Unjust and Decidedly Unbusiness-like

"They take all they can get from us, but leave nothing with us."

The foregoing is the substance of a complaint frequently voiced in Carmel with regard to public service corporations operating here, and of professional men and others doing business here.

From the three public-service concerns—the Telephone, the Water, and the Electric Light companies—Carmel gets nothing in return—service expected—for the $600 paid out monthly.

Not a single person of the operating and maintenance force of any of the concerns mentioned resides in Carmel. Therefore, not a single penny of the money obtained here in payment for service is spent here for food, fuel or shelter.

Not one of these dividend-paying corporations has responded to repeated requests of this paper for advertising.

This state of affairs is not only an injustice to Carmel; it is not good business.

There are a number of Monterey professional men, having a good practice in Carmel, who visit here almost daily, but as an observing resident remarked recently, "They go scooting through town in their machines and don't buy even a five-cent cigar or a gallon of gasoline."

It would seem that the corporation, the physician, the lawyer, and the dentist, even if he were not actuated by a sense of fairness, would as a matter of business, coming from another town as he does, expend a small portion of his income where it is acquired.

A Prompt Response

Seven minutes after the sounding of the fire alarm last Thursday, the two chemical engines and a full crew had arrived at the grass fire in the lot near the La Playa.

There was no damage to property.

During the past week there have been no additions to the fire fund.

Interesting Details of Belgian Relief Work

The chairman of the Carmel Belgian Relief Committee is in receipt of the following letter:

We have just received a very encouraging letter from Mr. George Barr Baker, the national organizing manager. He speaks of the inspiration our California work has been to the Commission and says our January record was a gratifying one.

At the meeting of the Presidential committee, at which were present the Belgian Minister of Finance and the private secretary of the King, he was able to read over the amounts of clothing in pounds, and California led the list for January.

We feel that you will be interested in this further paragraph in his letter:

"It is not necessary to tell you, but the world at large should know that the need for cloth, shirts, blouses, skirts, boys' clothing and underwear will increase during the spring and summer. There seems to be a sudden giving out of stocks held in families and the use of flour sacks for coats, underwear and children's dresses is growing."

This will show you how great is the need that we try every means possible to continue our support of this most necessary work

With good wishes and warmest appreciation, Sincerely,
Mrs. Vernon L. Kellogg

A Busy Musician in Chicago

Frederick Preston Search is having a busy season in his Eastern work. While reserving some time for his solo engagements, he is making himself felt in the musical life of Chicago, which is now his basic city.

Besides holding positions in the Centralizing School of Music, he is now one of the editors of "The Violinist," and is also editor of the Music Lover's Calendar, which he created since going to Chicago.

Following several earlier recitals, he was soloist with orchestra recently at Sinai Temple, and just prior to that appeared in joint recital with David Baxter, the scotch basso.

Mr. Search's "Thornguna," written in Carmel, will be given its premier on March 2, by the Chicago American Orchestra, of which organization the celloist will be soloist of honor when Hadley's "Concerto" is presented.

It is interesting to note that "Aztec Dance," written by Search for Herbert Heron's "Montezuma," has been extended and re-written for large orchestra.

Mr. Search will spend the coming summer in Carmel, arriving in June and returning Chicago in September.

COMING EVENTS

Mrs. C. L. Carrington is planning an affair for the evening of St. Patrick's Day, and the Arts and Crafts Club is preparing something in the nature of a Shakespeare celebration. Details later.

At the annual meeting of St. Anne's Guild all the officers were re-elected for another year. Next Saturday afternoon the ladies will give a tea at the Blue Bird.

A week from next Monday the election for two members of the Carmel Sanitary Board and for a Sanitary District Assessor takes place. Show your interest by voting.

Splendid Paper Read Before the Carmel Audubon Society

The Audubon Society of Carmel, which is a branch of the State Audubon Society, is endeavoring to do some helpful, practical work, as is evidenced by the article here presented.

It is original, and the result of much individual observation. The descriptions are from notes taken either in Carmel or in the immediate neighborhood, hence they have local value.

