The proposed wilderness area comprises about 19 percent of the 4,766-acre park, which is located on Highway 1 about 24 miles south of Carmel.

Monning told The Pine Cone that a wilderness designation will create a greater obstacle to development in the park. And while the northeastern portion of the park does not appear to be facing any immediate threat of development, it is possible that California State Parks

Salyer's effort to get bail fails again

By PAUL MILLER

SACRAMENTO — YET ANOTHER federal judge has deemed Scott Salyer a "substantial flight risk."

And no matter how much bail he posted and how closely he might be monitored by authorities while awaiting trial, there is no way to ensure Salyer, 54, would show up in court, Federal Magistrate Edmund Brennan ruled Wednesday afternoon. He ordered that Salyer be held without bail in the Sacramento County Jail.

Salyer, a longtime Pebble Beach resident and former head of one of the country's most profitable agricultural and food processing companies, was arrested at New York's JFK airport Feb. 4 after being indicted by a federal grand jury on multiple charges of price fixing, bribery and selling tainted food. He faces 20 years in prison if convicted.

The day after his arrest, Salyer was ordered held without bail by a federal judge in Brooklyn who agreed with federal prosecutors that Salyer had an elaborate plan to escape justice by moving his money, and himself, to another country.

But during an hour-long hearing Wednesday afternoon at the U.S. District Courthouse here, Salyer's attorney, Malcolm Segal, asked Federal Magistrate Edmund Brennan to reverse that decision and let Salyer go home to his family, including two daughters and a newborn grandson, in the Monterey Peninsula.

"My client isn't a runner, he's a fighter," said Segal. "And he would never abandon his family or do anything to put their financial future in jeopardy."

Furthermore, Salyer needs his freedom to prepare a

State: No plan for aerial spray to get rid of moths

■ But EIR says spray not harmful

By KELLY NIX

ALTHOUGH A state environmental report released last month shows a pheromone used to combat the invasive light brown apple moth is probably not harmful to humans, officials said they have no plans to resume aerial spraying of the pheromone to get rid of the pest.

Last week, the California Department of Food and Agriculture unveiled the environmental impact report on its apple moth eradication program, which was ordered after public opposition to the aerial spraying of the Monterey Peninsula in the fall of 2007. In the report, the CDFA does not consider continuing its spraying program.

Instead, the report calls for the placement of pheromone-coated twist ties on trees and plants, and the release of sterile moths to eradicate the insect.

The CDFA has warned that the Australian moth could cause hundreds of millions of dollars in agricultural damage, which led it to call the LBAM infestation an "emergency." The designation allowed the state in September and October 2007 to conduct aerial spraying of a pheromone over the Monterey Peninsula without an EIR.

Judge issues restraining order against caregiver

■ Another $1 million alleged stolen

By KELLY NIX

WHILE A lawsuit makes its way through the pretrial process, a judge has issued a restraining order against a man accused of bilking a Carmel physician out of millions of dollars.

On Monday, Monterey County Superior Court Judge Susan Dauphine issued an order barring Charles Harper — a former caregiver of Carmel doctor Lawrence Loftus — from having any contact with Loftus.

"The judge found that Dr. Loftus was still in danger, with Charles being a credible threat," Frank Hesse, Loftus' attorney, told The Pine Cone.

The judge's order came one week after Loftus filed a lawsuit against Harper in Monterey County Superior Court seeking to recover millions of dollars he said Harper stole while he acted as his caregiver.

'Kill his dogs'

Loftus, who is 5 feet 2 inches tall and weighs 110 pounds, also contends the 6-foot-1-inch Harper threatened to harm him.

At Monday's hearing, "Dr. Loftus testified and told the judge ... how Harper threatened to kill his dogs and throw his

UPS pays Big Sur man for lost coins

By KELLY NIX

A BIG Sur man has come out on the winning end of a lawsuit he filed against UPS over five vintage gold coins the shipping company lost in transit last year.

James Macfarlane filed a small claims lawsuit against UPS after the shipping giant refused to compensate him for the late-1800s and early-1900s U.S. Liberty coins it said it lost. After a trial in December 2009, a judge ruled in Macfarlane's favor, but UPS appealed the case.

On Feb. 16, the case went to trial again. At the conclusion of the one-day hearing — and after Monterey County Superior Court Judge Kay Kingsley took the case under submission — UPS offered to settle the case. Macfarlane agreed to the offer.

"UPS tried like the devil to get the get off the hook" during the trial, Macfarlane told The Pine Cone, "But at the end of the day, I was able to prevail."

The settlement agreement with UPS does not allow Macfarlane to reveal how much he was paid. But after the December 2009 small claims hearing, the company was ordered to pay Macfarlane $6,977.66.

Macfarlane had sold the 1-ounce gold coins on eBay and used UPS to ship them to their Indiana buyer, when UPS lost them.

Attorneys for UPS argued during the Feb. 16 trial that Macfarlane should have read the company's terms and conditions, a lengthy online document that states UPS prohibits coins from being shipped.

But Macfarlane's Monterey attorney, Ron De Hoff, said the company's online shipping program "had a bug in it" that made the document impossible to read.

An expert who testified on Macfarlane's behalf proved the UPS online software had a dead link, which didn't allow Macfarlane — or anyone else — to view the page with the company's terms and conditions.

"My lawyers were able to clearly demonstrate in court — on several levels — that UPS simply does not make clear its restrictions on what may be shipped, especially given the fact that UPS does not honor claims against internal loss of such articles, even if they are insured within the UPS software," Macfarlane said.

Macfarlane's attorneys also showed UPS mishandled his insured package by not securing it in a special holding area reserved for high-value packages.

"I think UPS realized their argument ... wasn't going to fly," De Hoff said. "And that was the reason for the settlement."

Pebble Beach mom and son arrested for 'hate crime'

By MARY BROWNFIELD

A MOTHER and son were arrested last week for allegedly committing a hate crime against a Carmel business owner during a fight at a San Carlos Street bar.

Lois Lintz, 64, was released on a citation following the Feb. 25 scuffle, while her son, 32-year-old Jared Miller, who lives with her in Pebble Beach, was taken to Monterey County Jail after causing hundreds of dollars in damage to the police department's holding cell, according to Carmel Police Sgt. Paul Tomasi.

The altercation occurred at Ody's at about 12:20 a.m. The victim has known Miller for a while, and when they were together at the bar, the man asked Miller to return the iPod he had left at Miller's home a couple of years ago, according to Tomasi. Miller responded that he'd given the music player to his girlfriend, since the man had failed to retrieve it, and they began arguing.

"They were talking really close, and then Miller called him the n-word, and the victim didn't appreciate that," Tomasi said. The racial slur, "nigger," was repeated several times during the argument, within the hearing of many bar patrons, and then Miller slapped the victim on each side of the head, according to Tomasi.

"Then his mom decided to get into it as well," he said. "One witness said she was 'going crazy,' like swinging and throwing punches."

The victim, whom Tomasi would not identify, reportedly fought back, but with restraint, and both men sustained minor injuries.

Officers responded and arrested Lintz and Miller, and took them to the police department for booking on charges resulting from "a stupid fight over an iPod." Lintz was reportedly cooperative, but Miller "was aggressive toward the officers, calling them racial epithets, yelling and swearing," he said.

Lintz was released with an order to appear in court, but Miller was taken to Monterey County Jail after becoming violent and destroying the department's holding cell, according to

Jared Miller

Tomasi.

"He was handcuffed, still, because he was pretty irate, and he started scratching the walls with the cuffs and spitting everywhere, and he spit into the camera," he said. "And then he started kicking the door and broke the bottom latch — it fell off." Miller might have kicked his way out of the cell, had the two other latches not held.

Tomasi said the cleaning bill for the cell was $200, and the cost of repainting the room and repairing the door have yet to be determined.

Miller was jailed on a felony charge of committing a hate crime — for using racist language — misdemeanor assault, misdemeanor violation of probation and destruc-

Willie

August 28th, 1998
February 10th, 2010

Our dear American Foxhound Willie departed to be with the Universe after a seven-month bout with Canine Lymphosarcoma. Willie was eleven years old and had a great quality of life till the very end.

Oh Willie!

We are privileged that you had us in your life,
We are humbled by your limitless capacity to love,
We are inspired by your reverence for all things living,
We are shattered by your absence,
We are aware of your constant presence within us,
We know that the vast emptiness in our souls will eventually be filled with nothing but the greatest memories we shared.

We would like to thank friends, family members, patrons at the Hearing Aid Center, area residents and neighbors who hung out with Willie and showered him with affection and treats over the years. Willie loved all of you. We would like to thank Dr. James Holt at Carmel Valley Veterinary Hospital and Dr. Linda Fineman, Veterinary Medical Specialists, Campbell, CA for their outstanding and loving care.

Feds acquire remote Big Sur property

By CHRIS COUNTS

A THIRTY-YEAR effort by the U.S. Forest Service to acquire a remote South Big Sur Coast property came to fruition Feb. 16 when the agency paid $2.2 million for it.

Located along Prewitt Creek — about 57 miles south of Carmel — the 80-acre parcel is surrounded by forest service land. As a result of the area's challenging topography, the property's previous owners had no vehicle access to the land. Instead, they had to hike in along a trail.

Despite the hardships of living on such a remote property, its previous owners constructed four buildings on it. This presented a challenge for the forest service, which is encumbered by regulations making it difficult to acquire land with buildings.

