Sandy Koffman: An active, happy life that came to a sudden and unexpected end

By KELLY NIX

AS NEWS of the death of former Pacific Grove Mayor Sandy Koffman spread around the Monterey Peninsula last Friday, many people were shocked that someone who was always so youthful and vibrant could be gone.

This week, community leaders remembered her unabashed enthusiasm and numerous contributions to local causes, while her husband, Dan, provided details about the illness that quickly took her life, even as he reflected on their years together in Malibu, Pacific Grove and Washington State — and especially her love for the Monterey Peninsula.

Koffman, 60, who was mayor of Pacific Grove from 1994 to 2002, died Aug. 3 of pancreatic cancer at her home in Camano Island, Wash., after a nearly six-month battle with the disease.

“We just celebrated our 34th anniversary, and she had her 60th birthday just days before the transition,” Dan Koffman, 62, told The Pine Cone.

Born and raised in Chicago, Sandy Koffman studied drama and journalism at Northwestern University. Her early jobs included stints at an insurance company, running a modeling agency and managing a bar.

“Even before she could drink, she was running the joint,” Dan Koffman said.

The modeling gig led her to the 1976 International Housewares Show, where he was working for a company as a product designer. She was in Booth 505 and he was in Booth 506.

“We met across a crowded convention floor aisle, and immediately I thought this gal had magic,” Dan Koffman recalled.

Though she was married at the time, the two became close friends. Eventually, she separated from her husband and moved to Malibu to be with Dan. They married in 1978.

“We began almost immediately to make each other’s dreams come true,” he said.

While living the Southern California lifestyle, the two would often take trips to San Ysidro Ranch in Montecito or to Monterey.

“What happened is that over the years, we kept falling in love with the Monterey Peninsula,” Dan Koffman said.

New beach restrooms headed for ‘simple’ redesign

■ But council, commission still want them to be ‘world class’

By MARY SCHLEY

MEMBERS OF the city council and planning commission hammered out their basic wish list for the permanent bathrooms that would replace the porta-potties on the bluff at the south end of Carmel Beach. During a two-hour joint meeting Monday night, at which the restrooms were the sole topic, they told architect Rob Carver the building should be as small and simple as possible — but still worthy of one of the most beautiful places on the planet.

The meeting followed years of hearings and discussions on plans developed by Carver, whose firm was hired by the city. After the city council earlier provided feedback to Carver, the planning commission approved his drawings in June, only to rescind that approval in July, following complaints from residents. In order to avoid more of the same, Mayor Jason Burnett convened the joint meeting to provide unified direction to the architect.

Carver explained he had designed the building to be “as

Council decides to go along with homeowner’s removal of large pine

By MARY SCHLEY

A TORRES Street couple won their appeal to the city council Tuesday night, receiving permission to cut down a large pine tree that’s damaging their driveway and may have caused their water main to break. While city forester Mike Branson and the forest and beach commission had told Steve and Ann Kenfield they should fix the driveway by trimming the tree’s roots, rather than chopping the pine down, an arborist they hired concluded it should go. Faced with dueling experts, the council split 3-2 in the Kenfields’ favor.

At issue is a 75-foot-tall pine next to the driveway on Torres just south of Fifth Avenue. Roots near the surface pushed up pavers in the driveway, causing a hazard that tripped two people, including one of the Kenfields, who is undergoing physical therapy for the resulting injuries, they said. In addition, they said its roots broke a water main.

Furthermore, the tree poses “a unique safety risk,” due to its location on a busy street, near an often full hotel parking lot and within falling distance of two historic storybook-style cottages built by Hugh Comstock.

“Should wind contribute to tree failure, the historic Hansel & Gretel Comstock cottages would be crushed,” they wrote in their appeal letter to the council Aug. 7.

The homeowners also hired arborist Maureen Hamb to inspect the tree, and she concluded several of the roots were either damaged or rotten.

“Given the location and present slope of the driveway ... Mrs. Hamb con-

Burnett wants union, La Playa meeting

By MARY SCHLEY

THE FISTICUFFS between the local hospitality union and the owners of La Playa Hotel continued this week, with a labor representative telling the city council Tuesday a boycott is under way and the hotel CEO defending the hiring process in a letter to Mayor Jason Burnett, who has said he wants to organize a meeting between the two factions.

“There is a boycott that’s been called since the last time we had a meeting here,” UNITE HERE Local 483 secretary-treasurer Leonard O’Neill said at the Aug. 7 council meeting, adding that he believes it’s only the second boycott in the city’s history and is sponsored by Justice for La Playa Workers, the California Labor Federation, the union and the Monterey Central Labor Council.

He also said the community supports the workers, who were all fired by the hotel’s previous owner, the Cope family’s Nob Hill Properties, when it closed La Playa and sold it to Arizona-based Classic Hotels & Resorts. Since then, the union has been trying to force the new owners to rehire the employees.

“Mr. Mayor, a boycott sometimes brings an impact to the town itself — it brings a black eye to it,” O’Neill continued. “And you’ve reached out to the other side on our behalf to see if you could host a meeting or invite them to meet with us. My understanding is that they’re willing to do so at some particular point in the future, and we do appreciate your continued involvement.”

O’Neill’s comments Tuesday were considerably less disparaging than those made by UNITE HERE Local 483 representative Mark Weller at the July 3 council meeting. Weller condemned the new owners, saying they “have no sense of decency or responsibility toward Carmel, toward its community, toward its neighbors.”

He said more than half of the hotel’s former workers had at least 20 years on the job, but that the company “thinks nothing of denying these workers even a chance at their own jobs and shattering the lives of at least 100 of their families.”

“Well, that’s not OK,” Weller continued. “That kind of disgusting behavior is not welcome here, and we will continue to let La Playa know that it is not welcome here until it does the minimally decent thing in offering the jobs back to the workers who have proved their expertise in them.”

Park on hit list to get makeover

By CHRIS COUNTS

GARRAPATA STATE Park is on the state’s closure list, but the California Department of Parks and Recreation is going ahead with a series of significant improvements to the park, anyway.

State parks filed an application with the Monterey County Resources Agency Aug. 7 for a permit to improve public access and better protect natural resources at the 2,900-acre state park, which is located just south of the Carmel Highlands.

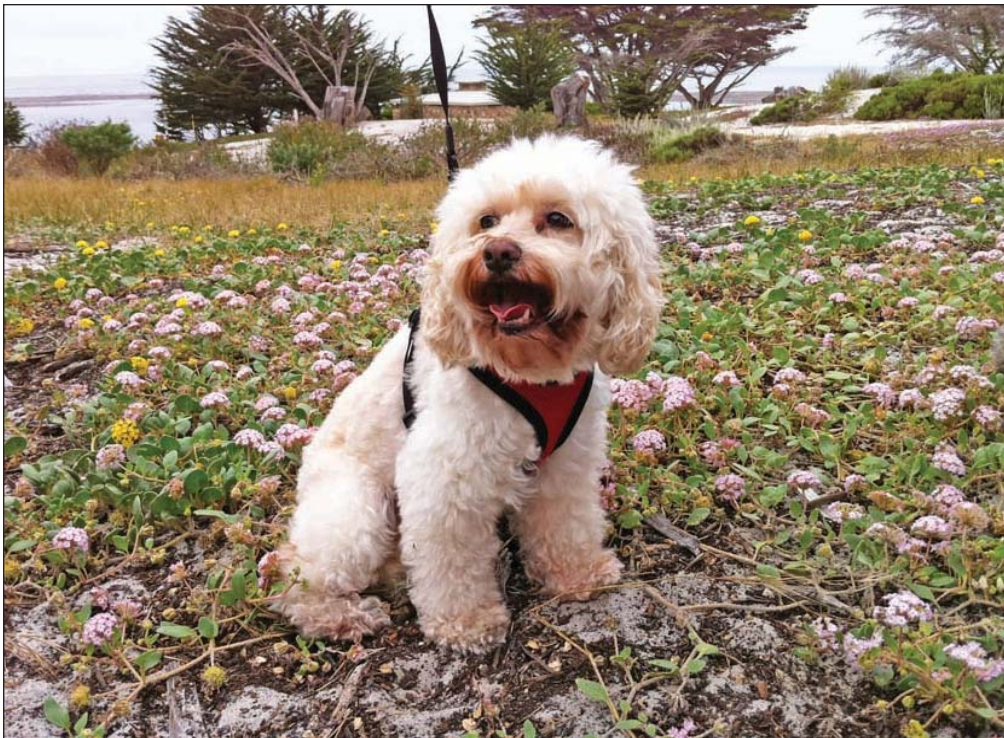

Larry Tierney, a state parks facilities manager, told The Pine Cone it’s too early to say how much the project will cost, but the work will be paid for by taxpayers with Proposition 84 funds that were approved by voters in 2006.

Because Garrapata gets so much foot traffic,

Clothes Hound

J.J.'S LIFE began in a puppy mill, where he became a sire until a woman came to his rescue and took him home. For the next few years, she loved the cockapoo, pampered him, walked him, bathed him, took him to town and hugged him tight. And then she died.

Friends who had helped care for him on occasion were asked to foster J.J. until a suitable family was found. They brought him home, introduced him to three other rovers in residence, and watched and waited to see how they got along. He fit in fine and had found his family.

Two years later, J.J., which stands for Jesse James – a name that doesn't suit him – is still timid, but his goofy side has emerged. He loves to drag clean laundry out of the basket and deposit it, piece by piece, on the living room couch. Then he sneaks into the bedroom, climbs up on the bed and bounces a few times before taking a flying leap off the edge and bounding across the room until he comes to a skidding stop at the door.

"J.J.," says his person, "is lovely, magical. He reminds us of Falkor, the good-natured, fluffy 'luck dragon' in 'The NeverEnding Story' fantasy film."

J.J. loves to play at the beach, but he prefers socializing on the sand to swimming in the sea. On his first visit, he ran right to the shore, following his companion canines. He took a big leap and dove into the frigid water, only to skid to a stop, turn to his person and look at her with an expression of, "What just happened?" Then he bolted out of the water and ran back to her side. J.J. has never gone in again.

Dear Friends, Neighbors and Visitors of Carmel,

In 1909, San Francisco's Bohemian writers, poets and artists journeyed to Carmel-by-the-Sea to find their artist paradise. They formed the Forest Theater Society and their dream of an artist colony. It began with Herbert Heron, Jack London, Mary Austin, George Sterling and many other artists who envisioned a community outdoor theater set in a forested natural amphitheater. With the help of their community, they made their dream come true and throughout the years, many artists and community members have contributed and performed on this stage, continuing it's traditions and live performances for our community's benefit and enjoyment. The Forest Theater Guild still follows in the footsteps of its founding organization and has continued today as our local Bohemian community theater troupe of Carmel providing quality theatrical productions for your enjoyment.

We have come a long way since 1909, however, the challenges of 'Community Theater' are every present today with our current economic conditions and competition for funding and grants at a peak. Our commitment to present quality productions while mentoring our community youth has remained our mission, however costs have increased, from rights to quality plays and to our production expenses and staffing, to produce our shows. Our two main stage productions and much-loved "Films in the Forest" are reaching over $100,000 per season in costs, with only 20% of these costs supported by tickets sales. We must raise the remaining funds from our community fund drives, grants and donations from you – our friends, neighbors and visitors to the Forest Theater. We cannot do it without YOU.

We are urgently asking for your help to raise the necessary funds to purchase our rights for next season's live plays and fund our film series so that we can present the very best entertainment in theater arts to you – our community.

Please donate to us now so we may meet a matching grant for our upcoming season. Become a donor for $100 and receive two tickets to "Opening Night 2013", or become a Bohemian member for only $150 and receive benefits of tickets to our season ahead. And if you want to make sure your donation will continue year after year, please think about offering an endowment or monthly amount that will help the Forest Theater Guild continue it's long history well into the future. Donations can be made online at www.foresttheaterguild.org or you can mail your check to; Forest Theater Guild, P.O. Box 2325, Carmel, California 93921.

As a gift to you, our biggest donation will "WIN TWO FRONT ROW SEATS" for the ENTIRE 2013 Season of live plays and "Films in the Forest". Any donation of $100 or more will receive two free tickets to our Opening Night performance in May 2013 and will be entered to "Win a backstage party for ten of your friends"!!! Every donation counts - so please give generously.

Thank you for supporting the Historic Bohemian Community Theater of Carmel.

Water district: Nothing illegal about household water limits, inspections

By KELLY NIX

THE MONTEREY Peninsula Water Management District has fired back at a Pebble Beach couple over a lawsuit challenging the district's authority to limit water use.

In a suit filed Aug. 10, 2011, Richard and Sharlene Thum challenged the district's restrictions on household water, permit fees, inspections of homes for illegal fixtures and other common practices.

In a 15-page response filed in Monterey County Superior Court, the water district contends the state granted it authority to implement its methodology, fees and permitting rules when it was created in 1977.

"The Legislature granted the district broad power to ensure water is available for present and future beneficial uses," according to the response drawn up by water district attorney Dave Laredo. "The district has instituted a comprehensive regulatory process to fulfill that responsibility."

An illicit showerhead?

The Thums, who purchased a Del Monte Forest vacation home for $2.5 million in 2009, began their battle with the water district after they decided to convert an 85-square-foot closet to a bathroom. After the district gave them permission to install the extra bathroom, officials performed a check of the house to finalize the permit process.

But during the inspection, the district worker not only checked the bathroom but looked through the entire house, finding a shower head in another bathroom than was not permitted.

Although the Thums contend that the home's previous owner, Paul Filice, insists he did not make any modifications to any of the fixtures after the district's last inspection in 2007, the district said it didn't know about the shower head.

"Each additional shower head requires a permit," according to the district. "There is no record of such permits."

The Thums' lawsuit was filed by Richard Thum's sister, Margaret Thum, and Carmel Valley attorney and former water district director Zan Henson.

While the Thums contend that the district's mandatory home inspection amounted to an invasion of privacy and an unreasonable government search, the district argues that the couple didn't take issue with the search and agreed to limit the number of fixtures on the property.

"At no time did [the Thums] object to the district's inspection requirement, fixture methodology or connection charges," according to the district.

An unsuccessful appeal

When the district informed the Thums the extra shower head required a permit, the couple appealed the decision, but it was upheld April 18, 2011, by the water district's board of directors, which is a defendant in the lawsuit.

The couple, the district argues, failed to challenge the conditions of their bathroom permit at the time it was issued.

"Instead, they accepted benefits of the permit, built their bathroom, and challenged the permit only because they were caught with un-permitted water fixtures," according to the district's response.

While the Thums contend the water district's restrictions on household water use contradict a state law, the district denies the claim.

"Plain language allows the district to limit water use so sufficient water is available for present and future beneficial uses," according to the district.

The water district also points to its theory that there is a correlation between the number of residential plumbing fixtures and the

ASILOMAR TO GET MAJOR HANDICAPPED UPGRADES TO TRAILS, BOARDWALKS

By KELLY NIX

DESPITE THE state's severe budget crisis, the California Department of Parks and Recreation is planning to spend $15 million to upgrade the paths at Asilomar Conference Grounds to provide better handicapped access.

At its meeting in Santa Cruz this week, the California Coastal Commission is expected to decide whether to issue a permit for the project, which involves a complete redo of the park's paths and boardwalks to make it easier for those in wheelchairs and those unable to traverse uneven footpaths.

"We are upgrading all of our facilities to make sure we are compliant" with the Americans with Disabilities Act, state parks Monterey District superintendent Matt Fuzie told The Pine Cone. "It's also part of our mission [to make parks] accessible to everybody."

The project involves making sure the pathways and access ways have no more than a 5 percent grade. It would also include rerouting and re-contouring of the pathways, replacing of existing asphalt paths with a "permeable paver system," and restoring of native habitat.

The upgrades would also require new ADA and directional signage and minor light post adjustments to accommodate the new routes.

"Public access and recreation Coastal Act policies make clear that maximum recreational access must be provided for all segments of society," according to the report.

The development permit would also allow interior and exterior improvements — unrelated to ADA improvements — to the conference grounds' Crocker Dining Hall, including a new kitchen, storage areas, exhaust roof vents, plumbing line and electrical transformer.

The project, which Fuzie said will cost no more than $15 million, is expected to be done in several phases, assuming the commission approves the permit, and should be completed by 2016.

The coastal commission estimates that impacts from the project would occur mostly in degraded dune and forest areas that are already impacted by development and the use of the conference grounds.

When they were built almost 20 years ago, paths like this one were specially designed to be wheelchair friendly. But now they have to be rebuilt, because it turns out they're a little too steep.

Though the pathway realignment project was designed to avoid special plant species, it will require the removal of 26 Monterey pines. Coastal commission staff recommended approving the project on the condition that state parks restore native habitat in areas adjacent to the construction zone and by conducting off-site dune restoration at tide pools north of the Asilomar State Beach.

"The restoration activities would serve to mitigate for the impacts to [environmentally sensitive habitat areas] and improve the habitat values on the conference grounds and at Asilomar State Beach," according to the coastal commission report.

The upgrades would not impact the park's two endangered species, Menzies wallflower and Tidestrom's lupine, and the majority of impacts would occur in "highly disturbed areas of relatively lower habitat value," according to the commission.

The proposed ADA upgrades were prompted by a lawsuit filed against state parks in the late 1990s. As part of the settlement, the state agency agreed to make ADA improvements at all of its parks.

With 16 buildings designed by Julia Morgan and built in the early 1900s for the YWCA, the conference center has 317 rooms and is listed on the National Register of Historic Places.

WITH NO comments from the public and no discussion among its members, the city council unanimously voted Tuesday night to waive $3,130 in city fees and give a “free use” day at Sunset Center worth $2,000 to the Carmel Art & Film Festival.

