Fireman's Ball a Big Success

A throng of dancers, not only of Carmel, but from Carmel Valley, Monterey, Watsonville, and other towns, attended the first annual ball given by the Carmel Fire Department at the Manzanita Theatre on Saturday evening.

There is no question whatever that this affair was the largest and most successful of the kind ever held here, and will go a long way toward establishing the ball as a regular annual event.

Not a detail which would in any way contribute to the enjoyment of the guests was overlooked by the very efficient committee in charge, and in this connection a reference must be made to the splendid music furnished by Cummings orchestra.

The Fire Department maintenance fund is considerably increased.

CARMEL YOLANDA TERMINUS OF THE Road of Ten Thousand Wonders Initial Performance on Saturday Night

Before many weeks now all the highways, near and remote, leading to Carmel will be in first-class condition.

In a recent interview with W. A. Dontanville, contractor and builder of the Carmel and Valley roads from Monterey, the opinion was expressed that this work will be completed by August 1.

Through the courtesy of Pacific Improvement Co., represented by R. H. McKaig, beginning last Saturday, and during the period required to complete the reconstruction of the highway between Carmel and Monterey, the Seventeen-Mile Drive is thrown open without toll to the public.

Note the various routes and changing scenery from Carmel to San Francisco:

First, leaving Carmel, via Monterey and Castroville, and along the Monterey bay shoreline to Santa Cruz and thence along the shoreline of the Pacific ocean to San Francisco, a road of many wonders—ocean, mountain and forest—surprises at every turn of the winding road.

Second, taking the same route from Carmel to Santa Cruz and thence climbing the Santa Cruz range of mountains by easy grades, passing through the grandest of all forests, the famous redwoods to the Big Basin, a natural park of giant redwoods, which the state of California has reserved as a park for the enjoyment of her people and to preserve these rare and beautiful trees. Leaving the park, the road crosses a spur of the coast range and winds down into the lovely Santa Clara valley and connects with the state highway near Stanford University.

Third, taking the same road to Santa Cruz and thence crossing by different route the Santa Cruz mountains, from the summit on which you have far-reaching and Four weeks of hard, earnest rehearsals have brought the two plays that are to open the Forest Theatre season into excellent shape. Never before, during the six previous summers of local dramatic venture, has the public been offered such a splendid program as the one which is now ready for the evenings of July 1, 3, 4 and 5.

"Yolanda of Cyprus" embodies all the charm and poetic color that a Venetian drama of the sixteenth century could draw upon. "The Piper," with its cast of seventy-five people, contains every appeal known to the local stage. Costumes designed especially for this production, and made under the supervision of the women of Arts and Crafts, scenery by Arthur Vachell, DeNeale Morgan and Perry Newberry, thirty-five of Carmel's most delightful children—these are features of the production that cannot help meaning success.

GREETINGS

Following the first production of "Yolanda of Cyprus" Saturday evening, the members of the Forest Theatre Society and of the Arts and Crafts Club, and their friends, will tender a reception to Cale Young Rice, author of the play, and Alice Hagen Rice, the writer, at Arts and Crafts Hall.

Winter Watts, the composer, has just completed incidental music for "Yolanda of Cyprus," and Frederick Preston Search has a large orchestra in training for both plays. Particular attention is being given to the playing of the "kinderspell," the tune which the Piper uses to lure the rats from Hamelin, and later the children of the village.

inspiring views of ocean, forest and valley. Three miles from Santa Cruz, your road passes the famous grove of Big Trees, many of them over three hundred feet in height and twenty-five feet in diameter; thence over the mountain to Los Gatos and on to San Jose through the celebrated orchard district of Santa Clara valley, connecting at this place with the state highway.

Fourth, leaving Carmel-by-the-Sea via Monterey, Castroville and Watsonville, and from the latter place by the famous "The Rocks," a magnificent, tremendous pile of granite rocks of heroic size, lichen covered and hoary with age; from this point the road leads on to a junction with the state highway near San Juan Mission.

Fifth, leaving Carmel-by-the-Sea via Salinas; connecting at that point with the state highway and thence over the beautiful San Juan grade, passing the old San Juan Mission and on to San Francisco.

The state highway runs northerly from Salinas to San Francisco, and southerly to Santa Barbara, Los Angeles and San Diego. All of these hundreds of miles of wonderful scenic roads above described, and there are none grander on this earth, lead to Carmel-by-the-Sea.