In response to this dilemma, the Save The Redwoods League stepped in. The San Francisco nonprofit bought the property from its most recent owners in August and demolished the structures to make for an easier sale to the forest service.

"We were prepared to hold the property longer, but we're glad the forest service had the money in its budget," said Ruskin Hartley, executive director for the Save The Redwoods League. "The for-

Don't watch your money drip away.

Don't waste a drop.

Household leaks are water wasters and can be extremely costly. A leak in Monterey is unlike a leak anywhere else. Leaks left unattended on the Monterey Peninsula waste water that is already in short supply. And under the new rate structure, leaks can increase your water bill by hundreds of dollars a month. Take time to check for leaks around your house today.

Facts about leaks:

- A leaky faucet that drips at the rate of one drip per second can waste more than 3,000 gallons per year.
- A showerhead leaking at 10 drips per minute wastes more than 500 gallons per year. That's enough water to wash 60 loads of dishes in your dishwasher.
- If your toilet is running constantly, you could be wasting 200 gallons of water or more every day.
- An irrigation system with pressure set at 60 pounds per square inch that has a leak 1/32" in diameter (about the thickness of a dime) can waste about 6,300 gallons of water per month.

Facts about leaks are from the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency website: www.epa.gov

The Art of CARPETING & DECOR

with Dan Jones

MEASURES OF CARPET QUALITY

To gauge wall-to-wall carpet's expected performance, pay close attention to several factors, including "face weight." This is an indication of the number of ounces of material per square yard on the carpet front. The more ounces, the better the carpet will be, with ratings of 35 and above considered to be indicative of good quality. Another factor, density, also correlates to quality. The higher the density (more strands per square inch), the greater the comfort and performance of the carpet. In addition, "twist" should be taken into consideration. Fibers with tighter twists are better able to resist crushing and matting. To assess the quality of a carpet's twist, look at the ends, which should be tight and level.

The carpet you choose will likely set the tone for your room's formality or informality. In addition, carpeting anywhere in the home needs to be appropriate to the area which it will serve. Confused about carpeting's many styles, fibers, piles, densities, stain-resistant abilities, cleaning methods, etc., etc., etc? Let CARPETS & FLOORS, INC. take the worry out of what goes where. For complete decorating and design services for all the floors in your surroundings, stop by. We're located between Drake and McClellan on Lighthouse Ave., where only our very best will do.

HINT: The label on the back of residential carpet samples reveals performance ratings from The Carpet and Rug Institute. Ratings range from 1 (the lowest) to 5 (the highest).

Police, Fire & Sheriff's Log

Argument leads to pot destruction

HERE'S A look at some of the significant calls logged by the Carmel-by-the-Sea Police Department, the Carmel Fire Department and the Monterey County Sheriff's Office last week. This week's log was compiled by Mary Brownfield.

SATURDAY, FEBRUARY 13

Carmel-by-the-Sea: Crews responded to a hazardous condition for a vehicle that pulled up to the fire station with the driver reporting a smell of smoke from his truck. Crews investigated and found a smoldering rag on top of the muffler, which was removed and extinguished.

Carmel-by-the-Sea: Fire engine and ambulance dispatched to Scenic Road for a female in her 70s who had suffered a syncopal episode and fell, hitting her head. Crew assisted with assessment and full c-spine. Patient taken to CHOMP by ambulance.

Carmel area: An unknown suspect entered the victim's business. Took nothing and left a bottle of Champagne. They did deface one sculpture.

Carmel-by-the-Sea: Fire engine and ambulance dispatched to Junipero and Fourth for a male in his 80s with severe lower back pain. Patient went to CHOMP with the ambulance.

Carmel Valley: Suspect was contacted during a traffic stop at Rancho San Carlos Road and Carmel Valley Road for a mechanical violation and found to be in possession of marijuana.

Pebble Beach: A subject violated a restraining order by being present at the lodge.

VALENTINE'S DAY

Carmel-by-the-Sea: CPD units responded to a store at Mission Street and Seventh Avenue regarding a report of shoplifting. A female subject, age 59, was detained by the staff, and subsequent to an investigation, a citizen's arrest was made. The female subject was taken into custody.

Carmel-by-the-Sea: Report of a subject discarding prescription vials into a receptacle on Ocean Avenue. The vials were retrieved for investigatory followup. Some were empty; however, some were partially full. A records check was conducted for the listed patients on the vials. All of the prescription vials were expired. Followup was conducted on Feb. 15, and the subject was counseled concerning the incident.

Carmel-by-the-Sea: Dog owner was contacted on Ocean Avenue for having a dog off leash in the business area. Leash provided to the owner and placed on dog. Shortly after, contacted the subject again, reiterating the requirement that dogs be restrained by a person or tethered to a stationary object.

Carmel-by-the-Sea: Traffic collision on Monte Verde Street. Vehicle was drivable.

Carmel-by-the-Sea: During a traffic stop on Junipero Street, a 49-year-old male driver was found to be driving under the influence of alcohol and in possession of a controlled substance.

Carmel-by-the-Sea: Ambulance dispatched to a Sombria Lane residence in Pebble Beach for a female who had fallen. Patient transported Code 2 to CHOMP.

Carmel-by-the-Sea: Fire engine dispatched to a residence at Guadalupe and Fourth for a water or steam leak. Arrived on scene to find a broken water heater, which was leaking into the crawl space under the house. Shut off main valve to water heater and advised owner to have a licensed plumber make necessary repairs.

Carmel-by-the-Sea: Fire engine dispatched to Scenic and 10th for a surf rescue. Arrived on scene to find a male in his 20s who had just come out of the water after being in distress while swimming in rough waters. Reports indicated he had been between 50 and 300 yards from shore. Provided first aid and checked for injuries, and warmed patient. AMR responded and took over patient care. Patient signed medical release.

Carmel-by-the-Sea: Ambulance and fire engine dispatched on an unknown medical emergency at an Oak Knoll residence. Female patient transported Code 2 to CHOMP.

Pollacci arrested on suspicion of burglary

By MARY BROWNFIELD

PACIFIC GROVE police arrested Monterey resident Jordan Thomas Pollacci, 20 last week after questioning him about break-ins in January and February, according to P.G. Chief Darius Engles.

Jordan Thomas Pollacci

Officers tied Pollacci to two burglaries, which happened in the area of Lighthouse Avenue and 17 Mile Drive Jan. 4 and Feb. 15, after collecting forensic evidence at the scenes of both crimes. Engles would not elaborate on the nature of that evidence.

The first burglary was reported at 1 a.m. Jan. 4, after a woman returned home and "found some items disheveled and a back window that had been opened."

That case remained open as police investigated leads, but the connection to Pollacci wasn't made until after the Feb. 15 burglary of an apartment in the same area, according to Engles, when a woman "noticed a male figure leave a bedroom and jump out the back window," he said. She rushed to a neighbor's and called police.

"We believe that he got in by removing screens and opening windows toward the rear of the residences," Engles said. "I can't talk about items that were removed. I would say the items we believe were taken were fairly low in dollar value and were personal items."

'Can't disclose what we found'

Investigators reportedly found evidence linking Pollacci to the crimes at both residences, and they also served a search warrant at the home in Monterey to which Pollacci had recently moved, according to Engles.

"We searched his house," he said. "I can't disclose what we found there."

Pollacci was taken into custody at the police department late Feb. 24.

"He voluntarily came to the station, and during the course of the interview, he was arrested," Engles said. He was lodged at Monterey County Jail on $80,000 bail.

Engles could not say how Pollacci is related to Pebble Beach resident Tom Pollacci, whose rape trial is set to take place later this month, but the younger Pollacci was often seen working in Ron's Liquors on Lighthouse Avenue in Pacific Grove, which is owned by the Pollacci family and is the scene of the April 2008 crimes alleged against Tom Pollacci.

MAN JAILED FOR ALLEGED ASSAULT ON PARAMEDIC

A CACHAGUA resident was arrested Monday afternoon for allegedly punching a paramedic, hitting him on the back with a branch and then threatening to kill him. While the Carmel Valley paramedic, Steve Scarlett, escaped injury, he said he's fearful for his and his family's lives.

He and the man, Clent Clark, have "a lengthy history," according to Monterey County Sheriff's Cmdr. Tracy Brown, and Clark happened to be involved in a March 1 crash to which Scarlett was sent.

Clent Clark

The altercation occurred after Scarlett and C.V. Fire Capt. Mike Vout were dispatched to a car wreck on Carmel Valley Road near Rana Creek. A passerby who spotted a badly damaged car by the side of the road had alerted authorities, and Cachagua volunteer firefighters also responded. But the car's occupants — Clark and his family — had left the scene to get a tow truck, and when they returned, Clark immediately went after Scarlett, according to the paramedic and Monterey County Sheriff's Cmdr.

Tracy Brown.

"He tried to punch me in the stomach in front of a whole bunch of witnesses," Scarlett said. "Then he swung a stick over his head and hit me on the back." He characterized the assault as "unprovoked and psychotic."

A member of the emergency crew urgently asked the dispatcher to send deputies to the scene, and in the meantime, Brown said, "the other firefighters pounced on Clark and stopped him from attacking" Scarlett further.

Deputies arrested Clark, 41, for assault with a deadly weapon, assaulting a medic and making terrorist threats. Brown said his office has had prior contact with Clark, who lives in Jamesburg, regarding civil matters and trespassing.

