DANCE KIDS PROPOSES TO FIX UP SCOUT HOUSE

By MARY SCHLEY

HAVING SAT vacant and closed for more than a decade due to its not being handicapped accessible, the historic Scout House could be spiffed up and reopened if a proposal by Dance Kids of Monterey County founder Alan Richmond takes hold.

At this month's city council meeting, Richmond outlined plans to embark on a capital campaign to revive the city-owned building at Mission and Eighth and beautify its grounds.

"Obviously, the Scout House has been sitting idle for quite some time," Richmond said during the public comment period at the Feb. 5 meeting. "The more we thought about it, the more we thought about turning something that was sitting idle and not producing income into a positive use area and perhaps a revenue-generating facility for the city."

Dance Kids, a nonprofit that stages youth ballets at Sunset Center and has its offices there, had been using the Scout House for rehearsals before it closed.

Restoring and reopening the building "would help with the connectivity from the residential to the downtown area," he said, and would bring the city money via rental income.

He also said fixing up the property, which is overgrown with weeds and has no driveway or sidewalks, other than steps to the front door, would make Eighth Avenue safer for pedestrians, including the kids who dance at the Carmel Ballet Academy next door. Dance Kids has more than 160 adults and children who take part in its programs, including many

Parks still on cultural commission — for now

By MARY SCHLEY

REPORTS OF Tom Parks' demise have been greatly exaggerated.

Enraged by a Letter to the Editor in which Parks called him "a graduate of the Benito Mussolini Finishing School," restaurateur Rich Pepe began demanding Parks' resignation from the Carmel Community Activities & Cultural Commission — a campaign that generated more than 100 mostly supportive comments on Pepe's Facebook page, along with a premature announcement from writer Tony Seton that Parks had resigned Tuesday.

On Saturday, Pepe posted on Facebook: "Please give your opinion: Tom Parks, a member of the cultural commission at Carmel-by-the-Sea, California, said in a Letter to the Editor to The Carmel Pine Cone about me, 'What do you expect from a guy who is rumored to be a graduate of the Benito Mussolini Finishing School?' Tom Parks was not trying to compliment

City's ban on plastic shopping bags takes effect

By MARY SCHLEY

THE CITY'S ban on "single-use" plastic bags took effect this month, with retailers still using them subject to fines and possible loss of their businesses licenses.

The ordinance adopted by the Carmel City Council last July included a six-month grace period for businesses to get rid of their plastic bags and replace them with paper or reusable bags.

But now that the grace period has expired, stores found violating the rule could be fined up to $200, and pervasive refusal to follow it could result in revocation of their business licenses. The law provides exemptions for restaurants and nonprofits, and does not forbid retailers from offering bags without handles "to transport produce, bulk food, candy or meat" from a department to the checkout, "to hold prescription medication dispensed from a pharmacy," or "to segregate food or merchandise that could damage or contaminate other food or merchandise when placed together in a bag."

But, in general, according to the law, "The production and disposal of single-use plastic bags causes significant environmental impacts, including contamination of the environment, the deaths of marine animals through ingestion and entanglement, and widespread litter."

It states the ordinance's purpose "is to protect, conserve and enhance the city's unique natural beauty and irreplaceable natural resources through the elimination of single-use plastic carryout bags and by encouraging the use of reusable bags."

While other municipalities' bag bans, such as Monterey's, require retailers to charge customers for paper bags, business people in Carmel worried the dime fee would upset shoppers and hurt sales, so it wasn't included when the council adopted the ordinance last summer. Instead, paper bags will continue to be free, and a task force agreed to work on a program encouraging people to bring reusable bags with them.

With town's main intersection closed, P.G. businesses say, 'We're still here!'

By PAUL MILLER

THE MAIN intersection of downtown Pacific Grove, Forest and Lighthouse, is blocked because of a safety and beautification project and will be closed until April 8, causing significant business losses for even very popular stores near the intersection as shoppers avoid the area because they're worried they won't be able to get through or find a place to park.

You can still park and drive through, but most people don't realize it

To help make sure people don't forget them, the owner of Pavel's Backerei is offering a free baguette to anybody who brings in a receipt from one of the shops near his emporium of baked goods.

"The No. 1 idea is to let everyone know it's open down here," said Paul Wainscoat, owner of Pavel's.

"When people see 'Road Closed' signs, they don't want to get stuck, and it's really hurting some of the shops."

When even one store loses business, it affects everybody, he said. "We all share the same customers. We all thrive on each other on this street."

Next door at Pacific Grove Florist, owner Michelle Roberson agreed.

"Usually, you can just stand in front of my store and watch people go to Grove Market, and then pick up something from Pavel's, and then stop in the florist, and then go across the street to Sprout," Roberson said. "Now you're definitely not seeing it as much."

"Once people find a parking place, they like to walk to the different stores," agreed Eunice Conneau, an employee at the flower store. "But when the road is closed, there are fewer parking spaces."

Wainscoat, who ran an ad in this week's Pine Cone offering his baguette giveaway (see page 4A), said through traffic still operates on Forest Avenue by exiting before Lighthouse through the Grove Market or Chase Bank parking lots, but that most people don't

Queen, not Princess, Punky

SHE IS known for having the ugliest smile in the world. When 120 pounds of Bernese mountain dog, baring all her teeth, hurtling down the steps toward you, with her head swinging exuberantly from side to side, your life passes in front of you, until she bowls you over with kisses and whines.

She is devoted to the couple who brought her home as a baby from a breeder, and named her Punky, which supposedly means "little chubby black thing" in German.

Punky, now 8, is happy in sun or snow, and water is no different than land.

If something interests her in the water, she will wade in and stand there for an hour. And the more she smells like muck or seaweed, the happier and perhaps more proud she seems.

When called, she comes only if you happen to be standing near her goodies jar by the front door, where she will sit until you open it. Forever.

Otherwise, she has no patience, particularly for small dogs and children.

She also will not come through an open door unless called. And she won't push a door open with her nose; she would rather sit there and cry until someone comes.

Her person has seen her tree scared squirrels and back a snake down into its hole. She's not a fan of men with dark glasses; a few have lost pockets off the back of their pants.

But Punky also has a soft side and a sweet heart. Oscar is a golden retriever, both beautiful and shy.

When asked, "Where's Oscar?" she looks around and whines. But when he comes over, she ignores him and plays coy.

Unless they are outside, where they will play tag for hours.

Punky rather thinks she is Queen, not to be mistaken for Princess.

CRA names Millers Citizens of the Year

ROBERTA AND Monte Miller will be honored as the Carmel Residents Association's 2012 Citizens of the Year during a party Sunday, Feb. 24.

The couple "will be recognized for their service and devotion to Carmel's government, residents and businesses," according to organizers, and past honorees will be recognized, too.

CRA members selected the Millers for their leadership of the organization, devoted attendance of council and commission meetings at Carmel City Hall, and volunteer efforts, among other contributions to the city.

The celebration, which is free and open to the public, will begin at 3 p.m. at the Carmel Woman's Club, located on San Carlos Street at Ninth Avenue across from Sunset Center. City officials and other public figures are expected to attend.

Chef Michael Jones will provide the hors d'oeuvres, while Patisserie Boissiere will furnish the sweets. Wine and other refreshments will be served.

Lawrence J. Berta

August 17, 1916 – February 12, 2013

Lawrence J. Berta died peacefully in Carmel Valley, the evening of February 12, 2013.

Lawrence was the youngest of 14 children, all born and raised on the historic Berta Ranch in Carmel Valley. His parents, John and Carmela Berta (Morelli) were born in Switzerland's Canton Ticino, immigrated to the United States in the late 1800's and settled in Carmel Valley.

Lawrence was a rancher and cowboy. In partnership with his brothers, Leo and Patrick, he managed a cow/calf operation on 20,000 acres, including three separate ranches in Monterey and San Benito Counties. Looking back, Lawrence recalled that the most enjoyable years of his life were the two decades that he spent living and working on El Rancho Cienega del Gabilan.

Lawrence had a strong appreciation for animals and nature and was a committed steward of the land and the animals in his care. He was an excellent horseman and remained fit and capable into his old age. At the age of 90, he was still able to skillfully rope and ride.

Lawrence was as equally at home in solitude in the rolling hills of the Central Coast as he was surrounded by family and friends. All who spent time with Lawrence came away with a sense of his ease and authenticity. He was a colorful and captivating storyteller of personal experience and local history. He was known as a generous and honest man whose handshake was his word.

Lawrence never married. True to his cowboy nature, Lawrence reflected toward the end of his life that he was content to have lived the life of a bachelor and insisted that he "would rather have a good horse than a wife."

Lawrence is preceded in death by his siblings, Isadore, Candida, Attilio, Ancilla, Joseph, Sisto, Esther, Peter, Helena, Raphael, Leo, Patrick and Anne. He is survived by his nieces and nephews, Shirley Francioni, Carol Martella, Clare Juster, Jim Berta, Patricia Hall, Dolores Ransom, Tim Berta, Ray Berta, Maureen Roscorla, Liana Olson, David Berta and Don Berta, as well as numerous grand and great-grand nieces and nephews.

Lawrence's family is very grateful for the kindness and attention given to him during the last chapter of his life by those that attended to his needs, including Irene Jackson, Rocio Conde, Patty Ortiz, Fan Snell, and Kathleen Voris, all of the extraordinary Carmel Villa. Thank you Dr. Jeffery Rice for helping to keep Lawrence in pretty good shape these last few years. Gratitude also goes to Shannon Carnazzo RN and Jillian Pinney RN of Community Hospital's Hospice of the Central Coast for the compassionate care that they provided at the very end of Lawrence's life.

Visitation will be held February 22, from 9:00 – 10:00 a.m. at Our Lady of Mount Carmel, Carmel Valley, followed by the meditation of the rosary. A funeral mass will be held at 10:30 a.m. Burial will take place at the Queen of Heaven Cemetery, Salinas, the following day, February 23, at 10:00 a.m.

Commission puts off selecting manager for outdoor culinary market

■ Questions remain, special meeting in the works

By MARY SCHLEY

ALTHOUGH A committee created by the mayor recommended the Carmel Community Activities & Cultural Commission pick a woman who runs small local farmers markets to launch the much discussed open-air “Carmel Artisan Food Experience,” commissioners did not choose her, or any of the other candidates, when they met Tuesday morning.

“Three candidates were interviewed, and they were given the opportunity to present their proposals,” assistant city administrator Heidi Burch said after the meeting Feb. 19. “They asked questions, and they have more questions, which is the cause for the continuation.”

Burch, who serves as the staff liaison on the commission, said commissioners are emailing their questions to her for research and followup, and they will subsequently convene for a special meeting during the next week or two, ostensibly to choose the person who will manage the weekly event city officials hope will draw more people — and dollars — downtown.

The mayor’s committee, which also included author Eric Schlosser, restaurateur David Fink and others, sparked a bit of a brouhaha last year, when its members were considering recommending an outdoor market on Ocean Avenue.

The group refined its guidelines for what it named the Carmel Artisan Food Experience, to be held every Thursday in the north lot at Sunset Center. The document defines the event’s mission as “to cultivate community: from farm to chef to table, through the growing, preparing, and consuming of sustainable, local, organic, artisan food.” The committee envisions an open-air market “around the lunch and dinner hours” that would showcase local organic produce from local growers and food from downtown restaurants. Chefs would partner with farmers to use an ingredient offered at the market, and vendors, also from Carmel, would sell organic jams, dried fruit, cheese, baked goods, olive oil and other foodstuffs.

The manager would share the profits with the city, if there are any, and would be in charge of establishing the fees and working directly with participants to obtain payment.

Of the 11 people who submitted proposals, three finalists were interviewed by commissioners Tuesday: Iris Peppard of Everyone’s Harvest, which holds farmers markets in Pacific Grove, Marina and Salinas; Karen Adler of Karen Adler Inc. in Davenport, and Jerry Lami of the West Coast Farmers Market Association, which operates markets in Cupertino, Brisbane and other South San Francisco Bay Area cities.

City councilwoman Victoria Beach, who oversaw the committee tasked with establishing a new outdoor event for downtown, said the group favored Peppard, voting late last month to recommend her selection by the cultural commission.

