PERSONAL ITEMS

The Jeffers family will be here from Pasadena this week. They have taken the Trethaway cottage for six months.

Miss E. Charlton Fortune will conduct classes in landscape painting at Monterey from May 1 to the end of September.

The many friends she made here during her two months' stay, will regret the leaving of Miss Gertrude Munzenberger. She departed for San Francisco last Friday, and hopes to reach her native Germany eventually.

Karl G. Rendtorff, who has been an associate professor in the German department at Stanford university, has been raised to a full professorship.

Prof. S. S. Seward Jr. of the Stanford English department, and T. A. Larramore of the law department, spent the week-end in Carmel.

Artist William Ritschel arrived here last week from New York. Until about the middle of April he will be in Arizona. Then he returns here for several months.

Mrs. E. W. Genereaux, who had planned to spend a year here, has been obliged to give up the idea and has returned to Portland, Ore.

Mrs. C. B. Oldfield, of Garden City, Kansas, is a guest of her sister, Miss Eunice T. Gray at the Barnacle.

After nearly a month's stay here, the Darlings left early this week for their home in San Jose.

Dorcas Jane Powers is attending school at Rosemary Hall, in Greenwich, Conn.

Wind storm and rain could not keep the whist enthusiasts away from the Manzanita Club tournament on Saturday evening. The prize winners were Miss Etna Guichard and I. B. Waterbury. Mrs. Henry P. Larouette and Delos Curtis joined the "boob" class.

NEWS NOTES

Some time this month St. Anne's Guild is to hold a food and fancy goods sale.

Frank Ackerman, who has conducted a blacksmith and auto repair establishment here for about two years, has closed his shop.

Last week's wind storm, which was much more severe at Pebble Beach than here, uprooted a number of fine old pines in the vicinity of the Lodge.

"Dad" Hamilton vouchsafes the information that today will begin his resumption of the mail carrying between here and Monterey.

A week from next Monday, voters of Carmel will cast ballots for members of the Sanitary Board. The terms of Mrs. C. B. Silva, H. P. Larouette, and M. J. Murphy are about to expire.

There is nothing perfunctory about the boosting that is being given the plan to complete the coast highway that will link Carmel-by-the-Sea, and San Simeon, in San Luis Obispo county. It is persistent and effective, and people in all sections of California are being interested.

The Pine Cone was in error in stating in last week's issue that Mr. Horace Gould, who died in Monterey recently, was a widower. Mrs. Gould died at Stockton a few days after her husband passed away.

Senator E. S. Rigdon's hide and brand bill, now pending in the Legislature, has been endorsed by the California Cattlemen's Protective Association, as being the most practical of several bills of that kind presented.

A trustee for Sunset School is to be elected the first Friday of next month. The term of Miss A. C. Edmonds expires soon.

Louis W. Hill, President of the Great Northern, with his family, is now at his splendid estate, near Pebble Beach.

Miss Ida A. Johnson recently completed a chocolate set, in yellow lustre and gold. It may be seen at her studio.

Death Take an Estimable Woman

The announcement last Sunday morning of the death of Mrs. Edith E. Cobbe, one of Carmel's best-known and oldest residents, was a profound shock to the entire community.

After a walk on the beach with friends early Friday evening, Mrs. Cobbe returned to her home on Seventh avenue cheerful and in apparent good health.

Not having seen her during the next day or evening, her friend, Miss Grace Beane, called at the Cobbe residence on Sunday morning, only to find that her friend had passed beyond all human aid.

Judge David Wallace of Salinas, in the absence of Coroner Cornett, conducted an inquest on Sunday afternoon. The jury rendered a verdict to the effect that the death was due to natural causes, and occurred probably on Friday night.

Mrs. Cobbe had been a resident of Carmel for over fourteen years. She was always in the forefront of every movement of a charitable nature. At the time of her death she was President of the Carmel Red Cross chapter, and was just in the midst of this work.

Mrs. Cobbe was a native of New York State, and about fifty-five years of old. The surviving relatives are Miss Janet Cobbe, a daughter, of Palo Alto, and Mrs. Maxwell, another daughter, living in Ireland.

Accompanied by Miss Howe, Miss Janet Cobbe, who had been notified by telephone, reached here on Sunday evening. In consultation with friends the funeral arrangements were made. The body was sent to Cypress Lawn, San Mateo, on Tuesday morning. Following an Episcopal service in the chapel, the body was cremated.

MEMORIAL SERVICE HERE

The members of the Red Cross chapter, the Reading Circle, the Arts and Crafts Club, and other Carmel organizations with which the late Mrs. Edith E. Cobbe was identified, desiring to show in a substantial manner their love and respect for their departed friend and co worker, have arranged to hold a public memorial service at All Saints Episcopal Church at 10:30 tomorrow (Friday) morning.

