A Panacea for Rural Discontent

The following extracts have been clipped from an article on "The Community Drama," written for the Recreation League Bulletin by Garnet Holme:

The inspiration to "make believe" or act is in all children and continues to exist in many people throughout their lives. The love of acting for acting's sake is fundamental; and since every part of our mentalities was given us for a purpose, it is right and proper that we should develop that gift as well as any other.

Seventy-five per cent of the rising generation take an active interest in acting, because that interest was born in them, and the aim of the new movement is to develop, not repress, that hidden talent, and make use of it as a means of subconscious education. For rehearsals and preparation for a play afford a great deal of good fun, and if properly directed give a hundred quiet lessons in manners, literature, and above all, patience.

When there is too much repression natural gases are liable to explode. Organized local dramatic work for young men and women is a safety valve for their desire for pleasure and a great preventive for any foolish ideas of undertaking acting as the profession of a lifetime.

The Community Drama's aim is to foster the community spirit for the good of all, by getting the people of a neighborhood, a county, or a city, to work together in the creation of something lovely, for work and the creation of beautiful things form the strongest kind of fraternal cement.

The vehicle which the Community Drama uses to accomplish its aims of awakening the "get together" spirit is an exceedingly agreeable one. In the case of those who live across the Bay how splendid a thing it would be if they could find at their own door an active and pleasant hobby which would occupy their minds and do away with the necessity of coming again to the city theater or of going to see the banalities of a stupid, and very often ugly-in-thought, moving picture play.

The Community drama does not move alone through the production of plays, though that work fills a great part of its propaganda, it encourages the reading of great dramas in public, lectures on the art of acting, choruses, folk dancing and the giving of pageants. It would like people to write their own plays, to act them themselves, to make their own dresses and stage properties, and to preserve as far as possible the utmost simplicity in doing these things.

For the purchase of equipment the Carmel Fire Department is in receipt of $2.50 from Mrs. Rendtorff and $5 from Mrs. Kellogg.

Senator Rigdon Right on the Job

An anti-cattle rustling bill was introduced recently in the Legislature by Senator Rigdon of this district, as a means of limiting depredations in the central part of the State by cattle thieves. Rigdon's bill provides for a system of inspection of hides and cattle which would establish ownership at the time of sale. The measure was drafted in the interest of the Central Stockmen's Association of California. The cost of inspection would be borne by the cattlemen.

Special to the Pine Cone

Sacramento, Jan. 24.—Senator E. S. Rigdon has introduced a bill calling for the construction of a highway connecting Monterey and San Luis Obispo counties, from Carmel-by-the-Sea, providing an appropriation of $350,000 for the purpose. In the measure it is provided that the road should start at Carmel, thence to San Simeon. It would connect the Salinas and Monterey road with the San Luis Obispo county highway system at San Simeon.

Free text books for the high schools are asked for in another bill introduced by Rigdon. This measure has the endorsement of the State Board of Education. It provides for the furnishing of books free to high school students by the high school districts.

Rigdon seeks to have established the office of Seed Commissioner under the jurisdiction of the State Horticultural Commission, at a salary of $2400 a year. It would be the duty of the new office to establish a standard of purity of seeds for agricultural purposes. $10,000 is appropriated to carry the proposed act into effect.

Not All Material

On Sunday evening last, in a number of homes in Carmel, where our Oriental-American citizen is a regular weekly visitor, the folks sat around their fires munching Chinese nut and candy presented by Pon Sing. And with each gift of sweets came a majestic lily, soon to bloom and send out its fragrance. Thus the inner man and the love of the beautiful are appealed to on the occasion of the Chinese New Year.

Does the Government Want Allen Lands?

Three miles beyond Carmel, and just above the Mission bearing that name, is Point Lobos, on which is situated a wonderfully beautiful property known as the Allen ranch. It consists of 2000 acres covered by immense forests of ancient trees, and bordered on one side by a rugged coast so peculiar to the Monterey section.

There has been considerable talk of late, according to yesterday's San Francisco Examiner, that the government is negotiating for the purchase of this property in order to convert it into a national park.

The Examiner writer continues, with more or less fancy interwoven with fact, as follows:

Although the coast line of Monterey in general is truly wonderful, this strip of coast surpasses anything in grandeur on the Pacific Coast, being a combination of Sicilian and Norwegian scenery, with wonderful fiords and a mass rush of waters, and century-old trees leaning out over high walls of granite, at whose feet the restless Pacific beats with wild rage.

Monterey and vicinity abound with historical romance, but no portion is more saturated with it than Point Lobos.

During the early Spanish days, it was the rendezvous of smugglers and pirates, and many were the caches on this property, whose granite walls are chiseled with mottoes by pirate bands who used them as headquarters.

On Point Lobos was also situated the largest whaling station on the Pacific Coast, an industry which thrived in this locality up to within a few years ago.