Annie Laurie, the well-known literary woman of California, for she belongs to the whole state and is loved and honored by all for her championship and defense of every good cause, writes of Carmel on her first visit here as follows:

"You waken in the morning and lean from your lattice—for it is a lattice in Carmel-by-the-Sea—and see the azure water, the snow sand, the melancholy cypress—and all the country hazed over with the blue smoke of the wild lilac and at their feet the leaping flame of California poppies, color, perfume, air, sky, the singing sea, the crescent of the wondrous beach, the winding roads, the enchanted fields."

"The roads of ten thousand wonders" shall be the name of all these splendid highways diverging from Carmel-by-the-Sea, and how fitting that beautiful Carmel should be the terminal.

Benjamin Fay Mills, the noted lecturer and pulpit orator, writes of Carmel-by-the-Sea as follows:

"In my opinion Carmel-by-the-Sea surpasses in natural attractiveness any sea shore resort in America. Mountains, bluffs, woods, dune, beach, sand, flowers, climate, the ante-American romantic aroma and the good-natured pioneers, all need more than superlatives to with positive energy and if she has not done her best, it can only be because, the best is yet to come."

Story of "The Piper," to be Given on Tuesday and Wednesday of Next Week

The scene is laid in the village of Hamelin, in the year 1284 A.D. The characters are the three strolling players, The Piper, Michael the Sword Eater, and Cheat the Devil; the men of Hamelin: The Burgomeister, Jacobus; Kurt, the Snyder; Peter, the Cobbler; Axel, the Smith; Hans, the Butcher; Martin, the Watch; Peter, the Sacristan; Anselm, a young priest; Old Claus, a miser, and the Town Crier. The women of Hamelin: Veronika, the wife of Kurt; Barbara, the daughter of Jacobus; the wife of Hans; the wife Axel, and old Ursula. The children of the play are Jan, Ilse and Rudi.

The village was infested with a plague of mice and rats. The populace were at its wits end as to how to rid themselves of the pests. The Piper, one of a troupe of players stops at the village, and is told of the trouble. Upon the promise of Jacobus to pay him a thousand pieces of gold, The Piper agrees to free the town of rats and mice. With the magic of his pipes he does so.

On his endeavor to collect his promised reward, however, he is scoffed at by the burgomeister and the rest of the villagers. He becomes angry and plans revenge. Knowing the power of the music of his pipes, he waits until the elder people are at service and then gathers the children about him, and charming them, he lead them to a far off mountain cavern.

When the loss of the children is discovered, the mothers become frantic, seeking everywhere for them, but without success.

During this time The Piper is happy with the children. Chancing out one day, he meets Veronika, mother of little crippled Jan, and, noting her distress, returns all the children to their parents.

The Piper gets his pay and bestows it upon the needy of the Hamelin village.

In judging others, weigh carefully the method against the motive. If the latter be pure, be patient and charitable, however different from your own the method may be.

Are You Registered?

Two hundred thousand voters in California have failed to state party affiliation in registering and unless they do so they will lose their right to vote at the August primary election. The state law, as interpreted by the supreme court, requires a voter to be registered by party in order to vote at the primary. The closing date for registering for the primary is July 29th.

Secretary of State Jordan has received reports on registration up to and including June 5th from twenty counties, including San Francisco, Sacramento and Los Angeles. The totals in these twenty counties are Republicans 264,092, Democrat 110,055, Progressive 29,525, Socialist 17,170, Prohibitionist 18,699, declined to state 165,030.

Reports from other counties will bring the number of those who "declined to state" up to 200,000 or over.

Typical Boys' Show This Evening

The Columbia Park Boys are now in the third week of their five weeks' encampment here, and the boys are having such a delightful time that they say the time for home-going is approaching all too quickly.

Under the able direction of Charles F. Norton all of the amusement and routine matters of the camp are carefully worked out. During the past week the entire bunch hiked to Pt. Lobos. On Friday an exciting tug-of-war was won by the Optimus party.

What the residents and visitors have been looking forward to is to occur tonight. At the Manzanita Theatre an interesting typical boys' entertainment will be given. This year there are an unusually large number of talented boys in camp. Then too, they have their own orchestra. Two one-act farces will be given in addition to many vaudeville acts. Little eight-year-old Junior DeAvilla will render a cornet solo. Zousa pronounces him a comer.

Following is a complete list of those in camp.
