Concours on the Avenue back to big

By MARY SCHLEY

AFTER HOSTING an abbreviated version last year due to a lack of finances, Doug and Genie Freedman have returned their Carmel-by-the-Sea Concours on the Avenue to full scale. Their show, which is free and open to the public, is set for Tuesday, Aug. 16, when some 200 beautiful, interesting and special cars will be parked downtown all day.

"It's fantastic, it feels right, it feels good, and I can't tell you how happy we are," Doug Freedman told The Pine Cone this week. He admitted worrying whether people would enter their cars this year, given last year's "limited edition" show, but he ended up compiling the largest field since its launch in 2007.

"There's a lot of support out there," he said. "I believe that the Carmel-by-the-Sea Concours on the Avenue is in the mind and in the psyche of the collector-car community."

The Concours on the Avenue will feature a wide range of vehicles from 1940 to 1973, as well as Porsches and Ferraris from the manufacturers' inceptions through 1989, in 27 different classes. The cars, trucks and motorcycles will be parked along Ocean Avenue between Junipero and Monte Verde streets, as well as intervening streets between Sixth and Seventh avenues. Entries, whose

Last year, Denny LeVett's 1966 ASA Spyder was one of just a few dozen cars ogled during a downsized Concours on the Avenue. This year, 200 cars will be center stage Tuesday on Ocean Avenue during a frenetic week that culminates with Sunday's elegant Pebble Beach Concours d'Elegance. See our special section.

LandWatch sues county over Whispering Oaks

By KELLY NIX

ONE OF the leading opponents of the proposed Whispering Oaks Business Park on Fort Ord has filed a lawsuit against the county for its July approval of the 58-acre development — which includes a 24-acre headquarters for Monterey-Salinas Transit — claiming the project violates the California Environmental Quality Act and a host of other state and local laws.

In a suit filed Aug. 5, slow-growth group LandWatch Monterey County challenges a July 12 decision by the county board of supervisors approving the development, which would be located north of Inter-Garrison Road on the site of a former Army landfill.

The lawsuit asks a judge to order the county to set aside its approval of the project and a certification of its environmental impact report. LandWatch also wants a court to suspend the county's authority to issue permits and approvals for the project.

According to the suit, the Whispering Oaks EIR "fails to adequately identify, evaluate and mitigate all potentially significant impacts on the environment including impacts to oak woodlands, traffic, air quality, greenhouse gas and wildlife, sensitive habitats, rare plants, water quality, aesthetics and glare, land use and planning and water supply," according to the lawsuit filed for LandWatch by San Francisco law firm M.R. Wolfe & Associates.

The lawsuit — which also lists the county redevelopment agency and MST as parties in the suit — alleges violations of the California Environmental Quality Act, zoning laws, county code and the Fort Ord Reuse Authority Act.

The proposed business park, which would include a 24.4-acre lot used by MST for a bus maintenance and operations facility, has faced opposition from recreational users, who use the area for hiking, horseback riding and jogging.

Long hours spent on Collins inquiry

■ Former Seaside police detective leading DA's investigation

By KELLY NIX

PROSECUTORS TRYING to determine if former water board director Steve Collins broke the law when he worked as a paid consultant for a company trying to land a big contract to manage a new desal plant for the Monterey Peninsula — even as he served on a county water agency — have spent hundreds of hours on the case interviewing more than two dozen people, researching law, collecting news articles and amassing binders stuffed with public records documents, according to Chief Assistant District Attorney Terry Spitz.

The Monterey County DA's office launched an inquiry into Collins May 24 after he admitted he was paid about $160,000 in 2010 for consulting on the proposed $400 million regional water project at the same time he was advising the board of supervisors on whether it should be built. The dual role could be deemed a criminal conflict of interest.

Though Spitz declined to say whom investigators have interviewed, he said long hours have been spent on the probe and that several more people still need to be questioned.

Commission schedules full hearing on hospital condos

By CHRIS COUNTS

AGAINST THE wishes of its two Carmel area representatives, the Monterey County Planning Commission voted Wednesday to reconsider plans for 46 condominiums on the old Carmel Convalescent Hospital, including increasing the zoning from two units per acre to 12.5 units per acre.

The project — which is called Villas de Carmelo — is located on a 3.68-acre property at 24945 Valley Way. The builder is Widewaters Development Group of Syracuse, N.Y. The full project will be reviewed by the planning commission Aug. 31.

Carmel area planning commissioner Keith Vandevere said the project should be redesigned to fit the existing zoning.

"It's not appropriate to change the zoning to accommodate a particular project," Vandevere told his colleagues before the vote. "The development should be driven by zoning."

Vandevere's comments were endorsed by Carmel Valley Association President Christine Williams, who also questioned the logic of delving into rezoning any property that is

SUPREME COURT CALLS FOR 'COMMONSENSE' CEQA ENFORCEMENT

By PAUL MILLER

A LAW that is the favorite tool of activists, unions and special interest groups seeking to overturn permits and other decisions by city councils and boards of supervisors — often on minute grounds — was sharply limited this week by the state Supreme Court, which said "common sense" is important "at all levels" of the application of the California Environmental Quality Act.

The court's ruling, issued July 14 in the case, Save the Plastic Bag Coalition vs. City of Manhattan Beach, could have an effect on the City of Carmel's effort to sell Flanders Mansion, which has been doggedly challenged in court by preservation activist Melanie Billig despite a unanimous decision by the city council to sell it and a 757-to-439 vote of the people of Carmel two years ago affirming that decision.

In July 2008, citing environmental benefits, the Manhattan Beach city council voted to ban "point-of-sale

Retirement home celebrates legal triumph

By KELLY NIX

PACIFIC GROVE retirement facility Canterbury Woods throws dozens of parties every year for its residents, including Christmas, Easter and Thanksgiving celebrations. There are even olive-oil and wine-tasting events.

But the sort of bash the senior facility is having Aug. 26 for its residents is the first of its kind. In what could be dubbed a "lawsuit party," Canterbury Woods is holding a little shindig to herald its legal triumph over the City of Pacific Grove involving three Canterbury Woods-owned units city officials claimed violated residential zoning laws.

Last week, the city decided not to appeal an April decision by a judge that a duplex on 19th Street and two houses on Spazier Avenue did not constitute "commercial use," as the

Divine Intervention

IF YOU ask the kids what kind of dog they have, they will tell you she's "just brown." They also believe that any puppy meant for a Christmas-morning surprise but who ended up tied to a stop sign and yet was rescued by their dad just in time for New Year's must be some kind of angel.

And so it was that the spirited little border collie-German shepherd-Labrador retriever that came home in the palm of Daddy's hand just for one night, became "Angel." And with a name like that, even Dad said there was no going back. Everyone should have an angel in the house.

Ten years later, the nippy little puppy has grown into a mild-mannered matron of the household, who likes nothing better than to lie at the feet of her family. Unless she feels the need to protect them, in which case she can pretend to be pretty ferocious. According to her family, it's all an act for the big teddy bear that really just wants to be petted.

Angel also takes flight at the subtlest suggestion of going out for a walk, particularly if it might end up at Carmel Beach. Forget the classic leash grab; her family has to avoid wearing certain sweatshirts and jackets unless they really are ready and willing to go out. Otherwise, there is no peace until they are actually out in the neighborhood with Angel straining toward the sand.

Once unleashed at the beach, Angel's favorite routine is to dart out toward the water, investigate the shoreline, get good and wet, and then run back to check on her family. She tends to be inquisitive about other dogs but doesn't get overly involved. And she's rather indifferent to the picnickers she passes. Her focus is always her own family.

Letters to Eastwood among papers headed to the shredder

NOTES FROM the skateboard task force of 1988, canceled checks from 1942, five boxes of letters to former Mayor Clint Eastwood, the 1986 payroll check register and personnel files through 2004 are being destroyed to provide more storage space, according to a vote by the Carmel City Council last week.

The council regularly approves document destruction, as long as the work is done in accordance with the City Clerks' Association of California Local Government Records Retention Guidelines and the city attorney OKs the items proposed for disposal. According to the list provided at the Aug. 2 meeting, more than four dozen types of documents and records are being shredded at an estimated cost of $150, including labor contracts and negotiations from 1988 through 1997, information on food-borne pathogens and TB test results, building department receipts from 1991 and the contents of the desk of the planning director from 1985 to 1996.

Without discussion, the council approved the document destruction as part of its consent calendar Aug. 2.

Police, Fire & Sheriff's Log

Husband took the stun gun

HERE'S A look at some of the significant calls logged by the Carmel-by-the-Sea Police Department, the Carmel Fire Department and the Monterey County Sheriff's Office last week. This week's log was compiled by Mary Schley.

TUESDAY, JULY 26

Carmel-by-the-Sea: Traffic stop on Junipero for vehicle code violation. Driver, a 39-year-old female, was arrested for DUI.

Carmel-by-the-Sea: Loose dog reported wandering in the area outside its owner's property. Officer responded and contacted the resident where the dog resides who stated the dog did escape but is now contained. Discussed solutions for the gate to be properly secure. A warning was given.

Carmel-by-the-Sea: A construction worker found a loose dog, checked the area and then called the police department. Officer responded and scanned the dog for a microchip; however, none found. The dog was transported to the Carmel Police Department kennel awaiting an owner. The dog owner contacted the department inquiring about his missing dog and was advised the dog was at the P.D. Dog later returned to the owner with a warning and fees paid.

Carmel-by-the-Sea: Person reported that a rental company was supposed to reimburse them for a rental that was not available and thought they might have been scammed. After a brief investigation, it was determined that the business was legitimate. The business was contacted and agreed to send a check right away.

Carmel-by-the-Sea: A concerned citizen reported finding a 5-year-old juvenile male, who became disoriented, lost and scared in a residential area on Camino del Monte after the juvenile male subject attempted to walk to his grandparents' home by himself without telling other family members. CPD units responded and assisted in locating and reuniting the juvenile male subject with family members.

Carmel-by-the-Sea: Traffic stop on Ocean Avenue for a vehicle code violation. Driver, a 52-year-old male, was arrested for DUI.

Carmel-by-the-Sea: Patrol officer responded to a barking-dog complaint, and a courtesy notice was left at the front door. Officer completed a followup with the dog owner, and possible solutions were discussed and a warning was given.

Carmel-by-the-Sea: Fire engine and ambulance dispatched for two fallen bicyclists on 17 Mile Drive just north of Carmel Way. Crew assisted with assessment and first aid for minor abrasions and a strained muscle. Father of both patients refused further medical treatment and signed a release with attending paramedic.

Carmel-by-the-Sea: Fire engine and ambulance dispatched to a residence on Camino Real for a male in his 90s with a possible stroke. Crew assisted with vitals, EKG and report information. Patient to CHOMP with ambulance.

Erik Cushman, Monterey County Weekly publisher, arrested again for DUI

■ Was swerving and crossing double yellow line, police say

PINE CONE STAFF REPORT

PACIFIC GROVE police arrested Monterey County Weekly publisher Erik Cushman July 28 for drunken driving and violating his probation from an earlier DUI conviction, which includes a requirement that he not drive if he has any alcohol in his blood.

The arrest happened as Cushman, 46, was on his way home from a Monterey Peninsula Chamber of Commerce dinner where he accepted a Business Excellence Award for his newspaper in the Media and Marketing category. Two people at the party, who did not want to be identified, said Cushman did "a lot of drinking" and "definitely should not have tried to drive home."

According to PGPD Cmdr. John Miller, a sheriff's deputy saw Cushman — who was convicted of DUI in June 2009 — swerving on Highway 68 as he drove into town at around 10:45 p.m. Monterey County Sheriff's deputy Angus Wilhite stopped him "for crossing the double-yellow line on two separate occasions while traveling westbound on Highway 68," Miller said.

Wilhite handed him over to PGPD to make the DUI arrest, since the sheriff's office does not handle such investigations. The sheriff's office usually contacts the California Highway Patrol to take over investigations of certain crimes, including drunken driving, but Cushman was already in Pacific Grove's jurisdiction by the time he stopped.

After hearing Wilhite's observations of Cushman's driving, the PGPD officer conducted field sobriety tests, administered a breathalyzer test and took him into custody, according to his report.

Prior arrest

Cushman, who in a recent interview for the California Newspaper Publishers Association's newsletter said his qualifications to be a newspaper publisher included his "predisposition for foul language and strong whiskey," was arrested for his first DUI on May 30, 2009, in Monterey, and in mid-June of that year, he pleaded guilty to the offense in front of Monterey County Superior Court Judge Mark Hood. His sentence was five days in jail or entry in a work program, just under $2,000 in fines, enrollment in counseling and treatment, and five years' probation that prohibits him from driving with any alcohol in his system, requires him to submit to drug tests and imposes a litany of other restrictions.

He received credit for serving two days in jail and opted for work alternative rather than spending another three days in jail.

To satisfy the judge's sentence, Cushman spent four days that September working at The ManKind Project's New Warrior Training Adventure held at Camp Augusta, southeast of Chico. The program is described as "an intense, transformative men's initiation which invites men to forge a deep conscious connection between head and heart" that "offers men a powerful, challenging, educational experience to look at all aspects

La Playa workers warned of possible sale, layoffs

By MARY SCHLEY

MORE THAN 100 employees at La Playa Hotel are receiving warning letters advising them they might lose their jobs in early October, depending on whether the hotel's owner, Nob Hill Properties, is successful in its efforts to sell the landmark property.

"Everybody on the roster will get the letter, including managers — including me," said La Playa general manager Tom Glidden.

California's Worker Adjustment and Retraining Notification Act requires employers to give 60-day notice to workers who could lose their jobs due to a sale or closure.

"Because Nob Hill Properties, Inc. will no longer be operating the hotel and employing staff after a sale is finalized, the letter describes Nob Hill Properties, Inc. as closing its operations at the hotel when a sale occurs," the statement issued by Nob Hill Properties President John Cope reads. "At that point, the hotel's buyer will exclusively handle its own hiring decisions."