Drowning victim washes up in Pebble Beach

By MARY BROWNFIELD

A SURF-BATTERED body discovered on the rocks below the Pebble Beach Golf Links Wednesday morning was that of San Jose resident Luis Hector Sillas-Camacho, who drowned while swimming at Carmel Beach with his future son-in-law Feb. 13.

"A person came to our department to tell us there was a possible dead body below a cliff by the beach, so we went with him to find where it was," Carmel P.D. detective Rachele Lightfoot said. They found the body on the rocks in the area below the 9th and 10th holes of the Pebble Beach Golf Links at the north end of the beach, which is just outside the city limits.

Police notified the coroner's office, cordoned off the area and photographed the scene. Officers also worked to secure the body so it wouldn't be swept out again by the rising tide — a difficult effort because of stormy conditions and slick surfaces, Lightfoot noted.

"The water was coming in, and we had to tie a rope on Paul [Tomasi] while he went down and tied a rope onto the body."

Had Sgt. Tomasi not undertaken that grim task, Lightfoot said, the waves would have reclaimed the body by the time the coroner's unit arrived.

Because it had been in the water for 18 days, the body was in poor condition, so the coroner had to summon a forensics specialist to identify him via finger prints or DNA, according

Helga White Meadows
 July 7, 1927 - February 14, 2010

Helga White Meadows was born July 7, 1927 she passed away from natural causes on Feb. 14, 2010. She arrived in California around 50 years ago. She attended college in San Francisco. She eventually moved to the Monterey Area where she met and Married Rex White. They were proprietors of the Princess Camp in Carmel Valley. She was also known for her work as a Drapery Designer which she did for about 50 years. Helga's first love was the opera she would travel to San Francisco every year to attend. Her day would not be complete without some opera in it. She would be known as an Opera Bug. She leaves behind her husband of 16 years Robert Meadows of Carmel Valley, her sister in law Gerda Graf and Niece Germane Graf both of Germany. She was preceded in death by Rex White, and her Brother Gerd Graf. Private services will be held at a later date.

Revenue shrinks, so council cuts spending by almost $500K

By MARY BROWNFIELD

DUE TO lower than expected tax revenues, the Carmel City Council cut nearly half a million dollars from the current budget Tuesday. While delayed capital projects relying on state tax dollars account for much of the savings, cuts to spending on salaries will also save some cash during the 2009/2010 fiscal year. Consultant Laura Dadiw advised the council to reduce the annual budget from $13,741,050, to $13,281,151.

With two of the city's "Big Three" revenue sources trending downward, she recommended dropping the expected sales tax by 10.3 percent and the hotel tax by 10.7 percent. But she recommended an uptick in estimated property tax revenues of 4.5 percent. Hotel, sales and property taxes account for roughly two-thirds of the budget.

On the spending side, she said personnel costs could be adjusted down 1.8 percent, due to the departure of administrative services director Joyce Giuffre, conservative budgeting for contract labor in the fire department, and other savings.

Two partially state-tax-funded projects — a dry weather runoff diversion system and the overhaul of part of Junipero Street — will be put off until next year, shaving $425,000 more from the expense side.

But more bills than expected came due in 2009/2010, including $62,000 for the fire department generator, $15,011 for the fire department's new file server, $6,970 for the fire department's new phone system and $9,747 to upgrade the police department's 911 system.

The recommended adjustments totaled $459,899.

"We've had a really slow first six months," city administrator Rich Guillen told the council. "We are going to need to rally the next six months."

He said the hotel tax report for November and December of last year indicated a 49 percent occupancy — the lowest since the city has been tracking the number — and that was in spite of concerted marketing efforts to fill the rooms.

"We haven't had a lot of success on that, but the U.S. Open is coming up," he commented.

The council adopted the recommended changes to the budget, and Mayor Sue McCloud announced the first meeting on the 2010/2011 spending plan will be held Tuesday, March 23, at 4:30 p.m. in council chambers.

Rotary club issues grants

THE ROTARY Club of Carmel-by-the-Sea distributed $14,750 in the final quarter of 2009 to several local nonprofits, Jill Sheffield announced last month. The club has been around for six decades, has more than 95 members and is active in local volunteer efforts, as well as fundraising and grant giving.

Recipients of the fourth-quarter gifts included the Monterey Rape Crisis Center, CASA, Big Brothers Big Sisters, Community Partnership for Youth, the Food Bank for Monterey County, Boys and Girls Clubs of Monterey County, Compassionate Care Alliance and The Salvation Army Monterey Peninsula Corps.

"Each organization expressed their appreciation and intent to use the funds to continue their work during these hard economic times," she reported.

est service was very motivated to acquire this property." According to Hartley, his group made no money on the deal. "We have a very strong membership that supports our mission," he explained.

Completely surrounded by parkland, the property was considered an "inholding" by forest service officials. Over the past several decades, conservation groups have lobbied state and federal government agencies to acquire inholdings, which they believe compromise adjacent parkland. The National Park Service alone has identified about 1.8 million acres of inholding properties nationwide it would like to acquire. But the effort to acquire inholdings has also generated controversy. Some taxpayers' groups, noting the colossal federal deficit, have accused government agencies of buying land they can't afford, and there are examples of inholders who claim they are being harassed and pressured to sell.

WILDERNESS

could propose a project in the future.

And it is also possible that a future administration in Sacramento could try selling off parkland to mitigate a budget crisis, Monning observed. The wilderness designation would make such a sale more challenging, he said.

"There's no evidence that state parks is going to put any parkland on the auction block," he said. "But the bill is added insurance against that."

As an example of that threat, Monning cited Gov. Arnold Schwarzenegger's well publicized proposal to sell some state buildings and landmarks to raise money.

VWA president Tom Hopkins explained what makes the northeastern portion of the park deserving of special protection. The VWA encouraged Monning — as well as his predecessor, John Laird — to support the bill.

"The proposed wilderness features spectacular views of the Little Sur River and Pico Blanco," Hopkins explained. "If you have ever hiked the East Molera Trail to the top of the coast ridge and gazed across the canyon of the South Fork to the spectacular crystalline marble summit of Pico Blanco, you know how special these wild lands are."

In response to the introduction of the bill, the representatives of four Big Sur community interest groups sent Monning a letter this week expressing their concerns. The letter was signed by Martha Karstens and Frank Pinney of the Big Sur Volunteer Fire Brigade, Kirk Gafill of the Big Sur Chamber of Commerce, Butch Kronlund of the Big Sur Coast Property Owners Association and Jim Hill, the owner of El Sur Ranch.

The letter raises the fear that the protection offered by the wilderness designation would not only restrict emergency firefighting efforts, but fuel-reduction work as well.

"The state wilderness designation will bring with it lawsuits against the Department of Parks and Recreation for any activity performed in the wilderness," the letter reads. Fearing litigation, the agency will likely "do nothing," resulting in an "unattended, mismanaged fire hazard in an area that has already been devastated by fires."

Big Sur resident Mike Caplin echoed those firefighting concerns.

"If fire starts in a location that does not allow time for the days or weeks that it takes to get authorization to open fire breaks in wilderness, or to do the work of physically opening the fire breaks, then lives, homes and businesses may be lost to fire that could otherwise have been protected by a fire break that was maintained year round," Caplin warned.

Hopkins insisted the bill won't affect firefighting or fuel reduction efforts. He noted the plans calls for a 200-foot buffer zone between the fire break and the boundaries of the proposed wilderness area.

"This plan was laid out to be fully compatible with the historic fire break that starts at El Sur Ranch, follows a jeep trail and becomes a bulldozer line up to Post Summit," he explained. "A wilderness designation does not prevent bringing mechanized equipment in there to fight a fire. The bill is absolutely compatible with the fire defense of Big Sur Valley. We never would have brought the bill forward if we didn't think it met those requirements."

Hopkins said firefighters were able to work unhindered on wilderness land near Limekiln State Park in the Big Sur wildfires of 2008.

Pinney, meanwhile, said it is essential that proposals like this bill are brought before residents at the quarterly Big Sur Multi-Agency Council meetings.

"My concern is not with the content of the bill, but with the procedure," Pinney explained. "We have the multi-agency council to bring forth something of this magnitude."

Hopkins apologized for not communicating more directly with residents and he said the oversight will be corrected at the next multi-agency meeting, which is scheduled for Friday, March 26, at the Big Sur Lodge Conference Center. The meeting starts at 10 a.m.

Virginia "Ginny" Pope Evens

March 8, 1908 - Dec. 29, 2009

Virginia "Ginny" Pope Evens died peacefully at her home in Carmel on December 29, 2009. As she had done for the past 101 years she surrounded herself with friends and family, and gracefully said her goodbyes.

Virginia was born in Watsonville, CA on March 8, 1908, where her parents, Dr. Emma Pope and Dr. Saxton Pope, were the first physicians in the Pajaro Valley. The family moved to San Francisco in 1915. Virginia was an accomplished writer and won awards for her stories and poetry. Her family spend many summers camping in the Little Sur area.

In May, 1929, Virginia boarded a freighter bound for Australia, with her Victrola and her record collection, to visit her childhood sweetheart, Keith Evens. After what she called "eight precious weeks," Ginny married Keith in Bathurst, Australia, July 18, 1929. Virginia and Keith came to Carmel in 1931. Keith worked with John Catlin at Forge in the Forest in the Forest and later Ginny and Keith opened the Plaza Fuel and Supply Company, which is now the site of Bruno's Market.