“It’s a strong recommendation from us, and everyone is enthusiastic about the choice,” Beach said before this week’s meeting. “Everyone on the committee was really impressed by her embeddedness in the community — she’s sort of a native daughter.”

Regardless, commissioners did not make a decision.

Vision

At this week’s commission meeting, Burch said a couple of the candidates “expressed concerns about the upfront costs and the ability to proceed without any assistance from the city,” while commissioners requested Peppard and Lami provide updated budgets.

The candidates also expressed some concerns about the logistics of the event, including restricting the farmers to solely organic and the location in the north lot at Sunset Center.

“It’s exactly the opposite of what would be best for the merchants and for the event,” Lami wrote, since it’s out of the main flow of pedestrian traffic downtown.

Adler said local chefs aren’t entirely sold on the concept.

“The need and desire for a local food experience has garnered significant interest. However, in talking with key restaurateurs and food purveyors, I have come to believe that the desire to participate in a weekly food event offsite from their premises has not taken hold,” she wrote. “I found that there is more interest and enthusiasm from restaurateurs for a less frequent special event that incorporates appealing and exciting locales, leveraging the natural beauty of Carmel, in tandem with a weekly artisanal food market with a focus on the fresh, local and organic bounty of the Central Coast.”

Before this week’s meeting, Beach agreed the endeavor will require public participation and support in order to succeed.

“One other thing people realized is the community of Carmel is really going to be called on to help,” she said. “There isn’t a single candidate who wouldn’t need a public-private partnership in the form of volunteers, and even funding, to get this really special thing off the ground. That will be something we’re all asked to do.”

Land trust buys remote Big Sur inholdings

By CHRIS COUNTS

A COLORADO land preservation group, the Wilderness Land Trust, recently purchased two Big Sur properties, including one that has already been sold to the United States Forest Service and is now part of the Ventana Wilderness.

The first property — a 120-acre parcel referred to as the “Lost Valley property” due to its proximity to Big Sur’s Lost Valley — was bought in October 2012 from a private party for $300,000. According to Aimee Rutledge, California program manager for the land trust, the property was sold for the same price to the forest service in December 2012.

The second property — a 160-acre parcel known as the “Three Georges property” — was acquired from a private party in December 2012 for $900,000. Rutledge said the land trust is in negotiations to sell the property to the forest service.

Both properties are located along the Coast Ridge Road in the vicinity of Marble Peak, Rutledge explained. The 120-acre parcel is located on the east side of the taxpayer-funded dirt road, while the 160-acre property, which offers stunning ocean views, is nearby on the west side of the road, which also serves as a public hiking trail.

According to Rutledge, both properties were private inholdings located inside the Ventana Wilderness, and as a result, needed protection against future residential development.

“Private uses inconsistent with wilderness would have despoiled an unbroken expanse of wilderness with amazing views of the Pacific in the home range of the California condor,” she said.

The 120-acre parcel is within the Arroyo Seco watershed, while the 160-acre parcel is within the Big Sur River watershed. Rutledge said the watersheds provide critical habitat for condors, steelhead trout, California spotted owls and Southwestern pond turtles, all species designated as endangered, threatened or sensitive.

“We are proud to help complete the Ventana Wilderness for future generations,” said the land trust’s president, Reid Haughey.

The transactions were made possible with loans provided by the David and Lucille Packard Foundation.

Council approves job description and salary range for planning director

By MARY SCHLEY

DELIBERATING OVER multiple versions of a seven-page job description of the community planning and building director — considered by many city officials to be as important as the police chief in Carmel — the city council finally approved the document Feb. 5, enabling city administrator Jason Stilwell to begin soliciting candidates for the job.

The council also approved the salary range of $127,320 to $154,752 per year, which Stilwell recommended but said was “low relative to the required job duties and the level of the position.” (He also suggested reviewing all city salaries sometime this year, which could lead to an overall pay increase.)

Council members wrangled with a couple versions of the document, including one drafted by councilwoman Victoria Beach, before settling on a final description.

According to the three-paragraph “definition,” the director “works to preserve and enhance the unique natural environment and ‘Village Character’ of Carmel’s residential and commercial environs and to assist in development of projects that reinforce this character. The director serves as both the senior planner and manager of planning, building and code compliance.”

Further, the person “must exercise superior aesthetic judgment as to fit of private and public projects within the cultural context of Carmel” and demonstrate “active commitment to restoring, preserving and enhancing Carmel’s public space through clear and consistent policies, policy enforcement and appropriate public projects.”

The document goes on to describe 30 “examples of important and essential duties,” ranging from effective and ethical leadership, coordination with other departments and administration of all land use and design regulations, to instruction of employees, identification of opportunities to improve the city’s economic base, and participation on boards, commissions and professional groups.

The director is also supposed to “keep abreast of new trends and innovations in community development, planning, building, housing, architecture, landscaping and sustainability principles and practices, technology, regulations and literature that apply to city planning projects.”

The remainder of the document describes necessary qualifications and experience, including how to work in a built-out community, how to read and interpret plans, understanding of environmental laws, experience with public relations, financial acumen and a number of other items.

While city administrator Jason Stilwell had favored simply calling for “a combination of education and experience that would provide the required skills, knowledge and abilities necessary for the community planning and building director,” without defining what that might be, planning commissioners who reviewed the description a few months ago wanted more, as did city council members Victoria Beach and Ken Talmage.

“We’re not looking for someone who will just be a manager, but will be the senior planner — the person we’re looking for is wearing two hats, as director and as senior planner,” Talmage said at the Feb. 5 meeting. “We’re not requiring someone to have graduated from high school for this position,” despite the high level of pay.

Ultimately, council members decided to require “the equivalent of a four-year bachelor’s degree demonstrating high achievement at an accredited college or university, followed by a masters, terminal or professional degree in urban planning and/or urban design from an accredited college or university and coursework or other demonstrated facility in architectural and landscape design and history.”

Mayor Jason Burnett observed that the job description need not cover every detail of the director position.

“There is ultimately a recruitment brochure and interview process,” he said.

Man jumps to death from Bixby Bridge

RESPONDING TO a report of an abandoned vehicle that was blocking a lane of traffic along Highway 1 near Bixby Bridge in Big Sur, law enforcement officers discovered the body of a 51-year-old man who they later determined committed suicide by jumping off the landmark bridge, reported Sgt. Mike Burns, a spokesman for the Monterey County Sheriff’s Office.

According to Burns, the man was not a resident of Monterey County.

The incident occurred Feb. 6 just after 7 a.m. By the time law enforcement officers and emergency personnel arrived, the man had already jumped. In addition to the sheriff’s office, the California Highway Patrol responded to the incident.

Burglar sentenced to three years for break-in, was caught thanks to home video

By MARY SCHLEY

CHARLES GOPI, 26, pleaded guilty to first-degree burglary last month and was sentenced to three years in state prison for breaking into a home in his Carmel neighborhood last November, according to Monterey County deputy district attorney Joe Buckalew.

Gopi, who lives on Santa Rita Street, was arrested Nov. 21, 2012, after Carmel police linked him to a break-in that had occurred a couple of weeks earlier while the residents were away. The victims had returned Nov. 16 to find their home ransacked and electronics, tools and other valuables taken, and witnesses and surveillance footage led police to Gopi, who had had past run-ins with the cops over drugs. Detective Rachelle Lightfoot also visited a local pawn shop to see if he had left any items for sale there, which he had.

Buckalew told The Pine Cone Gopi had entered the home through an enlarged pet door and had taken "a bunch of electronic equipment, including video cameras that were set up for surveillance."

Nonetheless, investigators were able to capture some of the surveillance images and also obtained a vehicle description that matched Gopi's. They further discovered he had used his own name to sell the stolen goods at the pawn shop.

"At first, he said he got the stolen property from someone else," Buckalew said, but he "eventually admitted to the burglary."

Buckalew also said Gopi, who graduated from Carmel High School in 2004, claimed he burglarized the house because "he was broke and needed money for school."

Because Gopi had already served prison time for a 2010 grand-theft case after he violated probation and was incarcerated for two years, when Monterey County Superior Court Judge Julie Culver sentenced him on Jan. 30, one more year of prison time was added to his new sentence, bringing the total term to three years.

"He had a prior prison term that enhanced his sentence in this case," Buckalew explained.

Gill won't be charged

JUSTIN GILL, the Seaside police officer who reported he was stabbed outside his Pacific Grove home at 2 a.m. July 31, 2012 — and was then subjected to investigation by the Monterey County District Attorney's Office after police began to doubt his story — will not be charged with any crime, KION reported Thursday.

The doubts were sufficient enough to generate a search warrant last September, and investigators said at the time that Gill told conflicting stories about the stabbing, was evasive about possible enemies who might want to harm him — including former girlfriends or their angry spouses — and was uncooperative with police. In addition, evidence such as blood found throughout the home seemed to contradict his description of events.

But KION reported a representative at the DA's office stated no charges would be filed against him.

CHAIR MESSAGE

When my brother, Beau, and I opened Homescapes Carmel in 1999, one of the first things we did after getting our business license was to join the Carmel Chamber of Commerce (then the Carmel Business Association). We've always felt that there's great value in being part of a business community that works together towards common goals. Economic vitality doesn't seem very attainable when businesses are standing alone trying to tough it out on their own. At least in my opinion.

Thompson Lange
2013 Board Chair

The importance of this was brought home to me this month while on a business trip to England. At our State of the Chamber breakfast in January at the Carmel Mission Inn I met Julie Perigo, Director and Chairperson of The Henley Partnership in Henley-On-Thames, a beautiful tourist destination outside London. She asked if we could establish an email connection for some questions she had about the inner-workings of the Carmel Chamber. I told her I would love to do one better...visit Henley-On-Thames and talk about it with her in person after I finished at the Birmingham Gift Fair.

I met with Julie and members of The Henley Partnership for breakfast one morning and we had a lively conversation about the similar challenges we face doing business in famous, beautiful (and expensive) towns. While they have a number of different business associations working on how to grow business, what they didn't appear to have (and what The Henley Partnership would like to be) is something as effective as our Chamber of Commerce...a place where a large pool of local businesses in all categories can work together to present one voice to city officials and residents.

Communication and cooperation. A worthwhile goal no matter the town. I'm glad we're already there with the Carmel Chamber of Commerce.

Thompson Lange is the co-owner of Homescapes Carmel.

Council workshop to explore water options

Spring that floods library basement could be tapped

By MARY SCHLEY

CREATIVE SOLUTIONS and fresh ideas for contending with the Monterey Peninsula's seemingly unending water-supply problems — and solving the City of Carmel's, in particular — will be sought at a workshop held by the city council Monday, March 4, from 5:30 to 6:30 p.m., Mayor Jason Burnett said Thursday.

"This is an opportunity for people to come with their ideas — things individual homeowners or businesses might want to do but are not allowed to do," he said. "I want to make sure we get all the ideas on the table, and then staff can do the research and followup."

Burnett, who sits on the Peninsula mayors' water committee and was preparing his Feb. 22 testimony on the issue for the California Public Utilities Commission, said he will also provide an update on the regional water projects.

"The council set as one of its eight initiatives for 2013 to work on regional water projects and the Carmel-specific projects," he said. "This timing works out to have the discussion about the regional water projects and for me to give an update of where we stand," on various aspects of the local shortage.

But, primarily, he wants to focus on the city's options, "because that's something we have direct control over," such as determining how to use its share of non-potable water from the Carmel Area Wastewater District and tapping into the underground spring that runs into the basement of the library's Park Branch at Mission and Sixth, across from Devendorf Park.

"Why can't we tap into that and put the water to productive use?" he asked. Doing so would also make the library basement usable and would cut the city's California American Water bills, which in January totaled $15,717.15.

"The city's largest water use is irrigating Devendorf Park," he said. "We could reduce the amount we're spending with Cal Am, and we may be able to do it in a way that frees up some water credits for municipal or private use elsewhere in town."

The workshop will take place in council chambers at city hall, located on Monte Verde Street south of Ocean Avenue.

Experienced cast sought for 'Hamlet'

SEEKING A cast for its production of "Hamlet," the Forest Theater Guild hosts auditions Saturday and Sunday, Feb. 22-23, from noon to 3 p.m., at the Carmel Youth Center. Applicants will be requested to bring a resume and also will be asked to read from the play's script. Prior Shakespeare experience is preferred but not required.

