Dam traffic to be routed through Sleepy Hollow

■ Will share burden with Cachagua

By CHRIS COUNTS

AFTER A month of public controversy, allegations of favoritism and threats of lawsuits over the routing of construction traffic for the removal of San Clemente Dam through Cachagua instead of Sleepy Hollow, the president of the Sleepy Hollow homeowners association said Thursday that residents of that upscale community have agreed to let a significant amount of the dam-removal traffic go through their neighborhood.

"We met with Cal Am and negotiated how they could use San Clemente Drive," said Steve Woolpert of the Sleepy Hollow association. "We've essentially accommodated the project."

Traffic to the top of the dam will go through Cachagua, while traffic to the bottom will go through Sleepy Hollow, confirmed Jeff Szytel of Water Systems Consulting, who is managing the project for Cal Am.

The agreement between the Sleepy Hollow Homeowners Association and Cal Am was signed just eight days before the Monterey County Planning Commission hosted a key hearing on the dam-removal project Sept. 12. The agreement, reviewed by The Pine Cone Thursday, makes it clear Cal Am can use Sleepy Hollow's San Clemente Drive — with some limitations.

In exchange for Sleepy Hollow's residents not opposing the project, as well as the project's use of San Clemente Drive, Cal Am agreed that it will not use vehicles heavier than 10 tons on the road. The water company also consented to limiting traffic on the road to 120 round trips per month and 30 round trips per week.

Other conditions Cal Am agreed to include limiting traffic on San Clemente Drive to 20 mph; limiting traffic to weekdays from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m., not using any area within Sleepy Hollow — or near the intersection of San Clemente Drive and Carmel Valley Road — for staging or parking, and implementing a variety of mitigation measures to reduce the impact of the project on the Sleepy Hollow community.

If Cal Am doesn't comply with the road agreement, the water company has agreed to pay fines for each violation. For instance, if Cal Am exceeds 120 round trips per month, it would be fined $500 per extra trip. And if the load of a truck exceeds 10 tons, Cal Am would pay a penalty of $2,500 for each round trip.

Cal Am also agreed to pay for repairs to Tularcitos Creek Bridge and San Clemente Drive for any damage caused by construction traffic.

It's unclear precisely how much traffic will be routed through Sleepy Hollow — in

SLOW-GROWTH GROUP GIVES BIG $$$ TO DEL PIERO

By KELLY NIX

A NORTH Monterey County activist group that donated $45,000 to Monterey County supervisor candidate Marc Del Piero's campaign early this year donated another $50,000 in the past two months, according to financial statements released last week.

The North Salinas Valley Fund for Responsible Growth continued to dig deep to fund the bulk of Del Piero's campaign, giving him $10,000 on Aug. 1 and another $40,000 on Sept. 6, bringing its total donations this year to $95,000 — a sizable sum for a Monterey County election.

The contribution from the environmental group is a major boost for Del Piero, who is in a hotly contested race with longtime incumbent Dave Potter. In the June primary, his victory margin over incumbent Dave Potter was a mere five votes.

Potter's biggest cash donation was $10,000 on Sept. 4 from the Salinas Valley Leadership Group.

The North Salinas Valley Fund for Responsible Growth is chaired by land-use activist Julie Engell, a critic of Potter's and a regular at board of supervisors' meetings.

The group began as the San Juan Opposition Coalition, which, along with another anti-development group, LandWatch Monterey County, battled HYH Corporation for years over its proposed residential development north of Salinas called Butterfly Village.

Then called the San Juan Coalition, the

CONFLICTING STORIES AT COLLINS PRELIM FRUSTRATE JUDGE

By KELLY NIX

HEARINGS THIS week to decide if former county water board director Steve Collins will stand trial on conflict-of-interest charges became so tangled with conflicting statements from witnesses that the judge in the case referred to the testimony as "multiple layers of hearsay."

In November 2011, the Monterey County District Attorney's office charged Collins with felonies, alleging he was paid as a lobbyist for a private company that was trying to win a lucrative contract to run the new water project while he also served on the county water board — a violation of state conflict-of-interest laws.

In the hearing that began Tuesday, prosecutors filled in the details of their case against Collins, contending he was paid about $160,000 by RMC Water and Environment, which was awarded a $28 million contract to manage the $400 million desal plant, even as he participated in meetings to decide whether it should be built.

But Collins has maintained that numerous officials, including county supervisors Dave Potter and Lou Calcagno, former Monterey County Water Resources Agency GM Curtis Weeks and county attorneys knew he worked for RMC and assured him there was no conflict of interest.

Homeowners say fire 'fee' is really an illegal tax

By MARY SCHLEY and CHRIS COUNTS

MONTEREY PENINSULA property owners living in areas where the state is responsible for fire protection have begun receiving bills for a new $150-per-structure "fire prevention benefit fee." But since the money will go to the state's general fund instead of the being set aside for fire prevention, some are calling it an illegal tax, and the Howard Jarvis Taxpayers Association has filed a class action suit on behalf of almost a million California property owners subject to it.

"This tax was dreamed up by politicians in Sacramento who are so desperate for revenue that they were willing to ram this through the Legislature without the proper vote," said Jon Coupal, president of the taxpayers association.

According to the bill's authors, rural property owners "receive a disproportionately larger benefit from fire prevention activities than that realized by the state's citizens generally," and that, "the costs of fire prevention activities aimed at reducing the effects of wildfires in [rural] areas should be borne by the owners of these structures."

But, while the governor's office said the fee will be used for "brush clearance around communities on public lands, along roadways and evacuation routes" and to "improve forest health so the forest can better withstand wildfire," officials with Cal Fire, the state's firefighting agency, told The Pine Cone they have no idea how much of the money they'll get or how it will be used.

"We're not exactly sure how it will be coming in and exactly what the criteria would be to expend those funds," said Cal Fire Monterey-San Benito Unit Chief Rick Hutchinson. "We were not involved in the process at all — it was part of the budget approved last summer."

Some Monterey County property owners say the "fire prevention benefit fee" is no such thing.

Madeline gets messy

THE PEOPLE who picked her when she was a puppy had a child who was dangerously allergic to dogs yet was desperately hoping for one. The doctor had said it would be safe to get a poodle, since they have hair instead of fur and don't shed. Just to be sure, the family minimized risk with a miniature poodle and took her to the groomer once a week to keep her clean.

The child, it turns out, was particularly allergic to poodles.

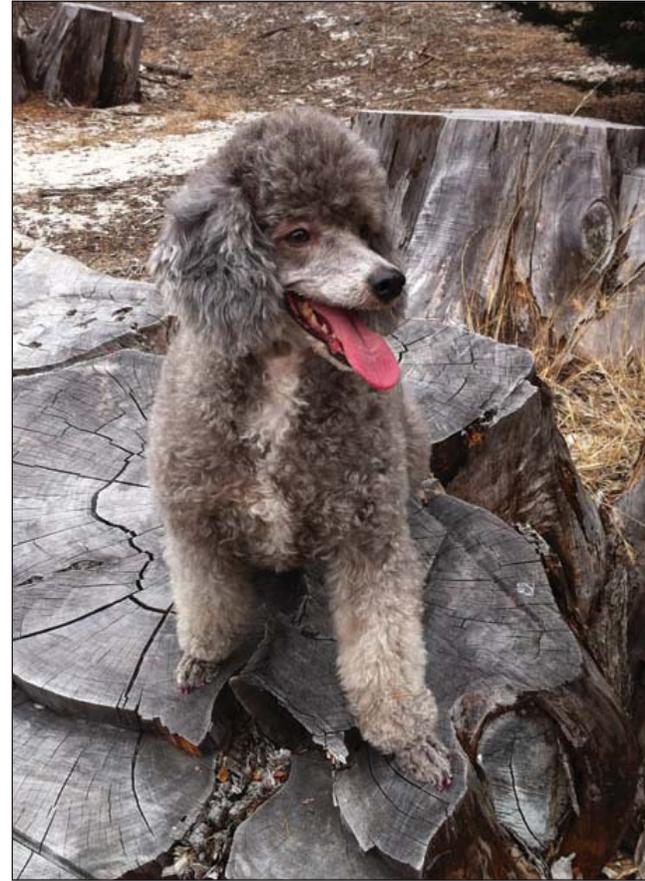

One day, when the little silver poodle was 9 months old, the couple took her in for a bath and gave her to the groomer. For good.

"Madeline is the only dog I've connected with this deeply," her new person says. "I always thought, 'if she ever needed a home' ... and I actually got her. She is sweet and loving, a mama's girl, who clings to my side, no matter where I go."

Some days she goes to work and sits quietly in her bed, watching the other dogs get groomed. Other days she stays home in a 12-foot pen open to the living room, which is filled with toys and treats and other dogs to help pass the time till her person comes home.

Madeline has proved patient as she settles into her new life, which includes fancy poodle cuts and pink or blue hair dye. Yet, as soon as she gets to Carmel Beach, Madeline gets messy, running wild in the sand and roughing up her fancy hairdo.

