Mr. and Mrs. Samuel O'Connell, parents of Mrs. L. S. Slevin, have returned to Carmel, and will probably remain here. They have with them their grandson, Walter Edgarton.

Charles DeVega, who is in the regular service, is "standing by" at the Union Iron Works in San Francisco. He will soon go to sea.

Hon. Edward J. Sullivan, who, with his niece, has taken a cottage in Carmel. He leaves for Los Angeles this week on political business, but will return before Christmas.

William S. Cooper, who for over a year has been actively engaged in Y. M. C. A. work at Great Lakes, Illinois, writes that he expects shortly to be sent to Europe.

The new lodge at Pebble Beach will not open at Christmas, as the furnishings cannot be installed by that time. Washington's Birthday will probably be the opening day—and it will be some opening.

The Willards have returned to Redlands, having been here since May. Their friends here had hoped they could remain until Christmas, but it was not to be this year.

Mother Carrington is leaving next Monday for Eureka, with her granddaughter, who is returning to her parents. Mrs. Carrington will be home again before New Year.

Our dear old "Belgian Lady" has forwarded to the San Francisco Belgian Relief Committee $119, which is Carmel's contribution to the Belgians for a merry Xmas.

Miss Ellen O'Sullivan, a frequent visitor to Carmel, is guest of Mrs. V. M. Porter.

Pon Dan, chef at La Playa, is enjoying his vacation in San Francisco. His place is ably filled by Pon Sing. Sugarbowl is again on the hotel tables.

Mrs. James Hopper had as her guest here last week, her sister, Mrs. J. D. Illia of San Francisco.

Ernest Schweninger was down from Mare Island for a few days recently. He is endeavoring to hasten his discharge from the service, in order to take charge of the grocery business here.

Talbert Josselyn is in our midst. Since leaving here last year he has been in the East engaged in various war activities, and was just in fine physical shape to "go over" when the conflict abruptly ended.

At Pebble Beach, Mr. and Mrs. G. L. Carroll and their daughter, Lillias, had as their guest last week Miss Phyllis Overstreet, who returned home Sunday.

Miss Bonnie Hale, Miss Katharine Cooke, Miss Grace Wickham and Ernest Schweninger were Clarence Risley's dinner guests last Friday evening. After the dinner the party adjourned to Miss Hale's home.

A number of Carmel folks journeyed down to the Criley home at the Highlands last Saturday evening to participate in an "apple pie" party. Besides the apple pie there was apple cider (not hard), apple dumplings and a jolly social evening.

Henry Arthur Jones' delightful comedy, "The Masqueraders," will be read by Herbert Heron to night, in the Book Shop. The reading begins at 8:15 (Thursday, Dec. 12)

Mrs. R. W. Ball left last week for Denver to care for her daughter, who is ill with influenza. Her husband accompanied her to San Francisco.

Another call has come from Belgium for more clothing. Anyone who has discarded clothing on hand is requested to deliver same to Mrs. W. B. Canine, "The Belgian Lady," before January 1.

Farewell Piano Concert

Isia Seligman, the wonderful young Russian pianist, who is shortly to leave for New York, where he is scheduled to give a number of concerts, is to give his farewell California concert in Carmel on Thursday, evening, December 19, at Arts and Crafts Hall. Tickets are now on sale. Mr. Seligman played here some months ago for a Red Cross benefit, and his large audience was charmed and delighted. Carmel should give him a genuine California sendoff.

Do your holiday shopping early, requests the President. Gifts and Thanksgiving and Xmas cards at the Blue Bird Tearoom. adv

Perry Newberry Writes Interesting Account of His Work and Observations

FIFTH LETTER

November 6, 1918

Did I say "Rest Camp" in my last letter? A very few days after writing it, I was again hearing the guns and listening to the sigh and bark of shells. After we were decoyed, more or less, we headed back for Berlin, and I expect we will stay by to the finish now—not so far distant either.

I am happy again at the front. I hate the back lines. Although it is raining tonight, a cold, hard rain, I have a candle in my tent—the first light allowed on this drive—and I'm comfortable and warm. While I write, I scratch cooties—the invention of the Devil! Our infantry and guns have advanced so far and so rapidly that I cannot hear the faintest murmur of the battle. I presume we will move forward again tomorrow, catching up with them.

I rode out to the front line the other day. I was to go on observation with the lieutenant of one of our batteries. His duty is to report the effectiveness of the fire—by portable telephone—back to the guns and direct the aiming. He is hidden some place well in advance of the battery positions, and he was to meet me at the guns and guide me to his hide out. Plans are made only to be re-made in the Army. I rode a horse out to the battery, waited till the Boches ceased shelling a bad spot in the road where it curved along the crest of the hill, then made the last leg safely, to find that the lieutenant was back at the echelon and that the battle had been postponed.