"Hamlet" opens June 27 at the Outdoor

Forest Theater and continues through July 28. The play will star John Blyth Barrymore III, the great-grandson of John Barrymore, who electrified audiences with his portrayal of "Hamlet" in the 1920s.

The Carmel Youth Center is located at Fourth and Torres. For more information about auditioning, call Rebecca Barrymore at (831) 419-0917.

JOHN "JACK" EMORY WARNER

November 12, 1917 - February 16, 2013

John "Jack" Emory Warner passed away peacefully in his home on February 16, 2013 at the age of 95. He was born on November 12, 1917 in Darke County, near Greenville, Ohio, and he grew up on a farm with his parents, brother and sister. He told of many fond memories of his childhood.

John served as a pilot in the US Navy during WWII, and during the Korean War. He was a commander of R4D, R5D and DC4 transport aircraft over the Pacific. Before modern technology, he flew by "navigating by the stars." Later, he flew transport/freight aircraft, commercially.

In 1954, John married "the love of his life," Dena, a Navy nurse from Vermont. They married in The Church of The Wayfarer, in Carmel. The couple loved the beauty of Carmel, Big Sur, and the Monterey Peninsula. They chose to live in Carmel for the rest of their lives. At one time, the Warners owned The Wharf Gallery, in Monterey.

John greatly appreciated nature, art, music, and theater. He frequented events with the Carmel Art Association, the Sunset Center, the Bach Festival, and the various symphony and chamber music groups in the area. He enjoyed good books, fine food, good company, and nature walks. He made beautiful walking sticks, which he donated and gave as gifts. He believed in the preservation of nature, and he donated a parcel of land in Yankee Point to the Big Sur Land Trust, which entitled him to become a member of the "Land and Legacy Circle" for multiple decades. He also donated money for the restoration of the Carmel Mission, where he attended musical performances.

John was known and loved for his joyful spirit and dignified manner. He was a true gentleman, and had a special warmth, wisdom, knowledge, wit, a ready smile, and a "twinkle in his eyes." He loved to laugh, and he had a life-long interest in learning. He was an extraordinary man who knew the secret of living with grace, kindness, and a positive attitude. His enthusiasm for life, depth of experience, and wonderful life stories enriched the lives of others. He made people feel valued and good about themselves. It was a privilege to know John, and he will be dearly missed by his family and friends.

John is preceded in death by his parents, sister, brother and wife. He is survived by his four nephews and their families.

John's life will be celebrated in a private funeral and burial service on February 28, 2013, to be followed by a larger memorial service later in the spring. For information, please call (831) 402-8140. Flowers can be sent to The Paul Mortuary in Pacific Grove, or donations can be made in John's honor to The Big Sur Land Trust, The Sunset Center, or The Monterey Symphony.

Edith Christine (Chris) Long

1919-February 6, 2013

Carmel resident, Edith Christine Long (Chris) was born in Berkeley CA in 1919 and lived there most of her life. Her parents were Alice and Martin Martino. Martin, a San Francisco Bay Area attorney, loved to garden and helped create the Berkeley Rose Garden, where Chris spent her youth and enjoyed playing tennis.

Chris was an art major at UC Berkeley, where she met and married Robert Bryant (Bob) Long in 1939. She remained devoted to him for 69 years until his death in 2009. Many years later, in the tumult of the sixties, she completed her BA degree in Art at UC Berkeley. She was equally devoted to her two children, Bob and Linda, providing them with a variety of experiences that enriched their lives. She introduced her family to the beauty of the Napa Valley, where her father had a summer home and many fellow Italian friends.

Chris and Bob's love of the Napa Valley inspired them to buy a beautiful vineyard with a breathtaking view overlooking Lake Hennessey, Mt. St. Helena and mountain ranges framing the northern part of the Valley. Their son, Bob, purchased a home site on that property and built a successful wine business, known as Long Vineyards. Chris loved entertaining and was an outstanding hostess for all who visited the vineyard,

Chris valued her many close friends, whom she met at Berkeley Tuolumne Camp, her active involvement in Oakland Children's hospital, and the Berkeley Town and Gown Club. But her family remembers her most for her thoughtfulness, and devotion to their well-being. When her younger sister, Betty, was terminally ill with cancer, Chris took care of her and her two children, Betsy and Susie. When they moved to the East Coast, Chris wrote and called them frequently to keep up with their lives. Shortly after her sister died, Chris took care of her mother with Alzheimers. She was a role model for family caregiving. Chris became a victim of Alzheimers herself, toward the end of her life, yet she maintained her innate graciousness, humor and tremendous capacity to express love, Chris is survived by her son Bob, (Pat) and their daughter, Elizabeth, and by her daughter Linda Norgaard (Todd) and their son, Bret. She is also survived by her beloved niece Betsy (Jay) Figueroa and nephew Richard (Louanne) Long. The family would like to thank "The Cottages of Carmel," Dr. Susan Kubica, independent caregiver Doris Ellis, and Hospice of the Central Coast.

At Chris's request, a private family celebration of her life will be held at the vineyard. Any donations may be made to Hospice of the Central Coast, PO Box HH, Monterey, CA, or to The Clinic Ole Foundation, 1141 Pear Tree Lane, Suite 260, Napa, CA 94558.

Garden event to raise money for public projects

By MARY SCHLEY

'A DAY of extraordinary shopping and lectures" benefiting the town's public gardens will be held at Sunset Center Saturday, March 2. In its ongoing quest to generate funds to help fulfill its mission of improving and maintaining city gardens — most recently the comprehensive project in front of city hall — the Carmel-by-the-Sea Garden Club has organized an event that includes an estate sale, speciality boutiques, a sale of unique potted plants, and lectures by two nationally recognized speakers.

"The antique and estate sale will be exceptional, and we have 13 vendors from across the country setting up boutiques," garden club member Bridget Booth said. "Both of our speakers are extraordinary."

While the estate sale and the offering of "unique potted plants" will take place in Studio 105 from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m., and the "Boutique Shoppes" — including Allison Davies Jewelry, Chic by Design, Debby Anziano Glass, Lively Linens and Lavender, Sarah Oliver Handbags, Snail Mail Forever and Toffee Talk — will be held in Carpenter Hall, which is entered via Mission Street, from 9 a.m. to 4:30 p.m., the speakers are the main draw and will lecture in the center's theater.

Booth described Matthew Benson as a "HOT" New York photographer" and Ron Morgan as "a brilliant floral designer."

"Matthew is new to our area, and I think he would be of great interest to the Carmel artistic community," she said.

Talented speakers

Benson, who lives and works in the United States and Europe, has photographic works in the permanent collection in New York's International Center of Photography, as well as in private collections and galleries, and his pieces have garnered major awards.

His images of food, gardens, still lifes and interiors also regularly grace the pages of major magazines, books, catalogs and folios, and he is on the National Speakers Tour for the Garden Clubs of America.

Morgan's website describes him as "the most sought after and well recognized floral designer in the United States."

A lecturer for more than two decades, he employs his wit, expansive knowledge and creative talents to present compelling talks, and as a designer, he's known for his "imaginative use of flowers, fruits, vegetables and unusual items," as "he transforms the ordinary into the exquisite."

Morgan was 10 years old when he won his first flower show in San Joaquin County, and he has since gone on to design window displays for Harrod's and David Jones, as well as open retail floral and antique shops, consult as an interior designer and conduct flower arranging classes. He has also published four books and is a dedicated garden club speaker.

In the Sunset Center theater, Benson will present "A Photographic Garden" at 11 a.m., followed by Morgan's talk, "Timeless Elegance," at 1:30 p.m.

Afterward, a raffle of floral arrangements will be held, as well as a book sale and signings in the theater lobby.

The event will benefit the Founders Endowment Fund of the Carmel-by-the-Sea Garden Club, which was formed in 2007 "for the purpose of providing a permanent source of income to maintain Carmel gardens established or renovated by the club for public benefit," according to Booth, including Piccadilly Park on Dolores Street, the Harrison Memorial Library garden and the North Del Mar Dunes area on the northwest corner of Ocean and San Antonio.

"Please help us keep our village and its gardens and open spaces pristine and beautiful, for all to enjoy, and ensure that they are maintained and cared for well into the future," she said.

Sales free, lectures $70

While attending the sales is free, hearing the lectures costs $30 for Benson's, $40 for Morgan's, or $60 for both. Tickets can be ordered at www.sunsetcenter.org or by calling (831) 620-2048. To learn more about the garden club or to donate to its causes, visit www.carmelgardenclub.com.

'Cinderella' at middle school

PINE CONE STAFF REPORT

THE MONTEREY Peninsula College Theatre Company opens its 2013 season Friday, Feb. 22, at Carmel Middle School with a production of "Cinderella."

The adaptation of the beloved French fairy tale stars Ayanna Blount, a student at CSUMB.

"I'm extremely honored to play Cinderella," Blount said. "Hers is a story of humility and triumph. I admire how she embodies traditional values of hard work and kindness. She treats others with respect, even when it's not given back to her."

The cast includes Mary Ann Lucido, Faith Collins-Beety, Mathew Belnas, Chelsea Kennedy, Teresa Del Piero and many others. Laura Coté directs the play.

"Cinderella" continues Fridays (7 p.m.), Saturdays (3 p.m. and 7 p.m.) and Sundays (3 p.m.) through March 10. Tickets are $15 for adults, $12 for young adults (16-21) and military personnel, and $9 for children 15 and under. Carmel Middle School is located at 4380 Carmel Valley Road. For tickets, call (831) 646-4213 or visit www.mpctheatre.com.

Quail Lodge reopening just a month away

PINE CONE STAFF REPORT

AFTER RECEIVING a $28 million makeover, Carmel Valley's Quail Lodge and Golf Club is scheduled to reopen March 26.

Citing the slow economy, the resort's owner, Hong Kong and Shanghai Hotels Ltd., closed the Carmel Valley resort's 90-room hotel in November 2009. Its golf club remained open.

Just two years ago, its owners considered selling Quail Lodge. But last August, the owners announced their intentions to reopen the resort.

Workers this week were putting the finishing touches on the Quail Lodge's remodel, which included updating all guest rooms and meeting spaces, and incorporating "historic California Ranch and Spanish Colonial design elements" to give the hotel "a fresh new character that is comfortable, appealing and distinctly Californian."

The resort's 18-hole golf course, which opened in 1964, was "refreshed and enhanced."

me, and should this remark taken as an ethnic slur? Would a German man like to be likened to Hitler? You get the idea. How far can a city official go with comments, and should Tom Parks be removed from this city commission?"

More than 100 comments followed, mostly deriding Parks and supporting Pepe, though some recommended Pepe simply ignore him.

"I think Tom Parks should be removed immediately from his position for this blatant ethnic slur. In fact, I also believe that the whole city brass of Carmel should apologize to you immediately Pepe, including the stepping stone mayor," Rich Cocovich, founder of Global Star Capital, wrote. "Collectively, we should all use our massive connections and take this to the national media in order to show why Tom Parks is a racist and how fixed the election was against you."

Then, on Tuesday, Seton posted on Pepe's page: "Tom Parks did the right thing in resigning today. We need to recognize that ad hominem attacks aren't appropriate. As Rebecca Costa noted in her brilliant 'The Watchman's Rattle,' we need stop opposing everything and start producing viable solutions. Rich Pepe did nothing wrong. He's a successful restaurateur with a lot of flare. He's done a lot for Carmel, and that's what he should be recognized for."

But Tuesday night, assistant city administrator and cultural commission staff liaison Heidi Burch said Parks had not submitted a letter of resignation.

And Parks told The Pine Cone Wednesday that he is still a member of the commission, though he does intend to relinquish his seat, not due to Pepe's outcry, but because he doesn't think he's a good fit for the group.

"It is coincidental that I commented on the whole Rich Pepe debacle," he said, referring to the mini firestorm over a party Pepe had at his Vesuvio restaurant and the resulting publicity from Carmel resident Carolyn Hardy's public condemnation of Pepe and his event. "It should not be misconstrued."

Parks said he has been contemplating the move for several weeks and that he will be sending a resignation letter to Mayor Jason Burnett and the commission, "but it is not that I'm being forced from the commission because of Rich Pepe's defensive nature."