"Madeline is so social and energetic, always ready to go for a walk or see who's at the beach. She's a total tomboy," her person says. "She loves to swim and dig and roll around in the sand, becoming one dirty dog. Fortunately, she now lives with the groomer."

Dad pleads guilty to attacking soccer coach

By MARY SCHLEY

JAMES FALLON, the parent who tried to punch and choke the coach of his kids' soccer team after a game at Carmel Middle School in May, pleaded guilty to misdemeanor battery Sept. 28. According to the victim, Purple Ninjas coach Scott Brown, Fallon was sentenced to 15 days in jail that were commuted to time in a work-release program. Fallon was also ordered to stay 100 yards away from Brown, was reportedly placed on probation for three years and ordered to attend anger-management classes.

The assault occurred in front of some 75 kids and parents following a Memorial Day weekend soccer match, when Fallon, angry that one of his sons was crying following a talk Brown had given to his team, ran across the field, rushed up from behind and swung at him twice. Brown said he blocked both punches, but Fallon then tried to choke him and threatened him.

"He yelled, 'I'm going to f'ing kill you.' I had absolutely no idea what he was talking about, and it took me a second to even figure out who he was," Brown said. "And then I just grabbed him and was holding him off of me. I would never, ever, ever fight in front of kids — never raise my voice in front of my own child, let alone anyone else's. I didn't return fire in any way."

Eventually, a couple of other dads separated the men, and Brown told Fallon to stay at least 10 feet away from him. Monterey County Sheriff's deputies arrived soon after.

Brown said Fallon may have erroneously thought the boy's tears were from being reprimanded for the way the team of 7-to-9-year-olds had played, but Brown said it was something else entirely.

Usually, after a game, he spends about 30 seconds praising each child, but during this talk, Brown addressed the team's disrespectful behavior toward a substitute coach.

"My theme was that you have to deserve to win. We have to be winners in life, and we have to earn it with our behavior and the way we are toward one another," he said. "I pointed out two kids who were exemplary that day and said, 'Your teammates should look at you as examples,' and then I stood up and walked away. That's when I noticed his kid crying. It was because of the absence of the praise that he usually got."

The attack stunned Brown and left lasting effects.

"It was so strange and disconcerting and very hard to deal

Program that allows homeless men to sleep in churches is safe, president says

■ Investigation continues into allegation of rape at P.G. church

By KELLY NIX

THE CHARITY that has provided overnight housing for homeless men in local churches for more than two decades defended the safety of the program days after a 23-year-old transient said she was raped by one of its homeless clients.

On Oct. 3, a woman told Pacific Grove police she was sleeping outside St. Mary's church on 12th Street when she was assaulted at about 4 a.m. by one or more men at the church who were staying there as part of I-HELP — a program that arranges for homeless men to sleep in various local churches and synagogues.

While police haven't named any suspects, or even confirmed they were I-HELP recipients, Eric Johnsen, president of the board of Shelter Outreach Plus, which sponsors I-HELP, said the program has been safe in its two decades of operation.

"This has never happened before," he told The Pine Cone. "The program has been going for 20 years, so when something like this comes up, we take it extremely seriously."

Johnsen said that the men in the I-HELP program, who stay at a different church on the Peninsula every night, are supervised by a "monitor," who is another homeless man I-HELP holds responsible for making sure the other men don't come and go from the church.

"Shelter Outreach Plus has a number of safety and security measures in place, one of which is to ensure that I-HELP participants are appropriately monitored during their overnight stay and are not allowed to come and go at-will," Johnsen wrote in an Oct. 5 letter to local churches.

The monitor spends the night in the church with the homeless men and "sleeps in a strategic place so they can tell if someone goes in or out," Johnsen said.

However, because monitors also go to sleep around the same time the other roughly two dozen men do, Johnsen said

Driver slams into stopped traffic, causes vehicle fire and highway shutdown

By MARY SCHLEY

THE DRIVER who rear-ended a BMW on Highway 1 near Carpenter Street a couple of weeks ago — causing his own car to catch fire and shutting down the freeway — probably won't be cited for the crash, California Highway Patrol officer Bob Lehman said this week.

On Thursday, Sept. 27, just after 4 p.m., both drivers were southbound on Highway 1 in the slow lane when 64-year-old Sacramento resident Gary Schiff smashed his 1997 Toyota Camry into a 2007 BMW Z4 driven by Sri Bhutani, 71, of Carmel, according to Lehman.

"It was a basic rear ender," he said. "The BMW was traveling at a much slower speed due to traffic ahead, and when the driver of the Toyota suddenly realized traffic was moving much slower ahead of him, he applied the brakes — but not soon enough to avoid colliding with the rear end of the BMW."

Cal Fire crews from the Cypress Fire Protection District, which has stations at Carmel

Hill just inside the Pebble Beach gate and on Rio Road, arrived moments later and shut down the southbound lanes of the freeway north of Carpenter Street.

According to Pam Temmermand, unit information officer for Cal Fire, firefighters found both drivers still in their cars. They had to use tools to extricate Bhutani from the BMW, but Schiff managed to get out of the Toyota before it caught fire.

Crews confined the blaze to the engine compartment, and the slow lane was reopened just after 4:45 p.m. The CHP had gotten on scene just about 10 minutes earlier, since the officer had to come from the station in Salinas, according to Lehman.

While a passenger in Bhutani's vehicle was uninjured, ambulances took both drivers to nearby Community Hospital of the Monterey Peninsula for treatment of pain and abrasions.

"No alcohol or drugs were involved," Lehman said. "I don't think there will be any citations."

Fire department holds open houses all over Peninsula

MONTEREY FIRE Department, which also runs fire stations in Carmel-by-the-Sea and Pacific Grove, will hold open houses and safety fairs at its stations Saturday, Oct. 13, from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m.

Monterey Fire's main station on Pacific will host a safety fair "with plenty of educational safety exhibits, live demonstrations, refreshments, and fun for all," according to organizers, and the Carmel firehouse will also offer live demonstrations, safety education and refreshments.

Live demos include an automobile extrication exercise in Carmel at 2 p.m. and at the main Monterey station at 1 p.m., and search and rescue demonstrations all day in Monterey.

Committed to you. And all our neighbors.

We don't just work in this community, we live here, too. That's why we're committed to keeping local traditions alive, and as we'll soon be uniting with Santa Barbara Bank & Trust, it's even more important that we do our part. We've celebrated at Old Spanish Days Fiesta in Santa Barbara, helped bring back the Monterey 4th of July Parade, and gotten in touch with our wild side at the Santa Barbara Zoo's Zoofari Ball. While traditions like these are lots of fun, they also do a lot of good for local businesses and nonprofits—as well as boost local spirit. Of course, there are other ways a bank can support its communities. So Union Bank also commits millions of dollars and thousands of volunteer hours to local philanthropic causes that support education, economic development, the environment, the arts, human services, and more. It's the right thing to do—after all, it's our home.

Library hosts 'Ping Pong' party

RINGED BY towering redwoods, the Henry Miller Library's garden will be the site Saturday, Oct. 13, of a party that celebrates the annual release of "Ping Pong," the library's literary journal.

Featuring local and not-so-local prose, poetry and artwork, "Ping Pong" is edited by Maria Garcia Teutsch, Christine Hamm and River Atwood Tabor. The journal sells for $12, and its proceeds benefit the library.

In addition to poetry and prose readings, painter Tim Youd will display his artwork, while Songs Harry Hotbox Taught Us will play old school country music and vintage rock 'n' roll.

The event is free and starts at 3 p.m. The library is located on Highway 1 about 28 miles south of Carmel. Call (831) 667-2574 or visit www.henrymiller.org.

Fundraiser set for Villa Angelica

IT'S TUCKED in next to the majestic Carmelite Monastery across Highway 1 from the beach nicknamed accordingly, and few people know it's there. The house known as Villa Angelica will make its public debut with a fundraiser Sunday, Oct. 21, hosted by the Friends of the House of Prayer.

Designed by artist Jo Mora and built in 1930, Villa Angelica was a gift to the Sisters of Notre Dame de Namur from Marie Antonia Field Munras and serves as a retreat facility with "a legacy of service and serenity," according to supporter Michelle Coates.

"Though it is unknown by many residents, it is appreciated and enjoyed by visitors from far and wide," she said. "Many come from a variety of spiritual, social and educational groups, and all have benefited from the beauty and serenity offered at Villa Angelica. The time has come to share this treasure with the community that shares its heritage."

The fundraiser, set for 4 to 6 p.m., will include music by The Heartstrings, a Celtic music ensemble, as well as wine and hors d'oeuvres. Attendance is $50 per person, which will help fund the upkeep of Villa Angelica and the House of Prayer. For reservations, call (831) 624-9416 or email mth-snd@yahoo.com.

Mission Trail bridge replacement to begin

CONSTRUCTION OF a new footbridge near the Mission Trail park's Mountain View Avenue entrance is set to begin Monday, Oct. 22, according to city forester Mike Branson, and will take four or five weeks to complete.