Virginia volunteered with Grey Ladies and Ford Ord and Monterey Hospitals. She was an extraordinary seamstress. Both she and Keith were supporters of the arts and local artists. They also took great joy in their Big Sur home.

Ginny leaves behind an extended family of grand nieces and nephews and a circle of lifelong friends who adored her tenderness and quick wit.

RALPH RAYMOND BEAL, JR.

MAY 16, 1916 - FEBRUARY 15, 2010

Ralph Raymond Beal, Jr., age 93, died in his sleep at Carmel Valley Manor on Monday, February 15, 2010 from natural causes. Born on May 18, 1916 in Palo Alto, California, Mr. Beal attended Stanford University, Cornell University and graduated Cum Laude in Aeronautical Engineering from New York University. He worked as an Aerodynamicist at Douglas Aircraft Company in Santa Monica, California from 1942 to 1953 and at the Jet Propulsion Laboratory in La Canada-Flintridge, California as Wind Tunnel Test Manager, Technical Facilities Design and Construction Manager and Facilities Office Manager from 1953 to retirement in 1982. Living in La Canada-Flintridge for 46 years, he moved to Carmel Valley in 2002.

Ralph Beal was a Past Master of La Canada Masonic Lodge No. 739, Member of Pasadena Scottish Rite, San Gabriel Valley York Rite Commandery, Al Malaikah Shrine, The Royal Order of Scotland and The Robert Bruce Association. He was a Past President of the Pasadena High Twelve Club, and member of the Arcadia High Twelve Club, Mountain High Twelve Club and Pasadena Shrine Club (Past Secretary, Vice President and Director). Mr. Beal was an Associate Fellow in American Institute of Aeronautics and Astronautics, Golden Legion Member of Phil Delta Theta Fraternity, and a Golden Years Member of the Silver Wings Society.

Ralph Beal was married in 1942 to Marjory Runyon Beal, who predeceased him in April of 2008. He is survived by sons, Richard Allen Beal of Lamy, New Mexico and John Everett Beal of Toluca Lake, California; grandchildren, Chandra Moira Beal of Brighton, England and Andrew James Beal of Cave Creek, Arizona plus a great-grandchild, Rebekah Elizabeth Beal of Saratoga Springs, Utah and a step-grandson, Matthew Laidlaw of San Diego, California.

Mr. Beal will be interred with his wife, Marjory, at El Carmelo Cemetery in Pacific Grove, California. In lieu of flowers, the family suggests contributions to the Shriners Hospital for Children in Los Angeles, 3160 Geneva Street, Los Angeles, CA 90020-1199.

The family would like to thank all of the terrific staff and medical personnel of Carmel Valley Manor for their wonderful care and support.

NOTICE OF PETITION TO ADMINISTER ESTATE OF KERRY ELIZABETH FRANK Case Number MP 19814 To all heirs, beneficiaries, creditors, contingent creditors, and persons who may otherwise be interested in the will or estate, or both, of KERRY ELIZABETH FRANK. A PETITION FOR PROBATE has been filed by SCOTT B. FRANK in the Superior Court of California, County of MONTEREY. THE PETITION FOR PROBATE requests that SCOTT B. FRANK be appointed as personal representative to administer the estate of the decedent. THE PETITION requests authority to administer the estate under the Independent Administration of Estates Act. (This authority will allow the personal representative to take many actions without obtaining court approval. Before taking certain very important actions, however, the personal representative will be required to give notice to interested persons unless they have waived notice or consented to the proposed action.) The independent administration authority will be granted unless an interested person files an objection to the petition and shows good cause why the court should not grant the authority. A HEARING on the petition will be held on March 12, 2010 at 10:00 a.m., Dept.: 17, in the Superior Court of California, County of Monterey, 1200 Aguajito Road, Monterey, CA 93940. IF YOU OBJECT to the granting of the petition, you should appear at the hearing and state your objections or file written objections with the court before the hearing. Your appearance may be in person or by your attorney. IF YOU ARE A CREDITOR or a contingent creditor of the deceased, you must file your claim with the court and mail a copy to the personal representative appointed by the court within four months from the date of first issuance of letters as provided in Probate Code section 9100. The time for filing claims will not expire before four months from the hearing date noticed above. YOU MAY EXAMINE the file kept by the court. If you are a person interested in the estate, you may file with the court a Request for Special Notice (form DE-154) of the filing of an inventory and appraisal of estate assets or of any petition or account as provided in Probate Code section 1250. A Request for Special Notice form is available from the court clerk. Attorney for petitioner: ROBERT E. WILLIAMS 215 W. Franklin St., #219 Monterey, CA 93940 (831) 372-8053 (s) Robert E. wife's ashes away, and to hit him," Hespe said.

Harper also testified, denying Loftus' allegations. In court documents, Harper also denied the litany of elder-abuse accusations against him in the civil lawsuit.

The Pine Cone left a phone message Tuesday with a woman who identified herself as Harper's relative; however, Harper did not return the call. Harper is a former real estate agent.

Though Loftus obtained a temporary restraining order against Harper Feb. 9, the new "permanent" order prevents Harper from having contact with Loftus for at least two years, Hespe said.

In his lawsuit, Loftus says Harper took out a $2.7 million loan in Loftus' name against Loftus' Scenic Road home. He's also accused of taking nearly $1 million in cash from Loftus' bank account last year.

But Hespe said he has new evidence Harper took more cash than that. "We found out Harper took out another $1 million loan against his property," Hespe said.

Loftus' lawsuit says Harper "immersed" himself in his life, even taking on Loftus' last name sometimes, while essentially stealing Loftus' entire life savings.

The lawsuit accuses Harper of elder abuse, undue influence, fraud, isolation and physical abuse, and alleges Harper ingratiated himself with Loftus and isolated him from his children, friends, business associates and other relatives.

In order to "perpetuate the fraud," Harper even registered himself and Loftus as "domestic partners," according to Loftus' lawsuit.

Loftus' Scenic Road home is in the process of being foreclosed, because Harper did not make mortgage payments, Loftus alleges.

But Hespe said Loftus — who is receiving 24-hour care by licensed caregivers — will likely be allowed to remain in the home for several months.

In 2004, Harper went on trial in Monterey County Superior Court on eight felony charges he had stolen or tried to steal more than $1 million from several elderly people, including Loftus and his wife, Dee Dee, who died in 2005.

During that trial, it was the Loftuses' testimony they willingly gave Harper the money that helped a jury acquit Harper of the charges.

This week, one of Loftus' two sons, Steve Loftus, told The Pine Cone he and his father have been estranged since the 1990s, but that he hopes to rekindle their relationship.

"I love him," said Steve Loftus, 61. "He is my dad for God's sake. I just feel he has been deceived."

The pheromone, dubbed CheckMate made it difficult for male moths to located potential mates.

But aerial spraying was halted after several environmental groups filed lawsuits in Monterey and other counties because of human health concerns.

In the environmental report, the CDFA contends there is more chance of harm to people and the environment if the state does not take action to get rid of the insect.

"The EIR determined that it was unlikely that the approaches in the LBAM program would cause human harm or environmental damage," according to the report, "and found that greater potential for human and environmental harm would come from widespread pesticide use by private parties and organizations in the absence of an LBAM program."

In January 2009, the CDFA began a moth sterilization program in Moss Landing to halt breeding of the pest.

The state wants to release sterile male moths so when they mate the females won't produce fertilized eggs which could grow into hungry larvae.

CDFA officials haven't released a timeline on when they plan to release sterilized moths in Monterey County.

Rage, rage against the dying of the light"*

D. Thomas

Josefine Katz

JULY 3, 1929 - FEBRUARY 26, 2010

After nearly 20 years of exhausting battle against leukemia our sweet Gina has left the field.

Today tens of thousands are better armed due to her pioneering contribution. For over a decade she had participated in demanding ground-breaking phase 1 drug trials at OHSU, Oregon and UCLA that gave birth to Gleevec and Sprycel.

Even as her strength waned, her will did not. She was a candidate for yet another drug trial at UC/San Francisco.

Her dazed husband, her adoring daughter, numerous grandchildren, great grandchildren, beloved brother, sisters, in-laws, cousins, nephews, nieces, friends and neighbors will always remain in awe of our sweet Gina.

THE HUMANE ALTERNATIVE TO YOUR URBAN WILDLIFE CONCERNS

COUNCIL VOTES TO BAN POT CLINICS

By MARY BROWNFIELD

CITY OFFICIALS want businesses to open in town, but on Tuesday, the Carmel City Council acted to ensure one particular enterprise does not: medical marijuana dispensaries.

"The primary concern is the conflict between federal and state law," planning and building services manager Sean Conroy told the council March 2. While a 1996 state law allows some patients to use pot for medicinal purposes, federal law still bans its use and sale, and "the Supreme Court in 2005 determined federal law still governs and is not superseded by state law."

The state law does not require local governments to permit medical pot clinics, and several California communities have banned them, according to Conroy. Someone recently asked about opening a clinic, and "the city's zoning ordinance allows medical offices and clinics but is silent on medical marijuana dispensaries."

However, the general plan encourages uses "compatible with the village character" and that "preserve its economic integrity," he said. Pot clinics could have negative impacts.

"A medical marijuana dispensary likely would be incompatible with most commercial uses, particularly retail," he said, and might drive away other businesses. "The potential for raids from the DEA also exists, which would have significant negative effects on local business," Conroy added.

And most pot-clinic clients would come from outside the city, according to Conroy, given the city's small population.