Rather, he'd prefer to help the city display its art collection than make decisions about parades and farmers markets. "It's about where my talents lie and where I can contribute to the village," he said. "In my opinion, it was not a good fit."

Parks, a writer/director/producer who has worked freelance in motion pictures, television and theater since 1965, was appointed to the commission by the city council last June but said he soon discovered the "activities" part of the group's name is really its dominant focus.

"It's really more about activities than culture. I suppose you could call a parade 'culture,' but my interest is really more in the display of art," he said. "The city has a great collection but nowhere to show it," and he'd like to help establish a museum for the art, most of which is in storage.

"Every little town has a museum, and we don't," Parks said. "And we have enough art to display. That's really the story."

Burnett confirmed Parks has been contemplating his place on the commission for a while and "had come to the conclusion the town would be better served by someone else serving on the community activities and cultural commission, and that he wants to focus his efforts on public art."

"I've been aware for a month or two that he was having questions about the fit, and that's fair," Burnett continued. "You don't know exactly what you're signing up for when you first put your name in, and I appreciate he was willing to serve for the period he has, and that he understands Carmel would be better served by someone more passionate about the full range of issues that come before the commission."

The mayor also commended Parks for "thinking through what is the best fit and where he can put his talents to work."

Parks said he was surprised Pepe labeled him a racist and remarked that, had he had the letter to write over again, he'd keep the reference to Mussolini but also include Hugo Chavez, Joan Rivers and Donald Trump.

Mostly, he said, "I want this thing to end."

Meanwhile, a longtime friend and business associate of Pepe's, actor Joseph Pantoliano (a.k.a. Joey Pants), advised him to relax.

"Hell No! You should count your blessings, pray for Tom and have a sense of humor. This is from a guy who knows you when. And still loves you. We're all busted cans trying to get through the day... Besides — Tom is dead wrong...! Mussolini was a hell of a dresser! Xoxoxo Joey Pants."

THREATS

guess this must be Sue The Pine Cone Month."

The woman made the threat because she, or somebody telling her what to say, objected to an account in The Pine Cone of accusations from one of Salyer's competitors to his illegal business practices, for which he had just been sentenced to six years in federal prison, and in particular the assertion that Salyer expressed the serious wish to have the competitor, Chris Rufer, run over with a truck.

Miller attended Salyer's sentencing hearing in Sacramento and wrote the story.

"The thing about that part of my story is that it came directly from legal papers filed in connection with Salyer's sentencing, because Rufer wanted to make sure he didn't get off easily," Miller said. "As far as I know, we're allowed to report allegations made in court, even if they haven't been proven."

Virtually all news coverage of criminal investigations, charges and trials contains such reporting of serious allegations, not only made by police and prosecutors, but by individuals, he said.

"We would not be able to cover anything in court if we weren't allowed to report what people claimed about each other," Miller said.

Similarly, the continuing threats by various people associated with the controversial Feb. 7 party at Rich Pepe's restaurant to sue The Pine Cone seem to stand on very shaky ground.

"It all boils down to whether we called some women who dressed and posed for publicity shots in a very provocative way 'sluts,'" Miller said. "First of all, we never did that. And, secondly, when we reported that Carolyn Hardy said the girls might be mistaken for 'sluts and whores' we were only quoting from a document she submitted to the city council."

State law protects speech made to "legislative or judicial bodies," Miller said, and since "the Carmel City Council is obviously a legislative body, the comments made by Hardy were protected, and, therefore, it could not be defamation for us to convey them."

That kind of reporting is certainly standard practice in newsrooms all over the country, he said, and the public depends on it to know what its government is up to.

"Who would benefit if journalists were afraid to report what happens in courtrooms or city council meetings?" Miller asked. "Certainly not the people."

Finally, a Santa Cruz photographer, Hilgard Muller, who says he took the picture of the racy girls that caused Hardy to raise the alarm at city hall over Pepe's party, and which The Pine Cone printed on its Feb. 8 front page, has also promised to sue the newspaper over what he claims was copyright infringement.

"That photo was an essential part of the story, and without seeing it, the public would never have been able to understand what the fuss was about," Miller said. "Carolyn Hardy got it from Facebook, and we got it from what she submitted to the council."

The Pine Cone's printing of the photo was Fair Use under U.S. copyright law, Miller said, and the photographer's permission was not needed. In any event, the photo was already freely available on Facebook, and nobody at The Pine Cone knew who took it when the decision was made to print it.

Nevertheless, in keeping with its practice of supporting local freelancers, he offered to pay the photographer a fee of up to $175 for the photo of the girls from Racey Promotions.

"Muller refused, because he said our use of the picture damaged him a lot more than that," Miller said. "But he didn't say how."

Book explores 'Missions of Monterey'

HISTORIAN ROBERT Bellezza will sign copies of his new book, "The Missions of Monterey," Sunday, Feb. 24, at River House Books.

The latest installment in Arcadia's Publishing's "Images of America" series, "The Missions of Monterey" features more than 200 vintage photographs depicting the missions of Monterey and San Benito counties.

Included are historic images of Carmel Mission, San Antonio Mission, San Juan Bautista Mission, Soledad Mission and San Carlos Cathedral.

"I stumbled on over 100 vintage glass negatives from the 1920s and 1930s at an estate sale in Grass Valley," explained the author, who said the treasure trove included many never-before-seen images of California missions.

Bellezza said he hopes "The Missions of Monterey" will be the first in a series of five books on the subject.

River House Books is located in the Crossroads shopping center. Call (831) 626-6225.

Local talent honors songwriter and the poet who may have inspired his name

Tiburcio Vasquez also examined

By CHRIS COUNTS

FOUR Monterey Peninsula performers pay tribute to a pair of the 20th century's greatest wordsmiths — singer-songwriter Bob Dylan and poet Dylan Thomas — Saturday, Feb. 23, at The Works bookstore and coffeehouse in Pacific Grove.

"What's great about this event is that it shines a light on the poetic nature of Dylan's music and the wonderful literature Thomas produced," explained Robert Marcum, the owner of The Works and one of three singers performing at the event.

Reading the works of the great Welch poet will be local bard Taelen Thomas, one of the Monterey Peninsula's leading theatrical talents. He has portrayed a wide range of historical and literary figures on local stages, including Mark Twain, John Steinbeck and Jack London. Marcum called him "a great voice for reciting Dylan Thomas' works."

Taelen Thomas called the late poet "one of the glorious voices of the 20th century," and said "he brought passion and excitement to poetry."

In addition to Marcum, Richard Rosen and Steve Mortensen will pay tribute to the music of Dylan, rock 'n' roll's preeminent songwriter. "We're going to be focusing on some of Dylan's lesser known songs," Marcum said.

It's unclear whether Bob Dylan actually took his name from the famous poet. A popular myth says he did, but one of his biographers claims he borrowed the name from Matt

Dillon, the sheriff of the television series, "Gunsmoke."

Both Dylans had local ties. During one of his tours of the United States in the early 1950s, Thomas made a surprise visit to Big Sur writer Henry Miller's home on Partington Ridge. A decade later, Dylan visited his girlfriend, folksinger Joan Baez, at her Carmel Highlands home.

But the two creative giants ultimately shared much more than a name and local connections. "The artistry of both men is so fascinating and powerful," Taelen Thomas said.

The show starts at 7:30 p.m. and there's a $10 cover.

Prize-winning classical pianist performs at Sunset

By CHRIS COUNTS

ONE OF classical music's rising stars, Spanish pianist Josu de Solaun performs Saturday and Sunday, Feb. 23-24, at Sunset Center.

Presented by the Monterey Symphony, the concert will open with a trio of pieces by 19th century German composer Robert Schumann: Toccata in C Major, Op. 7; Arabeske in C Major, Op. 18; and Études Symphoniques, Op. 13. The performance will close with the piano version of the 19th century Russian composer Modest Mussorgsky's "Pictures at an Exhibition."

Now a resident of New York City, de Solaun has taken home the top prize from two of Europe's most prestigious piano contests. He placed first in the 2006 Valencia

Creative business model offers home for local artists at Pacific Grove gallery

By CHRIS COUNTS

ONE OF nine venues featured on Pacific Grove's Wine, Art and Music Walk Friday, Feb. 22, Strouse and Strouse Studio Gallery brings together 19 different local artists whose work encompasses an impressive array of creative talent.

"We try to keep a broad selection of artistic styles," explained Sharon Strouse, who co-owns the gallery with her husband, Warren. "It goes from photorealism to abstract. There's a variety of media among the the artists. We want to offer as much as possible to the public, and we want it to be a great cross section of local art."

The gallery's roster of artists include painters Maria Poroy, Robert Ruff and Susan Titus, as well as sculptor Rod Parmley, fused-glass artist Masiah Johnson and potter Elizabeth Jean Edwards.

Unlike most gallery owners, the Strouses don't take any commission on the work that sells in their gallery. Like the Carmel Valley Art Association and Gallery North in Carmel, the gallery is privately owned but uses a creative business model to provide wall space for a wide variety of local artists.

"The artists basically rent space on the walls," Strouse said. "They pay a small amount each month."

Both painters, the Strouses can often be found working on their own art in the gallery.

"We have a studio in the back," Strouse added. "Warren and I are always painting. There's a different energy you find here than in most other galleries. We get to do our artwork surrounded by all this creative energy. We love it."

Located at 178 Grand Ave., the venue was recently named Best Art Gallery in Pacific Grove by the city's chamber of commerce, which sponsors the art walk.

The art walk, which features a mix of live music, starts at 6 p.m. Also staying open to 9 p.m. are the following downtown businesses: Glenn Gobel Custom Frames, Studio Nouveau, Barry Marshall Studio, Artisana Gallery, Sprout Boutique, Sun Studios, the Pacific Grove Art Center and Tessuti Zoo.

Art center unveils new exhibits

and Chenoa Warner, and a collection of work by members of the Monterey Peninsula College Printmakers' Group.

Zimmerman presents, "Then and Now," a display of work that showcases his affection for African jungles, animals, plants and bold colors.

Stevens' exhibit, "Traditional Botanical Painting," offers a striking look at the plant world.

Under the Tuscan Moon, Oscars Night, and history lessons over dinner

CHEF SARAH Fioroni of Fattoria Poggio Alloro in Italy and Peppoli chef de cuisine Angela Tamura will share the kitchen at the Spanish Bay restaurant Friday, Feb. 22, during their annual Under the Tuscan Moon dinner, which will offer “sumptuous cuisine, exquisite wine and fantastic storytelling.”

Billed as a “world-renowned expert on ‘farm-to-table’ cuisine and agritourism,” Fioroni will collaborate with Tamura on the four-course prix fixe dinner, which costs $85 per person, excluding drinks, tax and tip.

A native of San Gimignano, Italy, Fioroni is the general manager and executive chef of her family’s farm, Fattoria Poggio Alloro, as well as a sommelier, president of the tiramisu, ricotta and saffron pie, or seasonal fruit tart.

For reservations, call (831) 647-7490.

■ Night at the Oscars

Anyone desiring to celebrate the year’s most highly regarded film awards by dressing up and walking the red carpet need look no farther than Quail Lodge in Carmel Valley, which will host Night at the Oscars, presented by the Carmel Chamber of Commerce, Sunday, Feb. 24, from 4:30 to 9 p.m.

The evening will begin with a red carpet reception, wine and cocktails in the clubhouse foyer and terrace, followed by a three-course dinner paired with Carmel Valley wines in the Peninsula Ballroom at 5:30. The Academy Awards will air during dinner, and raffle prizes will be offered, along with prizes for casting ballots in all the Oscars categories.

Tickets cost $95 per person, or $900 for a table of 10. Organizers are recommending guests don their best red-carpet attire.

Proceeds will benefit the nonprofit Carmel Valley Chamber of Commerce, and sponsors include Quail Lodge & Golf Club, AT&T, Dawn’s Dream Winery, Galante Vineyards, Holman Ranch Vineyards and Bernardus Winery, with music presented by Martino Entertainment.

For the link to buy tickets online, visit www.carmelvalleychamber.com.

The menu she and Tamura planned includes antipasti of grilled ciabatta bread with house-cured white anchovies and egg yolk remoulade, soup of cracked winter wheat with a chicken brodo and salsa verde, fried polenta topped with boar sugo, and cheese mousse with caramelized onion in balsamic vinegar, followed by first-course choices of fusilli with sausage and leeks, pappardelle with duck and porcini mushrooms, penne with Monterey Bay seafood sauce and tomato with chile de arbol, or crepes with ricotta, spinach, mushrooms and besciamella.