Slated for Oct. 10-14, the festival includes film screenings throughout the city, lectures, a “Women in Film” program, photography, and an art show and sale. Tickets and sponsor packages run $10 to $25,000, and the festival distributes four $2,500 scholarships to worthy students.

Tom Burns, who launched the festival with his wife, KSBW-TV news anchor Erin Clark, four years ago, requested the waiver, and assistant city administrator Heidi Burch recommended the council not make him pay for processing the required special-event and sound permits, parking stall fees, the use of Devendorf Park for two days, and the closure of Mission Street between Ocean and Sixth avenues (provided sponsors are found to use it). The city does not waive fees for “hard” costs, like signs, barricades and overtime for police officers.

As required, Burns provided the budget for this year’s festival and the financial statement for last year’s.

In 2011, the Carmel Art & Film Festival took in $177,196 in revenues, including a “major donor contribution” of $36,200 and a $10,000 grant, as well as $39,050 in sponsorships and “VIP package” ticket sales of $65,494.

Expenses totaled $150,662, including $5,854 for advertising, $38,889 for food and beverage, $33,315 for theater and equipment rentals, $12,170 for program printing, and $9,412 for transportation and room expenses.

For 2012, Burns expects the festival to generate $318,575, according to the financial documents he provided the city, including $75,000 in sponsorships, a $75,000 major donor contribution and $113,600 in ticket sales.

He estimated total expenses at $254,530, plus executive compensation of $28,000. Planned advertising costs total $10,500, including $5,000 for two billboards on Highway 101 and $2,000 for KSBW. Also budgeted are $17,500 for public relations firms, $65,000 for food and beverage, $15,000 for program printing, $39,000 for theater and equipment rentals, and $35,000 for transportation and room

$11 million project at Rocky Creek to get started after Labor Day

By CHRIS COUNTS

CONSTRUCTION IS expected to begin just after Labor Day on an ambitious project to fix a troubled stretch of Highway 1 between the Bixby and Rocky Creek bridges.

The work comes 18 months after a 40-foot section of pavement collapsed about 12 miles south of Carmel. "We decided to start the project after Labor Day to let the traffic subside a little," Caltrans project manager Ken Dostalek explained.

In addition to the 40-foot section of road that failed, a 600-foot-long stretch of highway is in bad shape. "It sits on unstable soil and is slowly sinking toward the ocean," Dostalek said.

To remedy the problem, a 600-foot viaduct — a bridge consisting of several small spans — will be built. "We tried to conform to the existing terrain," Dostalek added.

The $11 million contract for the project was awarded to Golden State Bridge Inc., the same San Francisco Bay Area company that is building a bridge and rock shed at Pitkins Curve just south of Lucia. The Pitkins Curve project is expected to be completed this winter.

The viaduct project is scheduled to begin Sept. 4 and should take 16 to 18 months to complete. Over the next six months, 24 overnight closures are anticipated. The closures will be limited to 9 p.m. to 7 a.m. During the day, meanwhile, motorists can expect delays of up to five minutes — just as they are now. The schedule, of course, is dependent on good weather.

The project site has been restricted to one-way traffic since the road failed in March 2011.

TREE

cludes there are no solutions available that will allow the preservation of the tree," they reported.

But Branson, who also inspected the tree, said the roots causing problems to the driveway could be shaved down and the pavers replaced. While such maintenance measures might be ongoing, they would also allow preservation of the tree.

In his report for the council, he also pointed out it's unknown whether the roots broke the water main, or the roots were attracted to the area by an existing break.

At its July 5 meeting, the forest and beach commission voted 3-1 to deny the Kenfields' application to remove the tree, instead recommending they "selectively prune the offending roots in the appropriate manner and with professional guidance."

The property owners filed their appeal July 13, and at the Aug. 7 meeting, Steve Kenfield told council members he and his wife "do not feel that the elevated risk to public safety has been adequately considered in this case."

"If that tree goes down, it's hard to imagine there would not be catastrophic loss of life, most importantly, and of property," he said.

Branson reiterated that trimming surface roots — not the support roots — would be all that's necessary to address the driveway problems.

"I'm not proposing doing a linear cut of the roots which are holding the tree up," he said.

Safety and liability trump tree

Council member Steve Hillyard made a motion to grant the appeal, and councilman Ken Talmage agreed, citing safety and liability concerns.

"I think there is risk there," Talmage said. "I don't think it is appropriate for the city to ask a homeowner to take on liability for a course of action that runs contrary to their expert's opinion. What we're asking the homeowner to do is trim the roots, and then if the tree falls over, it's their liability issue."

He asked Kenfield if he would be willing to replace the tree, and the homeowner agreed. But Mayor Jason Burnett said giving applicants' consultants such sway over decisions would set a dangerous precedent, and living in a forest carries with it the risk of falling trees.

He was inclined to support Branson and the decision of the forest and beach commission.

"For me, it's a reasonably high hurdle that we should overturn their decision," he said. "We put people on that commission to make these kinds of judgments."

Councilwoman Victoria Beach said she felt she had too little information to decide, and when city attorney Don Freeman suggested seeking a third expert opinion, she said she would like the appeal continued to another meeting in order to do so.

"I'm ready to vote," stated councilwoman Paula Hazdovac before observing that Kenfield had waited more than four-and-a-half hours for his turn at the podium. "These people have had to sit here — it's absolutely crazy, it really is."

"And if it's a great idea to have a third opinion, why wasn't it suggested to them before tonight?" she wondered.

Ultimately, the council voted 3-2, with Burnett and Beach dissenting, to allow the Kenfields to cut down the tree, as long as they replace it.

Voters to decide on zoning issue in November for proposed P.G. hotel

By KELLY NIX

PACIFIC GROVE voters will decide in November if the city's zoning laws should be amended to raise the height limit downtown to allow a seven-story hotel to be built in the lot where the Holman Building is located.

The P.G. City Council, which heard from those for and against the idea Wednesday night, voted 6-1 to place the rezoning issue on the Nov. 6 ballot. If approved, the zoning would allow the downtown building height to be raised from 40 feet to 75 feet, which businessman Nader Agha said is required for his proposed $50 million hotel.

Councilman Robert Huitt was the holdout, saying the public needed more information about the 230-room hotel, which would take up the entire block bounded by Lighthouse, Grand, Central and Fountain avenues. Huitt recommended placing it on the April 2013 ballot once the city and public learned more about the proposal.

Mark Weller, with workers' union UNITE HERE Local 483, said placing the item on the November ballot is "putting the cart before the horse," since the public has been provided few details about the project.

"Usually the developer answers the questions and there are numerous city council deliberations," he said. "Once there is an agreed upon picture ... then they get into approvals."

Agha hired successful hotel businessman Drake Leddy, who owns Presidian Hotels & Resorts, to work on the hotel project. Presidian's resume includes several Hilton and Marriott hotels.

Depressed downtown

Agha hasn't submitted a formal proposal for the hotel project, which the city estimates could bring in well more than $1 million in transient occupancy, property and sales taxes every year. The hotel could draw many tourists to the struggling downtown area.

Michael Adamson, who works at the Monterey County Bank branch in the building and who has been involved in efforts to attract new businesses to downtown P.G., said a large hotel would attract many more people to the city, which he called "depressed."

Longtime resident Richard Stilwell said the hotel would be an invaluable asset to Pacific Grove.

"This guy is a professional," Stilwell said of Leddy. "He hopes to do something nice for this town. He can put us back on the map."

The hotel would have two restaurants, a spa, and "event space tailored to resident needs," and one level of partially underground parking.

The project also calls for more parking in the back of Lighthouse Cinemas.

The hotel, which would have a mix of Victorian and Art Deco design elements, would also include a large interior courtyard, and other leasable space on Central Avenue. Two of the Holman building's floors would be integrated into the new hotel, and there could be improvements to the façade and the building's structural integrity.

Some of those who spoke out against the seven-story building said it would cast an all-day shadow on nearby business. Others said it could create traffic problems.

According to the city report given to the council, the use of "building articulation, balconies, awnings, trellises and varying window design would help break up the scale of the height."

Agha's hotel wouldn't be the first at the location. In 1887, the El Carmelo Hotel opened on the same site and was the center of the downtown business district. That hotel had two buildings — one 114-room building and a second building with a dining room and kitchen that served its guests, residents and others. It was demolished in 1919.

Apart from the zoning issues, Agha's proposed hotel faces water supply challenges, since the site doesn't have enough water credits to supply what's necessary for a hotel.

Water on tap and all expenses paid

Agha said he plans to supply the hotel with water by installing at least one 24,000-gallon-per-day desalination plant in the basement of the building that would draw H2O via a 20-foot well from the ground below.

A tank on the roof of the 88-year old building would store the water and Agha would truck away the brine to Moss Landing for disposal.

If voters approve the zoning change, the project would still have to undergo an exhaustive environmental impact report. In 1994, voters approved Measure E, which allowed the Holman building to be developed into a hotel but restricted the height of the building.

Leddy said he and Agha would pay the city for all costs and potential legal fees associated with the ballot measure.

RESTROOMS

invisible as possible from Scenic Road.” The low stone building with landscaped roof also had many “sustainable design elements,” though most were removed as a result of the discussions. He asked if the city wanted to set a good example with the building or simply provide the bare minimum.

“We based our design based on the precedent of some of the other bathrooms in the city,” he explained, which contain separate men’s and women’s toilet and sinks. They are naturally lit and provide good ventilation, as opposed to single toilet rooms with locking doors that close out light and airflow.

“We felt that was the preferable way, in terms of making it a more pleasant experience to go to a public restroom than when you go into a single restroom and have to lock the door,” he said.

The design could be shrunken down to include nothing but two unisex toilet rooms — one ADA compliant — with waterless urinals and a common hand-washing area outside, but “at the end of every single meeting, the last comment is always, ‘Oh, but we want it to be world class,’” Carver said. “That’s sort of at odds with making it small and making it maybe a lot more unpleasant than it needs to be,” but that’s a decision for the city council to make.

Councilman Ken Talmage said he wanted the structure situated slightly to the south on the point of land that juts out at Scenic and Santa Lucia, but not so that it requires the removal of any cypress trees. He also said it should be as low profile as possible.

Planning commissioner Jan Reimers said she would rather not remove any of the trees, either, “but if a tree has to go for the greater good, we could plant some more.”

Nearby residents don’t want sink

Several members of the public chimed in, including Greg Linder, a longtime surfer who said the building should not include a shower, as earlier proposed.

“I see them left on, I see them dripping, I see them not working, I see people leave them on while they walk off to get something else they want to wash,” he said. “I think Carmel should be the example setter for not wasting water, and I don’t think the showers are needed.”

Skip Lloyd argued that what beach-goers see is more important than what people on Scenic Road see. And while Carmel Residents Association board member Dick Stiles said the CRA wants the new bathroom built on the site where the three porta-potties are now, planning commissioner Keith Paterson said that is not the optimal spot, because it would require removing trees and interfere more with the view from Scenic.

Scenic Road resident Katie Morganroth said that, since Carmel is “primarily a residential community,” the bathroom should be limited to a single toilet, and the building should not compromise the coastline “in any way, shape or form.”

Monte Verde Street resident Pat van Kirk polled her neighbors — most of whom will never have to use a public toilet at the south end of the beach, since they live so close by — and reported 35 people opposed the project, while just two supported it. She said they wondered why it was even necessary, and if it is necessary, they want it to be as small as possible. Van Kirk also said she and her neighbors don’t want it to include a sink, “because, well, we’ve got water right there where we water the dogs and wash off our feet, right there on the steps, we can wash our hands and dogs and feet.” She was referring to the spigot halfway down the stairs to the beach.

“Just one or two simple toilets — nothing else,” she continued. “Nothing to attract anybody to the site for any reason.”

But Carver said the law requires a sink for hand washing wherever a public toilet is installed, for obvious sanitary reasons.

Back to basics

Burnett asked attendees if the building should be small or world class.

“I don’t really think it can be both,” he said. “Not that it can’t be a great design, but it’s a choice between a building that really disappears or a building that is noticeable.”

Council member Victoria Beach described Burnett’s question as “a false dichotomy” and said the building could be functional, sited well and beautifully designed while still being as small as possible.

She also advised Carver to take a different perspective when he goes back to the drawing board, and to solicit the help of a landscape architect. She thought the outcome would be better “if we treat the point [at Scenic and Santa Lucia] as a landscape project with an agenda other than going to the bathroom; in other words, if we say this is a point we want to exploit or leverage to be even more beautiful from a landscape perspective, and then the toilet follows almost as an aside.”

Carver said he understood.

“We should signal to the architect he’s to put a world class facility in there, such as you can’t see it, and then move on,” commented councilman Steve Hillyard.

“I don’t like the idea of two unisex bathrooms with sealed doors,” councilwoman Paula Hazdovac said. “As a woman, I feel unsafe with that.”

A majority of council members and commissioners decided by a show of hands that the bathroom should contain two toilets, one for men and another for women, both ADA compliant as required by law. They also decided there should be no provision made for solar panels and no skylights.

But the bathroom should have a baby-changing table that folds down from the wall, Burnett said, adding that he’s changed a lot of diapers during the past year and would much rather have a dedicated place for the task than put his baby down on the floor, “where you’re guessing what’s gone before you.”

The city should “provide the facility that every other restroom across the civilized world is moving toward providing,” he said. No one argued with him.

Attendees also wondered how to secure the sink when the restroom is locked at night, if it’s outside, and someone suggested turning off the water. Hillyard said he thought it should be inside, away from the elements and adjacent to a hand dryer.

Burnett asked what other sort of feedback Carver wanted, and the architect responded, “I think this is excellent guidance all the way around.”

Toward the end of the discussion, a woman in the audience observed that the bathroom should at least look a little bit like a bathroom.

“I’m assuming we want people to use this, so there’s got to be some way for them to recognize it’s a freaking bathroom, right?” she asked.

Carver will draw and submit new plans to the planning commission for design review and then to the council for a final OK. According to city administrator Jason Stilwell, the project is estimated at $225,000, and while some money has been budgeted for design, the city plans to solicit grants and donations for construction.

Colonel John Francis Powers Jr.

Colonel John Francis Powers Jr., our beloved patriarch of the Powers Family of Carmel, died on July 24 at the age of 92. He had celebrated his birthday on the fourth of July. “Jack” was married for 59 years to Dorothea Kilpatrick Powers. They had six children, sixteen grandchildren, and eight great grandchildren.

John Francis Powers Jr. was born in 1920 in Haverhill, Massachusetts. Jack earned his BSA Eagle Scout Honor in his teens, played baseball, football, and ran track at Haverhill High School, then earned his Bachelor of Arts Degree in economics from the University of Massachusetts. He enlisted in the United States Army in 1942 and continued to serve for 32 years. Colonel Powers was a highly decorated combat veteran, airborne paratrooper, special forces Green Beret, the likes of which we read about in history books and watch in movies. He lived it and survived it, yet never talked about valor and bravery; his actions and record said it all. Colonel Powers was a heroic American patriot who did his undying duty for country.

Jack married Dorothea Mae Kilpatrick in November, 1946. They enjoyed a wonderful family life together, even with the everpresent call of duty. The family settled in Carmel in 1964.

Colonel Powers retreated from military life to forge a new career as professor, entrepreneur, philanthropist, community service activist, coach, and grandparent. He taught economics at Monterey Peninsula College, served on the boards of Food Bank and Alliance on Aging, and helped foster local baseball development for local youth. John and Dorothea were stalwart supporters of Stevenson School. He assisted many elderly neighbors with fiduciary responsibility, and all of the while was a devout parishioner, usher, and volunteer at the Carmel Mission. He was a strong pillar of the community. The Colonel’s reservoir of love for his family was limitless, constant and generous.

Every man is born and every man dies. Not every man truly LIVES. John Francis Powers Jr. lived a life the way it should be lived, with passion, love, fruitfulness, patriotism, fire, humor, selflessness, strength, courage, understanding, dignity, design. Bopppa, we will miss you terribly, yet you are within us all forever. We carry on your spirit.

Per John’s wishes, no services were held. He was cremated and ashes scattered at sea. The family requests that any gifts in his memory be donated to worthy charities.

PING PONG, POKER PLAYERS RALLY TO AID HENRY MILLER LIBRARY

By CHRIS COUNTS

TO HELP the Henry Miller Library in Big Sur raise enough money to upgrade its septic system — which is necessary if the nonprofit wants to continue hosting a wide variety of events — Fernwood Resort presents a fundraising Ping Pong and Poker Tournament Wednesday, Aug. 15. “This is a very generous gesture by Fernwood,” said Magnus Toren, the library’s executive director. “They’re donating everything they make that day to the library.” Part of the inspiration for staging the ping pong tournament comes from the library’s namesake, who loved playing the game. With a paddle in his hand, Miller famously squared off with Nepenthe restaurant co-founder Bill Fassett on many occasions. While Fassett was no match for Miller as a writer, he was definitely the better ping pong player — even if Miller’s astrologer predicted otherwise. “Bill usually beat Henry,” Toren conceded. Miller’s affection for ping pong gained notoriety when he was pictured in a 1971 edition of Playboy magazine playing the game with an attractive — and naked — model. Paying tribute to Miller’s fondness for the game, the library’s literary journal is named, “Ping Pong.”