The footbridge spans a 35-foot-wide, 12-foot-deep gully at the north end of the park, and its support members, decking and handrails are deteriorating. Stowe Engineering will be paid up to $48,770 to demolish the old bridge and replace it with a similar span in the same location, according to the contract approved by the Carmel City Council in July.

Branson said foot traffic will not be affected, though people driving to the park will be directed to use the Flanders Mansion driveway at 25800 Hatton Road, rather than park near the Mountain View entrance.

PLANNING COMMISSION OKS WINE TASTING EVENT IN DEVENDORF PARK

By MARY SCHLEY

RESTAURANT OWNER Rich Pepe was hazy on the some of the details of an event he plans to hold in conjunction with seven Carmel-by-the-Sea wine-tasting rooms in Devendorf Park next month, but the community activities and cultural commission on Tuesday voted to recommend the city council approve it anyway, provided several key questions, such as the cost to attend, are answered first.

"This is an event we are devising to try to encourage people to come to downtown Carmel to use our parks and our playgrounds and shop in our stores and spend some money in our town," said Pepe, who sits on the ad hoc event committee with Mayor Jason Burnett that is proposing an outdoor culinary market to be held on Thursdays.

"We're hoping to do this event the Thursday before Thanksgiving," he told the commission at the Oct. 9 meeting. "We picked that date at [councilwoman] Victoria Beach's request to help promote Thursdays in Carmel."

Pepe said he is taking the lead in order to encourage other people to hold events in town. He also said organizers would collect a $10-per-person "requested donation" benefiting the Carmel Mission Foundation, of which he was recently made a board member. (The foundation is undertaking the $5 million seismic retrofit of the Basilica and has a list of other crucial improvements that still need funding.)

Pepe said he will pay the permit fees and other event costs.

"If there's money due at the end of the day, I am responsible," he said. "Someone has to step up and walk up the steps at city hall and sign on the dotted line."

He said the idea of the Carmel-by-the-Glass tasting event is to draw participants who would also shop in town beforehand and/or eat dinner here afterward.

Organizers would sell drink tickets or wristbands entitling participants to tasting, but they might be scaled according to the value of the particular wine the person wants to sample. (An expensive wine would require more drink tickets than a less expensive offering.) Pepe was unclear on the details due to conflicting information on whether the tickets could be sold at the park or had to be sold in the tasting rooms.

"It's not a drinking event; it's a tasting event," he explained further, and it would also include small bites from restaurants, and perhaps models showing off local stores' merchandise. Live musicians would perform but wouldn't be too loud. He said expected attendance of 150, and the park would be cordoned off so guests would funnel through one entrance.

Code enforcement officer Margi Perotti said the proposal sounded wonderful, "but it seems like it's more in concept than in actual fact of what he wants to do."

She also pointed out he had not addressed issues of trash and toilets. "If you're having 150 to 200 people, who's going to be cleaning up? The park has restrooms, but I don't know if they can handle that many people."

She asked how he planned to address security issues and parking. "Where are these people going to park?" she queried, suggesting he might run a shuttle between the city's free Vista Lobos parking lot at Torres and Third and the park a few blocks away.

Donna Jett, who recently rejoined the cultural commission, suggested Pepe hold the tasting during one of the slow months of January through April if it isn't approved in time for the November date. She also said he had some work left to do on the application.

"You're going to have to put exactly what you're going to do with tickets and sales," she said. "You're going to have to put this definitive information on paper before you're going to council."

She asked Pepe if he would be willing to hone the details and bring the proposal back to the commission for a recommendation, but he declined.

"We're hoping to get your approval to move to the council," he said. "What haven't I answered? We're trying to get it done today."

Assistant city administrator Heidi Burch suggested the commission could recommend approval on the condition Pepe provides all the details and works with city staff to complete his application.

And Jett told Pepe she believed the process he was undergoing was, in fact, streamlining.

"I think doing this is streamlining, going through our questions, because you're going to have a whole lot more at the city council," she said. The city council has the final say because the event involves alcohol.

Ultimately, the commission voted unanimously to send Pepe's proposal, once completed, to the council with a recommendation of approval.

New housing rules head to coastal commission

By MARY SCHLEY

WITH THE city council's final approval last week, zoning changes that will restrict the construction of homes in the business district are bound for the California Coastal Commission, which must OK the new rules before they can take effect.

The law would give the planning commission and city council authority to refuse a permit for a single-family home downtown.

The change was inspired by a property owner's plans, which were eventually approved, to construct back-to-back, two-unit residences in the downtown area on San Carlos Street between Seventh and Eighth avenues.

The new ordinance would require applicants to meet more strict criteria in order to get their residential projects approved.

The ordinance also imposes requirements for square footage in two-unit residential developments, with the intent that the smaller unit be rented separately and not used as a guest quarters, and prohibits building a new home on the ground level of any building in the central business district if it would front on the street.

At the Oct. 2 meeting, planning and building services manager Sean Conroy told the council the new rules seek "to maintain and encourage the existing mixed-use pattern in the commercial districts of commercial on the ground floor and residential on the second floor," "to avoid large mansions in the commercial districts," and "to avoid small units in two-unit developments that are more likely to be used as a guest-house than a rental unit."

On Sept. 11, the council adopted the ordinance, and last week, it bestowed its final OK. Because it affects the zoning code, and therefore the city's local coastal program, the coastal commission must also certify the ordinance before it can take effect.

Proposed Monterey Peninsula Water Supply Project

Notice of Preparation (NOP) of Environmental Impact Report for the Monterey Peninsula Water Supply Project

In accordance with the provisions of the California Environmental Quality Act (CEQA), the California Public Utilities Commission (CPUC) is preparing an Environmental Impact Report (EIR) for the California American Water Company's (CalAm) proposed Monterey Peninsula Water Supply Project (MPWSP). The MPWSP is comprised of various facilities and improvements, including: a seawater intake system; 9-million-gallons-per-day (mgd) desalination plant; water storage and conveyance facilities; and improvements to CalAm's existing Seaside Groundwater Basin Aquifer Storage and Recovery (ASR) facilities. As one alternative to the 9-mgd desalination plant, the EIR will evaluate a 5.4-mgd desalination plant coupled with a purchase agreement for 3,500 acre-feet-per-year of water from the Monterey Regional Water Pollution Control Agency's proposed Groundwater Replenishment Project. The MPWSP EIR will serve as a subsequent CEQA document to the CalAm Coastal Water Project EIR (SCH #2006101004) certified by the CPUC in December 2009. The proposed MPWSP is needed to replace existing water supplies that are constrained by legal decisions affecting the Carmel River and Seaside Groundwater Basin water supplies: State Water Resources Control Board Order No. WR 95-10 (Order 95-10) and the Monterey County Superior Court's adjudication of the Seaside Groundwater Basin. The EIR scoping period begins October 10, 2012 and closes at 5:00 p.m. on November 9, 2012.

The full NOP is available online at: <http://www.cpuc.ca.gov/PUC/energy/Environment/Current+Projects/esa/mpwsp/index.html>. Requests for hardcopies of the NOP should be sent to MPWSP-EIR@esasoc.com. The NOP is also posted at several Monterey County Library branches (Aromas, Pajaro, Prunedale, Castroville, Marina, Buena Vista, Carmel Valley, Gonzales, and Seaside) and the John Steinbeck, Cesar Chavez, El Gabilan, and CSU Monterey Bay Libraries.

Potter and Del Piero debate canceled

FIFTH DISTRICT supervisor candidates Dave Potter and Marc Del Piero were set to debate each other Oct. 8 at Carmel Middle School, but the event was canceled at the last moment when Potter's mother took ill.

According to Potter's staff, the supervisor traveled to Boston to be with his mother.

Neither Potter's staff nor Del Piero could confirm if the debate will be rescheduled. The event was sponsored by League of Women Voters of the Monterey Peninsula and the Carmel Valley Association.

A building contractor, Potter has represented the 5th District as its supervisor since 1996.

An attorney, Del Piero served three terms as a supervisor. He began his first term in 1981 when he was 27.

Potter and Del Piero are set to face each other in a runoff Nov. 6 because neither candidate received 50 percent of the votes cast June 5.

COLLINS

Court Judge Pamela L. Butler Thursday highlighted the disparity in witness statements made to district attorney investigator Tracey Spencer.

For example, Collins' attorney Michael Lawrence asked Spencer whether she recalled Collins telling her he had a conversation with Weeks in which Weeks told Collins he needed to take a leadership role in the regional project.

"According to Mr. Collins, that conversation took place," Spencer said. "According to Mr. Weeks, it did not."

Lawrence also said that, as time went by, Collins was "spending more and more time with county officials as it pertained to the regional project."

But she said county officials believed Collins' involvement with them was in his capacity as water agency board member, not a consultant to the private company.

Collins insists that they knew he was also working for RMC, but, "at no time did he say he was a consultant with RMC," Spencer alleged.

Lawrence also asked Spencer about a meeting with Collins, Weeks and Marina Coast Water District general manager Jim Heitzman that occurred at Weeks' office.