"Concerns regarding loitering, panhandling, robbery and assault are associated with dispensaries in other parts of the state, which could result in increased demands on the police department and pose significant public safety problems," he said in his report.

Last month, planning commissioners voted to "not let Carmel go to pot," and recommended the ban be approved.

At Tuesday's council meeting, former design review board chairman Michael LePage asked if the ban would affect people's ability to cultivate marijuana at home for their own medicinal use. While growing controlled substances for personal use is also illegal under federal law, city attorney Don Freeman said the ordinance being considered would only affect the business district.

The council approved the ban, which must receive approval from the California Coastal Commission before it can take effect. Freeman said there was no need to outlaw dispensaries on an immediate emergency basis.

C.V. saxophonist treasures Dixieland

By CHRIS COUNTS

REED PLAYER George Young of Carmel Valley has played with performers and recording artists from every imaginable genre. But he has a particularly soft spot for Dixieland jazz.

Young's talent will be on display Friday, Saturday and Sunday, March 5-7, when he performs at the 30th annual Jazz Bash By The Bay in Monterey. He will be playing with two local Dixieland ensembles — Jackson Stock's Taking Stock and Bob Phillips' Sweet Thursday.

Dixieland jazz — also known as New Orleans jazz — developed in the Big Easy around the turn the 20th century. The music was influenced by brass band marches, rag-time and blues. Perhaps the most familiar of Dixieland standards is "When the Saints Go Marching In," which was often played in New Orleans during its trademark jazz funerals.

The popularity of Dixieland jazz has waned over the years as other genres — such as big band, swing, cool jazz, bossa nova and smooth jazz — have captured the public's attention. But for Young, Dixieland jazz is timeless. "I love the music," he said. "It's the foundation of what's going on today."

When he performs at the festival, Young will bring along a vintage C Melody saxophone. "It gets that old time sound," he noted. "It's not as slick as a tenor sax."

Young will also play a high-pitched "sopranino" sax, which is also known as a

Ol' Blue Eyes inspires Smuin Ballet's latest

By CHRIS COUNTS

IT SEEMS only reasonable that Smuin Ballet would pay tribute to singer Frank Sinatra, since it was Sinatra who inspired the unconventional San Francisco ballet company's late founder, Michael Smuin, to dance.

"When Michael was growing up, his parents often had music playing in the house," explained Jo Ellen Amtz, company manager for Smuin Ballet, which performs at Sunset Center Friday and Saturday, March 5-6. "Whenever Frank's songs would come on, everybody would drop whatever they were doing and dance around the kitchen."

"When Sinatra sings, you naturally want to dance," Smuin once said of the singer.

A handful of Sinatra's best-loved songs — including "The Way You Look Tonight," "That's Life" and "The Lady is a Tramp" — will provide the soundtrack for Smuin Ballet's grand finale when the dance company performs this weekend at Sunset Center. Appropriately, two of the inventive dance

'Jungle Book' offers youngsters their debut

By CHRIS COUNTS

THE NEXT generation of Carmel actors and actresses will showcase its enthusiasm and talent Saturday, March 6, when PacRep Theatre presents the opening of a children's stage version of Walt Disney's, "The Jungle Book," at the Golden Bough Theater.

For many of the children, the play marks their first time on stage.

"Sixty-five out of 70 are under 12," explained Stephen Moorer, PacRep's executive director. "It's always exciting to see the budding talent of these kids."

"The Jungle Book," based on an 1894 book by Rudyard Kipling, tells the story of an orphaned boy who is raised by a variety of jungle animals. The play is ideal for youngsters to perform.

"Kids love getting to play animals," Moorer said. "Monkeys get to swing around, and snakes get to slither on the ground. It's so much fun."

From memorizing a script, to reciting lines in front of an audience, participating in the play is also a valuable educational experience.

Gallery Carmel makes a comeback

By CHRIS COUNTS

IN THE 1970s, sculptors Malcolm Moran and Don Buby were familiar faces in town, where they operated Gallery Carmel and showcased their work. Moran has passed away, and Buby is retired, but thanks to Buby's daughter, Carol Buby-Surtees, the gallery will once again open its doors.

Gallery Carmel hosts a Grand Opening reception Saturday from 6 to 8 p.m.

In addition to creations by Moran and Buby, the gallery will feature work by three of their descendants — painter Russell Moran, sculptor Mandy Moran and Buby-Surtees, who is also a sculptor.

Once located on San Carlos between Fifth and Sixth, the revived gallery is located on Sixth between Dolores and Lincoln, next to the Little Swiss Cafe.

"My father started the gallery with Malcolm in 1963 where the Eastwood Building is now located," explained

Chanterelle celebrations, Carmel-by-the-Sea and St. Paddy's Day

By MARY BROWNFIELD

ONLY A few chefs won official accolades for their inspired creations at the Big Sur Chanterelle Festival and Cook-Off Saturday, but everyone who attended took home some bit of prized knowledge, whether and a drizzle of 25-year-old balsamic vinegar.

Chef Dory Ford and sous chef Scott Haynes of the Restaurant at Ventana received Best Featured Dish for their warm chanterelle strudel served with citrus-infused crème fraîche, topped with a salad of Carmel resident Lee Lightfoot enjoys foraging for wild mushrooms and carries a guidebook to help him identify different species during the chanterelle festival's FUNgus Hunt Saturday. The discoveries included fascinating and beautiful specimens.

it was the best way to serve a grilled chanterelle or the location of the world's largest fungus.

Undaunted by the rain, mushroom fans gathered at the Big Sur Lodge the morning of Feb. 27 to forage for specimens during guided hikes through Pfeiffer Big Sur State Park. Since the state parks department forbids taking wild mushrooms for food, participants and their mycologists solely harvested for study and identification, which were later undertaken at tables in the conference center.

The bounty resulting from under two hours of slow trekking on forested trails was impressive, yielding dozens of varieties, from sweet and friendly candy caps, to startlingly pretty bear's head and bright red waxy caps, to not-to-be-messed-with death caps — as well as a few golden chanterelles, of course.

San Francisco resident Thomas Jenkinson, a master's candidate studying mushroom evolution, shared much of his impressive knowledge during a walk along the Valley View Trail, including the fact the largest fungus ever found — in fact, the largest living thing — spans more than 2,200 acres underground in Oregon, and a poisonous member of the Agaricus species turns yellow when scratched, and is therefore called Agaricus xanthodermus.

After working up their appetites on the trails, many foragers joined the crowd for the cook-off tasting in the lodge, where Big Sur chefs had concocted recipes they hoped would win judges' and attendees' hearts and taste buds.

The judges were Whole Foods chef consultant Kristina Scrivani, Mundaka restaurant owner Gabe Georis, former Monterey County Weekly food columnist Ray Napolitano and food writer Mark Anderson, retired Big Sur Volunteer Fire Chief Frank Pinney and "Fast Food Nation" author Eric Schlosser.

They chose Palo Colorado resident Jonathan Roveto, a.k.a. The Pig Wizard, for Best Presentation and Most Original. Roveto created a delectable sausage of pork, bacon, chanterelles, marsala and thyme, and presented it atop butter-fried toast with Sweetwater Farms raw organic goat fromage blanc, miner's lettuce, trillium onion flowers fuji apples and frisée salad, and drizzled with a vanilla bean vinaigrette; and the People's Choice went to chef Chris Watts of TreeBones Resort. He prepared a chanterelle-encrusted pork scaloppini "Napoleon" layered with parmesan, garlic pesto and sautéed chanterelles on a bed of sautéed TreeBones kale and tomatoes with a chanterelle goat cheese cream sauce and smoked salt.

Not heralded by the judges but certainly worth mentioning as the favorite of many was sous chef Matt Millea of Sierra Mar's delicious — and pretty — grilled halved Wiley Farm baby artichoke with grilled Big Sur chanterelles and coulis of local goat cheese and Camembert, topped with garlic panko bread crumbs and black truffle vinaigrette.

"I love any accolades I can get, but Craig's the chef here, and he conceived the dish," Millea told The Pine Cone, passing the praise along to executive chef Craig von Foerster. "I interpret what Craig does, and I love working with him — he's an awesome chef, and a great guy besides."

Also delightful was the bite of wood-fired chanterelles served atop foie gras mousse and house-made brioche toast presented by Phil Wojtowicz of the Big Sur Bakery.

Meanwhile, reports poured in from all over the Peninsula of foragers selling crates of golden, chanterelles beautiful by the side of the road, further evidence of the abundance of one of the area's favorite crops.

■ Another chocolate Friday

It must be a new month, because Scott Lund of Lula's Chocolates has planned another First Friday event. The March 5 gathering will celebrate "Everything Carmel," along with the work of a local artist. First Friday will be held in the confectioner's Crossroads store from 4 to 6 p.m.

While chocolate lovers savor free samples of most of Lula's caramel products, including the new Carmel-by-the-Sea Sauce — which Lund said "should be great for dipping apples and drizzling over ice cream" — they will also be invited to peruse the natural history art of Erin Hunter. Hunter's archival giclee prints of birds, butterflies and botanicals are made from original acrylic, watercolor and pencil portraits, and the acclaimed artist has worked with the Smithsonian, the federal government and the California Academy of Sciences, as well as illustrated school science texts. A children's book featuring her work will be released this fall.

The Crossroads shop is open Monday through Saturday from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m., and Sunday from noon to 5 p.m. For more information, call (831) 626-3327. To find out more about Lula's products, visit www.lulas.com.