Cope announced layoffs are expected to begin around Oct. 3, and he promised the company would do its best to answer employees' questions about the transition and the progress of the sale.

"This timing is based on the best information currently available but may change based on various factors related to the sale," his statement reads. "Employees will be informed of any significant changes in these plans as additional information becomes available."

Glidden said the sale is nowhere close to a done deal.

"There is no escrow begun, and we are not sold as of yet," he said.

Cope's late father, Newton Cope, purchased La Playa in 1981 and ultimately spent $6 million on improvements to it. The older Cope died in 2006, and a year ago, John Cope announced the family partnership was putting it and other hotels, including the Huntington Hotel on Nob Hill in San Francisco, on the market.

"La Playa is one of the most important buildings in Carmel-by-the-Sea, and now is the time to renovate and update the old gal," Cope told The Pine Cone in August 2010, when the news was announced. "That's the name of the game — finding the right hotel company to come in and give it the treatment it deserves."

The historic La Playa Hotel, with its famously lush gardens, occupies most of a block in Carmel and has been on the market for a year. Employees received notice it could be sold by October.

The Art of CARPETING & DECOR

with Dan Jones

A LITTLE EXTRA PADDING

To some consumers of broadloom carpet, it may seem like good sense to save money by skipping on the carpet padding; no one ever sees it, after all. The truth of the matter is, however, that choosing inferior carpet padding is an exercise in false economy. In fact, carpet manufacturers deem padding to be so important that failure to follow the manufacturer's padding guidelines voids the carpet warranty. Complying with, or exceeding, the carpet manufacturer's padding guidelines helps ensure long carpet life by preventing buckling, wear, and splitting of the carpet backing. Moreover, good padding provides a more luxurious feel underfoot and may even make the overlying carpet feel more expensive than it really is.

Choose the most appropriate, highest quality carpet padding your budget will allow, and try not to cut corners on this invisible-but-vital element of a room's decor. At CARPETS & FLOORS, INC., we'll help you decide between the many options available in carpet padding, pile, construction, fibers, wearability, colors, etc. You'll also like our free estimates, expert and accurate measuring, and professional installation. Stop by soon or call to arrange an in-home consultation. We're located between Drake and McClellan on Lighthouse Ave.

HINT: Mildew-resistant padding is a must in areas that might suffer from spills and other forms of leakage.

Dan Jones is the President of Carpets & Floors, Inc., located at 471 Lighthouse Ave. (between Drake and McClellan) here in Monterey. Ph: 372-2300.

YOUR DENTAL HEALTH

Presented by Lois Lagier, D.D.S.

FREE WHITENING IN AUGUST

Bleaching or whitening your teeth has become a common procedure in dentistry. As we get older, the teeth often get darker as the structure becomes denser and reflects less light. Teeth also become stained from the bacteria, the pigment of foods that we eat, drink and tobacco use. Certain antibiotics taken while teeth are developing can result in permanent staining to teeth.

There are many methods to whiten teeth. It is recommended that you have an exam by a dentist that thoroughly checks the health of your teeth and gums and a medical history and review of any allergies and sensitivities. The next step is to establish daily good oral hygiene habits. The third is a professional cleaning by your dentist or hygienist to remove debris and surface stains. Then bleaching agents that contain carbamide peroxide can be used to lighten the shade of the teeth. Carbamide peroxide is an oxidizing agent that bubbles out the stains that have accumulated in the porous part of the mineralized structure of the tooth.

We are excited to offer our NEW patients in August the newest whitening technology Sinsational Smile free! (A smile so bright, it's sinful.) This fast, easy and affordable treatment produces professional results in 20 minutes in our comfortable atmosphere. You also receive a take home whitening pen for touch-up. Patients and staff have been especially pleased with the results! Please call for details on how to get your Sinsational smile soon!

SVMH must provide info in case of stillborn baby mixup

By KELLY NIX

A JUDGE last week ruled Salinas Valley Memorial Hospital must provide details about a stillborn baby that hospital workers mistakenly gave to the wrong parents, who, believing the body was their own baby's remains, buried the fetus, only to find out about the mixup more than one month later.

Ahmed Musa, 24, and Hana Mohammed Dharhan, 23, filed a lawsuit February 2 against SVMH alleging negligence and emotional distress after officials gave them the wrong remains, which were exhumed when they were told weeks later the 18-week-old stillborn girl wasn't theirs. The couple is seeking an unspecified amount of money in the suit, filed in Monterey County Superior Court.

While SVMH officials had refused requests by the couple to give them identifying information about the other fetus — which the couple says will help them figure out how the mistake occurred — Superior Court Judge Lydia M. Villarreal on Aug. 5 compelled the hospital to hand over the details.

"The hospital will have to provide crucial information about the physical characteristics of the other body that will help in determining the cause of the mixup," the couple's attorney, Anne Marie Murphy of the Burlingame law firm Cotchett, Pitre & McCarthy, told The Pine Cone this week.

SVMH had argued the Health Insurance Portability and Accountability Act — which requires hospitals to protect patient privacy — was the reason it refused to provide details about the other fetus, according to Murphy.

SVMH "claimed that HIPAA allowed it to withhold basic information, including the size and weight of the other body, even though [Musa and Dharhan] had agreed that the name of the family need not be disclosed," Murphy said.

Coastal commission considers test wells for regional water project

By KELLY NIX

CALIFORNIA COASTAL Commissioners will decide at a meeting in Watsonville Friday, Aug. 12 whether to issue a permit for a test well that will help determine the viability of a desalination plant in Marina.

California American Water, the Marina Coast Water District and the Monterey County Water Resources Agency are seeking a permit to operate the well, which will determine if "slant well" technology will can supply source water for the $400 million regional water project.

Last week, the coastal commission's staff, which has been hostile to desal projects along the coast of California, recommended approval of the test well provided several conditions were met, including mitigation measures to protect nearby "environmentally sensitive habitat" and to indemnify the coastal commission from any future liability claims that may arise from the project.

The slant well, which would operate for one year and pump about 1.2 million gallons of water, would be placed at an angle to capture water from beneath the floor of Monterey Bay. The project includes four sets of monitoring wells located at the project site within about 200 feet of the surface of the slant well.

The test operation is meant to provide detailed information about the quality of water produced and potential water yields to help determine the type of treatment needed at the final desal facility, which will process up to 10 million gallons of salty water per day.

The test well will be designed so it can be converted to a permanent well if the test results are favorable, according to the coastal commission's staff report.

The regional water project would be an alternative to pumping from the Carmel River, the Monterey Peninsula's primary water source.

The report by the coastal commission's staff only touches upon the alleged conflict of interest allegations involving Steve Collins, who was paid more than $150,000 by a consulting firm on the desal project at the same time he was a director with the Monterey County Water Resources Agency.

However, the coastal commission received letters from groups protesting the test well from the Ag Land Trust and the League of Women Voters, which cited a host of concerns about the regional desalination project, including groundwater rights, financing issues and the water purchase agreement it says is jeopardized by the Collins scandal.

"We think fundamental issues related to the regional desalination project should be resolved before the project, including the test wells, moves forward and any more funds are expended on a program that appears in jeopardy," according to the July 21 letter from the Monterey Peninsula's chapter of League of Women Voters which, unlike the national voter advocacy group, often takes sides in local political controversies.

The Ag Land Trust contends the regional water project would harm the groundwater supply in the Salinas River basin, which many farmers depend on for irrigation water.

"Ag Land Trust has repeatedly pointed out that the regional project did not have groundwater rights and would harm the groundwater supply," according to Michael Stamp, the group's attorney.

The coastal commission meeting begins 9 a.m. Friday, Aug. 12, at Watsonville City Hall, 275 Main St.

Peter Douglas announces retirement

PINE CONE STAFF REPORT

WHEN THE California Coastal Commission convened in Watsonville Wednesday morning, the agenda seemed ordinary. But when the meeting started, the commission's long-time executive director, Peter Douglas, surprised the audience with the announcement that he was stepping down because his lengthy battle with throat and lung cancer has made it impossible to continue.

"I have always prided myself on the level of performance of your staff, and I've always maintained that if we reach that point our lives, where we don't feel that we can maintain that level of performance, then it's time to move on. And that time has come for me," Douglas said to the commission and the small crowd. "Looking at my own condition right now, with the cancer that I have, I realize I can no longer do the level of work that the public expects, that I expect of myself, that's fair to the public and that's fair to you my colleagues. And that's why I decided to go on sick leave after this meeting and then retire in November."

He announced that Charles Lester, a familiar figure on coastal issues in the Monterey Peninsula from his years in the commission's Santa Cruz office, would take over an interim executive director, saying Lester could "seamlessly step into the job on an interim basis."

The announcement capped a 26-year career for Douglas as executive director of the powerful coastal body — a career which made him an revered figure for environmentalists, and at the same time a bête noire for many property owners and local government officials, who said he routinely trampled on property rights and even the Constitution.

He began his career as a crusader for coastal protection in the 1970s as an aide in Sacramento, where he helped draft Prop 20, which was approved by voters in 1972 and led to the adoption of the California Coastal Act by the Legislature in 1976. Douglas became executive director in 1985.

State Senate President Darrell Steinberg credited Douglas with being "the driving force in creating the nation's most comprehensive coastal protections." But his record also included some noteworthy defeats. In 1987, the U.S. Supreme Court ordered the coastal commission to stop forcing property owners to create public trails across their land in exchange for building permits, calling the program "extortion."

Douglas' successor will be picked by the 12-member coastal commission. But the high level of interest in coastal protection make it likely that Gov. Jerry Brown and other legislative leaders in Sacramento will have a hand in the selection process, if not make the choice themselves.

COLLINS

Monterey County District Attorney Dean Flippo "informed us in no uncertain terms that this is to be our top priority," Spitz told The Pine Cone Wednesday, "and to get it done as fast as possible."

The inquiry, which includes two district attorney investigators and two prosecutors, should be completed by the end of August, when their findings will be forwarded to Flippo, who will decide whether to prosecute Collins.

"We have been keeping Dean briefed, so I don't think there will be any startling news" to him, Spitz said. "I don't expect it will take very long for him to decide."

The inquiry is being led by district attorney investigator Tracey Spencer, a former detective with the Seaside Police Department, who conducted most of the interviews at the DA's office in Salinas.

"She has a number of years doing street investigations and enforcement," Spitz said.

Assisting Spencer is Heather Hardee, who replaced another district attorney investigator who had also worked on the case before retiring.

Spitz and Monterey County Assistant District Attorney Stephanie Hulsey are doing mostly research for the Collins inquiry. Spitz said he is on the phone weekly with the state's Fair Political Practices Commission — which is conducting an independent investigation of Collins — to swap what each agency has found in the case.

"I have been doing a lot of research on the conflict-of-interest laws and the Political Reform Act," he explained.

The investigation — which has likely already cost taxpayers tens of thousands of dollars — has resulted in hundreds of pages of documents, including public meeting agendas and minutes, contracts, letters and correspondence between county counsel and the DA's office. The DA's office is also clipping newspaper articles about the Collins issue.

Though one preliminary investigation commissioned by Marina Coast Water District indicated Collins violated state conflict of interest law, his attorneys point to a lie detector test Collins took they say backs up his story that county supervisors urged him to take the high-paying consulting job.

Collins faces a host of possible outcomes at the conclusion of the investigation.

"Dean may assess the evidence and say there is no violation," Spitz said, adding that Collins could also be charged with a misdemeanor or felony.

Though the DA's office and the FPPC are sharing information in the case, Spitz said the agency could come up with different findings.

"They could [impose] administrative fines or a civil penalty," Spitz said.

But only the DA's office has the authority to charge Collins with a crime.

Spitz said the last time the DA's office filed conflict-of-interest charges was several years ago when a Natividad Medical Center facilities engineer was charged with a misdemeanor after he helped secure a contract with a company to destroy X-rays at the hospital but didn't tell officials that his wife was an owner of the company.

EDGY DIRECTOR OF 'HAIRSPRAY' STAGES ONE-MAN SHOW IN BIG SUR

By CHRIS COUNTS

IT SEEMS somehow appropriate that Big Sur's Henry Miller Library — which is named after a writer notorious for pushing the boundaries of acceptable language in literature — would host an event by a filmmaker who has gained infamy for the shocking and controversial content of his work.

John Waters — who is best known for writing and directing films like "Pink Flamingos," "Polyester" and "Hairspray" — presents a one-man show Saturday, Aug. 13, at the library.

Waters, it turns out, is an admirer of library's namesake. "John is a big fan of Henry Miller," said Magnus Toren, executive director of the library. "He's excited to be coming here. It's going to be an intimate evening under the redwoods."

Beginning in the late 1970s, Waters has created a series of films that have tested the limits of censorship and decency. All of his films are set and filmed in his hometown of Baltimore, Md.

Waters' edgy work has earned him a devoted cult following that continues to grow. Meanwhile, his profile soared in 2002 when "Hairspray" was transformed into a Broadway musical and became a big hit, earning more than $200 million worldwide.

Also, his appeal to younger audiences was on evident in June when he received a big applause after performing his one-man show at the massive Bonnaroo Music Festival in Manchester, Tenn.

Showtime is 8:30 p.m. Waters will precede his performance with a "Meet and Greet" event at 6:45 p.m. Tickets are $125 (including the "Meet and Greet") and $75 (for just the show).

In addition to Waters' one-man show, the library will host a poetry reading (Peter Thabit Jones, Friday, Aug. 12), a cabaret show ("Freaks and Femmes," Sunday, Aug. 14), an open mike night for musicians (Wednesday, Aug. 17) and another installment in its 6th annual International Short Film Series (Aug. 18). For more information, visit www.henrymiller.org or call (831) 667-2574.

subject to the jurisdiction of the California Coastal Commission.

"I don't understand why the applicant and the planning commission would want to spend time on something that maybe will get denied by the coastal commission," Williams said. "It seems it would have been more efficient to go to them first."

About a dozen people — mostly Carmel residents — criticized the project.

Myrna Hampton, a teacher who lives near the hospital site, summed up the views of her neighbors. "No one supports this project but the developer," she said.