The ping-pong tournament starts at 4 p.m., and there’s a $10 fee to enter. The poker tournament, meanwhile, will offer tables with $25, $50 and $100 limits. In addition to ping-pong and poker, the event will feature a BBQ, a raffle and live music by Songs Harry Hotbox Taught Us. The event comes less than a year after county officials notified Toren that the library must upgrade its septic facilities to meet state and federally mandated health and safety requirements, including the Americans with Disabilities Act. According to Toren, the library needs to raise about $140,000 to pay for the work. “We’ve raised about $60,000 so far,” he added. “We’re almost halfway there.” Fernwood is located on Highway 1 about 25 miles south of Carmel. ### Supper club's Sunset debut offers jazz singer, BBQ

By CHRIS COUNTS

RETURNING TO Sunset Center three years after staging a Nat King Cole tribute concert, the Allan Harris Band presents a cabaret-style show Friday, Aug. 10.

To create an intimate setting for the performance, Sunset Center's Studio 105 will be transformed into the "Carmel Supper Club" for the evening.

"When he played here in 2009, everybody fell in love with Allan and his band," said Peter Lesnik, a former executive director of Sunset Center who is co-producing the show. "Allan sings standards, he sings the blues, and he sings all kinds of really great music. Also, he's so personable. He's the perfect fit for this crowd."

A hard-working and charismatic entertainer who has been featured at jazz festivals in the United States, Europe and Asia, Harris is a three-time winner of the New York Nightlife Award for Outstanding Jazz Vocalist.

Previously staged at All Saints' Church, the Carmel Supper Club series will be presented at Sunset Center for the first time. "We faced a number of challenges [at All Saints'] that were resolved by moving to Sunset Center," Lesnik explained. "It was the natural thing to do."

Dinner starts at 6:30 p.m. Tickets start at $88 and include an "upscale" BBQ. And "Alan Silvestri is doing the wine," Lesnik said.

GALLERIES CELEBRATE AFRICAN SCULPTURE AND THE FINE ART OF THE AUTOMOBILE

By CHRIS COUNTS

CONSIDERING THERE'S nothing he'd rather be doing than photographing cars, Winston Goodfellow is in the right business.

Sunset Center's Marjorie Evans Gallery presents an exhibit of Goodfellow's automobile images, "All Access," until the end of the month.

"Winston has been around cars his entire life and he's so in love with them," explained Barbara Davison, the show's curator. "He considers himself one of the world's luckiest people."

Since first displaying his work at Carmel's Silver Light Gallery in 1998, Goodfellow has established himself as a world class automotive fine art photographer. His photographs have been displayed numerous times at The Quail — A Motorsports Gathering in Carmel Valley, and his images have been featured in many publications, including Forbes, Playboy and Esquire.

When Goodfellow isn't photographing cars, he can often be found writing about them. He's the author of six automobile-themed books, including "Italian Sports Cars," "Speed, Style & Beauty — Cars From the Ralph Lauren Collection," and "Take Your Best Shot — A Guide on How to Photograph Cars."

A one time resident of the Monterey Peninsula, Goodfellow served as a judge at the Pebble Beach Concours d'Elegance from 1989 to 2010.

The gallery, which will host a reception Friday, Aug. 10 from 5 to 7 p.m., is located at San Carlos and Ninth. The exhibit will be on display through the end of the month. The gallery is typically open Monday through Friday from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m., but it stays open late — even on weekends — if Sunset Center is hosting an event. Call (831) 620-2040 or visit www.sunsetcenter.org.

Autos, art come together at new gallery

Just in time for this year's Pebble Beach Concours d'Elegance, local painter Thierry Thompson unveils a collection of automotive art in his new gallery, Light and Shadow Fine Art.

Thompson's favorite subjects include Shelby

Mustangs, Formula 1 and Porsche race cars, and Ferrari road cars. In addition to cars, Thompson's work includes local seascapes and landscapes, as well as airplanes.

After studying fine art in college, Thompson found success as a commercial illustrator, working on the Joe Camel campaign for a decade. In the mid-1980s, though, he shifted his focus back to his first love, painting. When he and his wife, Beverly, moved to Carmel Valley in 1999, the artist didn't have to look far for creative inspiration. "He couldn't help but paint the landscapes right outside our door," Beverly recalled.

With Thompson's wife serving as gallery director, Light and Shadow Fine Art quietly opened its doors in

■ A continent's finest

Gallery Sur presents receptions Saturday and Sunday, Aug. 11-12, for Agnes Nyanhongo, who is generally regarded as Nigeria's most talented and successful female stone sculptor.

The daughter of one of Nigeria's most famous sculptors and the sibling of five other respected sculptors, Nyanhongo draws creative inspiration from the natural world.

"Her technique is superlative," gallery owner David

Painter Thierry Thompson's "The Midas Touch," at the top, and "La Prima Porta a Destra," are featured in an exhibit on display at his new downtown gallery, Light and Shadow Fine Art.

Potigian said. "Her work is dignified, graceful, serene — and often joyful."

In her work, Nyanhongo often conveys the challenges women face in her native country.

"I try somehow to express the role women play in society and the way they are being treated," she explained. "They are still not free. They are struggling for freedom."

Saturday's reception starts at 4 p.m. On Sunday, the gallery will host a brunch and reception beginning at 11 a.m.

The gallery is located on the south side of Sixth between Dolores and Lincoln. Call (831) 626-2615 or visit www.galleriesur.com.

THE BENCH OPENS FOR BUSINESS, WINEMAKERS' CELEBRATION TURNS 20

ON A sunny Monday morning so beautiful it looked made-to-order, Pebble Beach Co. CEO Bill Perocchi and President Cody Plott greeted a few special guests and cut the ribbon on the resort's new restaurant, The Bench. Built to capitalize on the views, cater to a broad audience and complement the Lodge's other restaurants, the venue focuses on wood-fired cooking under the guidance of new chef de cuisine Yousef Ghalaini.

"It replaces an iconic restaurant, Club XIX, that had been operating at the Lodge for 45 years," Perocchi said. "A lot of people had a lot of affection for that restaurant."

But over the years, Club XIX's formal ambiance and cuisine became dated, and guests told the company they wanted something more casual but still reflective of P.B.'s quality food and service.

"When we set out to develop our new restaurant concept, we wanted to take full advantage of this location," he said. And it does. The space, which is double the size of the former Club XIX, is light and airy, and the lower level features large windows looking out onto "the greatest finishing hole in all of golf." Outside, couches surround a few fire pits.

"We wanted to appeal to a broad audience, young and old, resort guests and locals," he continued, "and for the restaurant be a fun, exciting place with a lot of energy."

When it was his turn to speak, Plott commended the design team for creating a restaurant "that leverages the incredible views as well as one that speaks to today's current food and beverage trends."

The menu employs "innovative cooking techniques" like sous vide (slow cooking ingredients sealed in plastic in a water bath), wood-roasting and open-flame cooking.

"Rather than trying to classify the restaurant by a certain cuisine or region of the world, we bring a variety of these genres together," he said. "As a result, we truly feel like we have something unique on the menu for everyone."

He also described Ghalaini as "the perfect fit" for the company's culinary team and in the kitchen at The Bench, where he's capitalizing on his own creativity and the area's bountiful ingredients to prepare menu items so tempting that guests will have difficulty choosing because they'll want one of everything, according to Plott.

"This day is truly exciting for Pebble Beach, especially for the countless people who have worked so hard to bring this new restaurant concept to fruition," he concluded. "I have been humbled and honored to have the opportunity to lead the team through this effort."

Plott and Perocchi used oversized scissors to sever the large red ribbon in front of the doors and toasted all with Champagne, officially opening The Bench for service.

■ Meanwhile, next door....

Also in celebration of The Bench's debut,

Erin Herendeen-Hill, wine buyer and manager for the Pebble Beach Market, is stocking the wines that are listed at the Lodge's newest restaurant.

She said she was even working with the new head sommelier at the Lodge, Jim Rallston, on pairings so that customers who loved what they got at The Bench could try to recreate the experience at home. "It is such an exciting opportunity to feature a grand opening, we couldn't resist!" she said.

The pairings they decided to showcase, based on offerings at The Bench, include fire-roasted oysters, one of Ghalaini's many specialties, with "the delicate and mineral" Broadbent Vinho Verde NV from Northern Portugal; and Margherita flatbread (San Marzano tomatoes, basil and mozzarella) with Sangiovese 2010 Rosso di Montalcino from Cordella, because "the acidity of the Sangiovese is a perfect foil for the tomatoes." But, "my absolute favorite pairing at The Bench is a glass of our local Caraccioli Cellars Santa Lucia Highlands Brut Cuvee 2006 with a seat on our patio overlooking the 18th Green and Stillwater Cove — truly a match made in heaven," Rallston reported.

The market is also celebrating the P.B. Concours d'Elegance with an in-store raffle on Sunday, Aug. 19, for those attending the world-famous homage to collector cars. Folks with tickets to the show who also stop in to buy wine will be entered into a raffle with a grand prize from Boisset Family Estates worth more than $800.

Throughout the day, Concours attendees who purchase JCB Sparkling 21, JCB Sparkling 69 and Raymond Vineyards Cabernet will receive one raffle ticket per bottle. The prize is amazing: a $300 case of wine, a magnum worth $200, and a tour and tasting at JCB Lounge and Raymond Vineyards in Napa worth $300. The winner need not be present to win and will be notified by phone or email on Sunday.

The Pebble Beach Market is open daily

Winemakers celebrate Saturday

The 20th Annual Winemakers' Celebration is set for 1 to 4 p.m. Saturday, Aug. 11, in the event area adjacent to the Barnyard shopping center...

Winemakers, owners and representatives from more than 40 Monterey County wineries will be on hand to share their stories, pour tastes and discuss their wines.

Participating wineries include Bernardus, Blair Estate, Caraccioli Cellars, Carmel Road, Chalona, Chateau Julien, Cima Collina, CRU, Dawn's Dream, De Tierra, Estancia, Figge Cellars, Galante, Hahn SLH Estate, Holman Ranch, J. Lohr, Kori Wines, La Rochelle, Line Shack, Manzoni Cellars, Marin's Vineyard, Mercy, Michaud, Morgan, Noble Vines and Loredona, Otter Cove, Paraiso, Pelerin, Pierce, Puma Road, Saint's Valley, Shale Canyon, Scheid, Sequana, Silvestri, Sycamore Cellars, The Coastview Vineyard & Le P'tit Paysan, Ventana/LeMistral, Wenté and Wrath.

Red Beans & Rice will provide the live tunes, and several Barnyard restaurants will offer plenty of nourishment to offset all that wine tasting, among them Lugano Swiss Bistro, From Scratch, Allegro Gourmet Pizzeria, Carmel Valley Coffee Roasting Co., Bahama Island Steakhouse, Erik's Deli Cafe, Flanagan's and Mon Chay. For tickets, call (831) 375-9400 or visit www.montereywines.org.

Micro Beer Garden

It's a Micro Beer Garden not only because it's pretty small, especially compared with the real thing in Austria and Germany, but also because it will feature microbrews.

On Thursday, Aug. 16, as the Pebble Beach Concours Tour d'Elegance rolls into town, the Carmel Chamber of Commerce and the Plaza will host their inaugural Micro Beer Garden in the beautifully landscaped lower level of the shopping center at Junipero and Ocean, inches away from where the collector cars will be parked.

From noon to 3 p.m., participants can enjoy "live music and dancing, scrumptious small bites from Plaza restaurants and crisp, fresh and delicious micro beer from various labels."

The cost of a ticket to the event was "TBD" this week. For more information and details, call (831) 624-2522 or visit www.carmelcalifornia.org.

Hello, Sunshine!

During the Monterey Peninsula's most beautiful time of year, when the days are longer and the sun shines on the coast, the stunning Hyatt Carmel Highlands holds Hello Sunshine Thursdays in its lounge on the third Thursday of each month through October.

The lounge's talented mixologists are debuting new specialty drinks, like the Effen Cucumber Martini, South of the Border (Patron Añejo, Tia Maria and triple sec) and Thyme Lemonade with Absolut Citron, Bacardi Limon, simple syrup and fresh herbs.

To eat, a complimentary appetizer is offered with the purchase of any two. The Sunset Tapas menu created by executive chef Matt Bolton includes arancini with tartuffo Pecorino; a charcuterie platter with duck prosciutto, Parma ham, coppa and bresaola; house-cured olives; bruschetta with wild mushrooms, arugula, parmigiano reggiano and balsamic reduction; and littleneck clams with chorizo, lemon-grass, rice wine and grilled ciabatta.

What's Local Wednesdays

Monterey Cookhouse, which just celebrated its third anniversary, is showcasing local products every Wednesday this month, when, from 5 to 9 p.m., the night's specials will complement or include the "featured product," on which discounts will also be available.

The star ingredient is always locally made, of course, and on Wednesday, Aug. 15, Carmel Valley Brewing Co. will be the star, followed by Cowboy Sausage Aug. 22 and Boete Winery Aug. 29.

Monterey Cookhouse is located at 2139 Fremont St. in Monterey. Visit www.montereycookhouse.com.

Never too late for a ribbon cutting

Mediterraneo Imports and Coeur D'Olives have been in business for more than a decade, and their owner is celebrating that fact with a ribbon cutting hosted by the Monterey Peninsula Chamber of Commerce Thursday, Aug. 16, from 5 to 7 p.m. at its retail outlet and production facility at 1143 Echo Ave. in Seaside.

The ribbon cutting, which is free to attend, will allow the shop to share some of its olive oils, balsamic vinegars, olives, spices and rubs. In addition, the owner will launch a new line of body care products. To learn more, visit www.mpcc.com or call (831) 648-5350.

notion," he wrote. "Most importantly, we think our wonderful employees at La Playa Carmel deserve the same support, allegiance and respect from the city and the community of Carmel-by-the-Sea as everyone else who works here."

A ranting bartender?

Carmel resident Pamela Wagner contacted The Pine Cone this week to describe an incident in the bar, when she said a bartender at La Playa ranted at customers after fielding a question about the whereabouts of former barman, Noe Hinojosa.

"I am sick of people asking about Noe. I am the bartender here now," she quoted the unnamed bartender as saying. And the bartender said the new owners do not want local customers, according to Wagner.

But La Playa general manager Mary Crowe said she had heard nothing about such an incident or anything remotely like it. And it was ridiculous to think La Playa's owners and management don't want local business.

"Quite the contrary," she said. "We've been doing everything we can to reach out to the locals and welcome them and show them the things that haven't changed and what has. We just want to make La Playa successful and continue to grow so we can employ more people."

Some customers have, in fact "been very, very abusive to the staff — shockingly so," Crowe said, though she declined to go into detail. "But by and large, a lot of the local folks are wonderful, and we love having them here, and they come in regularly, and we're always happy to see them," she said.

HOSPITALITY DISTRICT RECEIVES FINAL COUNCIL OK

By MARY SCHLEY

TWO HOTEL owners filed written protests, but that wasn't enough to stop the city from forming the Carmel Hospitality Improvement District. With the city council's final adoption of the ordinance creating the district and levying the associated $1-per-occupied-room-night fee Tuesday, the new law and tax will take effect Sept. 7.

The money will be used to pay for equipment, an office, and a Carmel Chamber of Commerce employee and assistant dedicated to bringing more midweek and conference business to town. While the city will collect the funds, they will be passed on to the chamber, with the council conducting an annual review of how they are spent and whether there's a resulting boost in business and transient occupancy tax.

Two express doubts

No one spoke against the HID or the fee at the Aug. 7 council meeting, but the owners of the Normandy Inn and the Green Lantern Inn wrote letters expressing their opposition.

Max Hoseit, who owns the Normandy Inn and the Best Western Plus Carmel Bay View Inn, and who has been in the hotel business for 40 years, wrote, "We do not need another small bureaucracy, the staffing and expenses of which would consume a good part, if not the greater portion, of the expected funds."

He also said Carmel has never been attractive to conference groups because it lacks the facilities to accommodate them. "The best method of marketing is for the hotels to improve their products, therefore gaining repeat guests and referrals from satisfied customers," he added.

J. Herbert Johnson, owner of the Green Lantern, simply stated his opposition without providing any reasons for it.

Combined, those hotels represent 11.67 percent of the city's aggregate TOT. To stop the law, hotels representing at least 50 percent of the TOT would have had to file protests.

According to the ordinance, any hotel operator who does not pay the fee within the time required will pay a penalty amounting to 10 percent of the assessment amount, as well as interest, and could be sued by the city in civil court. Owners might also face criminal action, including being found guilty of an infraction that could carry fines of up to $500 per occurrence.

An advisory board will oversee the implementation of the ordinance, the resulting programs and activities, and the use of the money.

It will also prepare the annual report to be presented to the city council at the end of March every year.

"After approval of the annual report, the Carmel City

It's never too late for 'Last Romance'

IN TONY Award winning playwright Joe DiPietro's comedy, "The Last Romance" — which opens Friday, Aug. 10, at the Magic Circle Theatre in Carmel Valley — it's never too late to fall in love.

In the play, an 80-year-old widower, Ralph, tries to woo the elegant but distant Carol, but his pursuit is hampered by a jealous sister, an annoying Chihuahua, secrets from the past, and fears about the future.

Starring Aaron Arias, Virginia Bell, Teresa del Piero and Rollie Dick, the play is directed by Elsa Con. It continues through Sept. 9. Friday and Saturday performances start at 7:30 p.m., while Sunday matinees begin at 2 p.m. Tickets are $22, with discounts available for seniors and students on Sundays. The theater is located at 8 El Caminito. Call (831) 659-7500 or visit magiccircletheatre.net.

DISTRICT

Council shall conduct a public hearing to levy an assessment for the ensuing fiscal year," according to the ordinance, and if hotel operators representing 50 percent or more of the assessments file written protests, "there will be no assessed levy in the ensuing fiscal year."

After the council unanimously voted for the final adoption of the ordinance creating the HID, Mayor Jason Burnett congratulated Carrie Theis, president of the Carmel Innkeepers Association and a key proponent of the district, for the success.

