H. D. Lacey has announced his candidacy for Mayor of Monterey. Carmelites are wondering if Dr. W. L. Teaby will toss his chapeau into the circle.

It is said that Rev. G. M. Dorwart and family will return to Carmel soon to make their home. They are now at Deal Beach, N. J.

All persons interested in the completion of the Coast Road from Carmel to San Simeon are urged to write to Governor Stephens and to members of the Legislature, asking support for an appropriation to build this highway, which will mean so much to this section.

City dog licenses are now due and payable. Tags of a different shape from those in use last year are being issued by Marshal Englund at the City Hall.

Quite a number of Carmel-by-the-Sea and Carmel Valley soldier boys are expected home within the next thirty days.

Ask for S. & H. Green Trading Stamps at Holman's.

The marble fountain sent here several months ago by the Olympic Club of San Francisco, to honor William Greer Harrison, has been taken back to the city. A committee of the club, having learned that the city would not at this time purchase the Forest Theatre property, where it was desired to erect the fountain, directed that it be stored in San Francisco.

Just as regular as clock work Mrs. W. B. Canine forwards Carmel's money for the Belgian children. She has received receipt for $42, January contribution.

Rev. W. G. Moffatt entertained at a stag birthday dinner in honor of Eugene Pierce on Tuesday evening. Covers were laid for Pardow Hooper, Clarence Risley, Ernest Schweninger, James Wilson, and Eugene Pierce.

Miss Melba Chandler of Los Angeles, who has been visiting the Bolle girls here, returned to her home last Tuesday.

H. A. Wolf, an artist who was here for several months two years ago, is again in Carmel for an indefinite stay. He was recently discharged from the army with the rank of sergeant. With his mother he is occupying the Smith bungalow.

Tomorrow evening the entertainment and dance for the benefit of the Junior Red Cross will be given at Arts and Crafts Hall. The organization needs funds to carry out its plans to adopt a French and an Armenian child. Help them along.

W. W. Price, who has been sojourning here with his family, left last Thursday morning on a motor trip to San Diego. The family will be here until late spring.

For the time being, at least, Mother Carrington is to reside in Pacific Grove. However, she will make weekly trips to Carmel.

H. W. Pudan is here for two or three weeks. He recently suffered a rather severe accident, and is here to recuperate.

The Forest Theatre Society has received applications from the Arts and Crafts Club, the Western Drama Society, Miss Jeannette Hoagland for dates in July and August.

The many friends of "Cousin Molly" Allen will be pleased to learn that she is well on the road to recovery. Her daughter, Mrs. Lyon, has been attending her.

The Carmel city trustees will hold their monthly meeting at the City Hall next Tuesday evening.

We want your business on Price, Quality and Assortment basis—Holman's.

Not a single soldier or sailor lad, returning to his home in Carmel and vicinity has failed to get employment at once. We'll not allow our boys to wait for anything.

The rainfall in Carmel for the season, from September 12 to January 27 has reached a total of 13.21 inches. For the same period last year the fall was 1.75.

Mrs. E. A. Kuegel has as guests Mrs. George E. Stone and Miss Lydia Atterbury of Berkeley.

Mrs. E. R. Norwood is here for a brief visit, combining business and pleasure. Miss L. V. Pratt accompanies her.

Mr. and Mrs. James Worthington motored over the Seventeen-Mile Drive last Sunday afternoon with Mr. and Mrs. Johnson, Rev. W. G. Moffat, Clarence Risley and Pardow Hooper. After the drive the party took tea at Del Monte.

Mr. and Mrs. William C. Watts will be at home to their friends on Saturday afternoons after four o'clock.

Latest Records, all makes, at Palace Drug Co., Monterey. Pianos for rent.

The fifteen-months-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Dave Tomasiini of Carmel Valley, who was a victim of the influenza, was laid to rest in the Catholic cemetery at Monterey on Tuesday.

A Whale of a Whale

The writer of this article did not see the massive whale at Moss Beach, but many Carmelites did. Michael Williams was there when the monster was landed, and wrote an excellent account of the event for the Examiner. Louis Slevin was on hand with his camera and has on sale some excellent pictures of the affair. Several other parties drove over on Sunday and saw portions of the big fish. It was then being cut up.

