A Visit to the Old Coal Mine

An object of much interest to people who love to recall and wituess things of the past is the abandoned coal mine down the Coast near Carmel Highlands.

Mr. L. S. Slevin and J. Edgar-ton visited this old mine recently, and found a massive derrick, which had fallen to the ground, machin-ery rusty and overgrown and partly buried in deoris.

The mine began operations in 1884, and continued off and on until 1895. The total output dis-patched to the landing at Point Lobos was but two loads; one load was put aboard ship and the other was burned in the bunkers.

The coal was not high grade, and the promoters tost considera ble money in the venture.

Horsepower was used in the be-ginning, but about 1895 a steam engine was installed. The fallen derrick was constructed of giant redwood trees taken from Malpaso Canyon.

A Pleasant Evening

Carmel's Junior Red Cross or ganization is over sixty dollars to the good as the result of last Frievening's affair at Arts and Crafts Hall. Mrs. V. Mott Porter's recital of ancient Irish tales was a most charming and interesting event. Old and young were carried along for over an hour by this gifted ladys talk about Ireland's kings and fighting men and the beauti ful colleens and fairies. One must know this subject well and intimately and lovingly to "get it over." With such a sympathy and understanding does Mrs. Porter handle her subject that she not only "gets it over," but her hear-ers actually, like Oliver Twist, "want more."

Blanche Tolme Miss supple mented and enhanced the recital by the singing of several songs in the Gaelic language.

Dancing, the first since the be-ginning of the flue epidemic, con-cluded the evenings entertainment.

DISEASE SPREAD BY ANIMALS

Scientists and Physicians Have Pre-pared a Strong Indictment Against the Beasts.

Although animals are not affected by the sickness and communicable diseases of man, yet, for some unexplain-able reason, the scientists and physicians declare that a whole host of ofttimes fatal ailments of mankind are traceable to the beasts, says Popular Science Monthly.

The horse is blamed for spreading glanders, rables, lockjaw and other dis-cases of five or more syllables. Dogs and cats are branded as the circulators of rables, parasitic worms of dif-ferent kinds, fleas and ticks.

The cow is the worst offender. The list of diseases laid at her barn door is headed with tuberculosis and grows constantly more blood-curdling, until we wonder why physicians and scien-tists consent to the use of milk, butter and cheese which still lead the dietitians' list of nutritives.

Rats, squirrels and fleas spread the bubonic plague. We are prepared to believe that lice and bedbugs, flies and mosquitoes are the rapid transit lines for yellow fever and malaria. We are willing to forego the luscious oyster all the year around, if need be, to avoid typhoid fever.

Clearer Values.

at' All life and action upon the snow in have an added emphasis and significance. Every expression is understoad. Summer has few finer pictures than this winter one of the farmer fodder-ing his cattle from a stack upon the clean snow-the movement, the sharply defined figures, the great-green flakes of hay, the long files of patient cows, the advance just arriving and pressing eagerly for the choice morsels-and the bounty and provision it suggests.

A severe artist! No longer the canvas and the pigments, but the marble and the chisel. . . . I see the hills, bulging with great drifts, lift themscives cold and white against the sky, the black lines of fences here and there obliterated by the depth of the snow. Presently a fox barks away up the next mountain, and I imagine I see him sitting there in his furs upon the Illuminated surface, and looking down in my direction—John Burroughs.

How Toasts Originated.

The custom of drinking the health of the most popular man at the table has its foundation in the ancient prac-tice originated by the Greeks and adopted by the Romans of drinking to the gods and the dead, observes an exchange.

The Greeks and Romans later began the practice of drinking to each other, and from this arose the custom of tonsting living men. But health drinking in its modern form, originating in England in the roystering days of Charles II, begins with the custom of drinking to the ladies or to any woman who happened to be the reigning belle of the court.

Many and various were the quaint customs associated with the toasts of those days. For example, in certain companies of military officers etiquette demanded that the cup should be passed from hand to hand.

In many midnight gatherings of Alsatia gallants stabbed themselves in order to drink with their blood the health of the woman on whom their hearts were set.-Kansas City Journal.

Beginning Our Fifth Year

With this issue begins Vol. V. of the Pine Cone. Our purpose is to publish a weekly journal that has a Carmel 'atmosphere," that carries from these shores a weekly mirror of the local happenings. Carmel is the mecca for painters and literary folks from all over the world.

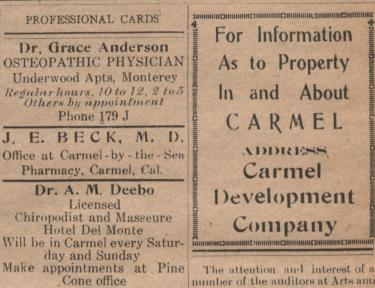

Small town newspapers are often a disappointment to readers who are located away from the place of publication. Each week the editor of this paper endeavors to publish the news, editorial, advertising and feature matter so that the several departments will make it a 2, 3, 4, 5. publication of interest its many readers here and elsewhere.

And the Pine Cone is prospering, thank you.

Get Them at Low Tide

A fact of importance has been brought to light as a result of a survey of the mussel beds of the California coast. Black mussels have long been recognized as an important food resource on the Atlantic coast. The zoologists found in its great beds of mussels that California has a very source, but little appreciated at present. Carmel has long enjoyed mussels as one of the most delicious shellfish foods. Southward and northward from here for many miles there is an abundance of the finest mussels to be found anywhere in the world.

Willard Huntington Wright, in au article concerning the pictures of the loan exhibition at the Expo sition Palace of Arts, in San Fran-cisco, says of Godfrey Fletcher's

"It is impossible to enumerate all the pictures on view in the present exhibition, or even to do present exhibition, or even to do justice to all those which deserve attention; but a word of praise must be uttered for the water col-ors of Godfrey Fletcher which have the quality of Winslow Homer's work.