"Mr. Weeks denies that meeting took place," Spencer said.

"When you have people saying A happened and another person saying A did not happen," Butler said, "there is a credibility issue."

Collins is charged with more than 30 felonies and misdemeanors, including grand theft for billing Ocean Mist Farms for advisory work he never performed.

After two days of testimony, hearings to determine whether Collins will stand trial were continued to Nov. 13.

Brothers from Zimbabwe bring stone sculpting into the 21st century

By CHRIS COUNTS

TWO ARTISTS from a family known around the world for its unique stone sculpture — brothers Moses and Wellington Nyanhongo of Zimbabwe — return to Carmel Friday, Saturday and Sunday, Oct. 12-14 for a series of events at Gallery Sur.

The brothers kick off the weekend with a fundraising reception at the gallery Friday, Oct. 12, from 6 to 8 p.m., to raise money for the Maulana School for Orphans in Zimbabwe. The reception will also showcase the work of restaurateur Nico Mavris, who traveled to Zimbabwe and photographed some of the 1,700 orphans who visit the school each day.

The next morning — Saturday, Oct. 13 — the brothers present an outdoor sculpting demonstration at Piccadilly Park (On Dolores between Ocean and Seventh) from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m.

The same afternoon, Gallery Sur hosts a reception for the brothers from 4 to 7 p.m. And the following day, the downtown gallery stages a "Brunch with the Artists" event from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m.

Moses and Wellington Nyanhongo are members of the Nyanhongo family, which is famous in Zimbabwe for producing master sculptors.

"We just got in a new shipment of work from Zimbabwe, and it's the most creative work we've received from the Nyanhongs in over a decade," gallery owner David Potigian told The Pine Cone.

"We're seeing colors and patterns in the stones we've never seen before. You're going to be blown away," Potigian said.

Earlier this week, the brothers gave a demonstration of their work at Carmel Middle School.

Gallery Sur is located on the south side of Sixth between Dolores and Lincoln. Call (831) 626-2615 or visit www.gallerysur.com.

■ Gallery toasts top artist

The New Masters Gallery hosts a reception Saturday, Oct. 13, for the opening of an exhibit by painter Kevin Courter.

A realist with a streak of minimalism, Courter has taken home an impressive collection of laurels from the annual Carmel Art Festival, winning the Mayor's Choice, Artists' Choice, People's Choice and Best of Show awards in recent years.

"About eight years ago, one of my clients came in from Sonoma and asked me if I had ever heard of Kevin," gallery owner Bill Hill recalled. "She showed me his paintings, and I called him in a millisecond. We got his work and it just took off. He's been one of our top-selling artists since then."

The reception begins at 4 p.m. The gallery is located on Dolores between Ocean and Seventh. For more information, call (800) 336-4014 or visit www.newmasters-gallery.com.

■ Camera honors culture?

Photographer Matika Wilbur presents an exhibit of her work Saturday, Oct. 13, at the Big Sur Spirit Garden.

A member of the Tulalip Tribes in Washington state, Wilbur uses her camera to explore the challenges Native Americans face as they try to preserve their culture in a rapidly changing world.

"I constantly question how do I as a tribal person fit into society — a society of capitalism, materialism and stimulus packages — and yet at the same time honor the ways of my ancestors?" Wilbur explained.

For a peek at Wilbur's striking portfolio, visit www.matikawilbur.com.

A reception for Wilbur, featuring traditional music and her mom's tasty fry bread, starts at 6 p.m. The Big Sur Spirit Garden is located 27 miles south of Carmel on Highway 1. Call (831) 238-1056.

Howard King Boone

February 1, 1927 – August 5, 2012

Howard was born in Boise, Idaho, 1927 to James and Margaret Boone. He was the youngest of three children. After serving as a compounding pharmacist in the U.S.

Navy, he continued his education at Middlebury, where he was a Sigma Epsilon, receiving a Bachelor of Science in chemistry. In Seattle, after starting his career in retail business, he met and married Ann Bernard and together with their daughter, Tracey, in 1958, moved to Carmel, Ca. Their son, Judson King, was born in Carmel during the time they created and ran Brass International, Soaps n' Scents and several other businesses. Howard was an accomplished artist in many mediums including painting, sculpting and pen and ink. As a young man, he worked in animation and inked several comic strips including Blondie and Maggie & Jiggs. In later years, his sculpture was sold in Dolores Gallery in Carmel. He began teaching at Monterey Peninsula College and attended Chapman University, earning his Masters in Business Administration. After retirement, as a Professor Emeritus from MPC, he moved to Idaho where he built a log home in Crouch, a little town along the beautiful Payette river. Howard had a lifelong passion for golf and played almost every day into his eighties. Howard was a loving grandfather to Amanda Eleanor Gates and Samuel Miller Boone and a caring father in law to Jerry Gates and Janine Cate Boone. We will remember him for his glorious way of telling a story, quick wit and priceless sense of humor, insatiable quest for knowledge, great conversation and incredibly generous spirit. He will be greatly missed by his daughter, Tracey (Jerry) Gates, son Judson (Janine) Boone, grandchildren Amanda Gates and Sam Boone, sister, Margaret Smyser and several nieces and nephews. His brother, William Boone preceded him in death. He also leaves many great friends. A celebration of life was held in Crouch, Idaho.

Historic cabin gets makeover; bats OK

By CHRIS COUNTS

AFTER IT was closed briefly following Labor Day, the historic Whalers Cabin Museum at Point Lobos State Reserve reopened this week with a new barn shake roof — and a slightly displaced bat population.

The nonprofit Point Lobos Foundation — with help from the California State Parks Foundation and Monterey Peninsula Foundation — raised $27,000 to pay for the work, which was complicated not only by the task of recreating a 160-year-old handmade barn shake roof, but by the challenge of not harming any bats during the construction. At least two species of bats were living under the roof when the project began. “We had to pick a time of year when the bats were hibernating or nesting,” explained Augie Louis, a Point Lobos Foundation board member.

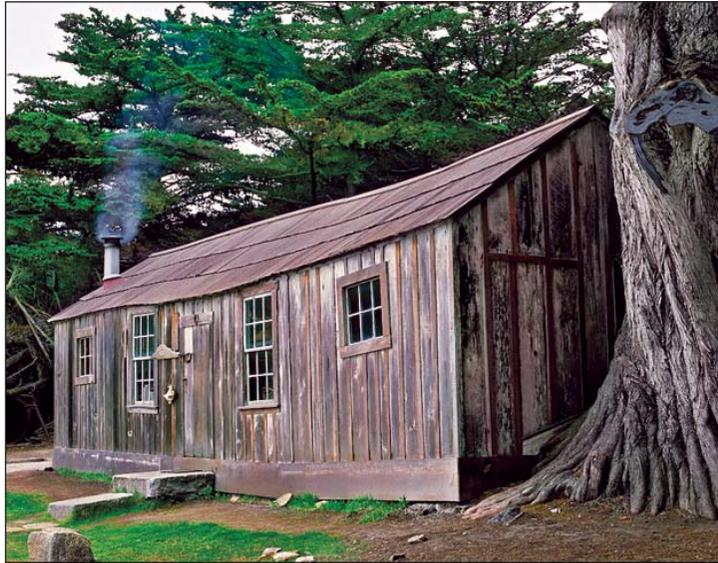

To protect the bats during construction, a consultant was hired. “When a bat was found, the consultant captured it and released it after dark,” Louis said.

Bats are vulnerable to predators such as birds if they’re released during the day, according to Louis.

The Point Lobos Foundation, meanwhile, continues its support of local state parks, which have seen their budgets slashed during the economic downturn. Sandy Hale, the foundation’s president, said that “with continued pressure on state budgets, private and public partnerships will likely be a key source of funds to maintain state parks facilities over the coming years.”

Constructed in 1851 by Chinese fishermen, the cabin has housed Japanese whalers, Japanese abalone divers, World War II soldiers, and state parks ranger Chuck Bancroft, who lived there in the mid-1980s. Since 1987, the cabin — which overlooks Whalers Cove — has served as a museum dedicated to the reserve’s cultural history. It was added to the National Registry of Historic Places in 2007.

Thanks to the Point Lobos Foundation and several other generous donors, the historic Whalers Cabin at Point Lobos State Reserve has a new barn shake roof and has been reopened.

Art and taxes center stage in ‘Chesapeake’

PINE CONE STAFF REPORT

A PLAY opening Friday, Oct. 12, at the Cherry Center for the Arts examines the touchy subject of taxpayers funding art projects.

Written by Lee Blessing, directed by Conrad Selvig and starring Ron Genauer, “Chesapeake” is a one-man play that tells the story of an outrageous performance artist named Kerr, who is awarded a National Endowment of the Arts grant to further his somewhat questionable creative ambitions. The grant catches the attention of a Southern senator, Therm Pooley, who is campaigning to eliminate federal funding for the arts. “It’s a funny play that is beautifully written,” Selvig said.