"How big is he?" was asked an Italian fisherman at Monterey. He hesitated a while, then said: "You know Custom House-a?—well, about so long—70 feet; he weigh 60 ton; much-a oil, much-a meat."

The establishment of this whaling station at Moss Beach is in the nature of history repeating itself. There are well authenticated records and other evidences to show that at one time there was a whaling station at Point Lobos. Visitors there may yet see the mounted skeleton of a great whale.

Experiences of a Carmel "Y" Man in France

Perry Newberry Writes Interesting Account of His Work and Observations

EIGHTH LETTER

Aubepierre, France,
December 10, 1918.

Back in S. O. S., which means beds, roofs, windows and civilized life, also a big "Y" hut and lots to do. No fun, just work. I'd trade every comfort here to hear the shells whiz over and burst or a Jerry plane on a night bombing raid.

Shave every other day, now, altho I have established a reputation which saves me from many of the frills and furbishings of the officers and men. I am an eccentric as to uniform and boots. Buttons off or mud on are excusable in me.

I am billeted in a large bright room, alone. A bed with white sheets, a little stove, a writing desk, bureau, washstand, and several chairs. And there's a woman to look after everything. A pleasant, comfortable room, with my captain and lieutenant in adjoining rooms.

The "Y" hut is a large barracks with dirt floor and oiled paper windows. There are benches and tables, and I have had built a stage and fireplace. I have also wired it and have electric lights. We put on three to six shows a week, some with local talent, some sent to us.

I have three men detailed to me, a cashier, a bookkeeper, a warehouse man, besides a detail man to clean me up every morning. It is like running a business and I'm the manager. It is hard work, and I neve, did like business anyhow. However, I can stand it for the balance of our stay.

I eat at officers mess—and would much prefer to buck the mess line with the boys. I'm losing touch with my friends of Supply company. Heard today that Bill Hawkins was in the hospital threatened with pneumonia. Think of me not knowing that Bill was sick!

But I have 1500 boys to look after now, besides the officers. They all know me and I know about half of them by name. When they get into trouble they send for me. They show me their photos of ma, pa, wife, baby and girl, and read me extracts from their home letters.

This a beautiful French village outside the threat of war. Houses are whole, tho old. There is glass in the window-frames. The tile roofs are all on, and the stone sidewalks are not shell shattered. Most of the men, except the very old, are still in the army, but there are plenty of healthy peasant women in wooden shoes.

The winter is some colder than California, but similar, rain intermingled with sunshine. It seldom snows here—too far south. Plenty of magazines to read, all from one to three months old. We take the Paris edition of the New York Herald, so get some news—live—of the outside world.

But believe me, I either want real war or peaceful Carmel. This intermediate business of squads right and mess-kit inspection makes no appeal to me. I want to get home.

WEEKLY GREETING

Perhaps nothing else gives a man more pure joy than to have some choice morsel of his wit treasured in the memory of another.—Albert P. Terhune.

Reserve Your Verdict

Because, in the administration and conduct of the vast undertakings of the Y. M. C. A., certain individuals and sections of the organization have made mistakes, it is not the part of wisdom, nor is it charitable, to condemn the entire body.

It is true that in the hurry and confusion incident to the gathering together of men to minister to the needs of the soldiers mistakes were made.
 Often the wrong man was selected for a job; again, in many cases, the right man was not available.

Charges of graft we take no stock in. Every dollar contributed, says John R. Mott, has been accounted for—and we believe him.

The inquiry to be undertaken by the War Department will clear up many things. Notwithstanding interviews given out by discredited preachers and anonymous letters sent to the editor of this paper, we refuse to condemn the whole organization.

Poor Bill

As the various weekly and monthly publications, contain-articles extolling the virtues of Theodore Roosevelt, come to hand, one is reminded of "Bill" Stone's attack upon the Colonel in the United States
 Senate some months ago.

Writers seem to vie with each other in setting forth Mr.
 Roosevelt's uncompromising Americanism. Yet Senator
 "Bill" said that Roosevelt was the best ally the Kaiser had in America.

If Stone were alive today he would feel about as big as a peanut.