There still remains a wonderfully preserved skeleton of a whale, nearly one hundred feet in length, which was captured nearly twenty years ago by Indians connected with the Carmel Mission. After the blubber was removed, the bones were scraped and mounted on timbers, under the personal direction of the kindly and scientific Franciscan fathers.

Automobile tourists visiting Monterey and Carmel will be well repaid by the few hours' extra time needed for this trip, and the beauties of the Allen property will send them away with memories never to be forgotten.

The flourishing condition of The Bank of Monterey, one of the leading financial institutions of the peninsula, will be noted in the following report:

This statement, which is required by the State Superintendent of Banks, covers the combined resources and liabilities of The Bank of Monterey and the Monterey Savings Bank. The combined deposits are shown to be $878,387.15, and the combined resources $1,063,481.73. There are few banks in cities the size of Monterey that possess the strength of this institution. Conservative management and efficient and courteous service have given it an enviable position among the banks of this State.

Interesting Statement of Theories and Some Discussion About the Soul and Its Evolution

One of the most illuminative and helpful teachings of Theosophy is that this world, with all its activities and interests, is in reality a great educational institution, in which millions of souls and countless other creatures are receiving the instruction which they need for their growth (their evolution).

Thus each life spent here is merely a day in the greater soul-life, and each time we return we resume our lessons about where we left off before, aided of course by what we have gained by home-study—for heaven is the home of the Soul. The savage is commencing his education in the kindergarten of life; the spiritually developed man is nearing the time of graduation from the world-school; the rest of us are standing somewhere between these two extremes. We have gleaned much experience from hundreds of lives in the past—that is why we are far more advanced than the savage; and in the future, new lives will help us to round out our education.

This view of human life and of the growth of the Soul is called Reincarnation, and, in a more or less pure form, is the working philosophy of some 650 millions of human beings today. One current misconception about reincarnation is that it teaches the return of a human being to the body of an animal, which point of view is so obviously absurd that it seems foolish to mention it. It is as sensible to speak of transferring a college student to a kindergarten class to continue his education, as it is to think of a human soul being born again in the body of an animal. Nature is never so unreasonable as this. Progress is forward; not backward.

There are three possible theories to account for the Soul before it commenced its life here at birth:

1. It was newly created at birth by God—a view commonly held in Christian countries. This is the theory of Special Creation.

2. It existed before birth in some spiritual state, but has never lived before on earth. This is the theory of Pre-existence.

3. It has lived many times before on earth, and its existing capacities and abilities are the results of that past experience. This is the theory of Reincarnation.

One of these three theories must be right, and it is our duty carefully to study the facts of life until we can determine which one is true. If we love Truth, prejudice should not blind us nor should traditional belief deter us from forming our own independent opinion.

One of the hardest problems for a humane person to solve is the reconciliation of the heart-breaking injustice of many of the conditions of this world with a belief in the perfect Justice and Love of God. Some souls are born in slums and taught nothing but crime; others are reared in refined families and tenderly guarded by parents. Why, if either of the first two above theories be true, are some born into crippled or diseased bodies, others into bodies that are perfect—Why? Some are born as idiots, while others are gifted with brilliant intellectual powers; again, Why? How hard it is to see that all that we see happening around us is due to God's Will. We ask ourselves if it be true that He blinds children, that He breaks the hearts of strong men, that He permits people innocent of crime to be sent to prison, that He sends souls fresh from His hands to be born into crippled or idiot bodies, that He allows babies to bear diseases for their parents' sin.

Some explain certain of these conditions on the basis of physical heredity, but does that theory make the situation seem any more just so far as the Souls themselves are concerned? They are the ones who suffer, not the parents, and if we are to see God's Justice in the world, we must understand why they suffer as they do. Many people are unwilling to admit that God is unjust, and so, because they are unable to justify the actual facts spread out before their eyes, fall back on the statement that all these conditions are the workings of an inscrutable Providence, whose ways we may not question. But that is not an explanation of conditions, it is an admission of ignorance. And in the light of the first two of our theories have we any justification for the hope held by some, that, although there is undoubtedly much injustice and undeserved suffering in the world, death will surely square all, and we shall receive our due recompense on the other side of the grave? Have we any real justification for such hope. If God created a world in which rampant injustice is found everywhere, how are we to know that the same state of affairs does not prevail after death?

But there is a line of reasoning that carries us out of this intolerable situation and illuminates all our human problems. We may reduce this reasoning to a simple statement.

Life is unjust if we experience any undeserved suffering or unearned happiness. Much comes to us which we have neither earned nor deserved in this life. Therefore since God is ABSOLUTE JUSTICE AND ABSOLUTE LOVE we must have lived on earth before, or in some condition exactly resembling physical existence in order to have sown the seed we are now reaping as harvest. — Theosophy Simplified, by I. Cooper.

Getting Ready

There is at present and there will continue to be for the next two weeks a run on the Dickens book at the local public library.

Those who are to portray the various personages of the great novelist's works at the birthday celebration at Arts and Crafts hall on February 9 are familiarizing themselves with characteristics and costumes.

