Woodland Dancers Score a Triumph

With the artistic and financial success of last Saturday evening's exhibition of dancing at the Forest Theatre, Miss Jeannette Hoagland and her company of dancers have demonstrated that such an affair can achieve a place along with other events and arts that have made Carmel famous.

The excellence of the entire performance may be judged by the fact that a large number of those present, heretofore luke-warm in their appreciation of stage dancing, are now enthusiastic boosters of this form of entertainment.

Space will not permit mention of the individuals who danced their way into favor, but it should be said that several of the performers have a splendid future before them in the art.

Poster Dance Helps Red Cross Interesting Events at the Old Mission

At Arts and Crafts Hall last Friday night one of the most enjoyable affairs of the season was conducted by the local chapter of the Red Cross, the occasion being the exhibition of posters by local and out-of-town artists, one of which is to be selected by public vote.

One had cause to be surprised by the many excellent posters exhibited, but one who knows Carmel and what the Red Cross is doing here knows that the chapter is accomplishing tasks that put to shame many a larger community.

In conjunction with the exhibition, an auction of three paintings, donated by DeNeale Morgan, and eleven kelp dolls, donated by children of the Big Sur district, was conducted.

Talbert Josselyn, Jack Gribner and Ernest Schweninger were the auctioneers, disposing of the paintings for $27.75 and the dolls for $29.25.

The door receipts amounted to $67.40, making a total of $124.40 receipts of the affair.

Mrs. Medora Schaffer has generously provided our Red Cross a sewing machine.

The famous old Mission of Carmel will be the scene of a most unusual and interesting event on Sunday afternoon, when Rev. R. M. Mestres, robed in the gorgeous cope that once was worn by Padre Junipero Serra, will celebrate the beautiful service of Benediction of the Most Blessed Sacrament, for the first time that Carmel Mission has witnessed this rite since California became United States territory.

The service will be the climax of an afternoon of unusual events in the old mission.

Horace Britt, the eminent cellist, is to give a recital. A platform has been placed near the tomb where the body of Father Serra lies, and from this platform the celebrated artist will play.

Michael Williams, author and lecturer, will deliver what is termed a "Story-Lecture," on "Junipero Serra: Founder of California Civilization."

The hour is 3 o'clock; and admittance 25 cents.

A submarine was reported sighted Sunday evening off Carmel Bay.

For the Red Cross

Mrs. Josephine Foster, one of Carmel's best known residents, will, from 2 to 5, on Saturday, August 4, give an exhibition of objects of historical and artistic interest, at her beautiful home, for the benefit of the local chapter of the Red Cross.

During her long and active life Mrs. Foster has accumulated a veritable museum of valuable souvenirs and works of art.

Admittance to the exhibit is 50 cents.

BE A BOOSTER !

In this day of strife and sadness,
I've a song of cheer and gladness ;
What boots it if the meter's bad,
If it but serves to make you glad?
BE A BOOSTER—that's my message
You may never pack a gun ;
From the damp and dismal trenches
You may never wing a flun.
Yet your bit is just as helpful,
Even though you wear no saber,
If you strive to keep the sunshue
In the heart of friend and neighbor.
Boost your country, boost your friend,
Boost the lodge that you attend ;
Boost the town in which you're dwelling,
Boost the goods that you are selling,
Boost the people round about you,
Maybe they might do without you ;
But success will quicker find them
If they know that you're behind them ;
Boost for every forward movement,
Boost for every new improvement ;
Boost the stranger and the neighbor,
Boost the man for whom you labor.
Cease to be a chronic knocker,
Cease to be a progress blocker ;
If you'd have your home town better
Boost it to the final letter.

Echoes From the Firing Line

Letter from a French Marquise, who has been a nurse in a military hospital since the beginning of the war.

"Pardon me for my delay in writing, but I have been very busy lately preparing for my departure soon for an ambulance where I shall be busy part of the summer.

"As our hospital at Mentaure has few wounded at present, one of my friends has asked me to assist her in a service of surgery, which is most interesting. As she assures me I can be very useful, I leave with great joy, after a leave of absence from Mentaure, and permission from my husband. His permission is required now by the Department of Health. As soon as I arrive at my new post I shall write you my impressions and experiences.