A Notable Book

LYRIC EXPRESSION OF A NEARLY VANISHED RACE

A VOLUME of particular interest to Carmeites is "The Path to Carmeites" is "The Path on the Rainbow," the book of Indian poems edited by Geo. W. Cronyn.

In general, of course, all that pertains to the life of the early inhabitants of our country is worth while, and to all readers of poetry the first authentic collection of Indian verse and interpretations is of value. When the book contains fourteen poems by Constance Skinner, author of the first play given in our Forest Theatre, as well as her essay on "The Indian as Poet," and eight poems by Mary Austin, author of "Fire" and "The Arrow Maker," as well as an introduction by her, Carmel should surely be glad of this book from the press of Boni & Liveright, the up-to-date publishers of the Modern Library.

To the lover of poetry the original Indian songs should be of great interest, being as they are the lyric expression of a nearly vanished race; but to the general reader the parts of the book which will give the greatest pleasure are the interpretations by Constance Skinner and Mary Austin, and the prose essays of these two, which open and close the book. Such a poem as Miss Skinner's "Autumn Dawn" (Plem-Salia-Kwi), is alone worth the cost of the book, which, by the way, is remarkably well printed, on excellent paper (a rare thing these days), and bound in a rich cover of black and gold.

Mrs. Austin's "Song for the Passing of Beautiful Women" is a fine and very human interpretation from the Paiute, and the "Song in Time of Depression" has a haunting quality. Her "Song of the Hills" is redolent of the stern beauty of earth and love that might have been.

Mrs. Austin's introduction, like Miss Skinner's conclusion to the book, shows a true knowledge of Indian life and character, and a keen insight into the mind of the aboriginal man and woman as expressed in their songs and dances.

Miss Skinner has struck a sure chord in her song of the old chief who watches the progress of the conquerer and the passing of his own race with a feeling that perhaps something big and fine is lost in the march of civilization:

*"Here was I chief ere the coming of the white man;
Now is his village spread from this sea beyond my sight.
His canoes are floating villages;
They go by with a great noise and a black smoke.
His deeds are mighty; they leap with roaring clouds and thunder fires
Into the blue quiet morning and the white moon-sky
Yet have I heard no sound mightier
Than the sun shattering the night
On thy stone shoulder, Capilano;
Yet have I seen no sight more wonderful and fair
Than the coming of the light.
When Day, the silver-winged gull, down-swooping finds the sea:
Yet have I known no thing sweeter, stronger,
Than the smell of piney winds and blue rippling sea-water.
And the kindness of Kuna-Kia, the living One,
Waking the heart of the old chief
To another dawn of life."*

CARMEL

A Big Time

"The days of old,
The days of gold,
The days of '39"

Were vividly re-enacted at the spacious Boke residence last Saturday night by a throng of Carmel young folks and their friends, attired in the picturesque costumes of the period. Long knives, six-shooters, spurs, soft shirts and bandana handkerchiefs were much in evidence. A typical mining town bar did a thriving business in soda pop and ginger ale—everybody "likered up." About the walls were posted signs, some of which read:

"Off with your spurs before you gallop on this floor."

"Grammar school for boys between 18 and 45 opens Monday."

"The sky is the limit."

"$5000 reward for Bill Overstreet for libeling 'The Private Secretary' cast."

"Don't flirt with the spiders! This is no bug house."

"Beware of the Vampire of Carmel Gulch."

The following was that:

Bonnie Hale, Grace Wickham, Katharine Cooke, Jeannette Hoagland, Mabel Morrell, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Heron, Mr. and Mrs. C. K. Van Riper, Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Overstreet, Mr. and Mrs. T. H. Criley, Mr. and Mrs. James Worthington, Mrs. Frances Montgomery, Mrs. Zonia Vaselioff, Mrs. Andrew Stewart, Mrs. Philip Wilson, Mrs. J. N. Hilliard, Marion, Eliot and Richard Boke, Sadie Van Brower, Pardow Hooper, W. G. Moffat, Clarence Risley, Langley Howard, James Wilson, E. W. Hedges, F. W. Mahl, Gordon Davis, Ernest Schweninger, Geo. J. Seideneck, Talbert Josselyn, Helen and Hilda Hilliard, Elizabeth and Maryan Hopper.