"Congratulations, Carrie and the others who have worked so hard on this," he said. "We have an HID, and now the ball is in your court."

He said he is looking forward to seeing occupancy rates — and therefore hotel tax revenues — rise as a result.

■ Jazz, bluegrass and Angels' benefit

A trio of talented jazz musicians — vocalist Cathy Segal Garcia, flutist Kenny Stahl and pianist (and former Monterey Peninsula resident) Ross Garren — share the stage Friday, Aug. 10, at Plaza Linda restaurant in Carmel Valley.

The host of a popular weekly jazz jam in Encino, Garcia works as a producer, composer and vocal coach when she's not singing. "Her voice is deep and sultry and resonating," local music promoter Kiki Wow offered. "She's a heavy-weight in the jazz world."

Stahl, meanwhile, is a gifted local performer, recording artist and composer who once toured with pop star Stevie Wonder. "I don't believe I've ever heard a better flutist anywhere," Wow said.

Recently named Best Jazz Soloist by the National Flute Association, Stahl will travel to Las Vegas this week, where he'll perform — along with many of the world's greatest flutists — at the NFA's annual convention.

Playing Saturday, Aug. 11, at Plaza Linda is a bluegrass ensemble, the Fog Valley Drifters. And on Sunday, Aug. 12, Plaza Linda hosts a fundraising concert for Arms of Angels, a new nonprofit that provides free grief counseling services to local families. The lineup of musicians includes Wow, Troy O'Shann, Michael Chatfield, Guitar Bob, Eddie Gutierrez, Sonia Werk, Valley Soul and many others.

There's a $10 cover for all shows. Plaza Linda is located at 27 E. Carmel Valley Road. Call (831) 659-4229 or visit www.plazalinda.com.

■ The queen holds court

The matriarch of the local jazz scene, pioneering drummer and singer Dottie Dodgion joins Big Sur pianist Dick Whittington Saturday, Aug. 11, at Cypress Inn.

Today in jazz, women play just about every imaginable instrument. But when Dodgion broke into the genre in the early 1950s, women were — for the most part — relegated to singing or occasionally playing the piano.

Despite a patriarchal stranglehold on her chosen profession, Dodgion persevered, establishing herself as one of the first female professional jazz drummers. Throughout the 1950s and 1960s, she played in "funky dives" and "brightly lit casinos," sharing the stage with luminaries like Charles Mingus, Benny Goodman and Herbie Hancock.

"Dottie is easily the best interpreter of standards on the Peninsula," Whittington explained. "She's known internationally by jazz fans and she sang and played with many of the greats."

When she performs at Cypress Inn Saturday, Dodgion will present a tribute to one of her favorite singers, Billie Holiday. The set list for evening includes hits like "I Wished on the Moon," "All of Me," and "Dancing in the Dark."

The show starts at 7 p.m., there's no cover, and your well-behaved pet is always welcome. The Cypress Inn is located at Lincoln and Seventh in Carmel. Call (831) 624-3871 or visit www.cypress-inn.com.

■ The beat goes on in Big Sur

The Monterey Bay's premier reggae band, Jonah and the Whale Watchers, returns to Fernwood Resort Saturday, Aug. 11.

Led by singer and bassist Alex Shirley, the band features Big Sur's own Tracy Chesebrough and Tony Fusco on guitars, John Tallon on drums, Cary Lowney on percussion, and Bill Steacy on trumpet, keyboards and percussion. Together, they serve up a mix of originals and covers that pay tribute to a genre of music that took the world by storm when the late Bob Marley rocketed to fame four decades ago.

■ Classic rock at the Fuse

One of the Monterey Peninsula's most popular live acts, Cheeky Spanks plays classic rock Friday, Aug. 10, at the Carmel Mission Inn's Fuse Lounge.

Featuring Jill Childers on vocals, John Sherry on lead guitar, Jimmy Rossi on bass guitar and Kirk Edwards on drums, the band serves up a smart mix of Baby-Boomer favorites like the Doors' "Roadhouse Blues," the Eagles' "Hotel California," Van Halen's "Running with the Devil," Aretha Franklin's "Chain of Fools" and Janis Joplin's "Piece of My Heart." Childers and Co. also have a great affection for the Fab Four — they even play a reggae version of "Lucy in the Sky with Diamonds."

The Dino Vera Band, meanwhile, plays blues, soul and jazz Saturday, Aug. 11, at the Fuse Lounge.

Both shows start at 9 p.m., and there's no cover. The Fuse Lounge is located inside the Carmel Mission Inn at 3665 Rio Road. Call (831) 624-1841 or visit www.carmelmisioninn.com.

■ 'A poet among craftsman'

A Grammy nominee in 2005, English horn player Thomas Stacy performs Sunday, Aug. 12, at Hidden Valley Music Seminars in Carmel Valley.

Called "a poet among craftsman" by no less an authority than the late conductor Leonard Bernstein, Stacy retired last year after serving in the New York Philharmonic for 38 years. Arguably the world's most recorded English horn player, he was featured as a soloist more than 70 times during his distinguished career with the orchestra.

The concert — which is part of Hidden Valley's Masters' Festival Recital Series — starts at 8 p.m., and tickets are $20. Hidden Valley is located at Carmel Valley and Ford roads. For more information, call (831) 659-3115 or visit www.hiddenvalleymusic.org.

■ Free concert series

Three-time Grammy-nominated bassist Dennis Murphy will present a concert Friday, Aug. 10, at Carmel Plaza.

As a musician, Murphy has produced, arranged or played on more than 100 recordings. A former member of the smooth jazz band, Acoustic Alchemy, the talented instrumentalist is a co-founder of the Dennis Murphy School of Music in Monterey.

The show is the second installment in Carmel Plaza's Concerts in Carmel music series. Manzoni Cellars will pour wine at the event, which starts at 5 p.m.

The music is free, while food and drink packages are $15 per person. Carmel Plaza is located on the southwest corner of Ocean and Junipero. Call (831) 624-1385.

■ Rockin' blues and country

The Old Buds take the stage Saturday, Aug. 11, at the Running Iron in Carmel Valley. Featuring local music scene veterans Bob Viales on guitar, Scott Eychaner on bass, Sal Marullo on drums — with everybody pitching in on vocals — the band serves up a good-time mix of rockin' blues and country.

The show begins at 9:30 p.m., and there's no cover. The Running Iron is located at 24 E. Carmel Valley Road. Call (831) 659-4633.

KOFFMAN

They eventually left the Malibu area and moved in 1990 to Pacific Grove, which they liked to call "Central Eden."

"We have always had a love affair with the fog and the rain," he explained.

The Koffmans, who immediately felt welcomed by their P.G. neighbors, started the nonprofit Pacific Grove Eco-Corps, which aimed to plant Monterey pines in the city.

"We were interested in the 100-year life of these trees that were already 80 years old," he said.

Though Koffman didn't necessarily want to be a politician, her desire to become more involved with the community prompted her to run for mayor. She squared off against Jeanne Byrne in 1994 and won. But the morning after winning the election, Dan Koffman said they were taken aback.

"She looked at me said, 'Now what the hell will we do?' he recalled. "I said, 'Do what you have always done. You are a quick study.'"

Warm and personable, Koffman became a cheerleader who bridged political divisions because she genuinely liked people, her longtime close friend Robert Huitt told The Pine Cone.

"She wasn't politically ambitious; she just loved the opportunities that came with being mayor," Huitt said, "And she made good use of them to build the youth center, civic center and senior housing" complex near Lovers Point.

Though Dan and Sandy Koffman never thought they would leave Pacific Grove, the couple decided to move to Camano Island, a less developed area in Washington State.

"We chose this neck of the woods because it really reminded us of the Monterey Peninsula 30 years ago," he said.

A sudden illness

An avid hiker, Koffman was also a vegetarian who led a healthy lifestyle. News that she was sick was bewildering and abrupt. The sudden bouts of heartburn she was experiencing in the months before she got sick weren't much cause for concern.

In hindsight, though, Koffman said it may have been a symptom of her illness.

"On Feb. 26, Sandy was running, jumping and doing pilates and hiking," Koffman said. "And on the 27th of February, cancer was ready to kill her."

She was rushed to the emergency room, where doctors found that her digestive tract was completely blocked.

"We went from 60 to zero," he said.

Physicians performed 16 surgeries. She spent 30 days in the hospital, which was 60 miles away from their home. Dan Koffman drove there every day to be at her bedside.

"From day one, she was in excruciating pain," he said. "We learned how to manage pain."

Besides pharmaceuticals, they used homeopathic medicine and prayer to keep her pain to a minimum. "It took a whole lot of effort, and there was a lot of fine tuning," he said.

But at some point, the cancer had taken complete control of her body.

"She was unconscious for my birthday" in April, Dan said.

The two discussed what would be in her obituary. Koffman, who didn't like many photos of herself, chose a picture for her obit that was taken during the time she first ran for mayor.

Eventually, her fighting spirit and will to live couldn't fend off the inevitable. She passed away peacefully at their home at 2 a.m. with her husband by her side.

"She did a remarkable job until she could no longer speak," he said, adding that she is, "and will always be," in his presence.

"We have been separated before," he said. "She has gone ahead and we will be together again in the cosmic scheme of things one day."

'Balance'

Chamber of Commerce President Moe Ammar, who worked with Koffman for eight years while she was mayor, said the one word that comes to mind when he thinks of her is "balance."

"She was able to balance the needs of the residents, businesses and environment," Ammar said. "She cared about people, earth, pets and mostly P.G. She was very friendly, happy, honest and caring. She worked well with staff and other council members. She wanted positive change."

Pacific Grove City Hall, which flew flags at half-staff in Sandy Koffman's honor from Monday to Wednesday, issued a press release about her death, calling her a "people person" and an advocate for city employees.

"She knew every employee by their first name and always took the time to smile and thank them for their contributions," according to the release.

At Wednesday's city council meeting, an emotional Huitt said there would be a memorial service for Koffman Aug. 25 at 2 p.m. Details will be posted on the city's website.

PARK

some of its trails are in poor shape, while others are simply "unofficial" trails created by visitors. One of the project's goals is to fix the trails that are necessary and remove those that aren't.

The project also includes installing better signage, restoring habitat along six miles of trail, repairing and replacing wood and cable steps at two existing locations, improving scenic overlooks, and building better bridges so hikers can safely cross two waterways within the park, Sobranes Creek and Dowd Creek.

According to Tierney, part of the impetus for doing the project is to improve habitat for the Smith's blue butterfly. The tiny insect — which is designated an endangered species by the federal government — depends on coast buckwheat for its survival. And coast buckwheat thrives in Garrapata State Park, Tierney said.

If state parks gets approval to move forward with the project, the first phase is expected to begin in the spring. The improvements will be done by workers from the California Conservation Corps and state parks' trail crew.

expenses. The budget for this year's festival anticipates $36,045 in net profits.

At the council meeting, Mayor Jason Burnett apologized for making Burns wait from the meeting's start at 4:30 p.m. until nearly 9, when his request was finally heard. No one from the public commented on the proposed waiver, and the council unanimously adopted a resolution waiving the fees Burch recommended, citing the festival's draw, free events and scholarships.

The answer is simple

IF YOU'VE been following the campaign debate between President Barack Obama and Mitt Romney, you're aware that one of their most basic disagreements is over the value of stimulus spending versus tax cuts.

The president argues that the best way to get the nation out of its economic doldrums is to raise taxes so the government has more money to spend, while his challenger says the best thing is to cut taxes so the spending can be done by the people who earned the money in the first place.

If you think of these two positions in terms of getting the economy moving again, it might seem like they're both right. After all, when the government spends a dollar on a new highway, or even if it just gives it away in the form of food stamps or Medicaid, it puts that dollar in the hands of someone who turns around and spends it on something else, just like an upper-income person does when he uses one of his dollars to buy a fancy car or support a charity. So the impact on the economy of $100 billion in stimulus spending should be exactly equal to the impact of $100 billion of tax cuts, right?

Wrong. There is actually a big economic difference in the value of a dollar spent by someone who earned it instead of someone who didn't. And the difference isn't in what they did after they got the dollar — it's in what they did before they got it.

To understand this, it's helpful to start with a little mental exercise.

Imagine you have a 16-year-old son who needs some spending money for a night out with friends, and he asks you for $100. Which would be better: (a) to hand over the money as a gift, or (b) require him to earn it by doing something that's worth at least $100 to you?

Obviously, the answer is (b), but not for the reason you may be thinking. Yes, of course, requiring him to do a little work for his money would be good for his personal development. Some people might even say it's simply the right thing to do. But the real value in requiring him to earn his spending money is more practical: When many people in a community do the same thing — earn $$$ by doing useful things for other people — the aggregate effect is to make the entire community healthier, wealthier and, yes, wiser. In fact, for a society to be successful, it is absolutely essential for a large segment of the population to get out of bed in the morning thinking, "What can I do to earn some money today?" The opposite thought, "Who's going to give me something for nothing today?" is doom for any society if more than just a few people have it.

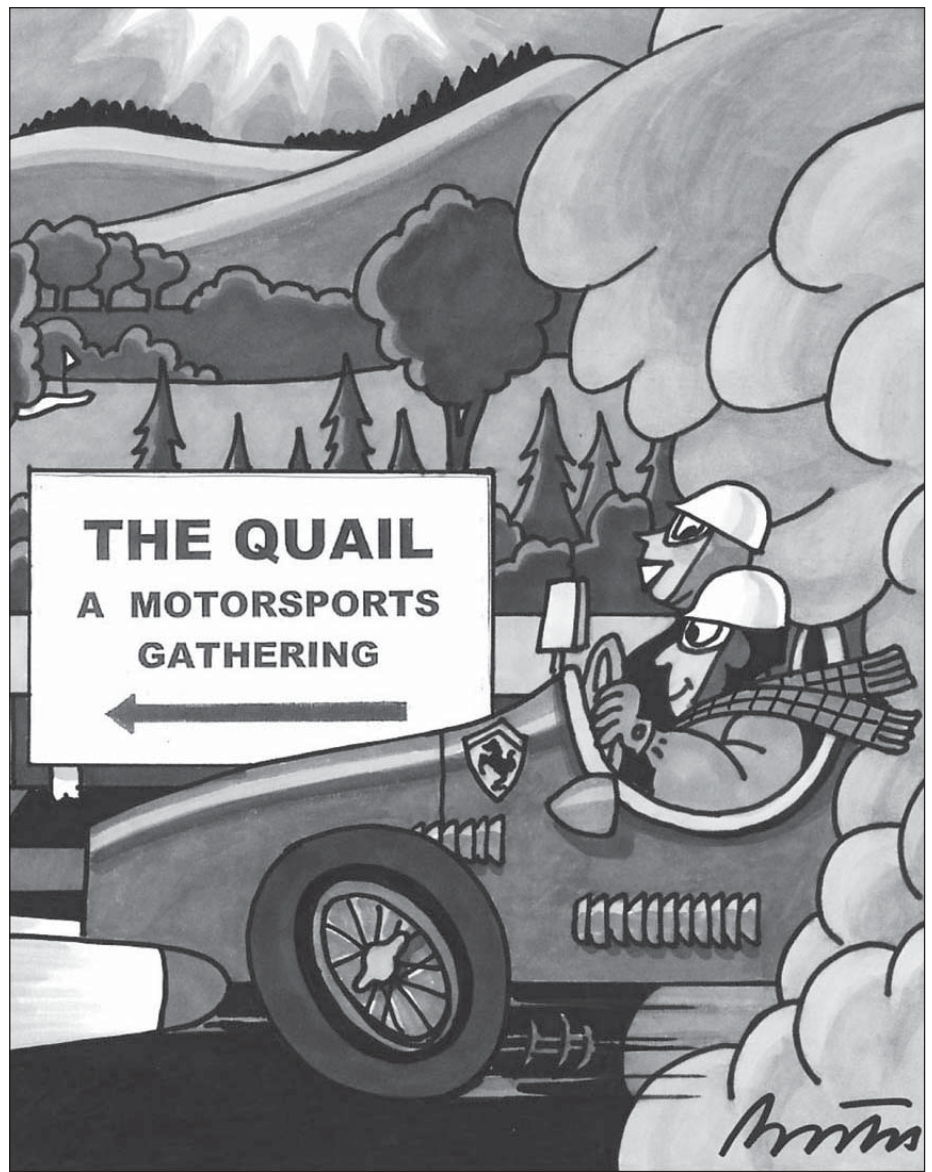

In other words, if people are to have money, it is essential that most of them earn it by doing useful work, because it is that effort, more than the spending that flows from it, that creates prosperity for everybody.

The president can argue all he wants that raising taxes on people with substantial incomes won't deter them from being productive, and that government largesse doesn't deter people from trying to support themselves on their own. But it is inescapably true that he is right only if the tax-and-spend programs he advocates are very limited.

Likewise, even the most conservative Republican sees the need for taxes and agrees that society should help take care of those who need it.

But such basic issues aren't what the presidential candidates are debating. The question they're concerned with is more immediate: How do we get the economy moving right now? And if that's what you want to do, the answer is obvious: Cut taxes.

Letters to the Editor

Illegals are exempt?

Dear Editor,

On Saturday, Aug. 4, we were driving north on Highway 1 near the Pacific Grove exit when, directly in front of us, a car swerved because a patio chair just fell off the truck ahead of it. We took the brunt of the impact and hit the chair.

As we and the driver of the truck pulled over to park, a lady came running out from the truck to tell us she did not speak English and did not have a driver's license or insurance, and asked if we could settle. The damage to our car was a small dent and scratches.