Those who read this announcement should acquaint their friends and neighbors with the matter, that all who were friends of Mrs. Cobbe may attend.

"Sentimental Bloke"
and "Moods of "Ginger Mike"

(Christian Science Monitor)

Australian literature has not the same maturity as that of other countries, but it is rapidly taking on a character of its own. Its chief exponent at present is undoubtedly Mr. C. J. Dennis, who has charmed all Australia with his inimitable "The Sentimental Bloke" and "The Moods of Ginger Mick."

They are both of unique merit. It may not be possible at this late hour to form an absolutely original school of literature, but Mr. Dennis has come as near to it as possible. One would suppose that to choose the medium of slang was to handicap oneself gratuitously and make certain desirable and necessary effects impossible. But Mr. Dennis has something more than mere talent; he has obvious genius. The way in which he manipulates his chosen medium is astonishing. That may sound an extreme term, but even a hurried reading of his poems will prove its truth.

Australia is comparatively a small community, but it has already absorbed 55,270 copies of "The Sentimental Bloke," and ordered over 22,000 of "The Moods of Ginger Mick," just published. Her people recognize that they have produced a master, and an author is enjoying honor in his own country—an honor which promises to be world-wide so far as English-speaking countries are concerned.

Mr. Dennis has high conceptions of the responsibility of a writer who appeals to many thousands of readers. He is not content to be a literary artist; he is very powerfully aiding his country's cause, for, as George Herbert says,

"And turn delight into a sacrifice."
"A verse may find him who a sermon flies."

Australian slang is not picturesque, but in the hands of Mr. Dennis it is made the channel for wit, humor and a poignant pathos—a pathos true and intensely human. It is the voice of one deeply in earnest. No mere literary art could dictate his glowing, searching phrases.

"The Moods of Ginger Dick" is not only a poem, it is a study in human nature, a biography, a triumph in character drawing. Mick is a Melbourne rabbit hawker; he comes from Snadger's Lane, he has lived among the "crooks" all his life, he has been somewhat of a crook himself, he has been in gaol. He knows nothing about soldiers. He meets one of them, however, goes to the war, and finally when he does not return, one of his comrades speaks of him in a letter as "a gallant gentleman."

Monte Verde Notes

Mr. Arthur Plumb of Canada is here for the month.

Vernon Ellis, an artist, of Boston, is preparing for his forthcoming exhibit.

The first session of the newly formed dancing club will be held at El Monte Verde tomorrow evening.

Week-end guests were Mr. and Mrs. Crandall of Stanford, Miss Peasley of Pasadena.

In a green gulch just across the San Mateo county line from San Francisco, on the Lakè Merced water supply lands, members of the Native Sons, with State and city officials, gathered last Thursday to dedicate the granite shafts and bronze tablet that mark the spots where a U. S. Senator and a Chief Justice of California faced each other in the last duel on California soil.

You who read this: If you have a friend in the California Legislature, write him, requesting his support for the completion of the Coast highway from Carmel-by-the-Sea to San Luis Obispo.

Too Much Wealth in the Hands of the Few

Except for his too frequent reference to men in high position, placed where they are by the vote of the people. H. H. Stallard, a lecturer on Socialism, who spoke to about sixty people at Manzanita Hall on Monday night, made a very convincing argument concerning present-day economic conditions.

The speaker, whose main point was that the ownership and means of distribution of the necessities of life are wrong, backed up his contention by frequent reference to accepted text-books. He demonstrated to the satisfaction of his hearers that the ownership and control of the few must eventually give way to public ownership.

"There is no limit to what can be produced," said Mr. Stallard. "That is not the trouble. What is needed is a just and equitable distribution of the products of our own labor."

"All other forms of slavery in this country have been legislated against, except wage slavery," said the speaker, "and, mark my word, wage slavery is going to go the way of the others."

"In time of peace, prepare for war." Join the Carmel Red Cross organization.

Search With Big Screen Production

Frederick P. Search has for the past two months been musical director of "The Crisis," one of the largest photo-plays of the day, and, as conductor, has under him an orchestra of thirty men.

During February he has been touring the northern states; this month he goes to the middle west. Next week, however, he is soloist for seven evenings at Minneapolis, a fine orchestra supporting him in a presentation of his own compositions.

WEEKLY GREETING

The most inspiring trust men can have is that of high privilege. Privilege is a call to responsibility.—
Bishop C. H. Brent.

Henry Ford—Pacifist

As a man of peace the chief difference between Henry Ford and the average American is Ford's wealth. He spent much money in what many thought a futile endeavor to end the European war. In this country he spent a small fortune in an attempt to defeat vast appropriations for national defense, on the theory that they were unnecessary.