The introduction must of necessity be more or less technical and savor strongly of Chapman, Wheelock and Bailey, our most reliable Western Ornithologists.

Second Installment

Early in October I found a straggling flock of tiny birds beautifully marked on their bluish-gray backs and wings with sooty-black and pure white. I caught most tantalizing flashes of yellow as they hunted flutteringly about me for insects. The conclusion arrived at, after working several days, was that I had seen both Audubon and Myrtle Warblers. Since then, almost daily, I have seen many of these interesting birds, but am never absolutely positive about any one except the male Audubon, whose upper parts are a clear bluish-gray streaked with black. He has noticeable white wing-bars, and five distinct yellow patches—top of head, throat, rump, and both flanks. The female is similar, but all colors duller and yellow patches much restricted. The white is not so white, the black not so black. She seems to be veiled in a very illusive pale vanish-gray.

"The Myrtle or Yellow-rumped Warbler differs from the Audubon Warbler in having a white throat," says Mrs. Wheelock. She makes no other definite distinction. Chapman agrees with her. Therefore, observe the color of the throat to be sure about the Audubon and the Myrtle Warblers.

These Warblers are great gadabouts, and may also be called gossips. They are never still—always moving, always calling. They have most extraordinary appetites, judging from the amount of suet eaten by those that come to my window. They are wonderfully fascinating gymnasts. They can flutter the wings so rapidly that they can hang in one place for several seconds, then they fly backward a few feet perhaps to gain a propelling force; but it may be simply to show a hummingbird-like ability after a hawk-like feat. I have seen several of these birds turn complete somersaults in their strenuous efforts to capture a fly or a moth, then regain a perch with ease and grace.

About the middle of October, I saw the daintiest little yellow ball perched on a level with my eyes, in a wild lilac bush. He was cautious, but curious enough to come forward and look me over. I stood quietly and feasted upon his beauty. The upper parts of this

University of California Hall of Fame

Members of the faculty of the University of California have informally decided upon the ten men who they believe have brought most credit to the name of the State institution. A canvass of the professors, through the agency of the student daily paper, has brought forth the following list of names of "Who's Who" among California's former students:

Josiah Royce, head Harvard's department of philosophy; Stephen T. Mather, Assistant Secretary of the Interior; Franklin K. Lane, Secretary of the Interior; Adolph C. Miller, of the Federal Reserve Board; Governor Hiram Johnson; Dr. H. C. Moffitt, of the medical school; Jack London, author; James Hopper, author; Richard W. Tully, dramatist; Lieutenant-Governor John M. Eshleman.

Quite an impressive list, and all "live ones." But one can not help noting the omission of such names as John Hays Hammond, engineer; George C. Pardee, former Governor; Frank H. Powers, attorney; Harry A. Overstreet, University of the City of New York; Max Thelin, attorney and railroad commissioner, and Abraham H. Ruef.

four-inch wonder were bright yellow tinged with just a suggestion of palest green. The head was very yellow and large pale yellow velvety rings around the eyes made him appear alert, wise beyond his size, and most attractive. The underparts were bright light yellow. A most fascinating and tantalizing yellow mite that I could not find in any book, until after I visited the Exposition, where I saw one in the exhibit case of a taxidermist of Humboldt county. It was labeled "California Yellow Warbler." I had not been able to see that the crown of my yellow ball was tinged with orange and the breast faintly streaked with rufous, as Mrs. Wheelock describes the California Yellow Warbler. She fails to mention the beautiful conspicuous eye-ring, one of the marks that distinguishes this friendly, fascinating, yellow haunter of the roadside thicket.

Belief Not Knowledge

We say of Lincoln that he saw things with his own eyes. It is very interesting when we can pick out individual men and say that of them.

The opposite of the proposition is, that most men see things with other men's eyes, and that is the pity of the whole business of the world. Most men do not see things with their own eyes. If they did they would not be so inconspicuous as they consent to be. What most persons do is to live up to formulas and opinions and believe them, and never give themselves the trouble to ask whether they are true or not; so that there is a great deal of truth in saying that the trouble is, men believe so many things that are not so, because they have taken them at second hand; they have accepted them in the form they were given them. They have not seen the world with their own eyes.—Woodrow Wilson.