My suggestion that I spend the night was not so cordially received as I could wish. They were being shelled and all the horses had been sent back. There was no one to take my horse back of the danger zone save myself. There was no dug-out to sleep in. There were only emergency rations.

I thanked the captain, declined his invitation, and rode back into a double sweep of shrapnel fire. Up the road it came, shells bursting every few feet, some in the road, more short, a few over. I dismounted and dropped to my hands and knees under the slight embankment at the road edge, holding the bridle rein. The barrage passed me.

A group of engineers at work beside the road had found shelter in shell-holes and ditches. They still kept shelter as I remounted. One shouted at me, but I could not understand him. A moment later his meaning was clear, for the line of bursting shells came back down the road; it was a double sweep.

I kicked the horse into a gallop and raced for the safety of the hills. Shells dropped all about me. I jumped over still smoking shell-holes, I skirted piles of newly formed debris, I dodged sticks and splinters from a demolished building. It was the hottest place I was ever in.

One day later. We move this afternoon. It looks like rain, which is quite usual when we move.

Three days later. After a twenty-four hour hike, during which I rode a horse, a wagon, a motor-cycle and my own feet, we made echelon on top of a hill some few kilometers behind the fleeing Boches. This is not a battle, but a chase, and it is harder, rougher, more heart-breaking, back-breaking work to catch up with them than to fight them. Our first night in this camp we were bombed by airplanes and about twenty large bombs were dropped in our proximity. But they did not awake me an instant. I was too tired to hear or care.

Air battles here every day; wonderful sight. There were three Jerry planes over this morning, chased by a dozen or more of ours. Great maneuvering.

I think I'll be quite ready to settle down in front of my typewriter beside the fireplace, with the cat in the other chair; one or two or three or four cups of real coffee, some chops on a plate beside me, also chicken a la Maryland with real biscuits. I'm quite sure to be content for a few months with the quiet life.

FAITH JUSTIFIED BY EVENTS

I do not believe that drastic force need be applied to maintain economic distribution and sane use of supplies by the great majority of American people, and I have learned a deep and abiding faith in the intelligence of the average American business man, whose aid we anticipate and depend on to remedy the evils developed by the war.—Herbert Hoover, August 10, 1917.

Patriot's Plenty

Buy less - Serve less
Eat only 3 meals a day
Waste nothing
Your guests will cheerfully share simple fare
Be Proud to be a food saver

Whatever is necessary America will send. That was America's pledge to the interallied food council. And because the American food army had hitherto made good they took heart and went forward.

Farm enterprise and much soft corn increased pork supplies, food conservation increased exports—total shipments doubled.

WEEKLY GREETING

Let us have faith that right makes might and in that faith let us dare to do our duty as we understand it.—Abraham Lincoln.

The Monument Scheme

To judge by the expressions of opinion obtained from citizens in various parts of Monterey County, all is not easy sailing with the plan to erect at Salinas, by special taxation, a service monument in honor of the county's soldiers and sailors.

Monuments and memorial libraries are in themselves splendid things. The objection to the plan so far outlined is not to the memorial itself. What most residents of the county are opposed to is the making the matter a "county" affair.

The residents of every community are desirous of honoring their soldiers and sailors, but they wish to have these memorials in their own communities.

Only a very small proportion of the residents of the county ever visit Salinas; few have occasion to. Why then erect a monument where only the residents of the county seat get any benefit therefrom?

The community memorial is the proper one. Carmel already has the work well in hand.

We trust that Senator E. S. Rigdon and Assemblyman W. J. Martin will thoroughly investigate this matter before committing themselves to any plan that will permit counties to levy a tax for monument purposes.

WHAT WOMEN ARE DOING FOR SOLDIERS IN FRANCE

Fight in the Ranks of the Red Cross Against Pain, Disease and Death.

They have known very well the risks they were taking—the two thousand and more women who have gone to France for varied services under the American Red Cross, and the more than nine thousand nurses whom the American Red Cross has assigned to foreign duty under the United States Army and Navy Nurse Corps.

They went under orders, as soldiers do; prepared for any emergencies, as soldiers do; they assumed many strange and unforeseen tasks, as soldiers do. Literally, they went as fighters, against pain, disease and death.