Genauer, meanwhile, is just right for the role, Selvig explained.

“I’ve worked with Ron a number of times, and he’s a wonderful actor,” he added. “He has a tremendous memory, he has the ability to do different voices, and he’s patient. I find him very engaging.”

Friday and Saturday performances start at 8 p.m., while Sunday matinees begin at 2 p.m. Tickets are $20. “Chesapeake” continues through Oct. 28. The Cherry Center is located at Fourth and Guadalupe. Call (831) 238-1789.

Fundraising barn dance kicks off new Carmel Valley tradition

By CHRIS COUNTS

THREE LIVE acts with an affection for country music — The California Cowboys, Heartstrings and The HayBoys — provide the soundtrack for Saturday's first "Party in the Village" at Hidden Valley Music Seminars in Carmel Valley.

The guitarist for Heartstrings and a Carmel Valley native, Marj Ingram Viales came came up with the idea for the event to raise money for the Carmel Valley Village Improvement Committee and the Carmel Valley Historical Society.

"When I was thinking about a fundraiser, I was thinking about all the country music I was raised on in Carmel Valley, so I asked Heartstrings and The HayBoys to be opening acts for the Party in the Village," she explained. "Then we were lucky enough to have the California Cowboys be our headliner. Their crowd-pleasing music will have everyone dancing, just like in the old days."

CHS graduate launches film career with ode to Wright Brothers

By CHRIS COUNTS

PRODUCED BY a 2003 Carmel High School graduate Tara Tucker, a short film about aviation pioneers Wilbur and Orville Wright, "First in Flight," debuts Sunday, Oct. 14, at the Carmel Art and Film Festival.

Starring Aaron Farb as Orville and Tony Hale as Wilbur, the 30-minute film is set in 1911 as Wilbur lays dying from tuberculosis. Together, the brothers look back at their challenges, their failures, and ultimately, the successful flight they launched in 1903 that eventually changed the course of history.

"The question that haunts the brothers is, 'Was it worth it?'" explained Tucker, who graduated from the American Film Institute in Los Angeles in June. "In the end, they agreed it was worth it because they did it together."

It's no surprise Tucker chose a story about aviation for her first film — her father, Sean D. Tucker, is a professional stunt pilot.

"He's been flying stunts my whole life,"

More of Mundaka, the Quail & Olive and Post Ranch Inn's new flavors

By MARY SCHLEY

MUNDAKA, CARMEL'S only Spanish restaurant, is often bustling from the pre-dinner hour until late at night, drawing people with its brilliant tapas prepared by chef Brandon Miller, lively atmosphere and compelling cocktails.

Freshly inspired by a recent culinary tour of Barcelona and San Sebastian he took with Miller, owner Gabe Georis this week said he hopes to expand the restaurant into a vacant shop next door to serve as a coffee and sandwich shop daily, and a private dining room and bar a few nights a week. He wouldn't be adding more seats to the restaurant, since that's tightly regulated by city law and the water board, but instead shuffling them around to make more space in the main dining room and kitchen, similar to the expansion of La Bicyclette a block away a few years ago.

The daily fare would include Ritual Roasters coffee drinks, sandwiches, a couple of soups and a salad or two, with beer and wine available, too, but not a full bar.

"And then on Thursday, Friday and Saturday nights, we would have it be like a little pintxos bar," he said. Pintxos are the finger-foods common in the Basque country of Northern Spain, and while Mundaka always has a couple of different pintxos available at the bar, the expansion would allow for much more.

"We would up the ante — do some more interesting things and more variety — and that way we create a little bit of back and forth between the two spaces," he said. "It will have a casual kind of bar feeling, where you hang out and nibble."

The new room would be open from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Sunday through Wednesday, and from 10 a.m. to 11 p.m. Thursday through Saturday, while Mundaka is open for dinner nightly.

At this point, though, the expansion plan is more of a vision than a certainty, since Georis still has to seek approval from the Carmel Planning Commission at a hearing set for next month.

In the meantime, there's plenty of reason to stop by Mundaka, located on the east side of San Carlos Street between Ocean and Seventh avenues, including the bar's intriguing spirits and cocktails, and an ever-changing menu also inspired by Miller's culinary tour in Spain last month.

Call (831) 624-7400 for reservations or to learn more. The website, www.mundakacarmel.com, is also helpful, though outdated (for instance, it still lists Sonoma foie gras on the menu, and as much as many of us wish that were true, it in fact disappeared when the state's ban on the fattened-geese-liver delicacy took effect in July).

■ Sierra Mar lunch revamp

As the new guy at the storied Post Ranch Inn — which boasts the highest average room rate in the country — executive chef John Cox has a high standard to uphold, not to mention a substantial legacy left by former executive chef Craig von Foerster, who retired this summer after nearly two decades at the helm of the inn's Sierra Mar restaurant. But the stunning Big Sur property and its distinguished clientele are not unfamiliar territory for Cox, whose penchant for creative — and beautiful — cuisine has become especially well known during his most recent stint as head chef at Casanova and La Bicyclette restaurants in Carmel.

While regular Sierra Mar lunch customers loved the little gem salad with fennel and feta, the Reuben sandwich and other simple but expertly executed items, Cox decided to overhaul the midday menu to make it more sophisticated, as well as to capitalize on the foraged flora and fauna from the property — including the pond's nonnative red Louisiana crawfish — and ingredients from the inn's expansive kitchen garden (now being managed by Anton Tymoshonko from Carmel Valley and Fiona Bond from Love Apple Farm in Saratoga).

"With their help, I am going to dramatically increase the edible resources on property,” Cox said. An heirloom apple tree in the garden produces 18-ounce beauties, and row crops offer greens, herbs, tiny delicate strawberries, edible flowers and a bounty of other produce, but Cox plans to cultivate even more.

Most of all, he wants to present food his customers simply can't find anywhere else.

“The food has always been delicious, and the view is incredible; however, I didn't feel like we were giving guests an opportunity to experience the gourmet side of Post Ranch Inn,” he explained. “Lunch at Sierra Mar shouldn't be rushed; it should be a leisurely escape, where guests can relax and indulge in an unparalleled dining experience.”

And so, he created a wholly new lunch program: three courses for $40, though any item can be ordered a la carte.

Among the five first-course options is a trio of incredibly fresh Morro Bay oysters with cucumber, lemon verbena and cumin seeds, each garnished with a different edible flower. The Mangalista country ham, thinly sliced and served with a goat butter biscuit and huckleberry-anise hyssop jam, is delicious. Everything is pleasing to the eye.

Entrée highlights include the steelhead trout (and on the Monterey Peninsula, where this fish is highly politicized and is the reason the main water source is considered illegal by the state, it's particularly satisfying to eat one) with crispy potato cake, smoked trout roe and Meyer lemon-dill crème fraîche. Delicately pink and meaty, steelhead is quite close to salmon in texture and flavor, though more subtle. (Of course, Cox's steelhead is not from the Carmel River.)

Also exquisite are the Lone Mountain Ranch Wagyu steak with local oyster mushrooms, Cambozola cheese and fingerling potatoes, and the Berkshire pork tenderloin, which is indeed tender, with shaved Brussels sprouts, smoked bacon, fennel and grilled pear. For dessert, the chocolate truffle cake with mint chocolate chip ice cream and a cocoa nib tuile is a must for any chocolate lover, and the Greek yoghurt panna cotta is quite good, too.

When he arrived at the Post Ranch Inn in June, Cox said he was surprised to learn that while many people have heard of it, few have dined in its restaurant, perhaps believing it was open only to hotel guests.

“People can visit us for lunch, get a taste of our Grand Award-winning wine list and a three-course meal while enjoying the incredible view from our dining room or patio,” Cox said. “Dinner will also be changing soon — but I will save that for another time.”

To reserve a spot for lunch or dinner on the deck or in the dining room — both of which offer breathtaking coastal views — visit www.postranchinn.com/dining/ or call (831) 667-2800.

■ New Village boutique

A cardiologist who knows a thing or two about heart-healthy ingredients has opened a new boutique in Carmel Valley Village that reflects his faith in the Mediterranean diet. The Quail & Olive, located at 3 Pilot Road, is celebrating its grand opening Saturday, Oct. 13, and is the result of Dr. Stephen Brabeck's “passion in food and its role in a healthy life.”

His new shop offers olive oil and balsamic vinegar tastings, 15 varieties of California-grown extra virgin olive oil and 10 different balsamic vinegars, as well as cosmetics, accessories, cookbooks and other related goodies.

According to Brabeck, the store's team

“personally monitors grove-to-mill-to-market quality” to ensure the freshest and best olive oils, and his background in biochemistry “allows him a deep understanding of the factors that lead to oil rancidity, and how to interpret and monitor for the biochemical signs of declining oil quality, and also how to prevent or retard that decline.”

■ Last Hello Sunshine

Oct. 18 will mark the Hyatt Carmel Highlands' final Hello Sunshine Thursday of the year, when hotel guests mingle with locals to savor a gorgeous Pacific sunset, sip cocktails and taste tapas created by executive chef Matt Bolton.