"Your compatriots are already at Rouen, charming little persons, very prettily dressed and very military in their aspect for nurses.

"It is with great emotion that we learned in France of the beautiful attitude of your country. It seems to me that across the sea our hands and hearts are joined. May God bless you all and help us to drive out and conquer our cruel enemies.

"I have just passed six very agreeable weeks at home. It has been such a long time since I have been able to do so. I followed the advice of our minister, Violette, and instead of planting flowers in my garden I have planted vegetables everywhere. I have beds of potatoes with borders of salads, clumps of corn with borders of beets. Cabbage replaces geraniums, and really it is not ugly at all. Anyway, my gardener loves flowers and has placed a few of them about everywhere. He does not want to destroy the dahlias, begonias and fuchsias. Consequently my garden is charming I say it without modesty, as of a precious thing I may never see again. You may ask, 'who is to eat all these precious products?' I have the opportunity to send to my little hospital at Mentaure great baskets of fruits and vegetables twice a week.

"Here in the country we have not suffered as yet by lack of material things. One can find almost all the necessities; they are more expensive, to be sure. But every-one practices such rigid economies in dress and household expenses that it is not hard to get on. The working people suffer—except those who work in the factories for war materials. They form the inelegant class of "Nouveaux Riches," and while the "New Poor" plant salads and cabbages in their flower gardens, the "New Rich" dress in horrible costly style and eat all the best cuts."

Lost Pair of eye-glasses in case. Probably has Boston firm mark. Reward if returned to La Playa

An Affair Long to be Remembered

One of the important events of the season took place last Sunday afternoon in Manzanita Hall when a group of our best known musicians generously gave their talent for the benefit of Carmel Red Cross chapter.

First on the program was a Petite Suite for violin, flute and piano, by Cesar Cui, and played with much grace and delicacy by Messrs. Puyans and Persinger of the San Francisco Symphony Orchestra, and Mr. Shavitch. This was followed by a Legende of Saint Saens and intermezzo of Lalo, which Mr. Horace Britt rendered with great feeling and a sureness of touch truly delightful. He was most fortunate to have such an excellent accompanist as Vladimir Shavitch, who is himself a soloist of wide reputation.

Tina Lerner, famous Russian pianist, played a gavotte by Sgambat, Ecosaisies by Chopin, Berceuse by Paul Juon, and the Poinaise in E Major by Liszt—an interesting selection, magnificently played.

Next came Mr. Persinger with a serenade and mazurka by the Russian composer Weinlawski. Of course the concert master of the San Francisco Symphony Orchestra needs no introduction to the public, but that we in Carmel had the privilege of hearing him, is something long to be remembered.

The finale was the allegro from Trio Op. 92 of Saint Saens, excellently rendered by Shavitch, Persinger and Britt.

The hall was crowded to its utmost capacity, even standing room being sold out. Each group of pieces was heartily applauded and acknowledged by encores. Alfred Hertz, director of the San Francisco Orchestra, and his wife, instead of occupying their complimentary seats, chose to add enthusiasm and inspiration to the artists in the green room.

The members of the Red Cross chapter are much elated to have been able to provide so much pleasure and at the same time to reap so much

Recital Next Monday Evening

The Carmel School of Music will be thrown open to the public next Monday evening, when a recital will be given in the studio in the old Hotel Carmel building, and visitors will be made welcome.

For the convenience of the school the entire ground floor of the former hotel has been fitted up as a studio. Partitions have been removed, the interior repapered, and a hall which suits the double purpose of studio and recital auditorium is now completed.

It is the intention of the management to make Monday's recital the first of a series to be given through August and September.

For this series such celebrities have been secured as Mrs. Lucia Dunham, noted for folk-song interpretation; Olga Steeb, famous pianist; Alexander Saslavsky, concert-master of the New York Symphony Orchestra. Messrs. Warren D. Allen and Howard Hansen, dean of the Pacific Conservatory and head of the theory department there, respectively, who will appear in two piano recitals, and others.

The first of this series will take place about August 3, and Mr. Allen, who is instrumental in securing a course of such merit for Carmel, states that the public will be given an opportunity to hear music of true worth.

Tickets will soon be on sale for the course, but the event next Monday will be without charge, and the public in general is invited to attend.