In Widewaters' original proposal, the developer had agreed to pay a $2.5 million fee in lieu of adding affordable housing to the project. But Kane told the planning commission at a July 27 hearing that he supports the idea of creating nine moderate income units as part of the plan. The offer was criticized by both residents and the Carmel area planning commissioners — Vandevere and Martha Diehl — for not going far enough. Both argued that the inclusionary housing should be built specifically for low income residents.

Widewaters is pushing the project as a "rare and unique opportunity" to restore the 80-year-old landmark hospital, which Widewaters development manager Kevin Kane called "a prime example of Monterey-Spanish architecture."

Sept. Ranch permit extension denied

After an extensive debate on the subject, the planning commission deadlocked 5 to 5 on a request by September Ranch developer Jim Morgens' to extend the expiration date of his development permit by four years. As a result of the tie vote, the motion failed.

Morgens attorney Tony Lombardo argued that it makes no sense to require Morgens to build his project in the midst of a deep recession. "We live in extraordinary times," Lombardo suggested.

But Vandevere countered that Morgens doesn't need to even ask for an extension until 2014. "This request is ridiculously premature," he said. "[The developer] has more time now [as a result of recent legislation] than he had when the supervisors okayed the project. He had two years then and he has three years now."

With the failure of the motion to extend the permit's expiration, the hearing was continued to May 14, 2014, when Morgens will have another opportunity to ask for an extension.

Morgens aims to build 73 single-family market-rate homes and 22 affordable units, and preserve 891 acres of open space. The project has been approved by the board of supervisors three times, most recently last year, but has also been halted by lawsuits.

A postcard distributed by the project's owners depicts the Carmel Convalescent Hospital condo project as a bucolic paradise. But many nearby residents say it will be terrible for their neighborhood.

Guerilla gardeners aim to spruce up Village

By CHRIS COUNTS

WHILE ITS name makes it sound like an illicit marijuana growing operation or an act of ecoterrorism, there's nothing to fear about the idea of bringing "guerilla gardens" to Carmel Valley, said the leader of a local civic group.

Los Laureles Lodge will host a talk by guerilla gardener Emily Gogol Friday, Aug. 12. Presented by the Carmel Valley Village Improvement Committee, the talk will provide an introduction to a subject that aims to beautify neighborhoods by landscaping unused public and private properties.

"Guerilla gardening is taking a small portion of land — with the permission of its owner — and creating a little oasis there," explained Kathy Klawans Smith, who serves as president of the CVVIC. "It's for the enjoyment of everybody."

Smith said a small plot of land adjacent to the sign that welcomes eastbound motorists into Carmel Valley Village is a good example of a guerilla garden. The work was done by CVVIC volunteers after receiving permission from the property owner, the California Department of Transportation.

To conserve water, CVVIC volunteers only install drought-tolerant plants. Smith said such gardens only require water for about a year.

Gogol, meanwhile, is a microbiologist who helped lead a volunteer effort to turn a blighted Caltrans property in San Francisco's Potrero Hill neighborhood into the now lush and colorful Philadelphia Garden.

Friday's talk starts at noon and will be accompanied by lunch. Admission is $16. Los Laureles Lodge is located at 313 W. Carmel Valley Road. For more information, visit www.cvvic.org.

This "guerilla garden" that welcomes visitors to Carmel Valley Village was created by volunteers from a local civic group.

Man strays from Big Sur campsite, ends up drunk in Marina

PINE CONE STAFF REPORT

THE CAMPERS were no doubt puzzled when they woke up Sunday morning in Big Sur's Andrew Molera State Park and couldn't find one of their group. They must have been very surprised when they learned their friend was sitting in a Salinas jail after being arrested in Marina.

Huijooon Pak was charged by Marina police with being drunk in public. The fact that he was intoxicated came as no surprise — Cmdr. Lisa Nash of the Monterey County Sheriff's Office said the campers admitted staying up late and drinking. They told police they last saw Pak around midnight. But how Pak, in the wee hours of the morning, managed to get from Molera State Park to Marina — which is located about 35 miles north on Highway 1 — remains a mystery. He didn't have a car, so he presumably caught a ride from a stranger. But to reach the highway, he had to walk at least quarter-mile in the dark while he was intoxicated.

"We don't know how he got here," said Marina P.D. Lt. Rick Janiki. "We're just glad he's safe."

Meanwhile, back in Big Sur, Pak's friends searched the area for him throughout the morning. Worried, they finally called police at about 1 p.m. and reported him missing. A short time later, they discovered he was in jail.

Cal Am hands out free water bottles

THE MONTEREY Peninsula's water provider is donating reusable and recyclable aluminum water bottles to all Seaside Middle School students as way to encourage students to drink more water while also promoting the reduction of plastic waste generated from bottles.

Besides giving students BPA-free sports bottles, California American Water will provide each student with an activity book developed by Cal Am and the Monterey Peninsula Water Management District that explains how the Peninsula's water supply system works.

According to Cal Am, 60 million plastic bottles every day are thrown away in the United States.

"We hope this project will encourage students to develop good habits early — to use water responsibly, to consume it without generating unnecessary waste and also to consider the impacts to the environment before turning on their taps," said Cal Am manager Craig Anthony.

Pass/Fail

Does your plan for funding college make the grade?

In the last decade, the cost of a college education has increased significantly — and it continues to rise at more than twice the rate of inflation. In fact, parents are projected to meet only 16 percent of the total cost of their children's college education.* Investing in a 529 college savings plan can help you meet rising college costs and you may also reap significant tax benefits. With so many 529 plans available today, a Morgan Stanley Smith Barney Financial Advisor can help you choose the plan that's right for you.

Call today to learn more about 529 college savings plans, including how to incorporate them into your overall education planning strategy.

Another house proposed for troublesome lot

By MARY SCHLEY

PROPERTY OWNER Don Mackey and his architect, Eric Miller, were back before the Carmel Planning Commission Wednesday night to propose new plans for a vacant lot on San Carlos Street south of Seventh next to the Coachman's Inn. Mackey and Miller already spent months in the planning pipeline in their attempts to gain approval for a house and apartment that went through multiple hearings before eventually being shot down by the Carmel City Council in May.

A house and apartment proposed for the lot behind it that faces Mission, also owned by Mackey, was approved by the council at that same meeting, but Miller had to go back to the drawing board to develop plans for the San Carlos Street property.

At the Aug. 10 planning commission hearing, Miller presented new conceptual plans and sought feedback on his ideas, which include two apartments — a 1,150-square-foot unit on the lower level and a 2,050-square-foot unit on the main and upper levels — and a three-space underground garage toward the rear of the property. Previously, Miller proposed a large Spanish-style house with a small subordinate unit and a garage in front. The new plans also call for an elevator, a common area and a staircase, and the exterior of the Craftsman-style duplex would be clad in wood.

"We tried to listen to the planning commission and adjust the building accordingly," Miller told commissioners, who had said they wanted parking at the back of the lot and a building front that was more pedestrian friendly, considering its location near downtown.

They were generally in favor of the new project, though Steve Hillyard, who was serving as chair in place of an absent Jan Reimers, said he would like to see the lower half of the complex "lightened up."

Miller will take that comment and others he received Wednesday to incorporate in the more refined plans he will submit for the commission's consideration in the future.

Council donates to Suicide Prevention

THE CARMEL City Council voted last Tuesday to donate $1,000 to the Suicide Prevention Service of the Central Coast. The nonprofit requested funds to help pay for its 24-hour multilingual suicide crisis line, education for at-risk youth and adults, and bereavement services for those who have lost a loved one to suicide.

According to the Aug. 2 report by interim city administrator John Goss, since 1966, Suicide Prevention has helped residents of Monterey, Santa Cruz and San Benito counties, growing from a small group of volunteers answering phone calls, to providing extensive educational outreach and support for teens and adults. It has also offered presentations and one-on-one counseling at Carmel's public schools, Junipero Serra and The Carmel Foundation.

The funds came from the council's discretionary account.

TRIUMPH

city had contended.

A party celebrating the city's decision not to pursue the legal battle is a way for the staff and residents of the Sinex Avenue facility to put the whole thing behind them, Canterbury Woods executive director Norma Brambilla told The Pine Cone.

"We want to have a Champagne toast, smile at each other, have balloons — and to put it past us," Brambilla said.

"Join friends and residents for a fun afternoon to celebrate the successful outcome of our day in court," read an email message Canterbury Woods sent to its residents.

The legal predicament took off in February, when a hearing officer ruled Canterbury Woods violated the city's single-family residential zoning ordinance because the units are being operated in a "commercial use."

This home on 19th Street is one of several homes owned by Canterbury Woods that Pacific Grove city officials claimed violated the city's single-family residential zoning ordinance. After a legal fight, the city recently decided to drop its appeal of the case.

In response, Episcopal Senior Communities, which owns the 144-unit Canterbury Woods, filed a lawsuit in March against the city, its development department and the city council.

But in April, a Monterey County Superior Court judge ruled the homes did not constitute commercial use because they were just being used for people to live in, and therefore did not violate zoning laws.

Last week, the city announced it would not appeal. In return, Canterbury Woods said would not seek compensation for attorneys' fees and costs associated with the litigation.

The Canterbury Woods party — which begins at 11 a.m. and will also have live music and a dog agility demonstration — is even open to City of Pacific Grove officials, Brambilla said.

"They are certainly invited," she said. "We are always kind of an open house. We don't close the doors very often."

For more information about the party and to RSVP, call Canterbury Woods at (831) 657-4193.

fees are benefiting the nonprofit Carmel Foundation, will be in place by 11 a.m., and the event runs until 5 p.m., with judging taking place all day and awards given in the afternoon.

The field includes cars Freedman, a longtime Ferrari enthusiast, has never seen in person, such as a Czechoslovakian Tatra 603 and an Austin Atlantic Cabriolet.

"We'll have quite the nice selection of Jaguars this year for the anniversary of the E-type," he added, as well as "a really terrific Speedster class for Porsches."

Exhibitors are coming from a dozen states, as well as the U.K., "so we're spreading out," Freedman said.

He also praised the "handful of great companies" supporting the Concours on the Avenue, which he's still striving to make financially viable. The said the Cypress Inn is chief among them, as it serves as COTA HQ throughout August and accommodates the Freedmans and their event.

"The team is supporting us in every way," he said. (It helps that owner Denny LeVett is a car guy himself.)

Chamber shuttles to P.B.

THE CARMEL Chamber of Commerce will operate shuttle service between the city and the Pebble Beach Concours d'Elegance Sunday, Aug. 21, allowing people to park in town and get to and from the world's premier car show with ease. The buses will run from 8:30 a.m. to 6 p.m. between the Carmel Plaza and the Pebble Beach Equestrian Center. The cost to ride is $20, and last year, more than 400 spectators took advantage of the service. For more information, call (831) 624-2522.

C.V. PAINTER CAPTURES CARS AND PLANES

By CHRIS COUNTS

LIKE HIS counterparts whose work will be featured at the Pebble Beach Golf Links during the Concours d'Elegance, painter Thierry Thompson pays tribute to the fine art of the automobile.

The Marjorie Evans Gallery will host a reception Tuesday, Aug. 16, from 5 to 7 p.m. for Thompson, who recently unveiled an exhibit, "Wings and Wings," of his photorealistic automotive and aviation paintings.

A Carmel Valley resident, Thompson developed a passion for art and automobiles at an early age. His creative talent was evident from "the first time I managed to hold a crayon," he recalled. And it was inevitable that he would fall for cars, since his father restored and raced classic cars as a hobby.

Before launching a successful graphic design business that landed him clients in the automotive and aerospace industries, Thompson worked for several years building and engineering race cars. Now, though, he simply renders such cars on canvas.

Thompson's reputation as an artist took a big leap forward two years ago when he placed second in a worldwide

Opera star featured at STAR fundraiser

By CHRIS COUNTS

TO HELP raise money for local theater groups, opera singer Susanne Mentzer will present will a solo recital Friday, Aug. 12, at the Hidden Valley Theatre in Carmel Valley.

Mentzer — who received a Grammy nomination for her work on a 1993 recording of Ferruccio Busoni's "Arlecchino" — is an internationally acclaimed mezzo-soprano who specializes in the music of Rossini, Strauss, Mozart, Berlioz and Mahler.

"She's made a terrific career for herself portraying the young male character, 'Cherubino,' in Mozart's 'The Marriage of Figaro,'" explained Mike Russell, the administrator of the STAR Foundation, the nonprofit group benefiting from her local performance.

For more than two decades, Mentzer has appeared in leading roles for the Metropolitan Opera. She serves as a professor of voice at the Shepherd School of Music at Rice University.

Based in Salinas, the STAR Foundation supports local theater programs and subsidizes tickets for students and children. According to Russell, the group has given away $150,000 over the past two years. Recipients include Pacific Repertory Theatre and the Forest Theater Guild.

"I'm an old friend of Reg Huston, the founder of the STAR Foundation," Mentzer said. "I reconnected with him last fall, and he thought it would be nice to do a recital."

The opera singer has also long been acquainted with Hidden Valley Music Seminars. "Hidden Valley had an opera ensemble in the 1970s," she recalled. "I was in it when I was a student at the University of Pacific in Stockton. I would come down to Hidden Valley on weekends."

Four decades later, Mentzer is thrilled to be performing in the Carmel Valley theater. "It's a great location and a very romantic place," she noted.

"Don't be afraid of opera," Mentzer added. "It won't be

'Doubt' explores the fine line between the truth and a lie

By CHRIS COUNTS

WHEN A nun accuses a priest of molesting an alter boy and the priest denies the charge, it's unclear to the audience who is telling the truth.

An intense grudge match between the nun and the priest — and audience's quandary over whom to believe — lies at the heart of John Patrick Shanley's play, "Doubt — A Parable," which will open Friday, Aug. 12, at the Magic Circle Theatre in Carmel Valley Village.

Set in a Catholic School in New York City in 1964, the play won the Pulitzer Prize for Drama and the Tony Award for Best Play in 2005.