A "mobile surgical unit" of nurses—those words don't mean very much, perhaps, the first time we hear them. But see such an unit follow an army up to an advanced post; see how the nurses work with steady hands beside the surgeons as the stretchers with the newly wounded are brought in. See thousands of them in evacuation hospitals, base hospitals, convalescent hospitals, tuberculosis hospitals; some of them in French military hospitals where sometimes our men are sent; see them with their specialized skill in head surgery, or fracture work, or psychiatry;—all these women who keep head and hand cool and steady, when the ambulances unload great harvests of wounded. Then we say the words "Our Nurses," as we say "Our Soldiers," "Our Sailors," "Our Marines."

On the night of March 25th, when the Germans were fast advancing, and already within six kilometers of Annel, an outpost of Compiègne, two American doctors remained, who under order of the French government, had sent the patients and personnel of their hospital farther back the night before. The artillery was deafening, but the American Ambulance sections kept bringing their wounded to Annel. These doctors said that as long as the American boys brought them wounded they would operate. Two nurses volunteered from Compiègne, and so in the deserted chateau the two surgeons, the two nurses and the ten drivers worked calmly on, while the buzz of aeroplanes shook the air, and the blasting guns shook the earth.

Through three takings of Belgrade—first when the city was taken by the Austrians, again when it was retaken by the Serbians, and still again when it was taken back by the Germans and Austrians together, an American Red Cross nurse, Mary Gladwin, worked in the operating room. In that first capture, when nine thousand wounded crowded the wards and halls and yard of the thousand-bed-hospital and doctor and nurse worked together for day and night without stopping, giving to each operation an average of six minutes, and employing emergencies inspired by the desperate need of the moment, they did not know that the city had been taken until all the stretchers brought Austrian wounded, and Austrian doctors came to their relief.

Several hundred women are working over there in the American Red Cross canteens. There are about two hundred of these canteens along the French and American lines of communication, and the women are working under great pressure, feeding thousands of soldiers. The Red Cross is also establishing canteens by military request at a number of Aviation Camps. American women conduct these stations, comprising canteen and club and reading room. Everyone of these canteens has something of the genius of home about it; and it is because of this, no less than the facilities for cleanliness and rest and refreshment, that the French government has given the responsibility for maintaining canteens for both armies to the hands of the American Red Cross. In large numbers women are going abroad as hospital hut workers, also, and as social workers for trained service among the refugees and the repatriated. At each base hospital the Red Cross is equipping, as fast as they can be built, recreation huts for convalescent soldiers.

Clerical workers have steadily increased in number for the administrative offices. From that original group of eighteen, which as the first American Red Cross Commission in France sailed about June 1st, 1917, the organization has grown to a working force of more than 5,000 men and women.

The Red Cross Ready for Peace

THE following message has been telegraphed by the War Council of the American Red Cross to each one of the 3,857 chapters:

"On February 10th, last year, nearly six weeks before the United States declared war, National Red Cross Headquarters advised its chapters to prepare for war. That which has followed in the record of the Red Cross in helping to win this war and to relieve the suffering growing out of it, constitutes something of which every American citizen has a right to be proud. Every American Red Cross worker must feel a sense of gratitude in having had a share in it all.

"The moment is now come to prepare for peace. Until peace is really here and our soldiers home there can be no relaxation in any Red Cross effort incident to active hostilities.

"But even with peace, let no one suppose that the work of the Red Cross is finished. Millions of American boys are still under arms. Thousands of them are sick and wounded. Owing to the shortage in shipping, it may take a year or more to bring our boys home from France. But whatever the time, our protecting arms must be about them and their families over the whole period which must elapse before the normal life of peace can be resumed.

"Our soldiers and sailors are enlisted until the Commander-in-Chief tells them there is no more work for them to do in the war. Let every Red Cross member and worker—and this means both men and women—show our returning soldiers and sailors that to care for their health, welfare and happiness we are enlisted for no less period than they are.

"The cessation of war will reveal a picture of misery such as the world has never seen before, especially in the many countries which cannot help themselves. The American people will expect the Red Cross to continue to act as their agent in repairing broken spirits and broken bodies. Peace terms and peace conditions will determine how we may best minister to the vast stricken areas which have been harrowed by war, and for this great act of mercy the heart and spirit of the American people must continue to be mobilized through the American Red Cross.

"On behalf of the War Council, we accordingly ask each member of our splendid body of workers throughout the land to bear in mind the solemn obligation which rests upon each one to 'carry on.' We cannot abate one instant in our efforts or in our spirits. There will be abundance of work to do, and specific advices will be given, but even at the moment of peace let no Red Cross worker falter.

"Our spirits must now call us to show that not the roar of cannon or the blood of our own alone directs our activities, but that a great people will continue to respond greatly and freely to its obligations and opportunity to serve."