Much interest is shown in this event, and it is hinted that its success may be followed by a spoken and costumed Kipling affair.

WEEKLY GREETING

It is nothing for a man to hold up his head in a calm, but to maintain his post when all others have quitted their ground, and there to stand upright where other men are beaten down—this is divine and praiseworthy.—Seneca.

For Peace and War

There is a general appreciation of the fact that if the United States had 5000 trained aviators this country would be in the position of the porcupine, which goes about its daily peaceful pursuits, harms no one, but is every ready to defend itself.

These 5000 airmen can easily be obtained and can be employed every day for useful purposes—mail carrying, Red Cross service in time of disaster, and coast guard duty.

The postoffice department is now ready to establish mail carrying by aeroplane in two hundred localities.

They Learn Nothing

The disruption of the Republican party in 1912 was caused by the reactionary surrender of its leaders. Much of the responsibility for the defeat of Hughes is charged to the fear of Progressives that this same element was behind his candidacy.

The first step in the rehabilitation of the Republican party must be to relegate these reactionaries to private life.

But what has happened? Was a Progressive Republican chosen as a candidate for president pro tem of the Senate? No. "Stand-pat" Gallinger was the choice.

The Republican Senators might have won the regard of thousands of Progressives by naming Poindexter, Cummins, Borah, La Follette, or any one of several other Republicans. But Gallinger! The stupidity and utter disregard of future events that impelled this choice surpasses belief. It is apparent

This Beauty Spot of Ours

The Pine Cone is in hearty accord with the sentiments and objects stated in the communication printed below, and its columns are open for discussion and suggestion on the subject.

"Now that we are a political unit with a legal status and civic responsibilities, let us consider seriously our resources and our assets. Probably the largest vote on the latter would be for Carmel's natural beauty. It is her capital, her attraction, her reason for being; it is a rare jewel placed in our hands for posterity. We can preserve and conserve it only through sane, intelligent and sympathetic cooperation.

"How can we best create public opinion, free from selfish interest, greed, sentiment, or slovinliness?—a public mind that is kindly and constructive?

"This is not a question for our town officers only; it is for every individual who shares the Carmel jewel."

If All Advertising Should Stop

By Louis Franklin Overstreet

IT WOULD MEAN more than the absence of advertising in the newspapers and in the magazines, in the street cars and on the bill boards.

IT WOULD MEAN the elimination of all catalogs, booklets, folders, signs, programs, bulletins, almanacs directories,—in fact, all means of communicating messages.

IT WOULD MEAN that the street monger would no longer cry his wares. The merchant would no longer display his merchandise. The salesman would no longer urge you to buy.

Fire alarms, traffic police, church factory whistles, sign boards at country crossings, street signs in the city, and names and numbers over the doors of stores and homes, would disappear.

If you wanted information, no one could direct you, for that would be advertising by word of mouth.

Without advertising the World would stagnate.

Advertising is "The Light That Serves and Saves."

Martin Wants Advise

The petition to the Legislature from residents of Carmel-by-the-Sea, asking for a restricted abalone district, will have the careful attention of Assemblyman W. J. Martin, who intends to fully acquaint himself with the proposition as it may affect the interests of Monterey. To this end he wishes full publicity given the matter, so that adversely affected interests may be heard.

In a letter to the Monterey Chamber of Commerce, telephoned to the Pine Cone by Secretary Wood, Mr. Martin says:

"In order to fully protect the rights of the petitioners from Carmel in relation to the proposed restricted abalone district, extending from Point Pinos Lighthouse to the mouth of the Carmel River, I beg to advise that I have this day prepared the necessary bills embracing the wishes of the petitioners, in order that their rights may be properly considered by the Legislature.

"As this restricted district affects the interests of Monterey and Pacific Grove as well as those of Carmel, I would like an expression of opinion from those communities before committing myself to its support.

"I will visit the points concerned during the constitutional recess. In the meantime would ask that due publicity be given the subject, in order that the people may become familiar with the proposition, and have the opportunity of expressing their views.

"Copies of all bills will be sent you in due time."

In San Francisco the Board of Supervisors meet weekly and draw down $150 per. In Carmel the Board of Trustees have met every Tuesday this month and draw down—nothing. The difference is that our Trustees are patriots. The Supervisors are politicians.

The business of the last meeting may be summarized as follows:

The Monterey County Water Works was requested to make formal application for change of service within the city.

Mrs. E. K. deSabra was granted permission to construct an approach to the county road.

The city seal, showing a likeness of the Carmel Mission, was exhibited.

The $2000 bond of Marshal and Tax-collector Englund was filed and approved.

A communication from the County Auditor was read giving information as to moneys due the municipality.

Resolution No. 3, confirming the appointment of Henry L. Warren as City Recorder, was adopted.

Ordinances Nos. 6, 7, 8, and 9 were given their first reading. They cover the impounding of stray animals, the discharge of firearms and fireworks within the city limits, the destruction of trees, and the establishment of the fiscal year.