From 5 to 7 p.m. that day, cocktails are half price, and the purchase of two appetizers gets a third for free. Bolton's tapas menu includes truffle Pecorino arancini, a charcuterie plate with duck prosciutto and other meats, olives, wild mushroom bruschetta with arugula and Parmigiano Reggiano, and littleneck clams with chorizo, lemongrass, rice wine and grilled ciabatta.

Joe Indence and Lee Durley will provide musical entertainment from 7 to 10 p.m.

For more information, call (831) 620-1234 or visit www.carmelhighlands.hyatt.com. The Highlands Inn is located at 120 Highlands Drive off of Highway 1 south of Carmel.

■ Oktoberfest continues at B&B

Baum & Blume will hold its 2nd Annual Oktoberfest in the carriage house at 4 El Caminito in Carmel Valley Village Oct. 19 and 20.

For lunch, starting at noon, consider the yellow split pea soup with ham; the Farmer's Platter with beer cheese, pickled egg and summer sausage; or the “Strammer Max.” Evening specials will include bockwurst with sweet and sour red cabbage, chicken braised with apples and cream, and grilled salmon with Grüne Sosse. Desserts will be Frankfurter Kranze and Black Forest cheesecake.

Prices run $8 to $21. For reservations, call (831) 659-0400.

■ Wine Down Wednesdays

Tarpy's Roadhouse celebrated its revamped menu and a new look with a party that drew several hundred fans and friends Sunday afternoon. During the past few years, owner Tony Tollner has updated and upgraded all of his restaurants — first Montrieo, and then the Rio Grill — and Tarpy's, which was closed for a week last month for remodeling, was the final venue to undergo an overhaul.

Among the most notable physical changes is the bar, which was enlarged by moving a wall farther into the dining area to accommodate a few much-needed tables. The bar itself got a sprucing-up, and the beautiful displays of liquor bottles are no longer obscured by a gigantic espresso machine. In short, the bar feels more like a bar and less like an afterthought crammed into the side of a dining room.

The drinks list got a lot of TLC, too. Look for new creations featuring artisan liquors, fresh ingredients and unique twists.

Speaking of drinking, Tarpy's also announced its lineup of featured vintners for Wine Down Wednesdays in October and November. Each week, the featured winery serves tastes while the restaurant offers those

FILM FEST

Tucker told The Pine Cone. "I grew up around pilots and planes. I really believe in the magic of aviation."

Yet it was one of Tucker's film school classmates — the film's director Brandon Hess — who came up with the idea for doing a movie about the Wright brothers. "He pitched the idea during our first year at school," she recalled. "I couldn't say no because of my passion for aviation."

The film — which serves as a master's thesis for Tucker, Hess and their student crew — was shot on a $65,000 budget, the maximum amount permitted by the film school. They got the money from friends and family, along with a big boost from the Alfred P. Sloan Foundation, which donated $25,000.

In addition to extensively researching the Wright brothers and their achievements, Tucker met with Amanda Wright Lane of Dayton, Ohio, the famous siblings' oldest living relative.

twang, and a rock 'n' roll swagger, the California Cowboys feature Gary Potterton on lead guitar, Robert W. Smith on lead vocals and rhythm guitar, Hal Atkinson on drums, Cary Atkinson on bass, and special guest Bobby Black on pedal steel.

With a lineup that includes Laura Burian on violin, Paulette Lynch on hammered dulcimer, Viales on guitar, Rick Chelew on bass and Mike Osgood on mandolin, Heartstrings specialize in playing traditional acoustic music from all over the world.

Singer-songwriter and local music promoter Kiki Wow will serve as emcee of the event, which will also feature a raffle and a silent auction.

The concert and barn dance starts at 6:30 p.m. Tickets — at $35 each — are available at a variety of Carmel Valley businesses and at www.partyinthevillage.org.

Rockin' and rootsy blues at The Fuse

Taking its name from an intersection in Salinas — where John and Clay streets meet — The Johnny Clay Band plays an original mix of rockin' and rootsy blues Friday, Oct. 12, at the Carmel Mission Inn's Fuse Lounge. The band features a lineup that includes John Acuna on guitar, bass and vocals, Pete Wise on bass, guitar and vocals, "Mister" Allen on keyboards and vocals, Randy Wallis on guitar, and David Serrano on drums and vocals. After opening for War, the Marshall Tucker Band, the Average White Band and others, the band last year released its debut recording, "Born on 9/11," with 50 percent of the proceeds from its title track going to groups that support disabled veterans.

The following night — Saturday, Oct. 13 — The Dino Vera Band plays soul, jazz and r&b at the Fuse Lounge.

Both shows start at 9 p.m. and there's no cover. The Fuse Lounge is located inside the Carmel Mission Inn at 3665 Rio Road. Call (831) 624-1841 or visit www.carmelmissioninn.

A song that fits

Steeped in the rich and diverse musical traditions of Western North Carolina, singer Nancy Jones returns Saturday, Oct. 13, to Plaza Linda restaurant in Carmel Valley Village. She serves up her own blend of blues, folk, front-porch traditionals, gospel and Southern rock.

"My songs are born from experience and longing," says Jones of her music. They are a musical and lyrical treatment to what occurs in everyday life. My life, your life. My shoes don't necessarily fit everybody, but I bet I've got a song that does."

The preceding night — Friday, Oct. 12 — Singer-songwriter Kiki Wow will be joined on stage at Plaza Linda by Guitar Bob of the local classic rock cover band, Victory ative.

Understandably, Tucker is excited about seeing the World Premiere of her film Sunday at the Golden Bough Playhouse.

"It's a powerful little film," she added. "It's emotionally captivating. I couldn't be happier with it. I really believe it's going to take flight."

As part of the Carmel Art and Film Festival, more than 100 feature-length films, short films and documentaries will be presented at a variety of downtown venues Friday through Sunday, Oct. 12-14.

"First in Flight" screens at 4 p.m. The Golden Bough is located on the west side of Monte Verde between Eighth and Ninth.

Day passes — good for all films screened before 5 p.m. — are $50. A $195 pass provides access to all films and some events as well. A limited number of individual tickets for films — $10 for general admission and $5 for students and active military — will be available each day. Tickets to Friday's concert are $20. In addition to visiting a close friend who lives in the valley, Nygaard is in town to promote her latest recording, "Let The Storm Roll In."

"She's a delightful lady with a beautiful voice," said Bucky Jackson of the Magic Circle Theatre. "Her music is a blend between folk and Americana. Not only is she a great singer and songwriter, but her storytelling is captivating."

The concert starts at 7:30 p.m. Tickets are $20. The Magic Circle Theatre is located at 8 El Caminito. Call (831) 659-7500.

American classic at the Works

A Santa Cruz resident who has long been regarded as one of the Monterey Bay's best folksingers, Mary McCaslin performs Saturday, Oct. 13, at the Works in Pacific Grove.

Walking the fine line between country and folk, McCaslin writes songs that draw inspiration from the Old West. "Mary is an American classic," said Robert Marcum, owner of the P.G. bookstore and coffeehouse.

The show starts at 7:30 p.m., and there's a $12 cover. The Works is located at 667 Lighthouse Ave. For more information, call (831) 372-2242 or visit www.theworkspg.com.

FEE

“The fee — or tax — we are being charged by the state does not enhance fire protection services one iota,” insisted Butch Kronlund, president of the Coast Property Owners Association.

And longtime Carmel Knolls resident Bob Evans said the fact that fire officials weren't involved in assessing the new fee, which is being billed to property owners via an independent contractor and is due by the end of October, shows that the state intends to use the money for other purposes.

“I've been hearing from neighbors up and down Carmel Knolls and across the canyon who are fighting mad about this,” said Evans, who rallied a group of them to attend a September Cypress Fire Protection District board meeting where he said board members and Cal Fire personnel were also befuddled by the new fee.

“Some of these people on fixed incomes are saying this is ridiculous, because they already pay plenty of property taxes,” he added.

The fee applies to people in “state responsibility areas,” which are defined as land where the state “is financially responsible for the prevention and suppression of wildfires.” They don't include lands within city boundaries or under federal ownership, but they do cover properties that also lie within special fire districts, such as much of unincorporated Carmel, the Carmel Highlands, Pebble Beach and Carmel Valley.

“A lot of people are going to be caught short on this and not know what they're supposed to do about it,” Evans said.

Hutchinson said local Cal Fire officials are waiting to hear from Sacramento how the money will be allocated and what it will cover.

“We haven't had any direction. Basically, when funds are released is when we get the direction down in the field. We really don't have anything to work with until they come in,” he said. The state established a call center for property owners to obtain more information and set up a website, www.firepreventionfee.org, that includes mapping software so people can see if they will have to pay. It shows that homeowners in Jacks Peak, areas south of the City of Carmel and down the coast, and up Carmel Valley — except along the river — are subject to the fee.