A couple of minutes later, the California Highway Patrol happened to stop to investigate our incident. Based on what happened, a person now can excuse a minor accident on our highways and settle right there and escape the fine for not properly tying down items on their vehicles, let alone having no driver's license, etc. What is more shocking is for the highway police to not fine nor ask them for a license or insurance.

The highway patrolman asked me if I have lived long here in Monterey, because he said accidents like this happen all the time. His comment to us was there are regulations established for illegals in this county. He also went on further to say that, thank goodness, it was a minor incident and no one was hurt.

So, as long as no one is rushed to the hospital, we (as taxpayers) are forced to follow the law by paying for a driver's license and insurance and for any ticket you are pulled over for, while illegals are excused, according to the officer.

When will you do something about it? "Wait till this happens to you," and then what will you do about it ... stay silent or vote your frustration?

Had there been a fatality, would we blame and sue the county for not protecting us from this silent invasion of illegals encouraged by corrupted politicians? What is the purpose of having a Department of Homeland Security if we do not protect our borders, enforce the law and insist on identification — and this includes the police upon stopping illegals!

As the sign on the highways reads: "Your tax dollars at work?"

Just walls and grass

Dear Editor,

Regarding Flanders Mansion, I want to say a few things about the way things are now.

I live on Hatton Road (where Flanders is located) in my own home that I bought with my family six years ago. In addition, I moved to Hatton Road when I was seven years old and just going in to the second grade at River School. My mother still lives in that same house, so basically I've been going there or living there for 44 years.

Flanders Mansion is our direct neighbor. It has almost always been empty since I've

It doesn't take curiosity to solve the universe's mysteries

AS WE know by now, Curiosity is the name of the latest great boondoggle perpetrated on the American people.

The Mars rover cost us several billion dollars, money that could have been spent ensuring that Wall Street tycoons don't lose their yachts.

Instead, we spent all that money on a science project built by a bunch of scientists who insist that climate change is the real deal. You know the type: heathens who spread the fiction that dinosaurs predate Adam and Eve.

They will use "evidence" collected from Curiosity to brainwash the American public into thinking that Mars is red.

What Curiosity has shown us so far are several wide-angle photographs that look as though they were taken by someone who took a wrong turn en route to Burning Man.

Unfortunately, what we've seen from Curiosity is redundant. Earthlings have already probed the nooks and crannies of Mars with rovers and probes.

We've already seen the photos. However, our favorite is the 360-degree color panoramic view of Mars, pieced together from 817 photographs taken from Opportunity, the rover that's been roving around Mars like WALL-E since 2004.

A quick scan of that panorama would lead the average Earthling to believe that Mars is a place where nothing ever happens. Nothing could be further from the truth.

On closer inspection, it unveiled a number of stunning revelations about our nearest planet and its cosmic significance.

I have completed my own exhaustive pixel-by-pixel analysis of the panoramic photo, and I am prepared to release these findings about Mars:

■ Remember those golf balls Alan Shepard hit into space from the moon in 1971? I do believe we found them, assuming they were Titleists.

■ Look closely as the camera approaches the northwest area, with Mount Sharp in the distance. See that item at the base of the hill? Yep, those are my car keys.

■ Forget Obama's Kenyan birthright. This Rep. Allen West thing promises to be considerably more bizarre, and a whole lot more believable. Savvy observers of American politics have always assumed Keyes is simply the weirdest politician to tarnish the halls of the U.S. Capitol. As it turns out, the remnants of Keyes' hatching can be seen about 20 seconds into the panorama, thus disproving the notion that Mars is capable of supporting intelligent life.

■ The shadow near the flat stretch in the panorama appears to be that guy who took the wrong turn en route to Burning Man. He is wearing a loincloth and driving a solar-powered mobility scooter. He is also very lost, but only in cosmic terms.

■ The feathers in the foreground of the panorama are those of Daffy Duck, who was fricasseed by Marvin the Martian's illudium Q-36 explosive space modulator in the seminal 1958 Looney Toons documentary "Hare-Way to the Stars."

■ The structure in the far distance has definitively been identified as the former headquarters for the Monterey Peninsula Water Management Agency. The historical archives discovered inside the building indicate that, having failed to manage water on Mars and leaving the planet barren, the agency returned to Earth to resume its good work in Monterey.

■ The only sign of water found on Mars appears to have once emanated from a broken California American Co. water main.

lived here. That seems to be the perpetual state of affairs. The Flanders Mansion is empty. Was it haunted? We liked to think so when we were kids.

Now, it is costing the city millions of dollars because the city can't unload it. I don't really care if it stays empty forever. It is still regal and mysterious as I walk my old dog, Chance, next to it. It is still a beautiful setting.

My late step-father, Hilton Bialek, and my mother were visiting a castle home in England that was so old there were just remnants of walls and spaces left on the ground. So their friend would point and say, "Over there was the kitchen." Mostly, there was just grass growing around remnants of old stone walls. At this rate, with the city and the Flanders Foundation, our Flanders Mansion will have a similar fate.

When being a lawyer means more than just giving legal advice

JEANNETTE WITTEN is an attorney. She once plied the mighty waters of government, biotech and high-tech security when she worked for Jackson Kelly in Pittsburgh and was in-house counsel to a firm in West Virginia. But for the past six years, she has been practicing transactional law in a much smaller arena at the Monterey firm Parravano Witten, and has already established a first-rate reputation, both for her lawyering and her significant role in a number of local nonprofits. Plus she has 2-year-old twins, a girl and a boy.

"It's business law, specifically small business law. A lot of licensing, trademarks, copyrights. Generally, just helping people start the business in the right entity. And then, once we get things off the ground, acting as a resource for them as an outside in-house legal counsel. Like a local restaurant. They don't need to have an attorney on retainer. We just help them promote their business and grow it."

She began over the practice from Ron Parravano several years ago. He has been involved in local business law for 30 years. Jeannette noted that, in all that time, he had never had to write a buy-sell agreement where the seller was underwater. But with the economic climate so sour, for five years now, most of the agreements that she is handling show a loss.

sometimes."

I asked her what she thought of the economy today. "It seemed to be on the upswing, because I wasn't seeing more transactions that were upside down, but then, the past couple of months, businesses aren't hiring and are struggling to make a profit."

Jeannette Witten

She is also seeing a lot of couples who own businesses putting more and more of their own money into them, trying to stay afloat. In a bad economy, that often has dire consequences, and Jeannette sometimes has to counsel her clients to let go of the pride they've invested in their business so they won't invest their life savings as well. She's seen many people forced into filing personal bankruptcies and losing everything, which is particularly sad when they're counting on their business to cover them in retirement.

But Jeannette is also able to apply her big-world experience to small-town businesses and provide alternatives that are not part of the local legal patois. Her understanding of inventory management, for example, enables her to shift direction for some clients who think they are headed for a collapse and, instead, wind up with a greater success than they had known.

It's very satisfying. "I just think you owe it to them to show them more options and to try to keep a positive outlook."

How did Jeannette get into this field? It was in western Pennsylvania, where she helped her grandmother in the various small farm businesses her grandparents ran. She saw a lot of cheating and theft, and it upset her. Plus she read, "To Kill a Mockingbird," which increased her hunger for justice.

But she grew up in a home without television and hasn't seen the movie, starring

Gregory Peck playing Atticus Finch, to this day. As for her children, "I don't let them watch television, except in an emergency ... for myself."

She added, "I love the fact that my daughter reads out loud." The 2-year-old doesn't know the words, proud mama says, but she turns the pages and makes sounds.

With her involvement in a number of Monterey Peninsula nonprofits, she was possibly spreading herself too thin. So, "in the past couple of years, I've homed in on activities where I see myself making the most difference in the community and changing people's lives." She spends much of her time supporting Voices for Children (formerly CASA) and Hands to Help Seniors.

With all that, she is not without further goals. To wit, she would like to climb Mt. Kilimanjaro some day. In the meantime, she and her husband and twins and two dogs live in Carmel.

Allan MacMillan Hudson 1919 -2012

Surrounded by family in his Carmel home, CDR Allan M. Hudson, USN (ret) passed from this life late in the evening of July 28 at the age of 93. Allan was born in Monterey, California on April 7, 1919, son of Rear Admiral Lester Jay and Margaret Hudson and grandson of engineer and entrepreneur A. M. Allan of Point Lobos and painter Charles Bradford Hudson. Allan was the older brother to Tom, David, and John.

As a boy, Allan's playground was A.M. Allan's ranch, which included what is now Point Lobos State Preserve. It was at Point Lobos and the San Jose Creek Canyon where he spent his days exploring, riding horses, hunting, and fishing. He attended the Bay School at Monterey Beach, and with his mother's help, pursued his interest in art by taking painting classes from a local artist. Many of Allan's fondest childhood memories were forged on this unique and beautiful piece of California Coast.

Allan spent his high school years in San Pedro, California and then attended U.C. Berkeley from 1937 to 1939. He entered the U.S. Naval Academy in Annapolis in June 1939 as a member of the Class of 1943. It was there he met Mary Rea Benson, whose father was stationed at the Academy. Allan's class finished a year early due to the war, and Mary and Allan were married a week later in Washington, DC on June 24, 1942. Allan saw combat in the South Pacific aboard USS New Orleans (CA-32), including the Battles of the Eastern Solomons and Tassafaronga. Following the war, Allan served at sea aboard USS Cone (DD-866) and USS Fred T. Berry (DD-858). Allan was also stationed as an Engineering Duty Officer at Mare Island Naval Shipyard in California and at the Navy Boiler and Turbine Laboratory in Philadelphia.

Following his active naval service, Allan and his family returned to the Monterey Peninsula where he worked as an engineer for Firestone Tire, at Dalmo Victor Laboratories, and then was a founding partner of Del Monte Technical Associates in 1960. In 1966, Allan and Mary moved the family from Carmel to Mountain View, where Allan took an engineering position with Stanford Research Institute (SRI) in Palo Alto. Allan left SRI to start his own company, Hudson Controls, in Mountain View, where he designed and built numerous specialized and state-of-the-art control systems for a variety of industrial applications. He intentionally kept Hudson Controls a one-man operation, often employing his children to help fill large orders.

For 58 years, Allan and Mary enjoyed a loving marriage complete with all the joys and challenges of raising 8 children. After Mary's stroke in 1988, they returned to Carmel where Allan cared for Mary until her death in 2000. In 2002, Allan met Joanne McFann of Carmel and together they shared over 10 years of love, companionship, and travel. In his later years, Joanne brought Allan much comfort and strength.

Allan was an artist at heart, which made him a brilliantly creative engineer with a passion to learn how and why things worked, but was especially gifted at finding out why things did not work. There was nothing Allan could not build, fix or improve. Among other interests, Allan made jewelry, learned stained glass art, built model railroads, learned to cook, played the piano, and loved and cared for his many animal companions. Later in his life, the State of California received the gift of Allan's time and experience when he returned to Point Lobos State Preserve as a docent and was able to share his lifelong stories of this beautiful place with visitors of all ages. Allan leaves a legacy of valuing creativity, appreciation of family history, and commitment to family and country.

Allan is predeceased by his wife Mary, son Alex, and brothers, Tom and David. Allan is survived by his brother John (Monica) of Point Lobos; his children: Michael (Barbara Lyons) of Mountain View; Peggy Hudson of San Diego; Rhaea (Elizabeth) Hudson Maurel of Boston, MA; daughter-in-law Cari Collins Hudson of Preston, Idaho; Sarah Adams (Lew) of Carmel; Martha Sakakura (Randy) of Linden; Peter (Anna Shimko) of Sausalito; and Patrick (Julie Nelson) of Woodbine, MD; his grandchildren: Jon, Jeff, Kate, Ben, Charles, Chris, Alisa, Jenny, Brandon, Brian, Mac, and Turner; many nieces and nephews, and Joanne McFann, her four sons, Michael, David, Gregory and John and their families.

In lieu of flowers, the family requests that donations be sent in Allan's name to the Point Lobos Foundation Route 1, Box 62, Carmel, CA, 93923, or to the Visiting Nurse Association, P.O. Box 2480, Monterey, CA, 93942.

"CARMEL LEGENDS"

Tucked away in Carmel Woods is a most unique home which was built 50 years ago by an equally unique lady. Drive to the corner of Portola and San Lucas Streets and you will find an imposing brick structure of European style which was constructed for COUNTESS LILLIAN DANDINI to be her Carmel weekender. If the house seems grand for a weekend hideaway, one must understand that she called the 100 plus room Pullman Mansion in Hillsborough home on a permanent basis. A patron of the arts, she regularly enjoyed Carmel's Bach Festival and signaled her friends and neighbors that she was "in residence" by throwing a Spanish blanket over the second floor porch rail. The Countess died in the late 60's and her home sold through her estate. We had the good fortune to handle that sale, consummated in the study of the Hillsborough mansion, and were invited to help with the disposal of another parcel owned by the Countess...that being the "Pussy Cat Theatre" in Oakland. We didn't have much success on that one!

POLICE LOG

passenger were found to be in possession of marijuana. Subjects were cited and released at scene.

Pacific Grove: A 43-year-old male was arrested on Forest Avenue for suspended driver's license, no interlock device and providing false information. The subject is on conditional probation for a prior DUI. Booked at PGPD and released on a citation.

Pacific Grove: Woman on Grand Avenue is receiving unwanted phone calls and text messages from a man. Information only at this time.

Carmel Valley: Resident reported someone entered her yard and damaged a piece of lawn furniture. Occurred between 1100 hours and 1700 hours on July 19. No suspects.

Carmel area: Woman reported her vehicle was broken into via window smash on July 22 between 1100 hours and 1230 hours. Taken were a purse and contents and CDs. No suspects.

Carmel area: Woman reported losing her purse in the parking lot of the business.

Carmel area: Deputy was dispatched to CHOMP on a report of a female with an injury to her nose. Upon deputy's arrival, the female said she had "an accident" at her house and refused to talk any further about her injury.

Carmel Valley: Carmel Valley Road resident reported having an argument with her son that became physical.

WEDNESDAY, JULY 25

Carmel-by-the-Sea: Found wallet in the commercial district on Dolores Street.

Pacific Grove: Man called to report that he may be having water stolen from his vacation home on Ocean View Boulevard. He stated that his water bill has been fluctuating wildly from $80 per month to $5,000 per month. He has had a plumber and Cal Am out to check for leaks with negative results. Officer advised him to contact Cal Am about a possible malfunction in the meter due to prior reports occurring in Pacific Grove.

Carmel-by-the-Sea: A citizen reported a civil problem with another person over a parking space on Sixth Avenue. Both parties contacted and counseled; situation resolved.

Carmel-by-the-Sea: Hit-and-run on San Carlos Street.

Pacific Grove: Subject came in to report that his Citicard MasterCard information had somehow been compromised and an attempt to purchase $1,800 in merchandise from Bloomingdale's in San Francisco had been thwarted. The victim reported he had traveled from Texas and through Colorado before arriving in California. He did not know where or how his credit card information had been taken. He did not sustain any loss and only wished to advise police.

Pacific Grove: Person reported seeing a driver collide with multiple vehicles. Driver contacted passed out in his vehicle on Crocker Avenue. He admitted to taking prescription medication and feeling tired. The 52-year-old male was arrested, booked and released on citation.

Carmel area: Person reported seeing a suspicious package/case that was left outside a store on Carmel Rancho Boulevard. The item was an empty suitcase and was retrieved for safekeeping.

Carmel area: Person reported a civil problem with a construction site on 17th Avenue.

Big Sur: Woman reported her vehicle was broken into via window smash while it was parked on Highway 1. Taken were a purse and contents.

Carmel Valley: A neighbor reported an open door at a vacant residence on Sky Ranch Road. The door appeared to have been kicked in.

THURSDAY, JULY 26

Carmel-by-the-Sea: Crespi Lane resident reported someone might have been trying to gain entry into her home while she was away. Resident found a large outdoor box used to store patio furniture under her bathroom window, but the window was not tampered with. This is not the usual place for the box. Resident only wanted the incident documented and requested close patrols in the future.

Carmel-by-the-Sea: Person reported losing a wallet in the commercial district.

Carmel-by-the-Sea: Man called to report losing his wallet while visiting a friend's house on 11th Avenue in the City of Carmel. He wished to make a report in the case the wallet is found and turned over to the police department.

Chateaux Carmel Valley...

...on 15 private acres

Chateaux Carmel Valley is a beautiful Estate reminiscent of a French Villa on 15 private acres. There are incredible 360 degree views - including a distant ocean view and the entire Carmel Valley. You approach the Chateaux thru a private gate up a paved, majestic 100+ cypress tree lined drive. The Chateaux is over 8,300 sq. ft. with 6 bedrooms, 5 baths, 2 half baths and a wonderful kitchen. There is a spacious master suite with a unique master bath. Take a swim in the indoor "endless pool" and enjoy the solarium and sauna while viewing gorgeous valley and mountain views. The living room has a magnificent fireplace, as does the great room. There are imported marble floors thru out, a formal dining room, breakfast room, a large exquisite library with fireplace and stunning ocean/valley views. Enter the Rotunda room with skylights and a fountain that can host a formal dinner. The main residence is all on one level with the stunning master suite quarters upstairs. The outdoor pool area has an incredible stone fireplace, outdoor kitchen, cabaña/meeting event studio and huge patio area with comfortable outdoor furniture. $3,395,000

Pacific Grove: Grand Avenue resident said he received a text message from a subject concerning a boat he was selling on Craigslist. Resident said the subject told him in a text that he is deaf and can only converse through text messaging. Resident said the subject asked for his name and address. He said the number the subject was texting from was out of Texas. He is suspicious and believes it is a scam. Told the resident to text the subject telling him he no longer wants to sell the boat. Advised him to contact police pending any further issues or criminal acts by the subject.