"It's a brilliantly written script," explained Elsa Con, artistic director of the Magic Circle Theatre. "It's an interesting combination of a character-driven drama that plays out like mystery. It's also a fast moving play."

The cast includes James Brady, Susan Forrest, Vonda Harris and Taylor Thorngate.

"The play has amazing character development," Con observed. "Each character has so many layers."

Playing the lead role of Sister Aloysius — the suspicious nun — is Forrest, whom Con called "a versatile and hard-working actor" who brings sensitivity to her character. And playing the role of the accused Father Flynn is Brady, whom Con said offers "a powerful stage presence and emotional range."

"Doubt" continues Fridays, Saturdays and Sundays through Sept. 11. Tickets are $22. A discount is available for seniors and students for Sunday matinees.

The Magic Circle Theatre is located at 8 El Caminito Road. For more information, call (831) 659-7500 or visit www.magiccircletheatre.net.

High-class burgers get thumbs up, party in the garden, and pop-up dinner plans

By MARY SCHLEY

RESTAURATEUR DAVID Fink can sell gourmet hamburgers in Carmel Plaza, Little Napoli owner Rich Pepè can continue serving patrons in the courtyard next to his Dolores Street eatery, and Dametra landlady Constance Dudley can expand the popular restaurant into the space next door, according to decisions by the Carmel Planning Commission Wednesday.

Fink, who owns Cantinetta Luca and L'Auberge Carmel, plans to open What's Your Beef? in the storefront long occupied by late architect John Thodos' office and the former Bank of the West at Mission and Seventh. According to the menu Fink provided to the commission, the restaurant would feature burgers made with a blend of 100 percent Angus ground chuck and short rib; toasted house-made brioche buns, salads, duck-fat fries, tempura onion rings and other gourmet spins on American staples. A simple traditional burger would cost $7.95, while The Kobe — a 6-ounce patty with Cabernet onions, smoked cheddar and crispy potato — would run $12.95. Turkey, chicken, veggie and albacore tuna burgers, as well as a hot dog, would be offered, too, along with milkshakes and floats, beer and wine, sodas and sweets.

Fink said the restaurant would offer high-end dining that's still accessible to families, high-school students, local workers and residents, as well as the tourists that fund much of the city's economy.

"We love being in business in Carmel," he told commissioners Aug. 10, adding that his Mirabel Hotel and Restaurant Group has upgraded the buildings it occupies — most of which it owns. "We have been a great taxpayer."

A parade of supporters spoke in favor of Fink's plans, including Denny LeVett, who introduced himself to commissioners as the owner of "a couple little rinky-dink hotels in Carmel," such as the Cypress Inn and the Forest Lodge. LeVett said he's known Fink for more than 30 years, since Fink was general manager at the Highlands Inn, where he launched the Masters of Food & Wine.

"I wish there were more David Finks in Carmel," he said. "He operates at a really high level."

Carmel Chamber of Commerce CEO Monta Potter also voiced her support and touted the town's improving restaurant scene, and planning and building services manager Sean Conroy said the city has confidence in the quality of Fink's enterprise, given his other restaurants.

But former councilwoman Barbara Livingston cautioned commissioners against approving anything that could open the door for fast-food restaurants, and the commission spent considerable time discussing how the code defines that. They specifically focused on the ability to stand at a counter and order from a wall-mounted menu, and to pay before receiving the food, as Fink proposed, after which customers would sit and be served at tables.

Planners wanted Fink to instead provide menus to patrons who would order while seated, but the restaurateur said that would add five servers at a cost of $100,000 in annual payroll, which would make the restaurant venture financially infeasible.

"It has no relation to a fast-food restaurant," Fink said. "We're building a $100,000 kitchen. Like everything we do, it will be first class."

"My biggest problem with this proposal is it's making me hungry," commented commissioner Victoria Beach.

Ultimately, after making a few small changes to the conditions of approval, commissioners (minus chair Jan Reimers, who was absent from Wednesday night's meeting) unanimously OK'd the permit for Fink's latest venture.

Pepè, who owns Little Napoli, Vino Napoli, two Ocean Avenue bakeries and the new Vesuvio at Junipero and Sixth, said he's operated his Dolores Street restaurant since 1990 and has regularly placed a few tables in the courtyard on the dozen days a year when the weather invited outdoor dining.

Pepè said Margi Perotti, a city administrative coordinator who also enforces code compliance, saw the tables scattered around the courtyard. "It was a pretty day, and she noticed we had some people out there," he said. "We always thought it was grandfathered."

Planning commissioners wanted to ensure the public would still have access to the little courtyard, which contains a sculpture by artist Jo Mora, so they decided Pepè could have three tables, not four, and said he should work with the planning department to determine the best location for them.

After getting feedback from commissioners last month regarding her plans to open a wine shop and tasting bar in the storefront at Ocean and Lincoln adjacent to the popular Dametra Cafe, Dudley returned with a proposal to instead extend the restaurant into it, similar to the recent expansion of La Bicyclette into the former Wings America space.

The additional space will contain a bar and seven small tables, along with displays of wine for sale, and the rooms will be connected via a set of antique doors in the wall that have remained closed in the past.

"This would really enhance that corner," she said. "People will walk by and see the fun."

The commission approved Dudley's permit.

Wrath in the Plaza

Wrath Wines announced it will celebrate the opening of its new tasting room in Carmel Plaza Friday, Aug. 12, from 5 to 7 p.m. The celebration coincides with the Plaza's summer concert series and will cost $15 per person, which includes two glasses of Wrath wine, appetizers and the music of Lisa Taylor. Ticket proceeds will benefit the Kinship Center, a nonprofit focused on children's foster care and adoption.

Wrath produces Sauvignon Blanc, Chardonnay, Pinot Noir and Syrah from its 72-acre vineyard at the southern end of the Santa Lucia Highlands and other highly regarded sites. The tasting room, located next to the Cheese Shop, will be open Monday through Saturday from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. and Sunday from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. For more information, call (831) 620-1909 or visit www.wrathwines.com.

Concours Week art and wine

"Palette to Palate," a show and wine tasting inspired by the art of the automobile and the fruit of the vine, will be held in Vino Napoli at Dolores and Seventh in downtown Carmel Thursday, Aug. 18, from 1 to 4 p.m.

Michael Mondavi created a special wine — named Targa Florio and blended in the Sicilian style in an homage to the famous Nero d'Avola — and local graphic designer, cartoonist and illustrator Ed Greco "brings an illustrator's point of view to the elusive mystique of the automobile."

Mondavi created the wine from two of his private vineyards in Napa and will be on hand to talk about it with guests. Music and food will accompany the art show and wine tasting, and admission is $75 per person. For more information, visit www.edgreco.com.

Get your pop-up spot

The next "pop-up dinner" organized by Carmel Valley entrepreneur and farmers' advocate Colleen Logan and Carmel Belle owners Jay and Chloe Dolata is set for Sunday, Aug. 28, at 6 p.m. in the Dolatas' restaurant in the Doud Arcade.

While the inaugural pop-up dinner in June featured fabulous Big Sur chef Matt Millea, pastry chef Ben Spungin, Parsonage wines, and local produce growers and purveyors, this month's dinner will star the wonderfully creative Cachagua Store/A Moveable Feast chef and owner Michael Jones, the wines of Heller Estate Organic Vineyard, Peter Eichorn's Country Flat Farm and Tassajara Natural Meats.

The menu will feature "food grown, created and produced within 50 miles of the dinner table," and the evening's contributors will talk about what they do and why. If it's anything like the initial effort, the dinner will be casual, convivial and comfortable — as well as tasty.

The cost to attend is $75. To reserve a spot, call Carmel Belle at (831) 624-1600. The restaurant is located in the Doud Arcade on San Carlos Street south of Ocean Avenue.

Kula turns 3

Kula Ranch in Marina is celebrating its third birthday Friday, Aug. 12, with a dinner special featuring marinated skirt steak and coconut shrimp for $24.95, and Mai Tais and Margaritas for $6 apiece all night. Owner Joe Loeffler said the beef is marinated in soy sauce, orange juice, garlic, olive oil and shallots, while the tiger prawns are dipped in coconut milk and covered with fresh coconut.

Kula Ranch Island Steakhouse is located at 3295 Dunes Drive in Marina off of Highway 1. For more information, visit www.kula-ranch.com or call (831) 883-9479.

Vesuvio's Happy Hour

Pepè's new Vesuvio Trattoria in the site of the former Piatti restaurant is offering Happy Hour from 4 to 6 p.m. Wednesday through Sunday, with $5 cocktails and a half-price bar menu containing items like baby back ribs, steamed Manila clams in lemon cream sauce and fried artichokes hearts for $5 each; calamari fritti and prosciutto and melon for $4.50 apiece; fries for $3; four pizzas for $10 each; and a special burger for $7.50.

Happy Hour is offered at the bar in the dining room, as well as upstairs in the Starlight 65 Rooftop Terrace Lounge, according to Pepè. The restaurant is open Wednesday through Sunday from 4 to 11 p.m. and is located at the corner of Junipero and Sixth. For more information, go to

■ Point Pinos early dinners

Under the guidance of chef Dory Ford, the Point Pinos Grill at the Pacific Grove Golf Links has reached new culinary heights, and on Aug. 4, the venue began offering suppers from 4 p.m. until 30 minutes before sunset. The menu changes daily and ranges from $12 to $15 per person.

Upcoming suppers will be sirloin steak and potatoes on Aug. 15, Southern-fried free-range chicken on Aug. 16, shrimp and pappardelle pasta on Aug. 17, roasted chicken on Aug. 18, lamb kabobs on Aug. 19 and barbecued pulled pork on Aug. 20. For the full list of dishes planned through the end of August, visit www.ptpinosgrill.com or call (831) 648-5774.

■ Party in the garden

Bernardus Lodge is holding its third annual Garden Party Sunday, Aug. 28, from 2 to 5 p.m., when guests will relax while listening to live music, tasting recently released Bernardus wines and nibbling hors d'oeuvres created by chef Cal Stamenov.

A raffle will benefit the Carmel Valley Village Improvement Committee, a nonprofit group of residents and business people working to preserve rural life in the Village. Specifically, the raffle will help fund the $700 monthly rent to keep the Monterey County Sheriff's Community Field Office on Carmel Valley Road open.

Entrance is $65 per person, including tax and tip. To purchase tickets, call (831) 658-3515. Bernardus Lodge is located at 415 Carmel Valley Road and Los Laureles Grade. Reservations are recommended.

■ Sparkling tasting

Zeph's One Stop on Highway 68 in Salinas will host a tasting at 5:30 p.m. Thursday, Aug. 18, highlighting "everything that bubbles, except French Champagne."

The cost to attend is $25 in advance or $30 the day of.

And next month, the shop will host a tasting of boutique wines, "limited but excellent wineries that have a strong presence in this area and down the coast to Paso Robles," but which aren't found in big commercial markets. That tasting will cost $20 in advance or $25 the day of, and will be held Sept. 15.

Zeph's is located at 1366 South Main St. in Salinas. To learn more, visit www.zephsonestop.com or call (831) 757-3947.

■ Escarole gleaning

The nonprofit Ag Against Hunger, which brings grower-shippers together to feed the hungry by donating produce that wouldn't make it to market, will host a gleaning Saturday, Aug. 13, when volunteers will pick organic escarole left after commercial harvesting at a Coke Farm field.

Volunteers will meet at 9 a.m. in the Windmill Market parking lot in San Juan Bautista and should expect to commit around three hours. The produce they collect will be delivered to food banks and pantries in Monterey, San Benito and Santa Cruz counties.

To RSVP, call (831) 755-1480 or email glean@agagainsthunger.org by noon Aug. 12.

■ Harvest Moon

The Gateway Center of Monterey County will be the beneficiary of an Aug. 25 party being held in the Taste of Monterey on Cannery Row. The tasting room, with its large windows and top-floor location, is one of the most scenic spots on the Row, and Harvest Moon 2 will feature wine tasting, food from local restaurants, live music and a silent auction.

Proceeds will help the nonprofit, which assists adults with learning disabilities, in improving and renovating its buildings. The capital campaign seeks to raise $500,000 by June 2012. The event will run from 6:30 to 8:30 p.m. and costs $50 per person to attend. For reservations, which are required, call the Gateway Center at (831) 372-8002 ext. 12 or go to www.gatewaycenter.org. Locals can park for free in the city-owned garage on Cannery Row after 4 p.m. daily.

■ Latke O.D.

Congregation Beth Israel will hold its 24th Annual Jewish Food Festival to "comfort the soul, uplift the spirit, and satisfy your senses" Sunday, Aug. 28, from 10:30 a.m. to 4 p.m. in Carmel Valley. As they do each year, congregation members will serve potato latkes, kugel, challah, rugelach, blintzes, corned beef and pastrami sandwiches, matzo ball soup and other traditional foods.

In addition, continuous live music will be performed by Alisa Fineman and Kimball Hurd, klezmer and gypsy group Hoo-Tza-Tza and a women's vocal group called Zambra, while other entertainment will include Israeli folk dancing, storytelling by Susan Newton, sanctuary tours, handmade crafts and a Jewish wedding enactment. MY Museum will bring its Wheelie Mobilee to captivate the kids.

Peninsula Communications and the United Jewish Community of the Monterey Peninsula sponsor the festival, and free parking with frequent shuttles will be available at Carmel Middle School on Carmel Valley Road. For more information, visit www.carmelbethisrael.org or call (831) 624-2015.

competition to create a poster for Mercedes-Benz's 100 anniversary.

"Frankly, I entered the competition as a bit of fun," Thompson explained. "Never in my wildest imagination did I believe I would place in a worldwide design competition."

For the poster, he used a striking image of a 1939 Mercedes 540K — a car so stately and impressive that Adolf Hitler gave it to Josef Stalin to commemorate the infamous non-aggression pact that gave Hitler a free hand to start World War II.