Three Groups of Readers

An Eastern publisher divides the reading public into three groups—sponge readers, sieve reader and duck-back readers. Of the three the first is the most admirable, whether regarded from the author's or the publisher's standpoint. Sponge readers may not purchase as many books as the sieve readers, or be quite as glib in talking superficially about authors; but they buy better books, and what they read abides. The sieve readers frequently forget as readily as they acquire, and the duck-backs do not read for any other purpose than to "kill time."

The knocking and criticism of the Pine Cone and its publisher by certain resident parasites and "spongers" is considered in the nature of an endorsement of the paper and its owner.

Mrs. Julia C. Stohr and her daughter, artists of New York, are now occupying the Tilton cottage.

Miss Rose Lippincott expects to remain in Carmel through the month of March.

Mine host, Roy Newberry, is seen often these days astride a horse taking in the beauties of the surrounding country.

The Boys' Club

At the next regular meeting of the Carmel Boys' Club there will be an election of officers and a drill on conducting a meeting.

These boys are to become citizens, and it is not too early to inculcate principles which will lead to upright living, a discrimination of right from wrong, and a steadfastness in maintaining the right.

As one definite aid, a poster has been prepared which will stand for Thrift, Patriotism, Reading, and Good Citizenship.

Death of an Official

One of the most widely acquainted officials of Monterey county—P. W. Soto—passed away in San Francisco recently. Mr. Soto was employed at the courthouse in Salinas for about twenty-five years, at the time of his death being County Recorder. He was buried last Wednesday.

The Board of Supervisors has appointed F. A. Abbott to fill out the unexpired term of Mr. Soto.

The following appreciation has been addressed to Mrs. P. W. Soto and family:

As it has been the decree of the Almighty Being who rules our destinies to remove from our midst a fellow worker whom we all admired and respected for those sterling qualities which mark a gentleman, we, the county officials of Monterey county, tender to you our heartfelt sympathy and condolences in your time of sorrow.

May the thought that he continues to live in the hearts and the memories of those who knew and loved him be a comfort to you.

Monday evening's telegraph news contained the announcement of the sudden death, at Indio, Riverside county, of Lieutenant-Governor John M. Eshleman.

Eshleman was one of the most efficient and popular officials ever elected by the people of California. Prior to his election to the office which he held at the time of his death, Eshleman was President of the State Railroad Commission, and to him the people of California owe much for what has been accomplished in the regulation of public-service concerns.

[During the years that John M. Eshleman attended the University of California, it was my pleasure to come in contact with him almost daily. I remember him as a plodding, earnest student, beloved and honored by his class-mates and friends. Jack, as he was called by his intimates, in student affairs, as well as in later public affairs, always stood for those things which were clean and above board. He was possessed of a fund of good common sense, which again stood him in good stead in his services to the people of the State of California.—EDITOR.]

ITEMS OF INTEREST.

Last evening a number of Carmel folks, who for the occasion dubbed themselves the "Hard-up Bunch," held a social affair at the Carmel Hotel dining-room.

The Socialists of Carmel met on Monday evening for the purpose of organizing a local. Plans for bringing a Socialist speaker here occasionally were discussed.

During the past week, and especially on Sunday, many little parties were out gathering wild-flowers—Poppies, Iris, Johnny-jump-ups, Indian Warriors and Zigadines are quite plentiful. It is a little early yet for Fairy Lanterns.

Dear Mr. Ed

My friend Kakiuma having negotiate exchange of cash for kodaks in local store where sold, in order to make photography possible, remark as follows: "Uchi, why not photograph some pictures with convenient instrument?" I agree as to bright ideas, hence therefore we endeavor to make photo picture of Ostrich which say are locate on Pt. loaded of cypress.

Arriving where Hon. Pt. are locate, we nextly make slight searches for any available Ostriches. Not finding, Kaki suggest, as it are customary for all bird bipeds to be attach to fly-wings, possibly he fly somewhere—hence for averting disappointments of returning pictureless we are able to make photo of exact spots formerly occupied.

Wishing you success,

K. Uchimoto