Main courses will be red mullet cooked in a roasted pepper broth with rainbow chard and olio nuovo, Devil’s Gulch rabbit in its own sauce with Castelvetro olives, Chianti pork filet with rosemary scented potatoes, or beef filet with herbs and Florentine peas.

Finally, the sweet will be a choice of elling evidence that oleic acid significantly reduces cholesterol," and that "polyphenols reduce inflammation of blood vessels."

Among the 15 varieties of California extra virgin olive oils the store carries are those from Fattoria Muia, Tres Osos, Belle Vue and Castle Ridge, all of which are pressed from olives grown in and around Carmel Valley.

The Quail & Olive also sells 10 vinegars, and through the end of the month, Brabeck is offering a 10 percent discount on his exclusive plum basil vinegar, which won't be available again until next summer once it's gone. Additionally, the store sells cosmetics, local honey, jarred olives and tapanades, dry pastas, high-end cookware and fine art.

The Quail & Olive, located at 3 Pilot Road off Carmel Valley Road, is open Thursday through Monday from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. For more information, call (831) 659-4288 or visit www.quailandolive.com.

■ Pisoni wines

Gary and Mark Pisoni will preside over a wine dinner at Restaurant 1833 on Hartnell Street in Monterey Monday, Feb. 25. Father and son will be pouring their family's wines from the Santa Lucia Highlands, while chef Levi Mezick and sommelier Ted Glennon will create the four-course pairing menu.

For more information or to make reservations, contact Restaurant 1833 at (831) 643-1833.

■ Next Pacific's Edge wine dinner

The next installation of the Pacific's Edge Winemaker Series will take place Thursday, Feb. 28, featuring Bedrock Wine Company and winemaker Morgan Twain-Petersen. Executive chef Matt Bolton will prepare a four-course dinner to complement the Bedrock wines, while Petersen will discuss the history, culture and qualities of his wines, which are inoculated with native yeasts, pressed by hand and fermented in French oak.

The first course will be Hawaiian Kampachi with citrus-coriander blossom, lotus root and persimmon vinaigrette, the second course will be Sonoma duck marinated in achiote with quinoa and blackberry jus, and the third will be Kurobuta pork with caramelized apples, fingerling potatoes and balsamic reduction. Fourth will be Wagyu tenderloin with bone marrow, chanterelles and sauce bordelaise, and the dessert course will be nut tart with candy cap caramel, pecan shortbread, and milk and honey ice cream.

Dinner will begin at 6 p.m. in the wine room, located in the restaurant at the Hyatt Carmel Highlands, 120 Highlands Drive off Highway 1 south of Carmel. The cost to attend is $125, plus tax and tip. For more information, visit www.hyattcarmelhighlands.com or call (831) 620-1234.

■ Tarpy's living history

Tarpy's Roadhouse in the historic Ryan Ranch homestead will be the scene of a history dinner Friday, March 8, at 6 p.m., when guests will "learn the real truth" about Matt Tarpy and Rancho Saucito, where the roadhouse now stands. Storyteller Terrence Gargiulo will share the 1800s-era tale of how Tarpy, once a well respected rancher, became a vilified murderer.

Accompanying the stories will be a four-course dinner prepared by chef Michael Kimmel paired with Ventana Vineyards wines. The evening will begin with starters of sundried tomato-chicken sausage in puff pastry and orange sesame steak brochettes, followed by a salad of mixed field greens with tomatoes in red wine vinaigrette. Entree choices will be grilled herb-crusted salmon filet with a tomato-cucumber relish and lemon beurre blanc over rice pilaf and fresh vegetables, grilled pork tenderloin with bourbon molasses glaze and apple butter over braised red cabbage and garlic whipped potatoes, or the vegetarian special of the day. Dessert will be chocolate-espresso bread pudding with bourbon crème Anglaise.

The cost is $65 per person, including tax and gratuity, and reservations must be made by calling (831) 647-1444. Tarpy's is located on Highway 68 at Canyon del Rey.

■ Inside a commercial kitchen

The culinary students at Rancho Cielo got a behind-the-scenes look at the inner workings of the vast Hyatt Regency Monterey Wednesday for Hospitality Job Shadow Day. Attendees of Rancho Cielo's Drummond Culinary Academy — which seeks to teach youth with non-violent criminal records viable job skills in the hospitality industry — shadowed professional staff in various departments, learning about everything in the business, including the work involved in feeding hundreds of guests and daily visitors.

■ Speaking of young chefs

Aubergine restaurant's executive chef, Justin Cogley, will host five young and talented chefs for his Rediscovering Coastal Cuisine dinner Saturday, March 9, at L'Auberge Carmel at Monte Verde and Eighth. The group will collaborate on a 12-course tasting menu "that explores and celebrates the unique biodiversity" of the Central Coast.

Included in the lineup is Scott Anderson, chef/owner of Elements in Princeton, N.J., and one of Esquire's "New Chefs Glory Be! Hope It's True.

It is the intention of the telephone company to establish additional lines between Monterey and Carmel and install modern stations in the homes of all subscribers in Carmel. The construction and engineering departments of the Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Co. last week went over the territory to be traversed by the lines in their final investigation and inspection. Carmel's telephones are at present comparatively antiquated and the installation of modern devices will be very satisfactory.

Sidewalks Discussed By Council

A possible general policy on sidewalks was discussed at the city council meeting Wednesday evening, at the request of Councilwoman Clara Kellogg. Miss Kellogg mentioned specifically one bad spot on Ocean Avenue, which can only by courtesy be called "sidewalk," and on which obtruding roots and gullies render walking perilous. This is the western half of the block between Monte Verde and Casanova, and it is a good example of the condition of sidewalks in many parts of the village.

City Attorney William L. Hudson advised the council that it can compel property owners to install a safe sidewalk in a place where such danger exists. He will look up the law and advise the street superintendent of the exact procedure to be followed. While the council hesitates to adopt a policy which would either force or encourage general putting in of concrete sidewalks, it was mentioned that "oil mix" pathways would smooth the way for pedestrian feet, resist erosion, and still be "in keeping."

Sunset Student Moves Council

Citizenship begins early down at Sunset school. At Wednesday evening's meeting of the city council a small boy sat quietly in the front row of the audience, growing more and more droopy-eyed as City Attorney William L. Hudson talked about the highly technical provisions of a zoning ordinance and the city clerk read the long, complicated legal document. At 10 o'clock Councilman Joe Burge took official notice of his presence, asking him if he had something to bring before the council. Blinking himself wide awake, Jimmy Kelsey, captain of Sunset's traffic squad, rose to his feet and in clear, loud tones, read a carefully prepared request from a crumpled slip of paper. He pointed out that as the stop sign is now located at Tenth, on San Carlos, cars are forced to stop in the traffic lane instead of at the edge of it. He recommended that the traffic lane be moved directly to the south of the stop sign, instead of north of it, as at present. The council considered the request just as seriously and just as respectfully as if it had been made by an adult citizen, and then told the traffic captain that his request would be granted.

Monterey's Hope For Its Sagging Pride

Part of the charm of the imaginary Carmelite is his curious indifference to the world around him. Because of this, when he does have occasion to peer beyond his ramparts he frequently fails to grasp the magnitude of what he sees or its implications for him. This is why many imaginary Carmelites have maintained a steadfast disinterest in the Monterey Urban Redevelopment Project and its contest with the proposed Del Monte Properties-Draper Companies shopping center at the northern foot of Carmel Hill.

Del Monte-Draper Companies has 32 acres presently zoned and is seeking another 15. The Custom House redevelopment project encompasses about 48 acres of downtown, waterfront Monterey. It is an ambitious, frequently courageous and apparently imaginative attempt to regenerate the historically rich but tragically shabby section of Monterey. The Custom House project, far from abandoning the drooping environs, would reconstitute them with a complex of multiple residential units, quality specialty stores, a department store, a competent parking garage, restaurants, an auditorium, and possibly a courthouse. And apparently, in [Philadelphia developer] Bernard Weinberg, the Urban Redevelopment Agency has found the man to do the job.

New Theatre Plans Proposed

A new motion picture theater dedicated to intelligent and interesting programming is not to be denied Carmel. The project, which seemed washed out 30 days ago, when United California Theaters snatched a ground lease from beneath the feet of the developers, seems now destined for success at a new location.

This time there is no third party between the land and the principals, Tom Graff, Ed Dickinson and N.J. Pecora, and they have the site, on the east side of San Carlos, south of 7th Avenue, firmly tied up.

Plans for the 440-seat house will be brought before the Planning Commission

His detractors — including some local politicians and law enforcement officials — call him a murderer and say he's a poor role model for students, particularly in a city plagued by violence.

Vasquez's supporters also say he was framed for his crimes because he was a Mexican-American. But California's governor at the time was Romualdo Pacheco, the only Latino governor in the state's history. Pacheco denied Vasquez's plea for clemency and sent him to the gallows. Meanwhile, California's famous cattle baron, Henry Miller — a man Vasquez once robbed and arguably benefited more than anyone from the Anglo conquest of California — argued for mercy in his case.

"He was a very controversial figure in California's history," Marcum added. "I'm sure Howard will bring to the forefront both sides of the debate."

The performance begins at 5:30 p.m. and there's a $10 cover.

The Works is located at 667 Lighthouse Ave. Call (831) 372-2242 or visit www.the-workspgcom.

next Wednesday. Prepared by Carmel Architect George Wilcox, they contemplate an unusual treatment of the sloping site and an attractive exterior carrying out the mansard roof, a French traditional theme so elegantly expressed in his recently-completed patisserie on Mission street, in Carmel Plaza.

Council will discuss underground parking lot

Entering the final stages of its selection process for development of an underground parking garage at the north end of Sunset Center, the city's parking committee will give its status report to the Carmel City Council next week.

The committee, formed last May at the direction of the council, has been reviewing proposals since last August, when four bids were received by the city. Those companies have now been pared down to three finalists: Monterey-based Sunset Parking Ltd. and San Francisco-based City Park and The Parking Place.

The parking lot was found to be in conformance with the city's general plan last spring and if constructed, will stand at the north end of Sunset Center where cars currently park in a dirt lot. The city has about $25,000 allotted in its 1988 budget for the preparation of an EIR for the parking garage.

Paul Laub can keep Clintville same for now

Clintville lives. At least for a short time, while an appeals court in San Jose reviews businessman Paul Laub's latest plea, which will be weighed against the city's arguments.

The appeal is the result of a decision issued Jan. 21 by Monterey County Superior Court Judge John Phillips, which holds that Laub had violated the city's zoning and health laws. The decision culminated a long-running battle between Laub and the city, in which Carmel was successful in forcing Laub to comply with its zoning and business permit laws. The city's position is that the ruling held that Laub's business presented fire hazards, so each day an injunction is in effect, public safety is endangered.

During his term as mayor, Clint Eastwood has made it well known that he's not particularly pleased with the store, which caters principally to merchandise portraying the famous face of the mayor/movie star.

■ Outlaw comes to P.G. stage

The following evening — Sunday, Feb. 24 — at The Works, local stage performer Howard Burnham wades into political controversy when he presents "Tiburcio Vasquez: The Great California Bandito."

Vasquez, an outlaw who was convicted of murder and sentenced to death in 1875 but is a hero to many Hispanics today, made national news last December when the Salinas Unified School District named a new public elementary school after him. While Vasquez's local ties are undeniable — he grew up in Monterey — his reputation has long been the subject of debate.

Those who support Vasquez's status as a hero — including the school's naming committee and some local politicians — compare him to Robin Hood and say he stole from the rich and gave to the poor.

"In this man made world filled with infrastructure, freeways and buildings, I love the persistence of the flower," Stevens explained. "I'm fascinated with the architecture and complexity of plant structure and inspired by the beauty of plant life."

Warner's show is "Figure and Environment" and his subjects "are often contemplative and restful and tend to evoke subtle narratives within the viewers."

The display by the Monterey Peninsula College Printmakers' Group features work by 50 of its members. Curated by the Monterey Museum of Art's assistant curator Helaine Glick, the ambitious show, titled "Watermarks," is centered around the theme of water — and the relationship people have with it.