In addition to creating automotive and aviation art, Thompson enjoys his proximity to Big Sur, Point Lobos and Pebble Beach, which have provided him with "endless inspiration for landscape and seascape paintings."

"It's an amazing exhibit," curator Barbara Davidson added. "His paintings look like photographs. He captures every, last detail. He can make a car look like its turning or moving."

The reception for Thompson is scheduled to immediately follow Tuesday's Concours on the Avenue in Carmel.

Thompson's paintings will be on display through the end of the month. The Marjorie Evans Gallery is located in Sunset Center at San Carlos and Ninth. The gallery is typically open Monday through Friday from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m., but it stays open late — even on weekends — if Sunset Center is hosting an event. For more information, call (831) 620-2040 or visit www.sunsetcenter.org.

■ Let the auction begin

The bidding starts Saturday, Aug. 13, for the Carmel Art Association's annual fundraising silent auction.

"This year we're going to have some wonderful work on display," said Susan Klusmire, executive director of the CAA. "We're giving a percentage of the proceeds to the artists to encourage the best of the best to participate."

The silent auction ends Saturday, Aug. 20, when the CAA presents its annual Summer Barbecue in honor of its 84th birthday. Tri-tip sandwiches, hot dogs and birthday cake will be served in the gallery's sculpture garden. The BBQ starts at 11 a.m., and a live auction begins at 2 p.m.

In addition to benefiting the artists, a portion of the proceeds will go to the CAA.

The gallery, which is located on the west side of Dolores between Fifth and Sixth, is open daily from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. For more information, call (831) 624-6176 or visit www.carmelart.org.

■ Two Jackies are better than one

A pair of singing and songwriting friends, Jackie Bristow and Jackie Daum, have more in common than just a first name. On Friday, Aug. 12, the two women share the stage at Plaza Linda restaurant in Carmel Valley Village.

Bristow, who was born in New Zealand and now lives in the musical mecca of Austin, Texas, serves up a tasty blend of alt-country roots rock. Daum, meanwhile, is a California native with a soulful voice and an affection for catchy folk-pop hooks.

The music starts at 7 p.m. and there's a $10 cover. Plaza Linda is located at 9 Del Fino Place. For more information, call (831) 659-4229.

■ Jazz by the river

Complementing an idyllic setting alongside the Big Sur River Sunday is Paige Too, a local quartet performing on the outside deck of the Big Sur River Inn.

Specializing in jazz and blues standards, the group features Paige Dickman on vocals, Donnie Dickman on piano, Andy Weis on drums and Brian Moore on Trombone.

The music starts at 1 p.m. The Big Sur River Inn is located on Highway 1 about 24 miles south of Carmel. For more information, call (831) 667-2700 or visit www.big-surriverinn.com.

Katherine Louise Martin Killebrew

February 19, 1927 ~ August 4, 2011

Pebble Beach ~ Katherine Louise Martin Killebrew passed away August 4th in Pebble Beach California. Born in Nashville Tennessee, Katy Lou was a graduate of Peabody Demonstration School, attended Ward-Belmont and Southern Methodist University (S.M.U.).

Katy Lou married George Wimberly Killebrew III on August 19, 1950 and moved to Honolulu, Hawaii in 1960 where they raised their family. She and her husband retired to Pebble Beach, CA in 1990. Katy Lou was a member of the Outrigger Canoe Club and the Beach and Tennis Club in Pebble Beach. Her love of travel took her to the far reaches of the world. Katy Lou did volunteer work for Kapiolani Hospital and Punahou School. She loved to play tennis, was a gourmet cook and, most especially, loved her family.

Katy Lou is survived by her children, George Wimberly (Anne Nash) Killebrew IV of Dallas, TX and Katherine Vance Killebrew of Honolulu, HI; her grandchildren, Katherine Taylor Nordgren, Brett Douglas Bechert, Whitney Martin Bechert, Thomas Nash Killebrew, William Martin Killebrew; her great-grandchildren, Jack Vance Nordgren and Joshua Finn Nordgren and her brother, Woodson James (Clara Chester) Martin Jr. of Nashville, TN. She was preceded in death by her husband, George, in 1992.

Local services were held yesterday in Pebble Beach and will be announced in Hawaii. In lieu of flowers, contributions may be made to Community Hospital of the Monterey Peninsula, P.O. Box HH, Monterey, CA, 93942.

Please visit www.thepaulmortuary.com to sign Katy Lou's guest book and leave messages for her family.

Marcia Crouter Albiol

July 13, 1924 – August 1, 2011

Marcia Crouter Albiol passed away on August 1, following a brief illness. A long time resident of Carmel, CA, her family and neighbors will always remember her generosity and wonderful sense of humor.

Marcia was born in San Diego, the daughter of a well-respected Naval officer, whom she idolized. Following her graduation from the American University in Washington D.C., Marcia took a trip to Latin America to visit her sister, who was studying abroad. There she met Henry Albiol, a Bolivian man with whom she shared a wonderful marriage of 59 years, and had five children.

In the late '70s the family moved to Carmel and Marcia taught ESL at Monterey High School until her retirement in 1989. She thoroughly enjoyed teaching children of other cultures and had a great admiration for the value they placed on education.

Marcia considered her family to be her greatest blessing. She is survived by her daughter, Virginia Connelly of Carmel, and four sons: Charles, of Ocala, FL, Robert, of Poolesville, MD, David, of Carmel, and Les, of Mountain View, CA. She is also survived by seven grandchildren, all of whom loved spending time at Grammy's house.

The family plans to hold a memorial service at a later date. Memories may be shared at legacy.com.

eBay guarantee to the rescue when CD collecton is AWOL

By KELLY NIX

SINCE 1999, I've bought hundreds of items on eBay, from hypoallergenic bed sheets, to records — even a Bigfoot action figure. So when I saw a long out-of-print CD box set on the marketplace website in July, I snatched it up.

After clicking the "Buy it Now," button on eBay, I immediately paid the seller — who was listed as being from a tiny town in Georgia — through the online payment service PayPal. The CDs, which cost $60 plus $3 shipping, would be sent to my home via USPS Priority Mail, which takes about three days to arrive.

Wonderful, I thought.

After doing a brief celebratory Moonwalk upon scoring the deal, I eagerly waited for the Motörhead CDs to arrive in my mailbox. But after two weeks of mostly junk mail — and the slow realization that several messages to the eBay seller had gone unanswered — I figured out I'd probably been had.

There were no red flags that the seller was a scoundrel. Though he was relatively new to eBay, he had perfect standing with the company. Recent feedback like "a pleasure to do business with" and "great eBay" were noted on his eBay account.

Being a skeptical reporter, though, I was pretty sure I was probably $63 poorer.

My only real recourse, I thought (save flying to Georgia and appearing at the dastardly merchant's doorstep in a scary monster suit), was to contact eBay and report him for his cheating ways.

I had hoped the company would, at the very least, slap the seller on the wrist and tell him not to rip off anybody else.

I then noticed a link on the site to eBay's "Buyer Protection" program, which the company advertises as "Fast, easy and Free!" and is intended to protect buyers from unscrupulous sellers or in cases when an item wasn't accurately described. I'd seen the ad before on eBay but never needed to use it.

eBay claimed the program refunds "your full purchase price plus original shipping into your PayPal account," as long as a buyer and the item in question qualify. The program is a last resort when buyers and sellers can't resolve a sales issue.

Maybe I've been fortunate, but in a dozen years of buying, I'd only once been ripped off one other time when a seller never sent me a $5 rock concert videotape (I've since upgraded to a DVD player).

The skeptic in me still believed "Buyer Protection" was mostly a comforting marketing ploy by eBay to instill a sense of security in buyers. I thought I'd have little chance of getting my moolah back.

Still, I went through eBay's protocol of opening a "case," which requires briefly detailing the problem with the transaction and contacting the seller again to "try to work things out." I still never heard a peep from the guy.

So on the seventh day, per eBay policy, I notified the company the seller hadn't responded, at which point the company informed me (through a generic email blurb), an eBay representative would review my case and make a decision.

About 24 hours later, on July 28, I got an astonishingly pleasing message: "Good news! eBay Customer Support has reviewed the case and made a decision. We issued you a full refund of $63 on July 30, 2011."

So there it was. Ebay delivered on its promise and refunded my 63 bucks, and happiness was restored to the House of Nix.

According to eBay spokeswoman Amanda Coffee, the company rolled out its Buyer Protection program in January 2010. Research, she said, has shown its been successful.

"We found that since the launch of eBay Buyer Protection, eBay has seen significant increases in trust, confidence and spending from shoppers familiar with the program," Coffee told The Pine Cone. (She declined to say how much cash eBay has reimbursed ripped-off buyers since it was launched, though).

The program likely also offers extra assurances to those used to buying from national online retailers and not eBay — which offers items for sale by third-party sellers through auctions and outright purchases.

There are restrictions with the guarantee, which doesn't cover certain "restricted items," fraudulent charges or instances of buyer remorse.

For the most part, Coffee said buyers and sellers on eBay — which boasts 200 million listings and 97 million active global users — are able to resolve their disputes without its help.

But in my case, where the "seller" stole my money, the program worked like a charm. Ebay can recoup the money from the seller by tapping into his PayPal account. If that doesn't work, they recoup it from the commission they attach to every sale.

Because eBay refunded my dough, I don't hold a real grudge against the guy — maybe he needed my 60 bucks to buy diapers for his infant or support his habit. But I was compelled to warn other eBayers of his thieving ways by issuing him "negative feedback," which can hurt a seller's reputation and deter buyers.

"Beware!" I wrote. "Slacker 'seller' at work! Takes money and runs!"

'Fair' has nothing to do with it

SPEAKING TO the nation July 17 at the conclusion of down-to-the wire negotiations with congressional leaders over the debt ceiling, President Barack Obama said long-term talks over reducing the federal deficit must result in "the wealthiest Americans and the biggest corporations paying their fair share of taxes."

Since he didn't elaborate, it's hard to know what the president thinks a "fair" tax rate on Alex Rodriguez or Steve Jobs would be. The only thing that's certain is he doesn't think their taxes should be lowered. Meanwhile, Republicans can be counted on to oppose tax increases — not because they think A-Rod needs another house or a bigger car, but because they believe higher taxes on the wealthy translate into lower productivity and even lower federal revenues, as movers and shakers reorganize their finances to avoid paying taxes. In Washington, tax rates on the wealthy are considered a very contentious issue.

But what's funny about the issue of tax rates on the rich is that there isn't as much disagreement about them as you might think.

After all, the rich are not demanding their taxes be lowered. And, while the wealthy are completely at the mercy of the much more numerous lower-income voters when it comes to setting tax rates, there is also no move afoot to send marginal rates into the 90 percent range the way they were in the 1940s.

Can it be that the wealthy recognize the necessity of getting most government revenues from them? And that the poor also recognize the importance of not taxing the rich too heavily? The answer is, "Yes," to both.

Accordingly, the debate over how much to tax the rich should not even include the word "fair." The only question should be: "What tax rates are best for the country?"

And this is a question that breaks down into two parts.

First of all, reasonable people would obviously agree that tax rates should be set no higher than the point that results in maximum tax revenues — something which could be objectively, apolitically and empirically determined. As soon as it could be shown that an increase in tax rates would shrink government revenues, no sensible person could be in favor of that increase.

Similarly, it seems obvious that tax rates should be set at the point which will combine government revenues with economic stimulus. In other words, as soon as taxes get so high that hard work, investment and risk-taking are discouraged, they should be lowered. And as soon as they get so low that the government doesn't have the money it needs to provide essential services, they should be raised.

Instead of calling for "fair" taxation, President Obama should be calling for taxation which leads to prosperity. Because a poor person will obviously favor a tax cut, even for the wealthy, if it benefits him. And a rich person will certainly be willing to pay higher taxes if it leads to more prosperity for the entire nation.

'Fahrenheit 451 on steroids'

Dear Editor,

Last week I finally got up the nerve to go into Borders for its liquidation sale. I hate these events. I saw the same signs I saw when Sharper Image folded a few years ago. Liquidators know how to squeeze every last dime from a corpse. But my epiphany happened when I was leaving. A guy following me out the door held up his stack of purchased books and exclaimed, "We are at the end of books. People will not have the experience of holding and reading these things anymore. That scares me."

"Yeah, right," I grumbled thoughtlessly.

Then as I walked away I reflected a little and started thinking.

It is more serious than another retail business going bankrupt. Considering the digital/streaming model we have had urged on us from every quarter (Amazon, Barnes and Noble, Netflix, Google and the like), you can't help realizing that the government, under the guise of "national security," has a kill switch capable of shutting down the entire streaming and Internet flow of information. Here now. Gone in an instant. Fahrenheit 451 on steroids. The mass market for tangible books is disappearing with digital facsimiles in their place.

If I haven't downloaded and printed a book, it disappears if someone wants it to. And, of course, you can't print what you download from many services. If we are left with electronic libraries, we can just as easily be shut out of the information by forces more powerful than ourselves. Even Amazon can un-download books it sent you on its Kindle — and has. Books are just etherware now. It is more than the loss of a major book chain. Dark Ages at the flip of a switch.

Charge half the cost?

Dear Publisher:

Unfortunately, many persons believe in "getting something for nothing," with firefighters' aid being such an example. As long as this service is "free," that is, at taxpayers' cost, it will be "used and abused." One possible remedy would be to charge half of this cost to the recipient(s), with the balance being absorbed by the tax dollars. Such a tactic as this would undoubtedly rid our communities of many freeloaders, including

Medicare isn't free

Dear Editor,

Your statement that, "no matter how rich they are, one thing the elderly don't pay for is medical care ... Medicare takes care of that," is untrue. You qualify for Social Security and Medicare by paying into it for decades. If you live long enough and can afford to retire, Medicare will pay for much of your health care, but it is not a freebie. Medications are an additional cost paid for only in part by Medicare.

Employed workers who have a health plan — millions don't — pay a health-plan deductible in addition to their Social Security and Medicare deductions. Often, they find that their company health plan won't pay for a procedure — an additional out-of-pocket expense they face, if they can afford it. In effect, they are paying double and triple for healthcare.