EASING THE CARES OF SOLDIERS' FAMILIES

The ten thousand Home Service Sections of the American Red Cross, in their work of looking after the families of the enlisted men, are doing wonders for the morale of the army. Our fighters are not men who are going to worry about themselves, but if they do not get cheerful letters from home, or if anything goes wrong there, they are going to worry, and that delicate thing the army men call morale is going to be disturbed. It is to safeguard against this and also to prevent needless suffering and to promote that spirit of neighborliness and kindly aid that binds each community into an organic whole that the Home Service was organized.

Over 50,000 workers are serving on these ten thousand committees, which reach into every corner of the country, however remote. Not a town or village or crossroads that is not within reach of the Red Cross; not a wife or child or mother of a man in service who cannot claim the ready aid of the Red Cross workers.

More than 300,000 families of American soldiers and sailors have been relieved of money troubles, legal difficulties and worries of all sorts by the protecting arm of the Red Cross. If the allowances of allotments under the War Risk Insurance law do not come the matter is at once referred to Red Cross Headquarters, taken up with the proper government bureau and promptly straightened out. If, through the delay, the family finds itself in need of money sums are advanced to tide it over until the allotment arrives. During July over sixty thousand inquiries of this kind were received, and more than a third of these were taken care through to headquarters before they could be straightened out.

FOR ITALY'S BABIES.

Motherhood in Italy just now is not the joy that it might be, for the poor women are at their wits ends to clothe the children already in the family, not to mention the preparation for the little newcomers. Perhaps the most appreciated gifts of the American Red Cross at this time are the layettes which are being given to the mothers of Italy. Each layette consists of twenty-four pieces and includes four bright colored swathing bands, so dear to the heart of the Italian woman. Twenty layettes a week are needed at Chioggia alone.

If all the sighs and complaining expletives were emitted at once, it might blow the bottom out of the universe.

Food conservation in America has been the triumph of individual devotion to the national cause.

Make this a Red Cross Christmas

The happiest, merriest Christmas the world ever knew is almost here. But in the rejoicings of peace and freedom there is one note of seriousness that America must not forget — there is misery and distress and sickness all over the world. Relief must be given. The work of the Red Cross MUST go on. And to carry on, the Red Cross MUST have the support of your membership.

CHRISTMAS CHILDHOOD.

Christmas is, perforce, a winter festival, a family and fraternal reunion.

"Suffer little children to come." Lo, they have come. And the music of their child voices! The concert of the morning stars, what were that to the natural, untrained melody of innocent childhood in its joyous expectations?

A brief, bright morning picture with fervid expectant fancy attuned to "peace and good will to men," a sacred, solemn, confident, joyous "peace," a "good will" and fraternal friendship that shall fill and fructify and sanctify the year to come.

Ah, childhood, Christmas childhood! See how for one day it mocks the poet's lines, "Some traces of Eden ye still inherit, but the trail of the serpent is over them all." Its own gift is always the best, and it rejoices that Bill and Jim and Lizzie and Sara fared as well. "Peace on earth," but not of earth; "good will" that shall inform the coming year and mold the man and woman of the future.

First Christmas Celebration.

The birth of Christ was not originally observed at this time of the year. It was not until nearly 100 years after his death that there was any attempt at a celebration of the event at all, and then for 300 years or more it was celebrated at various times in the year by the Christians in different parts of the world. Some chose the 1st and some the 6th of January, others the 29th of March, the time of the Jewish passover, while still others observed the day on the 24th of September, the feast of the tabernacles. The 19th of April and the 20th of May were also kept as the birthday of Christ. By the 11th century, however, the 25th of December was the day generally adopted. Pittsburgh Dispatch

An Old Anglo Norman Carol.

Lordlings, listen to our lay
We have come from faraway
To seek Christmas;
In this mansion we are told
He his yearly feast doth hold:
'Tis today!
May joy come from God above
To all those who Christmas love!

Lordlings, I now tell you true,
Christmas bringeth unto you
Only mirth;
His house he fills with many a dish
Of bread and meat and also fish
To grace the day.
May joy come from God above
To all those who Christmas love!

Lordlings, through our army's band
They say, Who spends with open hand
Free and fast,
And oft regales his many friends
God gives him double what he spends
To grace the day.
May joy come from God above
To all those who Christmas love!

Lordlings, wicked men eschew,
In them never shall you view
Aught that's good;
Cowards are the rabble rout,
Kick and beat the grumblers out
To grace the day.
May joy come from God above
To all those who Christmas love!

Lords, by Christmas and the host
Of this mansion hear my toast—
Drink it well,
Each must drain his cup of wine,
And I the first will toss off mine:
Thus I advise,
Here, then, I bid you all wassail,
Cursed be he who will not say Drink-hail.