■ Dinner with an artist

Marinus Restaurant at Bernardus Lodge in Carmel Valley is presenting a series of Tuesday-night dinners designed to showcase local photographers, painters and sculptors. Each evening in the Artist Dinner Series will begin with a welcome reception and viewing of the featured artist's works in Marinus Restaurant at 6:30 p.m., followed by a three-course menu created by chef Cal Stamenov paired with Bernardus wines.

The series will kick off with expressionist painter Patricia Qualls on March 9 and continue with photographer Tom O'Neal on March 30.

Qualls recently moved her studio to Carmel Valley across from Wills Fargo — which is also owned by Bernardus Lodge owner Ben Pon — and O'Neal is a C.V. institution. Future Artist Dinners will be held April 27 and May 18, though the featured guests are yet to be determined.

The cost is $95 per person, including tax and tip. Bernardus Lodge is located at 415 Carmel Valley Road. Reservations are required by calling (831) 658-3595. www.bernardus.com

■ Pinotfest

A Taste of Monterey, which showcases Monterey County wines, will host a seminar on Pinot Noir Saturday, March 13, at 4 p.m. in the InterContinental The Clement Monterey hotel on Cannery Row. Recently surpassing Sonoma County, Monterey County grows more Pinot Noir than any other region in the state, and the varietal brings in about $50 million in annual sales.

Winemakers and Pinot specialists Dan Karlsen from Robert Talbott Vineyards, David Coventry of De Tierra Vineyards, Peter Figge of Figge Cellars and Rich Smith from Paraiso Vineyards will share their knowledge with guests, who will learn why Monterey County is the ideal place to grow Pinot Noir and hear how winemakers capitalize on its best attributes. The panelists will also discuss their favorite food pairings.

Afterward, The C restaurant in the Clement hotel will offer 25 percent off for Pinotfest attendees, provide free valet parking and waive the corkage fee on all bottles of local Pinot Noir purchased from A Taste of Monterey.

The tasting and seminar costs $40 per person ($30 for club members). To purchase tickets, visit www.pinotfest.com. For more information, call Jasmine Hernandez at (831) 646-5446 ext. 12.

■ Galante open house

Galante Vineyards will hold its New Release Open House Saturday, March 13, from 1 to 5 p.m. The party will celebrate the releases of Galante's 2009 Sauvignon Blanc and 2008 Cowpoke Pinot, both of which will be complemented by tasty treats. Jack Galante reported this year's Sauv Blanc is a blend of three separately aged lots — one in stainless steel, one in oak barrels that have already been used for a year, and one aged in new oak.

"When blended together, these significantly different personalities combined to form an exquisitely complete wine," he said.

The open house will be held at the winery, 18181 Cachagua Road in Carmel Valley, and will cost $10 per person. Special wine deals will also be offered. To attend, RSVP to dawn@galantevineyards.com or call (800) 425-2683.

■ Mercy and Moulin

Bistro Moulin and Mercy Wines will team up for a wine dinner Monday, March 15, at 6 p.m. Mercy focuses on fruit harvested from select Arroyo Seco vineyards, and vintners Mark Dirickson and Mike Kohne will pour six wines to be served with four special courses prepared by chef/owner Didier Dutertre.

The menu will include Jamon Serrano with celery remoulade, roasted peppers and mache, paired with 2008 Sauvignon Blanc; seared diver scallop with caramelized fennel and passion fruit veloute, paired with two 2008 Chardonnays; Duo of Pheasant — roasted pheasant breast with forest mushrooms, and braised thigh with cipollini onions — with swiss chard in a fresh thyme jus, served with two different bottlings of 2008 Pinot Noir.

Finally, an offering of cheese and fruit will be served with a special barrel sample of Syrah.

"From the very first tasting, I knew Mercy Vineyards was headed for success. All five wines express a wonderful elegance and depth, despite being so young," said wine director Colleen Manni.

"I can hardly wait to taste the newest wine in the Mercy lineup — it's a Syrah, and not bottled yet. Mark is going to bring a barrel sampling for the dinner, to be served with the last course of the evening. He tells me its color is the darkest red he has ever seen in a wine."

The cost is $85 per person, plus tax and gratuity, and reservations may be made by calling (831) 333-1200. Bistro Moulin is located at 867 Wave St. in Monterey.

JUNGLE

"Kids who can count musical beats do well in math," Moorer observed. "Studies prove that. Theater sets children up for success."

While the youngsters learn practical life skills through performing on stage, Moorer said it's important they have fun as well.

BALLET

company's best jumpers will have an opportunity to showcase their athletic skills in "Fly Me to the Moon."

In addition to the Sinatra finale, Smuin Ballet's Winter-Spring program will include performances of Michael Smuin's take on the classic Greek tragedy, "Medea," and Amy Seiwert's "Soon These Two Worlds."

Smuin choreographed "Medea" for the San Francisco Ballet in 1997.

"We premiered 'Medea' in 2000," Amtz added. "I find it so fascinating that Michael tells the whole story with just five characters."

Seiwert, who serves as Smuin Ballet's choreographer-in-residence, created a ballet that incorporates elements of African dance and music.

"Amy went to a West African dance class, and she was struck by the fact that there were students as young as and as old as 70 in the same class," Amtz said. "She discovered in the class a sense of community and a sense of joy, and her piece reflects that."

Smuin Ballet will offer 8 p.m. performances on Friday and Saturday night, and the dance company will also present a Saturday matinee at 2 p.m. Tickets are $40 to $55. Sunset Center is located at San Carlos and Ninth. For more information, call (831) 620-2048 or visit www.sunsetcenter.org.

"If the kids aren't having fun, that makes the experience very hard," he said. "We want the kids to have fun. But we also want them to be focused and act as professional as a 5-year-old can."

MaryAnn Schaupp-Rousseau is the director and choreographer of "The Jungle Book." Ken Cusson, who will appear as the leader of the elephant brigade, is the only adult in the cast.

The Pre-Show Benefit Gala on Saturday that features refreshments and preferred seating starts at 6:30 p.m. Tickets are $40.

Show time Saturday is 7:30 p.m. Tickets to "The Jungle Book" range from $7 to $20. The play continues through March 21 on Fridays, Saturdays and Sundays. Friday and Saturday performances start at 7:30 p.m., while Sunday matinees begin at 2 p.m.

The Golden Bough Theater is located on Monte Verde between Eighth and Ninth. For more information, call (831) 622-0100 or purchase online at www.PacRep.org.

ADOPT TODAY

Boots Is Made For Walkin' ...

Boots is a 9-month-old, 15 lb. Terrier/Italian Greyhound mix. Sadly, she came to AFRP as a stray with two broken front legs. Boots underwent orthopedic surgery and has recovered beautifully. This adorable, wiggly, long-legged pup is eager to make up for lost time... to walk, walk, walk! She'd be a great match for an active adopter willing to continue her training.

When teenagers are hurt

LAST WEEK we were the only news outlet to print the names of the four juveniles who were injured in a Feb. 21 early morning car crash off Highway 68. And, while it is true that law enforcement and the judicial system are prohibited by state law from revealing the names of teenagers who are charged with crimes, there is no such prohibition on releasing the names of juveniles who are victims of crimes or injured in accidents. And while we have no wish to cause discomfort to families already dealing with the agony of having a loved one injured and in the hospital, we are also cognizant of the community's need to know what its young people are up to. How can any parent decide, for example, if it's OK for their son or daughter to go to a party at Person A's house if they have no idea what Person A has been up to?

But what clinched the decision for us to print the names was that the young people themselves were spreading the news about the incident far and wide on social networking websites. The "Prayers for Chelsie" Facebook page, for example, had more than 1,000 members before the Pine Cone ever revealed that Chelsie Hill had been seriously injured in the crash.

The real issue for the community is: Why were four 17-year-olds riding around at 3 o'clock in the morning in a car that was taken without permission? And what can parents do to keep their sons and daughters from being passengers in the next car that slams into a tree?

By comparison, media coverage is a minuscule concern.

Starting from scratch

WE HAVE nothing in particular against officials with the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration. Surely they are all decent folks who only have the best intentions. But their actions in recent years are the poster child for government gone callously awry. And the silence of elected representatives who are supposed to oversee them is the punctuation on the poster.

In 2008, NOAA spent $120,000 to have its Pacific Grove building decorated with a series of colorful murals of sea life. At the time, the expenditure was an obvious waste of taxpayers' money, because the murals were not necessary. In fact, considering that the actual, beautiful ocean is right next to the NOAA building, the murals were ridiculously superfluous.

In our view, the government should never spend the hard-earned money of the citizenry on anything which isn't truly needed.

But when we pointed out the waste of money, the silence from the elected representatives of the people of the Monterey Peninsula was deafening. In their world, $120,000 is nothing.

Now, NOAA has done it again, spending more than $36,000 it received from taxpayers to install six of the Ugliest Light Poles Ever Made in its parking lot. These poles are utterly unnecessary, and they are an insult to the gorgeous scenery that surrounds the NOAA building.

Which brings us to another level of effrontery shown by NOAA officials: Not only are they willing to throw away taxpayers' money on needless projects, they will do so without lowering themselves to ask local officials for a permit or even consultation. A private citizen who installed light poles under similar circumstances would be forced to take them down at gunpoint.