The business park would require the removal of about 3,400 oak trees and the rezoning of about 58 acres from quasi public to heavy commercial use. The area is predominately covered with oak tress, maritime chaparral and annual grasslands, according to the lawsuit.

"LandWatch's members, directors and staff will also suffer direct injury as a result of the adverse environmental, aesthetic and land use impacts caused by the project," according to the suit.

The lawsuit also contends that the "water supply assessment" for the project doesn't accurately describe the water supply entitlements or provide information about groundwater pumping. The development would require about 92.7 acre- feet of water — about 30 million gallons — per year.

"The EIR does not present substantial evidence that acknowledged basin and overdrafting and saltwater intrusion impacts can be avoided," the lawsuit says.

Petition drive

The LandWatch lawsuit follows the Fort Ord Rec Users' submittal of about 18,000 signatures to county elections department in hopes of putting a referendum on the June 2012 ballot to repeal supervisors' approval of the project.

Supervisors voted 4-1 to approve the project, which had been unanimously denied by the county planning commission. Supervisor Jane Parker dissented.

The planning commission found that too many trees needed to be removed for the project and that there may be alternative sites near the proposed site that are "environmentally superior," according to the lawsuit. Planning commissioners "also found that the [property] is not physically suitable for the project due to the loss of oak woodlands and ecosystem at the site and that the project would involve a risk of adverse environmental impacts," the lawsuit says.

Counting the people who pay

Dear Editor,

Among all the news coverage of the debt crisis, federal spending and taxes, The Pine Cone's seems to be the only one that tries to keep at least some of the focus on the people who plastic carry-out bags" in the city. The decision was made without the benefit of an Environmental Impact Report, which state law requires be prepared for any "project" which "may have a significant effect on the environment" — vague words which spawn dozens of lawsuits a year.

The Huntington Beach plastic-bag ban was no exception. After it was adopted, an association of manufacturers of plastic bags, calling itself the Save the Plastic Bag Coalition, filed suit, claiming that paper bags were worse for the environment than plastic ones, and that Huntington Beach had failed to study the issue thoroughly in an EIR, as state law required.

Since preparing an EIR can be so expensive, the move was seen as an effort to intimidate Huntington Beach into dropping the effort to ban plastic bags, and a warning to other cities that they'd be sued if they tried the same thing.

Two lower courts agreed with the plastic-bag manufacturers, ruling that even though the ban was intended to protect the environment, a "fair argument" could be made that use of paper bags as a substitute for plastic could actually harm it because more energy is required to make and distribute paper bags, and more wastewater is produced in their manufacture and recycling.

But the supreme court agreed with Manhattan Beach that, despite a possible but necessarily unknown increase in use of paper bags within the city limits, its plastic-bag ban "could not have a significant effect on the environment" and therefore required no EIR.

"CEQA does not demand an exhaustive comparative analysis of relative environmental detriments for every alternative course of action," wrote Supreme Court Justice Carol Corrigan in the unanimous decision. "It requires an EIR only for those aspects of a project likely to have significant environmental effects."

Meanwhile, the City of Carmel and Billig's group, the Flanders Foundation are awaiting a ruling from the Sixth District Court of Appeal whether the city's EIR over the sale of Flanders Mansion did an adequate job of assessing various environmental impacts of selling it.

Billig argues that the city was required to include an analysis of what might happen if another government agency bought the mansion and turned it into affordable housing or a halfway house, and the possibility it could do so without being bound by city zoning and restrictions on the use of the property as a single-family home.

The city counters that CEQA does not require a detailed analysis of such a "speculative" outcome of selling the historic home.

According to the city's attorney, Jon Giffen, there is no timetable for the appeals court to rule in the Flanders Mansion case.

pay taxes instead of pretending we're all in this together equally. Our government's multi-trillion-dollar debt sounds horrible when calculated as a per-family share. It's even worse when figured as a per-taxpaying-family share.

The hospital declined to speak to The Pine Cone about the lawsuit.

A couple's heartbreak

In September 2010, doctors told Dharhan that her fetus had no heartbeat, and she was given drugs to induce labor. The baby was delivered stillborn and placed in the morgue at SVMH.

The next day, the Muslim couple took what they thought was their baby's body to their mosque and performed a customary religious ceremony which included washing the body. On Sept. 3, 2010, the couple laid the baby's body to rest at an Alameda County cemetery.

But on Oct. 8, 2010, five weeks after they buried the body, an SVMH administrator contacted Musa, a Salinas warehouse worker, telling him it was possible they had given them the wrong body.

The baby's body had been unknowingly stored in the hospital's morgue for five weeks "allowing it to decompose and mildew." The body was discovered after an employee noticed a fetus with Dharhan's name on it, according to the suit.

Though the hospital realized the error three weeks later, officials waited 10 days after that to tell the couple of the mixup, according to the lawsuit.

The hospital then asked the couple to come to SVMH so genetic testing could be done to confirm the body was theirs. The tests determined it was their baby's body.

Last week's pretrial ruling against SVMH is another recent blow to the Salinas hospital's case.

In July, Villarreal denied a request by SVMH that the couple's claims of emotional distress should be dismissed from the lawsuit because the state only allows that claim in cases where there is willful or extreme negligence.

SVMH attorney Karen A. Sparks had argued the couple had failed to show the hospital had engaged in "outrageous conduct" — a term used to determine whether a defendant can be sued for intentional infliction of emotional distress.

A case management conference is scheduled in September, the same time a trial date could be set.

of their lives in a richly supportive environment."

According to a letter submitted to the court by center director Thomas Phillips, Cushman "did over 50 hours of hands-on work in the areas of self-assessment, personal discovery, accountability and leadership. He was an integral part of the staff that weekend, and as is the case in this type of work, he learned a great deal while assisting others."

He also participated in the first-offender program offered by Sun Street Educational Center in Seaside, completing 18 hours of group counseling, 12 hours of "education" and .75 hours of counseling.

After his arrest and booking on misdemeanor charges of DUI and violating the terms of his probation at PGPD late July 28, Cushman posted $15,000 bail. He is set to appear in Monterey County Superior Court Aug. 24.

In response to the arrest, Bradley Zeve, owner of Monterey County Weekly, provided The Pine Cone with the following statement:

"Erik Cushman has earned a high degree of respect for his leadership as the Weekly's publisher, and through his involvement with a number of different local community organizations. While Monterey County Weekly does not condone his behavior, those who work closely with him have the highest regard for his contributions, including the Weekly's staff, vendors and clients. He will continue in his position as publisher of the Weekly and readers will make their own judgments about his conduct as a vital member of the community."

Cushman also issued a statement:

"I was charged with DUI on July 28, 2011. The case has not yet been arraigned. The terms of my probation from a previous DUI conviction require that I not drive with any alcohol in my system, and I was therefore in violation of that probation.

I regret my bad judgment in not getting a ride home from the event, and I'm grateful there was no accident or injury or damage to property. I am getting guidance, care and support from professionals and peers and am committed to learning from this mistake.

Monterey County Weekly does not condone my behavior. It has not been reported because the paper has never made a practice of reporting on traffic crimes committed by private citizens. I will continue to work hard to best serve this organization and the community in my position as publisher and readers will make their own judgments about my conduct as a newspaperman, husband, father and member of the community."

Food pantry relocates, expands

PINE CONE STAFF REPORT

THE HOPE Center Food Pantry, which distributes groceries, fresh produce, toiletries, baby food and pet food to county residents in need on the first and third Thursdays of each month, has moved to 1271 10 St. in Monterey. The pantry, started more than a year ago by five mothers and assisted by the school kids who volunteer there, held its first distribution in its new location Aug. 4.

"We had 112 people, 28 dogs and 42 cats," reported executive director Kim Lemaire. "It was really busy."

The new space more than tripled the square footage of the pantry, which had been located in another Monterey spot that was a tiny 300 square feet. Lemaire said kids went and spoke to city officials about the pantry, helping to gain their approval.

In addition to food and supplies for people and pets, the center provides information regarding community services, and seeks "to empower local children to make a difference in their community."

Since its founding, the Hope Center has served more than 1,800 people and 488 pets. The Hope Center is always collecting food and donations. For more information, contact Lemaire at (831) 915-9160 or visit www.hopecentermonterey.org.

Montgomery London

September 9, 1946 – July 24, 2011

BIG SUR – Friends and family mourned the passing of Montgomery London, who died Sunday, July 24, 2011 at her home at Esalen Institute in Big Sur.

Born in Milwaukee, Wisconsin, Montgomery arrived at Esalen in 1986 and over the next 25 years, she wore many hats, including those of a work scholar, extended student, housekeeping manager, assistant to the general manager and human resources administrator. Among her many roles, she was Esalen's safety czar.

One of Montgomery's greatest passions was working as a volunteer for the Big Sur Fire Brigade. For 20 years, she served as a firefighter, an engine captain and a cliff rescue team captain. During the Basin Complex Fire in 2008, she served as liaison between the Esalen community and fire command.

The day before she passed away, she coordinated an operation that rescued two hikers trapped in Julia Pfeiffer Burns State Park.

In addition to her work with Esalen and the fire brigade, Montgomery lived a rich and dynamic life. She graduated from art school in Boston, attended the Woodstock Music Festival in 1969, worked as a race car mechanic and a river guide, and sailed in the Caribbean.

Montgomery was a vibrant person with so much passion for everything she did in life. She touched many people with her directness, her determination and her delightful sense of humor. She will be greatly missed by the many people who loved her.

She is survived by her husband, Josef; and her two sisters, Sally and Stephanie.

There will be a memorial celebration at Esalen Sunday, August 21, 2011 from 2:00-6:00pm, where Montgomery's friends and family will share their many stories of her amazing life.

Memorial contributions may be made in her name to the Big Sur Fire Brigade and the Big Sur Health Center.

Carmel area: Phone scam attempted. Female told she had won a raffle but had to pay to receive her winnings.

Big Sur: Deputies responded to a peace disturbance in Big Sur. Female was contacted and found to be intoxicated, belligerent and uncooperative. She resisted arrest but was eventually subdued. While transporting, the subject bit off the patrol vehicle's cage protective foam and tried to kick the window out. She was booked into Monterey County Jail.

Big Sur: Business owner reported a male stole two bottles of wine from his store. The male was found in the area and arrested for burglary and violating his probation. He was transported to the Monterey County Jail.

WEDNESDAY, JULY 27

Carmel-by-the-Sea: Subject was stopped on Junipero for riding a bicycle without a headlight during darkness. He was also swerving within the roadway while riding. The 28-year-old male was intoxicated and was arrested for biking under the influence.

Carmel-by-the-Sea: A concerned citizen delivering Meals on Wheels to a residence on Lobos called for emergency medical services after knocking on a door for a delivery and hearing a cry for help from inside the home. The resident was found to have fallen while inside and was unable to answer the door. CPD, CFD and CRFA responded and gained access to the residence and provided medical attention to the resident. The resident was transported to CHOMP.

Carmel-by-the-Sea: A visiting European citizen reported the loss of property from a vehicle.

Carmel-by-the-Sea: Ambulance dispatched to Sombria for a female fallen with a laceration to the right side of her face. Transported Code 2 to CHOMP.

Carmel-by-the-Sea: Fire engine dispatched to a Franciscan residence for a fire-alarm activation. Arrived on scene to followup and secure property. Occupants stated all was safe, and the alarm was activated due to cooking smoke.

Pacific Grove: House cleaners discovered a 21-inch-long, 1940s-era bazooka round while cleaning a deceased resident's 17 Mile Drive residence. Surrounding homes were evacuated.

and Monterey County Bomb Squad removed the device. Unknown how or when the deceased resident came into possession of the ordnance or why he possessed it. The resident had been previously identified as a veteran of the U.S. Navy.

THURSDAY, JULY 28

Carmel-by-the-Sea: Dolores Street resident reported she was notified by her bank that unknown person(s) accessed her account and tried to change her billing address and phone number. They also tried purchasing goods using her Visa/debit card. Cardholder related that currently her bank is investigating/monitoring the matter for further occurrences. Cardholder requested a report for credit bureau(s) for continued monitoring.

Carmel-by-the-Sea: Two male subjects were involved in a road rage incident on Highway 1 and Carpenter Street. Both parties were contacted at Carpenter and Third involved in a verbal dispute.

Carmel-by-the-Sea: A traffic stop was conducted, and the 23-year-old driver was found to be unlicensed. The driver was also on DUI probation and was found to have alcohol in his system. Additionally, marijuana was located in the vehicle. The driver was arrested, cited and released. The vehicle was towed and impounded for five days.

Carmel-by-the-Sea: Fire engine dispatched to Fifth Avenue between San Carlos and Mission for a water leak. Arrived on scene to find workers attempting to repair leak. Water key used by firefighters to shut water off so repairs could be made. No further assistance needed.

Carmel-by-the-Sea: Fire engine and ambulance dispatched to Mission and Eighth for a motor vehicle accident with no injuries. Arrived on scene to find two vehicles with moderate damage, one with airbag deployment. The driver of this vehicle (59-year-old male) agreed to a basic medical exam involving checking his chest and taking blood pressure (142/92). He then signed a medical release but was advised to see a doctor if his blood pressure stayed elevated (firefighters offered to take his blood pressure the following day) or if he did not otherwise feel well.

Pacific Grove: Resident reported her husband did not speak with her all day and did not come home after work. Husband took stun gun, laptop, phone charger and vehicle, which was unusual. She stated several transactions and withdrawals were made on his account. Husband's phone turned off. Nothing further.

Pacific Grove: On Laurel Avenue, a car was burglarized overnight. No suspect information.

Pacific Grove: Victim on 19th Street reported vehicle was burglarized overnight.

Pacific Grove: Mother and son on David Avenue got into an argument. No desire for prosecution.

Pacific Grove: Marino Pines Road resident reported her purse was taken from her driveway.