Pacific Grove: Person on Forest Avenue reported a man attempted to use a fake $100 bill to pay for gardening supplies. The business person held the counterfeit money and called police. Man left store before police arrived. Video footage of incident was provided. No clear view of suspect's face. Washed $5 made to look like $100. Had USAFIVE on security strip and Lincoln watermark. No further info.

Pacific Grove: Received a letter from a concerned citizen regarding two spots of graffiti located inside the park. Information passed along to public works.

Pacific Grove: Subject contacted officers and informed them that he found a pellet gun on the roadway on Ocean View. Subject turned pellet gun over to officers. Pellet gun booked into evidence for safekeeping.

Pacific Grove: Stolen motorcycle from Eardley. No suspect information.

SUNDAY, JULY 29

Carmel-by-the-Sea: Report of a wooden sign holder on San Carlos Street that collapsed. It appeared that the sign holder fell due to age and dry rot of the wooden posts. A responsible was notified and responded to clear the area.

Carmel-by-the-Sea: Carmel P.D., Monterey Fire and CRFA responded to a medical emergency in the residential area on Junipero.

Carmel-by-the-Sea: Female visiting student bitten by a dog off leash in the business area on Ocean Avenue.

Pacific Grove: Subject contacted on a traffic enforcement stop on Lighthouse Avenue and found to be under the influence. Driver, a 33-year-old female, was arrested and booked at PGPD.

Pacific Grove: Benito Avenue resident reported neighbor boys shot her sliding glass door with a pellet gun, causing the window to shatter. Parties contacted.

Pacific Grove: Weapons turned in for destruction.

Pacific Grove: Woman on 17 Mile Drive claimed her ex-husband followed her and her children around town. Victim said her sister was the witness to this incident.

Pacific Grove: Vehicle's passenger window was smashed while it was parked on 10th Street, and a GPS device was stolen. No suspects.

Pacific Grove: Officers dispatched to a suspicious person on Lighthouse Avenue. Found two juveniles with a six-pack of beer in a backpack. Juveniles, both 17, were cited and turned over to their parents.

MONDAY, JULY 30

Carmel-by-the-Sea: A concerned citizen reported concern over the trimming of a large pine tree on Junipero Street and whether or not the proper permits had been obtained.

Carmel-by-the-Sea: Traffic collision on Eighth Avenue. Property damage only.

Carmel-by-the-Sea: A citizen found a One Touch medical kit on the beach.

Carmel-by-the-Sea: Traffic collision on San Carlos Street. Property damage only.

Carmel-by-the-Sea: Grand theft on Mountain View.

Pacific Grove: Monarch Lane resident reported his upstairs neighbor has a device in her apartment that allows her to see and hear everything he does. Resident thought that the neighbor was calling and harassing his parents. Officer attempted to contact the upstairs neighbor, but she was not home. Officer spoke to another neighbor who advised she had not noticed anything suspicious about either the resident or the neighbor. Resident later called MCSO and reported his neighbor was en route to his parent's house in MCSO jurisdiction to kill his parents. MCSO responded but later learned the address given was incorrect. Officer conducted a welfare check at another address listed for the resident's parents. The parents no longer lived here. Officer requested a third welfare check at a listed address for the parents.

Pacific Grove: Woman reported window smash of a vehicle parked alongside the roadway on Sunset Drive. The thief took her purse and all its contents. Second similar window smash was reported a short time later.

Pacific Grove: An alleged battery on David Avenue was determined to be unfounded.

Pacific Grove: Dispatched to a non-injury accident on Patterson that involved a driver and his own vehicles. Upon arrival, officer spoke with the driver. He stated that he parked his work vehicle, when all of a sudden the brakes when out. He prevented the vehicle from rolling back by stopping it with his other vehicle. There was no other property damage other than the two vehicles that are owned by him.

Pacific Grove: Dispatched to a past-tense vehicle burglary. Upon arrival, spoke with the victim. He advised his window was broken, and there were items missing. Unknown who could have burglarized the vehicle. There were no witnesses.

Carmel area: Woman reported she found the side window to her vehicle smashed with a rock while in the area of Point Lobos, and 11 items in value of over $2,600 were stolen from the vehicle. No suspects.

CONCOURS WEEK

Monterey Peninsula's car week (plus) offers something for everyone

By MARY SCHLEY

IF YOU'VE been glued to your couch for the last two weeks catching every possible moment of Olympic excitement, it's time to stretch your limbs a bit by getting outdoors, and the Monterey Peninsula's Concours Week provides the perfect opportunity, with its 10 days of parades, rallies, parties, auctions, exhibitions, races, competitions, fundraisers and everything else related to cars. A few of the events are indoors, but mostly they're set against the backdrop of our stunning local scenery. What could be better?

Decades ago, the car craziness was confined to a weekend, but now the fun extends more than a week and runs the gamut. Festivities begin Aug. 11-12, with the formerly off-limits Pre-Reunion races at Mazda Raceway Laguna Seca, and conclude Aug. 19 with the famed Pebble Beach Concours d'Elegance, the accompanying Gooding & Co. auction and an automotive art show. Sandwiched in between are celebrations of vehicular genius; eclectic sales of old cars, new cars, rare cars, motorcycles, memorabilia and jewelry; rallies and tours all over the Peninsula; a decadent day of wining and dining among notable racing and collector cars — and even a parade of the worst of the worst.

And whether you don't plan to miss a thing or just want to sample a few of your favorites, our guide, presented below, is your essential companion.

■ Pre-Reunion vintage races

Mazda Raceway Laguna Seca, Monterey-Salinas Highway
Saturday and Sunday Aug. 11-12, 8 a.m. to 6 p.m. each day

One of the best kept secrets when it comes to vintage-car action on the Monterey Peninsula, fans can get a thorough warmup at the Pre-Reunion weekend at Mazda Raceway Laguna Seca. On both days, racers prepping for the major Rolex Monterey Motorsports Reunion, as well as those who love racing their historic cars but won't be at the main event, take to the track in a low-key version of the race weekend. While crowds pack the track during the Reunion, Pre-Reunion days offer up-close and personal looks at the cars, as well as chats with the owners and drivers. A must for any vintage racing fan. Each day begins at 8 a.m. with practice sessions for each group, followed by racing in the afternoon, Whether it's the stunning Pebble Beach fairways, the tarmac of Monterey Airport or the green grass of Carmel Valley, it hosts an homage to all things mechanical during Concours Week. Take your pick of the Concours (top), McCall's Motorworks at the jet center (middle) or The Quail (bottom), and you can't go wrong.

■ Carmel-by-the-Sea Concours on the Avenue

Ocean Avenue and side streets, Carmel-by-the-Sea

Tuesday, Aug. 14, 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Under the guidance of consummate car couple Doug and Genie

Freedman, the Concours on the Avenue showcases an eclectic and diverse collection of 175 cars, motorcycles, trucks and other mechanized contraptions built between 1940 and 1973 — as well as Porsches and Ferraris through 1989. The showpieces line Ocean Avenue and side streets in a judged concours, with awards bestowed on a stage on

Actor's Pebble Beach challenge: Getting into the character of the car

■ Actor Edward Herrmann returns as Master of Ceremonies

By LISA CRAWFORD WATSON

THE FIRST time Edward Herrmann stepped up to the podium to serve as Master of Ceremonies for the Pebble Beach Concours d'Elegance, his route to the 18th Fairway had been nearly as daunting as some of the journeys made by automobiles he was preparing to introduce.

The Tony and Emmy award-winning actor with the unforgettable deep voice is as renowned among audiences for his television role in "Gilmore Girls" as for his big-screen performances in films such as "The Paper Chase," "The Great Gatsby" and "Eleanor and Franklin." But he is also a classic car collector, and after making quite an impression at the 1997 Concours with his 1936 Packard 120, he was invited to emcee the event. Yet he had a conflict. Herrmann also had been nominated for an Emmy for his role in "The Practice," and the ceremony was scheduled for the night before the big Pebble Beach automotive event.

So Concours staff arranged for Herrmann to fly Los Angeles, where he did, indeed, win the Emmy, intending him to fly back to Monterey just in time for the automotive beauty pageant. But fog forced his plane to reroute to San Francisco, which meant Herrmann didn't make it to bed until 4 a.m. Just a few hours later, he walked out onto the field to greet some 50,000 spectators, most of whom, he imagined, were luxury automobile experts. Nevertheless, Herrmann pulled off what many would call another award-winning performance and has been invited back ever since.

By all reports, his sharp wit, spot-on delivery and utter passion for autos earned Herrmann his repeat performances. Besides, he's a heckuva nice guy who knows how to speak to an audience.

"A little knowledge can be a dangerous thing," says Herrmann. "There's always someone who knows more. Like a gun slinger, someone's always faster. If I'm doing a Shakespearean play, some of the audience has read the play and has seen 16 productions. To others, it's all new. You have to keep reasonably humble about it, knowing the information is endless. The minutia you can find about cars is bewildering, but also a lot of fun."

Known for his dozens of TV and film roles, including as Richard Gilmore on "The Gilmore Girls" (right, with co-star Kelly Bishop), Edward Herrmann is also the emcee of the Pebble Beach Concours d'Elegance, where his golden-voiced charisma and automobile expertise are on full display. He also gets to hobnob with fellow Hollywood celebrities, such as Jay Leno (below, back to camera) and Arnold Schwarzenegger.

On Aug. 19, Herrmann will return to Pebble Beach for 62nd Pebble Beach Concours, which will also be his 15th year as Master of Ceremonies.

"I am always nervous," Herrmann says. "If not, I know it's going to be a catastrophe. When my stomach sinks, and I get that old stage fright, I know things are going to be OK. I'm really looking forward to seeing the cars drive onto the field, and I know people are excited about the cars of the Maharajas."

Herrmann hardly remembers the moment he became interested in autos. Yet he was raised in Detroit, where his father was one of the few engineers who didn't work for the "Big Three" automotive companies. But everyone else's dad did, so he grew up surrounded by cars.

"I was crazy about Austin Heals," says Herrmann. "I've liked English cars from the beginning. But it didn't occur to me to collect cars until I had a little cash. My first was an Austin, and then I started buying and restoring Packards. Now I have a 1934 Alvis Speed 20, which is scarce, not completely rare, and a very pretty car. My wife, Star, and I are restoring it, more for driving than showing."

The Alvis was in pieces when Herrmann showed it to Don Breslauer, the late Paul Newman's pit man, who doesn't usually restore cars. But he thought it was too cool to pass up. Herrmann finds him a brilliant mechanic and is having fun working with him to make the car road worthy.

He currently drives a "beat up Subaru" or an Audi A81, which he finds big and comfortable and fairly unobtrusive. But his goal is to get behind the wheel of the Alvis by late August.

"Cars are characters," says Herrmann, "which I've learned after getting past my initial appreciation and enthusiasm for machinery and color and line and design. I love stuff that works, gears that go around."

When Herrmann climbs into his Alvis, he swears he can hear Glen Miller or Vaughn Williams singing. He imagines himself in a polka dot ascot, with a mustache and a pipe, at the end of the war, with the enemy defeated and the glorious roaring noises of victory all around.

To the Highest Bidder – Auctions offer access and excitement

By LISA CRAWFORD WATSON

HER DRIVING maps, silk gloves and cigarettes were still in the car. Once owned by Prussian Baroness Gisela von Krieger, the 1936 Mercedes-Benz 540K Special Roadster is as sleek and sophisticated as she was. Her blonde beauty against the elegant black vehicle, with its long, sculptural lines and family crest hand painted on the doors, created art in motion.

The Baroness passed away in 1989, leaving behind her cherished automobile. After having been sequestered in a Greenwich garage for nearly 40 years, the car was completely restored by Chris Charlton of Classic Car Services in Oxford, Maine, and went on to win Best of Class honors at the 2004 Pebble Beach Concours d'Elegance. For the first time, the car is being presented at auction by Gooding & Company during the 62nd annual Concours.

“Since 1990, we have been setting the standard in Pebble Beach with most extraordinary selection of the most beautiful cars ever presented in an ensemble of one-off, coach-built masterpieces, modern exotics, and storied race cars,” says Gooding & Company’s Katie Hellwig. “The von Krieger Special Roadster one of the most important Mercedes Benzes in existence. In incredible condition and at very high value, it has everything it takes to challenge the world record for the highest price paid for a car at a North American auction. It’s that special.”

Throughout Classic Car Week, several significant auctions will give automobile aficionados a chance not only to see some of the most exceptional blue chip or top tier cars in history but also to own them.

Gooding & Company also will auction the Sherman M. Wolf Ferrari collection. A devoted Ferrari collector beloved among the classic car community, Wolf passed away earlier this year, leaving behind his meticulously maintained 1960 Ferrari 250 GT LWB Alloy California Spider Competizione, a 1953 Ferrari 340 MM Competition Spider by Vignale, a 1957 Ferrari 500 TRC by Scaglietti, and a 1985 Ferrari 288 GTO, also by Scaglietti.

This year, through Gooding & Company, Jay

Motor out Carmel Valley Road for a change of scenery and (olive) oil

By ELAINE HESSER

GOING FOR a drive anywhere near Carmel-by-the-Sea means choosing from a tempting array of destinations. Pebble Beach's 17-Mile Drive combines dramatic natural scenery with interesting architecture and luxurious hotels and restaurants. Go south just a few miles, and you find the trails of beautiful Point Lobos and the stunning views from the Carmel Highlands. Visiting the Victorian homes of Pacific Grove or picnicking at Lovers Point are other fine options. When the summer sun lingers coyly behind the coastal marine layer, though, you can chase it into Carmel Valley, along with some organic food, great wine and local olive oils.

Just a bit more than three miles from Highway 1, Earthbound Farm's Farm Stand is more than just a place to buy organic produce. There are gardens open to the public, picnic tables and a kitchen that cranks out delicious soups, salads and panini. The grilled cheese on the kid's menu is a gooey treat, and the sweet potato soup is made just a little more exotic with a touch of curry. This is a great place to pick up a picnic lunch before heading farther inland to do some wine-tasting.

Carmel Valley has a longstanding reputation as a great wine destination, and the number of tasting rooms is burgeoning. Old favorites such as Talbott, Joullian and Bernardus are still going strong, but they've been joined by newcomers like Chock Rock, Dan Karlsen's tasting room at 1 Del Fino Place (next to Toast). Karlsen, who has been Talbott's winemaker since 2008, opened the room in 2011 with wife Kathleen to showcase wines from his own vineyards and those of other Monterey County growers.

PHOTOS/ELAINE HESSER

They can look kinda scraggly, but olive groves, such as this one at Fattoria Muia in Carmel Valley (right), have been honored since biblical times. A single branch can hold dozens of young olives (above).

As Carmel Valley Road exits the Village southeastward, there are six tasting rooms in a space that has been dubbed Winery Row: Chesebro, Parsonage, Silvestri, Cima Collina, Dawn's Dream and Holman Ranch. Each room has its own distinct "personality," and the variety of wines in such a small space makes it an appealing oenophile pit stop. At Holman Ranch, the Rosé of Pinot Noir is a perfect addition to a sunny day, and they offer samples of their olive oil, as well. The olives for the oil are grown on the nearby ranch in an orchard of 98 trees.

According to Nick Elliott, guest services manager, they grow six different varieties, all European. "There are a lot of Italian trees, but we also have Spanish and French," he notes. The varieties are blended together and the resulting oil has been certified extra virgin by the California Olive Oil Council. The process of harvesting the olives in the fall is laborious. The trees are more than 20 feet tall, and it takes about 10 workers two days of climbing ladders and clipping fruit.

"It has to be fast," Elliott notes, because "the olives will start to turn very fast once off the tree — especially if it's a warm day. They have to be pressed within a few hours."

There are several other Carmel Valley olive oil producers, including Charlotte Muia, who runs Fattoria Muia from her home on Carmel Valley Road. "Fattoria" is Italian for "factory," explains Muia, saying that it denotes a farm between one and five acres in size.

"If you see it on a sign in Tuscany and there's an arrow, go down the road and they'll have their

King of French car collectors, Mullin joyfully shares his passion

By MARY SCHLEY

FANS OF vintage French cars — often recognizable for their graceful, curving designs — know Peter Mullin is chief among them. Mullin, who lives in Los Angeles and owns an automotive museum in Oxnard, has long been a fixture at the Pebble Beach Concours d'Elegance (his 1934 Voisin C-25 Aerodyne won Best of Show last year), the Rolex Monterey Motorsports Reunion historic races at Laguna Seca and the Quail Motorsports Gathering in Carmel Valley, with a couple of auctions thrown in.

While he collects several different French marques, and the manufacturer that first captured his fancy was Delahaye, Mullin is perhaps best known for his Bugattis. This year, he'll be racing at Mazda Raceway Laguna Seca — as will his son and son-in-law — Saturday, Aug. 18, and showing at the Quail in Carmel Valley Friday, Aug. 17. He will also have several cars on the 18th Fairway at the Pebble Beach Golf Links Sunday, Aug. 19.

"I first became interested in Bugatti because I became interested in French cars about 30 years ago," said Mullin, whose fascination with cars started much earlier, when he was just 8 or 9 years old, and his dad was a chemical engineer for Mobil Oil. The elegance of the Delahaye made an immediate impression.

"I thought it was the most beautiful thing I'd ever seen — not just in appearance, but in performance and engineering," he said. Then he learned of Bugatti.

"Before that," he admitted, "I would have thought Bugatti was Italian, because it sounds like it."

Of all the French cars, the Bugattis of the 1930s stand out the most, for their spectacular design and engineering, as well as their setting records in racing.