With millions upon millions at their disposal many Americans might easily have done with their money as has Ford.

The American has the habit of peace. He regards war as an evil. He will go a considerable distance out of his way to avoid a needless encounter.

Placing his factory at the disposal of the government in the event of war, Mr. Ford exemplifies the true American spirit. He is what is called a pacifist. So practically are all Americans pacifists. Keep off of Uncle Sam's coat-tails.

A Remedy at Hand

At least one breach in the walls of the high cost of existing can be made by everybody who has a few square feet of unoccupied ground. A 5-cent packet of seed can be turned into actual dollars. A quarter's worth of potatoes will produce a sackful. The things can be accomplished in a small space and with little trouble.

If you never had one before, this is the year of all years to have a vegetable. It really is remarkable how much can be raised in a small space. It is just about planting time now. There are stores in Carmel carrying good stocks of seeds. Prepare your ground, purchase your seeds, and get your crop in.

CARMEL ASTONISHED BY MERCHANT'S STORY

A merchant relates the following: "For years I could not sleep without turning every hour. Whatever I ate caused gas and sourness. Also had stomach catarrh. ONE SPOONFUL buckthorn bark, glycerine, etc., as mixed in Adler-i-ka relieved me INSTANTLY." Because Adler-i-ka flushes the ENTIRE alimentary tract it relieves ANY CASE constipation, sour stomach or gas and prevents appendicitis. It has QUICKEST action of anything we ever sold. Carmel Will Have Forestry School

There has just been established here the Alexander School of Forestry. The school is maintained by W. L. Alexander & Co. of Portland, Oregon. It embraces trees in all branches relating to practical forestry, and students, who are gathered from all over the coast, will be quartered in and will maintain a typical Foresters' Camp.

This company, which is well known on the Coast, operates on a large scale, and plans to establish, in connection with the school, a concentration camp for the field men of the company. These men will be quartered here permanently.

The work is most interesting, embracing as it does the reclaiming of trees in course of decay, supporting, and general conservation. Favorable comment has been made by various journals.

Mr. Alexander, who is now here, states that the school will be a permanent institution in Carmel, owing to the excellent natural advantages and many species of trees at hand. The school is open to all young men of good character.

Students now preparing to enter the Spring course are gathered at the camp. When the lists are filled Mr. Alexander promises some interesting records of his company's work on the Carmel cypress and oaks.

This is the only school of its kind in the world, teaching by actual work in the out-of-doors.

Many of the graduates of the course, which requires eight full months, remain with the company under salary, engaged in the work of reclaiming trees. Other graduates of the school occupy positions as park superintendents.

The firm has offices in various sections of the country, operating as far east as Chicago, and south to Atlanta. The company, however, is strictly a Coast firm, and Mr. Alexander intimates that the future may see Carmel the center of its activities.

Eastern Artist Soon to Exhibit Here

The Blue Bird tearoom is soon to have on exhibition the work of a well-known New York artist, Mr. Vernon Ellis.

The Philadelphia Inquirer, reviewing Mr. Ellis work, remarks:

"One would never suspect from looking at Mr. Ellis' president exhibition that he had been a student of the Chase School of Art for four years. The dictum of that master has fallen from him as completely as though it had never been. His craft he claims to have learned from Kenneth Hayes Miller, but he plumes himself upon not working at painting as a craft."

News From La Playa

Mr. and Mrs. von der Gracht are here on their honeymoon. They were married in San Francisco on February 20. Herr von der Gracht is a noted explorer, and his romance began six months ago when he came direct from the wilds of Borneo. His uncle is Ambassador to Turkey from Holland.

Mr. Edwin H. Hewitt reports terrible snow storms in Minneapolis. Mr. Hewitt is one of the trustees of the Woodhull estate. The Woodhulls were here for three months last Spring. Artist William P. Silva, through Mr. Hewitt, obtained a splendid setting for the display of paintings at the Minneapolis Art Club.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Crane of San Francisco have been visiting Mrs. Crane's aunts, Mrs. William Blodget and Mrs. J. T. Noyes. Clarkson Crane, a young man of great promise, has had a number of stories in the Atlantic Monthly.

William Ritschel has just placed one of his splendid paintings in the Del Monte Gallery.

School Exercises Please Many

The large number of grown-ups, including parents, school trustees and friends, who were present at the Washington's Birthday exercises of Sunset school, were well rewarded for their attendance. The patriotic program which was given was not only an inspiration to the children, but to their elders as well. Many of those whose patriotic senses had become dormant, left the school building with new faith in their country and its heres.