Pacific Grove: Dispatched to possible child endangerment. Ex-wife claimed her ex-husband has alcohol dependency and drives drunk on a regular basis. She is concerned about her ex-husband driving their young daughter, of whom the ex-husband has custody one day a week. Unfounded claims.

Pacific Grove: Driver stopped for flashing high beams at an officer's vehicle when approaching from the opposite direction. After making a u-turn, the officer followed the vehicle, which committed several more moving violations. Initiated a traffic stop, and upon request for driver's license, the 56-year-old male furnished an out-of-state ID card. Check of subject revealed his license was suspended, and he had a felony warrant. Warrant [for 422PC, making terrorist threats] confirmed, and he was arrested. Transferred to Monterey County Jail on $40,000 bail.

Pacific Grove: A 66-year-old female was contacted in public on Lighthouse Avenue too intoxicated to care for herself. She had no one available to take care of her.

Pacific Grove: MCSO deputy stopped a 46-year-old male for a traffic violation. Stop terminated in Pacific Grove. Subject was determined to be DUI and was on DUI probation. Subject was arrested for DUI and posted bond.

FRIDAY, JULY 29

Carmel-by-the-Sea: Female reported losing her necklace possibly in the Carmel area.

Pacific Grove: Report of an unattended death on Sunset Drive.

Pacific Grove: Dispatched to an unknown emergency on Gibson, where a resident said

Public Notice

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that the Planning Commission of the City of Carmel-by-the-Sea will conduct a public hearing in the City Hall Council Chambers, located on the east side of Monte Verde between Ocean and Seventh Avenues, on Wednesday, August 24 2011. The public hearings will be opened at 3:00 p.m. or as soon thereafter as possible. The Planning Commission will consider making recommendations to the City Council on the two items described in this notice. Both items require both City Council approval and Coastal Commission Certification prior to taking final effect.

If you challenge the nature of the proposed action in court, you may be limited to raising only those issues you or someone else raised at the public hearing described in this notice, or in written correspondence delivered to the Planning Commission or the City Council at, or prior to, the public hearing.

Projects:

MP 11-7: Consideration of amendments to the Commercial Design Guidelines to include additional guidance on project design in the Residential and Limited Commercial District and parking design in general.

MP 11-8: Consideration of amendments to the Zoning Ordinance/Local Coastal Implementation Plan to make single family residential projects a limited use in all commercial zones and to establish a maximum unit size for residential projects in any commercial zone.

CALLS

she heard a neighbor screaming for help. Officer called out to victim several times through the window, during which time it became clear she was barely able to speak and communicated she could not get up and unlock the door. Officer ran around the back of the residence, cleared with the watch commander and kicked the back door four times at the deadbolt. On the fourth attempt, the door broke open. Victim was in need of immediate medical attention, and fire and AMR took her to the hospital. House was re-secured and dead-bolted. Damage consisted of boot markings to door and broken door frame at handle. Photos were taken.

Pacific Grove: Subject threw a stick at the manager of an apartment complex on David Avenue. Stick did not strike manager. Manager did not want to pursue charges of assault.

Pacific Grove: Victim was placed on a 5150 hold after wandering away from an unlocked care facility.

Pacific Grove: Vehicle backed into the hood of another vehicle on Forest Avenue. No injury. Information exchanged.

Carmel area: A Pomona man was reported to be driving the wrong direction on Highway 1. Deputies were able to stop him near Ocean Avenue and determined he was not under the influence of alcohol or another substance. He was taken to the hospital for a mental health evaluation.

Carmel area: Men were found to be removing appliances from a vacant home on Santa Rita Street. Deputies determined they worked for a man claiming half ownership of the property. Investigation continues.

Pebble Beach: Woman reported her credit card had been used without authorization by her daughter on Portola Road. The daughter claimed the use was authorized. The victim later decided to not prosecute her daughter.

Big Sur: At Plaskett Creek, an unauthorized camper was evicted from the campground.

SATURDAY, JULY 30

Carmel-by-the-Sea: Per a complaint, a Dolores Street business was contacted and warned for feeding birds.

Carmel-by-the-Sea: Driver, a 25-year-old male, was arrested on Ocean Avenue for multiple drug charges and vehicle code charges. He was lodged at county jail and the vehicle was towed.

Carmel-by-the-Sea: Three subjects spent time in a local business at San Carlos and Sixth looking around. Approximately 10 minutes after leaving, a suspect ran in and went behind the counter. Suspect grabbed a camera and attempted to flee store. Store employee grabbed suspect but was knocked to the ground as he fled.

Pacific Grove: Parking enforcement officer found currency on Pine Avenue. Item held for safekeeping. Case closed.

Pacific Grove: Driver was arrested after being contacted regarding a hit-and-run collision on 10th Street. Driver, a 28-year-old female, was found to be intoxicated.

Pacific Grove: Subject came to the station to report his ex-wife was denying his court-ordered visitation this weekend. His visitation is Tuesday through Thursday and every other weekend. He stated this doesn't typically happen and generally have an amicable relationship with his ex. However, he wanted it documented for information purposes.

Pacific Grove: Victim came to the station to report his wallet was taken from his possibly unlocked car.

Pacific Grove: Employee at a hotel on Lighthouse reached in the door and unlatched the inside door lock while a female was sleeping. Case under investigation.

Pebble Beach: Victim at Alva Lane and Portola Road received and recorded numerous harassing telephone calls and text messages from her mother. The victim did not wish to prosecute. The mother was contacted and admitted to sending the texts and calls. She agreed to cease her harassment of her daughter.

Carmel area: Male contacted and found to have been prowling around a residence on Rio Road at Oliver. He was arrested for prowling, and his parole agent placed a hold on him.

Carmel Valley: Victim reported subjects ran off without paying for their beer.

SUNDAY, JULY 31

Carmel-by-the-Sea: Purse with contents found on sidewalk in the commercial district on Dolores Street; turned over to CPD for safekeeping.

Carmel-by-the-Sea: A citizen found a loose dog on San Antonio Avenue and brought it to the police department for safekeeping. Contact was attempted via a phone number on the collar. A microchip provided further contact information, and the dog owner was advised of the dog's location. The dog was released to the roommate of the dog owner. Warning given and fees paid.

Carmel-by-the-Sea: Subject reported the loss of a cellular phone while at Forest Hill Park earlier today.

Carmel-by-the-Sea: Ambulance dispatched to Rio Road at Lasuen for a male near syncopal. Patient transported code 2 to CHOMP.

Carmel-by-the-Sea: Ambulance dispatched to Valley View for a female fallen with right hip pain. Patient transported code 2 to CHOMP.

E1-02
1923 Alfa Romeo RL Targa Florio

The Alfa Romeo RL was produced between 1922 and 1927. It was Alfa's first sports model after World War I. The car was designed in 1921 by Giuseppe Merosi and had a straight 6 engine with overhead valves. Three different versions were made: Normale, Turismo and Sport. The RL Targa Florio was the race version and was half the weight of the other models. In 1923 Alfa's racing team had drivers like Ugo Sivocci, Antonio Ascari, Giulio Masetti and Enzo Ferrari, who would later become the Alfa Romeo team manager before starting his own sports car company. Famously superstitious, Sivocci painted a green four-leaf clover symbol on a white background on the bonnet of his RL, and after he won the Targa Florio in 1923 that symbol was adopted by the Alfa Romeo team and is used to this day as a good luck token on all its race team cars.

CONCOURS WEEK

Peninsula's amazing car week satisfies all the senses – and then some

By MARY SCHLEY

EVERY AUGUST, the world's most passionate automobile aficionados flock to the Monterey Peninsula, which hosts what has become the world's preeminent week-plus of parades, rallies, parties, auctions, exhibitions, races, competitions, fundraisers and everything else related to cars. Throughout a nine-day period that decades ago was confined to a weekend, the fun runs the gamut. Festivities begin Aug. 13-14, with the formerly off-limits Pre-Reunion races at Mazda Raceway Laguna Seca, and conclude Aug. 21 with the famed Pebble Beach Concours d'Elegance, the accompanying Gooding & Co. auction and an automotive art show. Sandwiched in between are indulgent celebrations of vehicular genius: eclectic sales of old cars, new cars, rare cars, motorcycles, memorabilia and jewelry; rallies and tours all over the Peninsula; a decadent day of wining and dining among notable racing and collector cars — and even a celebration of the worst of the worst.

Don't want to miss a thing? Well, here's your checklist.

■ Pre-Reunion vintage races

Mazda Raceway Laguna Seca, Monterey

Saturday and Sunday, Aug. 13-14,
8 a.m. to 5 p.m. each day

For years, the Historic Motor Sports Association hosted a preview weekend of vintage racing before the Monterey Historic Automobile Races that offered vintage racers a warmup and those who didn't make the final list of entrants a chance to get in some track time with their buddies. But the low-key Pre-Historics were off-limits to spectators. Now, with the racetrack having taken over the vintage races last year (and renaming them the Rolex Monterey Motorsports Reunion), organizers decided to open the Pre-Reunion weekend. Each day begins at 8 a.m. with practice sessions for each group, followed by racing in the afternoon, beginning at 12:45 p.m. The cost for spectators is $20 per day, and you can pay at the gate and park onsite. www.mazdaraceway.com or (800) 327-7322.

■ Carmel-by-the-Sea

Concours on the Avenue

Ocean Avenue and side streets,
Carmel-by-the-Sea

Tuesday, Aug. 16, 11 a.m. to 5 p.m.

After an abbreviated event last year, the Concours on the Avenue is back in full force for 2011, still under the guidance of consummate car couple Doug and Genie Freedman. An eclectic and diverse collection of 175 cars, motorcycles, trucks and other mechanized contraptions built between 1940 and 1973 — as well as Ferraris from the company's inception to 1989 — line Ocean Avenue and side streets in a judged concours, with awards bestowed on a stage at San Carlos and Ocean in the afternoon. Perhaps best of all, the show is free and open to everyone who wants to spend a couple of hours perusing rare, beloved, beautiful and unusual vehicles.

Furthermore, to get downtown businesses in the spirit, the Freedmans hold a Concours in the Windows contest, with the best displays winning prizes of $250 to $1,000. The window displays are in place Aug. 12 through Aug. 21, with judging beginning Aug. 12 and ending the afternoon of Aug. 15. www.motorclubevents.com.

■ 9th Annual Automobilia

Monterey, The International Expo Embassy Suites, Seaside

Tuesday and Wednesday, Aug. 16-17, 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Tuesday, and 10 a.m. to 7 p.m.
Wednesday

Founded by a Carmel Valley enthusiast who calls his event, "the serious collector's candy store," Automobilia Monterey is purportedly the largest sale in America of genuine car-related collectibles and was described as a "must see" by Road & Track. More than 40 sellers from Europe, the United States and South America will offer original posters, photos, signs, rallye plates, badges and pins, models, literature and books, scarves and more — no reproductions — in the hotel ballroom. Automobilia Monterey also hosts a great silent auction. Founder Tony Singer welcomes all car buffs and other collectors to his event, which raises money for the Monterey Rape Crisis Center. "It is the mission of this event to enable each enthusiast to buy the best from the best. Automobilia Monterey is unique in the auto world by being a focused event in a relaxed, indoor setting, and not an adjunct to a car show or race; it is devoted to only original vintage automobilia. "Having on-premises professional pack-and-ship facilities contributes to the genuine ease of doing business for all involved," Singer says. Admission is $15 for a single day or $20 for both days. www.AutomobiliaMonterey.com, (831) 659-5335 or singer356@aol.com. Embassy Suites is located at Canyon del Rey and Del Monte in Seaside.

■ The Little Car Show

Lighthouse Avenue between Forest and Fountain, Pacific Grove

Wednesday, Aug. 17, noon to 5 p.m.

Miniatures seem to have a way of capturing people's imagination, and the car world is no exception. Marina Motorsports will present its

■ McCall's Motorworks Revival

Monterey Jet Center,
Monterey Airport
Wednesday, Aug. 17, 5 to 10 p.m.

What began with a few gearheads gathered around a hibachi has morphed into an extravagant celebration of fascinating cars and aircraft. Vintage racers, luxurious tourers, the latest innovations — and everything in between — as well as new and historic aircraft, private jets and military machines cover the tarmac at this annual party, which fills the Jet Center hangar and the surrounding airport grounds. Word is organizers Gordon and Molly McCall are pulling out all the stops for their 20th annual bash, for which they've chosen the motto, "Ready, set, jet." Motorworks guests won't go hungry or thirsty, either, as Bernardus, Roederer and Schramsberg will keep glasses filled, and a catering team overseen by longtime Monterey restaurateur Tony Tollner will turn out a fabulous strolling dinner. Tickets are $295, and attendees must be 21 or older. Proceeds benefit the Naval Postgraduate School Foundation and the California Highway Patrol's 11-99 Foundation. The jet center is located at 100 Sky Park Way off Garden Road in Monterey. www.mccallevents.com

A TRADITION ON THE MONTEREY PENINSULA FOR OVER 60 YEARS AND COUNTING

CONCOURS WEEK

Airport party celebrates two decades of evolution and refinement

By MARY SCHLEY

CARMEL VALLEY residents Gordon and Molly McCall are celebrating a milestone this year: the 20th anniversary of the party they hold at the Monterey Airport on the Wednesday of Concours Week each year. What began as a private party entertaining a handful of clients of McCall's car-restoration business has grown to an extensive and extravagant celebration of horsepower and fine living that's open to the public for the price of admission. The 20th McCall's Motorworks Revival will be held at the Monterey Jet Center Wednesday, Aug. 17, from 5 to 10 p.m.

"It's all about the power-to-weight ratio," says McCall's Motorworks Revival founder Gordon McCall, and it's certainly true of the craft found parked on the tarmac at his annual party, such as this Ford GT-40.

"Twenty years is an interesting milestone," Gordon McCall observed. "Twenty years of doing anything is reason to celebrate; 20 years of taking the trash out on time is a major accomplishment."

McCall and his wife have maintained their dedication to hosting the bash as it has changed and evolved over the years, and they strive to maintain its celebratory and friendly feel in spite of its expansion from a gathering of friends to one of the hottest tickets during Concours Week.