"That's when they reached their apex of excellence in performance, engineering, speed and design," he said. "I've gravitated toward that era, because I think that's when they set the standard for everyone else."

The majority of his collection of 30 Bugattis are from that period.

"They were rolling sculptures," he said. "That recognition that they were at the top of the curve really got me interested. And the more interested,

Leno will offer his 2012 Fiat 500 Prima Edizione, to benefit Fisher House Foundation, a nonprofit organization that provides services and support to the families of wounded American soldiers. Also in support of charity, George Clooney will auction his 2008 Tesla Signature 100 Roadster to benefit the Satellite Sentinel Project he cofounded to monitor the borders of Sudan.

“The Pebble Beach Auctions are now viewed as leading indicators for the worldwide collector car and luxury car markets,” says Concours Chairman Sandra Button. “In recent years, the success of these auctions has been due in large part to the high standards of Gooding & Company.”

Meanwhile, at the Portola Hotel & Spa in Monterey, RM Auctions Sports & Classics of Monterey will host its annual auction of legendary and luxury motor cars. Last year, the auction house generated a reported $80 million in sales, a figure they expect to eclipse this year.

“The RM U.S. Sale is a celebration of collector cars, which truly showcases the global nature of the interest, last year having attracted in-person and remote bidders from more than 20 countries around the world,” says RM Representative Amy Christie. “The Pebble Beach weekend is certainly the highlight of the year when it comes to global collectors. The Who's Who of the collector car world descends on the Monterey Peninsula, while those who can't make it can stream live on our website. The role of technology in the auction business has been tremendous and has propelled the collector car business to new markets."

This year, RM will auction more than 120 blue chip automobiles, among them more than 25 lots with estimates at upwards of $1 million. In addition, they will present two Ford GT40s, one of which was the camera car in the iconic motor sports film "Les Mans," with Steve McQueen.

Adjacent to but independent of The Quail, A Motorsports Gathering, Bonhams & Butterfields will host its 15th annual auction at Quail Lodge Golf Club. The privately owned British auction house is the third-largest house in the world behind Christie's and Sotheby's. Bonhams began business in London in the early 1700s before merging with Butterfields, which had been operating out of San Francisco for hundreds of years.

"Among our offerings this year are two rare cars that represent the breadth of our interests," says Bonhams & Butterfields representative Jared Zaugg. "The first is a multi-million-dollar road rocket, and the second is a historical gem. One is a state-of-the-art McLaren that looks like a space ship and is everything about technology. The other, an 1885 Buffum, is the oldest four-cylinder car in the world, which looks like a horse-drawn carriage. It is fascinating to show such a historical car in stark contrast to the McLaren racing car."

Among the splendid offerings at various auctions this week are Jay Leno's Fiat 500 Prima Edizione from Gooding & Company (left), an 1885 Buffum from Bonhams & Butterfields (below) and a 1972 Porsche L&M 917/10 Spyder from Mecum (bottom).

The excitement at the various Concours Week auctions, including Russo and Steele's sports and muscle car event (above), can build to a fever pitch.

Meanwhile, hosted at a new venue on the waterfront adjacent Fisherman's Wharf in Monterey, the 12th annual Russo and Steele "lifestyle automotive auction" specializes in European sports cars, American muscle cars, hot rods and custom cars. The interactive event creates a party atmosphere with vendors selling jewelry, clothing and art, and live music.

"We are known for adrenaline-pumping excitement on the block," says Russo and Steele's Stephanie Quinn. "We use an auction-in-the-round auction block, and we encourage our bidders to climb up and look under car, touch the car, open the door. If they are there to buy a car, we want them to experience it."

Mecum Auctions, out of Wisconsin, hosts a daytime auction of collector and classic cars. Held at the Hyatt Regency Resort & Spa on the Del Monte Golf Course in Monterey, the 4th annual auction will present a wide variety of collector cars, headlined by 1972 Porsche 917 Spider that won the Can-Am Championship in 1972.

And Automobilia Monterey, the "everything auto but the automobile" silent auction of automobile art and artifacts, benefits the Monterey Rape Crisis Center. The eclectic auction is staged in the lobby of the annual automobilia sale at Embassy Suites in Seaside.

In addition to the automobile auctions taking place on the Peninsula this week is the MidAmerica Motorcycle MarketPlace adjacent the RetroAuto Pavilion at the Concours d'Elegance.

"Motorcycles are still a relatively new addition to the Pebble Beach and Monterey scene," says MidAmerica Motorcycle Operations Director Ron Christenson. "But they are now a judged class at the Concours. Many collectors who have million-dollar cars also have motorcycles slipped in between those cars in their garages. We began four years ago with just a few motorcycles to offer to the public and are now bringing more than 100, from the top restorers in the world. Car prices have grown 10 times in price over the years; we believe motorcycles will follow."

CONCOURS WEEK

Concours Week is full of unforgettable events, but the most exciting of all is the Pebble Beach Concours d'Elegance, which capped by the parade of entrants along the judging ramp. If they can't make it, they're disqualified, and the big crowd always appreciates the effort. The setting isn't bad, either.

■ 10th Annual Automobilia Monterey, The International Expo Embassy Suites, Seaside

Tuesday and Wednesday, Aug. 14-15, 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Tuesday and 10 a.m. to 7 p.m. Wednesday

Founded by a Carmel Valley enthusiast who calls his event, "the serious collector's candy store," Automobilia Monterey is purportedly the largest sale in America of genuine car-related collectibles, and Tony Singer holds fast to his "no reproductions will be sold" rule. More than 40 sellers from Europe, the United States and South America will offer original posters, photos, signs, rallye plates, badges and pins, models, literature and books, scarves and more in the hotel ballroom. Automobilia Monterey also hosts a great silent auction, and Singer welcomes all car buffs and other collectors to his event, which raises money for the Monterey Rape Crisis Center. "It is the mission of this event to enable each enthusiast to buy the best from the best. Automobilia Monterey is unique in the auto world by being a focused event in a relaxed, indoor setting, and not an adjunct to a car show or race; it is devoted to only original vintage automobilia. Having on-premises professional pack-and-ship facilities contributes to the genuine ease of doing business for all involved." Admission is $15 for a single day or $20 for both days. www.Automobilia-Monterey.com, (831) 659-5335 or tony@automobiliamonterey.com. Embassy Suites is located at Canyon del Rey and Del Monte in Seaside.

■ The Little Car Show, Lighthouse Avenue between Forest and Fountain, Pacific Grove,

Wednesday, Aug. 15, Noon to 5 p.m.

Miniatures seem to have a way of capturing people's imagination, and the car world is no exception. Marina Motorsports will present its third annual display and rally of diminutive vintage and contemporary cars, this year featuring British marques, in downtown Pacific Grove and invites spectators to look, but also to watch their step, lest they inadvertently crush one. Some 100 machines — electric vehicles as well as those with engines of 1,601cc or smaller — will line the street. Trophies will be given for longest distance traveled to Pacific Grove, Most Smiles Per Mile, top choice of the P.G. City Council, merchants' favorites, and others. After the show, participants will cruise along Ocean View Boulevard to Asilomar. Admission is free. For more information, visit www.marinamotorsports.org.

■ McCall's Motorworks Revival Monterey Jet Center, Monterey

Wednesday, Aug. 15 5 to 10 p.m.

What began with a few car guys at a casual get-together has morphed into an extravagant celebration of fascinating cars and aircraft. Vintage racers, luxurious tourers, the latest innovations — and everything in between — as well as new and historic aircraft, private jets and military machines cover the tarmac at this annual party, which fills the Jet Center hangar and the surrounding airport grounds. Motorworks guests won't go hungry or thirsty, either, as Bernardus, Roederer and others will keep glasses filled, and a catering team overseen by Bernardus executive chef Cal Stamenov will ensure delectable bites all night. Tickets are $295 in advance or $325 the night of the party, and attendees must be 21 or older. Proceeds benefit the Naval Postgraduate School Foundation and the California Highway Patrol's 11-99 Foundation. The jet center is located at 100 Sky Park Way off Garden Road in Monterey. Ferraris — and has for the past several years hosted a Ferrari concours at his Carmel Valley winery. This year, he's celebrating vintage cars, fine dining and great wines on two nights that begin with a car viewing and cocktail hour at 5:30 p.m., followed by dinner in the winery's Chai at 6:30. The menu is set to include items like ceviche, bruschetta, Cosmo Salad, sea bass, New York Strip, stuffed portobello mushrooms, and apple pie for dessert.

The cost to attend is $95 per person ($85 for club members). Chateau Julien is located at 8940 Carmel Valley Road in Carmel Valley. For more information, call (831) 624-2600 or visit www.chateau-julien.com.

■ The 14th Annual Pebble Beach Tour d'Elegance presented by Rolex

Down the coast and around the Monterey Peninsula, including Carmel-by-the-Sea Thursday, Aug. 16, 7 a.m. to 3 p.m.

An exciting (and free) way to observe many of the stunning vintage cars invited to enter the renowned Pebble Beach Concours d'Elegance — including beauties built several decades ago — is to see them in motion on scenic Monterey Peninsula roads during the annual Tour d'Elegance.

Many of the world's rarest automobiles will take the 60-mile drive from Pebble Beach, along Aguajito and Monhollan roads through Jacks Peak and Tehama, on Carmel Valley Road and down Highway 1, turning around at Ripplewood Resort. Car buffs gather at strategic points along the route to witness "the elegance of the automobile in motion."

Toward the end of their drive, participants leave their treasures on Ocean Avenue in downtown Carmel-by-the-Sea while they enjoy a catered lunch in Devendorf Park. The cars remain motionless for a couple of hours, allowing spectators to ogle up close without paying a penny.

Drivers will gather in Pebble Beach starting at 7 a.m. and depart around 8. It's anticipated they will begin arriving in Carmel between 11:30 a.m. and noon — one of the most exciting times to watch — and leave between 2 and 2:30 p.m. for the return the starting point in Del Monte Forest and a Champagne celebration at the finish.

And it's not just for fun: Participation in the Tour can break a tie when judges pick the best cars during the Pebble Beach Concours d'Elegance Aug. 19. www.pebble-beachconcours.net

■ RM Auctions' annual Sports & Classics of Monterey

Portola Hotel & Spa and the Monterey Conference Center, Monterey Friday and Saturday, Aug. 17-18, 6:30 p.m. both days (Previews run from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Aug. 15-16 and 10 a.m. to 10 p.m. Aug. 17-18)

The world's largest collector car auction house, RM Auctions will put hundreds of high-caliber motor cars on the block. During the past quarter-century, RM facilitated the sale of more than 215 cars that exceeded the million-dollar mark. This year's lineup includes several fascinating specimens, like the 1968 Ford GT40 lightweight racer in Gulf Oil livery and the 1956 Ferrari 250 GT LWB Berlinetta Tour de France. Admission to the previews is $50 per person. The $300 bidder fee includes a catalog and admits two to the previews and auction. The Portola Hotel is located at 2 Portola Plaza at the foot of Alvarado Street in Monterey. www.rmauctions.com.

■ Russo & Steele's 12th annual Monterey Sports and Muscle Monterey Auction on the Waterfront Parking lot next to Wharf No. 2, Monterey Thursday through Saturday, Aug. 16-18, 5 to 10 p.m. each day (Previews begin at 10 a.m. Aug. 15-18.)

Organized "for enthusiasts by enthusiasts," Russo & Steele's uniquely casual and lively sale expanded to three nights a few years ago and has a new location on the Monterey waterfront this year. The company holds "auctions in the round," wherein the buyers are on the floor with the automobiles, and everything happens on a sunken stage surrounded by 360-degree seating. The organizers, Drew and Josephine Alcazar of Arizona, also began webcasting auctions — adding to their speed and liveliness — and introduced an all reserve, all the time format, to ensure a better offering of collector cars. "The combination of higher caliber automobiles and the intense excitement found on Russo and Steele's auction block make this auction event an unforgettable experience."

THE FINE ART OF BESPOKE DESIGN

Creativity takes courage -Henri Matisse

Difficulties mastered are opportunities won -Winston Churchill

When we all think alike, then no one is thinking -Walter Lippman

These inspirational quotes on life and business are just a few of the enlightening thoughts by others that artist Anne Thull routinely reflects upon to feed her soul as she creates bespoke products for her clients.

“Our creativity, imagination, problem solving skills and attitude toward change are the factors that make the difference,” Anne explains, “Art is key when developing handsome, functional products that are timeless.”

Anne Thull designs and supplies bespoke products for residential, commercial and hospitality projects. She focuses on creating one-of-a-kind and limited edition products that add value to the client's property investment or collection.

Anne's bespoke products include:

Architectural Art- Millwork, Cabinetry, Wine Pantries, Fireplace Surrounds

Functional Art- Furniture, Light Fixtures, Candle Sleeves

Fine Art- Sculptures, Paintings, Murals

and much more

Anne's work has been showcased at Pebble Beach Food and Wine, Lightfair International and many other premier events. Visit her Design Studio Galleries at the San Francisco Design Center and in Carmel, CA.

OLIVES

own meats and cheese, maybe some limoncello.” The house is surrounded by 103 olive trees imported from Tuscany. Muia keeps hers topped, so they're easier to harvest, which is a good thing — she relies on the kindness of friends and family to harvest the fruit.

“Every year, we pick the day after Thanksgiving,” she says. “People come and I make breakfast, lunch and dinner. They can pick for one hour or all day.” She sends the olives to Templeton to be processed and then sells the oils online and from her home.

Muia doesn't just sell olive oil; she loves educating consumers about olive oils and balsamic vinegars by offering tasting classes to groups of six to eight people. Classes last about two hours, and she brings around a dozen oils or vinegars to whatever location the group selects. “When you do olive oil tasting, your palate doesn't get tired,” she says of the large selection.

After a day of tasting Carmel Valley's bounty, serious day-trippers can forge on down Carmel Valley Road and eventually cross over to the Salinas Valley's River Road wine corridor, but be forewarned — there are no services along the way, and the road becomes narrow and winding. An easier alternative? Grab a bite at one of the local restaurants and head back for the beach.

CHARACTER

“In these cars,” he says, “I am creating my world. That's what an actor does. We tell the tale we want to tell, immersing ourselves in a different story, in a different place. Yes, there's speed and the joy of the open road, but for people like me, it's just about the car. Sometimes I go out in the garage and just sit and look at it.”

A car, says Herrmann, is just a chassis with four wheels and an engine that goes putt putt, to get us from one place to another. Except humans have a tendency to turn it into a work of art.

“The whole automotive hobby expresses everything people do and care about,” he says. “It reflects every kind of person. Why else would guys work so hard to get a Willys Jeep exactly right or to get a Bugatti running perfectly just before it breaks down — again?”

the more you want to know about it, and the more you know about it, the more you get interested."

He also noted that Bugatti is one of the few manufacturers that survived World War II and is building modern machines today. Several years ago, it set the supercar standard with the 1,000-horsepower Veyron, a model it continues to upgrade in design and performance.

"Bugatti set the world speed record for fastest production car ever made: 268 mph," Mullin said. The Veyron can go from 0 to 60 in 2.5 seconds — "that's kind of a jet."

(Nine or 10 Veyrons will be driving up the California Coast from Mullin's museum in Oxnard to the Peninsula on Thursday.)

Finishing a masterpiece

To The Quail, which will be held at Quail Lodge in Carmel Valley, Mullin will bring a particularly special Bugatti — the car Jean Bugatti, one of founder Ettore Bugatti's four children, was in the process of building when he died at the age of 30. He swerved to avoid a bicyclist who had darted in front of him and hit a tree at more than 100 mph.

"He saved the bicyclist's life at the expense of his own," Mullin observed.

Jean Bugatti had already completed the chassis, engine and drivetrain of his newest creation, but he never had the chance to build the body. As is often the case in collecting, Mullin came to own the unfinished car, which had won the unrestored chassis class at the Pebble Beach Concours d'Elegance, because his passion for the marque is well known.

"I got a call from the guy who owned it, and he said, 'I thought you might be interested in this; we know you love French cars and love Bugatti,'" he recalled.

He then obtained copies of the designer's original drawings from the Bugatti archives and tapped one of his favorite restorers to complete the car.

"I didn't even know they existed," he said of the drawings.