The art center, which will host a reception at 7 p.m., is located at 568 Lighthouse Ave. The exhibits will continue through April 4. Call (831) 375-2208 or visit www.pgartcenter.org.

■ From butterflies to baby otters

Also showcased Friday, Feb. 22, is a photo exhibit, "From Monarch Trees to the Sea in Pacific Grove." Featuring images captured by Robert Pacelli and Kim Worrell, the exhibit is hosted by Artisana Gallery. A leading advocate for the preservation of monarchs in P.G., Pacelli has helped to lead efforts to restore the city's Monarch Grove Sanctuary.

A veterinarian assistant and an active volunteer at the Monterey Bay Aquarium whose tasks include grooming baby otters, Worrell presents a collection of photographs that capture local sea life.

Performing in the gallery between 6 and 9 p.m. will be vocalist Nedda Lentini.

The exhibit will be on display through the end of the month. Artisana Gallery is located at 309 Forest Ave. Call (831) 655-9775 or visit www.artisana-gallery.com.

■ Artist offers free painting tips

Raised in Big Sur by a family of professional artists, Delia Bradford offers a free painting demonstration Monday, Feb. 25, at the Monterey Youth Center.

At the regular monthly meeting of the Central Coast Art Association, Bradford will use acrylics and her impressionistic style to create a Carmel landscape with cypress trees.

The event starts at 7 p.m. The youth center is located at 777 Pearl St. The public is welcome.

Disaster prep presentation Tuesday

THE CARMEL Police Department and Sustainable Carmel are hosting a disaster preparedness workshop in city hall, located on Monte Verde Street south of Ocean Avenue, Tuesday, Feb. 26, at 6:30 p.m.

Gerry Kohlmann, PG&E's local senior public safety specialist, will discuss preemptive safety measures, hazards and how to prepare for disasters, while Carmel P.D. representatives will show people how to sign up their businesses, homes and cellular phones for Alert Monterey County and the Telephone Emergency Notification System program.

The city, environmental group Sustainable Carmel and the Red Cross are collaborating to help businesses, residents and visitors learn more about the simple steps people can take to know what to do and to be prepared.

Chappellet receives unique honors

Chappellet Vineyard & Winery made history last month, when its owner, Cyril Chappellet, was inducted into the Disciples Escoffier. Chappellet, which is based in Napa but also has ties to the Big Sur Coast, is the first winery in the United States to receive the distinction.

The Disciples Escoffier International was established in France and honors the memory of Auguste Escoffier, the father of fine cuisine, by preserving culinary traditions and promoting culinary education.

Tene Shake ACF president

Restaurateur and TV chef Tene Shake was recently elected president of the Central Coast chapter of the American Culinary Federation, a nonprofit that provides accredited educational programs, certifications, competitions and networking for current and aspiring chefs.

He announced his goals for the year include to "connect and inspire our Hispanic kitchen community which represents over 70 percent of our kitchens," to inspire the "common worker" in the kitchen, to strengthen vendor connections, to increase culinary education, to reestablish the Chef of the Year & Presidents Ball, and to spotlight pastry chefs and apprentices.

The smoking gun

BY NOW you surely think you've heard all the shocking allegations associated with the appearance of scantily clad models at a downtown restaurant two weeks ago. But you haven't. There's something much worse, something that doesn't just threaten Carmel's sacred village character, it blows it to smithereens.

That's right, Rich Pepe didn't just offend our precious small-town prudishness, he blatantly flouted our laws. The girls didn't just set teeth on edge with their skimpy, bad-taste outfits, they practically gave the whole town the finger.

Carolyn Hardy thought she had uncovered a scandal when she revealed that a picture of some of the girls from Racey Promotions might make one think of "sluts and whores," but she missed the very thing that actually could cause Carmel to fall right off the face of the earth. Our intrepid journalist, Mary Schley, while reporting what she thought was a fairly ordinary controversy at the city council, actually missed a conspiracy of epic proportions that was staring her right in the face. And our silly publisher, with all his high-handed talk of Freedom of the Press and the First Amendment, apparently needs to go back to the first grade and start learning his profession all over again.

Even those uber watchdogs of community virtue at the League of Women Voters, those stalwarts of independent thinking at Monterey County Weekly, and the super sleuths at the Center for Investigation Action were completely asleep at the switch just when we needed them most.

Yes, America: The girls from Racey Promotions who decorated the party at Pepe's shop the other night didn't have high heel permits!

Carmel's sacred principles are well known: You must not remove a leaf from a tree. Champagne is for drinking and water is for fighting. Any structure built by Hugh Comstock, visited by Hugh Comstock, or where anybody ever thought about Hugh Comstock is a protected historic resource. Everyone in town is required to turn in the direction of Jason Burnett and bow three times each day. And women are not allowed to strut around in anything with a heel "in excess of two inches in height and less than one square inch of bearing surface" without a valid permit from city hall. For God's sake, the law has been on the books practically since the Pilgrims landed.

Yet, the very next morning after all the shenanigans at Vesuvio, a photograph was posted on Facebook, showing that a heinous crime had taken place.

And where was our police chief? Fooling around and trying to get his name in the Police Log again, probably.

Thus, it fell to us to examine the photograph, which we did very, very closely. And while some of the girls — especially the one in the back row who has a super cute belly button — seem to be wearing boots made from something that washed up on Carmel Beach six years ago, several of them — such as the hot blonde in the front row with the messy sexy hair and the crazy red lipstick — are obviously and flagrantly breaking the law.

A Pine Cone search of files at city hall also proved that nobody from Racey Promotions has ever obtained the required "Permit for the wearing of shoes with heels in excess of certain limitations." Q.E.D.

We'll step aside now and let law enforcement do its work. As the outrage washes over the community, a grand jury will surely have to be empaneled and a special prosecutor appointed. And, as we all move forward and begin to heal, the eventual verdict in the case will become more and more of a foregone and necessary conclusion. The executioner may as well start sharpening his axe.

In the meantime, does anybody know where we go to pick up our Pulitzer?

As this photo taken at Rich Pepe's party and posted the next morning on Facebook clearly shows, some of the miscreants were actually proud of their (literally) offensive outfits.

Who speaks for Carmel?

Dear Editor,

What a hoot! Our latest controversy involving young women hired to promote a party is so over the top that I couldn't sit by and not comment.

I was stunned by the words used in Carolyn Hardy's letter to the city council. She obviously was "appalled and disgusted" by the apparel of the women. Fine — she's entitled to her opinion and the right to express it. But to question whether the party was "appropriate" for Carmel? That's where I take exception.

I also found interesting the comments in the Feb. 13 Herald where former mayor Ken White was quoted as saying, "Every city likes to think it has certain standards. It's been a complete shock to the residents. It's not Carmel." Wow! That's a broad generality that I'm not sure is true.

Also Tom Parks was quoted saying "My concern is the village character. If anything is out of whack in this village, it would be what goes on in that restaurant (Vesuvio) across from the park."

I cannot comment directly on the attire of the women as I did not attend the party. Evidently Carolyn Hardy observed enough, either by viewing the photograph or being in attendance. My complaint is directed to those who would question Rich Pepe's right to create events for his restaurant and to deem them inappropriate and that they do not improve the village character. It's simple: Don't attend his events and don't patronize his restaurant, but don't presume to believe that you speak for the residents of Carmel that we are shocked or disgusted.

This topic cries out for common sense and balanced thinking. Mrs. Hardy wrote the letter to the council, and The Pine Cone printed it. The use of the word "sluts" as a tag line to direct readers to the end of the article was unfortunately placed, but the word was Mrs. Hardy's, not The Pine Cone's. Read Paul Miller's Feb. 15 editorial to get some perspective on this issue.

Life will go on in Carmel, our village character has not been harmed, so let's party!

Pat Sippel, Carmel

The Carmel Pine Cone

was established in 1915 and is a legal newspaper for Carmel-by-the-Sea, Monterey County and the State of California, established by Superior Court Decree No. 35759, July 3, 1952

Warning: This column tells who's going to win Oscars on Sunday

THE IDIOT'S Guide to the 85th Academy of Motion Pictures Arts and Sciences Best Picture nominees ...

Amour: Aging French couple dodders about an apartment, making small talk and waiting for their inexorable demise. Subtitled dialogue is punctuated by extended moments of meaningful silence. Emmanuelle Riva wins Best Actress nomination for killer portrayal of catatonia. Won't win, but will get Best Foreign Language Film as consolation.

Note: Couple seated in front of reviewer fell asleep during afternoon showing, but they were French-hating rubes.

Argo: Hollywood comes to the rescue when a half-dozen employees at the U.S. Embassy in Teheran take refuge with the Canadian ambassador after sneaking away from a hostage situation. Much heavy drama involving characters with horrifying haircuts ensues, ending in a crescendo that would have been awesome had it actually happened that way. Won't win, but worth seeing.

Note: John Goodman ignored by Academy yet again despite channeling his inner Walter Sobchak.

Beasts of the Southern Wild: Hushpuppy wins hearts and minds during a big flood in the Bathtub when she learns that "the whole universe depends on everything fitting together just right." Quvenzhané Wallis wins Best Actress nomination for being the most adorable child in cinema history. Won't win, but it's an honor to be nominated.

Note: No oryx were injured in the making of this film.

Django Unchained: Blood-soaked revenge caper earns obligatory Best Picture nomination for Quentin Tarantino, who collects Best Picture nominations because he is an iconic cultural reference. Cringe factor only exceeded last year by Clint Eastwood's empty chair. Won't win, but fills out the nominee slot.

Note: To his credit, at least Quentin Tarantino introduced American audiences to Christoph Waltz.

Life of Pi: The son of Indian zookeepers survives a shipwreck and is set adrift in a lifeboat to discover that he is surrounded by the menace of allegory. Only the expert hand of Ang Lee could have kept this film from slipping into New Age drivel. Extra points for digital ferociousness and a flesh-eating island. Probably won't win, but a damn fine effort.

Note: Doesn't make up for time wasted watching "We Bought a Zoo."

Les Misérables: I'm a hopeless romantic who loves Jean Valjean and Cosette as much as the next guy, but was this mess necessary? Anne Hathaway wins supporting actress nomination for a cameo appearance in which she chews scenery during overwrought version of a song Susan Boyle already nailed on "Britain's Got Talent." Won't win, shouldn't win, shouldn't have been nominated.

Note: Where was the flesh-eating island when you really needed it?

page with photographs of girls dressed in provocative clothing, and the Carmel Pine Cone's word choice for a jump line is the problem? This could just be a teachable moment, but those who most need to learn something — the parents of those high-school-aged girls — are nowhere to be seen.

This explains so much of what's gone wrong in our society.

Lorne Braddock, Monterey

'Thank you, Buddha!'

Dear Editor,

A divine intervention stopped these crooked attorneys from interfering with "Freedom of Speech." The judge deserves some credit here too.

Lincoln: Noted 19th century president twists arms and influences people in a dazzling docudrama that won't win Steven Spielberg an Oscar because Steven Spielberg never wins an Oscar unless he can run up a decent body count. Daniel Day-Lewis earns Best Actor nomination for channeling his inner Raymond Massey. Should win, except for the Spielberg factor.

Note: Spielberg conspicuously ignores Lincoln's vampire-killing abilities.

Flight: Yes, I know, "Flight" was not nominated in the Best Picture category. "Silver Linings Playbook" was, but "Playbook" is the most meaningless motion picture ever nominated for a top Oscar, after "Extremely Loud & Incredibly Close."

Note: Who comes up with these nominations, anyway?

Zero Dark Thirty: Riveting account of covert operations to kill Osama bin Laden, prefaced by long passages that depict some hapless jerk getting the torture treatment. Jessica Chastain earns Best Actress nomination for filling the screen for 157 minutes without cracking her steely exterior. Could win as a Zero Dark Horse.

Note: James Gandolfini robbed of Oscar nomination despite channeling his inner Panetta.

I did not hear about this fiasco until it was printed in your newspaper. Regarding the citizen who is being called names for complaining, she was brave enough to do so when the rest of us for whatever reasons thought we should complain but didn't. Unbelievable the focus here is on the word "sluts" and not the decor of behavior.