"Our enthusiasm is the same today as it was 20 years ago," he said. "Granted, the event has changed, but it's still pretty much what it was. The most difficult thing to manage is the scale."

McCall's Motorworks party began two decades ago as a way to bring together clients of his automobile restoration business — which he no longer owns — during Concours Week.

"It seemed like a great niche to fill for a mid-week activity for my clients, and it didn't take long to add aviation, because most of my clients traveled by private airplane," he said, and his shop was near the airport, too.

Now, with aircraft and autos concurrently showing at events more frequently, the McCalls are being credited with establishing that link.

"It's all about power-to-weight ratio, frankly," he said. In other words, what makes cars fascinating makes airplanes fascinating, too.

As a result, the McCalls' party always draws rare and beautiful automobiles, many of which are also being shown at various other Peninsula Concours Week events — including the Quail, which McCall helped create, and the Bonhams & Butterfields auction, for which he helps procure sale cars and motorcycles. Alongside them are commercial and military aircraft, old and new. Vintage World War II planes are parked next to modern fighter jets, and aviation manufacturers bring their latest models for people to explore.

"I love meeting the interesting people behind it all," he said, such as the engineers who designed the aircraft, the pilots who fly the fighter jets, the guys who raced the cars, and others.

He recalled Gulfstream's first participation in the party in 1997, when the company brought its then-new G5. A friend of McCall's, astronaut Alan Shepard, lived on the Peninsula and was a test celebrating multiple marques on consecutive evenings during Concours Week, beginning with Porsche on Wednesday, followed by Ferrari on Thursday, Tesla and alternative fuel vehicles on Friday, and Alfa Romeo on Saturday. The parties begin nightly at 6 and include family-style dining in Chateau Julien's Sangiovese vineyard. Chef Terry Teplitzky will prepare a prix fixe menu of Basque dishes, which will be accompanied by wine and followed with dessert and a car show. The menu is set to include items like Ligurian-style spaghetti, herb-roasted pork loin, fricasseed chicken, wine-braised beef brisket, chocolate flan, cornmeal shortcakes with summer berry compote and poached peaches in red wine with brown butter cake and almond crema. The cost is $63 per person. Chateau Julien is located at 8940 Carmel Valley Road in Carmel

■ The 14th Annual Pebble Beach Tour d'Elegance presented by Rolex

Down the coast and around the Monterey Peninsula, including Carmel-by-the-Sea
Thursday, Aug. 18,
7 a.m. to 3 p.m.

An exciting (and free) way to observe many of the stunning vintage cars invited to enter the renowned Pebble Beach Concours d'Elegance is to see them in motion on scenic Monterey Peninsula roads during the annual Tour d'Elegance. Many of the world's rarest automobiles will take the 60-mile drive from Pebble Beach, along Aguajito and Monhollan roads through Jacks Peak and Tehama, on Carmel Valley Road and down Highway 1, turning around at Pfeiffer Big Sur State Park. Car buffs gather at strategic points along the route to witness "the elegance of the automobile in motion." Toward the end of their drive, participants leave their precious treasures on Ocean Avenue in downtown Carmel-by-the-Sea while they enjoy a catered lunch in Devendorf Park. The cars remain motionless for a couple of hours, allowing spectators to ogle up close without paying a hefty admission price. Drivers will gather in Pebble Beach starting at 7 a.m. and depart around 8. It's anticipated they will begin arriving in Carmel between 11:30 a.m. and noon — one of the most exciting times to watch — and leave between 2 and 2:30 p.m. for the return to Del Monte Forest and a Champagne celebration at the finish. And it's not just for fun: Participation in the Tour can break a tie when judges pick the best cars during the Pebble Beach Concours d'Elegance Aug. 21. www.pebble-beachconcours.net most exclusive and highly regarded automotive events, celebrating more than 100 of the most important cars in history, and offering fine food and great wine to match. The 2011 Quail will honor the extremely limited production Ferrari America and Superamerica models of the 1950s and 1960s, the 50th anniversary of the Jaguar E-Type, and Sports and Racing Motorcycles. It will also pay tribute to the 50th anniversary of Phil Hill's Formula 1 World Drivers' Championship and Riverside International Raceway. The Q affords the opportunity to test-drive sponsor vehicles from Rolls-Royce, Land Rover, Lamborghini and Audi, and guests will enjoy daylong al fresco dining featuring "the outstanding flavors of France, Italy, Spain / Portugal, Greece/Mediterranean and California." Wine, Champagne, spirits and beer from several local and international producers will be served. Other highlights include the Bonhams & Butterfields auctions, helicopter rides to and from Mazda Raceway Laguna Seca, fine art photography and the awards circle. Tickets are $400 per person, and the event always sells out. Proceeds benefit local and national charities serving children and families. (877) 734-4628 or www.quailodgeevents.com.

The Pacific Grove Concours Auto Rally has raised more than $134,000 for youth programs on the Monterey Peninsula — including the P.G. Youth Center, DARE programs at P.G. and Carmel schools and driver training scholarships at PGHS — since then-Mayor Jeanne Byrne launched the rally fundraiser in 1995. The event organized by Pacific Grove Rotary and Pacific Grove Youth Action is geared for people who own and drive their own classic and vintage cars, and it draws more than 200 participants and thousands of spectators, who line the route. The featured marque this year is Jaguar. Vehicles begin lining up on Lighthouse at 1 p.m. and start their scenic drive through Pacific Grove, Carmel and Pebble Beach at 6. The award BBQ dinner at historic Chautauqua Hall will follow at 7 and this year includes three auction items: Wine tasting and hors d'oeuvres for 20 people at Vino Napoli, a custom painting by James Caldwell of the rally participant's automobile, and a one-day Skip Barber Driving — and flew with — potential buyers.

“Two planes were ordered that night from the party,” he said. “This is a party, but there’s some business going on there, and 1997 was pivotal for recognizing it was more than just about getting friends together.”

The partnership between Bentley motors and Breitling timepieces was forged at the party, according to McCall, and Bentley representatives have told him they also do more business there than at any other special event. Charter-flight and private-jet businesses — including those that attend the U.S. Open, the Kentucky Derby and other major events — have reported similar successes.

“People take their holiday here and leave a bunch of their resources behind,” McCall observed. “Look at all the people who now have homes here because of Car Week.”

But it’s not just about business, McCall remarked.

“One of the Lt. Cmdr. pilots from the Navy met his wife there,” he said. “Now, two kids later....”

Another milestone was relocating the party from the Monterey Airplane Co. hangar to the Monterey Jet Center in 2000.

“The move to the Jet Center has been a wonderful partnership over the years,” McCall said. “It’s also been a wonderful way to shine a positive light on the Monterey Airport.”

Opening to the public

As the party’s popularity grew, it remained free to attend as the companies helped underwrite the costs, but managing the guest-list became a challenge. The McCalls struggled with the “friends of friends” syndrome, in which invitees wondered how they could include their friends, too.

Then McCall got a call from an executive representing American Express Centurion Card clients who were ready to board private jets and pay whatever they needed to attend the party. For the McCalls, it was inspiration to calculate a ticket price and open the celebration to the public, which they decided to do after their 15th anniversary party.

“There is a temptation to say, ‘Let’s sell as many tickets as we can and let it rip,’ but that’s just not my style,” he said. “So we went the other way and made it more exclusive, and we’ve kept it there.”

They cap admission at 2,800 people but spread out ticket sales so folks who show up at the door that day also have a chance of getting in. It always sells out.

“We’ve kept it fair — it’s very important to do that,” he said. The McCalls also continue to invite some of the guests, who can then buy tickets for their friends, if they like.

“And I can budget the event so I can make it work,” he said. “In any business, that’s the tricky part. It forced us to treat this as a business.”

Every year is a little different, and for the 20th anniversary, McCall reported the triumph of convincing Ferrari to participate. He's worked with the Italian car company for years, including staging an exhibition at Rockefeller Center in New York a few years ago, but it had not participated in the Motorworks party.

"Every year, I reached out to them with proposition of having a presence at the Jet Center," he said. "I finally broke them."

He's excited to have the company on board.

"I love their racing history — and it's a powerful brand," he said. "Our hangar is full of powerful brands this year."

Lamborghini, for instance, is using the party to launch its Aventador LP 700-4, a beast of a sports car with a 700-horsepower, 6.5-liter V12 engine that reaches 62 mph in 2.9 seconds and tops out at 217 mph, and Aston Martin will present the American debut of its V12 Zagato, which won this year's design award at the Villa D'Este Concours.

Bombardier and Flexjet, meanwhile, will showcase the Challenger 605 aircraft, and Hawker Beechcraft will exhibit the Hawker 4000 — "the world's most technologically advanced super-mid-size business jet" — and the King Air 3501. Monterey-based Shearwater Air will share information about its exclusive private jet charter and aircraft management company.

Also for the 20th anniversary celebration, the McCalls decided to take the party's culinary offerings in a new direction. For the past several years, local restaurants have served various small bites at the event, and while McCall was effusively grateful for their participation, the logistics were difficult, and the dining experience didn't match the caliber of the cars and aircraft featured at the party, so they wanted to enhance it.

"Molly and I have really struggled with this. We appreciated the support and participation of local restaurants, but it was hard to get the food right," he said. "It's very difficult to figure out how to feed 2,800 people in that kind of a setting."

As a result, the couple found a San Francisco caterer to do the job — but upon reflection, it didn't seem right.

"We started getting really cold feet about three weeks ago about bringing in an outside company that was going to come in, service the event, take a check and leave," he said. "We were feeling bad about that," since every other contractor hired to work the party is local.

So they took a different angle. Because of their connection with the Naval Postgraduate School — one of the nonprofits that has long benefited from the McCall party (which also benefits the CHP's 11-99 Foundation) — the McCalls realized they had "literally an army of manpower" to help serve food.

They just needed someone to organize and make it, so McCall approached Tony Tollner, whose Downtown Dining owns and operates Tarp's Roadhouse, the Rio Grill and Montrio. McCall asked Tollner to partner with him on the party, and the restaurateur agreed.

McCall said two kitchens will be set up on the grounds, and servers will help ensure food service flows smoothly throughout the evening. Appetizers will be passed from 5 to 6:30 p.m., a full dinner will be served at strategically placed stations from 6:30 to 8 p.m., and coffee and desserts will be available from 8 to 10 p.m.

Wines, champagnes and a special anniversary cocktail will be served, too, with Bernardus Winery, Roederer and Schramsberg on board to pour.

"I've never eaten at that event," McCall mused. "I'm going to make a point of it this year."

The 20th McCall's Motorworks Revival will be held from 5 to 10 p.m. Wednesday, Aug. 17, at the Monterey Jet Center. Tickets are $295 per person, and guests must be at least 21 years old. For more information and to order, visit www.mccal-levents.com.

The 61st annual Concours d'Elegance — which began as a small collection of cars exhibited in conjunction with the Pebble Beach Road Races — will honor the 125th anniversary of the automobile. In 1886, Karl Benz received the first patent for a gas-propelled car (the three-wheeled Benz Patent Motorwagen), and later that year, Gottlieb Daimler mounted an engine on a four-wheeled vehicle, heralding the dawn of the automotive era. This year's Concours — the premier collector-car show in one of the most scenic places on the planet — will include classes devoted to the preserved creations of Benz and Daimler and their successors, Mercedes and Mercedes-Benz; early Rolls-Royce Silver Ghosts (1907-1919), the centennial of Stutz American sports cars, the Birth of the Ferrari 250 GTO and Italian Motorcycles, along with more than a dozen other classes, ranging from antiques (through 1915), to Ferrari Grand Touring. Fine Arts Society exhibit
18th Fairway of the Pebble Beach Golf Links during the Pebble Beach Concours d'Elegance
Sunday, Aug. 21, 10:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m.

Held alongside the Pebble Beach Concours d'Elegance each year, the Automotive Fine Arts Society show features highly sought pieces by world-famous artists in many different mediums. According to Concours organizers, "The automobile changed the whole of our culture almost immediately upon its introduction; it was more than transportation, it served as a status symbol, it was a matter of style. But it took some time for the art world to view the automobile as an appropriate subject of fine art." Established in 1984 by six artists dedicated to elevating the understanding and acknowledgment of automotive art, the AFAS seeks to exhibit members' works, promote and publicize them, raise the standards of automotive art to a level of acceptance as serious fine art from the point of view of collectors and critics, and provide "a practical means to form enduring friend-

Vintage racers on the wharf

MAZDA RACEWAY Laguna Seca plans to kick off Concours Week by bringing 20 vintage race cars to Fisherman's Wharf for a show Friday, Aug. 12, from 5 to 7 p.m. The non-street-legal cars, including a 1954 Jaguar XK120, a 1956 Jaguar D-Type, a 1956 Alfa Romeo Spider and a 1969 Boss 302 Trans Am Mustang, will be competing in the Aug. 13-14 Pre-Reunion historic races and will arrive under police escort from the track.

The free event Friday night will also include live music and a raffle featuring prizes from the raceway and wharf businesses. Fans will be able to purchase tickets to the Rolex Monterey Motorsports Reunion set for Aug. 19-21. For more information, call (800) 327-7322 or visit www.mazdaraceway.com.

ships, exchange ideas and build fellowship among automotive fine artists and enthusiasts." Hotrods and pin-ups focus of Garter Belts & Gasoline art show

THE CONNECTION made between cars and women is no secret. Given that, a Seaside cafe Friday, Aug. 12, is hosting its fourth Garter Belts & Gasoline art exhibit.

The Alternative Cafe, 1230 Fremont Blvd., is holding its annual hot rod and pin-up art show, which includes photographs and painted artwork. The Friday show is from 7 to 11 p.m. and is free to attend. "This year we'll have classics and muscle cars parked out front for all the gear heads," according to the cafe. "Curator and artist, Tanem, has hand-picked artists from all over the United States to be in this show."

There will be a few local hot rods parked outside the cafe, and beer and wine will be offered inside during the show. A DJ will play music inside.