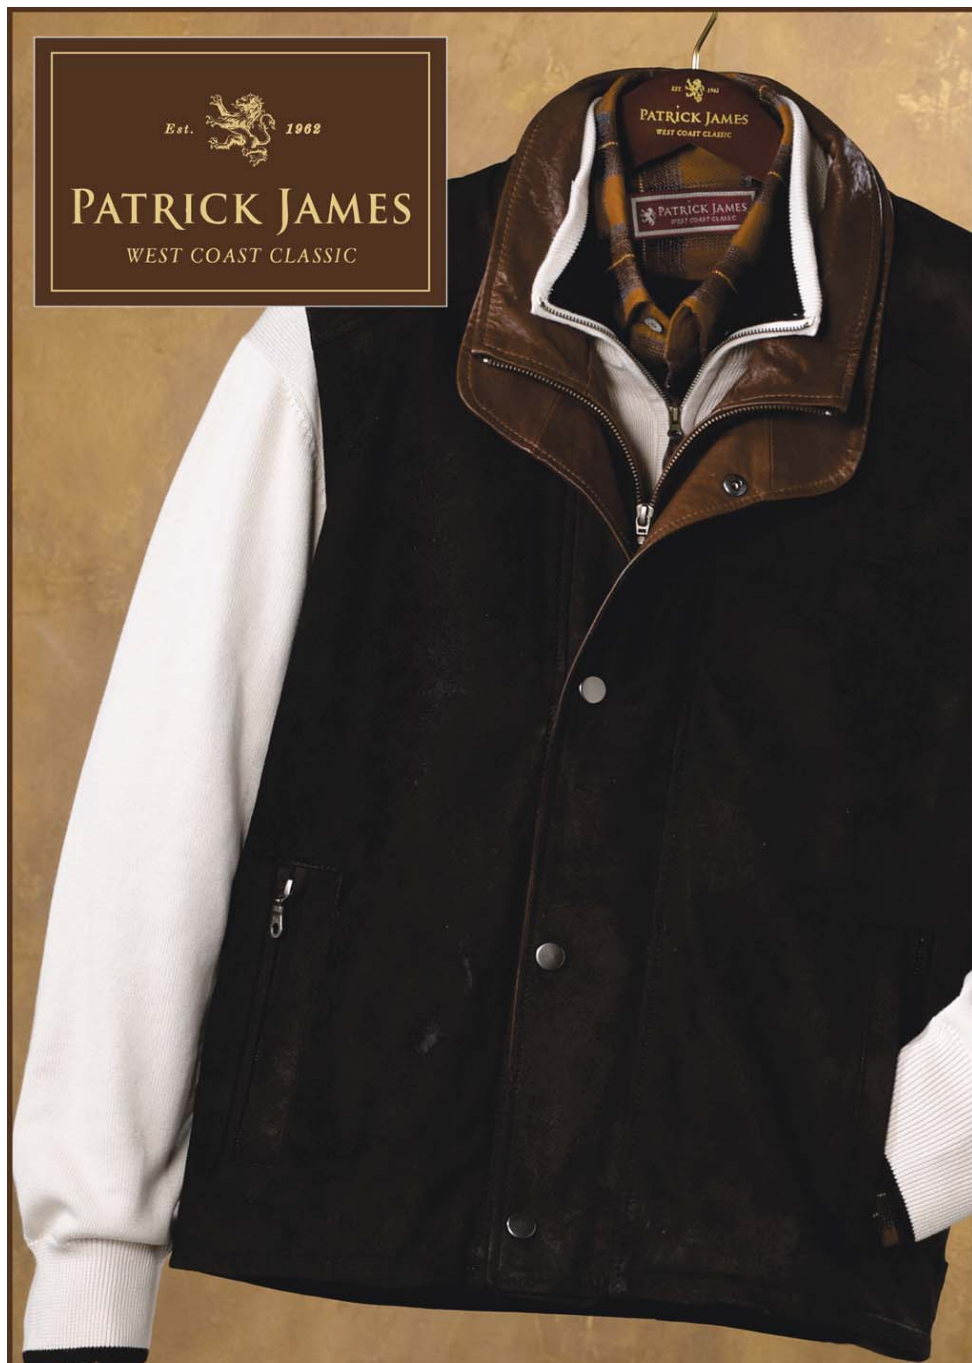

Among the design's unique features are the "papillon doors," which hinge at the roof, reminiscent of a

Peter Mullin will present a one-of-a-kind Bugatti Type 64 at The Quail on Friday. He obtained the unfinished car (above) several years ago and is having a restorer complete the bodywork (right) per drawings penned by Jean Bugatti before he died in 1939.

butterfly's wings. While most people believe Mercedes' Gullwing door design, which debuted on the 300 SL in the 1950s, was unprecedented, Mullin said Bugatti's was not only earlier, but more elegant.

"We've been working on it for about three years," he said of the project, as the restorer employed the techniques and methods of the 1930s to construct it, including hand-hammering the metal over wooden forms and welding them together.

He is leaving the body unpainted to show the alloyed aluminum body and the chassis, which "was made out of a combination of lithium and magnesium, and is so gorgeous we don't want to paint it."

The car, he said, "is a real tribute to the workmanship of the late '30s, as well as the vision Bugatti had."

Repeat customer

This year marks the 28th Mullin has shown at the Pebble Beach Concours d'Elegance, the 25th year he has driven in the historic races at Mazda Raceway Laguna Seca, and the 10th year he's participated in The Quail Rally and show, which he has had a part in since its launch.

Saturday will be his big day at the track, where his beautifully painted trailer — which depicts a country scene complete with vintage French cars — is hard to miss in the paddock. He and his wife, Merle, are also known for showing great hospitality to their friends and fellow car buffs, presenting a catered lunch for guests between races, and the cars parked in front of the trailer often collect crowds of oglers.

"My son and son-in-law are driving, so we'll all be in the same race," he said. "That will be interesting."

At Pebble Beach on Sunday, he will present a sports racing Peugeot, a Talbot-Lago and a Hispano-Suiza, among others.

"There are a thousand things going on" during Concours Week, especially over the main Aug. 17-19 weekend. In addition to the shows and parties, Mullin will check out some of the auctions, "where I'll manage to get in trouble again."

He might very well find some new additions for the Mullin Automotive Museum, which he opened in the spring of 2010 to showcase more than 65 historic French cars from Delahaye, Delage, Talbot-Lago, Voisin, Hispano-Suiza and Bugatti. The museum has provided cars for more than two dozen automotive events, including three races, five rallies and 14 Concours d'Elegance, in the last year alone.

Thursday and Friday, Aug. 16-17, Automobilia auction begins at 11 a.m. and motorcycle sale begins at 2 p.m. Aug. 16; Motorcar auction begins at 11 a.m. Aug. 17

Auction house Bonhams & Butterfields takes pride in the fact it hosts the longest standing car auction on the Monterey Peninsula during Concoors Week, and this year, it's enjoying a larger venue on the Quail Lodge grounds. The auction house offers automobilia and motorcycles on Thursday, and cars on Friday, and spectators and bidders are welcome, regardless of whether they possess tickets to the adjacent Quail Motorsports Gathering. Among the vehicles consigned is the compelling ex-GTC Gulf Team Davidoff 1997 McLaren F1 GTR Longtail FIA GT Endurance Racing Coupe, the last GTR built and one of the final McLaren F1s. Admission is free for Q ticket holders, but Quail admission is not required to attend the auction. The sale is located at Quail Lodge on Valley Greens Drive in Carmel Valley. ### ■ Rolex Monterey Motorsports Reunion Mazda Raceway Laguna Seca, Monterey-Salinas Highway

Friday through Sunday, Aug. 17-19

Shelby Cobras were selected as the featured marque before Carroll Shelby died this year, but his passing makes the honor all that much more special. Complementing the 17 race groups featured throughout the weekend (which span decades and engine displacements) will be a host of activities honoring the 50th anniversary of the Shelby Cobra, one of the most iconic American sports cars. The weekend will host the largest gathering of original Cobras in one place, and 45 original competition Shelby Cobras will race on Saturday. Every vehicle that competes during the Reunion must be period correct, and several hundred are expected. Abundant displays and numerous vendors provide plenty of opportunity for eye candy and retail therapy, too. For ticket prices, a detailed schedule and more information, visit www.mazdaraceway.com or call (800) 327-7322.

■ Concorso Italiano Laguna Seca Golf Ranch, Monterey

Friday, Aug. 17
9 a.m. to 5 p.m.

The 27th Concorso Italiano will characteristically celebrate "everything great from Italy, including cars, fashion, food and wine in an elegant setting on the greens at the Laguna Seca Golf Ranch." Nearly 1,000 cars and motorcycles with Italian roots will be on display, including the latest super-cars from Lamborghini, Maserati and Ferrari. Classic Ferraris will be judged, and even Italian bicycles will have a place on the grass, as will a celebration of the 55th anniversary of the original Fiat Cinquecento. In addition to the spectacular cars and displays, local wine and continental cuisine will be on offer, as will Concorso's traditional midday fashion show, which is always a huge hit. "Take everything ever made in Italy, from fashion to Ferraris, sprinkle it with some red wine, slather it in sunshine, and top it with elegance and fun, and you have Concorso Italiano," organizers say. Admission is $150. Laguna Seca Golf Ranch is located at 10520 York Road off of Highway 68 in Monterey. www.concorso.com

■ The Quail — A Motorsports Gathering Quail Lodge and Resort, Carmel Valley

Friday, Aug. 17
10 a.m. to 4 p.m.

With a decade in the books, "The Q" is enjoying great recognition and success as one of the week's most exclusive and highly regarded automotive events, celebrating more than 150 of the most important cars in history, and offering fine food and great wine to match. To honor its 10th year, The Q is featuring the world's finest prewar Alfa Romeos, Iso Automobili's 50th anniversary, and sports and racing motorcycles. Key automobiles set for exhibit include the 1931 Alfa Romeo 8C 2300 Short Chassis Zagato Spyder driven by legendary race car drivers Enzo Ferrari and Piero Taruffi, and the 1949 Ferrari 166 MM Barchetta, the ninth Ferrari built out of 25 of its class and the first Ferrari ever shown at a concours. (It won its class at the 1949 Concours d'Elegance Lido in Venice.) For an eye-catching modern-era specimen, organizers are bringing in the 2012 McLaren MP4-12C, "a sleek custom-ordered McLaren with special interior features and carbon fibre composite frame." The Quail will also feature two guest speakers this year, legendary British race car driver Sir Stirling Moss and author/motorcycle designer Piero Rivolta. Guests will enjoy daylong al fresco dining featuring "a lavish feast the transcends mere food and wine." Wine, Champagne, spirits, cocktails and beer from several local and international producers will be served. Other highlights include the Bonhams & Butterfields auctions, helicopter rides to and from Mazda Raceway Laguna Seca, fine art photography and the awards circle. The event is sold out. To register to receive ticket information, email thequail@quailodge.com. Proceeds benefit local and national charities serving children and families. ### ■ Pacific Grove Concours Auto Rally

Lighthouse Avenue,
Pacific Grove

Friday, Aug. 17

1 p.m. staging, 6 p.m. tour,
7 p.m. barbecue

The Pacific Grove Concours Auto Rally has raised more than $134,000 for youth programs on the Monterey Peninsula — including the P.G. Youth Center, DARE programs at P.G. and Carmel schools and driver training scholarships at PGHS — since then-Mayor Jeanne Byrne launched the rally fundraiser in 1995. The event organized by Pacific Grove Rotary and Pacific Grove Youth Action is geared for people who own and drive their own classic and vintage cars, and it draws more than 200 participants and thousands of spectators, who line the route. The featured marque this year is Volkswagen, and Rabobank, Mazda Raceway Laguna Seca, Union Bank and Hagerty Insurance are event sponsors. Vehicles begin lining up on Lighthouse at 1 p.m. and start their scenic drive through Pacific Grove, Carmel and Pebble Beach at 6. The award BBQ dinner at historic auctions daily at 10 a.m.

Previews daily at 8 a.m.;

Mecum's Monterey Auction this year will feature 750 vehicles of a wide range of makes and models crossing the auction block during a sale that has been extended to three days. Open to buyers, sellers and spectators with free admission and convenient general parking, the Mecum sale is always eclectic. The sales feature automobiles — including a 1972 Porsche L&M 917/10 Spyder, the 1972 Can-Am Champion Driven by George Follmer; a 1954 Ferrari 750 Monza Spyder Scaglietti, the second Monza 750 built; and a 2008 Cadillac CTS-V Factory Race Car — motorcycles (including an unprecedented collection of MV Augustas) and road art. Auction attendees can be part of the action as the event broadcasts live on the company's national television show "Mecum Auto Auction: Muscle Cars & More," on Discovery Communications' HD Theater. Friday and Saturday from 10 a.m.

to 5 p.m., and Sunday from 8 a.m. to 6 p.m.

Held in conjunction with the Pebble Beach Concours d'Elegance, RetroAuto is an enthusiast shopper's must-visit in a pavilion that features rare collectibles and memorabilia from automotive history, "as well as the latest luxury goods and technological tools to enhance today's driving experience." Exhibitors will peddle historic automobilia, parts, original poster art, books and literature, fine art, photography and posters, and luxury items. The RetroAuto pavilion is also the site of select parties and special events throughout Concours Week. www.pebblebeachconcours.net

■ The Barnyard Shopping Village Ferrari Event

Near Highway 1 and Carmel Valley Road

Saturday, Aug. 18,

4 to 7 p.m.

The Barnyard Shopping Village hosts the 15th annual Ferrari Event to benefit the Juvenile Diabetes Research Foundation. During the annual Ferrari Event, the public is invited to admire more than 60 extraordinary and exotic Ferraris and other gorgeous machines while enjoying wines contributed by 11 local vintners and scrumptious food from nine Barnyard restaurants. Fortified by wine, food, music and so much beauty, attendees will also be encouraged to bid to support JRDF. The cost is $30 per person. The cars will be exhibited in the new event space between the Barnyard and Highway 1, with food and wine available throughout the idyllic shopping center. (831) 624-8886 or www.thebarnyard.com

■ Hagerty's Tour d'LeMons

Laguna Grande Park, 1249 Canyon del Rey, Seaside

Saturday, Aug. 18, 10 a.m. to 1 p.m.

A celebration of the horror stories of the automotive world, the Concours d'LeMons becomes a rolling farce this year, when more than 50 oddball cars will take part in Hagerty's Tour of LeMons. The vehicle that will lead the tour, a 1970 Subaru 360 Deluxe sedan owned by Mindy Kindelberger of Lake Havasu City, Ariz., received the most votes in Hagerty's 2nd annual Search for America's 'Sweetest LeMon' contest. "LeMons is indeed back in 2012. The fine folks at Hagerty have stepped in and refused to let this automotive debacle slip into the junkyard of history. Hagerty's Tour of LeMons will give you chance to parade your crap can in front of the automotive glitterati," Concours

■ Pebble Beach Auctions presented by Gooding & Company Pebble Beach Equestrian Center

Saturday and Sunday, Aug. 18-19, 5 p.m. Saturday and 6 p.m. Sunday (Previews Aug. 15, 10 a.m. to 6 p.m.; Aug. 16, 8 a.m. to 6 p.m.; Aug. 17, 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.; Aug. 18, 9 a.m. to 4:30 p.m.; Aug. 19, 9 a.m. to 5:30 p.m.)

Established by David Gooding in 2003, Gooding & Company conducts the collectible automobile auction that has marked the conclusion Concours Week since 1990, and the lineup is always impressive. Last year, the auction house set a record with $78 million in sales — $13.6 million than in 2010. Consignments this year include the rare von Krieger Special Roadster, a 1936 Mercedes-Benz 540 K, kept in a garage for more than four decades before its owner passed away, which is being billed as “the most significant Mercedes-Benz to ever come to auction,” as well as four motorsports legends: a 1928 Bentley 4 1/2 Litre

Le Mans Sports “Bobtail” team car, the 1964 Ford GT40 Prototype 104, a 1955 Ferrari 857 Sport and a 1960 Porsche RS60 Spyder. Actor George Clooney will auction his Tesla Signature 100 Roadster to benefit charity. Admission is $40, or $100 for an auction catalogue that admits two. ### ■ Pebble Beach Concours d'Elegance 18th Fairway of the Pebble Beach Golf Links

Sunday, Aug. 19, 10:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m., with awards beginning at 1:30 p.m.

The 62nd annual Concours d'Elegance — which began as a small collection of cars exhibited in conjunction with the Pebble Beach Road Races — is considered the premier collector-car show in one of the most scenic places on the planet. Contestants are invited to participate and must pass stringent evaluation in order to land a spot on the grass, ensuring every vehicle at the Concours is rare and special, if not unique. Stunning coastline, Champagne and cigars, parties, fine food, celebrities (Jay Leno is a fixture), period costumes complement the cars to make the Pebble Beach Concours d'Elegance the top event of its kind. Judges examine specimens polished to perfection and lovingly restored or meticulously maintained in a contest of historical accuracy, technical merit and style. Featured categories this year include Cars of the Maharajas, Mercer, Fiat, Saoutchik Style and German motorcycles. This year's Concours will benefit the United Way of Monterey County, the Pebble Beach Company Foundation and Boys & Girls Clubs of Monterey County and other charities. The $200 advanced ticket ($250 the day of the show) includes a program, parking and a shuttle ride to the main gate.

For a truly indulgent experience, consider the Club d'Elegance, a $600 package that includes special parking, full breakfast, buffet lunch, wine, cash bar, signed Concours poster, event program, VIP shuttles, a special commemorative gift, “executive restrooms,” coat and package check, and an elegant tent at the Equestrian Center to serve as home base. For more information about the club, call (831) 622-1700. Call the United Way at (877) 693-0009 or visit www.theconcoursstore.com for tickets. ### ■ Automotive Fine Arts Society exhibit 18th Fairway of the Pebble Beach Golf Links during the Pebble Beach Concours d'Elegance

Sunday, Aug. 19, 10:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m.

Held alongside the Pebble Beach Concours d'Elegance each year, the Automotive Fine Arts Society show features highly sought pieces by world-famous artists in many different mediums. According to Concours organizers, “The automobile changed the whole of our culture almost immediately upon its introduction; it was more than transportation, it served as a status symbol, it was a matter of style. But it took some time for the art world to view the automobile as an appropriate subject of fine art.”

Established in 1984 by six artists dedicated to elevating the understanding and acknowledgment of automotive art, the AFAS seeks to exhibit members' works, promote and publicize them, raise the standards of automotive art to a level of acceptance as serious fine art from the point of view of collectors and critics, and provide “a practical means to form enduring friendships, exchange ideas and build fellowship among automotive fine artists and enthusiasts.”

The 26th annual display will include pieces by some of the society's 32 sculptors and painters, in watercolor, acrylic, oil, wood and various metals. The Lincoln division of Ford Motor Co. will sponsor the Pebble Beach AFAS exhibit, as it has done since 1996.

Admission to the show is free to Concours ticket holders. www.autoartgallery.com/afas.