Are any of these people concerned about the exploitation of young women here? Where are the "Women's Lib" organizations complaining about high-school girls being sexually exploited? Nowhere, I'll wager. Nowhere. And these girls parents are hacks! Frustrating to be a parent struggling to compete with this kind of promoted sleaziness. Why are their parents so indignant? Did they encourage this?

I have seen prostitutes in the Carmel area — real ones — who dress down to avoid attracting attention to themselves. I call a "spade a spade." If you don't want to be made fun of in your high school and your community, then don't dress like a hooker. It's pretty simple, ladies.

Imagine this: Prostitution is legal in Germany. In fact, if you are collecting unemployment and accepting assistance from the government for job placement, they will actually place you (send you on a job interview) in a "prostitution house" if they think you qualify, whether you ever worked as one or not. How would you feel about being contacted for a job as a prostitute, girls? Who would defend your so-called innocence then?

Stupid restaurant. I'll never eat there and never recommend it after this. Carmel, steer the course and don't let these bullies make a mockery out of your healthy civic mindedness.

D. Armenta, Pacific Grove

'Mores of past centuries'

Dear Editor,

Of all the letters condemning the words and actions of Carolyn Hardy (letters which have my support), by far the best was submitted by Frank Koucky of Carmel Valley. Well said, Mr. Koucky. It is time for the outdated, worn out Victorian mores of past centuries (as referred to in his letter) to finally be laid to rest in the past where they belong.

'Degrading tricks'

Dear Editor,

There are many good reasons to live in Carmel; one of them is the classy citizens. People here are considerate and have wonderful manners toward one another.

It breaks my heart to see women used as sex objects to profit a business. I hope this great city does not go the way of the metropolitan cities that use these obvious degrading tricks to promote for money.

Sue Walters, Carmel

Concerned about BevMo

Dear Editor,

Will the board of supervisors vote in BevMo! at their Tuesday hearing?

BevMo! intends to set up shop next to SaveMart on Carmel Rancho Boulevard, utilizing three previous store fronts. I would suggest that the community understand that: We already have 18 alcohol outlets (instead of the state recommended eight) from Highway 1 out to Quail; Carmel-by-the-Sea has 60 additional ones; BevMo's $1 beer tastings on Fridays and $2 wine tastings Saturdays will serve to undercut sales and tastings at locally owned stores and boutique tasting rooms; this chain store aggressively advertises and promotes its sales; it will be less than a mile from all teen Carmel schools and another place for middle and high-school kids who often congregate at the bagel store after school to become desensitized to the drinking culture; traffic and parking issues abound in this area. The list goes on. BevMo may or may not be a great chain store, but it's the wrong store for this place!

'Pastries & Petals' and the woman who makes it a special place

AS WE sat down for our interview at a table at Pastries & Petals, her highly popular bakery and restaurant, Jeanne Johnston had news to impart. She had just gotten engaged.

"After 28 years," she said proudly. "We haven't set a concrete date, but I would say probably in June. We have a trip we have planned to go to Paris, and we might do it then. We just don't want to do a big deal. We've kind of been there, done that. We just want to go off and do it and come back and say 'Surprise!'"

Would that mean that she'd be leaving P&P? "No. I've got my little thumb print on everything. But the girls really take care of the day-to-day operation anyway."

The "girls" are her daughter Jennifer Hatton, who is the pastry artist extraordinaire, and her niece Sarah Phulps, who is "the face of the front."

The "little thumb print" is the original design, the brilliant staffing, and detailed oversight. It is that attention to detail that has made P&P the "Cheers" of their morning and lunch crowd, where Sarah, who manages the restaurant, knows everybody's name.

When I asked her if she realized what a special place her shop was, she said, "I do! It thrills me, of course, and I have felt privileged to own it."

But she also said she doesn't like the way Carmel has changed since she first visited in the late 1970s.

"My hope is that the T-shirt shops and that kind of thing will kind of find their way back to the wharf or back to Cannery Row," she said.

On the other hand, she likes all the new tasting rooms, which attract tourists who spend money.

Jeanne Johnston

"I think they're a huge draw for people who like to travel and who are wine enthusiasts," she said. "And people who have those interests are interested in lots of other things, too."

But while out-of-town visitors like to come to her shop, it's the locals who really seem to appreciate the ambiance and the food.

"The other day I was at the car wash. This woman was there with her golden Lab, and it started licking my shoes. The owner was worried that the dog was bothering me, but I said, 'That's all right. I own a bakery, and he obviously likes sugar and flower.'"

The woman asked which bakery, and when she learned it was Pastries & Petals, she said, "I knew it! I knew it!"

And then the woman proceeded to tell about her daughter's struggles when she went away to school back East for the first year, and how she was thinking she'd have to pull her out of school and bring her back closer to home.

"She said, 'When she came home for a visit, we had such an incredible conversation and experience in your bakery. We came three and four times. That was like our little foundation. She could talk, we communicated, and it was like she was OK. Now we send her treats from the bakery.'"

It all started in Sacramento, where Jeanne grew up.

"My mother was a great cook, and I started a small catering business called Sweet. Probably because of my parents not letting us have much sugar, I've always been obsessed with baked goods, cupcakes, anything sweet," she said.

Her cooking career evolved with the establishment of a Sacramento cooking school called William Glenn, which she described as "like a Williams-Sonoma, before Williams-Sonoma started." It attracted great chefs, including Julia Child, Jacques Pepin, Madeleine Kamman and Alice Medrich.

"Then my former husband and I bought a high-end French that we follow up with you."

"That just sounds like a splendid idea," commented Carmel Residents Association President Barbara Livingston, who approached the podium after Richmond to address the council on another matter.

At the council's Feb. 5 meeting, city administrator Jason Stilwell said part of the city's efforts to enforce its codes included reminding businesses and the public that the ban took effect Feb. 3.

"We are out in the community and trying to ensure our ordinances are in force and what the community expectations are," he said.

For the first violation, the city would issue a written warning to the offending business, which would have 30 days to comply. For another violation 30 days after the warning, the retailer could be fined up to $100, and for the second violation 60 days after the warning, the fine could be up to $200.

Mayor Jason Burnett added that he had received a press release from the Plastic Bag Coalition stating that the group "didn't like" the city's ban, "and I responded that the feeling is mutual."

Great Lives

By TONY SETON

restaurant," she said.

Her plan was to design it. "I had one child and another one on the way, so I was not that interested in running a restaurant, but I wanted to create it and I wanted to do the menu and all that. Everybody else could do the work."

Of course, it wound up that she had to take control — restaurants aren't run absentee — and she was successful in her efforts. "We started a breakfast club, which was extremely popular. I love mornings. I love seeing people first thing, before they get cranky."

But time passed, and so did the marriage, and Jeanne moved to Carmel, penniless. She reinvented herself, first through the management of country clubs.

"If you can manage a country club, you can manage a small country," she observed.

And then two years ago she opened Pastries & Petals, and with a special philosophy that has always been part of her life.

"My mother was very good about making all of us children every day feel special. I think that has always been my little thing in my mind. If you can make somebody feel special every day, regardless of who it is — the gardener, a stranger, or someone who does business with you — if you can put a smile on their face, then you've had a great day."

anticipate it.

"I'm trying to spread the word," he said. "People slowly are realizing it."

He also called for the city to install professional and highly noticeable signs to let people know it's still possible to drive and park near the intersection. "There's a hand-made sign there now that says, 'businesses open,'" he said. "But we put that up."

Despite repeated attempts to reach him, Pacific Grove City Manager Tom Frutchey did not return calls from The Pine Cone.

But the road project, which includes planters, crosswalks and curbs designed to beautify the street, slow traffic and encourage people to spend more time in downtown P.G., has an ardent defender in chamber of commerce President Moe Ammar.

"When it is finished, it is going to be the best downtown in Monterey County," Ammar said. "Things are a little tough for some of the shops, but I tell them it will pay off in the end, and for now, they need to take one for the team."

He said work should be finished by April 8, but that the contractor has strong incentives to finish early.

"This is the best thing that's happened since I've been here, period!" Ammar said.

" C A R M E L L E G E N D S "

Since the days of Boccaccio, religious and sex have been - well, ah, bedfellows. Carmel has had little to do with the recent spate of teevangelists' adventures, but we were in the thick of a similar event back in 1926. None of the Tales of the Decameron could match the amazing story of AIMEE SEMPLE MCPHERSON, the preeminent evangelist of her time, a healer of the sick, a powerful radio preacher and a consummate actress. She disappeared into the Pacific off Ocean Beach on May 16, 1926 and set in motion a hysterical tale. About 6 weeks later, on June 23, she reappeared in Douglas, Arizona, staggering in from the dessert with a fantastic story of kidnapping. Later it was established that much of her time has been spent in the Benedict Cottage on Scenic Drive in Carmel in a romantic interlude with Kenneth Ormiston, manager of her radio station. If Carmel needed any reinforcement for its romantic reputation, this was it. You can still get an argument about the details.

juvenile. While en route, dispatcher advised the juvenile was very upset and started to bang her head against cabinets and was attempting to cut her wrist on the corner of a cabinet. Juvenile was transported to the hospital to be evaluated.

SUNDAY, FEBRUARY 3

Carmel-by-the-Sea: A vehicle stop was conducted on a driver on Carpenter Street for a moving violation, and the aroma of marijuana was identified coming from inside the vehicle. Before the officer conducted a vehicle search, the driver stated there was a small amount of marijuana in the center console and a glass smoking pipe on the right side of the vehicle. A search of the vehicle was conducted, and the marijuana and pipe were located. The marijuana was confiscated and booked as evidence. The smoking pipe was returned to the driver. The driver was cited and released at the scene.

Carmel-by-the-Sea: Report of a non-injury collision on San Carlos Street.

Carmel-by-the-Sea: Driver collided into a parked vehicle and tree on Guadalupe Street. The driver attempted to flee scene but was stopped by witnesses at Santa Rita and First. Driver, a 49-year-old male, was determined to be DUI and arrested. Later housed at Monterey P.D.

Pacific Grove: Observed subject with an axe on Eardley. After a short chase, took the 26-year-old male subject in to custody. Admitted to damaging the Welcome to Pacific Grove sign on the rec trail.

Pacific Grove: A 34-year-old male was arrested for spousal battery.

Pebble Beach: Sunridge Road resident had an unknown object thrown at the front window to the residence, causing damage.

MONDAY, FEBRUARY 4

Carmel-by-the-Sea: Man reported that sometime between Friday night, Feb. 1, and Monday, Feb. 4, unknown persons entered his employer's vehicle while it was parked on Carmelo Street and only took the registration and insurance paperwork. Additionally, when he went to the vehicle, it was found to have a dead battery. No further — information only.

Carmel-by-the-Sea: CPD units were dispatched to a heated domestic dispute between a mother and daughter. The parties were separated and counseled. Personal property inside the residence had been damaged by the daughter, but no prosecution was desired.

Pebble Beach: Suspect pushed a victim into a wall and was found to be on probation.

TUESDAY, FEBRUARY 5

Carmel-by-the-Sea: Vehicle collided with a city tree, privately owned pottery and a building on Ocean Avenue. No injuries.

Carmel-by-the-Sea: Report of a man yelling in the area of Santa Rita. The man was contacted and said he was involved in an argument with his father.

Carmel-by-the-Sea: Woman reported her rear window was smashed and possibly her GPS stolen from her vehicle while it was parked on Ocean Avenue. Upon further inspection, it was determined the window was broken by a pine cone and the GPS unit was found elsewhere in her vehicle.

Carmel-by-the-Sea: CPD units were dispatched to a civil dispute between one family member rekeying a family vacation house on Carmelo Street without properly notifying the existing family members who share part ownership of the residence. The new keys were distributed to two of the three family members.

Pacific Grove: A 58-year-old female reported a residential burglary on Eighth Street.

Pacific Grove: A 43-year-old male and a 36-year-old female, reported a residential burglary on Eighth Street. No suspect information.

Big Sur: Man reported his vehicle was broken into via window smash. Loss estimated at $390. No suspects.

Carmel area: Woman reported an unknown person stole a GPS device from her unlocked vehicle on Ribera Road and wished to document the theft of property.

WEDNESDAY, FEBRUARY 6

Carmel-by-the-Sea: Report of a non-injury collision on Sixth Avenue.