Meanwhile, the Howard Jarvis Taxpayers Association class action lawsuit to stop it was filed on behalf of plaintiffs in Kern County, Mendocino County, Calaveras County, Butte County, San Bernardino County, Solano County, San Luis Obispo County, El Dorado County and Lassen County. The association claims the group represents “a cross-section of the roughly 825,000 property owners subject to the new fee.”

Association lawyers are contending the fee “is really a tax that needed a two-thirds vote in the Legislature to pass, but garnered only a bare majority and therefore never became law.”

They filed the complaint against the California Department of Forestry and Fire Protection, as well as the State Board of Equalization, since they are identifying owners of the parcels subject to the new tax and collecting the money.

Evans, who received his bill last week, said fees not paid by Oct. 29 will be subjected to penalties and interest, so the Howard Jarvis Taxpayers Association is advising property owners to pay it under protest.

“Jarvis claims we need to pay the bill, write on the check, ‘Paid under protest,’ and mail the protest form to three different addresses,” he said.

The association established a website showing how to protest the fee and providing the necessary forms, and property owners can also sign up for email bulletins to remain informed regarding the progress of the class action suit. Visit www.HJTA.org and click on the “Fire Tax Protest” banner.

“If the class action suit is successful, approximately 825,000 homeowners could be eligible for refunds,” according to the HJTA.

group got a payout after HYH and Monterey County settled a lawsuit over permits for Butterfly Village. The Coalition agreed to go along with the settlement, and let a scaled back version of the project proceed, in exchange for a $600,000 payment to what became the North Salinas Valley Fund for Responsible Growth and the source of its donations to Del Piero.

Engell told The Pine Cone in June the tax-exempt organization — registered with the Internal Revenue Service as a 501(c)4 that enables it to fund political campaigns — is dedicated to protecting North Monterey County and the Salinas Valley from “irresponsible development.” The supervisorial district Del Piero hopes to represent doesn’t extend to those parts of the county, but as a county supervisor he would vote on land use issues that did.

Del Piero’s other contributions included another $500 from attorney and Monterey Peninsula Water Management District Board member Kristi Markey, for a total of $1,500; another $2,000 from Castroville oceanographer John Oliver, bringing his total to $4,000; $3,000 from Carmel resident Brigitte Wasserman, bringing her total donations to $8,000; and $250 from land use and water activist Jan Brennan, bringing her donations to $1,350. Former LandWatch executive director Chris Fitz gave an additional $4,000, bringing his total donations to $5,000 for the year.

Also, a Carmel Valley resident who pleaded guilty in 2003 to threatening a public official after making a series of threatening phone calls to Potter and his staff has also been donating to Del Piero. David Fairhurst, who was also the subject of a restraining order obtained by Potter in 2008, has donated a total of $2,099 to Del Piero’s campaign.

Potter’s support from local elected officials was trumpeted Wednesday when U.S. Rep. Sam Farr, Carmel Mayor Jason Burnett, Sand City Mayor Dave Pendergrass and part because the project doesn’t have a contractor yet. “We’re working on construction traffic numbers now,” Szytel said.

When the project eventually does get started, both the Cachagua and Sleepy Hollow communities will be significantly impacted by the project’s traffic.

“There will be some short-term pains, but hopefully, there will be some long-term gains for everybody,” said Rich Svindland, Cal Am’s director of engineering, referring to the project’s goals, which include reducing seismic risks and improving steelhead habitat.

According to Svindland, the road agreement was finalized shortly before the Sept. 12 hearing because “the county needed proof” that Cal Am could use San Clemente Drive for at least part of the dam-removal project.

After voicing their opposition to the traffic plan at a Sept. 25 meeting at the Cachagua General Store, residents will get Assemblyman Bill Monning, a Carmel resident, held a press conference to publicly support him.

Potter also received $1,500 from the Monterey County Deputy Sheriff’s Association, for a total of $3,894; $4,000 from the La Jolla-based UCP East Garrison, for a total of $6,000; $1,000 from Concord Real Estate Developer Jon Q. Reynolds, bringing his total to $6,000; and $5,000 from Salinas-based RC Farms.

another chance to comment Wednesday, Oct. 24, when the store hosts meetings at 1 and 6 p.m. The meetings were originally set for Oct. 11.

The change of date gives Cal Am two more weeks to weigh alternatives and mitigation measures in response to residents’ concerns — and provide more details about the volume of traffic that will impact San Clemente Drive and other Upper Carmel Valley roads.

“We are evaluating additional measures to reduce impacts of the project to the Cachagua community and need more time to ensure we are prepared to adequately address residents’ questions and concerns,” said Catherine Bowie, a Cal Am spokesperson.

Set to begin this fall, the $83 million project can’t get started until the Monterey County Planning Commission issues a permit. Most of the actual dismantling of the dam will occur between 2013 and 2015. The planning commission postponed taking action on the project Sept. 12.

The Cachagua General Store is located at 18840 Cachagua Road.

At Monterey Peninsula Country Club Tuesday, golf and charity VIPs gathered to celebrate the Monterey Peninsula Foundation's remarkable fundraising success over the past 65 years. Since the founding of the Crosby Clambake in 1947, the foundation has raised more than $100 million for good causes by sponsoring events such as the AT&T Pebble Beach National Pro-Am and the Nature Valley First Tee Open. At upper left, Hon. John Anton, his wife Marilyn, Clint Eastwood and Hon. John Phillips — all longtime supporters of MPF — enjoy a toast. Also at the event were P.B. Co. co-owner Dick Ferris and the company's senior V.P. of Golf, RJ Harper (center photo), Carmel City Council member (and 22-year AT&T volunteer) Ken Talmage and P.B. Co. CEO Bill Perocchi (upper right). Later, P.B. Co. co-owner Peter Ueberroth, MPF CEO Steve John, Eastwood and PGA Tour official Andy Pazdar displayed a U.S. flag which was flown over the U.S. Capitol in Washington, D.C., in honor of the foundation's achievement (below).

'Last Hometown' has a bunch of brand-new busybodies

FREQUENTLY ASKED questions about Pacific Grove ....

Question: By the noise emanating from Pacific Grove High School at all hours of the day, I've developed a strong suspicion that students there appear to be enjoying themselves.

Their insidious clamor has detracted from my evening readings of Proust. And it has reached the point that I am sometimes unable to hear my wind chimes, which my wellness practitioner/spiritual advisor tells me bring restorative calm to my life. What can be done about this troublesome problem?

Answer: Did you say wind chimes, plural? As in more than one chime? I'm afraid that our city code enforcement unit must cite you for violating Section 23.9 of the Pacific Grove Discordant Noise Limitation Regulation, which limits the number of wind chimes a resident may keep based on the square footage of a home.

Please know that you can appeal your citation to the Pacific Grove Discordant Noise Limitation Code Enforcement Advisory Committee, which will submit its findings to the planning commission, which will submit its recommendation to the city council, which will schedule a six-hour public hearing. Or you can pay the $475 fine now.

Question: My neighbor recently cut a pomegranate tree from his front yard. I have it on impeccable authority that the pomegranate tree was first planted in that yard by John Steinbeck's neighbor's second cousin as a tribute to Elmarie Dyke, the woman who insured that Pacific Grove would remain a dry city.

My question is this: Does this city have so little respect for its cultural resources that it would allow this philistine neighbor to cut down what is obviously a treasured historic plant?

Answer: Thank you for the information, sir. If you wouldn't mind, could you please send us your offending neighbor's address so that we might investigate this egregious allegation?

Q: Have city officials ever considered any type of low-cost housing project so that the people who do the menial work in Pacific Grove might be able to live there?

A: Hey! Who let the comedian in?

Q: Last week, I found a man with binoculars peering over my backyard fence. I noticed he was carrying a clipboard. When I confronted him, he told me he was a deputized volunteer for the Pacific Grove Code Enforcement Brigade.

He also informed me that I had three lounge chairs in my backyard and that, based on the number of bathrooms in my house, city code only allows two lounge chairs. He then wrote me a citation alleging that I was in violation of the city's Lounge Chair Suppression Regulation.

Could you explain why it's necessary to deputize a team of nosy busy-bodies to poke

beyond the realm

By JOE LIVERNOIS

into everybody's business?

A: If we told you, we'd have to kill you.

Q: Between the proposed skyscraper hotel and the repair of the pool at Lovers Point, isn't the city tacitly inviting hooligans into Pacific Grove?

A: We have a great relationship with the Salinas Police Gang Task Force, and we will call for their assistance when necessary.

Q: But what about that infernal racket coming from the high school?

A: Ma'am, I think . . .

Q: And the pomegranate tree?

A: Please, sir, we will . . .

Q: And the code enforcement posse?

Q: And the skyscraper?

Q: And the hooligans?

A: Ah, never mind.

Dear Editor,

Supervisor Dave Potter saved Rippling River — 79 affordable homes for physically challenged adults. He stopped developers from demolition. Marc Del Piero gave developers the green light with his, "Yes," vote to build on slopes over 30 degrees and on hill-sides at Carmel Valley Ranch. So, who's the environmentalist?