Meanwhile, NOAA is one of those very agencies that specializes in adding layer after layer of red tape and regulations onto the lives of the people it is supposed to serve. To cite one example: It was NOAA that decided the steelhead trout in the Carmel River are "threatened," thereby sharply curtailing the Monterey Peninsula's water supply and forcing its people to spend hundreds of millions finding a new one, even though the species is one of the most common in the world.

Republicans say efforts to revamp the nation's health care system should start over "from scratch." Sometimes we think the same thing is true of the entire government.

Letters to the Editor

'Not demonstrated what they can do'

Dear Editor:

Candidates for election have a responsibility that often gets lost or forgotten in the drama of elections. Representing the citizens of our city is not about who is more attractive or has the catchy campaign slogans. The primary responsibilities entrusted to an elected official are to ensure financial solvency and health and safety for the public.

Each of the individuals now serving as mayor and as city council members understand that and they have direct and exceptionally successful experience in budgeting, programs and policy for our city.

I have not seen any evidence that the newcomers in this election have any proven practical experience in each of these critical areas for our city, nor experience serving on any city boards, commissions or committees. Ideas are always welcome but I think that experience is critically important.

I find it difficult to imagine voting for anyone that has not yet demonstrated what they can do for the city.

Herschel Peak, Carmel

'Fresh, innovative approach'

Dear Editor,

With serious competition in Carmel's

April council election, prospects have taken a more optimistic direction than in many years with two bright, well educated, experienced and dedicated young men challenging the incumbents. Adam Moniz, running for mayor, and Jason Burnett, running for a vacant council seat, have the talents to take on the unanswered problems that lurk in city hall and that loom in our future, problems that the incumbents are not fully facing and are trying to disguise behind a façade of partial success. Solutions to these problems require a serious, fresh, inventive approach, which the challengers possess without any question.

This is our chance, voters, to make a positive change into the direction of a government that respects and listens to us, the people, a government that returns to Carmel's historic values and traditions as a completely special place. Be sure to vote!

Olof Dahlstrand,
Carmel

Correction

LAST WEEK we printed a photo on the front page we said was P.G. High football player Aaron Corn, the driver in a Feb. 21 car crash that injured Corn and four other teenagers. Due to an error in the football team's roster provided by the school, the photo was misidentified. It was actually Ahmad Mahmoud, one of the students who was a passenger in the car that crashed.

Ospina's cries were heard by Shirley Marien, who was in her second-floor office across the street, and Dale Yamaoka, a tourist at a garden shop a half block away.

"He was killing Lulu, and I couldn't do anything because he had already gotten me," said a tearful Ospina, who was handed tissue by Monterey County Superior Court Judge Lydia Villarreal.

Ospina's fluffy Maltese was motionless and face-down on the pavement after the attack.

"Somehow [the attack] just stopped," said Ospina, who sighed heavily between sentences. "And I saw her lifeless on the floor. I went to get her and didn't know if she was alive or dead at this point."

After it was over, Ospina said an unidentified woman consoled her. "I think I blacked out for a little bit," Ospina said. "She helped me up and I was just in shock. My arm was bleeding ... and I was covered in blood."

The little Maltese had been gravely hurt.

"I picked up Lulu and she had horrible injuries," Ospina said. "She had this big hole in her."

During Ospina's testimony, Bazan also cried, wiping tears from her eyes with tissue.

Bystander Robert Hoffman rushed Ospina and her dog to Ocean View Veterinary Hospital in P.G., where the dog was treated by vets. On advice from Ocean View, however, Ospina later took the Maltese to a Santa Cruz vet.

Even though it seemed the dog might survive, Lulu succumbed to her injuries.

"She died Saturday, three days after the attack," Ospina said. "I got a call from the hospital."

During opening statements, Ospina's attorney, J. Kenneth Gorman, told jurors Armstrong, who was sitting in the passenger seat of Bazan's explorer when the dog attack occurred, did nothing to stop the attack.

"Mr. Armstrong did not get out of his car," Gorman said. "He did not intervene, he did not yell at the dogs, he did not try to pull them off."

But Armstrong, 82, who was on a cell phone and engaged in a conference call with three other people, testified at first he had no idea of the attack. Bazan and her young son were across the street getting coffee at the time.

"My attention was focused on the telecon," said Armstrong, who sometimes wears a hearing aid. "My head was down, and I'm focused on hearing ..."

When he finally heard commotion and realized what was happening, Armstrong said he dropped his cell phone and got out of the car to help round up the dogs and put them in the Explorer.

Post traumatic stress

After the attack, Ospina said she had a difficult time working and socializing with friends, because she kept reliving the incident.

She said she was making $136,000 per year after the dog attack but lost about three weeks of work, worth about $8,000.

"I took additional time off because I could not stop thinking about the attack," she said. "I could not eat; I could not sleep. I was in no condition to go to work."

To deal with the emotional trauma, Ospina said she sought help from therapists, including one who prescribed her antidepressant and anti-anxiety medications.

The pills, Ospina said, helped her deal with "all the nightmares and just not being able to get the attack out of my mind."

For months, Ospina said she was depressed. The 5-foot-5-inch Ospina lost about 10 pounds, she said.

"I didn't feel like socializing, I didn't feel like going out," she said. "I just wanted to stay home."

Ospina also sought help from Pacific Grove psychotherapist Rona Halpern, who tried to show Ospina how to replace memories of the attack with positive thoughts.

After an unspecified number of sessions, though, Ospina gave up on therapy, in part because she was asked to relive the dog attack. "It just didn't feel like me," she said. "I just wanted to cope with this on my own."

Just four months after the incident, Ospina bought another Maltese named Gigi, which cost her $1,200.

To this day, Ospina said she still has nightmares and flashbacks of the event. Certain "triggers," such as passing the P.G. post office, remind her of the terrifying day.

"Do you have waking flashbacks?" Gorman asked Ospina.

"Yes, absolutely," Ospina responded.

"How often?" Gorman asked.

"Probably every day," she said.

During the attack, Ospina received a minor puncture wound to the forearm from a dog bite. About six hours after the incident, she went to CHOMP to be treated. Though the wound did not require stitches, Ospina said it left a small scar. "You can see it a little bit if you are up close," she said, rolling up her sleeve to show the jury.

Ospina said she no longer feels safe and now has a fear of big dogs. "I carry pepper spray on my key chain now," she said. "I won't leave home without it."

Since California law doesn't allow Ospina to recover pain and suffering damages for the death of her dog, she wants the jury to award her damages based on the emotional trauma she says she experienced from the dog attack.

Besides Armstrong's role during the attack, Samson's ownership is key in the trial.

Bazan, who had Samson before moving in with her father at his Rancho Palos Verdes condominium, insists she is his owner. Perhaps in an effort to collect the most money possible, Ospina wants the jury to determine Armstrong — a certified FAA pilot — owns Samson. Armstrong's condo is worth $600,000, he owns two timeshares and has a pension.

Ospina says a German shepherd named Kodiak in Bazan's Explorer also jumped out and joined in the melee, but a witness said he thought only Samson was involved. Kodiak has since died.

Bazan and Armstrong's attorney, William Gavin, told the jury Kodiak was not involved. "We do not believe Kodiak did anything or played any role in the attack," Gavin said.

After the incident, the City of Pacific Grove took Samson and quarantined the dog for 10 days before releasing him back to Bazan. Pacific Grove also conducted a vicious-dog hearing at city hall a few weeks later to determine if the Lab should be euthanized.

Ospina pleaded for Samson to be killed, but hearing officer Carmelita Garcia, now the city's mayor, determined the dog was a good candidate for behavioral training.

The Lab underwent training in southern California and passed with "flying colors," according to records. Since the attack, the dog has not been aggressive toward other animals, records show.

The trial resumes March 8 at the county courthouse, 1200 Aquajito Road in Monterey.

Adam's Weekly Editorial (Part 5 of a 10 Piece Editorial Series)

ACCESS TO INFORMATION: On February 3, 2010, the Honorable Larry E. Hayes, Judge of the Superior Court, ruled against our City on an aspect of the Jane Miller litigation. In his order, Judge Hayes publicly revealed that there have been 4 other City employees who, in Judge Hayes' words, made "claims similar to Ms. Miller" against City Hall over a recent 5 year period.

What are these 4 other "similar" claims that were made against City Hall? Did City Hall quietly settle these 4 other "similar" claims behind closed doors? Were they settled by City Hall to prevent the public release of information about them? Exactly how much money did City Hall settle these "claims similar to Ms. Miller" for? If any of these claims were frivolous, then why exactly did City Hall pay money to settle them?

Buby-Surtees, who is also a sculptor.

Buby-Surtees recalls the old gallery, which she said was such a hub of social activity that it was a wonder anybody got any work done.

"It was like party," she said. "Malcolm and my dad were real characters."

They were also quite successful as artists.

"At least five presidents owned Malcolm's work, as well as several heads of state," Buby-Surtees noted.

Television host Johnny Carson, astronaut John Glenn, quarterback Joe Montana, actor Clint Eastwood and singer Andy Williams, she observed, were also fans of his work.

Buby-Surtees is convinced there's still a market for Moran and Buby's sculpture. "Their work is timeless," she said. "It will never go out of style."

Despite the global economic slump, Buby-Surtees isn't worried about its impact on the gallery's sales.

"I just wanted to share my dad's work. If I don't make a penny, it still will be worth it," she said.

For more information about the gallery, call (831) 624-1277.

■ Teacher and student team up again

When Rip Matteson and Fred Carvell met more than half a century ago, the former was a teacher and the latter was his student. Fifty years later, the two friends come together again — this time to collaborate on an art exhibit, "The Magic of Paint."