Carmel-by-the-Sea: Report of a subject refusing to leave a Junipero Street hotel, and his credit card was declined. Consensual search of his vehicle located two shotguns that he was unable to show he was the owner of. The shotguns were kept for safekeeping until the owner can be identified.

Carmel-by-the-Sea: A citizen complained about a barking dog on Carpenter Street.

Officer responded, and no violation was heard during the investigation. A notice was left at the front door, and the dog owners contacted the department. Possible solutions were discussed with the party. No violation.

Carmel-by-the-Sea: An out-of-state driver's license was found by a citizen. An attempt was made to locate the subject, but the officer was unable to find a phone number for the owner.

Carmel-by-the-Sea: Non-injury vehicle collision on Eighth Avenue.

Carmel-by-the-Sea: Vehicle parked on San Carlos Street on Feb. 6 with no damage. Owner returned to the vehicle on Feb. 7 and discovered damage. No note was left; no suspect info. No further action.

Pacific Grove: A 52-year-old female reported a residential burglary on Eighth Street. No suspect info.

Pacific Grove: Report of juveniles drinking on school grounds on Congress Avenue. Three juveniles, one age 16 and two age 17, were arrested, booked, cited and released to a responsible.

Pacific Grove: Man located on a female's property on Presidio Boulevard and was admonished not to trespass. Suspect, a 27-year-old male, returned to the property and vandalized the home.

THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 7

Carmel-by-the-Sea: A 24-year-old male was booked.

Carmel-by-the-Sea: Woman at an Ocean Avenue business reported that an altercation with an ex-employee left her rattled, and she requested that officers make contact with the other party to make sure no retaliation was planned. Other party was contacted and was cooperative, promising no future issues.

Carmel-by-the-Sea: Vehicle towed from Highway 1 for a 30-day hold after the driver was found to be unlicensed.

Carmel-by-the-Sea: A citizen on Dolores Street reported a dog bite.

Carmel-by-the-Sea: On San Carlos Street, a pedestrian reportedly kicked the left rear bumper area of a vehicle while it traveled through an intersection.

Pacific Grove: Hangman's noose was tied to the front-yard tree of a Presidio Boulevard residence.

Pacific Grove: Officer was dispatched to a theft from a vehicle on 12th Street. The 57-year-old male victim advised he does not know when it occurred. There was no forced entry to the vehicle, due to the man leaving of LENORE F. MEYER, also known as LENORE FLORENCE MEYER

NOTICE OF PETITION TO ADMINISTER ESTATE

Case Number MP 20991
To all heirs, beneficiaries, creditors, contingent creditors, and persons who may otherwise be interested in the will or estate, or both, of LENORE F. MEYER, also known as LENORE FLORENCE MEYER.

A PETITION FOR PROBATE has been filed by DALE MEREDITH MEYER in the Superior Court of California, County of MONTEREY. The Petition for Probate requests that DALE MEREDITH MEYER be appointed as personal representative to administer the estate of the decedent.
THE PETITION requests the decedent's will and codicils, if any, be admitted to probate. The will and any codicils are available for examination in the file kept by the court.
THE PETITION requests authority to administer the estate under the Independent Administration of Estates Act. (This authority will allow the personal representative to take many actions without obtaining court approval. Before taking certain very important actions, however, the personal representative will be required to give notice to interested persons unless they have waived notice or consented to the proposed action.) The independent administration authority will be granted unless an interested person files an objection to the petition and shows good cause why the court should not grant the authority.

A hearing on the petition will be held on in this court as follows:
Date: April 10, 2013
Time: 9:00 a.m.
Dept.: 16
Address: Superior Court of California, County of Monterey, 1200 Aguajito Road, Monterey, CA 93940.
If you object to the granting of the petition, you should appear at the hearing and state your objections or file written objections with the court before the hearing. Your appearance may be in person or by your attorney.

If you are a creditor or a contingent creditor of the decedent, you must file your claim with the court and mail a copy to the personal representative appointed by the court within four months from the date of first issuance of letters as provided in Probate Code section 9100. The time for filing claims will not expire before four months from the hearing date noticed above.
You may examine the file kept by the court. If you are a person interested in the estate, you may file with the court a Request for Special Notice (form DE-154) of the filing of an inventory and appraisal of estate assets or of any petition or account as provided in Probate Code section 1250. A Request for Special Notice form is available from the court clerk.

You will be bidding on a lien, not on the property itself. Placing the highest bid at a trustee auction does not automatically entitle you to free and clear ownership of the property. You should also be aware that the lien being auctioned off may be a junior lien. If you are the highest bidder at the auction, you are or may be responsible for paying off all liens senior to the lien being auctioned off, before you can receive clear title to the property. You are encouraged to investigate the existence, priority, and size of outstanding liens that may exist on this property by contacting the county recorder's office or a title insurance company, either of which may charge you a fee for this information. If you consult either of these resources, you should be aware that the same lender may hold more than one mortgage or deed of trust on the property. NOTICE TO PROPERTY OWNER: The sale date shown on this notice of sale may be postponed one or more times by the mortgagee, beneficiary, trustee, or a court, pursuant to Section 2924g of the California Civil Code. The law requires that information about trustee sale postponements be made available to you and to the public, as a courtesy to those not present at the sale. If you wish to learn whether your sale date has been postponed, and, if applicable, the rescheduled time and date for the sale of this property, this information can be obtained from one of the following three companies: LPS Agency Sales & Posting at (714) 730-2727, or visit the Internet Web site www.lpsasap.com (Registration required to search for sale information) or Priority Posting & Publishing at (714) 573-1965 or visit the Internet Web site www.priorityposting.com (Click on the link for "Advanced Search" to search for sale information), or auction.com at 1-800-280-2832 or visit the Internet Web site www.auction.com, using the Trustee Sale No. shown above. Information about postponements that are very short in duration or that occur close in time to the scheduled sale may not immediately be reflected in the telephone information or on the Internet Web site. The best way to verify postponement information is to attend the scheduled sale. P1018803 2/8, 2/15, 02/22/2013 Publication dates: Feb. 8, 15, 22, 2013. (PC 212)

NOTICE OF TRUSTEE'S SALE T.S. No.: 9526-2379 TSG Order No.: 120338757-CA-LMI A.P.N.: 187-041-031-000 YOU ARE IN DEFAULT UNDER A DEED OF TRUST DATED 02/25/2004. UNLESS YOU TAKE ACTION TO PROTECT YOUR PROPERTY, IT MAY BE SOLD AT A PUBLIC SALE. IF YOU NEED AN EXPLANATION OF THE NATURE OF THE PROCEEDING AGAINST YOU, YOU SHOULD CONTACT A LAWYER. NBS Default Services, LLC, as the duly appointed Trustee, under and pursuant to the power of sale contained in that certain Deed of Trust Recorded 03/04/2004 as Document No.: 2004019943, of Official Records in the office of the Recorder of Monterey County, California, executed by: BLAKE H MCDONALD AND ELSIE B MCDONALD, HUSBAND AND WIFE, as Trustor, WILL SELL AT PUBLIC AUCTION TO THE HIGHEST BIDDER FOR CASH (payable in full at time of sale by cash, a cashier's check drawn by a state or national bank, a check drawn by a state or federal credit union, or a check drawn by a state or federal savings and loan association, savings association, or savings bank specified in section 5102 of the Financial Code and authorized to do business in this state). All right, title and interest conveyed to and now held by it under said Deed of Trust in the property situated in said County and state, and as more fully described in the above referenced Deed of Trust. Sale Date and Time: 03/12/2013 at 09:00 AM Sale Location: Fox Theater, 241 Main Street, Salinas, CA 93901 The street address and other common designation, if any, of the real property described above is purported to be: 47 ENCINA DRIVE, CARMEL VALLEY, CA 93924. The undersigned Trustee disclaims any liability for any incorrectness of the street address and other common designation, if any, shown herein. Said sale will be made in an "AS IS" condition, but without covenant or warranty, expressed or implied, regarding title, possession, or encumbrances, to pay the remaining principal sum of the note(s) secured by said Deed of Trust, with interest thereon, as provided in said note(s), advances, if any, under the terms of the Deed of Trust, estimated fees, charges and expenses of the Trustee and of the trusts created by said Deed of Trust, to-wit: $1,826,569.93 (Estimated). Accrued interest and additional advances, if any, will increase this figure prior to sale. It is possible that at the time of sale the opening bid may be less than the total indebtedness due. NOTICE TO POTENTIAL BIDDERS: If you are considering bidding on this property lien, you should understand that there are risks involved in bidding at a trustee auction. You will be bidding on a lien, not on the property itself. Placing the highest bid at a trustee auction does not automatically entitle you to free and clear ownership of the property. You should also be aware that the lien being auctioned off may be a junior lien. If you are the highest bidder at the auction, you are or may be responsible for paying off all liens senior to the lien being auctioned off, before you can receive clear title to the property. You are encouraged to investigate the existence, priority, and size of outstanding liens that may exist on this property by contacting the county recorder's office or a title insurance company, either of which may charge you a fee for this information. If you consult either of these resources, you should be aware that the same lender may hold more than one mortgage or deed of trust on the property. NOTICE TO PROPERTY OWNER: The sale date shown on this notice of sale may be postponed one or more times by the mortgagee, beneficiary, trustee, or a court, pursuant to Section 2924g of the California Civil Code. The law requires that information about trustee sale postponements be made available to you and to the public, as a courtesy to those not present at the sale. If you wish to learn whether your sale date has been postponed, and, if applicable, the rescheduled time and date for the sale of this property, you may call, 1-800-280-2832 for information regarding the trustee's sale or visit this Internet Web site, www.auction.com, for information regarding the sale of this property, using the file number assigned to this case, T.S.# 9526-2379. Information about postponements that are very short in duration or that occur close in time to the scheduled sale may not immediately be reflected in the telephone information or on the internet Web site. The best way to verify postponement information is to attend the scheduled sale. If the Trustee is unable to convey title for any reason, the successful bidder's sole and exclusive remedy shall be the return of monies paid to the Trustee and the successful bidder shall have no further recourse. The Declaration pursuant to California Civil Code, Section 2923.5(a) was fulfilled when the Notice of Default was recorded on 11/16/2012 NBS Default Services, LLC 301 E. NOTICE OF PETITION TO ADMINISTER ESTATE OF IRENE ADA HENDERSON, Case Number MP 21007

To all heirs, beneficiaries, creditors, contingent creditors, and persons who may otherwise be interested in the will or estate, or both, of IRENE ADA HENDERSON, also known as IRENE HENDERSON.
A PETITION FOR PROBATE has been filed by LAWRENCE BARBER in the Superior Court of California, County of MONTEREY.
The Petition for Probate requests that LAWRENCE BARBER be appointed as personal representative to administer the estate of the decedent.
THE PETITION requests the decedent's will and codicils, if any, be admitted to probate. The will and any codicils are available for examination in the file kept by the court.
THE PETITION requests authority to administer the estate under the Independent Administration of Estates Act. (This authority will allow the personal representative to take many actions without obtaining court approval. Before taking certain very important actions, however, the personal representative will be required to give notice to interested persons unless they have waived notice or consented to the proposed action.) The independent administration authority will be granted unless an interested person files an objection to the petition and shows good cause why the court should not grant the authority.
A hearing on the petition will be held on in this court as follows:
Date: April 17, 2013
Time: 9:00 a.m.
Dept.: 16
Address: Superior Court of California, County of Monterey, 1200 Aguajito Road, Monterey, CA 93940.
If you object to the granting of the petition, you should appear at the hearing and state your objections or file written objections with the court before the hearing. Your appearance may be in person or by your attorney.
If you are a creditor or a contingent creditor of the decedent, you must file your claim with the court and mail a copy to the personal representative appointed by the court within four months from the date of first issuance of letters as provided in Probate Code section 9100. The time for filing claims will not expire before four months from the hearing date noticed above.
You may examine the file kept by the court. If you are a person interested in the estate, you may file with the court a Request for Special Notice (form DE-154) of the filing of an inventory and appraisal of estate assets or of any petition or account as provided in Probate Code section 1250. A Request for Special Notice form is available from the court clerk. Attorney for petitioner: LESLIE E. FINNEGAN, ESQ., c/o NOLAND HAMERLY ETIENNE & HOSS, a Professional Corporation.