Potter has worked hard on flood control at the lagoon, Mission Fields, and the mouth of Carmel Valley. Del Piero brags that he wrote the wetlands protection ordinance — so why is he building on wetlands in Moss Landing? Those ugly pilings will be home to a restaurant a 30-room inn, a market, gift shop, wine shop, deli, bakery and more, accompanied by lots of parking.

Whom do you trust with the future of Carmel Valley? Re-elect Supervisor Potter and be sure!

Margaret Robbins,

The art of handwriting and the instruments with which to do it well

I MET Detlef Bittner last December when I went to talk to him at his boutique writing emporium on Ocean Avenue about sponsoring a detective series I was writing (montereymystery.com). He said, "Yes," almost immediately, and because the chief protagonist of the series is "the finest consulting detective since Sherlock Holmes," we got into a discussion of Sir Arthur Conan Doyle's, "The White Company."

Anyway, and more importantly, and kinda outta the blue, he then told me he had the perfect pen for me. I hadn't even said that I was looking, but he was right. And that was no small feat, since I've been writing professionally for almost 50 years but had never encountered a pen I loved. Detlef showed me a retractable fountain pen made by Pilot, and I was completely taken. I have treasured it since, not letting anyone so much as try it. Every time I use it, I feel a special thrill. No kidding.

I should note that this pen cost only a fraction of some of the writing implements he purveys, but I can't imagine ever finding a pen that means as much to me as the one in my pocket today. Does that sound crazy? More to the point, how did Detlef know, after just a few minutes of conversation?

"I've done it for so long, it has become a natural gift," he said. "It happens with my customers all the time."

Detlef was born in Ulm, Germany, and grew up in Bremen. From the time he was 14, he was telling his friends he would be moving to the promise land, California. And in 1986, at the age of 22, he packed two suitcases and did just that. He was part of a new steel-die engraving and graphic design enterprise opening an office in San Francisco.

He was there for three years, then two years in Beverly Hills, before moving to Carmel. He's been here since 1991, and lives with his wife and daughter. He started his business from scratch in the Court of the Fountains and relocated to his current storefront in 1999. He also opened a showroom in Honolulu, but he moth-balled it earlier this year, because the location wasn't working for him.

"I'm really the lonely outpost here on the West Coast, as far as high-end writing businesses are concerned. Mostly all the other pen stores are on the East Coast. But Carmel has been an amazing place for a store like this — a perfect fit with all the history, and all the writers and authors."

There are three legs to the business. The first is its showroom, the second is a 20,000-name mailing list, and the third is the Internet, where Bittner was one of the first retailers, launching in 1994. Keeping the website up-to-date is a huge task, since Bittner's has more than 10,000 items for sale.

How did he get interested in pens? His father had beautiful handwriting, and Detlef got his own first fountain pen when he was 14. He went on to create his own calligraphy and writing style. He also apprenticed at an engraving shop, and he met some of the great font designers.

I wondered, with all his experience, whether he could tell something about a person from their handwriting. "Oh yes, it's really meaningful," he said, noting that in earlier times, graphology was very important — that, in interviews for important business positions, an applicant was expected to submit a hand-written resume and the handwriting was analyzed. It is so far from where we are today.

"I really wonder if we are losing something." Cursive writing (script) is produced in the same section of the brain as creativity and intuition, he said, and "has a direct connection to the development of that area of the brain. If all you do is type on a keyboard or touchpad, that development gets stunted," he continued.

Detlef even says he knows computer programmers who have bought pens from him to write their code in long-hand because the thinking process is completely different — and more out-of-the-box — in longhand.

With email and texting, letter-writing may seem to be a dying art, but Detlef has seen a number of young people showing an interest in handwriting. "Journaling is coming back. I really think overall we need the yin and the yang. We need the technology, but we need an outlet that gets us back to our feelings."

with — and remains hard to deal with," Brown said this week. "For two months, I had a hard time walking in crowds and having people walk up behind me and sudden noises — things like that. I feel like it's starting to get better, though."

Fallon, who was arraigned in August and appeared in court last month, pleaded guilty to misdemeanor battery in front of Monterey County Superior Court Judge Larry Hayes Sept. 28. Brown did not attend any of the court proceedings and said deputy district attorney Sarah Ma read him a letter from Fallon over the phone, but he was unimpressed.

"It was a letter saying that he was wrong and sorry, and that he was hoping to move forward in a better way," Brown said. "It did not impact me one way or the other."

Brown also said he understood Fallon could have served jail time, but he asked the prosecutor to go for punishment that would not separate the man from his young kids. "His kids are as much victims of this situation as mine," he said.

And while he deliberately avoided contemplating it during the criminal proceedings, Brown said a civil lawsuit against Fallon is not out of the question.

"I get asked that question all the time, but I've been focused on seeing the criminal case through," he said. "And we'll see what goes on from here."

Moreover, Brown said he's looking forward to helping to coach his daughter's soccer team and putting the whole experience behind him.

"I've coached in this area for a really long time as a volunteer — everything from 4-year-olds to varsity sports — and it's been totally without incident and very positive, a highlight of my life," he said.

HOMELESS

the system isn't perfect. "If someone were to want to go outside for some reason, they could," he said. "But it would be hard to do that without disturbing the other guys."

During the night of the alleged rape, the men slept — as they usually do — in St. Mary's Edwards Hall, which contains a rear door that opens directly to a wooden deck where the woman had been sleeping and where she told police she had been raped.

However, Johnsen said nothing seemed out of the ordinary that night. "I-HELP overnight monitors said they had not noticed anyone missing away from the church that evening or early morning of the incident," he said.

Police investigation continues

Meanwhile, Pacific Grove Police Cmdr. John Nyunt told The Pine Cone Tuesday that representatives from I-HELP have been very cooperative during the investigation. Nyunt said he is trying to interview all the men who were at the church the night of the alleged assault.

"We want to be sensitive to the victim's needs," he said. "However, we also don't want to jump to any conclusions concerning our potential suspects."

Nyunt said he didn't know whether forensics technicians or medical personnel had collected any semen from the scene and declined to say whether the woman had vaginal injuries. However, the woman did have an abrasion under the left eye.

Johnsen said I-HELP is intended to be a six-month program to offer homeless men shelter while they achieve certain self-improvement goals, like getting a job.

"We have an expectation they do certain activities to get them back on their feet and be self-sustaining," he said.

Each of them has to register for the program, which creates a file for each man containing his personal information.

At about 5 p.m. each day, a bus picks up roughly 25 to 30 men on Del Monte Boulevard in Monterey, and they're searched for drugs, alcohol and weapons.

From there, they're transported to one of the 30 churches on the Peninsula.

If the men don't have their own blankets and pillows, they're usually provided once at their destination, they're often fed (St. Mary's has a large refrigerator stuffed with food for the men) and sometimes given clothing. Some churches offer Bible study.

"It's lights out about 9 or 10 p.m.," Johnsen said. "Sometimes the church will have someone stay there [overnight], sometimes not."

About 10 congregations in Carmel and Pacific Grove take part in the I-HELP program.

Meanwhile, Johnsen said Shelter Outreach Plus has also offered to help the woman find shelter. "We have told the police that one of our women's shelters will be able to take her in, if and when needed," he said.

Shelter Outreach Plus provides a variety of services, including emergency shelter and housing for temporary homelessness for men and women.

The woman was taken to Community Hospital of the Monterey Peninsula several hours after the alleged attack after she told St. Mary's senior warden Bruce Obbink what had happened. She then underwent a Sexual Assault Response Team examination at the hospital and was released Wednesday night.

Monterey County Rape Crisis Center executive director Clare Mounter wouldn't say whether her organization helped the woman but said it's protocol for police to contact the center anytime a sexual assault victim is taken to a hospital for a SART exam. The group also offers individual and group counseling and lets victims know what shelter and other services are available to them.

"Our role is to be with the person during the exam and make sure all their questions are answered," she said.

The undersigned caused said Notice of Default and Election to Sell to be recorded in the county where the real property is located. NOTICE TO POTENTIAL BIDDERS: If you are considering bidding on this property lien, you should understand that there are risks involved in bidding at a trustee auction. You will be bidding on a lien, not on the property itself. Placing the highest bid at a trustee auction does not automatically entitle you to free and clear ownership of the property. You should also be aware that the lien being auctioned off may be a junior lien. If you are the highest bidder at the auction, you are or may be responsible for paying off all liens senior to the lien being auctioned off, before you can receive clear title to the property. You are encouraged to investigate the existence, priority, and size of outstanding liens that may exist on this property by contacting the county recorder's office or a title insurance company, either of which may charge you a fee for this information. If you consult either of these resources, you should be aware that the same lender may hold more than one mortgage or deed of trust on the property. NOTICE TO PROPERTY OWNER: The sale date shown on this notice of sale may be postponed one or more times by the mortgagee, beneficiary, trustee, or a court, pursuant to section 2924g of the California Civil Code. The law requires that information about trustee sale postponements be made available to you and to the public, as a courtesy to those not present at the sale.