Matteson and Carvell's show is just one of three exhibits opening Saturday, March 3, at the Carmel Art Association.

A member of the art association since 1950, Matteson has worked as a cartoonist for many major publications, including Playboy and the New Yorker. He's also a talented landscape and still-life painter.

Carvell, a Pacific Grove High School graduate, took his first art class at Monterey Peninsula College. After studying with Matteson, he established himself as a gifted landscape artist with an affection for rich color and the golden hills of Carmel Valley.

"This joint show presents their recent work," explained Carmen DeVida of the art association. "Matteson offers figurative work in oil, and Carvell will show landscapes in acrylic. Although each artist pursues a different genre of subject matter and technique — their respective work shares common ground in the endeavor to convey a sense of beauty, truth as they see it, and a touch of mystery."

Printmaker and painter Susan Giacometti presents a solo exhibit, "Habitats."

"Her latest work expresses her fondness for animals, whose character and intelligence she greatly values," DeVida observed.

Also, this month's Gallery Showcase will feature watercolors and mixed media by Mary FitzGerald Beach, acrylic figures and landscapes by Robert Reynolds Hewitt and abstracts in oil by Gerald Wasserman.

The art association hosts a reception from 6 to 8 p.m. The gallery is located on the west side of Dolores between Fifth and Sixth. The exhibits will be on display until April 6. For more information, call (831) 624-6176 or visit www.carmelart.org.

■ The art of the portrait

The Center for Photographic Art hosts an opening reception Saturday, March 6, from 4 to 6 p.m., for an exhibit of photographs by Martha Casanave, "Forty Years of Portraits, 1969-2009."

The winner of the 1979 Imogen Cunningham Photography Award, Casanave has created striking portraits of a wide variety of individuals over the past 40 years, with a particular emphasis on artists and activists. Photography icon Ansel Adams was just one of her subjects.

"Portrait photography is both sexy and spooky," Casanave said. "It has aspects of an intimate relationship and yet it always implies loss — the sitter keeps aging after the shutter has been released. Many of the people in these portraits have passed on."

A graduate with a degree in Russian language and literature from the Monterey Institute of International Studies, Casanave teaches photography at Monterey Peninsula and Cabrillo colleges.

The exhibit will be on display until May 1. The center is located on San Carlos between Eighth and Ninth. For more information, call (831) 899-3303 or visit www.photography.org.

piccolo sax. "It's a little hell-raiser," he said.

Young has been on bigger stages, but he has a special place in his heart for the Dixieland "bash" in his own backyard.

"I look forward to the festival every March," he added. "I love it every time it comes around. I really feel blessed being there."

Young has been playing professionally since the late 1950s. While he can play any of the reeds, he specializes in tenor and alto sax. Over the course of his career, Young has shared the stage with Luciano Pavarotti, Mick Jagger, John Lennon, James Brown, Frank Sinatra, Ray Charles, the Jackson Five, Madonna, Dizzy Gillespie and Tony Bennett.

Twenty different Dixieland bands will perform at the festival on six different stages in downtown Monterey. Tickets start at $20. For more information, call (831) 675-0298 or visit www.dixieland-monterey.com.

to Lightfoot.

Late Wednesday afternoon, the coroner's office confirmed the man was the Feb. 13 drowning victim, who had disappeared in high surf while swimming. Although some suspected he had become caught in a rip tide, Lightfoot wondered if he had gotten ensnared in seaweed since a tangle of it was found with his body when it resurfaced Wednesday.

"There was no seaweed except around him," she said. "But that could be coincidence. Who knows?"

While tragic, Lightfoot said at least the discovery brings closure for the family, which was notified soon after the determination was made.

defense against charges supported by wire-taps, personal surveillance, emails and the testimony of several of Salyer's former employees. So many documents and electronic records have to be combed through, Segal argued, that it would be "impossible to mount a defense" with Salyer in jail.

"By asking for his detention in the Sacramento jail, prosecutors are ensuring his conviction," Segal told the court. "If bail is denied, the defendant is doomed."

But prosecutor Sean Flynn told the judge Salyer's attorneys were "taking slices" of the extensive evidence against Salyer and trying to refute them in isolation.

"I am asking the court to step back and look at the totality" of the crimes Salyer is alleged to have committed and his plans to escape justice, Flynn said.

And he warned the judge about what might happen if Salyer were released on bail. "He is an experienced pilot, and it won't make any difference if you take his pilot's license away," Flynn argued, noting that Salyer commonly flew his own multi-engine jets on international trips as CEO of his food companies. All Salyer would need would be a long-range jet, and he could be on his way to another country, Flynn said.

And he mocked the idea that Salyer's recent foreign travel, money transfers and efforts to set up residence in another country were just business as usual.

"He ran international companies for a long time, but he did it all from Monterey,"

Flynn said. "All of a sudden, in 2009, he moved all his money overseas."

And then Flynn listed numerous countries where Salyer is alleged to have attempted to take up residence — including Paraguay, Brazil, France and Andorra.

"Who does this?" Flynn asked. "Salyer isn't a mere flight risk, he's been laying a plan [to escape justice] for a year."

Segal said the case against Salyer hinged on the testimony of a disgruntled former employee and accused prosecutors of "making the ordinary look suspicious."

But Brennan saw things differently. "You're doing a good job trying to make the suspicious look ordinary," he told Segal.

Throughout the hearing, Salyer sat impassively, dressed in an orange jumpsuit with "SAC. CO. PRISONER" lettered on the back. His hands were shackled to his waist.

PROVIDING OPTIONS FOR INDEPENDENT LIVING™

Everybody Needs a Break Now and Then

Even the most dedicated family caregivers periodically need "time off" to replenish their energy. That's what our Respite Care service is for.

Our Home Care Coordinator will visit you first to discuss your needs and wishes.

When you need a break, we will carefully select a Personal Attendant to be at home with your loved one while you are away, and to follow the routine that you have established.

You can't take good care of anyone else unless you take care of yourself!

"Central Coast Senior Services arranged for care for my parents several times and I couldn't have been more pleased. Literally within a couple hours of my phone call, they had someone in my father's home so he could return from the hospital. They provided 24-hour care for my father, who is blind, including fixing his meals and helping him bathe. I found their services to be exceptional."

INTERO REAL ESTATE

is proud to welcome
Crystal Honn
to the Intero Carmel office.

Crystal is honored to join the stellar Intero team after a long tenure in the Business Brokerage industry.

After graduating from Whitworth College with three BA's, she has held management, sales and marketing positions in several areas from tangibles to intangibles; with companies such as, Disney, Coca Cola, Silverwood Theme Park, Business Expo and 4 hotels. Crystal worked in Carmel for an art gallery, a property Manager for retail, apartment, and hotel properties, and for Alan Pinel. She continues her marketing and sales efforts with a Monterey based commercial and residential company and a Carmel restaurant - along with consulting and interior decorating. Crystal enjoys serving on the boards of Soroptimist International of Carmel Bay, Monterey County Film Commission, Forest Theatre Guild, an AT&T Marshall and Ambassador for the Carmel Chamber.

Crystal personally feels this move to Intero Real Estate will bring her comprehensive knowledge in all areas to the forefront and awaken new passions by making others dreams come true with a unique marketing and decorating eye.

Carmel area: Suspect was contacted at Highway 1 and Carpenter Street during a traffic stop and found to be DUI.

Carmel area: Subject entered a residence which was foreclosed upon and sold to a new owner. The subject took items affixed to the interior of the structure.

Carmel area: Manager at a Crossroads restaurant reported a disgruntled employee quit his job and made a comment about returning to the business during the next management meeting.

PRESIDENTS' DAY

Carmel-by-the-Sea: Sometime during the night, someone absconded with a coffee grinder from a business inside the Dowd Arcade.

Carmel-by-the-Sea: Outside assist provided for a fraud report.

Carmel-by-the-Sea: CPD units reported to a church on Dolores Street regarding a report of a homeless person who was habitually annoying the staff. Contact was made with the executive administrator, who reported that she felt the subject might be experiencing problems and was becoming more and more aggressive with each visit. The person stated the subject came in several times a day, asking to use the phone or requesting to receive fresh fruit and vegetables. The church wished to continue to help the subject but did not want her on the premises any longer. An area check was conducted to find the subject but was met with negative results. Later in the day, contact was made with the female subject, who was positively identified as the subject in question. The female subject was advised.

Carmel-by-the-Sea: An officer observed a small black and white dog loose in the parking lot of the market on Junipero at Sixth. An area check was made for the owner, with negative results. The dog was transported to the police department. Shortly after the dog owner came to the department, the owner was warned and the dog was returned.

Carmel-by-the-Sea: CPD units responded to a report of an abandoned vehicle at Carpenter Street and Sixth Avenue. After running the license plate through dispatch, the vehicle was discovered to have been reported stolen. Attempts were made to contact the registered owner, with negative results. The vehicle was towed from the scene.

Carmel area: Person reported a violation of a restraining order by another person. It was discovered the person to be restrained had not been served. Upon arrival at scene, restrained person was served and advised of stipulations of the restraining order.

Carmel Valley: Female driver of a vehicle was stopped for vehicle code violations. She was displaying objective signs of being under the influence of alcohol. California Highway Patrol officers subsequently evaluated and arrested her for DUI.

TUESDAY, FEBRUARY 16

Carmel-by-the-Sea: Fire extinguisher found on Scenic Road.
